Mission:

Zach S. Henderson Library supports Georgia Southern University by providing access to information, collections, and services designed to meet the scholarly needs of the University and the general public. The Library promotes independent lifelong learning, employs a learner-centered service ethic, and ensures a comfortable and secure study environment.

The Henderson Library opened in 1975 after outgrowing the Rosenwald building. A $22.75 million expansion/renovation project began in summer 2004 and was completed in August 2008. This expansion added 101,000-square feet (235,00 sq. ft. total) to the original building and included the first Automated Storage and Retrieval System in any library in the southeast.

The library collects material in all formats of recorded knowledge which are relevant to the University's curricula. The library's collections contain more than 600,000 bound volumes shelved according to the Library of Congress classification system, 890,000 microform units, and over 750,000 government documents shelved according to the Superintendent of Documents classification system. The library also provides access to more than 360 electronic databases and more than 47,000 electronic journals, many of which include full-text/full-image information. Most of these databases are provided by the GALILEO project of the University System of Georgia as well as through direct subscriptions by Henderson Library. The library's web-based catalog (<https://gil.georgiasouthern.edu>) provides information about the collection including: circulation status of books, videos, government documents and other materials; journal holdings with links to electronic resources; links to e-reserves; and new acquisitions. Research materials not owned by the library are available through two services—GIL Express and Interlibrary Loan. Three million book titles are available due to the GIL Express initiative of the University System of Georgia via the University System of Georgia universal catalog (<https://giluc.usg.edu>). These books can be requested online and received within four days. Also available from the library's homepage is the interlibrary loan form for requesting books, journal articles, and other materials by supplying a complete citation. These items are usually received within three to ten days.

Collection and Resource Services (CRS) is responsible for the selecting, ordering, paying, cataloging, binding, and processing of all purchased and gift materials (except for government documents) that are added to the library's collections.

GOVERNANCE AND ADMINISTRATION:

Each Department has a library liaison assigned to work with faculty on acquisition requests, collection assessment, and information literacy classes.

Mr. Lili Li, library liaison for the Communication Arts department including the Theatre and Performance program, conducts selection of library materials in addition to faculty requests and traditional library acquisition process. The acquisition of library materials and assessment of library collections are under the Coordinator of Collection Development at Henderson Library, Mr. Paolo P. Gujilde.

Departmental Library Representative

Contact: Dr. Patrick Wheaton

Every academic department has a library representative who works with the Library's Collection and Resource Services Department. On a regular basis, the departmental library representative receives information about potential book acquisitions and is asked to provide feedback including recommendations of materials to be added to the collection. This process is usually handled through, Mr. Lili Li, Library Liaison for Communication Arts and/or Mr. Paolo P. Gujilde, Coordinator of Collection Development.

In addition to the review of book acquisitions, the department library representative participates in the library's subscription review from time-to-time. Both print and on-line subscriptions are prioritized for renewal or deletion.

COLLECTIONS:

The Henderson Library regularly analyzes usage patterns in circulation, interlibrary loan, GIL Express, and electronic resources, in order to develop the collection according to our patrons' needs.

A Complete listing of Journals, books and resources targeted for theatre can be found in Section IV, page 160

PERSONNEL:

Library Liaisons (Library Faculty):

Library Liaisons are the Library Faculty of Henderson Library. The Information Services Librarians, along with the Coordinator of Collection Development (coordinator of the Library Liaison program), provide integrated services focusing upon specific subject areas.

Library Liaisons work closely with students, staff, and faculty in the appropriate colleges/departments, by delivering reference and research assistance, information literacy instruction, and library collection development, as integrated services for our subject specialties. Specialties are based upon a combination of library faculty backgrounds (academic degrees and/or subject-specific library service experience) and research interests. Library Liaisons offer research and computing workshops each semester for classes and individuals; create guides to library and computer use; and manage the library's web pages.

The Liaison Librarian for the Department of Communication Arts is Mr. LiLi Li, 912-478-7960, lilili@georgiasouthern.edu

Our Library Liaisons have selected GaSoU entities beyond the subject-based academic structure, with the following goals:

- Facilitate consistent, ongoing, two-way communication between Henderson Library and GaSoU faculty, staff, and students
- Gather input from GaSoU entities which will be vital in continually refining Henderson Library's provision of access to information, collections, and services.

For example, Mr. Li also serves as the Library Liaison to the Chinese Scholar & Student Association. Other librarians serve such entities as the First Year Experience program, the Multicultural Student Center, the University Honors Program, and the International Student Club.

SERVICES:

- Hours of Operation: Open from Sunday at 12 Noon till Friday at 10 p.m.
Saturday Hours are 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.
- Total hours of operation per week during regular academic semester: 143 hours
- The Learning Commons:
The Learning Commons is a dynamic and active feature of the Library's efforts to meet the needs of the university community.

Georgia Southern students and faculty are able to conduct library research, type and print reports, utilize Multimedia production software and hardware, and seek computer assistance (e.g., WebCT, WINGS, MyGeorgiaSouthern.edu, wireless access) from one location. Additionally, Multimedia equipment (e.g, video camera, digital camera, and projectors) are available for checkout.

Group collaboration (e.g. student/student or faculty/student) is one of the many activities being promoted in the Learning Commons. Library users can practice their presentations or project study notes on the backs of the furniture in the Learning Commons. Students can rehearse presentations in the Presentation Room located on the first floor. Library users can study individually throughout the library or use one of 29 group study rooms, three are designated for graduate students. The Presentation Room and group study rooms are available upon reservation and key checkout from the Circulation Desk while the others are available on a first-come-first- served basis.

Aside from the Learning Commons, there are computers located on the 1st and 3rd floors. And the building is wireless for those with personal laptops or laptops borrowed from the library.

FACILITIES:

Library Building Expansion & Renovation

The Henderson Library was expanded and renovated in 2008. The expanded/renovated Library is almost double the size of the original building.

Fact Sheet:

- The completed building is as large as a city block.
- The $22.75 million project added 101,000-square foot to the original building.
- The expanded building was designed more for people than for books.

- Floor-to-ceiling windows are featured throughout with seating at all the outer edges and the collections nearer the center.
- There are more than 1,900 seats and twenty-nine group study rooms available.
- The Learning Commons (second floor) offers bright, flexible seating for group collaboration, faculty – student collaboration and research, and Multimedia creation and projection.
- The Automated Retrieval Collection is currently capable of storing 800,000 items in 5,848 separate bins that are stacked 45 feet high, is one of the most exciting features of the building.
- More than 300 hard wired computers and wireless are available throughout the building.
- The striking three-story glass atrium with its virtual waterfall is a highlight of the eastern addition.
- The L-shaped western addition features a cathedral ceiling on the third floor with impressive views from both the third and fourth floors.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT:

In the last three fiscal years, the average book expenditure in support of Theatre is $2,799.80. This expenditure does not include related books in other areas such as English Drama, American Drama, and many others. Additionally, Henderson Library subscribes to numerous databases and journals in support of the Theatre. These subscriptions could be stand-alone or part of packages which make it difficult to pinpoint exact numbers. Subscription costs are substantially higher than book expenditures.

Interlibrary Loan, Document Delivery, and GIL Express

The Henderson Library participates with other libraries in an international network of borrowing and lending of library materials. The Henderson Library absorbs all charges, so the service is free to borrowers. Georgia Southern faculty, staff, and students are eligible for Interlibrary Loan service. Students enrolled in Distance Learning and other off-campus classes at Georgia Southern University may request that Henderson Library materials be sent directly to them. Faculty also enjoy library items and interlibrary loan items being mailed to their offices free of charge. There is no limit to the number of articles requested, and there is no charge for the service.

The Henderson Library provides and obtains interlibrary loans as a full member of OCLC. Founded in 1967, OCLC Online Computer Library Center is a nonprofit, membership, computer library service and research organization dedicated to the public purposes of furthering access to the world's information and reducing the rate of rise of library costs. More than 71,000 libraries in 112 countries and territories around the world use OCLC services to locate, acquire, catalog, lend and preserve library materials.

GIL Express is an initiative whereby circulating books may be ordered directly from any University System of Georgia Library. The subject matter is not limited to research interests; hobby and pleasure reading are perfectly acceptable. In most cases, materials are sent to and checked out from the patron's home library, but patrons may ask that their items be sent to any University System library for pickup. All faculty, staff, and students in good standing are eligible to use the service.

The Henderson Library regularly analyzes usage patterns in circulation, interlibrary loan, GIL Express, and electronic resources, in order to develop the collection according to our patrons' needs.
