College of Graduate Studies News

August 30, 2017

Georgia Southern University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/cogs-news

Part of the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation
https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/cogs-news/1

This article is brought to you for free and open access by the Graduate Studies News Publications at Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. It has been accepted for inclusion in Graduate Studies News Blog by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@georgiasouthern.edu.
Georgia Southern has been ranked 12th in the 20 Best Online Master’s in Early Childhood Education list by Top Education Degrees.

“This honor is well-deserved given the hard work that program faculty put into maintaining a high quality, relevant and updated program,” said Tracy Linderholm, Ph.D., professor and associate dean of graduate education and research for COE.

According to Top Education Degrees, rankings are determined using information from the National Center for Education Statistics, a service of the United States government. Criteria includes tuition value, relevance of the curriculum to the current demands of the profession and emphasis on individual contact (represented by student-to-faculty ratio). Additional points are awarded in the categories of national recognition, going above and beyond for student services and reduced hourly rate of tuition for online students.

Out of 30 possible points (prior to additional bonus points), Georgia Southern received a total of 27 points. Comparatively, the top ranking school, Edinboro University of Pennsylvania, received a total of 33 points.

Among the emphasized points of pride for the program presented by Top Education Degrees were the faculty-to-student ratio of 21:1, as well as current and relevant curriculum and coursework for students.

The M.Ed. in Early Childhood Education at Georgia Southern University is a 36-credit hour program offered completely online as a certificate upgrade for teachers who currently hold a level four Georgia certificate for early childhood education or equivalent. The program is an approved program of study by the Georgia Professional Standards Commission (PSC) and meets the PSC’s certificate upgrade requirements.

The curriculum of this master’s degree program is based upon the concept of developmentally appropriate practices and the value of diverse, intensive field experiences working with diverse student populations. It is, according to Chair of the Department of Teaching and Learning Bruce Field, Ph.D., “part of Georgia Southern’s ongoing commitment to enhancing the professional development of the state’s P-12 teaching force.”

For more information about the M.Ed. in Early Childhood Education program, visit http://coe.georgiasouthern.edu/eced/med/.

Georgia Southern University, a public Carnegie Doctoral/Research University founded in 1906, offers 118 degree programs serving 20,673 students. Through eight colleges, the University offers bachelor’s, master’s and doctoral degree programs built on more than a century of academic achievement. Georgia Southern is recognized for its student-centered and hands-on approach to education. Visit GeorgiaSouthern.edu.

This article was originally posted on August 24, 2017 and can be found here.