7-30-2014

Writing & Linguistics News

Georgia Southern University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/writ-ling-news-online

Part of the Arts and Humanities Commons

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/writ-ling-news-online/9

This article is brought to you for free and open access by the Writing and Linguistics, Department of, Publications at Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. It has been accepted for inclusion in Writing & Linguistics News by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@georgiasouthern.edu.
Sarah Fonseca wins 2014 Harbuck Award

July 30, 2014

Final judge Peter Cashwell has chosen Sarah Fonseca as the winner of this year’s Harbuck Scholarship Award. T.J. Morgan and Aleyna Rentz are the two finalists.

Twenty-one writing majors were nominated and 14 applied for the award. The Harbuck Committee, comprising of Professors Laura Valeri, Emma Bolden, and Eric Nelson, agreed that this year’s entries were among the strongest they have ever received and that narrowing the field to three finalists to send to Cashwell was a difficult decision.

Fonseca will receive her award at the annual Harbuck Scholarship Award Reading and Reception, Friday, September 12, at 7 p.m. in the Allen E. Paulson College of Engineering and Information Technology (CEIT), Room 1005.

Cashwell is author of the books The Verb “To Bird” and Along Those Lines. He will give a reading from his work Thursday, September 11, at 7 p.m. in CEIT, Room 1005.

Posted in Awards, News