Spray Tobacco Beds Early To Control The Blue Mold Disease

COUNTY AGENT DYER URGES EARLY SPRAYING OF TOBACCO BEDS TO SUCCESSFULLY CONTROL BLUE MOLD.

If blue mold in tobacco beds is to be successfully controlled, spraying must be done early, County Agent Byron Dyer said last week.

The copper oxide-cottonseed oil spray will control blue mold if it is applied to the bed at the proper time the agent declared. He warned, however, that a late start reduces the margin of safety, and may lead to complete failure, if general blue mold infection hits the bed before the spray schedule is begun.

In the past, blue mold has been appearing in the state about February 5 to 15, Mr. Dyer advised. It is necessary, he said, to begin spraying before the blue mold appears in the bed. As soon as the grower receives word that the disease has appeared in the state, he should apply the first spray and repeat it twice a week until time to transplant.

"Sprayed beds frequently suffer light attacks of blue mold," the agent asserted, "but the plants are seldom more than slightly injured. If the spraying is begun early enough, the plants recover, and once they have recovered, it is not necessary to continue the spray applications."

He said the number of applications will range from 6 to 16, depending on how long the disease is active. On the average, 8 to 12 applications are sufficient.

Mr. Dyer invites farmers to visit his office for detailed information on mixing and applying the spray.

Work has already begun on remodeling of the building and will be completed in about two weeks. Walter Aldred is the architect. Simmons died in December, 1924, the store was managed by Mrs. Frank Grimes. In 1926 the store was operated by Jake Fine who sold it in March, 1936, to H. Minkovitz and Sons.

CHILD WELFARE AND HEALTH COUNCIL HEAR PUBLIC HEALTH PLANS

DR. H. E. McTYRE TALKS TO THE MEMBERS OF COUNCIL ON HIS PLANS OF HEALTH UNIT UNDER ELLIS HEALTH LAW.

In a brief forceful talk to the members of the Bulloch county Child Welfare and Health Council, Tuesday night Dr. H. E. McTyre, outlined some of his plans for the county as health officer under the recently adopted Ellis Health Law.

"For the success of Bulloch's health program under the new health unit it will be necessary to start with the adult," stated Dr. McTyre. "Our big job is to make the people in the county public health conscious. Having done this our object then is to attempt to have every child examined beginning at the age of six months, periodically until they become of high school age."

Dr. McTyre stated that if they are able to check each child three years after the first examination at six months they will be able to note any change in the child's health and finding any change they can refer that child to its family physician.

Dr. McTyre was introduced by Dr. C. M. Deatler. The meeting was held at the home of Miss Jane Franchette and was in charge of Harry S. Aiken chairman of the committee.

Miss Katherine Rowe, Child Welfare Consultant of the First District was present at the meeting.

Blue Devils Have Championship Cage Team Says Coach "Snag" Johnson

Statesboro basketball fans may not realize that Coach "Snag" Johnson has one of the best basketball teams in the history of the high school's athletic activities, but it is a certain fact that the team that Johnson has under his hands this season is undoubtedly one of the best high school teams in this section.

Coach Johnson states that if his boys do not win the First District Basketball championship this year there will be an unknown and an unexplainable factor that will keep them from doing so. To date the varsity has played seven games and have won seven. Four of the men are varsity men from last year and the other man, Frederick Beasley, came from the S. G. T. C., Training School with plenty of competitive experience. This is one of the main reasons that the High School team this year is a smooth working quintet. Every man on the squad has experience. Coach Johnson's substitutes are just as good basketball players as his first team. They haven't had quite as much experience as the first five boys, but time will remedy this.

The teams record to date is as follows: S. H. S., 22, Portal, 8; S. H. S., 28, Nevils 12; S. H. S., 35, Bay Branch, 18; S. H. S., 25, Pulaski, 18; S. H. S., 23, Guyton, 22; S. H. S., 23, Brooklet, 20; S. H. S., 31, Statesboro Alumni, 21. Statesboro defeated Brooklet for the first time in a good many years.

Tonight (Friday) the High School boys will take the floor donned in new uniforms to play Hinesville's basketball squad. The new uniforms were purchased by the Athletic Association of the High School and all the proceeds taken in at the games will go on the payment of these uniforms. The new suits carry the colors of the school. The jerseys are white with Statesboro in letters on the front and numerals on the front

G.W. Burnsed Jr.

G. W. Burnsed, Jr., of Groveland, who represented this section in the Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament held in Savannah in December. Burnsed will go to Atlanta when the meet is held there. The winner of the Atlanta tournament will go to Chicago for the national Golden Gloves event.

LIVESTOCK MARKET SELLS 2144 HOGS AND 400 HEAD OF CATTLE

HOG MARKET STEADY AT $7.05 AND CATTLE MARKET ABOUT SAME AS LAST WEEK.

With 2144 head of hogs and 400 head of cattle sold, Statesboro's two weekly livestock auctions registered two unusually large sales here this week.

With cattle selling for about the same as last week and the hog market steady farmers bought rather heavy hogs, pigs, and cows and pigs to market in large quantities.

The Bulloch Stockyards, Tuesday sold 780 hogs and 125 head of cattle. Top hogs brought from $7.05 to $7.20 with one lot of corn fed hogs selling for $7.50 a hundred pounds. Pigs sold from $5.00 to $8.75, and one lot of extra good feeder pigs sold as high as $9.00. Barbecue pigs sold from $6.00 to $6.75 a hundred pounds. The cattle market was slightly stronger, there was a good demand and buying was spirited.

The Statesboro Livestock Commission Company at their sales Wednesday sold 1424 hogs and 275 head of cattle. All top hogs sold for $7.10 and above with one solid carload selling for $7.15 a hundred pounds. Feeder pigs sold from $6.00 to $6.50 with barbecue running about the same. The cattle market was in line last week's sale. The sale Wednesday was one of the largest recorded within the past twelve months. The pens at the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company were enlarged this week for the third time within the past twelve months, and more space will be added later.

Miss Evelyn Anderson Becomes Bride Of Mr. Dan Lee

Miss Evelyn Anderson, lovely daughter of Mr. W. D. Anderson and the late Blanch Crawford Anderson, became the bride of Dan Lee of Siltan at a beautiful ceremony performed Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents on College Boulevard. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by Rev. C. M. Colson in the presence of close friends and the families of the popular couple.

Beauty and perfection of detail marked the decorations in the home. The bridal motif of green and white was carried out in the use of white chrysanthemums and fern. The vows were spoken in the living room where the altar was decorated with fern with an arrangement of five-branched candelabra holding lighted cathedral candles interspersed with white chrysanthemums.

A program of nuptial music was given by Mrs. J. G. Moore, pianist, and Mrs. Earl Ellis of Chattanooga, vocalist.

Immediately preceding the ceremony William Anderson, brother of the bride, lighted the candles in the living room. Misses Carol Anderson and Brunelle Deal lighted the candles in the dining room. TOBACCO GROWERS RECEIVE REFUND ON WAREHOUSEMEN FEES

BULLOCH COUNTY BANK WILL DISTRIBUTE $9,024.94 BEGINNING
SATURDAY, JANUARY 15. PAY-MENT WILL BE MADE IN CASH.

A total of $9,024.94 will be distributed to 6,068 tobacco growers, beginning tomorrow, January 15 by the Bulloch County Bank, it was announced this week by Mr. S. W. Lewis, president.

Mr. Lewis stated that the Bulloch County Bank was selected to distribute these funds which represents the money which was impounded by the court during a contest of the Georgia Tobacco Warehousemen's Act of 1935 and represents the difference between the rates permitted by the Georgia law and the actual warehouse charges during 1935 and 1936. To assist the farmers in receiving the refund the Bank has agreed to handle the funds.

The Supreme Court ruled the Georgia Act valid and the growers entitled to the refund.

The Bulloch County Bank is adding an extra clerk to its personnel in order to facilitate the handling of these items and Mr. Lewis urges the cooperation of every tobacco grower in carrying out the order of the court as follows: The payments will be made in cash. No tobacco sales receipts will be required. It will be necessary for each tobacco grower who sold tobacco on the Statesboro market in 1935 and 1936 to identify himself, or if he is not known, at the bank to have some one who is known at the bank to identify him to the bank's satisfaction. The payments must be completed by February 15.

Mr. Lewis added that no payments will amount to 75 percent of the amount of the reports that were filed by the tobacco warehousemen. The other 25 per cent represents all court costs and all expenses of distribution.

The record from which the bank will make the payments is being furnished by the court and will be final. Upon receiving payment the tobacco grower will give the bank a receipt which is furnished by the court.

The Bulloch Stockyards, Tuesday, sold 800 hogs and 117 head of cattle, for the largest run of hogs ever handled by that market. Top hogs brought from $6.50 to $7.00 a hundred pounds with Number Twos selling from $6.45 to $6.75, Number Threes from $6.35 to $6.60, Number Fours and Fives from $6.25 to $6.50 according to quality, and good feeder pigs bringing $6.50 to $7.00. There was a demand for sows and pigs and the buying was spirited. Canner cattle was in demand along with the good beef type cattle. Yearlings sold for four to five cents a pound and fat beef cattle from $5.50 to $6.10 a hundred pounds.

A Wednesday at the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company, F. C. Parker and Son sold 1,800 hogs and 300 head of cattle which was the largest sale ever held since the opening of the market almost two years ago. All top hogs brought $7.00 and the other accordingly. Arthur Brannen sold 500 head of hogs for approximately $650.00, Dr. B. A. Deal sold a lot of thirty on a $7.00 a hundred pounds basis, C. B. Call sold 21 head for $340.15, Miss Bert Hall of Metter, 9 head for $12.27, M. F. Freeman, of Dover sold 24 head for $274.98, and W. C. Akins sold 9 head for $93.72.

(By Lee S. Trimble, Macon.)
Prophecy is a dangerous business because if well done, nobody remembers it, and if wrong everybody recalls the error. People of all ages having been trying to glimpse the future and many a fortune-teller makes a good living pretending to forecast events.

But there is a basis for forecasting that is dependable to remarkable degree. "The best of prophets of the future is the past." Right now the Nation's future is being molded by the composite behavior of all its people. The same rule applies to the individual to an uncanny extent. Try translated into action.

Why Buy Wisconsin Butter?

(The Lavonia Times.)
Wisconsin, through a prohibitive 15c tax, has practically outlawed margarine, a product of peanuts and cotton seed. The tax was placed on margarine not through a dislike for the product but to encourage consumption of their own home produced butter. Wisconsin is a great state for dairy products and the Georgia products were practically outlawed to avoid competition with a product produced out of the state.

But a sign has been placed on Kennesaw Mountain near Marietta advertising Wisconsin butter for Georgians. The sign is a mammoth of fat. In the middle is a picture of a package of butter. Above are the words "Ask for Wisconsin Creamery Butter."

We are carrying this editorial at county publicity. As long as Wisconsin outlaws Georgia products, Georgia should outlaw Wisconsin butter, and other Wisconsin products. Why should we buy butter from Wisconsin anyhow? There is no reason except a lack of resourcefulness in capitalizing on our own resources.

There is a canner, more healthful, purer product grown than cotton seed oil. Wisconsin knows that. But adding cottonseed oil and peanut oil to butter cheapens the price for the consumer. Wisconsin doesn't want this competition in a cheaper product even if it is as good. Hence the prohibitive tax on margarine.

As you love the prosperity of the cotton and peanut farmers you should encourage the products as much as possible. In buying Wisconsin butter you not only patronize a state that doesn't encourage cotton seed oil and peanut products but places a prohibitive tax on their use. In face of this we are informed that representatives from Wisconsin are planning a Good Will tour through the South next March. What are we going to do about it? Treat them with courtesy of course, but the good will tourists may also be reminded that good will is a game that two can play. Why come down to the South and expect to encourage our friendly relations when they have already placed a tax on some Georgia products which will make their use in Wisconsin prohibitive. Yes, treat them nicely, but tell them at the same time to take their Wisconsin butter and get back home with them for we are through with it. We believe in being nice to our visitors but not too all-fired to people who treat our products in such a manner.

You city readers, and we have many in the cities, pass up Wisconsin butter and tell your neighbors about it. Tell your grocer why you are passing it up. Begin right now this ban as reprinted for the manner in which they treat a perfectly good Georgia product and a product on which so much of our income depends.

It out on yourself.

The late depression while caused by many contributing elements, was aggravated and extended by errors of judgment in piling up more debts than could be carried. Individuals, businesses, cities, counties, states and nations went too far. We can see it now. The painful process of discharging this load down to an endurable point, took time and toll out of the lives of men, which could have been better spent.

For three years past business has crept up out of that experience, reviving hopes of recovery, then lost much of that gain in the last three months. Under these conditions, what can be expected in 1938? All the elements of prosperity are present except one—confidence. Politics and business ran separate courses until recent years. For reasons that can be understood, they have become parallel, if not merged. Every phase of business has now become subject to legislative action or control.

Not only in Georgia, but the Nation over, all business marks time waiting to see what new laws are to do to it. Judgment in business affairs has been suspended, replaced by fear, doubt and suspicion of politics. Josh Billings once said that often a good set of bowels were more service to a man than brains.

This is a period when courage, co-operation and tolerance are great assets. One rule that has always worked is, to act when the multitude hesitates, but when the majority is selling, and sell when others are buying. "I wish I had," will be a common saying in a year or so. Strong faith in this country has always paid when translated into action.

L. E. LINDSEY finds that doing a good job of any kind pays, especially sausage. He has found that by putting up a quality product that he can establish a trade that makes selling the product easy.

If the size of a farmer's woddple is any indication as to the type of a farmer the owner is, DAN R. THOMPSON is a master of the vocation of farming. The pile of wood, very orderly stacked, is sufficient to do any average family more than the usual year.

If city homes can have hot water running to the kitchen and bath room, why can't rural homes take advantage of the same convenience, asks W. O. GRINER. He proceeded to install a hot water system in his home and found it to be just as efficient as that in any city home.

Good blooded and well-fed pigs are an asset to any farmer, declares W. A. GROOVER. The some 200 pigs he raises each year are never allowed to become stunted for the lack of feed and then he makes certain that they have the breeding to respond to that care.

Good blooded cattle is necessary in a diversified farm program, thinks Jerry Allen. Cattle will market some feeds that other classes of livestock cannot and if they are good blooded

They See A Ray of Hope In These Shining Cups

These pathetic little children at Warm Springs are viewing the two handsome silver trophies which will be awarded the individual county and the individual school in the state raising the largest sum (by paper) in this year's celebration of the President's birthday to fight infantile paralysis. Despite their maimed bodies they smile hopefully as they realize the great effort symbolized by the cups, that is being made for them and 600,000 fellow-sufferers of the disease over the nation. Georgia is eager to meet its challenge against this dreaded affliction. Edgar DuBois, chairman of the state committee, has completed his organization and the drive is ready to begin.

Blue Devils Whip Brooklet Quintet In "Block and Tackle" Cage Game

Will Play Savannah High Tonight In Armory At 7:30; Metter Saturday Night

Last Wednesday night Statesboro defeated Brooklet for the second straight time in a return game with them here. The two teams played a good brand of football, considering the fact that they played on a hardwood floor and without the usual football regalia. The teams showed excellent blocking and tackling skill. The pile-ups were rather mild due to the fact of a fast whistle.

The Blue Devils completely outplayed Brooklet. Their defense was much tighter and their shooting completely over-shadowed that of Brooklet's. Although Thomas Hill and Bule of Brooklet were breaking up a good many passes that the Blue Devils were throwing.

John Smith, playing superbly throughout the entire game until he was put out on fouls, was the spark plug of the Statesboro squad. Smith repeatedly sank long shots and time and after time was snatching the ball away from the Brooklet boys' hands. He was high point man with three field goals and one foul.

Both teams' defense were much better than their offense. Brooklet tried to break in towards the goal consistently, but Statesboro was always there to stop them. In the first half Statesboro, resulted to shooting long shots and with John Smith and Shert Kenson doing most of the shooting, gained a comfortable lead at the half.

But in the second half the offense changed. Statesboro began breaking in towards the back with Robert Hodges and Emerson Anderson breaking in the clear, under the basket several times, Big Federick "Drake" Housley could not find the basket in the first half but in the second half he found the range and was backing up shots consistently.

This is the second time that Statesboro has defeated Brooklet this season. The fact that Brooklet always has a first class basketball squad and that Statesboro has already defeated them twice should be enough evidence to the fans that Statesboro has one of the best basketball teams in this section.

STATESBORO TO PLAY

SAVANNAH TONIGHT
The Statesboro Blue Devils will step in deep water tonight when they take the hardwood floor against the Savannah High School Varsity basketball team. There can be no predictions as to the outcome of the game for it is rather hard to compare Statesboro against a Savannah High School. It is a known fact that Savannah supposedly plays in a much faster basketball circle than the Statesboro team.

STATESBORO TO PLAY

METTER HIGH SCHOOL
Next Friday night, January 14, Statesboro High School will resume their athletic activities with Metter High School. It has been several years since these two schools have met in athletic competition. It is certain that this game will be one of the best during the season and that none of the basketball fans of Statesboro will miss this game. It is rumored that Metter has a first class team and they are going to give the Blue Devils championship dreams a good pinch. There will be two games with playing time scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

Stilson High School will send its basketball team to Statesboro next Wednesday night to play the Blue Devils. To date the Blue Devils have lost only two games, one to the Statesboro A. C. and the other to Register. They have won ten games.

YOUNG FARMERS CLUB TO HOLD JANUARY MEETING SATURDAY

The young farmers club organized recently in the county will hold its January meeting Saturday at 2 p. m. Joe Hodges, president of the club, announced.

Since the major objective of this some 50 young Bulloch county farmers is to own a home, the program for Saturday will be a discussion of the Bankhead-Jones tenant purchase program in the county this year. N. R. Bennett, local farm supervisor, will discuss the bill with the club.

These young farmers have practically all filled an application for one of the farms to be purchased under the new program. However, those that have not filed an application will be given a chance to do so at the meeting. January 15 is the final date for filing these applications.

Is It Worth A Nickel?

If every person in Georgia contributed one five-cent piece to the National Foundation for Fighting Infantile Paralysis, this state's quota would be filled in full. The quota has been set to be raised on January 29, President Roosevelt's birthday. There will be parties and entertainments all over the state on that day, with all proceeds going to the fund. The Georgia Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday is directing the campaign in this state.

The money raised during the President's Birthday celebration, all over the country, will all go to the new national foundation, with the hope and belief that sufficient funds will be raised to properly educate and to assure continuance of its important work against the dread disease of infantile paralysis.

The Foundation program has been broadly divided under four divisions. The first is concerned with scientific research, with the hope of discovering preventative and cure for the disease which has, so far, proved one of the most puzzling problems in the history of medical science.

The second effort of the new foundation will be by rendering aid to all communities where the disease appears, with the purpose of checking its spread before it reaches epidemic proportions.

Thirdly, the foundation will see that proper treatment and care is provided for all sufferers from the disease. The fourth purpose is to furnish money to maintain orthopedic centers, hospitals and clinics which are striving to restore health and strength to paralyzed victims.

It is estimated that there are today 600,000 victims of infantile paralysis in the United States, and crippled, for greater or less, for life. This number is constantly increasing. It is the belief of scientists that the increase in the disease will continue unless all organization such as the proposed new national foundation can bring it under control.

President Roosevelt has dedicated his birthday, in perpetuity, to the new foundation. Through these annual birthday parties the people of America may join in the fight against the disease, by providing the needed funds for the national foundation.

By concentrating all funds in this one organization it is believed the work against the disease may be more efficiently and more successfully carried on.

There are, of course, people in Georgia who will not have opportunity to contribute even as much as one nickel to the splendid cause. But others will give much more, each according to financial ability, and thus it is believed there will be more than enough to complete the state's quota when the result is finally totaled on the night of January 29.

In addition to the parties on the birthday night, there will be "billion week," sponsored by the schools and the women's clubs of the state, giving 600,000 Georgia school children a chance to do their part.

Georgia is President Roosevelt's "second home." It was at Warm Springs, where the "Little White House" is located, that organized war against infantile paralysis received its first momentum. Warm Springs Foundation has saved many lives and brought new hope to hundreds of men, women and children who have contracted the disease.

Georgia, by all logic, should show the way to the rest of the nation in raising the President's Birthday Fund for the financing of the new national foundation, so vitally needed and the closest thing of all to the President's "second home."

SHAVING MUGS.

Joe dropped Mr. Raines' mug and broke the handle. Joe paid Mr. Raines the purchase price and became its owner. Joe still uses it. It shows a scene in a hardware store. Mr. Raines' business at that time. W. G. Raines is written in large gold letters on the mug and once proudly stood in its place with 34 other cups.

One other mug has been discovered. Mr. Frank Grimes has and sells his. It pictures a railway locomotive with tender, which might have been one of the old S. & S. engines. Mr. Grimes stated that he bought his mug about the time the Savannah and Statesboro railroad was built.

When asked if he could name the owners of the other mugs, Gus stated that it's been so long that he can't remember all of them. However he did name several. Besides Mr. Raines and Mr. Grimes Gus stated that Dr. R. J. Kennedy, Dr. A. W. Quattlebaum, W. L. Hall (who operated the old Hall Hotel which stood where the Bank of Statesboro building now stands), Dr. L. J. McLean, Dr. J. C. White, and Dr. M. M. Holland.

In talking to some of the who did have mugs with Gus they recalled men who, they felt sure, had mugs also. Those mentioned were: W. H. Ellis, W. T. Smith, J. A. M. Douglas, W. H. Simmons, H. B. Davis, J. W. Wilson, J. G. Blitch, John Olliff, Henry Olliff and Edith Anderson. All of those named are deceased.

There seems to be no records of how and when shaving mugs were first used. Two encyclopedias fail to reveal any information on their origin. During the middle ages the Romans smoothed down their faces with pumice stone and oil. This mixture may have been the basis of shaving soap, although the use of a special soap as a part of the paraphernalia of shaving is comparatively modern.

And with the advent of the electric razor the era of shaving mugs in all their glory, stacked row on row against the walls of Gus' miscellaneous shop seems a far way.

SOCIAL SECURITY CHECKS FOR JANUARY TO BE MAILED JANUARY 16 TO TOTAL $3,569

Social Security checks for January will total $3,569 as compared with $3,861 in December. The number of checks have increased from 2855 to 3065. Miss Sarah Hall, Bulloch county welfare director stated that these checks will be mailed out on January 16.

Bulloch county is second in the First District in the number of active cases on her list receiving aid.

Farmers who desire to enter hogs in this sale are urged to have them in by noon. The train is supposed to move the hogs about 2 p. m., according to Mr. Dyer.

Rotary Club Has Weekly Meeting At County Hospital

COUNTY BOARD OF MANAGERS AND COUNTY COMMISSIONERS CHAIRMAN GUESTS OF CLUB; PRAISE MISS ZITTROUER.

Monday night the Statesboro Rotary Club held its regular weekly meeting at the Bulloch County Hospital with Miss Naomi Zittrouer, superintendent of the hospital as the hostess.

Meeting with the Rotary club were the members of the board of managers of the hospital. This board is made up of Dr. A. Temple, Delmas Rushing, J. L. Johnson, Ulmer Knight and D. Percy Averitt.

Z. S. Henderson, chairman of the program committee for the club, introduced Mr. Fred W. Hodges, chairman of the county commissioners, who gave a brief history of the hospital from the time it was conceived until its completion. Each member of the board of managers was introduced to the club.

Dr. A. J. Mooney as president of the hospital staff, told the members of the Rotary club of the staff's ambition to have the Bulloch County Hospital placed on the list of approved hospitals which would mean that it would be recognized over the entire United States.

At the completion of the meeting Miss Zittrouer conducted the members of the club on a tour of the hospital showing them just what the people of Bulloch have.

Surprise was expressed by a number of the Rotary club when they saw the completeness of the equipment in the hospital. They were told that there is no hospital in this section of the country so well equipped as the one here in Statesboro. Every piece of equipment is the very best of its type and is such that it meets every emergency that might arise in a modern hospital.

Miss Zittrouer was praised highly for the efficient manner in which the hospital is being operated.

Before the meeting was turned over to the chairman of the program committee, President S. W. Lewis congratulated the club on its excellent attendance record for the last month, announcing that the Statesboro club was second high in the state. He also read a letter from past district governor, J. C. Harris, Jr., commending the club on its fine record.

Dr. Byrd Daniels of Claxton was a guest of the club.

DRIVERS' LICENSE TIME IS EXTENDED TO FEBRUARY 1

According to an announcement by Major Phil Browder, commissioner of public safety, time for obtaining drivers' licenses without examination has been extended to February 1 following legislative approval of a resolution asking that the deadline be postponed two weeks.

Legislators said many thousands of persons in the state have not yet obtained their licenses and that it was the wish of the administration for all to get the licenses without the necessity of taking a driver's examination.

Athletic Plans Are Talked for First District Schools
NEW PLAN PROPOSED TO DETERMINE TEAMS TO PARTICIPATE IN DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP PLAYOFF.

Last Saturday morning the First District High School Association met at the Statesboro High School to discuss the plans and problems of athletics in the first district. Thirty-nine of the forty-four schools in the First District were represented.

Shed's for the District basketball tournaments and a proposed plan for the determination of the District football championship were discussed.

At this meeting it was decided that the finals for the boys' division of the basketball championship tournaments will be held in Statesboro on February 24, 25 and 26. The finals for the girls' division will be held at Alma, Georgia, on March 10, 11 and 12. This includes the entire district with both B and C divisions playing.

The preliminaries for the boys, for the eastern section of the District, will be held at Brooklet on February 17, 18, and 19. The girls' preliminaries will be held in Hinesville, Georgia, on March 3, 4, and 5.

The western section preliminaries for the boys will be held in Metter on February 17, 18, and 19. The girls' preliminaries will be played in Collins, Georgia, on March 3, 4, and 5.

Hretofore the girls' division of the tournaments has not been divided as was the boys'. This year will see the girls' division divided into a B division and a C division.

A proposed plan was considered by the members of the Association on how to determine the two teams that will be eligible for the playoff in the District Championship in football.

The old plan has caused considerable discontent and heated arguments in the past and the coaches and officials of the schools in the district wish to see a change which will work more effectively to eliminate this.

The proposed plan embraces the following points: The plan will require every team to play at least half of the other teams within the district. For example: a present there are two teams in the district. If these two teams should play four of the other teams and win all four and Millen should play five of the twelve teams and is defeated by one of them, then Millen becomes eligible to participate in the playoff rather than Statesboro since Statesboro failed to play half of the teams in the district. The same would be true of any team playing any other of the

Bulloch County Commissioners Are Compiling Achievements For 1937
Hope To Win One Of 13 Cash Awards Being Offered In Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards

JUDGES ARE ANNOUNCED

Civic minded Bulloch continues its aid to the Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards program which ended December 31. Thirteen Georgia counties will be designated as the winners of the competition for governmental improvement bringing the greatest benefits to their citizens.

Mrs. A. B. Conger, of Bainbridge, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs; Albert S. Hardy, Sr., of Gainesville, widely known editor and former president of the Georgia Press Association and Robert C. Mizell, of Atlanta, secretary of Emory University and chairman of the board of the Institute of Citizenship, sponsored jointly by Georgia Tech, Agnes Scott College and Emory, will decide which of the 150 counties of Georgia are entitled to the 13 awards in The Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards Competition.

Mr. Fred W. Hodges, chairman of the county board of commissioners this week received forms for filling Bulloch's application for consideration of the judges. He, together with a number of others are considering the various advancements made by the county in its government, and steps made by the county which have been taken for the benefit of its citizens.

Word has been received from The Atlanta Constitution that more than 100 counties of the state are already preparing their applications for submission to The Constitution before midnight January 25.

On December 27 of 1936 The Constitution announced its $7,500 Progressive Government Awards for 1937. The cash awards are offered to the 13 Georgia counties making the greatest improvements in their government for the year 1937. The purpose of the awards is to extend and intensify progress in better government, to stimulate state-wide interest on the part of the public in governmental affairs and to give recognition to improvements in county governmental conditions in the state's 150 counties.

According to the plans for the awards 13 counties will share the prizes. The first award will be $3,500; second, $1,000; third, $500, and in addition there will be a $250 award to a county in each of the state's 10 congressional districts.

Sole basis for the competition is improvement in county government bringing the greatest benefits to the citizens of the county for 1937, and no matter how small a county or how modest its income, every county is on an equal footing.

In addition to receiving the cash awards, winning counties will get state-wide and national advertising for having the best governments in Georgia for the year 1937.

Backed by civic organizations, leading citizens and county officials, the commissioners are busy compiling lists of accomplishments of their governments.

Ground Is Broken For New Buildings S. G. T. C. Campus

REGENT JOHN KENNEDY TURNS FIRST SPADE OF DIRT ON THE SITES OF THE NEW LIBRARY AND TRAINING SCHOOL.

Formal exercises were held on the campus of the South Georgia Teachers College Monday morning as construction was begun on two new buildings, making a total of four projects now underway on the college campus, total approximately $185,000.

With Regent John G. Kennedy of Savannah, representing Chancellor S. V. Sanford and the Board of Regents, the first program was held on the site of the new library building which will be constructed by the Walter Aldred Company for $31,000.00. Regent Kennedy turned the first spadeful of dirt after making brief address on the physical growth of the college and explaining the efforts of the Board of Regents in obtaining the new buildings. Miss Eleanor Ray, college librarian, represented the faculty at the exercises. Willard Carpenter, president of the student body, represented the students. S. W. Lewis of Statesboro represented the local citizens, and F. T. Lanier of Statesboro represented the citizens of Georgia. The program was concluded with the singing of the Alma Mater.

From the library site the procession composed of Regent Kennedy, President Marvin S. Pittman, members of the college, members of the faculty, students of the college, and the training school students, followed the college band to the proposed site of the new $80,000 teacher training building. Joe Beutell of Thomasville, is the contractor on the training school, Regent Kennedy, again turned the first spadeful. He was followed by W. L. Downs, director of teacher training, representing the faculty, Pilcher Kemp, representing the training school students, H. P. Womack, Bulloch County School Superintendent, representing the local citizens, and J. E. McCran, representing the people of Georgia. President Pittman presided at both exercises and at the conclusion handed the spade to the contractor in charge of the work. The morning program was concluded with the entire group singing "America."

Work is already underway on two projects on the college campus, a residence hall for women costing $60,000 which was begun before Christmas, and a waterworks system costing $150,000. With the work which was begun Monday added the total amount of construction on the four projects runs to approximately $185,000.00. These buildings were made possible through the cooperation of the State of Georgia and the

SHOWS 50,000 HOGS AND 20,000 HEAD OF CATTLE IN COUNTY. PREDICTS 40,000 ACRES FOR COTTON IN 1938.

The annual report made by Bryon Dyer, county agent, shows that Bulloch county can claim the leadership in diversification in the state. Highlights of the report include a hog and cattle census showing 50,000 hogs and 20,000 head of cattle in the county today, despite the sale of more than 40,000 hogs and 2,500 head of cattle during the past year.

Mr. Dyer's predictions for 1938, based on a county-wide survey, indicated approximately 40,000 acres will be planted to cotton this year, a reduction of 5,000 acres from the 1937 total.

2,000,000 POUNDS OF TOBACCO
The 1937 annual report shows that 45,000 acres were planted in cotton, 2,000,000 pounds of tobacco were made, 2,000 acres of sweet potatoes were planted, 3,000 acres of soybeans, 200 acres of sweet potatoes planted for the market, 1,500 acres were planted in commercial vegetables, 500 acres of corn, besides the other crops such as sugar cane, watermelons, strawberries and

REAL COOPERATION

More and better hogs will be raised in Georgia this year through the cooperation of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service and the Georgia Bankers' Association. The plan was recently announced at the University of Georgia.

The announcement of the cooperative effort is contained in a special edition of a bulletin entitled "Growing Hogs in Georgia." The banker's share in the program will take the form of loans to establish farmers with good credit records who will purchase good swine stock and agree to breed and feed them according to methods recommended by the Agricultural Extension Service.

This will not be the first instance of the encouragement by Georgia Bankers of farmers desiring to get away from the one-crop system. The banks have financed thousands of boys and girls raising cattle and hogs. In several South Georgia counties especially the market improvement in agricultural conditions can be traced to the friendly cooperation of local bankers.

To assist the farmers in scientific hog-raising the Extension Service has published a booklet, "Growing Hogs in Georgia," which give sound advice about choice of breeding stock, feeding and other care. It will be available to all farmers interested in producing pork for their own use or for market.

Bulloch county ranks first in the state in the production of hogs and Georgia ranks ninth in the United States in the production of swine. The state has increased its production 33 percent since 1930. A recent census reveals that only 70 percent of the farms in the state have hogs.

A good motto to hang up in a farm home which will mean more dollars in the farmer's pocket is "one more brood sow permanently on our farm and that every acre subtracted from cotton shall add more shots to our farm."

That there is profit in growing hogs in Georgia is shown by the records of sales. During 1937 there were more than 20,000 hogs sold on the local livestock markets. Packing houses are ready to buy them. And then too, it is a mighty comfortable feeling to know that the smokehouse is full of meat.

According to an announcement by Major Phil Brewster, commissioner of public safety, time for obtaining drivers' licenses without examination has been extended to February 1. If this keeps up it will soon be time to get a new license.

In the annual report filed by Byron Dyer, county agent, Bulloch claims leadership in farm diversification, 50,000 hogs, nearly two hogs for every man, woman and child in the county, 20,000 head of cattle, nearly one cow apiece for everybody in the county. But we all can't have a hog or a cow. But everyone of the 3,293 farms can have a hog and a cow and more.

With the livestock marketing facilities here in Bulloch county and the recently announced cooperation of the Georgia Bankers' Association and the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service, there is no reason at all for the farmer remaining under the yoke of cotton as a cash crop.

WORKING FOR THE GOV'T

(From Vidalia Advance)

Unless the federal government frankly admits its bluff has been called, several hundred employees of utilities will have their names transferred to federal payrolls, if they are lucky enough to retain positions in the transfer of property.

Wendell L. Wilkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, proposed last week that the TVA buy existing privately-owned power facilities in this region. His motive in making the offer, he explained, was to protect investors before further inroads by government competition impaired security values.

A highly placed government power official said Saturday his reaction to the proposal would be favorable if the offer proved practicable. Representative Rankin, spokesman for a public power bloc in the House, said he would be willing to see the government buy the corporation's "tangible property" provided the price was not "based on inflated values."

Chairman Way of the House military committee opposed the purchase "at any price," contending it would mean the beginning of "state socialism and the destruction of democracy." Senator Norris of Nebraska said he would favor government purchase of private utility property in the TVA area only where a purchase would avoid duplication of transmission lines or other equipment.

The TVA long ago lost its meaning as a mere yardstick for the measurement of fair rates. Its executives, as leaders of a virtually independent corporation free of taxes, were originally given a yard. They've taken a mile. Newest development, and probable occasion for President Wilkie's offer to sell out, was the demand that municipalities be allowed to buy just what facilities they desired, with a complete disregard of parallel investment and small-town facilities.

There can be no doubt that such an enforced transaction could bode no good for the utilities. Quite possibly the whole system of public service would collapse, since service to less profitable sections is often practical only in cooperation with central cities or other large users.

There can be no doubt that security values would fall. Chance for recovery of initial investment would be slim indeed.

The Interstate Commerce Commission and common sense have long dictated against the duplication of facilities, where regulation other than competition was possible. Now the Senator from Nebraska admits, by implication, that TVA has duplicated existing facilities, and recommends the purchase of those remaining private lines which have not yet been paralleled.

Chairman Way errs only slightly when he says the purchase would mean the beginning of state socialism. It would mean continuing, not beginning, state socialism.

Along with business in general, we are looking forward to the day when private enterprise will not be subjected to the constant danger of crack-pot assassins who have had "greatness" thrust upon them.

"ADVERTISE GEORGIA"

(From Vidalia Advance)

An "Advertise Georgia" campaign that would cost the state very little and develop wide scope was proposed Friday in a resolution introduced in the House by Representatives Hill of Screven, Sams of Dekalb, Fowler of Treutlen, Coleman of Lowndes and Harrell of Brooks.

It was proposed that envelopes used by every state department and agency carry pertinent facts about Georgia printed on the back, so that official correspondence might be the means of disseminating favorable publicity concerning the state.

Samples of envelopes bearing suggested information were distributed Friday to all members of the Senate and House. These envelopes, which are now being used by an Atlanta business concern, have printed conspicuously on the back information concerning Georgia's climate, agricultural and industrial opportunities, timber resources, educational facilities and transportation advantages.

If adopted by both Senate and House, the resolution would require all state agencies to use the "Advertise Georgia" information on envelopes mailed out on official business.

The post-office, it was pointed out, has inspected the sample envelopes carrying Georgia advertising on the back and has issued its approval of the procedure. The samples proclaim the following statement:

Georgia leads the world in production of pecans.

Georgia's soil will grow almost any edible American plant.

Georgia produces 75 percent of America's tire and cord fabric.

Georgia boasts the world's first chartered woman's college.

Georgia has an abundance of low-cost electric power.

Georgia has 12 percent of the nation's active cotton spindles.

Georgia has 23,750,000 acres of timber land.

Georgia has 4,700 miles of paved state roads.

Georgia is first in the production of watermelons and peanuts.

CLIPONREKA CULLINGS

By Your Roaming Reporter

I guess I'm due the nine people who read my article (or did you?) last week on apology for leaving you for a week's wait there on the million dollar bridge at Vicksburg. I have an idea that you thought I had forgotten you . . . but I hadn't. I decided that if you were to remain there for a few days maybe . . . MAYBE . . . that pea soup fog would lift, and you could crane your necks around the bend and get an eyeful of the Robert E. Lee, as with smoking stacks, she opened up the ether with spurts of steam through that mighty fog horn with which she announces her impending arrival. We looked long and longingly for a vision of the Mississippi's No. 1 steamer, famed in song and story, but all we saw was a couple of eons in a bateau with a few occasional catfish. The Col. H. D. with that eagle eye of his "thought" maybe he saw it anchored up at the mile of wharves alongside the city proper . . . but your Report-er was driving, and believe you me when you're driving across the Mississippi you just can't be bothered about sight seeing. About the first impression that registers on the eye of the low-lander is the fact that it's a "fur piece" to water. The Col. says the bluff is some 300 feet high on the Mississippi side . . . almost as much Bob Griffin . . . and it seemed to me that to say the least His Honor was conservative. It looked more like 1000 feet to a shaking Georgy cracker. This much is true . . . they don't have to lift the bridge, no matter how high the vessel goes. Full steam underneath is the order.

To the passing stranger it appears that Vicksburg hasn't changed much . . . and probably won't. True it is a hustlin, cityfied place, some larger probably than Savannah, built along the river for I don't know how many miles. One still gets the impression that it is still a "chefs-decivill war" place . . . and, like Savannah, will stay that way. Lots of the outlying houses and business blocks have the same flavor of antiquity that prevails along the Bay in Savannah, and many of the buildings here that it is still a charm that always seemed to attach to venerable institutions like Christ's Church, hard by the Savannah Hotel. The parkway along the river seemed more neglected than the magnificent chain of parks of Savannah . . . but maybe this was occasioned by the constant drizzle of falling rain, now almost freezing. However Vicksburg will forever be registered in my mind as a city of charm . . . one I won't soon forget, if ever.

Some twenty miles beyond the bridge, most of which was a succession of swamp, or delta farms, acres and acres of which were covered with the most beautiful oaks we ever saw, we came to a lovely town, Talulah (Louisiana). It is here that you decide your Arkansas destiny. Keep straight ahead and the splendid highway will lead you to Monroe, Shreveport, and on into Texas. And if you turn north an equally fine road up the swamp of the Mississippi heads toward Memphis and so on. We went north . . . and it rained. Mile after mile, hundreds of miles, sometimes it seemed millions of miles, we fought the rain, the pavement and the growing wind. East of us always were the dikes . . . or levees . . . to curb the ravages of the mighty waters. It was hard to realize that the very existence of this land so fertile that millions of its acres have never experienced the passing of a "quano" distributor, was made possible by these same levees, and that when Ole Miss got all hot and huffy, guards walked these same levees by day and night and watched and gauged the rising or falling of the waters. The levees cover about as much ground as a tobacco warehouse, probably being thirty feet high . . . and the Lord only knows how many miles long. We know they are several hundred miles long . . . because we rode by them for that distance, but south of where we cross the river we could see them stretching as far as the eye could see, and when we began to draw away from them some 150 miles North they still stretched on toward the horizon to the north. The amount of money and labor expended in building them is truly impossible of imagination.

AND COTTON . . . Gosh! One couldn't even imagine the extent of those vast fields, running back from the roads until the ocean at Tybee, they seemed to meet the horizon, and tended right up to the highway. Believe it or not, even Cousin Linnie Zetserman wouldn't want to plant much cotton . . . not gather it. In fact they seem to have gotten tired over here, for in almost every field enough unpicked acres remain . . . cotton that would easily run 1 1/2 to 2 bales to the acre . . . to produce more cotton than all of Bulloch county. Everywhere cotton gins were running, but those water-soaked fields, millions of unpicked cotton stalks all about, didn't make a very good taste in our mouths of the famed Delta. Maybe they make cotton . . . surely they make cotton . . . but nothing else. We didn't actually see enough corn to make a gallon of Bulloch's Pride, the estimated being that of the Col. AND NARY A GARDEN NO PLACE. The average farm appeared to consist of thousands of acres, from twenty to fifty negro cabins, not fit for hog pens, with cotton so close to the house you could actually sit on the steps and pick it. Erskine Caldwell must have gotten an idea from the Louisiana delta before he wrote "Tobacco Road." One gets an impression of true "cotton poverty" as he rides the delta road north, AND HE GETS SICK OF A LAND WHERE ONE NEVER SEES A STALK OF CORN, A CHICKEN, HOG, GOAT, COW or anything else, but hungry "niggers." Before we had hit the last seventy miles of newly paved and magnificent road into Pine Bluff I had about made a resolution never again to plant a hill of cotton. That road was truly the answer to a driver's dream, following fifty miles of the worst and narrowest cement road in America, barring none. Approximately twelve to fourteen feet wide, broken into a million holes, many of which were large enough to bury a fair sized mule, a careful driver MIGHT average fifteen miles to the hour. Just seventy five miles of this road, where it became necessary to slow down to a snail walk when it was necessary to pass another vehicle, ran my blood pressure up a hundred points and left both the passenger and the driver with a magnificent case of the jitters that lasted until the next day. But that last seventy mile, Boy, Oh Boy, what a road . . . ! Extra wide, straight as an arrow for often twenty miles and flat as a desk, we gave the old gal the gun . . . And the Col. who was driving, went places. We virtually did the seventy miles in nothing flat and had to stop and cool off the tires from time to time.

Into Pine Bluff, a most lovely little city, once owned, ruled, and ruled by Negroes, we came with the fast falling sun. The necessity of changing the only tire that gave out on us in the entire trip, gave us about fifteen minutes there, before the two weary and aching travelers headed out with a roaring V8 for the destination . . . Hot Springs. Only seventy miles of beautiful gravel road, wide and well kept, stood between us and supper . . . and beds . . . and rest. True the long stretches of flat woods were gone and the country reminded one of the approaches to Asheville, but the road, while winding, was splendid and no trouble to follow. For the last 25 we had newly paved road, well engineered, and altho the Col. slowed down appreciably thru the foothills, we registered at 7:00 p. m., the second day out from Statesboro, the magnificent. Just a matter of 878 miles, the speedometer said, and we were in the mood to argue that night. All on earth we craved was a morsel of food, and hardly that, and one great big soft bed apiece. And the way we slept . . . and slept . . . and slept. If it had not been for a rising appetite the following morning, we wouldn't have crawled from between those sheets yet. But Mr. A. P. Etite, like time and tide, waits for no man, and altho the mercury stood quietly at 20 Fahrenheit . . . which is cold weather in any country . . . we dressed, did justice to a hot plate of bacon and eggs, and so were under way.

And now, your traveler, must go travelling, for the Col. is rarin to go.

IVANHOE COMMUNITY CLUB MAKES STUDY OF LANDSCAPING

Ivanhoe community club made a study of landscaping at the January meeting under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Mann.

Mr. Mann urged the members to use plants growing around them to do their landscaping work. He pointed out that it was possible to grow most any affect with native shrubs that would cost them only a little labor.

He recommended that they use a few varieties of shrubs, massed, each variety by itself so that there may be banks of color as each blossoms varieties make the place look patchy.

It is much better to take small plants rather than large when transplanting from the woods. Smaller plants are easier to dig, as the roots are small, and easier to set in the new location. However, the desired affect from the landscaping will be delayed a year or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann carried a group of the various shrubs they have in their yard that can be procured from the woods.

Following the business hour dinner, cooked on the grounds, was served.

all's fair

Let us state at the outset that all is not fair for Jane this week—A note from the Editor reminds us to have our 'colium' in earlier—Of course we felt flattered that an anxious public was waiting for our candid remarks, but we've had no time to listen in on romance or dilly dally on the court house square where sooner or later all news of momentous magnitude is released . . . Nova Bean is getting a sample of what the rest of us busy mothers have had to happen to us in times past. Nova entertained her club Friday—the first party she's had since Linda entered into Life's tizzy pattern—and you guessed it, the cook didn't come . . . Now we understand why only superlative students make the Beta Club. After that chapel program put on by the new pledges we know that you've got to be clever and intelligent plus, to make the grade . . . The old pledges stipulated that for their initiation the new pledges must give a program of such merit that the eligibility would be unquestioned, and furthermore, Jack Averitt and Janice Arundel must sing a duet. In the program presented by them, Prussana Sneed was master of ceremonies—Myrtis Swinson (Miss Primrose Peabody) represented the Striped Ink Co., especially useful in making cross word puzzles . . . Dorothy Wilson was from the A. B. C. Reducing Co. and appeared in baggy clothing bearing a pair of scales in her hand . . . Marjorie Prosser (Miss "Loving Peanut") represented the Sweet Pea Perfume Co. and used an atomizer prominently . . . WHAT IS TIRE RETREADING?

There has opened in Statesboro a place of business known as the Economy Tire Company. They retread and vulcanize tires. Everybody knows what tire vulcanizing is but there are some to whom "tire retreading" may be something new.

In an interview with Mr. W. A. Dobbs, who does tire retreading and vulcanizing for the Economy Tire Company it was learned that a retreaded tire can be made to give an extra two-thirds additional wear. In explaining the process Mr. Dobbs said: "We take a tire 'carcass', a tire from which all the old rubber has been cleaned from the cord fabric, and completely rebuild it with new gum rubber. It is then placed in a mold under 125 pounds pressure at 300 degrees F. In this mold the new rubber is completely baked and when done the tire comes out with a complete, brand new tread which is non-skid and safe. The tire is then dressed and is ready for many new miles." Mr. Dobbs has been in the tire business since 1910. Mr. Arthur L. Reed is the manager of the new business.

in abundance and many of the greens are excellent sources of vitamin C, good sources of vitamin B, and good sources of vitamin A. These acids collect on it and drop back into the leaves.

When cooking vegetables, it is of first importance to conserve as much of the vitamins and minerals as possible. For this reason, greens should be cooked for only a short time, as heat is an enemy of both color and vitamin C. They should be cooked in just enough water to keep them from scorching, because some of the mineral salts are easily dissolved in water.

It is a good idea to cook green vegetables in an uncovered vessel. Plant acids given off in cooking will destroy the green color, if they are not allowed to escape with the steam. Heat frees these acids, and, if not allowed to escape, they will attack the green and break it down into acids.

There are all kinds of ways to cook greens, but by all means get them into the menu in some form. In the spring, wild varieties are easily available and the cultivated kinds are priced very reasonable, if they have to be bought.

Blue Devils Defeated Decisively By Savannah High Blue Jackets 46-31

Coach Johnson's Cage Squad To Play Stillson Thursday Night On Armory Floor, Play Reidsville Here Friday Night

Displaying beautiful passwork and a perfect defense, the Savannah High cage team defeated the Statesboro quintet by the score of 46-31 last Friday night on the armory floor.

The Blue Devils were completely outclassed in all departments of the game. The Savannahians crack marksmanship, their smooth passwork and a man to man defense kept the Blue Devils on the tail end of the score throughout the last three quarters.

The game was rather a rough and tumble affair, with five men being put out via the foul route. Two of the Savannah squad and three of the Blue Devils. Those on the Statesboro team that were put out were Frederick Beasley, center, John Smith, guard, and Robert Hodges, forward.

The Blue Devils made a fine showing against the Blue Jackets of Savannah in that they were very stubborn and they fought for possession of the ball throughout the game. It was expected that the Savannah boys would hand the Blue Devils a licking and they did just that. Tiny Ramsey, playing in his first role as a first string starter, showed his stuff by leading the Blue Devils scoring list with 10 points.

Coach B. A. Johnson stated that his boys have a return game with Savannah and that he hopes to schedule some more games with teams of the Savannah type so that his team might benefit from playing these teams.

STATESBORO WILL PLAY THURSDAY NIGHT AND AGAIN FRIDAY NIGHT

Statesboro will play Stillson high school (tomorrow night) at 7:30 p. m. The game was originally scheduled for Wednesday night but due to a conflicting engagement was moved up to Thursday night. The girls will also play.

Friday night on the same court and at the same time the Blue Devils will take the court against Reidsville High. Little is known about the Reidsville squad but Coach Johnson is expecting a hard encounter. The girls will play in the first game against the Reidsville girls.

In an interview with Coach Hardy who came to Statesboro from Hampton Institute of Hampton, Virginia, he stated that his boys will get better. He added that they are not out of first class condition. One must admit that they seem to be in most excellent condition to be able to handle their opponents as they have to date, and the statement begs the question, "What will they do when they do get in first class condition?"

During the Matter game on the Statesboro Armory floor this color team displayed a spectacular passwork game. Their long shots were perfect, and their working the ball through Matter's defense was like adding two and two. Matter's score with a total of 8 points indicates the type of defense he Statesboro Industrial School possesses.

Coach Hardy states that it is his desire to schedule a few games with better teams than the ones he has been playing. He wants to get games with teams that are supposed to be better than his and have the games scheduled at night so that Statesboro basketball fans may have an opportunity of seeing his colored quintet at work. His next game is with Waycross which will be played on the Armory floor.

There are 12 boys on Coach Hardy's team. He takes eight of these with him on trips.

One of the contributing features of the game Friday afternoon, as seen by your correspondent, was the display of spirit by the colored cheering section. Their spirit never let up. One cannot wonder that with such moral support the team runs up such heavy scores. Our personal description of their spirit can be summed up in the phrase "they rhythm."

Score 138 Points In Three Games Against Opponents' 33 Points

Any basketball team that can chalk up a total of 138 points in three games against its opponents total of 33 must be admitted a good team. This is just what Statesboro High Industrial School's basketball team has done.

This negro team, coached by Thomas Hardy, a teacher in the English department, completely smothered a Matter negro team last Friday night in defeating them by the one-sided score of 42 to 8. This is just one of the games. They defeated a Millen negro team, 29 to 9 and defeated Matter in a game previous to the one Friday night by a score of 37 to 16.

If these scores do not indicate a first class team there is a catch somewhere. Coach B. A. Johnson, of the Statesboro High Blue Devils, says that this colored team has been seen on a cage floor. He stated that his work is near perfection in every department.

In an interview with Coach Hardy who came to Statesboro from Hampton Institute of Hampton, Virginia, he stated that his boys will get better. He added that they are not out of first class condition. ATHLETIC PLANS (Continued From Front Page)

Should this plan be adopted and carried out it would eliminate the division of the teams into sections and would give all the teams a wide variety of opponents. The eligibility of the teams would be decided by a committee. The committee would use the record of each team in determining the eligibility of each team to compete in the playoff.

The proposed plan was received favorably and a number of those present at the meeting expressed their desire to see the plan adopted and put into operation.

Mr. W. E. Morris, superintendent of the schools at Swainsboro, is president of the Association and president of this meeting.

FARM TO FARM

A farm tractor is like labor on a farm. It has to stay busy if it pays for its keeps, declares P. F. MARSH. Quite often he does not find a job for the machine in his own field and some of the neighbors can put it to work, which brings in enough income to pay its way.

BROOKS AND EDDIE LANIER find that it is not profitable to sell cattle or hogs before they are finished. When the fields are eaten out they find it advisable to put their livestock on feed in the barn until finished. The some 20 head of steers and 75 head of 100 pound hogs will sell for as much as a rice cotton crop in a few weeks.

E. H. BROWN evidently believes in an early spring garden. He now has the family garden all ready to plant. C. M. GRAHAM says that the way to tame a wild hog or steer is to get it fat. He finds that any steer or hog that will eat anything will get fat.

For him can be tamed. He should know, since he assists in taming several western range steers each year. The purebred Hereford steers and purebred Spotted Poland China hogs he has increased the normal income from these enterprises.

D. M. Bell says that he is going to market some 500 bushels of surplus corn through his spring. He has several acres of winter legumes and rye for them to run on, which will make the corn go further.

LESPEDEZA GROWERS CONSERVE THE SOIL SAYS COUNTY AGENT

County Agent Byron Dyer said this week that lespedeza is rapidly becoming one of the leading soil conserving crops in Georgia. He advised Bulloch county farmers to work this crop into their rotation if possible.

The time to sow lespedeza is early spring, the agent said. When this is done, and seasons are favorable, the land is covered by mid-summer and almost complete protection from erosion is given throughout the growing season.

"A good lespedeza stubble is one of the best methods of protecting the soil from washing," he declared. "The dead plants cover the land and slow up the movement of water down slopes. Soil particles are held together by the dense fibrous root system, and this holds them in place."

The agent said that even though this is an efficient method of checking soil losses, there is considerable loss of nitrogen by leaching as the plants decay. This leaching can be overcome to a large extent if a cover crop is sown in the fall to take up the nitrogen as it is liberated.

He also pointed out that lespedeza sown and fertilized with a phosphate fertilizer, or sown on land where the phosphate content has been built up, gives much better results than when sown without fertilizer.

New York Celtics To Play Teachers

WORLD'S GREATEST BASKETBALL ATTRACTION MARKS A HOT SPOT IN LOCAL BASKETBALL SEASON. IS SAME TEAM AS LAST YEAR.

The world's greatest basketball attraction is scheduled for Statesboro, Saturday evening when the New York Celtics meet the South Georgia Teachers, Saturday, January 22.

The Celtics, world's professional basketball champions, appearance against the Teachers is always the high spot in the local basketball season.

The Celtics will bring the same veterans to Statesboro that have appeared on two occasions on the Teachers College court. Those who have seen the World Champions in the past will recognize Davey Banks, Bob McDermott, Nat Hickey, Dutch Dehnert, Rusty Sanders, Pat Herlihy and Paul Birch.

In the past the Teachers College gymnasium has been overcrowded for the Celtic game. This year there will be no crowding and only 200 reserve seats will be sold. General admission has been set at fifty cents and reserve seats at $1.00.

The college has arranged a good preliminary to begin at seven-thirty with the Celtics-Teachers game to follow.

J. E. Hodges, president of the association, which serves Bulloch and Evans counties, called the meeting to order and J. G. Watson was elected clerk of the meeting. After extending a welcome to the members and guests President Hodges introduced the following special guests: T. W. Fowler, secretary of the Farm Loan Association, F. C. Parker, representative of the Farm Credit Administration, N. R. Bennett of the Rural Resettlement Administration and Byron Dyer, County Agent of Bulloch county.

R. F. Donaldson, secretary of the local association, read the minutes of the last stockholders, which was held in February 1937. John H. Moore, a Bulloch county director of the association gave the report of the Board of Directors, Henry H. Durrence, an Evans county member of the Board, gave the report of the Executive Committee, and Mr. Hodges delivered the presidents address. After introducing the employees of both the Statesboro and Claxton offices of the association, Secretary Donaldson gave a detailed financial report of the association. The report showed that there were 478 members in 1936 and 497 members in 1937; that $107,954 was loaned in 1936 and $149,422 was loaned in 1937. The total income of the association in 1936,

FOR THE GOOD OF ALL

Would you believe that there is in Bulloch county TWENTY-THREE Federal Liquor licenses? And would you believe that TWO of these licenses are in PRIVATE HOMES? The records in the Sheriff's office reveal that this is actually true. Anyone with a roof over a floor within four walls and $25.00 in cash can get a Federal license to sell liquor. There are comparatively few restrictions placed upon him regarding his operations. Liquor flows freely and knowing to all in Bulloch, Bulloch is WET. Liquor is available to anyone with the price.

By voting to legalize and tax liquor sales in 16 Georgia counties, including Bulloch, the house of representatives of the Georgia legislature has gone on record as favoring an end to conditions which are now and have long been intolerable, with very little having been done about them.

By voting to legalize whiskey in the 16 counties the house of representatives has declared that it no longer wants to see liquor go untaxed by the state. Whiskey is one of the few commodities that is not taxed already, and had the house failed to pass this measure it would have amounted to a compromise with the "bootleggers."

Georgia's legislature did not vote repeal, they voted and passed a measure to produce revenue and control a liquor traffic that was and is flooding the country and the state. This measure will give the counties which wish to remain dry the first real opportunity they have had to stop, with the aid of the state, the flow of bootleg liquor into their own borders.

The Thomas liquor legalization bill as passed by the house would legalize sale of liquor in the following counties:

Bibb (Macon); Brantley (Nahunta); Bryan (Pembroke); Bulloch (Statesboro); Chatham (Savannah); Coffee (Douglas); Dougherty (Albany); Evans (Claxton); Fulton (Atlanta); Glynn (Brunswick); Lowndes (Valdosta); McIntosh (Darien); Muscogee (Columbus); Richmond (Augusta); Ware (Waycross); Wayne (Jesup).

In addition to the legalizing liquor in the specified counties, the measure contains a provision limiting the state ad valorem tax on property to three mills, permitting the county to add two mills to its levy for general purposes, in addition to other taxes. The state levy is now five mills—the constitutional limit.

The bill would set up a system of state supervised warehouses from which wholesalers must buy. It prevents sales on election days or Sunday, prohibits women from working in retail store capacities and allows sales only in unbroken packages which cannot be consumed on the premises. It fixes the warehouse license at $1,000, the wholesaler's license at $500 and the retail dealer's license at $250.00 for the state. It carries the provision that the county and city licenses cannot exceed those fixed for the state. This means that a great number of those selling liquor now will be forced out of the business, leaving only a few who will be able to pay the licenses as fixed, thus bringing about a direct and far-reaching contribution to the cause of true temperance, in that it would make possible real control of the liquor traffic, not only in the counties where sales would be legalized, but more importantly in the counties which would, if they could, keep liquor entirely outside their boundaries.

We cannot give too much praise to the members of the lower house of the assembly for their action in the cause of law and order and of true temperance. We wish to praise Hon. Prince H. Preston and Hon. A. M. Deal for their courageous fight and vote last week for taxing and controlling whiskey, a commodity that should have long ago been taxed.

"KNOW THE TRUTH—SAVE OUR YOUTH"

There was a time when the mere mention of the words was sufficient to mark a person. But we are becoming aware of the necessity of light upon the subject.

During the last few years many thousands of words have been written, many talks have been made and lectures given, in regard to the control of syphilis and gonorrhea. The tremendous amount of venereal infection existing among our people must be known at the present time to nearly every reader of almost any kind of literature.

In a survey now being made by Dr. H. E. McTyre, of the Ellis Health Unit, here in Bulloch county, he has learned that more than 400 deaths in the county have been attributed to heart disease in the last five years. He ventured to add that of these 400 deaths approximately one-half actually died of syphilis. Because of the incompleteness of the vital statistics as have been kept in Bulloch county it becomes hard to say just to what extent these diseases do exist.

A great deal of money is being spent to provide treatment for those afflicted with these diseases, not only by individuals, but by civic groups, counties, and states. This is all well and good, but treatment alone will not eradicate the venereal diseases. Action of a more fundamental nature is vitally necessary.

Education is the thing. Our young people must be brought to the realization that they themselves have much to do with the problem and its solution. To this end, they must be taught the facts about the danger and prevalence of syphilis and gonorrhea.

On February 2 the American Social Hygiene Association will sponsor a National Social Hygiene Day. The purpose is to enlist the public in the fight being waged against these diseases, especially syphilis. Public meetings will be held, instructive lectures given and other publicity measures carried out.

With the Ellis Health unit now functioning in the county it is possible, with the cooperation of all, to completely stamp out this great menace that is now upon the county.

If you say it's too expensive to keep up with the good new books—forget them and go to your book shelf, if you do not have it the library does, and re-read Mark Twain. It will do you good, and it will cost you a cent.

This week-end marks one of unity and for a cause which makes us forget the "sad state of our finances."

Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights Statesboro and Bulloch county joins the nation in celebrating the President's Birthday. This week has been designated as "Button Week". Each school child will be asked to donate 10 cents and will receive a colored button, bearing the emblem of the national foundation, indicating the need has done his part toward aiding the 600,000 sufferers of the maiming disease over the nation.

Answer "The Call To Arms."

With Bulloch county's application for consideration for one of the thirteen cash awards offered in Atlanta Constitution's $7,500 Progressive Government Awards in the mails, the commissioners and other civic and county leaders who participated in preparation of the application are already thinking of how they will use that $2,500, first prize. They are convinced that they will be satisfied with nothing less.

The application has given the county commissioners and other county officials a chance to realize just what they have accomplished during the year 1937. Whether Bulloch county wins a cash award or not its participation in the competition will have brought to the knowledge of the county exactly in what direction it is headed.

In going over the report of the Bulloch County Library we can easily see why the Library Board works with such unceasing enthusiasm. 13,141 books circulated during 1937; 9,750 visitors during the year; 700 new books added during the year; 338 new members for the year. It amazes us that we got along without a library as long as we did.

Since the establishment of the library in March of 1936 it has made great progress. Credit for this progress goes to the members of the library board and the librarian. A careful record has been kept of the activities of the library indicating its excellent management.

Congratulations to Jerry Fletcher who has a birthday next Monday. Look at your daddy Jerry, and let him be a lesson to you.

CLIPONREKA CULLINGS

By Your Roaming Reporter

Hot Springs, Ark., U. S. A. About thirty years ago I had occasion to bring my wife to Hot Springs when she was suffering from a most painful attack of one of the most painful diseases medical science knows anything about... inflammation... rheumatism. Her suffering was intense and continuous. Her joints were swollen to enormous proportions and it was heart breaking to watch the torture she experienced. I was unable to do anything about it. But within a week the swelling of her joints began to subside, the pain began to leave and by the time she had the full course of twenty-one baths, she was almost normal again. In fact, the three months' sufferings were regular visitors for most of their lives, coming at least once a year, many times often. My wife first came here as a child with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Blitch, and lived here for many years. So if I were you with my story of Hot Springs you'd just have to forgive an old man's habit of digging up long old memories.

THE MORNING AFTER WE ARRIVED it took just one look at the town to realize I had been gone THIRTY YEARS... only it appeared longer than that. Everything there was changed, as of course I had expected, and about the only thing that had changed was the direction of Central Avenue, which still points North & South. The city has spread out considerably. Central avenue, which I remembered as being about like North Main now extends several miles... maybe three or four... and the streets have built up accordingly.

HISTORICALLY, Hot Springs, in upposed to have been visited by De Soto about 1541, or so, the history books tell us. Then legendary tales of the various tribes of Indians, fighting over possession of its healing waters, prevail thru most of the history of the middle west. The first white settlement of which there is any record was about 1800 and in 1894 the pioneers named Dabbar & Hunt visited the location and found visitors here who had erected split log huts and were bathing in what later was named Hot Springs Creek. As early as 1832, the government, realizing that unless the springs were reserved for the people of the nation, selfish interests would get possession, and so the government set aside the springs for the future disposal of the United States, allotting our sections of land and placing under the care and protection of the department of the Interior, in whom the administration now lies. In 1921 he name "reservation" was changed and the property became known as the Hot Springs National Park.

THE HOT SPRINGS NATIONAL PARK, which covers practically the entire of the hot springs, the only small portion of the city proper, covers now 1,009 acres and at the head of the bath house row is an imposing building housing the various officials of the National Park service who are in complete and absolute charge. In a part of the building is most interesting museum devoted to the historical and geological data of the springs and of the state of Arkansas in general. Visitors are urged to spend as much of their time as they find convenient in this display and many hours can be utilized here in an educational study. They display here the various theories for heat coming from the waters from the "hot" mountain, which is on the east, as opposed to who is known as West Mountain, the water from whose springs are almost ice cold.

THE WATER FROM THESE VARIOUS SPRINGS is pumped into one central reservoir and piped, still cooking hot, (147 degrees) into all the licensed bath houses. The houses are on government property, protected by perpetual leases, but are privately owned and pay rental fees for water. The price charged are regulated by the government, and a bath house that infringes any of the rules... and they are plentiful and rigid... doesn't have to wait long or a gentleman in a gray and blue uniform to call him on the carpet. Everything they do is prescribed, and the charge is determined by the amount they have invested in the house and fixtures. So, no matter whether you pay $24, for 21 baths at the magnificent Arlington, (the swiftest hotel in Hot Springs, where the bath house is located in the basement), $20 at the Lamar, (where the Col and your reporter bathed, and the way where they gave over 71,000 baths last year, as against 57,000 of their nearest competitor) or pay $16 at the Pythian Hall for colored, one gets the same water and nearly the same treatment. In fact, if you are plum busted and can prove it (as what debt-ridden cotton farmer can't), you can still get the SAME bath free. But in all of them you furnish two bath towels, a bath mitt and anything else you care to, such as bath shoes, robe, etc. The towels and mitt are essential... the robes are optional, depending on the state of your pocketbook. (We just got the towels and mitt... in fact, Shrimp brought back the once he had last spring... the lucky hound).

I don't think I have told you that the government furnished 800,000 gallons of hot water daily, and the Lord only knows how much cold water. (However, I understand they have put on an extra pump just for Shrimp, as that little storage tank of his can hold more drinking water than Roy Boyer's). I've wondered how he ever gets it filled with water costing a buck a pint, or even at 15¢ a bottle.)

And while I know that you have tired of the statistics I thought you ought to know as it belongs to the people of America and is a part of our history (believe it or not).

I had failed to mention the cost of living and I know everyone is interested in how much does it cost. Well to be exact, it is a darn sight cheaper for good living than Statesboro, Ga., which is in Bulloch county and where we think living is pretty cheap. For instance, we have a room (a large one), on the second floor, twin beds, steam heat, running water, plenty of furniture, just a half block from the main street and a block from our bath house, and we pay therefore the magnificent sum of $1 a day each. Our cost they offered us a room at the Arlington for $10 a day, but we did not like the location (Yeah!) and we are staying at the Milwaukee, which is a lot more comfortable. The grocers stores is about the same as Statesboro, but we can get a fine breakfast in several of the better places from 10¢ to 20¢, consisting of fruit juice, bacon (or ham) and eggs, plenty of buttered toast, and all the coffee you care for. Dinner averages about 25¢, with about 25¢ for the supper. This is not in "Greasy-Spoon" Greek points either, but in clean, comfortable, pleasant surroundings, nicely cooked (most of it in your sight).

Of course there is the standard bath, and ten variations, depending on what ails you and what your physician prescribes. The standard bath is about two hours to go thru the hose, although you spend only about an average of fifteen minutes in the tub. The balance of the time is an counting for by seats, packs, three cooling rooms etc. But what ever you come here, if you have baths to treat you, and it is simply unbelievable to watch cripples, invalids and such arrive here on crutches, wheel chairs, etc., and be walking after probably a dozen baths. For instance, I arrive there with a blood pressure of 206... and buddy if you don't think that is high, and hard to navigate with, just try it. After nine baths, the doctor tested me yesterday and he combination of baths, rest and diet had brought it down to 162. I believe that or not. Truly, it is a great place.

And that reminds me... I have a few personal messages for those hoodlums who made that memorable visit here last May. It seems they made a lasting impression and it is hard to find a fellow who doesn't know a lot about Statesboro. This morning the hotel manager told me about "Abie" (That's Cousin Bernard, if you know him) predicament. He said Abie came to him confidentially the second morning he was here and wanted to find out where he could buy a cheap watch that would keep the kind of time used in Hot Springs. It seems that someone told Abie explained to the local man, his watch

SUCCESS ASSURED IN STATE DRIVE FOR POLIO FUNDS

GAINESVILLE, Ga.—Thirty thousand volunteer workers in Georgia are bringing to a climax this week the most intensive campaign for funds to fight infantile paralysis ever conducted in the state.

With the celebration of the President's birthday this Saturday night, parties and entertainments of many kinds are being held in every county to add to the contributions already received by the county chairmen from thousands of individuals and business firms and from the large sums raised by "Button Week" in the schools.

"Success is assured," said Edgar B. Dunlap, chairman of the state committee. "Never has there been such response to a humanitarian effort in Georgia. The enthusiasm of the workers has put it over."

More than 16,000 teachers in the state have joined to make a success of "Button Week" in which every child is given the opportunity of paying tribute to the President and, also, contributing at least a dime toward aiding the thousands of children suffering from the dread disease over the nation.

Industrial plants have arranged big parties for their employees in many sections and business firms have wholeheartedly cooperated in canvassing their workers for contributions.

State house officials and members of the Legislature will take a holiday January 29 in observance of the drive, the President's birthday having been officially proclaimed a state holiday by Governor Rivers. The action of Georgia in being the first state to thus honor the President has been followed by four other states, it was learned from national headquarters in New York.

In speaking of the new infantile paralysis foundation for which the campaign is being waged, Chairman Dunlap said:

"We realize that each community will benefit far more through the new National Foundation than under the former plan, by which a certain percentage of the funds were retained."

"The new foundation will provide funds not only for research but will also make appropriations to care for orthopedic treatment and for maintaining the various rehabilitation institutions."

"Beyond that, however, there will be ample funds and skilled physicians ready for any epidemic which breaks out. This is more important because doctors agree that by quick diagnosis and quick and proper treatment, from 70 to 80 per cent of the crippling effects of the disease can be prevented."

was an "Eastern-time" watch. My informant said Abie smiled skeptically when he was told that any jeweler could arrange Abie's Eastern-time watch to this time.

Another little message I promised to convey was from the little blond at the cigar counter. You know her, Bull, he one they call "Frenchy". She claims she is from Parce and has quite an accent. This morning when Shrimp told her we were from Georgia... Statesboro... she got all excited and said: "Oui... oui... yes, I know Statesboro... You boys know ze Meastrale Dohmann dere... I believe you call heem ze cow, or maybe ze baule is it... You know ze great beg man wid ze sweet talk. Weel you tell him fer me to write me whair he get ze gold bracelet he give me. I mus take it back... it is turn green... oh yes, I tell him mama says zat ze bread pin zat Mr. Matthews left her it turn green also. So tell him write hee little sweetheart all about it. I no like ze green jewelry... all my frons say jaugh and say "Woolworth"... I not know. Weel you tell heem."

Of and of course being two gallant old gentlemen from Gawayg we promised... besides maybe we might rats a date ourselves.

But of all we heard about Statesboro not a cheap have we been able to hear about Charlie & the Rev. John Everett... and Shrimp says we won't. He says they were sick: than a bucket of ells and kept their crack covered. Well, if any of "young guys and gals" have stuck it out so far, I know you'll agree that it is time to turn off the steam. So I'll bid you good afternoon until next week when I promise to tell you about the pine tree out here that is merely a matter of 260,000 (yes, I got my figures right) years old. Naturally I know you doubt it, but Shrimp said so... and yo know Shrimp. So

He was accurate in giving the time of day upon request of his trainer.

A short talk was made on the care of pets with a demonstration of preliminary training of the Agouti, a rat of the rodent family, Kangaroo rats from Australia and Tasmania, the anteater from South America and a prairie dog from Texas.

The purpose of the demonstration was to increase the interest in natural history.

The January meeting of the Nevils Parent Teachers' meeting was held on Thursday afternoon, January 13, at the High School Auditorium. One of the largest crowds that have attended in several months was present.

A splendid program was arranged by Miss Emma L. Adams. The Devotional given by Mrs. Hudson Godbee. Dr. H. E. McTyre, the new doctor with the Ellis Health Law Unit in Bulloch county was the principal speaker. He gave the members of the valuable information regarding hookworm, diphtheria, small pox, polio and other contagious diseases prevalent in the county. He stated that these were the diseases that are preventable and there was no excuse, whatsoever, for having any of them. Dr. McTyre, very emphatically stated that his work was to prevent diseases and not to cure them. When a person becomes ill the practicing local physician takes charge, not the health officer. He made known an excellent piece of work that our citizens feel will be very valuable to the community in the form of a preschool examination.

The birth records are being tabulated and all the parents of children who were born five years ago and since are requested to bring these children into Dr. McTyre's office in the Sea Island Bank Building, next to the Library, for a thorough examination. If a defect is found this will be taken care of before the child will be allowed to enter the school. After the child is immunized and all defects are corrected, he enters school and when that child reaches the third grade he is given another examination and then another check-up will be made when that child reaches the sixth grade.

With this method of examination and the follow-up, we feel that all High School students will be turned out stamped as all round, healthy, men and women.

Miss Elsie Baily, the nurse working with Dr. McTyre, was present and she joined Dr. McTyre in a cordial invitation to all to visit them in their office in Statesboro.

After the program and the business meeting the hospitality committee took charge of the meeting. They served a delicious sandwich course with coffee and whipped cream. This committee was made up of Mrs. Dedman Rushing, Mrs. R. E. Anderson, Mrs. Grady Rushing, Mrs. Hudson Godbee, Mrs. Lawson Martin and Miss Emma L. Adams.

Mrs. Katherine Norman and her second grade, and Miss Maude White and her third grade, in having the most room representatives present at the meeting. The day will be worked off in chapel Wednesday.

WITH THE COUNTY AGENTS

BYRON DYER ELVIE MAXWELL

FARM TO FARM

H. J. Atkins thinks the best way to sell hogs is to finish out about 40 head at the time and get a buyer to come to the lot for them. The lot he moved last week returned him about as much as 15 bales of cotton did last fall.

Horne Hagin finds that there is one class of livestock that local farmers can add to their program and realize some money from. He has some 25 lambs that will be ready for the early spring market, which should sell for some $4 per head. The quality of lambs he has will compare very favorably with any grown out in any section of the county.

Ted Vickery believes that it is essential to raise good pigs if he is to be an enterprise on the farm. He raises about 100 head of hogs every year, all of which has made the difference in being able to make all the payments on his farm when they were due. These pigs will be directly responsible for him being able to call the farm his own.

Britt Aaron, a 4-H club boy, believes in getting in the livestock business early. He is feeding some steers, has some hogs and at the same time building a purebred beef cattle herd.

Making the business of farming pay is possible, even in years like 1937. J. G. Futch has 17,335 acres in cultivation, which most farmers think is not enough land to make a living from. Mr. Futch sold $918 worth of tobacco, five bales of cotton and $109 worth of hogs from this small acreage. And he made a living at home in addition.

CLYDE PAYNE WINS DISTRICT 4-H COTEST County Agent Byron Dyer announced that he recently received a check to award Clyde Payne, son of W. C. Payne, Ellabelle, Rte. The birth records are being tabulated and all the parents of children who were born five years ago and since are requested to bring these children into Dr. McTyre's office in the Sea Island Bank Building, next to the Library, for a thorough examination. If a defect is found this will be taken care of before the child will be allowed to enter the school. After the child is immunized and all defects are corrected, he enters school and when that child reaches the third grade he is given another examination and then another check-up will be made when that child reaches the sixth grade.

With this method of examination and the follow-up, we feel that all High School students will be turned out stamped as all round, healthy, men and women.

Miss Elsie Baily, the nurse working with Dr. McTyre, was present and she joined Dr. McTyre in a cordial invitation to all to visit them in their office in Statesboro.

The flavor of cloves goes well with smoked meats such as ham or smoked shoulder. Whole cloves and stick cinnamon, like bay leaf, should be removed or before serving. For variety, powdered or root ginger may be used in boiling, or pot-roasting meat and in seasoning cooked tongue. A very small quantity of nutmeg or mace is a pleasing addition occasionally to scalloped fish or oysters.

Curry powder, used sparingly, is good with almost any meat or fish dish and with eggs, especially when these protein foods are combined with rice or another cereal. Mustard adds flavor to cheese dishes, ham, fresh pork, beef, and mutton, also to salad dressings.

When not used in the meat, fish, or cheese dish of a meal, some of these seasonings add variety to vegetable with tomato soup. Nutmeg or cloves or to soup. Cloves or bay leaves are often used in spinach, carrots, potatoes seasoned with cinnamon or nutmeg are a favorite dish in some parts of the country.

Parsley is easy to grow in the garden or in a window-box or flower-pot. It can be used fresh or dried. Its flavor combines effectively with egg, meat, and vegetable dishes. A thin slice of lemon provides pleasing flavor in stewed apples, prunes, black bean soup, or kidney stew.

ALL colored farmers and farm boys are urged to meet with the trainees at the above community to discuss conditions which will better enable them to master the business of farming.

Statesboro High Plays T.C. Freshmen In Benefit Game Thursday Night

BLUE DEVILS TO PLAY BROOKLET IN BROOKLET FRIDAY NIGHT

The Statesboro Blue Devils came to play the Teachers College Freshmen in a benefit game on the Armory floor Thursday night, January 26, at 7:30. The Training School will play Portia High in the preliminary game Thursday night. The T. C. Freshmen-Statesboro game to follow.

The proceeds of this game will go into the President's Birthday Celebration fund to aid infanticide sufferers.

These two teams will meet for the first time. They will provide the fans with a real basketball game.

On Friday night, January 28, the Blue Devils will meet Brooklet on Brooklet's court. This will be the third time these two teams will have played. The Blue Devils have defeated Brooklet in the two previous contests and Brooklet is waiting for them. The last game resulted in a 23 to 20 score and the second in a 22-17 score. This third game will see Brooklet with blood in their eyes to send the Blue Devils to the showers.

This game in Brooklet promises to be the best game of the season. This is the first year in several that Statesboro could claim an edge on the Brooklet squad. The prediction is that Statesboro will take Brooklet over the hurdles Friday night.

The Statesboro Blue Devils added two more wins to their list last week as they defeated Stillson on Thursday night and Reidsville on Friday night.

Both games were won handily by the Blue Devils. Stillson went down to the tune of 32 to 21. Tiny Ramsey, high point man in the Savannah game, again led the High School five with ten points. Beasley was a close second with nine points.

Reidsville succeeded in running up only 11 points to Statesboro's 37. John Smith, Gene L. Hodges, Skeet Kemm and Z. L. Strange accounted for 24 points, making six each.

FARM BRIEFS

Joseph C. Kircher, Southern regional director of the Forest Service, told the Southeastern Planning Conference recently the South's forests can grow more than enough timber to keep the present forest industries "going forever" provided the timber is protected from fire and "present destructive cutting practices are abandoned." Kircher said the forest industries of today "are utilizing small trees which had no market value a few years ago and to a large extent this is because the supply of larger sizes is gone."

He urged "cutting practices that will build up or maintain sufficient growing stock to utilize the growing power of the land." Of the total forest area in the South, Kircher said, only 40 per cent has organized fire protection and "on much of the rest fires still burn uncontrolled."

An electric refrigerator has replaced the ice box which used to consume an average of 75 cents worth of ice each week in the farm home of Troy Blackwell, of Carroll county. Mr. Blackwell's electric current comes from REA lines. He has three convenience outlets and six drop lines in his home. He also has a radio, an iron, and lights to the barn and poultry house. His average monthly bill is about $2.65.

WARNOCK SCHOOL NEWS

The Warnock P. T. A. held its monthly meeting at the Warnock School on Friday afternoon, January 14, at 2 o'clock. Dr. H. E. McTye, and Miss Elsie Bailey who make up the personnel of the Ellis Health Unit recently installed in Bulloch county, were present at the meeting. They outlined, briefly, the plans for the health program for the county.

The school has been in progress for two weeks since the holidays. There are a number of new students who have enrolled and a few of the old ones who did not return.

The new well has been completed at the Warnock School and is furnishing the school with plenty of good water. The school has looked forward to the new well for some time and now that it is completed it is most appreciated.

The foundation for the auditorium and the two new classrooms is now complete. It will be just a short time before work will be well under way.

The school is now beginning the last half of the year's work, having just completed four months of the school year. It is hoped that the last half will be the school's most profitable period.

ATLANTA—They tried to get Senator Griner's goat, but he told them it was no joking matter.

That was when Senator Griner introduced a bill in the Senate to prohibit goats from running at large in Telfair County. The measure caused a laugh.

The author explained to the agricultural committee of the Senate that the bill was not intended as a joke, however. He said that goats have done great damage in Telfair county by eating seedling pines.

The committee took up the measure after the Senate adjourned and recommended that it pass.

A Great Day and a Great Cause!

January 29 will be a red-letter day in Georgia. In accordance with resolutions adopted by the Legislature, Governor Rivers has proclaimed it a "State holiday for the celebration of the birthday of that great humanitarian, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Throughout the week preceding the day there will be diverse opportunities for giving. In the schools "Birthdays" buttons will be presented to pupils who contribute ten cents or more, and each community will conduct programs in which all of its people can co-operate. Plans for Atlanta and Fulton County are under the direction of the ever-lodging Junior Chamber of Commerce, which confidently expects that Fulton's record of seven thousand dollars will be more than doubled.

All Georgia's response should be in keeping with the merits of the cause to be served and with the place which Franklin D. Roosevelt holds in the hearts of her people. Atlanta Journal Editorial, January 9, 1938.

WHY.

The strength of our community lies in the intelligence of our citizens and in their willingness to participate in community betterment. Public indifference to problems of vital interest is today the chief menace to a community. Such indifference provides a fertile soil for the growth of practices that operate to the ultimate downfall of the governmental structure of that community.

Once Election Day is over, comparatively few voters take the trouble to follow up the activities of public officials. Whether or not law-makers frame wise and beneficent laws, whether or not the executive authorities administer these laws efficiently and impartially, and whether or not the courts prosecute violations speedily and effectively, are matters toward which a considerable number of our people display a supreme indifference.

Such public indifference is bound to result in abuses in a community's government. When we read in the newspapers of a public official using his positions as a means of "feathering his nest" we are properly shocked, then forget it, and go about our personal affairs.

We feel that it is a part of a newspaper's duty to inform the public about some phases of its government that, obviously, the average citizen, busy with his own business cannot take the time to acquaint himself with.

The records of the Clerk of the Superior Court reveal a case, the disposition of which is being questioned by a number of citizens of this county. Anyone with sufficient curiosity and the wish to acquaint himself with the details concerning the case may do so by going into the Clerk's office.

These records reveal that a public officer obtained an indictment, in the line of his duty, against a moving picture house operator who had disobeyed the law. This indictment was drawn at the October term of Superior court and was signed by the foreman of the Grand Jury October 27, 1937, charging and accusing this motion picture house operator with the offense of a misdemeanor for operating a lottery.

The case never came to trial, though the Grand Jury had seen fit to indict him. Rather, upon the recommendation of the court officer the case was not-prossed, not prosecuted, as is revealed in the minutes of the Clerk of the Superior Court.

The question begs itself. Why was this case not prosecuted, when the Grand Jury had returned a true bill against the operator. The nature of the offense was such that everyone, including the offender, recognized his guilt. There seems to be a veil of secrecy about this case. Why?

The records show that the recommendation not-prossing this case was not entered until November 19, 1937, some seventeen days after the regular jury term had been adjourned. Again we ask why was the case not-prossed? And why was it finally disposed of so long after the regular court had adjourned.

BULLOCH NEEDS A JUVENILE COURT
When a child in Bulloch county is guilty of some offense and is brought into our regular courts, is it fair to that child that he be tried as we try adult criminals? Is it fair to that child that he be subjected to the procedure which characterizes the regular court? In our opinion, it is not. No matter how properly that child be tried, to him such a trial becomes terrifying. He finds himself unable to think, he becomes confused by the questions that surround him, he becomes embarrassed in the presence of the judge and the jury, regardless of the gentleness of the court, assuming that the court could be gentle.

Bulloch county needs a Juvenile Court in order that the child offender might have specialized handling and treatment which might prevent him from becoming a criminal in his later life.

The underlying philosophy of the Juvenile Court is that delinquency is a result of such conditions as broken homes, lack of parental control, unwise restraint, excessive quarrelling, the absence of the mother from the home, illegitimacy and extreme poverty. Such conditions in a child's life naturally lead to an economic and emotional insecurity in many anti-social acts.

The Juvenile Court assumes that a child has done wrong, but that he was sinned against rather than sinned, and needs protection and guidance instead of punishment.

Such an attitude towards children calls for a different method of treatment from that provided for in the ordinary criminal court. The child's welfare is the chief consideration governing court decisions, and a study of his background and environment is most important. A plan of probation giving sympathetic supervision and guidance can be offered either by a probation officer, a social agency dealing with children's problems, or by the cooperation of qualified interested citizens who themselves might serve as probation officers to individual children.

In addition to the services to delinquent children, the Juvenile Court tried adults who are involved in neglecting children or in contributing to their delinquency. Sure adults are criminally involved and can be punished to the extent of the law.

THE LIQUOR BILL AS PASSED BY THE SENATE

With the interest of the people of the state centered in Atlanta, today awaiting the outcome of the substitute liquor bill passed by the Senate on January 28, we outline the provisions of that bill.

The substitute bill would:
Legalize the sale of unbroken packages of liquor of not less than half pint size in counties which vote "wet" in local referendum. Such elections may be called by petition of 35 per cent of the qualified voters. Elections could not be held oftener than two years.

Be administered by the state revenue commissioner.

Provide state-controlled warehouses for storage of liquor in any county where the sale of alcoholic beverages is legalized. Liquor so stored would have tax stamps affixed.

Bond state employees in charge of handling liquor $10,000.

Prohibit warehouses from delivering liquor to any non-licensed person or firm. Liquor could not be shipped into dry counties, but might be carried through dry areas en route to wet counties.

Make it unlawful for a private contract or common carrier to transport liquor—except to a state warehouse, unless the tax has been paid.

Levy an annual state tax on manufacturers of $1,000.

Permit cities and counties to charge no less than the state levy, and levy as high a tax as they desire.

Authorize commercial growers of peaches, apples, pears, grapes and other perishable fruit grown in Georgia to distill liquors from such fruit, annual tax $500. Liquor so produced must be immediately stored in a state warehouse until sold. Growers could only obtain distillers' licenses in counties where the sale of liquor is legal.

Require surety bonds of $10,000 for distillers, $5,000 for wholesalers, and $2,500 for retailers.

Levy a tax of $1 per wine gallon on all imported liquor, and $2 per wine gallon on domestic alcohol. On domestic liquor and alcohol the levy is one-half that amount. On liquor exported outside the state, a levy of 15 cents a gallon is made.

Class wines of more than 21 per cent alcohol by volume as liquor. On wines of less than 14 per cent alcohol, a tax of 25 cents per gallon is levied; on those of more than 14 per cent, the tax is 50 cents per gallon.

Permit an individual purchasing liquor in a wet county to take one quart into dry counties if it is for personal use.

Prohibit women or girls from working in a liquor store.

Prohibit liquor sales within 100 yards of a church or 200 yards of a school or college campus, except in hotels of 50 or more rooms which have been in operation at least five years, and chartered social clubs in existence twenty-five years or more.

Make it unlawful to possess untaxed liquor.

Declare bootleg manufacture of liquor a felony, and fix punishment at from one to five years imprisonment.

Prohibit sale of liquor between midnight Saturday night and midnight Sunday; also on election days.

By Your Roaming Reporter

SOME PHILOSOPHER ONCE observed that Death is the Great Leveler of society, and the same could certainly be said in all truth of the bath house. When these wandering vessels of society have put away in their lockers what someone once called "the ceremonies of civilization" (whatever that might be) and stepped out onto a crowded bath house floor, clad only in a towel and a birthday suit, the process is astounding. The pompous gentleman in the cut-a-way coat and striped trousers doesn't strut quite as much, as he tries . . . often unsuccessfully . . . to hide the worst pair of bow legs in the room. The gentleman who impressed the audience on the street as the great financier turns out to be just a little, under-sized, port, hairless, squint eyed and pot-bellied a plenty. And only this morning a man who admitted to your reporter that he "just helped the farmers, kinda day labor," turned out to be the handsomest man in the room after he had discarded his worn and patched overalls for the usual bath towel and sheet. One habit all of us seem to take into the bath room and that is loquaciousness . . . we are just talkative, and either can't help it or don't want to. Yesterday the banker, as we sat side by side in the sweat room where it is much hotter than an August cotton field and the sweat rolls off banker and pauper alike, the head of a great Western Utility group, wanted everybody to know about the devilment wrapped up in the pending Wage-hour discussion, now occupying the entire time of our boys in Washington, and the front page of the newspapers . . . while today a group of the boys from across the railroad tracks were heartily discussing where one could get the best meal in Hot Springs for a quarter. It is democracy in the raw and reminding one of Kipling's immortal poem of "Judy O'Grady and the Colonel's lady," who "were sisters under the skin." Gentle Reader, when the venerable becomes "brothers under the skin." However there is just one fellow over there I wouldn't like to be kin to: a faithful son of Israel, a devout looking old be-whiskered Hebrew (from Chicago), who had evidently just returned from Jerusalem and was famous "waiting wall," and when he slid into what he thought was the secluded silence of his bath, put on a lament so mournful that even the hardened attendants were reduced to tears . . . or was it laughter? After listening to that woe-filled for fifteen minutes . . . he was in the next tub to me . . . I don't blame the Arabs for murdering them as fast as they can. Some of them ought to be boiled in oil.

After spending two hours per day in the bath house for thirteen days it seems to me that one of the finest lessons our boys and girls could learn would be to spend an hour each day sitting there and observing the results of what we might call "human excesses." At least 75 per cent of the patients . . . those from Statesboro included . . . are there because of just that: Too much eating . . . too much drinking . . . too much working . . . too much worrying . . . too much activity . . . too much loafing . . . too much this . . . too much that . . . and so it goes. There may be 25 per cent of the group who are there due to heredity ailments over which they themselves had no control and to which they did not contribute. Yet so many would not be here had they been the least reasonable care of themselves, recognizing their weaknesses. I don't want to be unfair . . . and I certainly included myself and the Col. in the "too much" group . . . for of course a certain percentage of cripples here . . . folks who've done all they can to heal themselves and it is always a joy to watch them get better, but as the line marches by, looking like so many fattening hogs, one just naturally gets disgusted, and I have an idea that the resolutions made toward saner living, while awaiting the outcome of the Wage-hour discussion, would finish paving that mythical road to Perdition, which I have always heard was "paved with good intentions."

At this cross roads of America you may stand at any given spot on Central Avenue and within an hour you will see cars from almost every state in the union go by . . . The oldest name I've ever heard is Schumack . . . a local jeweler . . . and Abie I bet you didn't know that the chief of detectives in Little Rock is named McDougald . . . and a visitor called at the office of the local Hot Springs Era and gave the editor fits because, as she said: "That was all wrong about my wedding. It's true I'm going to get married, but I'm not 45 like you said . . . I'm 60. I don't want people to think I'm any flapper!!! . . . and so it goes. Some times I'm going to dig up all the oddities of the news and write a book."

Brooklet Drubs Devils 22-14 In Another Football Affair

The Statesboro basketball squad added two more wins to their list while the Brooklet boys added one to their "lost column." The Blue Devils defeated Guyton here last Tuesday night and defeated the T. C. Freshmen in a benefit game Thursday night of last week.

They defeated Guyton very easily by the score of 39-19. Robert Hodges was high point man in this game with a total of eleven points. Emerson Anderson got six and Frederick Beasley accounted for ten points.

Thursday night the Blue Boys defeated the T. C. Freshmen in which there was very little excitement. This was due to the fact that it was so cold. The game was played for the benefit of the President's birthday celebration and there was hardly one there. The Blue Devils defeated them by the score of 32-28.

Last Friday night on the Brooklet cage floor, Brooklet outplayed Statesboro, Brooklet made Statesboro boys look like a bunch of trolley cars in a Times Square traffic jam. Although Brooklet didn't defeat the Statesboro squad but eight points the Blue Devils didn't even win a Moral victory. Brooklet's five man team, completely and thoroughly whipped those boys that have made such an impressive record for the present season.

If Brooklet should keep up the playing "hot," they did it Friday night it looks as though that Statesboro Basketball Championship dream might be broken.

Five Brooklet boys and one sub beat the Blue Devils. Those boys were Hill, Clark, Clifton, Buie, Smith and Deloach.

The lineup:
Statesboro
Hill (2)—Forward (2) Hodges
Clark (8)—Forward (2) Anderson
Clifton (3)—Center (5) Beasley
Buie (7)—Guard (2) Smith
Smith (2)—Guard (1) Kennon
Sub: Deloach; Ramsey (2) G. Hodges, Tillman.

Big Frederick Beasley, playing center for the Blue Devils cage team, leads the entire team in scoring the most points with a total of 134 points in nineteen games. Frederick is the anchor for the team and is unusually fast for his tremendous size. He is only six feet four inches tall and weighs in the neighborhood of 185 pounds. His scoring lead is not threatened by any other man on the team. Robert Hodges is the closest man to him with a total of ninety-five points in as many games. Emerson Anderson is close behind with eighty-six points.

The scoring of each man on the team and also the scores of the substitutes are:

Emerson Anderson	86
Robert Hodges	95
Frederick Beasley	134
John Smith	40
Skeet Kennon	66
Substitutes:
Tiny Ramsey	28
Gene L. Hodges	28
Joe Robert Tillman	21
Cliff Purvis	2
Z. L. Strange	6
Therman Lanier	2

The Blue Devils have scored a total of 502 points against their opponents and have had 428 points scored on them by their nineteen opponents. The High School has lost only four games this season. Two of them were expected defeats, one by the Statesboro A. C. and the other by Savannah High. The other two defeats were given to the Devils by Register and Brooklet.

This seasons record that the Blue Devils have made is without doubt the best that has been made in a good many years by a basketball team down at the High School.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING OF ZONE III MET AT DENMARK

The Executive Committee of Zone III met at Denmark school Monday afternoon to discuss the regular zone meeting to be held Saturday at Nevils. Supt. H. P. Womack met with a group and reported that the members of the county board of the county would begin visiting the schools of the county the first of February. Each member probably will visit only the school of his community. It was recommended by this committee that special emphasis be placed on reading for a while longer, although other fields of study are not to be neglected. When reading is taken care of then the other subjects will automatically fall in line and in the proper place with more ease, it is believed.

Miss Franseth reported that any teacher that desired changing her supplementary readers could take the sets she'd like to have changed into the Materials Bureau, formerly known as the Book Store Room in Statesboro (Over the Sea Island Bank, next to the Bullock County Library) and get another set. In this way the children of one grade would have access to several readers during this year, or school term.

The bride-elect is related on her maternal side to the Oliff, Prestorious, Little and Brannen families of Bullock county.

On her paternal side she is related to the well-known Mathis and Mathews families who came to this state from South Carolina.

Miss Mathews was graduated from the Statesboro High School, and received an A. B. degree from Brenau College at Gainesville where she achieved distinction in varied activities. She was president of her class in her junior and senior years. She was a member of the Junior League, a member of the Phi Mu Sorority, and president of the Phi Mu Chapter. She was secretary of the Cotillion Club and Business Manager of the Alchemist.

Her most signal honor came when she was made a member of Alpha Delta National Journalistic Fraternity. Since her graduation she has been teaching. Until her resignation a few months ago she was a member of the faculty of the Swainsboro High School.

County Basketball Tournament At Brooklet

Three Days
Beginning Feb. 10

FOURTEEN BOYS' TEAMS AND TWELVE GIRLS' TEAMS ENTERED IN SENIOR AND JUNIOR DIVISIONS

The Bulloch county basketball tournament will begin Thursday, February 10 and will continue through Saturday, February 12. The tournament will be held at Brooklet in the school gymnasium.

Both the boys' and girls' tournaments will be held with fourteen boys' teams and twelve girls' teams entered. The finals, to determine the champions, will be played Saturday night, February 12.

The teams are divided into two divisions, the Junior High School division, the Senior High School division. The Junior High School boys' teams are West Side, Leefield, Warnock, Middlebrook, Isla, Denmark and Ogeechee. The girls' teams entered in the Junior division are: Warnock, Denmark, Leefield, Isla, West Side and Middlebrook.

The boys' teams entered in the Senior division are: Nevils, Stilson, Teachers College Training School, Brooklet, Register, Statesboro and Portia. The girls' teams entered in the Senior division are: Statesboro, Nevils, Register, Portia, Brooklet and Stilson.

Brooklet, Statesboro, Register and Stilson are rated on even terms to win the Senior division championship. Statesboro has defeated both Brooklet (twice) and Stilson. The Statesboro team has lost to Register and Brooklet. Judging from the records the Statesboro team is the best team in the county, however such records have a way of not standing up in a county tournament.

The Brooklet girls' team, playing in the Senior division have a first class team and Brooklet fans are pulling for them to come through with the championship. Nevils has a team that will be in the running.

No predictions can be made at all regarding a county basketball tournament, but this one promises to furnish all with enough thrills to last until the next one comes along.

The national, state, and county acreage goals under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation program will be broken down into farm allotments. The farm allotments will be determined in view of the size of the national crop needed to keep the supply of flue-cured tobacco in line with the demand.

"As soon as the individual farm allotments are determined by local and county committees and approved by the state office, farmers will be notified of their allotments for 1938," the agent said.

"If pending legislation is enacted, it is likely that the 1938 poundage allotment, or marketing quota for a farm under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program."

"Operators of farms for which a tobacco base was not previously established under AAA programs should report at once to their committeemen the following information:

"Tobacco acreage and production on the farm in 1935, 1936 and 1937, if any."

"The intended acreage of tobacco for the farm in 1938, if tobacco was not grown on the farm in 1935, 1936 or 1937."

The plans for the improvement of the field includes the providing of parking space for automobiles and the marking off of the field. There will be twenty six boundary markers made of metal shape cones painted a bright yellow. These markers will give pilots the boundaries of the field.

The total costs of the project will be $3,000. The city and county, as a city and county project combined, will have to put up $1,000, while the W. P. A. will furnish the balance of the cost. It is a Public Works Administration project.

Rise In Price Of Hogs Expected

County Agent, Byron Dyer, this week informed Bulloch county farmers that a rise in hog prices is expected in the next few months.

He said a report from the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics shows that the storage supplies of hogs are small now, and as usual many hogs will be slaughtered during this period.

"However, it is probable that a larger number of hogs will be slaughtered this summer than the small supply of last summer," the agent has pointed out. "For this reason the average hog prices likely will be lower during the summer months than at the same time last year."

"More feed was produced in 1937 than in 1936 and nearly as many hogs will be slaughtered under federal supervision this year. The average weights of hogs marketed during this period will be much heavier."

The agent said there probably will be about a 5 percent increase in the number of hogs farrowing this spring over the number that farrowed last year. This increase was not as large as expected in view of the present low level of hog production. And, too, there is a large supply of hog feed on hand and the hog-corn ratio has been high in recent months, he added.

Tobacco Acreage Allotments Soon

UNDER 1938 AGRICULTURE CONSERVATION PROGRAM, TO BE DETERMINED TO KEEP IN LINE WITH DEMAND

Flue-cured tobacco acreage allotments for farms under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation program will be determined at an early date, County Agent Byron Dyer said this week.

Josh Zetterower Recognizes Mule
Friend Lost 11 Years Ago

It is a wise mule dealer that knows his own mules and it is a wiser one who can recognize other people's mules after they have been lost for more than ten years.

Mr. Josh Zetterower who has been in the mule business for a long time and thirty years can recognize nearly every mule that he has ever sold. He states that they have "personalities" even as humans have.

Some eleven years ago Mr. Frank Fletcher lost a mule. It was either stolen or it strayed from Mr. Fletcher's place. He spent much time and almost as much money as the mule was worth in trying to find the mule. But to no avail. Mr. Fletcher gave the mule up as lost.

Last week Mr. Josh Zetterower was out at Mr. Houston Lanier's place trading mules and after looking at a couple of Mr. Lanier's mules came to a third one. After looking at this third mule he came on back to town. Feeling that he had found Mr. Fletcher's long lost mule Mr. Zetterower went out to Mr. Lanier's and saw if he could identify the mule. Mr. Fletcher went out to Mr. Lanier's place Monday and sure enough the mule was the one he had lost many years ago. Mr. Lanier explained that about

Welfare Council Hears Mrs. Couter

A MEMBER OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF CHILD WELFARE TALK ON CHILD BEHAVIOR. MEET AT DENMARK

Mrs. Ruby Couter, a member of the state department of child welfare, gave an address that was enjoyed by all attending meeting. She based her talk on the behavior problem of children and now a psychological understanding of children might rectify all these seeming maladjustments. Miss Couter's work will be done through the Child Welfare Council of Bulloch county.

Dr. H. N. McTyre, the county's new health officer, was introduced before the meeting was closed. Dr. McTyre announced that he would visit each school in the near future to administer the hookworm treatment. Miss Sue Hammock, head of the physical education of the Teachers College, gave a short talk, offering her aid to girls of the various schools of the county in directing physical education of any certain group. The head of the Child Welfare Council of Bulloch and Emanuel Counties gave a report on her work in the county.

The Denmark P. T. A. just before the adjournment of the meeting, invited the group to the lunch room where a chicken dinner was served to all. The next meeting is to be held at the Elsa school in April or May.

two years ago this mule came to his place and stayed there for some time.

No one came to claim the mule, so he advertised in the county paper that there was a mule at his place and the owner could claim it upon identification. But no one claimed the mule. So, according to law, Mr. Fletcher had the mule put up and sold or "strayed" as it is termed. He bought the mule in at $52.50. The funds paid for the mule were placed in the county treasury. The mule belongs to Mr. Lanier but Mr. Fletcher can only claim the $52.50 that Mr. Lanier paid to the county when he bought the mule some two years ago.

According to Mr. Zetterower the mule is about 18 years old. "She is getting grey in the face" said Mr. Zetterower, "but when I saw her I was sure that it was the mule Frank had lost more than ten years ago."

In answer to the question if he had sold her to Mr. Fletcher he stated he had not but that he was acquainted with her.

Mr. Zetterower cannot recall the number of mules he has sold or traded in his day but he did say that at one time he bought a number of mules at $400 apiece which is the highest price he has ever paid for a mule.

ORDER PEAS, VELVET
BEANS, PASTURE GRASSES

Ivanhoe community club members grouped their orders for peas, velvet beans, and pasture grasses at the February meeting Friday.

Before going into a business session the various members transplanted the many different kinds of native shrubs they brought from home to the grounds around the club house. Work done in landscaping the grounds last year is showing up but not sufficient to give the desired effect.

Following a discussion on the farm outlook for 1938 and the proposed farm legislation a dinner was served that was prepared on the outdoor stove.

HERE TOMORROW NIGHT

Tomorrow night the Statesboro Athletic Clubs basketball team will meet the Medicos of the Savannah City Basketball League, and Stables Hardware team will play the Jones Company's team here at the Armory.

This will be the first time that members of the Savannah League have come to Statesboro to play the Athletic Club which is a member of the Savannah organization.

The Medicos are as yet undefeated in the league, and have a good grip on the top place because of the fight the other teams are putting up to stay near the top.

The Statesboro A. C. has played very good basketball this year and it is believed that they will topple the Medicos.

Jake Smith has consistently been high point man on the A. C. team. The Statesboro team has been making

REAL TEMPERANCE IS ATTAINABLE

By the end of this week or the first of next week the Ordinary of Bulloch county will know whether or not the people of Bulloch county wish to hold an election which will determine the conditions under which liquor will be sold within its borders.

There are more than thirty copies of the petition circulating in the county asking the Ordinary to call an election. If approximately 1650 of the 4,588 registered voters sign this petition then the Ordinary will call an election, the outcome of which will determine Bulloch's stand—either for a strict regulation and taxation of the liquor traffic or for the continuance of the uncontrolled sale of an untaxed product.

In an editorial written in the Atlanta Constitution last Sunday the writer so forcefully presents the entire situation that we reprint it in full:

"The substitution of a plan of strict regulation and taxation of the liquor traffic for the unenforceable prohibition law is a challenge to the people of Georgia—both those who feel that the use of intoxicants in any form is a serious moral offense and those who as earnestly believe that there is a proper place in the social scale for alcoholic drinks.

"That challenge is plain and unmistakable. It is a challenge to universal law observance—a universal recognition of the evils that can attend the liquor traffic—and to the responsibility of every right-thinking man and woman for the protection of those who are weak or lacking in moral stamina.

"With the adoption of a system of strict control of the liquor traffic there must come a new era of obedience and respect for the law in Georgia, not only in regard to the prohibition law but to all laws, respect for which has steadily grown less during the unfortunate and tragic era of prohibition.

"In these counties which, by the vote of their people, establish liquor stores, there must come entirely new conditions surrounding the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquors.

"The wet counties must not only put their own house in order in the control of the liquor traffic but they must cooperate in every possible way with their sister counties which elect to outlaw liquor. There must be an immediate end to the illicit and damnable bootleg traffic in dry areas.

It can be done, and it must be done, if Georgia, in keeping with the objectives and the ideals of both the dries and the overwhelming majority of the wets who are good and law-abiding citizens, is to resume the march towards the goal of temperance.

"If full advantage is to be taken of the new opportunity for temperance in living in Georgia, there must come a new and revolutionary attitude towards the purpose and use of liquor on the part of all good citizens of Georgia, whether they are in the ranks of the so-called wets, or dries.

"Those who feel that they have the right to buy and use liquor must realize that the bootlegger and his criminal cohorts must no longer be patronized. There will be liquor stores from which a law-abiding citizen can purchase good liquors. Even if the patronizing of these liquor stores should be more inconvenient or more expensive than continued trading with handlers of illicit liquor, no good citizen worthy of the name would let such causes lead him to be a continued abettor in prolonging the unspeakable conditions of the prohibition era.

"Those in public positions—mayors, county commissioners, judges and police officials—must guard against any possibility of the new liquor stores becoming objectionable places and must see to it that violators of the law are promptly arrested and sternly punished.

"At the same time the advocates of temperance—that great mass of earnest men and women who believe that liquor is a curse—must again resort to those educational programs which in the days before statutory prohibition saw the use of liquor steadily diminishing in Georgia.

"There is no more sacred task of minister, teacher and parent than to drive home at every opportunity the lesson of the evils of intemperance. Once again the pulpit must respond to the urgent pleadings for temperance; the children in our schools must be sound to the urgent pleadings for temperance; the children in our schools must be taught the devastating and destructive results of intemperance, and the hearthstone in the home must again become a gathering place where the members of the family will have impressed upon them the necessity for temperate living if the family and society as a whole is to go forward.

"There has been no more tragic phase of the experiment with statutory prohibition than the heart-rending and destructive schisms which arose in the church, in public life and even in the home. Christian has been arrayed against Christian, public leader against public leader, and father and mother against daughter and son.

If Georgia is again to face the goal of temperance all of this must come to an end.

"Those good citizens who believe that liquor has its proper, restricted place and those others equally good citizens who believe that in any form it is a damning influence, must present a united front in the determination to bring law observance back to Georgia and at the same time a new and convincing realization of the evils of intemperance.

"Real temperance is once more in attainable reach in Georgia.

"The broad highway to it has only two guide posts—law observance and moral education.

"No Georgian who does not cooperate—earnestly, sincerely and to the extent of his or her ability—in the campaign to bring back sanity, sobriety and temperance to the state, can lay claim to the title of good citizen."

WAITING FOR THE WORD "GO"

Evidently the ideal farm weather during January in Bulloch county issued a challenge to the farmers that there was work to do. The air was a-quiver with singing and the plowman's call was ringing to his team from early dawn to twilight. The swelling shoulders of the mules were pressing in the collars at least twelve hours daily. The will and wind were as sound as a dollar.

A view of these fields today show that one and all are about ready to sow the spring seeds for cotton, corn, peanuts, soy beans, peas, watermelons, vegetables, and the other many crops usually planted. Not during the past five years have local farmers been so near ready to plant their entire crop so early in the spring.

The doubt as to what course to follow with their crops still worries the farmers. However they have not let these hazzards stop their desire to get their farming under way. They realize that the epic of life at this season of the year is a thing to renew.

When definite announcement is made relative to the details of the farm legislation for 1938 these farmers will proceed with procuring their fertilizer and the lacking seed to plant the crop. Practically every foot of land that is to be planted in 1938 is turned and ready for final preparation of the seed bed.

We still would like to see right turns on the red light made permissible.

Congratulations to Post Master Groover and his post office staff for their excellent record for the year 1937.

Our Roaming Reporter is about to break up the population of Bulloch county. He will soon have us all packing up our earthly possessions and trailing off to Hot Springs.

Yesterday the little Col., who by the way is "reducing," and your reporter held a "thankful" meeting all by ourselves, when we read in the Little Rock Gazette that, according to the Comptroller of Arkansas, the "bonded indebtedness of the state HAD BEEN REDUCED TO $159,066,993.14" and the added, with some degree of pride that "the reduction ($4,212,939) was the greatest ever made in any 12 months period in the history of the state." "Mac" said the Col., "that sounds like what me and you owe," and started me right back running up that old blood pressure.

However the Col. and I have decided to make token payments on our indebtedness this year. "If England can," we reasoned, "why can't we?" And besides you can get tokens out here 10 for a dime . . . So why not go British?

WELL, THE LITTLE COL. MADE GOING in a big way yesterday, where he introduced to the city with his tree that, according to the records lived, bloomed and had its being a mere matter of 260,000 years ago. Something like two or three miles out from the city are two dams impounding the water, that, after being treated, and cleaned provides the city with its supply of water. Of course these thousands of visitors consume the output of hundreds of springs, water that flows from various and sundry springs, each noted and advertised for some peculiar healing element. It is supposed to possess this so-called medicinal water is bottled and delivered each day in half and gallon jars and is sold at so much per week, the average price being about $2 for a half gallon bottle each morning. Large trucks equipped similar to our Coca Cola trucks stop at the various hotels, boarding houses, and apartments every morning, and solicitation is made of new arrivals. These waters, however, are not used except for drinking, and naturally there is the city water system. This water is impounded in two lakes, where it settles and from them is pumped into a huge storage tank atop one of the highest peaks just west of town, from where it flows by gravity down the city mains. About a hundred feet from this pumping station, just below the Coca Cola plant, there is a famous "tree project" something like ten feet from a rock mountain. Before I go further and for fear of damaging my already seriously impaired reputation for clinging to the truth, I am going to quote verbatim the tablet attached thereto.

This cross section of what is alleged to be a petrified Fir Tree (genus Abies—the family conifers) has been visited by thousands of people. In the year 1912 a noted scientist, a visitor to Hot Springs, described several weeks to a study of its formation. His conclusions were:

Species of tree . . . Fir Height . . . 700 feet
Diameter . . . 64 feet
Age Living . . . 3600 years

The white formation of about four feet from the center was the growth during the heated period 260,000 years ago.

"I know what the truth may be," I tell the tale as told to me.

And with that little couplet, appended by some skeptical soul, I give you what I saw. Like that timid soul, I know not what the truth of the whole matter may be, but I do know that this cross section is the finest reproduction of a tree, absolutely complete as to heart, annual rings and bark I have ever seen. There she lays (or lies) just as she felt that unbelievable time ago, when tired of the continual burden of fighting the elements, and with one great resounding boom she nestled her leafy crest on the friendly pillow of a nearby mountain. And there in the days that were to come Mother Nature gradually turned her body, not into salt, like the Biblical story of Mrs. Lot, but into impenetrable and imperishable stone.

How many of the giant pine now growing in every cranny and nook of that stony peak are her kith and kin, only the imaginative mind of men can conjecture, but more than likely many of those trees now have sprung, many generations removing, from the seed of that monster of the long ago. It would take a less imaginative human than your reporter not to stop here on the convenient bench and ponder over the probable history of this relic of days so remote that mere mind fails to comprehend them. What of its history? Its life . . . its death . . . the animal kingdom that rested under its friendly shades . . . the seasons it knew. What of it all? What? What? What? And as I sat there and meditated on this thing we call age . . . this Kingdom we call man's, I could not help but recall those immortal words of the Psalmist: "What is man, that thou art mindful of him?"

Thoughtfully yours,
Roaming Reporter.

As a result of the advice of these experts, they were not selected by the counties, cities or sections but because these 400 applications indicated that they were the 400 best qualified.

"These 400 men stood physical and mental tests. Out of these 400 we selected the 100 who made the highest grades on physical fitness and intelligence. These 100 were called for our training school for Troopers.

"These 100 men were taught elementary law, history, civics, crime control, prosecution, taking testimony, safety psychology, traffic control, how to dislodge criminals from buildings or cars, how to be courteous even in the performance of the most unpleasant duty.

"They were taught to shoot straight and taught first aid, 30 hours of first aid instruction by the Red Cross being given.

"After a final examination the 83 Troopers who had made the highest average on these examinations were chosen for patrol duty.

"We have recently completed our personnel until we now have 120 of the finest men in Georgia in our state patrol.

"The Georgia State Patrol is only trying to do one thing—stop the killing on Georgia highways that is taking 21 lives a week. We would much prefer that the State Patrol be a preventative against violations and accidents than to make arrests. We are not out for any arrest record—we want to prevent violations rather than make arrests.

"In the last three months Troopers warned 5,300 motorists about minor infractions—but they had to make 621 arrests and of this number 257 were for drunk driving.

"These 257 drunk drivers are a good example of the fine cooperation being rendered by county officers and the courts of the state as well as city officers everywhere. 202 have already been convicted, 43 cases are pending and in the three months period only 12 of the 257 were acquitted.

BLUE MOLD REPORTED BY FARMERS IN THE SINK HOLE DIST.

Blue Mold has been reported to the county agent's office by several farmers in the Sinkhole district.

Officials reports show that the disease has appeared in Cook county. Bulloch county farmer are urged to be prepared to combat the disease with the known remedy. Red copper oxide, lethane spreader and cotton seed oil will cost about $3 per hundred yards for the season. These materials are available at most of the drug stores and many of the stores in the communities over the county. Detail methods for mixing and applying the materials have been demonstrated in most communities. However, farmers that did not attend one of the meetings or want a printed form giving the information may procure a copy from the county agent's office.

The Bulloch Herald has carried the information in detail. If the copies of these papers are still available, this information is identical with that in the farm agent's office.

fast your car will go, and brags that his will do 80 or 90 miles per hour, ask that man this question:

"How fast will your car stop?"

"Ask him if he knows that at 30 miles an hour it takes 73 feet to stop a car even if the brakes, tires, driver and the road are all in good condition.

"At 40 miles per hour it takes 115 feet to stop and at 50 miles an hour it takes 166 feet.

"And when you ease your car over 70 miles an hour it takes the whole length of a football field, 300 feet, to stop even after you see the danger."

Mr. Sullivan suggested to the members of the Rotary club that they organize a Safety Council. He pointed out that here was an opportunity to take the lead in a community service such as is worthy of Rotarians. He suggested that such a service might begin in the club and then carried into the schools and in the home.

Mr. Sullivan had with him two of the State Troopers with him who are stationed at Swainsboro.

FARM TO FARM

By Byron Dyer

Mrs. W. C. THOMAS finds that winter days are ideal for repairing all the farm outbuildings.

Although W. C. NEVILLE found law to be calling on a vacation his boyhood life on the farm still holds to him enough to cause certain phases of the farming business to be his avocation. The purebred Duroc Jersey hogs he is breeding will serve simply to give a diversion from his regular business. The quality of hogs he is breeding is something he can justly be proud of.

HAL ROACH hopes to market the majority of the cotton he would have raised in some 40 pigs prior to the fall drop in prices. The purebred Angus cattle he has will come in for some of the farm income.

H. A. DUPONT'S business interest is primarily poultry and poultry products but he also finds hogs a profitable avocation. The 12 head he has been feeding out recently gained two pounds each per day for more than 40 days. At seven months old the 12 pigs weighed 2300 pounds. During the last five weeks they were on feed the gain paid for the feed and Mr. DOTSON a little more than $1 per day labor income.

If you are going to buy purebreds buy the best there is, then you will have something that you can justly be proud of, declares Joe G. Hodges. Two Duroc girls he has are a credit to any community and would go a long way in any show.

P. G. Stewart finds that topping the hog herd every few days and selling off the hogs as they reach top weight not only is profitable in the farming business but distributes the farm income.

Living-at-home was very much in evidence at Pete Newsome's home a few days ago when the weather was cold. Pete had several large hogs hanging up that most farmers would have been carrying to market.

Doris Cason finds that a little concrete and a few bricks will add materially to the appearance of a home if properly built into a set of steps, porches and walks.

Henry Williams thinks that a man never gets too old to start an orchard. He is sure that some of the trees will be here longer than he will but declares that it is only fair for him to provide some fruit for others to repay for the apples, peaches, plums, cherries, etc., they have given him. He has more than 100 trees started of the various fruits.

Statesboro Boy Receives Recognition For Activity in Y. M. C. A. Work

In a recent issue of The Nashville Tennessean, of Nashville, Tenn., a story was published, written by Red O'Donnell, about a young man who is doing a great work. The interesting feature about this story is that it is about a "home town boy" it is a story of a young man who is dealing with youth. A young man who is having a part in the building of character.

Gilbert McLemore, the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. McLemore, is the "home town boy making good in the city." Gilbert is the Director of the Boys Work in the Nashville, Tenn., Y. M. C. A. He finished high school in Statesboro and went to Vanderbilt University for four years and added special work at the University of Chicago.

The story as it appears in the Nashville paper is as follows:

"Under the able supervision of Gilbert McLemore, the Y. M. C. A. has recently inaugurated several new novel classes in its boys' department. "Probably the most popular is the wood-turning instructions taught by Walter Bell, Vanderbilt student."

"Eighteen boys are in this group, which meets on Monday and Friday and is allowed to do extra work, in some instances."

"A perusal of the records in Secretary Ernest Spain's office reveals that more than 300 youths, ranging from seven to 17 years, are enrolled in the many classes under McLemore. Of this group more than 100 are of the under-privileged type and are sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and other civic organizations. Those that aren't sponsored get a free ride through the generosity of Spain and his aides."

LIKE THE RADIO

Second to the wood-turning work in popularity is a class in amateur radio. Willis Brockman, former clerk on a ship line which did business in the Caribbean waters, handles these lessons and the quota of 24 is full with a large group on the waiting list.

"Other subjects are leathercraft taught by Rooms Goodloe, special swimming for beginners by Brockman, wood carving and model-air-plane building by Marion McDonald, basketball, also by McDonald and last, but not least among special courses in the band under the direction of John Kendall. The organization is composed of 40 pieces and has performed at numerous shows and before several luncheon clubs."

"In addition to these features the regular gym classes and other athletic are included. Plan for a gigantic ping pong tournament are now being formulated."

McLEMORE'S RECORD

McLemore, former principal at the Wadley, Georgia, High School, is a cousin of Henry McLemore, United Press feature writer and a brother of Morris McLemore, Vanderbilt lineman. "Gilbert went to Vanderbilt for four years and later underwent special training at the University at Chicago and the Georgia State Teachers' College."

"The foregoing may sound like so much baloney, mind you we only say it may be it struck the Tennessean as unusual and worthy of mention that many boys who ordinarily would be roaming the streets or in some sort of mischief, were interested in beneficial projects, thanks to the Y. M. C. A.

"You take those two little newsboys in the accompanying photograph. In between editions they frequently participate in one of the many events and classes, which is a lot better than shooting cigarette butts dodging autos of begging."

Supt. Wollet Receives Letter Of Congratulations

RECOMMENDS THAT VOCATION-AL DEPARTMENT TO INCLUDE SHOP WORK AND INDUSTRIAL ARTS BE ADDED

In a letter received from Mr. M. R. Little, State School Supervisor, Mr. C. E. Wollet, Superintendent of the Statesboro schools was congratulated upon the well organized condition of the city schools, this year.

The letter included several recommendations for the betterment of the school. The letter in full is quoted below:

I wish to congratulate you upon the well organized school that you have this year. I found both buildings in excellent condition and the rooms well supplied with state textbooks and teaching equipment. I was glad to find that your library had been improved and that you still had further plans for enlarging your library to relieve the congestion in the reading room.

I wish to make the following recommendations:

1. A vocational agricultural department to include shop work and industrial arts should be added to your course of study.

2. A Home Economic Department should be added another year, as you are not getting some students who want to come to Statesboro from the two-year high schools in the county as they have no way of completing the vocational courses that they have begun in the smaller schools of the county.

3. The boys' toilet in the high school building should be given immediate attention, as this has been in bad condition now for several months.

4. The lighting in several of the rooms of the grammar school building should be checked over as there is insufficient light. Artificial lights should be placed in room 5b, as there are not enough windows in this room and some of the students show eye strain from the lack of sufficient vision.

5. Continue to beautify your school grounds by the addition of trees and shrubbery, as you have made an excellent start along this line.

Yours Very Respectfully,
M. R. LITTLE,
State School Supervisor.

Blue Devils Are Big Favorites To Win Basketball Tournament In Brooklet This Week

STATESBORO HIGH SCHOOL ENTERS COUNTY TOURNEY A STRONG FAVORITE

The Statesboro High School basketball team enters the Bulloch county basketball tournament the favorite. The tournament will begin on Thursday, February 10. The Blue Devils' first game will be with Register. Register has succeeded in defeating the Statesboro team one time.

The Blue Devils have defeated all the teams that are entering in the tournament with the exception of Register. Register when they defeated the Statesboro team did so to the tune of 21-20. It is a strange quirk of fate that these two teams will meet in the tournament. The Blue Devils will be gunning for that bunch from Register. According to the dope sheet the Registeries are due for a merry ride, but dope sheets do not count in tournaments.

The Statesboro team has the best record of any team in the county. They defeated Stillmore, 32 to 21; and Brooklet 23 to 20, and 22 to 15. Brooklet has defeated Statesboro once, 22-14 and Statesboro won from Nevils 30 to 12, Portal, 22 to 8 and lost to Register 20 to 21.

COLLINS DEFEATS STATESBORO HIGH BLUE DEVILS 32-23

Thursday night of last week the Statesboro High quintet dropped their third successive basketball game to Collins to the tune of 32 to 23.

This was the worst defeat that the Blue Devils have had to date, with the exception of the Savannah High game.

The Blue Devils maintained a lead in the Collins game until the beginning of the second half. Collins came back after the intermission and soon took the lead. The Statesboro five were helpless against the attack of the visitors.

Emerson Anderson led the Blue Devils with seven points and Beasley accounted for six. Smith scored four points and Kemm ran up four points.

BLUE DEVILS LOSE TO HINESVILLE HIGH 19 TO 17.

Statesboro High lost to the Hinesville High quintet last Thursday night in Hinesville by the narrow margin of two points. The score when the final whistle sounded was 19 to 17 in Hinesville's favor.

Big Frederick Beasley again led the Blue Devils in accounting for 8 of the 17 points made. Emerson Anderson trailed along with 6 points.

This is the second game in succession that the Blue Devils have dropped. It might be attributed to their

BLUE DEVILS TAKE STILLMORE BY SCORE OF 21-18

The Statesboro High School eagle quintet hit their stride again last Friday night after they had gone down in three straight defeats. The Blue Devils whipped Stillmore 21-18.

The game was a nip and tuck affair throughout. Stillmore had a very fast team and they gave the Blue Devils a tough battle.

Stillmore had a one point lead late in the fourth period and it looked as though they were going to hold it and come out on top but Coach Johnson sent Cliff Purvis into the fray and Purvis sank a beautiful shot that dampened the spirit of the Stillmore boys and from there on the Devils had there say so to who was going to win the ball game.

BOOKLET HIGH QUINTEET FEBRUARY 28-26

The Brooklet High School basketball team proved it's real caliber on Friday night of last week as they defeated the strong Benedictine Academy team of Savannah by the small margin of two points, 28-26.

The game was a close one from the start to the finish. Brooklet gained an early lead and they held on dearly to this lead throughout the entire contest. Benedictine repeatedly threatened to overtake the small lead but the Brooklet boys were on their toes and it just could not be done.

Brooklet fine and outstanding floor-work was the main factor in their winning the game. The boys showed excellent passwork and were sinking all of their shots.

Clifton, playing center, was the leading scorer on the Brooklet squad with a total of 14 points, half of the total amount of points that the entire Brooklet team scored. Thomas Hill was accredited with two points. Clark got five, Smith made three, and Baile four.

Causes Voice to Change

One's voice is influenced by the voices he constantly hears. This is especially true with children who are quite imitative. However, many teachers of speech believe that the vocal cords become tense or relaxed according to differences in climate and that for this reason the enunciation and quality of the Southern voice tend to be less tense than the Northern voice.

Mrs. Ben A. Deal spent Thursday in Vidalia as the guest of her daughter, Miss Brunelle Deal.

Ms. J. V. Tillman has returned home after a visit to relatives in Savannah.

Statesboro High Wins County Basketball Tourney

Defeats Brooklet By One Point

Register Girls Win First Place; Westside And Ogeechee Win

In the finals of the Bulloch County Basketball Tournament held in Brooklet last Saturday four teams came out victorious in one of the best tournaments ever held in Bulloch.

Statesboro boys and Register girls were victorious in the Senior division and the Westside girls and the Ogeechee boys were winners in the Junior division.

Over 1200 fans saw the games, with 284 Bulloch school students participating in the games.

The Register girls provided the only upset in the finals by noosing out the Brooklet girls by one point. The score was 25-24. Both teams played superb basketball and without a doubt was one of the best girls' games that the Bulloch county basketball fans have had the chance of seeing. The Westside girls defeated Warnock in a one-sided affair to win the Junior division title. The score was 25-9.

The Ogeechee boys eked out a one point victory over the Warnock boys in another close game. The score was 23-27.

The final game of the tournament was between Statesboro and Brooklet for the Senior boys' title. The game was both interesting and exciting. Statesboro defeated the Brooklet team 17-16. With only thirty thirds to play Tim Ramsey sank a foul shot that broke the tie and gave Statesboro the one point advantage. The Blue Devils held to this point and thus won their first Bulloch County basketball tournament title.

In the opening round of the Bulloch County Basketball tournament which was held in Brooklet last Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Statesboro defeated Register by the very small margin of one point. In the last 30 seconds of play, Fredrick Beasley, who had not seen much action due to an injured knee, sank a beautiful foul shot to break the tie and give Statesboro the one point margin to win the game. The game was close throughout and was the best game of the opening round. The final score was 22-21.

There were ten games on the opening day of the tournament with the Warnock girls defeating Leefield by the small margin of two points. The Elsa girls easily defeated the Denmark girls 30-10 with Miss Hood of the Elsa squad scoring sixteen of the thirty points made. Another game that might be compared with the Statesboro-Register game was the game between the Middleground boys and the Warnock boys in which the Warnock boys won by a single field goal. The final score was 29-24 in favor of Warnock.

The Brooklet girls beat the Portal girls in such a manner that they were trying to convince the fans that they were the Olsen Redheads successors. They easily whipped their opponents 24-9 with the second string playing the majority of the time. The Lee-field boys handled the Westside boys in a very easy manner in defeating them 35-13. The Lee-field boys were just too much for the Westsiders. In the last game Thursday afternoon the Nevils girls had things their own way with the Register team. They won by the one-sided score of 37-18. Miss Alderman accounted for 19 points for Nevils.

In the first game Thursday night, the Elsa boys won a close game from the Denmark boys by the score of 17-15. The game was rather slow throughout. The Brooklet boys supported by a large crowd of rooters defeated the Teachers College Training School in a one-sided game. The score being 27-7 in favor of Brooklet. Buile the Brooklet boys with seven points. Clark accounted for five.

In the next game the fans got their money's worth. Statesboro defeated Register 22-21. This game was without a doubt the best game of all of Thursday's games. After Statesboro defeated Register, Stillson, one of the strong contenders for the Senior title

It is through these organizations that "dirt farmers" expect to crystallize their thoughts pertinent to various farm problems, particularly state and national legislation that affects them, and speak in one voice.

In discussing the objectives of the United Georgia farmers, Mr. Stiles said:

"We are proud of our history, and jealous of our heritage and determined to procure, preserve and protect equal opportunity for our children who may remain on the farm in the years to come. With these ambitions in mind we are therefore joining hands one with another to secure those fair objectives. We expect to attain our ends by means of education, discussion and joint group action. We are sympathetic to the problems concerning individual commodity groups, but we believe our best interests preclude active participation in cooperative marketing or purchasing schemes. We understand and appreciate that all who live on the farm, both tenants and landowners, have only the great problem of equality of opportunity for agriculture." Mr. Stiles is from Cartersville, Ga.

Approximately 70 counties in Georgia are already organized in this movement.

THERE WILL BE NO INCREASE IN TOBACCO GROWN SAYS W. E. COBB

Mr. W. E. Cobb stated this week, while in Statesboro, that it is his opinion there will not be an appreciable increase in the amount of tobacco planted in Bulloch county this year. He made his statement after a ride through the county and talking with a great number of the old tobacco growers. He said that without exception they are all planning about the same amount as they did last year. He said that the beds this year are larger than they were last year but this was because the growers wished to be sure of plenty of plants, remembering their experiences of last year when they suffered from the lack of plants due to the prevalence of Blue Mold in the beds.

Farmers To Meet With Math L. Logue At Lee-field

LAST OF MEETINGS OF SERIES DEALING WITH HOG PRODUCTION. MEETINGS HAVE PROVEN INTERESTING

A farmers meeting will be held at Lee-field School tonight for the purpose of discussing a year-round grazing program for hogs. This meeting will conclude the series of meetings dealing with the hog production. Every farmer interested in this subject is urged to be present. It will be of particular interest to those interested in reducing the cost of producing hogs by supplementing grain feeds with a grazing crop. There has been a great deal of interest shown in the previous meetings of the series.

These meetings are sponsored by the Department of Agricultural Education for the benefit of farmers.

At these meetings all subjects of interest to farmers are discussed. A great deal of good has been derived from these meetings by the farmers of the county. The meetings are conducted by the farmers themselves under the direction of Mr. Math L. Logue, who is working with the State Department of Agriculture.

Mention has been made of the problem of treating cotton seed with Creason to prevent seedling wilt that often occurs during the cold, damp spring season when the cotton is just beginning to come through the ground. This will probably be the subject of the meeting tonight, however the subject will be governed by the interest of the greatest number present at the meeting.

The first program of the series will be held in connection with the sale scheduled Thursday, February 24, at 10 a. m., when ample hogs will be available for the demonstration.

Dr. J. C. Ruffensperger, swine sanitation specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture and Jones Purell, extension swine specialist, will discuss the factors pertinent to quality and lower feed cost per pound.

Dr. Ruffensperger has visited the county once before and several farmers have seen his work in progress at Moultrie. He is the outstanding authority on swine sanitation in the state. Several farmers that have visited his plant urged the organization to bring him to the Bulloch county farmers at the very first chance.

The meeting will be held at the Bulloch Stock Yards on the Central of Georgia railroad. Farmers interested in helping to improve the quality of hogs being moved from the farm to the packers are urged to attend the meeting.

SAMUEL W. LEWIS

YOUR ROAMING REPORTER

Early one morning, years ago, I happened to drive up town from my Zettrower home to find little knots of early-rising citizens gathered here and there. The night before, I had attended a business meeting in Savannah, returning home to a late bed-time, and knew nothing of the happenings of the night, when a countryside had been swept by a tragic cyclone, leaving in its wake a distressed area of dead and dying citizens. In the peaceful days that followed we were able to heal most of these signs of sorrow and heartache and I had fervently hoped such sights of desolation would never greet my eyes again. Consequently I was stunned on Tuesday morning of last week when I arrived in town once again, this time from my county home, to find almost identical signs. Groups gathered here and there signified some disaster had befallen our people, and I stopped at the first group, a handful of farmers at McLenore's sale, to learn of the sudden death a few minutes before of my friend . . . and your friend . . . Sam Lewis.

I think it was Orville McLenore who told us the details and if I remember correctly it was Johnnie Brannen who first remarked: "Boys, Bulloch County has lost one of its best men. I believe it could have easily spared a dozen men like you and me and missed them a lot less." And that was the verdict, not only of Johnnie Brannen and that little knot of farmers gathered in the early morning, but of every little group formed all that day wherever men gathered throughout the length and breadth of Bulloch county. No recent death of a Bulloch County citizen has within my knowledge, evoked such widespread and genuine interest. For in all sincerity Bulloch county had lost a friend and every man and every woman realized it. Whatever else Sam Lewis had accomplished in these short years of his life here, he had never lost touch with the common people. He rejoiced when they rejoiced, he wept at their grief, he sympathized at their misfortunes. In these days since he has been gone have come to light hundreds of stories of his multiplied kindnesses, deeds of true greatness and sympathy, sympathetic service he had rendered his fellow men at times they were in need. Quiet, honest and sincere, he was a fellow who never let his right hand know what his left did, who never performed a selfish act in his life.

Sifted from all the fine stories of his unselfish life, I believe the finest one came from the lips of an ignorant negro boy. Somewhere he had heard, but hadn't understood just who the people were mourning. "Cap'n" is dat de Mr. Lewis who salls dem Fords," he asked. "Yes, James, that is who it is," I replied, asking him: "Did you know him?" "No sir, Boss I didn't know him, but my papa did, 'member allus when my papa run out uv money ever year he'd go to Mr. Lewis an he'd help us." And somehow it has seemed to be the general tribute of Sam Lewis. "When we'd need help he'd helping hand . . . the dependable friend, Who of you have ever needed a friend in some time of great stress? Who of you have ever hunted a real, honest-to-God friend among the multitude of 'acquaintances' you had counted your friends? If such there be . . . and I imagine there are plenty . . . you must admit that not only the almost unknown negro kid back of the hills, but likewise the widow and orphan, the people of Main Street, and in fact all of us have lost a friend.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for a friend." Sam Lewis' great heart could not help but accumulate some of the millions of worries he heard each day from those who sought his aid and counsel. A man of lesser sympathy, of meaner heart, would have cast aside the worries borne to him with the ending of each day, but not so Sam Lewis. Some part of all those stories of distress and troubles we so eagerly told him found lodgment in that great sympathetic heart of his . . . and they finally so over-loaded him that something had to give away . . . and the physical man snapped.

Physically, he is gone . . . gone from us forever. But the world is a better place because Sam lived in it, and no man could have known him as he went modestly about the world "just doing good," without being a better, nobler human being. A great pile of marble will never be needed to mark his memory, for he built his monument in the hearts of men, and while men may forget where Sam Lewis died, they will never forget where he LIVED.

YOUR ROAMING REPORTER.

BULLOCH COUNTY'S LOSS

In the death of Samuel W. Lewis, a real personality has gone from Statesboro and Bulloch county. Savannahians who enjoyed his acquaintance condole with the neighboring community in the loss of a foremost citizen, who during a quarter of a century's residence there had greatly contributed to the progress and stability of the community's commercial, civic and religious life.

Mr. Lewis' strong character and business capacity brought him into a commanding position as a banker. A banker must be hard-boiled on occasion. But Mr. Lewis tempered this necessary severity with human qualities that appealed to all those with whom he had dealings. During the recent period of depression this unusual combination of traits was conspicuously evident. If a customer was in distress, Mr. Lewis wanted to know that he was handling his affairs competently. If he was, then the banker was ready to nurse him along and see him through. There was no disposition on his part to follow the methods of the sharpshooter who is looking for a chance to force a distressed business to the wall in order to pick it up at a bargain.

In the business affairs with which he was called to deal, his shrewdness and his power of conciliation paid large dividends. These qualities were evident in all his activities. His advice was valued by political and civic leaders, as well as by business men. This section can ill afford to lose a man of Mr. Lewis' high caliber.—Savannah Morning News.

FARMERS, FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS

Do you ever stop to wonder if there is a foundation for understanding, even friendship, between the farmer and the city man?

The man in Statesboro wants to get his butter and eggs as cheap as possible and the farmer from out in the country tries to get the highest price possible for what he sells. And if two people get together there will surely be the question of government-controlled prices, crop control and . . .

Townsmen and countrymen can be friends. In a recent issue of The Rotarian an article tells how communities succeed in bringing about this friendly relationship between the countryman and cityman. The question resolved itself into the simple problem of getting the farmers and the city folks together. A number of farmers were invited to a regular meeting of the Rotary club in one town. Other clubs have "farmers' nights." Others reach the farmer through farmer's sons who are members of Rotary sponsored 4-H Club projects.

Civic clubs' interest in such matters develop spontaneously. They should realize that Statesboro does not stop at its city limits. They should not assume or take for granted that the farmer is Statesboro's friend. Let's show him that we are genuinely interested in a lot of things outside the office and shop door, and we discover that the farmer has done a lot of thinking about things besides farming.

On this editorial page, in another column appears an open letter received from Mrs. Mamie Hall Porritt of Hong Kong. The letter is written from Shanghai and is dated January 8. In it Mrs. Porritt gives a vivid description of some of the events in the Far East.

Mrs. Porritt has recently been made Managing Director of the Intercontinent Corporation (China), Limited of Hong Kong.

Open Letter From Shanghai

By Mrs. Mamie H. Porritt

Shanghai, Jan. 8, 1938.—The shouting and the tumult die along with the year 1937. I suppose we should count ourselves lucky that we didn't die with it and are still alive to tell the story. About the only consolation I can get out of it all is that it will serve for conversation in the years to come, although I will not deprecate Shakespeare by thinking of it as "pleasant conversation." The war—at least the fighting—has moved away from Shanghai, but the suffering and misery and fear and hopelessness and starvation and disease are still with us. Honestly, I think I could, with much less forbidding, join up with Mr. Capone's boys than go home at night to a comfortable apartment and enjoy the amenities of the streets filled with suffering and great humanity. If that is the price to be paid for building up a great Japanese Empire, I'll take cannibalism!

The problem of caring for these refugees is overwhelming in its magnitude. Right now it is as cold as blazes in Shanghai and the boxes and old newspapers are being used for beds. Even so 3,000 people sleep on the streets last night in below freezing weather. The Salvation Army goes around every night with a "rice box" and gives bowls of hot rice to the people who can find no shelter. There are many refugee camps, but like Willie's trousers, there are not enough of them. The German community is doing grand work in providing soy bean milk for babies in the refugee camps. Each baby gets a pound of soy milk a day and I believe it costs something like one cent per pound. At present the capacity of the factory is only 5,000 pounds per day, but they hope soon to have it up to 15,000 pounds, and the babies will be enough for all the babies in need of it.

To my way of thinking there is no lot more Christian mercy in that than turning the other cheek when smitten by one's enemy. Father Jacquinot should have a front seat in heaven—if there are any going—for he has arranged a safety zone for 200,000 refugees, and what is more is looking after them. People who can speak Chinese and go along to the camps to teach both the children and grown-up people, and that may be one ray of hope in all this wilderness of hopelessness. A committee of foreign and Chinese women is turning out 30,000 padded garments a month. Any kind of old clothing is used and a Chinese mill is

Our own future, of course, depends on what happens to Shanghai. The Japanese "open door" policy is "open" only for Japan. My heart will wither like a dishrag if we have to force China forever, but that is what will happen if the Japanese get control of everything, which they are rapidly doing. In spite of all the foregoing we have had a good time during the Christmas and New Year holidays. We figured that life out here now is worth about twenty cents and as much as well enjoy it if we could. And if I don't stop this letter and get down to some work you will probably be seeing me soon in Statesboro with a shawl over my head and my clothes tied up in a bundle.

Lots of love to you all,
Devotedly, MAMIE.

MY MARKET PROJECT

By Dorothy Blackstock

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The story below was written by Dorothy Blackstock, of Jackson county, the winner of first place in the 4-H Club Girl's division of the Georgia Farm Women's Miscellaneous Marketing Contest for 1937. This account of her marketing project is offered in the hope that it will stimulate interest among other club members in the 1938 contest, which will again be sponsored by the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service, in cooperation with a group of six Georgia banks.)

The market project may mean much to a boy's or girl's future; many times it is what they make from their market that gives them an education. The market project teaches you to be a good salesman, or in other words, knowledge. It is a great economic loss to teach one how to make good and not to teach one how to efficiently dispose of goods. This at the present time is the weakest point in our economic development.

During my three years of 4-H club work, I have been doing some work in the market project. The first year I started with a garden and two turkeys. Later in the year Daddy gave me a calf, from which I raised a cow and a calf. At the end of the year I sold eight turkeys, which averaged about two dollars a piece. I sold a few vegetables and fruits that I had raised myself.

The second year I got an earlier start and I had more to work with than the year before. I planted a larger orchard and had more vegetables; than I had in the year before. I sold had my cow and calf which I still had at the end of the year. Daddy gave me a horse in the winter and I am now raising a little pony. Every one that sees him wants him. I wish you could see him.

My third year of 4-H club work in 1937 was the most interesting of all. This year I had one acre in cotton, turkeys, a vegetable garden, orchard, horse and colt. My vegetable garden supplied my family with fresh vegetables and plenty for sale. My garden also supplied enough of vegetables for canning. I had plenty of fruit for home use, for canning and for sale.

From my cotton patch I made 20 dollars. I would have made more, but we were in the drought-stricken area. The reason I decided to have a cotton patch was that in the spring a business man in my home town told me if I would get Daddy to give me an acre of land that he would give me fertilizer. The offer sounded too good to turn down. My expenses on this acre of cotton were nothing, for I sold it and Daddy plowed it. I helped him in his field.

This year I will have 20 turkeys for sale, that is, if the dogs do not destroy them. As soon as I deliver these turkeys to my customers, I intend to put the money in the bank to help me with my college expenses. They should bring me $900.00.

With this market project, I have been carrying out other projects in my 4-H Club, such as the cooking project, clothing, home improvement and canning. For the past two years I entered the money I received from my marketing project. The first year I won first place in the county, but lost in the district contest held in Monroe. This year I represented my county and district in the State 4-H Style Fave held in Macon. Although I did not win first place, I was in the red ribbon group.

I think the 4-H Club is a great thing for any country boy or girl. I hope to continue my work and to strive "to make the best better." The market project has helped me in many ways, it has taught me to be a better salesman as well as a better buyer. It has taught me better methods of raising fowls and animals, it has kept me from having to ask Daddy for money. It has also been a pleasure to do this market work and I hope to continue to carry out the work and to urge others to do the same. It has helped to teach me to make friends.

SUPT. SAXON AND SUPT. WOMACK VISIT NEVILS SCHOOL

Harold J. Saxon was accompanied by Supt. H. P. Womack when he visited the school here last Wednesday. Mr. Saxon was here to inspect the high school department of the school. The Nevils School has applied for consideration as a senior school on the accredited list of high schools.

It develops that one of the major hindrances in obtaining this listing is the unpaid salaries of the teachers which are in arrears for more than two years, over which the school has no control.

Supt. Womack has promised that this will be cleared up and in due time Nevils application to the list will be approved.

SCHOOL SUSPENDED FOR BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT AT BROOKLET

School at Nevils turned out on last Thursday at noon for the basketball tournament at Brooklet. Nevils entered two teams and many students went to the tournament and gave the team their very best support. We lost three of our boys who were the best players on the team but our students gave an excellent demonstration that "good sportsmanship" is more to be desired than a game won.

CHILD HEALTH AND WELFARE COUNCIL MEET

Mrs. Ruby Coutu, psychologist for the State Child Welfare Service made a talk to the Child Health and Welfare Council which met Tuesday evening, February 1 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McDougald with Miss Sarah Hall as joint hostess.

Mrs. Coutu told how intelligence tests might be a guide in understanding children, who because of low mentality, make a poor adjustment in the school and because of bad behavior are thought to be mean. For such children Mrs. Coutu suggested special classes which offer handwork and other activities which would stimulate the child's mind to its fullest capacity but not expect it to compete with the brighter child.

Mrs. Coutu will hold clinics in the child welfare demonstration centers over the entire state. She plans to return to Bulloch county in a short time.

SMITH'S--THE ORIGINAL OIL-BURNING Tobacco Curers

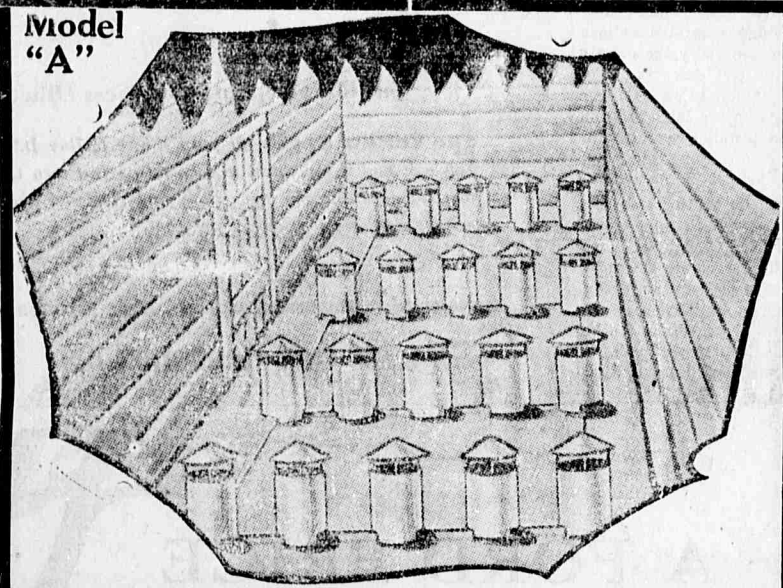

FORREST H. SMITH

Oil-Burning Tobacco Curer.

The Most Widely Used and the Most Universally Satisfactory Oil-Burning Tobacco Curers in the World!

Model "A"—The most widely used of any oil burning tobacco curer.

The Device That Revolutionized The Curing Of Tobacco

Model "A" the first successful—the original—oil-burning tobacco curer ever built is, in our opinion, the most efficient mechanism ever devised for the curing of green leaf tobacco. Each burner is an individual unit within itself, which, according to all reasoning, when burning produces a more evenly distributed heat over the entire barn.

Model "D" next to model "A" proved to be the most popular curer offered to the public last year. Made of a heavy grade of galvanized steel and of a rigid type of construction, it offers many advantages not afforded by other "grouped-burner" systems.

FOR REFERENCE!

As space will not permit the listing of the many hundreds of testimonials in our possession, may we point out that one of our curers has been used for the past three years by the Georgia Coastal Plains Experiment Station, Tifton, Ga., and by the following, a few of the many hundreds of satisfied users:

Mrs. D. Percy Averitt entertained delightfully with a bridge party Friday afternoon at her home on Zetterwood Avenue. The Valentine season was suggested in the prizes awarded and in the attractive score cards. Bright mid-winter flowers effectively decorated the home.

Mrs. B. L. Smith received a blooming red geranium for high score, and Mrs. Lloyd Brannen was given a similar prize for second high. The consolation prize, a heart shaped box of Norris candy, went to Mrs. Z. Whitehurst. After the games Mrs. Averitt served a delicious salad and sweet course. Other guests were: Mrs. H. F. BRADLEY CIRCLE ENTERTAINED

The mail carriers have been busy, the telephones buzzing, and everyone (including the husbands) has been full to the brim with curiosity. What could it all mean?

"Please come to the Bullock Drug Company Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Come without a hat and wear the enclosed ribbon pinned upon you. And beware lest you forget."

So on Friday afternoon twenty-two ladies of the Bradley Circle met at the Bullock Drug Store and on their arrival a red Valentine heart was placed upon them, and a frozen coca cola was served each. No one knew to whom they were indebted. Partners were matched, and the telephone rang, and a voice said, "If a group of ladies are there, please ask them to walk to the New Norris Hotel."

What could it mean? Who could it be? Upon reaching the hotel the ladies were invited into the dining room and were served cocktails carrying out the Valentine colors. Again partners were drawn and once more the telephone rang, and another voice directed, "Tell the ladies we are expecting them at No. 7 Mikell street." At this Mrs. Roy Lanier nearly fainted knowing that it was her house, and that there was no one at home. But the crowd obeyed the directions. At Mrs. Lanier's they were greeted by Mrs. Sidney Lanier and Mrs. Harry Branson. Here they were served frozen salad and gingerale. Attractive Valentine place cards containing red suckers were used. Love letters were written to be used later in the journey. But it was time to move on. Again a different voice said, "Come to 24 Jones Ave." And there the secret was out! Upon entering the home of Mrs. Kermitt Carr, the ladies found tables covered with red paper and a red candy heart upon which was written "Whitman's". Here they were served heavenly hash, pound cake and coffee. The love letters were read, and hearts were drawn containing the verses in pleasing rhyme. Everyone left saying, "I knew it all the time. That Billy Carr."

SHAD SUPPER

Mrs. and Mrs. W. G. Groover were hosts Friday evening at a shad supper at their log cabin eight miles south of Statesboro. Enjoying the occasion were: Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Cone, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Layton, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Bradley and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Oliver.

JUNIOR R.A.'S GO ON HIKE TO LOVERS HILL

The Junior R. A.'s of the First Baptist Church enjoyed a hike Saturday February 5, conducted by John Phelps, Jr. Breakfast and lunch was cooked by the boys in the open. Each boy cooked his own meal. Woodcraft and games were enjoyed.

BRILLIANT VALENTINE DANCE

One of the most brilliant affairs of the past week was the Valentine Dance given Friday evening at the Woman's Club by the Girl's Cotillion Club with their husbands or dates as invited guests.

A color scene of red and white effectively carrying out the Valentine motif was used in decorating the club room. The rough stone mantel was eclipsed with streamers bearing red hearts. These hearts inscribed with white letters formed the words "Girls Cotillion."

Notable among the dances was a Valentine Dance which concluded with the couples drawing Valentines from a box. The last couple drawing received the prizes. Robert Donaldson and Dorothy Brannen were the winners. Mr. Donaldson received a heart-shaped box of Norris' candy and Miss Brannen received two small plants.

During the intermission the guests were entertained at the Norris Hotel with Mrs. Wendell Burke, Mrs. Robert Donaldson, Mrs. Bill Bowen, Mrs. H. F. Arundel, Miss Dorothy Brannen and Miss Martha Donaldson as hostesses. Sandwiches, cake, cheese, popcorn and coffee were served.

JUNE CARR CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

On Tuesday afternoon thirty-five little tots were entertained by June Carr in celebration of her second birthday. The large backyard was turned into an outdoor living room with rugs, pillows and chairs everywhere. A sandpile with toys of all kinds was enjoyed during the afternoon. When the guests arrived they were greeted by a line of balloons dangling within reach with large red suckers hanging between the balloons.

Later in the afternoon, orangeade, cake, ice cream and sandwiches were served. Mrs. Carr was assisted by Misses Hazel Hines Smallwood, Frances Groover and Mrs. Sidney Lanier. The following ladies called by for tea: Mrs. Herbert Kingery, Mrs. Harvey Brannen, Mrs. D. C. Proctor, Mrs. A. L. Waller, Misses Nell Blackburn, Ruby Lee Jones, Irene Kingery and Menza Cumming.

COCA COLA PARTY FOR VISITORS

HEART DANCE PARTY

One of the loveliest social events of last week was the seven table Heart Die Party given on Thursday afternoon by Mrs. J. S. Murray honoring her sister, Mrs. J. L. Joyner, of Augusta.

Narcissi, primrose and japonicas formed effective decorations for the rooms in which the guests were entertained. A lovely navy bag was given Mrs. R. L. Cone as high score; a hand painted linen towel was won by Mrs. Dew Groover as consolation. The floating prize was a Valentine box of candy. Mrs. Murray presented the honoree with a pair of luggage tan gloves.

Miss Winifred Johnson assisted the hostess in serving a delicious salad course in which the Valentine idea was carried out in every detail

Mrs. Stothard Deal was hostess on Saturday afternoon at a lovely bridge party at her home on South Main St. A color scheme of red and white was adopted emphasizing the Valentine season. The flowers used were japonicas and narcissi.

Mrs. Emil Akins made high score and received a piece of cook's ware. Mrs. Sidney Lanier received a piece of linen for cut.

Delightful refreshments consisting of tomato aspic, sandwiches, cookies and a cold beverage were served at the conclusion of the games.

TRAINEES R. W. CAMPBELL AND J. W. LAWTON AT WORK

Upon completion of farm surveys made by trainees R. W. Campbell and J. W. Lawton, it has been found that very few farmers keep accurate records of expenses and receipts, therefore in selecting jobs that will be of most benefit to the farmers, this one holds a leading place.

First District Basketball Preliminaries At Brooklet

Begin Thursday
February 17

FINALS WILL BE PLAYED IN STATESBORO ON FEBRUARY 24, 25 AND 26 WITH SIXTEEN TEAMS PARTICIPATING

The preliminaries for the First District Basketball Tournament will begin Thursday, February 17, and will continue through Saturday, February 19. The preliminaries will be played in Brooklet on the Brooklet High School gymnasium floor and will be composed of both B and C division teams of the lower section of the district.

The teams that will compete in the tournament at Brooklet are, B. Division, Brooklet, Port, Hinesville, Glenville, Waynesboro and Statesboro. In the C division, Guyton, Hay Branch, Pembroke, Newington, Ludowici, Register, Ways, Springfield, Marlow and Stillson.

In the opening rounds of play on Thursday Springfield will play Marlow at 2 P. M. Guyton plays Hay Branch at 3 P. M. Newington plays Ludowici at 4 and Register meets Ways at 5 o'clock. Thursday night at 7 o'clock Brooklet and Port meet and 8 P. M. Statesboro plays Waynesboro.

Following the Statesboro-Waynesboro game, Stillson, who drew a bye, will play the winner of the Springfield-Marlow game and after this game, Pembroke who also drew a bye will play the winner of the Guyton and Hay Branch game. This arrangement was made in order to prevent so many byes being given and it necessitates the playing of two games in one day by the winners of the Guyton-Bay Branch and Springfield-Marlow games. Hinesville and Glenville drew byes in the first round and therefore do not play until the second round which will be held Friday. The third round (finals of the preliminaries) will be played Saturday night.

defeated Nevils by the score of 26-13. Stillson had little trouble with the Nevils squad and they showed that they were in the running.

SECOND ROUND

In the second round of the Bulloch county Basketball tournament eight teams advanced to the finals. All the games were won very easily with the exception of the Brooklet-Stillson game. The game between these two teams was the best of the entire schedule on Friday.

In the Junior boys' division, Warnock defeated Leafield by the small margin of two points, 22-20. The Ogeechee boys had little trouble in tumbling Esia into the rank of defeat by whipping them 36-20. In the Junior girls' division, Warnock very easily whipped Denmark 21-9. Westside went into the finals by defeating Esia 22 to 15.

Brooklet and Statesboro advanced to the finals in Friday night's game by defeating Stillson and Port respectively. Brooklet had a hard time in disposing of the stubborn Stillson quintet but finally won by three points. The score was 23-20.

The Statesboro boys, favorites to win the tournament had little trouble defeating Port 26-9. Three of the Statesboro boys played in action in this game at all.

In the girls division Brooklet, the favorite, advanced to the finals by disposing of Stillson 35-14. The Brooklet girls displayed some wonderful playing in the game and won handily. Register had little trouble in defeating the Statesboro girls in a very one-sided score 46-4. This was the worst defeat of the tournament.

FARM TO FARM

Carrying a few hogs to market every week or so is one form of insurance against failing to find something on the table we ordinarily can't raise on the farm, declares GEORGE M. MILLER, marketing farm products in this manner makes MR. MILLER feel like he is on a regular salary instead of getting all of his farm income at one time.

R. F. DEAL finds it advisable to keep sows that pay for their keeps. From four sows he kept last year he sold $500 worth of hogs and then enough meat for home use.

Forms Needed In Quota Planning

Plans For 1938 Farm Program Being Worked Out

COTTON AND TOBACCO GROWERS ARE URGED TO FILL OUT WORK SHEETS TO AVOID ANY TROUBLE IN THE MARKETING QUOTA

Plans are being worked out for determining county quotas under the 1938 farm program. E. L. Anderson, chairman of the county committee, says that there are still a few farms not covered by a 1937 work sheet. He urges all farmers that have not already filed a work sheet either in the spring of 1937 or recently to fill out one of these forms in the county agent's office immediately.

The state office has certain forms necessary for part of the work ready now and by February 26 all the county forms will probably be completed. Farmers not filling work sheets will probably have some difficulties getting a marketing quota established for the special crops, like cotton and tobacco.

Mr. Anderson also points out that farmers planning on planting tobacco for the first time in 1938 should file their intentions before Saturday also, so as to make certain the county committee can ask for a marketing quota. This would also cover farms where tobacco is being planted on the land for the first time in 1938 even though the farmer on the land had planted tobacco prior to 1938 on some other land.

Farmers complying with these requests can save themselves and the county committee some rather serious trouble when marketing season comes on.

At its regular Monday luncheon meeting the Statesboro Rotary club the board of directors announced that Dr. A. J. Mooney had been elected president of the club to fulfill the unexpired term of Mr. S. W. Lewis who died two weeks ago. Mr. A. M. Braswell was elected to serve on the board of directors.

Miss Hester Newton of the Teachers College talked to the club on the history of Georgia. She stated that there is more to Georgia's history than appears in history books and that for Georgians to become aware of the greatness of the state they should become acquainted with the romance, the planor and the facts surrounding the settling of the state.

The Rev. Mr. Clyde L. Jardine recently moved here from Douglas and Mr. Logan of the Savannah Rotary club were guests of the club.

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY EMPLOYEES WIN HONORS IN SALES CAMPAIGN

Employees of the local Georgia Power Company office took part in the "Electrical GUY" campaign recently conducted by the Power Company. B. F. Grubbs, Statesboro district manager, Miss Ann Williford, cashier, C. C. McCollum, clerk, F. F. Baker, lineaman, and W. L. Hall, repairman were among those winning top honors.

LOCAL BEAUTICIAN WILL STUDY IN NEW YORK

Mrs. Gracie Aldred Jarriel will leave Sunday for New York City to attend the Wilfred Academy. Mrs. Jarriel will specialize in hair cutting and hair setting with special attention to the shape of the head and face. She will also spend three days in the Nestle Laboratory studying hair under the microscope.

Miss Georgia Belcher of Brooklet will be at the Co-ed Beauty Shop during the absence of Mrs. Jarriel.

James Robert Gillette, distinguished organist, composer and conductor with his Chamber Orchestra of ten artists in a program which unites the electric organ and orchestra will be presented next Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the South Georgia Teachers College.

Mr. Gillette has long been recognized as one of America's virtuoso organists. With the advent of the electric organ he began experiments with the organ and a Chamber Orchestra consisting of flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, French horn, 1 and 2 violins, viola, cello and contrabass. His success was instant. Ten artists of national reputation will be presented with Mr. Gillette.

The concert will be the last of a series of lyceum numbers at the South Georgia Teachers College for the 1937-38 season. Admission will be 25 and 50 cents.

BASKETBALL, THE COUNTRY BOY'S SPORT

Two weeks ago the county schools finished their county basketball tournament at Brooklet. More than 1500 fans saw 26 teams play 36 games in three days. More than 150 boys and girls participated in this tournament.
Last week end saw the preliminaries of the First Congressional District tournament. This weekend will see the finals of this tournament.

The Teachers College has just completed a twelve game schedule, playing all over the state. The High School Blue Devils has just finished its regular schedule and each school in the county has played its complete schedule.

It is obvious that the rural communities are spending more on this one sport than they do on some of the "vital" educational courses. And what a grand thing for the country and town boy that this is!

Basketball is one of the youngest sports of all—and the most popular. More persons either play or watch it than any other form of athletic activity on the globe. Last year there were 80,000,000 paid admissions at basketball games in the United States, as compared with a total attendance of 50,000,000 at baseball games, and 40,000,000 football admissions.

There are many regions where the communities go literally basketball mad during the three winter months. Young folks, old folks, pack gymnasiums two or three nights a week, to forget their cares in watching an hour or so of this fast, clean sport.

Although it has flourished in the cities, too, basketball has always been peculiarly the country boy's sport. Not many players were needed, nor much in the way of equipment. Old lodge halls, armories, vacant store buildings and tobacco warehouses were converted into courts. It is a game that is not limited to a few brawny heroes. In nearly every school in the county nearly every boy plays basketball. He begins with the first day of school.

We thank the inventor for giving us such a game. Vital educational course, indeed! But! who wants to be vital all the time? Some of us are just mean enough to stick out our tongue at the learned educator and rejoice, openly and wickedly, that basketball is moving into more comfortable quarters.

And may Statesboro learn a lesson from Brooklet regarding its basketball quarters.

SYLPHILIS, LET'S STAMP IT OUT!

When we go to a hospital we expect everything to be scrupulously clean. We want the satisfaction—we demand the satisfaction of knowing that our food which we eat while there, is absolutely clean, that it is prepared by cooks who are regularly examined to see that they are clean. We know that the linen on our bed is clean and that the rooms of the hospital are kept clean by clean help. We know these things are so because the hospital must have it so.

But when we go home we are prone to become lax in our demands regarding these things. We are not saying that we keep clean homes . . . but—DO WE KNOW POSITIVELY, THAT OUR COOK, OUR WASH WOMAN, OUR HOUSE GIRL, IS ABSOLUTELY CLEAN?

Listen . . . Approximately 12 per cent of the colored people in Bulloch county are syphilitic. In a survey being made by the County Health Doctor, in which 51 tests have been made, seven were found to be strongly positive for syphilis. Each one of these seven becomes, at large, a fountain literally packed with dynamite. And it is quite possible that one of these seven works for us.

Syphilis has always been something one did not talk about. It is not "nice" conversation. It has been something which the newspapers had, until recent years, admitted but overlooked.

What is syphilis? Putting it in the simplest form, it is an organism in the shape of a corkscrew known as "spirochaeta pallidum." Its nature was not known until about 1893. It is believed to have been brought to the Western hemisphere by the sailors on Columbus' boat.

Syphilis may make its appearance in the form of a sore caused by the entry of the "spirochaete" into the blood streams through any minute break into the skin. This sore may heal and for a long period of time the organism may lie in a latent condition in the body, then in the disease's second stage take the form of a rash of various sorts breaking out over the body, followed by another latent period during which the infection is apparently quiescent for a varying number of years. Then follows the "tertiary period" in which the disease assumes its most malignant form. In this stage it attacks the bodily organs and is almost, if not completely incurable.

It is agreed that syphilis can be stamped out. If, after tests reveal syphilis, a doctor sees it may be cured.

We now have the Ellis Health Law Unit in Bulloch county and with the cooperation of the city, the county and the people in the county and city this deplorable disease can be, if not stamped out, controlled.

Let the council pass an ordinance requiring all domestic servants, all handlers of food in public eating places be examined and given a clean bill of health. If no clean bill of health can be given then require that one to see his family physician and receive treatment that will, if not to far developed, cure that one.

Then we can have the same satisfaction in our hospital.

DOOMED FOR DISCARD

(From the Mill News)
We are wondering if there would not be any mention of the removal of the state capital to Macon at this session, when lo and behold it appears, but like the Bergin bill, it seems doomed for perpetual discard.

Have you, at night, had to stop for a red light and had to wait 30 to 45 seconds to make a right turn and not a car, coming or going, in sight? Even if you are not in a hurry.

Congratulations to Hubert Alford and James Rushing, Bulloch county 4-H club members, on receiving awards for excellent work in their 4-H club projects. When working for ones self one does a better job of that work and recognition follows naturally.

The Fine Arts Committee and its chairman, Mrs. J. O. Johnston and its secretary, Miss Eunice Lester are to be congratulated in bringing to Statesboro and Bulloch county the paintings by members of the Savannah Art Club. The exhibit included twenty-five pictures which were on exhibition at the Woman's club and at the Bulloch County Library.

With the decision of Bulloch county officials and the citizens interested in the collection of taxes to hire a tax collector our attention is called to the financial situation in Brooklet.

The mayor of Brooklet has made it a personal matter, that of collection of taxes, and has succeeded in putting Brooklet in fine shape. Brooklet is debt free. They have paid off all their bonds and now have a good balance in their treasury. So—it can be done.

The Rotarians have organized a Safety Campaign and will select a Safety Council at its next meeting. It works in such a way to make each member his own officer, his own judge, his own jury, and his own exhorter. When a member breaks safety rules he reports the matter himself and pays the fine set. The funds received from such fines are to be used in promoting Safety in the community. If every automobile driver and every pedestrian would conduct his own personal safety campaign it would not be long before automobile driving would approach the pleasure it might be.

THE BULLOCH HERALD WEDNESDAY, FEB. 23, 1938

CLIPONREKA CULLINGS By Your Roaming Reporter

Well for fear that the Hon. Jack Murphy takes us to task for writing Hot Springs oddities long after we've taken up eating at home with the Missus, as he did last summer when we kept writing from Montreat long after we had hauled him over the coals about upping our taxes, your Arkansas traveller just came to spring any more tall tales from the fur country except to say that we left there. Maybe a few trite observations along the way home might be of interest, especially to the gang of hoodlums who were out there last spring any more tell tale from the phony jewelry they missed the grand sights on the road back. (And by the way, there is still the matter of the red-headed gal who sent kisses to Able and John Everett by your reporter. I know she wasn't silly enough to think she was going to live with a person, but anyway I was game and took plenty for both. But don't try to get them boys—nuthin' doing!!)

But since so many of you have never travelled the route and those nit-wits who did were so busy repenting and making up lies to their trusting wives, I just can't help but outline some of the interesting sights along the road. The thermometer said it was 20 that morning and as we had our bath at 100 degrees and crawled from that steaming tub into Col. H. D. faithful old "shadeng" and out onto the road, we never questioned it being that cold. Honestly it seemed like the coldest day in history and as the day grew along it got colder—if that was possible. Our trip home was just about the same as Byrd's trip to the South Pole, except I know Byrd didn't run into it that cold. It was the first time in my life I remember seeing ice from daylight to dark. All day from time to time little skiffs of snow fell, but it was so god-damned cold the snowing machine froze and even after the thermometer got down to 10 and if you don't think that's cold, just try a teaspoonful some time . . . it didn't snow any more. I think it was about that time that chunks of ice as large as Will Green sells for a nickel began covering the already snow covered earth. Honestly, I never saw so much ice before in my life, except in an ice house.

About the first time we thawed out enough to laugh was just outside of Little Rock when a Burma-shave couplet on a sign board announced to a waiting world that: "Burma girls in Mandalay, down bearded lovers in the bay. Just for that I made up my mind that some day when I feel especially rich, like Lennie Rushing for instance, I'm going to buy a tube of this noted shave cream. I've been laughing at these roadside couplets long enough that I ought to buy at least one tube kinder as the price of admission. And Little Rock is a fine town, if anyone asks you, and if they don't it still is a fine town and they have a bridge there—(across the Ouchita river, I think) about as long as from Statesboro to Brooklet. (That is the estimate of the Col. . . you know my diet doesn't permit drinking, even in cold weather). Later on the really and honestly goodness we crossed the White River and the fill or causeway on the eastern side of the bridge was apparently about twenty feet high and measured 8-3-4 miles in length. From Little Rock its just miles and miles and miles to Memphis. The miles are as straight as a plumbline and twice as flat as a dancefloor, while on the right is cotton and too the rear is cotton. It just doesn't seem possible that so many miles could be covered with so much cotton, all of it made without fertilizer and averaging about 1-1-2 bales to the acre. Occasionally one sees a pretty home, but mostly it is a succession of huts. In and around Lonoke one sees quite a lot of rice but mostly it is just cotton.

Somewhere amid these miles we run smack dab into an already growing household. But our stay in Montreat was mighty brief and with a last long fleeting glance at the snow, which had been on the ground so long it was beginning to look flea-bitten, or as the Col. said: "Kinder dusty," we jumped to the beautiful valley of the Tennessee river as it wandered into and through Chattanooga. You know out at our house we are "jes go folks," but if Uncle Henry ever leaves us that million, we're going to borrow the trailer from Bro. Beaver and fill it up with all the little reporters, AND THE BIG ONE, and make a less vigorous trip along that Tennessee river. It's just about the most beautiful trip we have ever seen. In good hot coffee that cold day in January. "Twenty miles," the swell blonde who waited on us and who had her name embroidered in the collar of her dress, told us to Memphis and if any of you guys and gals don't think the Col's "shadeng" will travel just try filling him up on a gallon of hot coffee and two pounds of barbeque and watch him make the road sizzle. When he stuck his foot down on the accelerator it stayed down like when Bro. Beaver lays his tiny toes down on one.

Memphis looks like, and is, a real city. My first recollection was a magnificent looking establishment right on the river bank, about the size of a piano box, with a sign about the size of a big read, "ARK FISH CO., L. D. Noah, Prop. Cat Fish a Specialty." My second was about a half a dozen of the world's largest steel bridges—clung about half way to the sky across one of the world's biggest rivers, they appear to have steel enough in their construction to run the world's steel mills for a generation. We merely gave Memphis the high sign, passing enough used cars in five adjoining lots to furnish one for every man, woman and child in sixteen states. Honestly it doesn't seem credible that they will ever sell all of those used cars, but if they do that magnificent four lane highway will furnish them with the finest place to try out their speed and gas mileage in the country. Just where this super-highway begins and ends is interesting to a group of the most magnificent church and Sunday School buildings we had ever seen, and you can imagine the thrill this roamer got when the tablet on the building told us it was the Idlewild Presbyterian church. Your reporter decided then and there if we ever got a call to that church we were going to accept.

Riding like the wind on that 325 mile trip toward Chattanooga, we ran across a stretch of machine froze, extending east from Memphis, where erosion had done its "dun-dun-dun." Honestly the road appeared washed away, and it is going to take several generations and many an hour of honest toil to restore what a careless people let the falling rains wash away. About sixty miles of the Col's hot foot found us in Bolivar, (Tenn.) a town that looked as if it was old when Noah built the ark . . . then Savannah (10,000 Pop.) and Waynesboro (ten innumerable little "blow-post" towns sand just at nightfall, we came to Pulaski. Altho everything in Pulaski appeared to be frozen solid, some ten thousand citizens still lived there. Pulaski is a great mule center, and according to the village oracle, who ate supper at our table, Josh Zetter-ower, Gaines Boyd et cetera, must be right. Mr. King Solomon in person informed us that "good mules walk mighty skase" and when we got down to figures he said a good pair of three year olds could be bought right out at the farms for "from four to five hundred" dollars. For varied reasons, some of which were financial, we spent that night in a tourist camp, where we got as nice a steam heated cabin, with bath, twin beds, fresh laundered linen, Beauty Rest mattress and etc. for the magnificent sum of $1 each, and a garage thrown in free for nothing. These roadside accommodations are doing things to accomodate hotels, and I don't mean maybe!

About four o'clock G. M. Friday found two sets of itching feet rarin' to rest again on Bulloch soil and about four hours later we were wading the snow on Montreat, Tenn., where by a grand fire we loaded the human engine with more hot coffee and a few yards of fresh sausage just for good measure. It was there we met the real village oracle who, upon learning we were from Georgia, took up to the window and pointed out the exact hotel in which our Senator "Dick" Russell first saw the light of day. "Every summer," he explained, "the Russells spent at the assembly at Montreat," and during one of their annual visits Dick was added to an already growing household. But our stay in Montreat was mighty brief and with a last long fleeting glance at the snow, which had been on the ground so long it was beginning to look flea-bitten, or as the Col. said: "Kinder dusty," we jumped to the beautiful valley of the Tennessee river as it wandered into and through Chattanooga. You know out at our house we are "jes go folks," but if Uncle Henry ever leaves us that million, we're going to borrow the trailer from Bro. Beaver and fill it up with all the little reporters, AND THE BIG ONE, and make a less vigorous trip along that Tennessee river. It's just about the most beautiful trip we have ever seen. In

To The Ladies By Adelaide Barnett

(Editor's Note: Beginning this week this column will be a weekly feature. It is written by a Statesboro woman and will be about and for Statesboro ladies. It will contain something of interest to every woman, every week. Begin it now and read it every week.)

Ladies, I want to make this corner our special meeting place. I'm going to choose from the letters you write to me, the next few weeks, one to be quoted here. Who's going to be the first?

Let's get acquainted through this recipe, in which we are all interested. If you have a better one won't you pass it on:

HOW TO PRESERVE A HUSBAND

First, get one, not too young, but tender. Make your selection carefully and let it be final. (Otherwise they will not keep.) Like wine, it improves with age. Do not pickle or put in hot water, (this tends to make them sour). Prepare as follows: Sweeten with smiles, according to variety. The sour, bitter kind are improved with a pinch of salt of common sense. Spice over a good fire of steady devotion. The poorest varieties may be improved by this process and kept for years in any climate.

OVERWEIGHT?

If you are a least bit overweight: Here are some suggestions about your spring and summer wardrobe. First, materials. We have a large and varied selection to choose from. If your choice is a print you can't do better than a navy or black background with a very small design, or the same background with a fairly large (never really big) figure, widely spaced. Vertical stripes give a trim appearance as do solid colors in the deeper shades. Second, style: Keep your neckline plain, put the fullness in the sleeves. A slightly flared skirt with a three gored back, gives a good line, also the center seam in your skirt front.

The suggested materials can be had in ready made, or in piece goods in wash silks, linens, cotton prints, and any number of newer materials. Have you noticed the printed linens and piques that are being shown in our local stores. They are inexpensive too.

If you go in for making your own clothes you will be pleased with the new, low priced patterns. Only 15c and they really fit.

Try one of the new tooth powders for your children, as young as three years, they love it. It's like to tell you the names and where you can buy them, if you will write and ask.

Chinchilla is the last work on fabrics for sport coats . . . three-quarter length, box coats with no-button fronts . . . as low as $5.95, and in our local stores too.

We are beginning to see tempting looking boxes of luscious, red strawberries in our grocery store windows . . . reminds us that our own crop will be coming on soon. Here is our favorite recipe for using strawberries:

STRAWBERRY PIE
1 cup of milk
2 tbs. of flour
2 eggs
1-2 cup strawberries
1 pie shell (baked).

Scald the milk . . . mix sugar, flour and beaten egg yolks, add this to scalded milk and cook over boiling water until thick. Set aside to cool. Put fresh berries in cold baked shell. Over this pour the cooled mixture. Make a meringue of the egg whites, adding 2 tbs. of sugar. Cover pie and brown in quick oven so as not to let the berries heat. Whipped cream may be used in place of meringue.

Don't you have a "favorite" too? Be friendly and let us try it also. I promise to print as many as I can.

DID YOU KNOW—

That you can make a beauty mask or pack at home for only a few cents? Let me tell you how.

That a bride should never be congratulated? One wishes her the greatest happiness and congratulates the bridegroom.

That we welcome your letters of criticism?

That anything we suggest we will gladly tell you where and how to get it?

That we will be seeing you next week?

fact we could easily fill a dozen columns writing about the scenery along the famous Will Cummins highway, but in deference to the missus, who has just called from the next room to ask if we suppose nobody else ever "took a trip" we're going to give you a much needed rest. And that means good night and God bless you. Your Roaming Reporter.

NEVILS NEWS

D. B. TURNER SPEAKS AT NEVILS P. T. A. MEETING

A regular meeting of the Nevils P. T. A. was held Thursday afternoon, February 17, in the High School auditorium. One of the largest crowds in the history of this organization was present. Mr. D. B. Turner, editor of the Bulloch Times was the principal speaker of the afternoon. One of his topics was making friends with the receipt for making friends was based upon three facts, first, tell no one anything they don't want to know, second, tell no one anything they already know, third, talk about no one until they are gone. Mr. Turner in a very pleasant manner kept his audience in smiles, interspersed with ringing laughter, throughout his address.

Miss Jane Franceth gave to this interested audience some very appreciative facts about the splendid work being carried on throughout Bulloch county, using Nevils as an illustration. She divided her address into the following fields, leading, Health, Music and English. She showed her delight in the favorable accomplishments from each field of work.

Preceding the addresses mentioned Mrs. C. J. Martin led the devotional and Miss Edna McLaughlin, one of the teachers gave some interesting facts on the life of Mrs. Theodore Birney, and Mrs. Ruel Clifton, gave a splendid reading on P. T. A. work. The Altar ceremony of candle lighting in honor of Founders Day dedicated to Mrs. Theodore Birney, the first president of a P. T. A. was very beautifully and systematically carried out. The characters representing, Wisdom, Fame, Love, Light and Work were beautifully gowned in long white transparent robes and were played by Misses Elizabeth Proctor, Hazel Davis, Lounell Futch, Edith Iler, and Hazel Anderson. After the program there was no time left for the business part of our meeting so the guests were invited to the library by the hospitality committee where a delicious course of punch and cake was served.

Sixty nine guests were present at this meeting, and more than half this number visited the class rooms before school dismissal.

TENTH AND ELEVENTH GRADE GIVES WEINER ROAST

On last Thursday night the tenth and eleventh grades entertained with a Weiner Roast at Booth's Pond near Register.

About twenty-five were present to enjoy the feast. Each class member had permission to invite one guest. A very good time was reported by all who attended the party. Mr. E. D. Bell was chief cook and chaperon, and evidently most prominent "eater" as no one was employed as "taster" for the occasion.

CHAPEL PROGRAM GIVEN AT NEVILS SCHOOL

On last Wednesday morning Miss Van Landingham and her sixth grade presented the most inspirational and educational program in chapel. The program was an exhibition of the important things that really happen in February, and the historical dates that should be observed, including the birthdates of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington and the children's holiday that means so much to the "Valentines Day."

Jack Proctor acted as the master of ceremonies and Uldine Martin had charge of the devotional exercises. She was assisted by Supt. Britt, leading in prayer. The song, America, was the song for the general assembly. A few of the school patrons were present.

GRADE MOTHERS ENTERTAIN ON VALENTINE'S DAY

The grade mothers of our school entertained several classes last Monday in honor of St. Valentine's Day. Valentine parties were enjoyed in the lower grades. Most of the rooms of the school enjoyed a "Valentine Box." Little favors, candy, cookies and some beverages were served to the youngsters. A little program in keeping with the holiday was presented in some of the classes. The story of St. Valentine was told to familiarize the children with the purposes of the celebration. Many valentine tokens was exchanged.

NEW BOOKS LEFT THE SCHOOL

The school service man for the Bulloch County Library, Mr. Holliday, visited our school Thursday, and left us several new books. We appreciate this service very much and we en-

NEVILS GIRLS WINS HONORS

The many friends of Miss Miriam Bowen of the 10th grade of the Nevils High School department are very glad to extend their congratulations on her new office as secretary and treasurer of the 4-H Club County Council. The 4-H Club officers of the eleven clubs in the county met recently and organized a County Council. This council will hold six meetings a year on the first Saturday of alternating months.

GRAMMAR GRADES PREPARING PROGRAM FOR FEB. 25TH.

On Friday, February 25, the teachers of the grammar grades will present a program in the high school auditorium. This program promises to be a culmination of the units of work that are being carried on throughout the grades. This program will begin promptly after one o'clock and there will be no admission charged. Each teacher will be held responsible for ten minutes of this program. The Grade Mothers organization, a branch of our local P. T. A., is sponsoring this program. The public is cordially invited to come and enjoy a free program. Some of the outstanding hits to be presented will be "Pete's Home," "Health," "Holland" and the other interesting points. Be sure to be on time, and share in the judging by applauding. The audience will be the judges.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION FOR MRS. F. H. FUTCH

One of the most enjoyable social events of the season was the birthday dinner, last Sunday, February 13, given in honor of Mrs. F. H. Futch. A real feast was enjoyed and those enjoying this occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Latimer of Savannah, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Futch and family, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Rushing and sons, James and Jerry, Mr. Leffler Futch and Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Futch.

Questions And Answers On Marketing Quotas

A great many cotton farmers are at a loss as to how to proceed with their planning. With this in mind we print here questions and answers issued by the Agriculture Department, for cotton farmers on the referendum to be held March 12, to determine whether they favor marketing quotas this year, and other provisions of the new farm act.

Q. Who will be eligible to vote?
A. All farmers who produced cotton in 1937.

Q. Who will be in charge of the voting?
A. The county soil conservation committee. It will select a voting place in each community and select local farmers to hold the referendum.

Q. Will the ballot be secret?
A. Yes.

Q. If two-thirds of the farmers taking part in the referendum vote for quotas, will they apply to states, counties and communities where they are not approved.

A. Yes, the cotton problem is a national problem and not confined to any state or county. Consequently, the quotas will apply wherever cotton is produced.

What Steps Will Follow

Q. If marketing quotas are approved, what steps will be taken to put them into effect on individual farmers?
A. The national cotton allotment proclaimed by the secretary of agriculture in terms of bales will be allocated to the states, in terms of the acres, which, with average yields, would produce the national allotment and the acreage allocated to the states will be apportioned to counties or administrative areas in the states and ultimately to farms.

Q. What is the total acreage which will be allotted to states, counties and farms in 1938?
A. Approximately 26,300,000.

Q. On the basis of average yields, how much cotton is expected to be produced on this number of acres?
A. Between 10,500,000 and 11,500,000 bales.

Quotas Explained

Q. How do cotton marketing quotas under the adjustment act of 1938 differ from the quotas under the old Bankhead act?
A. Under the Bankhead act each cotton producer received a poundage allotment and paid a tax on all cotton gained in excess of that allotment. Under the adjustment act of 1938, each cotton farmer will receive an acreage allotment, and all cotton produced on the acreage allotment may be sold without any penalty?

Q. Will marketing quotas apply to all cotton?
A. Yes, except that they will not apply to cotton with a staple length of 1-1/2 inches or longer, such as Sea Island cotton.

Q. How will the national allotment be divided?
A. The national allotment will be divided among the cotton growing states on the basis of the production in each state during the preceding five years, taking into account the acres diverted from cotton.

Q. How will the state allotments be divided?
A. Each state's allotment in terms of bales is translated into acres and divided among counties on the basis of the acreage planted to cotton in each county during the years 1933-37 inclusive, taking into consideration the acres diverted from cotton, but whatever additional allotment is necessary will be made to assure that no county shall receive less than 60 per cent of the sum of the acreage planted in 1937 and the acreage diverted from cotton under the 1937 program.

Division of Allotments

Q. How will the county allotment be divided among farms?
A. It will be divided among farms on which cotton has been planted in any of the past three years as follows: All farms which have not planted cotton during the years 1933-37 will receive as their allotment five acres and an additional amount which will bring the total allotment up to a percentage of the farm crop land (excluding acreage devoted to wheat, tobacco and rice) which will be the same for all farms in the county, or administrative area. Provisions are made for a small county reserve that may be allotted to farms receiving 5 to 15 acres under the above provision.

Q. Will farms producing cotton in 1938, but which did not produce cotton during any of the past three years receive allotments?
A. Yes, a small reserve acreage will be available in each state to be divided among these farms.

Q. Is there a limit to the acreage that may be allotted to a farm?
A. Yes, a farm on which cotton was planted in either 1935, 1936, or 1937 will not be allotted an acreage greater than the cotton acreage planted and diverted in any of these years.

Who'll Make Allotments?
Q. Who is charged with the responsibility of making individual farm allotments?
A. The county and community committees.

Q. What is the marketing quota of the individual farmer?
A. It is the cotton produced on his allotted acres, or the normal production on his allotted acres, whichever is the greater.

Q. What is the penalty for marketing cotton produced in excess of the farm's quota?
A. Two cents a pound on the excess production sold, to be collected by the buyer.

Q. If quotas are in effect, what is the disadvantage to a farmer if he knowingly plants cotton in excess of his acreage allotment?
A. He loses (1) all soil conservation payments, (2) his cotton price adjustment payments; and (3) the opportunity to obtain a loan on the marketing quota for the farm.

Q. Do all farmers have to pay the penalty on excess cotton?
A. No, the penalty does not apply to cotton produced on any farm which has received a cotton acreage allotment and on which the production is 1,000 pounds of lint cotton or less.

Provisions for Review

Q. What provision is there for a review of a producer's marketing quota which seems unfair to him?
A. Provision is made for appeals to a review committee of farmers other than members of the local committee which made the allotment.

Q. May marketing quotas be altered after they become effective?
A. The secretary of agriculture may under certain conditions, terminate quotas or he may increase by a uniform percentage the amount of cotton producers may market, in order to maintain a normal supply of cotton available. The act does not give the secretary the power to decrease the quotas.

Commissioner Head Orders Sheriff To Halt Liquor Sales

Liquor dealers in Bulloch county closed shop on Friday last week and are taking a holiday. One dealer stated that he was going to catch up on his fishing, adding that he had made arrangements for enough bait to last him for some time.

Their closing followed closely upon Sheriff Mallard's receipt of a copy of the order issued by State Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head, asking the sheriff's cooperation in preventing the illegal sale of liquor.

In Commissioner Head's letter to Sheriff Mallard he pointed out that "there may be persons engaged in the sale of contraband liquors who will seek from the state the right and authority to engage in the sale of such whiskeys and liquors when the same are made legal in some of the counties of the state."

"If these persons fail to comply with the order to discontinue the sale," the letter continued, "they have forever jeopardized any hope they may have to engage in this business legally in the state."

Head's letter further said if the order is complied with and the places where liquor is sold are closed, "we do not contemplate the seizure of the stocks on hand."

The new county option law just adopted provides that upon petition of 35 per cent of the registered voters of Bulloch county the ordinary may call an election.

According to newspaper reports on Sunday, an injunction petition, have been signed by six residents of the Bulloch county and two of adjoining counties in an attempt to prevent the ordinary of Baker from calling an election in that county. The signers of the injunction contend that there was no provision for doing this in the question in Governor E. D. Rivers' call for the special session of the legislature which voted last year.

Thus, they charge the law permitting ordinaries to call elections upon petition of 35 per cent of the registered voters in given counties is unconstitutional.

Farm To Farm

F. C. Rozier thinks that if the blue mold spray has proven satisfactory under test tobacco growers should use it as recommended. He started spraying several days ago.

C. A. Posecock finds that during the last farming period of the winter months is a very good time to remodel the farm home. The renovating he has done on his home has improved the living conditions and increased the material value of the farm.

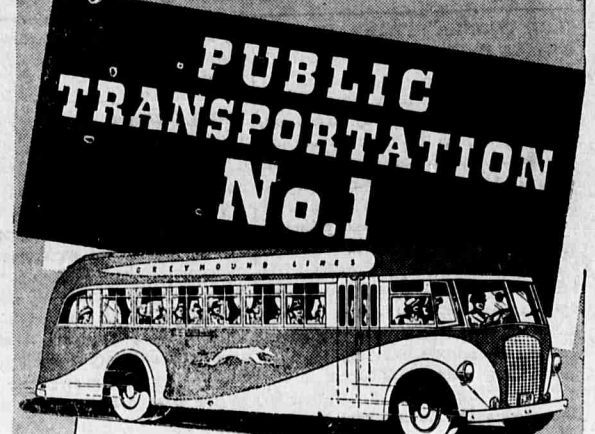

A. J. Trapnell believes that he can put his hogs in a fairly close pen and feed them surplus corn profitably. The some 100 head seen on the side of the road makes a nice farm picture — every one the same color, look about the same size.

J. P. Foy has kept five out of his woods for several years and has an enormous growth of young timber on hand. However, this young timber came on in spots. To make the area uniform he purchased some 18,000 of young pine seedlings and is putting them out in the thin areas.

Care and attention to young chicks in the brooder pays off a poultryman, declares Hal Roach. The some 500 young chicks started with continued to live and grow very satisfactorily. During the four weeks Mr. Roach has lost only about four chicks.

About the best form of insurance for living-at-home is to not sell off the hogs so close but what sufficient amount of meat is saved for the entire year, according to K. H. Harville.

He has about 7,000 pounds of cured crops fail to sell high enough to warrant stored in his smoke house just rent purchasing the farm meat up in case the cotton, tobacco and other crops.

LEADERSHIP IN GEORGIA is leadership indeed!

These twenty towns led Georgia, in 1937, in the use of residential electric service. Opposite the name of each town is the number of kilowatt hours used during the year, on the average, per home.

EVERY man and woman in Georgia can feel a genuine pride in the record of these twenty well-known Georgia towns that led the state in 1937 in use of residential electric service.

The average home in Woodbine, a southeast Georgia town with a population of about 400, used almost four times the amount of electric service used by the average home throughout America in 1937.

All the homes in the United States used last year an average of 803 kilowatt hours per home, while homes on the lines of the Georgia Power Company used an average of 1313.4 kilowatt hours per home — or 63.6 per cent more than the national average! The familiar towns you see listed here made even more startling records.

Use of low-cost electric service is increasing month by month in our Georgia homes; in cities, small towns and on the farms. No state east of the Rocky Mountains surpasses Georgia in putting electric service to work at doing our household jobs, making our homes more attractive, creating refreshing leisure for Georgia women, giving them more time — more youth in which to enjoy the wholesome things of life!

Miss Frances Mathews and Mr. Talmadge Ramsay Wed in Home Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Frances Mathews and Mr. Talmadge Ramsay was solemnized Wednesday, February 16 at high noon at the home of the bride's parents on North Main street in the presence of family connections and the social contingent who had entertained with pre-nuptial parties. Rev. C. M. Condon, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

Beauty and perfection of detail marked the decorations in the lovely home. Stately palms with trailing smilax surrounded the entrance to the reception hall. The tables were bedecked with ferns. Rising from this mound of greenery was a basket of soft pink snap dragons. An effective arrangement of pink gladioli and radiance roses on the console table accented the pink and green color motif prevailing in the reception room.

The vows were taken before an improvised altar in the living room. Palms extending across the end of the room in front of long triple windows formed a background for the sloping seven-branched candelabra holding Cathedral tapers. In front of these on either side were white floor baskets filled with calla lilies and snap dragons.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Allie Whiteside, organist, and Miss Martha Donaldson, vocalist. Excerpts from Mendelssohn's "Lobengrin" wedding march were used. Miss Donaldson sang "All for You" and Miss Whiteside played "Liebestraum" softly during the ceremony.

Miss Mary Mathews was her sister's maid of honor. She was dressed in a navy blue suit trimmed in sweetheart pink. Her hat was a chic Watteau model. Her corsage was of orchids and lilies of the valley. The bride and her father were joined at the altar by the bride groom and his best man, B. H. Ramsey, Jr., brother of the groom.

The lovely bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a becoming three-piece suit of Ensign blue English tweed trimmed with blue fox. Her hat was a chic Watteau model. Her corsage was of orchids and lilies of the valley. The bride and her father were joined at the altar by the bride groom and his best man, B. H. Ramsey, Jr., brother of the groom.

MRS. EVERETT WILLIAMS ENTERTAINS THREE O'CLOCKS

A lovely social event of the past week was the bridge luncheon given on Friday by Mrs. Everett Williams at her home on Crescent Drive. Narcissus and breath-of-spring were used effectively in decorating the rooms where the tables were placed.

Mrs. Dan Blitch received a box of candy for high score and Mrs. Gilbert Cone was given note paper for cut.

The luncheon was served buffet style and the menu included such delicacies as fried chicken, creamed cauliflower, creamed carrots, macaroni, rolls, strawberry short cake and coffee.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mathews entertained with a small but beautiful luncheon.

The bride's table placed at the far end of the dining room presented a scene of unusual beauty, being overlaid with a handsome banquet cloth of imported lace. A silver bowl filled with bride's roses, sweet peas and lilies of the valley was placed against the wall. Planking it on either side were two silver candelsticks holding slim white tapers, thus forming a crescent background for the wedding cake which was beautifully embossed with lilies of the valley and bride's roses. Miniature white doves and crisp table bows containing the favors encircled the cake gave it additional beauty. Silver compotes filled with green and white mints further adorned the table. A silver bowl of calla lilies and snap dragons with five-branched candelabra at each end graced the buffet.

Mrs. Henry Blitch, sister of the bride, presided over the bride's book. The wedding guests were served a salad and sweet course with coffee.

Golden slippers, rice filled, were given as favors to the ladies, and silver wedding bells tied with white satin were given to the gentlemen.

Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. Walter Aldred Jr., Mrs. John Kennedy of Savannah, Mrs. R. L. Cone, Mrs. Lowell Mallard, Mrs. H. W. Smith, Mrs. J. D. Fletcher, Mrs. Bob Turner, Mrs. J. C. Hines, Mrs. Frank Ellis, Mrs. Wilburn Woodcock, Miss Carol Anderson, Miss Brooks Grimes, Miss Cecile Brannen, Miss Josephine Kennedy of Savannah, and Miss Sara Moore.

ONE VARIETY COTTON PAYS DIVIDENDS TO FARMERS IN GEORGIA

Carroll county farmers saved an average of $5 per acre last year on all cotton planted in one-variety communities. The total amount saved in the county from planting one-variety cotton was $115,000.

County Agent G. F. Wiley said in Carrollton this week that 25,000 acres were planted in D & P L cotton in the county last year and that this figure is expected to be increased in 1938. Two new one-variety communities have already been organized this year.

The one-variety movement was started four years ago in one of the small communities in the county. This beginning was so successful that the next year three new communities were organized. There are now 11 communities doing this work.

When the campaign to produce better quality cotton was started in Carroll, the farmers in the county were growing 43 varieties of cotton. Wiley explained. Most of these were short staple varieties and it was practically impossible for an individual to improve his variety of cotton.

The number of varieties has since been reduced to 22, and last year a County Cotton Improvement Committee was organized to consider plans to solve problems for the county as a whole. This committee is made up of leading growers and ginners in the county.

FOUR TEAMS FROM EACH DIVISION TO ENTER FINALS IN STATESBORO

Four teams that came out in first, second, third and fourth place in the preliminaries in each division will enter the finals that are to be held in Statesboro Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

The four teams of the division that won are Pembroke, Stillson, Register, and Ludowici in the order of the places won by them. The teams of the B division that are eligible to enter the finals are Statesboro, Hinesville, Brooklet and Glennville.

These eight teams will go into the finals with eight teams of the C and B divisions of the upper section of products to maintain a proper standard of health," Fitch said. "Therefore any expansion which might result from diverting land under the new farm program would likely be in increased home consumption."

"This might even mean that some of the 70,000 Georgia farmers now without cows will be able to keep one in the future."

The dates for the Macon fat stock show have been changed from May 3 and 4 to April 25 and 26.

More than 350 farmers recently attended a series of 12 pasture and livestock meetings held throughout the Chattahoochee Valley area. Sessions were held at Greenville, Hamilton, Talbotton, Cassata, Columbus, Newnan, Franklin, Lumpkin, Preston, and Ellaville. The relation between soil conservation and livestock was discussed and farmers were advised how to build and care for their pastures. Helpful advice was offered by R. E. Davis, extension beef cattle specialist and Frank W. Fitch, extension dairyman. County agents were in charge of the meetings at each point.

Emerson Anderson and Frederick Beasley of Statesboro, Thomas Hill and Clark of Brooklet, Salter of Hinesville composed the first string all-star team of the lower section of the district. Statesboro placed two more men on the second string all-star team. They were Skeet Kennon and Robert Hodges, Clifton of Brooklet, Bagley of Glennville and Stafford of Hinesville, rounded out the second string with the two Statesboro boys.

Comment was aroused at the fact that John Smith, scrappy little player on the Statesboro quintet was left off the all-star list. Smith is not a high scoring man and he is not the type of ball player that might be the idol of the fans but he is undoubtedly one of the best ball players on the Statesboro squad and during this season he has gained quite a reputation being fouled out. But any ball player that doesn't make fouls is no ball player at all. Comments were made that John Smith is the best all-round player on the team with the exception of Emerson Anderson.

On the all-star team of the C division, Stillson and Pembroke placed two each. From Stillson were D. Smith and W. Shuman and from Pembroke were Morgan and Thomas. Stephens of Register completed the first string. The second team was composed of C. Smith of Stillson, Stafford of Ludowici, Downs of Pembroke and L. Moore of Register and Chapman of Ludowici.

W. Shuman of Stillson led the C division for individual scoring honors and also the entire tournament. He scored a total of 37 points in three games. He was followed by Anderson of Pembroke with 28 points in as many games.

Emerson Anderson of Statesboro carried off individual honors for the B division and was runner up for the entire tournament. Anderson was only one point behind Shuman of Stillson with a total of 36 points in three games. In the Glennville game Anderson scored 19 points. He was pushed for the lead by Frederick Beasley who scored 30 points in three games.

Statesboro placed two more men on the second string all-star team. They were Skeet Kennon and Robert Hodges, Clifton of Brooklet, Bagley of Glennville and Stafford of Hinesville, rounded out the second string with the two Statesboro boys.

Comment was aroused at the fact that John Smith, scrappy little player on the Statesboro quintet was left off the all-star list. Smith is not a high scoring man and he is not the type of ball player that might be the idol of the fans but he is undoubtedly one of the best ball players on the Statesboro squad and during this season he has gained quite a reputation being fouled out. But any ball player that doesn't make fouls is no ball player at all. Comments were made that John Smith is the best all-round player on the team with the exception of Emerson Anderson.

On the all-star team of the C division, Stillson and Pembroke placed two each. From Stillson were D. Smith and W. Shuman and from Pembroke were Morgan and Thomas. Stephens of Register completed the first string. The second team was composed of C. Smith of Stillson, Stafford of Ludowici, Downs of Pembroke and L. Moore of Register and Chapman of Ludowici.

W. Shuman of Stillson led the C division for individual scoring honors and also the entire tournament. He scored a total of 37 points in three games. He was followed by Anderson of Pembroke with 28 points in as many games.

Emerson Anderson of Statesboro carried off individual honors for the B division and was runner up for the entire tournament. Anderson was only one point behind Shuman of Stillson with a total of 36 points in three games. In the Glennville game Anderson scored 19 points. He was pushed for the lead by Frederick Beasley who scored 30 points in three games.

Statesboro PLACES TWO MEN ON ALL-STAR TEAM AND BROOKLET TWO

Emerson Anderson and Frederick Beasley of Statesboro, Thomas Hill and Clark of Brooklet, Salter of Hinesville composed the first string all-star team of the lower section of the district. Statesboro placed two more men on the second string all-star team. They were Skeet Kennon and Robert Hodges, Clifton of Brooklet, Bagley of Glennville and Stafford of Hinesville, rounded out the second string with the two Statesboro boys.

NEWEST-EASIEST WAY TO SHIFT GEARS

Nothing new to learn—entirely mechanical. You shift as usual. There's nothing to jam or get out of order. Standard gear positions.

DOUBLES DRIVING EASE. You shift faster and easier, with both hands always near the wheel and both eyes on the road. Even with three in the front seat, driver and passengers have plenty of elbow room.

Blue Devils Win District Cage Title

First Basketball Crown In History Of High School

BROOKLET WINS SECOND PLACE IN "B" DIVISION WHILE STILLSON WIN HONORS IN "C"

Playing first class basketball all throughout the finals of the First District Basketball tournament held here last weekend, the Statesboro Blue Devils won the first time in the history of the high school, by trouncing Brooklet, 48-35.

The Blue Devils, by far the best team in the tournament, won all three of their games by top-heavy scores. The Statesboro squad scored a total of 167 points against a total of 86 by their opponents in three games. On the opening day of the tournament, Statesboro defeated Reidsville 66-21. Friday in the semi-final game they defeated Alamo 53-30 and in the final game Saturday night for the district crown the Blue Devils snowed under the Brooklet cagers by the time of 48-35.

Brooklet was awarded second place honors in the B division. The Brooklet team had to defeat both Swainsboro and Metter before reaching the finals and they found both of these teams very stubborn foes. Swainsboro was beaten 28-19 and Metter was beaten by a single field goal, 30-22.

Metter defeated Swainsboro for third place in the B division. Simpson of Metter was an outstanding player throughout the tournament.

Stillmore defeated Pulaski for 13 place in the C division by a four point margin, 30-26, while Stillson defeated Register 34-26 for third place honors of the C division.

Statesboro PLACES THREE MEN ON ALL-DISTRICT TEAMS

Emerson Anderson and Frederick Beasley of Statesboro, along with Clark of Brooklet, Simpson of Metter and Jackson of Alamo, rounded out the all-district team in the B division.

Anderson was the outstanding player of the tournament and deserved the position that he received. Beasley did not play as much as Anderson, but he displayed the ability that a first class ball player might need. Another one of the best ball players of the tournament was Clark of Brooklet. Next to Emerson Anderson, Clark was the second choice for the best all-round player.

The second all-district team consisted of Hodges of Statesboro, Hill and Clifton of Brooklet, Braswell of Alamo and Nutter of Metter.

The all-district team of the C division consists of J. Youmans and W. A. Youmans of Stillmore, Proctor of Pulaski, W. Shuman of Stillson, and Stephens of Register. On the second string of all-stars in the C division is Scarborough of Stillmore, Williams of Register, Cartee of Pulaski and Shuman and J. Smith of Stillson.

Out of the four all-star teams that were selected, eleven of the twenty members of the teams were from Bulloch county teams.

EMERSON ANDERSON SCORES 62 POINTS IN THREE GAMES

Emerson Anderson, who made the All-District team, of the Statesboro squad scored a total of 62 points in three games for an incomparable average of 21 points a game. In the Reidsville game Anderson scored 18 points, in the Alamo game he accounted for 22 points of the 53 made by Statesboro and in the Brooklet game he again was high man with 22 to his credit. In the Brooklet game he shot seven free throws and six of them were good.

Other individual high scorers were Proctor of Pulaski with 46 points; Jackson of Alamo 41 points; W. Youmans of Stillmore, 39; Clark of Brooklet, 35; and Simpson of Metter, 38.

"INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP"

By C. M. Conslon
(The following is from the address made to the members of the Statesboro Rotary club at its regular meeting Monday when it celebrated the thirty-third anniversary of the Founding of Rotary.)

"Chaos reigns supreme in international affairs today. Toga of office cannot confer supernatural intelligence, and so far as I can see, there is nobody in office or out among the nations of the earth, who knows what to do with the situation in which we find ourselves. International diplomacy for the last 30 years has been in a maze of chicanery and deceit.

Departments of propaganda have been held in higher esteem than departments of conciliation. Governments have run riot under the direction of irresponsible dictators, and nations have been bathed in blood while the hearts of those who were left have been sated with vicious hatred which augurs ill for the immediate future.

We are in a fearful plight. The world is sitting on a seething volcano which may erupt at any time and engulf humanity in a deluge of blood and death. Fire of hate runs along the roads of idealism and rivers threaten to run with blood.

But enough about the chaotic condition of international relationship. Friendship among the peoples of the earth would quickly correct the mistakes of soldier-diplomats and usher in an area of understanding and consequent peace. For the development of this kind of friendship, I wish now to make a few suggestions.

For one thing, we must somehow become immune to the virus of militaristic propaganda. It is amazing that people whose interests and very lives are at stake have for so long been influenced and led by men whose livelihood depended on stirring up hatred and war. Great corporations in the leading nations of the world have succeeded in enriching themselves by creating a market for their engines of death. They charge to this advertising departments millions of dollars which they expend buying space for agitating nations against one another. Real patriots must learn to read behind the lines and detect the poison of profit-seeking engenders of war in all international news.

We need also to know other nations better. We fear those whom we do not know and we hate those whom we fear. Rotary is doing a great work in making the men of the different nations acquainted with one another but we need to go deeper than occasional meetings in learning other people. Wherever possible we ought at least to read both sides of a controversy, even when one side is our own. So long as we are so gullible that we do not even do that we are still childish and immature and are unfit to govern ourselves. We must get away from our supercilious attitude of superiority over all people who do not belong to our race or tribe.

I come now to a most intricate and difficult proposal. There must be found some way to distribute the resources of the earth among the nations. Wars are fought in many instances, because a nation needs markets in which to buy and sell.

International races in naval and army building is inimical to intercontinental friendship. America is in position to lead the world in reduction of armed forces and if we sincerely made an effort to bring about friendship among the nations it would be amazingly effective. If we spent one-third as much money endeavoring to build friendship as we spend preparing for war we could bring our world far in the direction of peace and consequent prosperity and friendship.

We must find a way to curb our great financial interests. America entered the World War as a direct result of the activities of international money lenders. The house of Morgan was the fiscal agent which loaned money to England and France and when Wilson wanted to make peace among the fighting nations in 1916 and 1917, these moneyed interests thwarted him because they had loans among the allies. The first fifty million dollars of the first liberty loan went to pay Morgan his loans to the allies — loans made before we entered the war at all. Bryan resigned rather than be a party to it. And when the war was over the international bankers had all their loans repaid with interest while the ordinary tax-payer lost his European loans completely. Money lenders and munitions makers must answer in the great assizes of eternity for the millions of lives lost in most of modern warfare.

The courage of peace and friendship is superior to the courage of war and hatred.

In spite of its deadliness war is the most popular institution in the world at this moment. There must arise a minority in international life who shall be willing to stand for friendship and peace even when it is costly so to stand Patriotism must change its demands. The age is past when men shall permit patriotism to synonymous with hatred and bloodshed. That was barbarism. Why does a country demand that its citizens become ruthless murderers in order to be patriotic? What right have war-makers to challenge my patriotism because I refuse to be deluded into their war for profit-making.

Can any deliberate war-maker be a true Rotarian?

We can afford to extend our hands across the sea and say, "Let us be friends!" Shall we?

THE STATESBORO ROTARY SAFETY COUNCIL

The Statesboro Rotary Club is taking the lead in an attempt to make the streets of Statesboro and the highways and roads of Bulloch county safer places for motorists and pedestrians.

At its regular meeting Monday the club organized a Safety Council and each member signed a pledge in which that member agreed to talk safety, think safety and encourage safe driving at every opportunity. That member further agrees to report conscientiously at every meeting of the Safety Council of the Club any violations of the "common sense" safety rules adopted by the club and to accept the ruling of the "recorder."

The rules as adopted by the club might easily be made to serve as a guide for a "personal safety council" in which every automobile driver becomes personally responsible for the observance of the safety rules.

These common sense safety rules are as follows:

1. Apply the Golden Rule in driving. Use courtesy.
2. Never drive too fast for conditions. Intersections, school grounds, parked automobiles may obscure children who may dart in front of car. It takes 73 feet to stop at 30 miles per hour. At 40 miles per hour it takes 115 feet to stop. At 50 miles per hour it takes 166 feet to stop.
3. Never drive faster than you can see or stop.
4. Never pass another car on a curve or hill. Always drive to right of center line.
5. Yield the right-of-way at intersections unmarked to car on the right.
6. Never walk out from behind any obstacle without looking both ways carefully.
7. Slippery pavement is uncertain. Keep 50 feet between your bumper and the car ahead.
8. Always signal when stopping, slowing, turning or pulling out from parked spot into line of traffic. (Arm straight out for left turn, pointed downward for stop, pointed upward for right turn). Sound horn when passing another vehicle.
9. Be sure your brakes, lights and tires are in good condition before driving. Carry an extra bulb for head and tail light. Never stop at night on highway without lights burning. Pull off road if possible.
10. After slowing or stopping for railroad crossing proceed only in gear that minimizes chance of stalling on tracks.
11. Never drink while driving. The very odor puts at a disadvantage if you have any trouble. A driver with two or three drinks is even more dangerous than none who is drunk.

Be honest with yourself. Everyone makes mistakes. Admit it when you violate these or any other "common sense rules" and try to be more cautious in the future.

Observing these rules driving an automobile would become the pleasure it is supposed to be. Let's all become members of our own Safety Council.

CLIPONREKA CULLINGS

By Your Roaming Reporter

It seems this week has been mighty full of interesting things for your Roamer. There won't be space or time to enumerate them all but there was the splendidly-made Indian axe John Oliff showed us, plowed up by one of his plowmen just across the old River Road from Union church, the oldest Methodist Church in the county, and the story of the two college professors who were helpless lost, returning from a fishing trip inquiring their way from a passing carload of other men, also on their way back from the same fishing experience, and ignoring their directions when said college professors, twice to their disgust found that the passing carload of fellows were furiously drunk, and yet let the drunks beat them to town by hours. . . then there was the lovely lady, holding court in a local eating house, being joined by a handsome young man, who, by mistake, was elsewhere at the time, the red-headed Rotarian who congratulated Preacher Colson on his fine address on Monday, and added "Preacher, I heard a lady say this week that you were getting where you could make a fine talk!" and Hobson Duff, driving, after having to settle for damages to a couple of fenders, front lights, bumpers and such like of a passing car, and the beautiful innocent-looking blonde sporting a wicked-looking black eye which she said her husband gave her by mistake, while dreaming. We couldn't help wondering who he was dreaming about, but being a little above the average of a moron we didn't dare to ask. . . and then some other scandalous things from such fellows as Frank Parker, "Bill" Ab' Bowen, and Bob Griffin. We're having these stories dry-cleaned in hopes of getting them fit to print by next week.

Tonight we read a human interest story in the Morning News describing some hospitals maintained for the animal pets of millionaires which concluded with this illuminating statement:

"What does he plant who plants a tree? He plants his faith, a prophecy of bloom, and fruitfulness to be; He plants a shade where robins sing, Where Orlando's nestlings wing."

He plants a strong mast for the sea. He makes the clark productive fair; He helps the vines climb high in air And from their censers shed perfume To sweeten night and bless high moon, Against the vandals who despoil He sets his protest in the oil.

Who plants a tree, he doeth well. Performs, with God a miracle." Apologetically yours, Roaming Reporter.

To The Ladies

Silk stockings were introduced by Queen Elizabeth and she wore them first in the year 1560—and didn't she start something? Now we have the new Ombre hosiery which gives a lighter shading in the front and a darker in the back—thus giving amazing slenderness to the leg.

Spring always reminds us of house cleaning doesn't it. Digging in the corners, where the sunshine uncovers, what have coal and wood has done to our homes—bringing down soiled curtains and getting the winter grime off from everything in general. Most of us count ourselves in on this cleaning up and bemoan the pounds we have added by eating rich, winter time foods—and the blotchy skin we have acquired in the same way. Here is a simple and effective way of treating both problems at the same time. One day a week, leave off all solid foods. Drink any kind of fruit juices you want, and as much as you care for. If you will do this, and then not over eat on the other days of the week, you will get surprising results.

Try substituting grated American cheese for one-half the required amount of shortening in your favorite biscuit recipe—and you have Cheese Biscuit. Add a dash of color to your new (or old) spring suit or dress by pinning on one of the fanciful new bird, bug, or flower pins.

This recipe for nut bread, I'm going to give you, is cheap, and rarely fails. Children adore it in lunches. Two thin slices, with plenty of butter between—and just as delicious for family meals or "grown-up" party plates.

Good terraces are a necessity on a farm in the opinion of C. B. GAY. Mr. GAY took advantage of the favorable farming weather in January to rework every terrace in his cotton fields—every acre of his land is now terraced.

ROY BELL knows that it is possible for any farmer that is not afraid to work to own some kind of a home. Roy purchased a small piece of land down near Black creek then cleared it and built him a house on it. The land is new and hard to work but Roy finds that he is being able to meet the payments annually.

The silvery gloss on all the fencing around J. R. GRIFFIN's farm naturally makes an observer notice the long straight lines of wire. They add materially to the looks of the farms and provide a protected grazing area for his cattle.

J. A. BUNCE plans to continue to expand his livestock, both cattle and hogs. However, his largest expansion is in permanent pastures. Mr. Bunce is providing grazing by planting all the available lands to carpet grass, the common lespedeza, and using certain kinds of fertilizer on the seeded areas.

R. G. DEKLE thinks there is still some money to be made with poultry. His some 700 layers are producing some 40 to 45 dozen eggs daily.

Just Us And Ours

Last week we received the letter which we publish below. In accordance with Miss DeVoe's request we are going to give her this space each week under the above head. After you have read the letter and wish to write Miss DeVoe you may do so in care of The Bulloch Herald, Statesboro, Box 179, Statesboro, Ga., and it will be forwarded to Miss DeVoe, whose answer will be printed, together with the problem submitted.

The Editor, The Bulloch Herald:

Recently a woman came to me with a problem—an intensely human problem of a wife whose husband loves her tenderly but doesn't give her a cent of money she can call her own.

I did not offer this woman a solution to her problem, but advised her to secure a copy of a small magazine called "Woman's Day" and read the article entitled "Love and Money." She did so and returned to me and told me that she had received a world of consolation in the piece. We talked quite a long while and I am sure that when she left she went with a feeling of lightness which she had not had until she had unburdened herself of her problem. It did not matter so much that it was I who listened to her, anyone would have had the same effect on her.

This woman gave me the idea that perhaps there are a number of women, young and old, who would take advantage of an opportunity to break down and tell their troubles to someone who would take the time and trouble to listen. Realizing that I just can't go out and say "tell me your troubles," I decided to write to you to ask that you cooperate with me in starting a column in your paper. I am sure you are familiar with such columns as Dorothy Dix and Marie Ross and others. If you will print this letter and let it be an invitation to anyone who wish to do so, to write to me. Let it be known that any problem of general interest submitted by our readers will be discussed in this column. Let it be known that I invite correspondence and that the writer's name will be held in the strictest confidence. For obvious reasons I wish to conduct this column in the name of Vivian DeVoe. All correspondence may be directed to Box 179, Statesboro, Ga.

Consult your friend on all things, especially on those which respect your self, his country, his religion, his life, your own, your own self-love might impair your judgment.

VIVIAN DEVOE.

THE FANCIFUL PEN

RIGHT AND WRONG—
Right and wrong—
You know their fate
You've heard their song
Of love—of hate.

Right and wrong—
You know their will Both are stronger
Take which thou wilt.

But choose you wise
And don't forget
With right you're
With wrong—regret.

YOUTH—
Must I alas lose precious youth
So limited—so dear,
So longed for by those already who
Have passed its carefree year?

Once, oh often I have tried
To say 'twas not to grieve
But how wrong I was—alas!

Then once more give me hope,
Strength anew I pray,
For I would capture youth again
Before it fades away.

Marketing Quota Is Explained

For Tobacco Growers In Series Of Questions And Answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: All Bulloch County farmers who produced flue-cured tobacco in 1937 will be given an opportunity to vote March 12 on whether marketing quotas for flue-cured tobacco are to be effective for 1938, as provided for in the new farm act. The vote will be secret.

Feeling that local farmers should thoroughly understand what they are voting on, The Bulloch Herald asked the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service to answer a series of questions on how the new program affects the flue-cured tobacco grower.

Local tobacco growers are invited to study these questions and answers so that they can go to the polling place in their community on March 12 and cast a vote on the basis of their own knowledge.

Here are the questions and answers:

Marketing Quotas for Flue-Cured Tobacco

Q. When will flue-cured tobacco marketing quotas be put into effect under the new farm act?

A. They will be in effect in 1938, unless more than one-third of the producers voting in a referendum are opposed to such quotas.

Q. What determines when tobacco marketing quotas will be applicable?

A. The act provides that when the total supply exceeds the "reserve supply level" for flue-cured tobacco a national marketing quota will be in effect.

Q. What is the reserve supply level of flue-cured tobacco?

A. The reserve supply level is a quantity of tobacco 5 per cent above the "normal supply." The figure used in determining the 1938 marketing quota for flue-cured tobacco was 1,681,000,000 pounds. Normal supply, as defined in the act, is the sum of a normal year's domestic consumption plus 175 per cent of such consumption and a normal year's exports plus 65 per cent of such exports.

Q. What is the total supply of flue-cured tobacco?

A. Total supply is the quantity of tobacco on hand July 1, the beginning of the marketing year, plus the estimated crop for the year. The total supply of flue-cured tobacco for July 1, 1937, was 1,733,000,000 pounds.

Q. What is a tobacco marketing quota?

A. A marketing quota is the quantity of tobacco which can be marketed without penalty.

Q. How much is the 1938 marketing quota for flue-cured tobacco?

A. The national marketing quota for 1938 is 705 million pounds.

Q. When is the secretary required to announce the national marketing quota for flue-cured tobacco?

A. In 1938 the quota had to be announced within 15 days after the approval of the act. In later years any quota must be announced not later than December 1.

Referendum

Q. When is the tobacco referendum required to be held?

A. In 1938, the referendum will be held March 12. In other years not later than December 31.

Q. Who is eligible to vote in the tobacco referendum?

A. Farmers engaged in the production of flue-cured tobacco in 1937. Each farmer will have one vote.

Q. How does the tobacco referendum affect the operation of the act?

A. If more than one-third of the growers voting in the referendum are opposed to the marketing quota, the quota will not go into effect.

Determination of State Quotas

Q. How is the national flue-cured tobacco marketing quota divided among states?

A. The national marketing quota is divided among the states on the basis of production in the past five years (including estimated production for abnormal weather and plant bed disease, for small farms, and for trends in production).

Q. Is all of the tobacco quota distributed on this basis?

A. Not less than 95 per cent of the quota is distributed on this basis.

Q. How is the remaining part of the tobacco quota distributed?

A. The remaining part of the quota not exceeding 5 per cent, is used to provide allotments to new farms on which tobacco is produced for the first time in five years—and

Stable Tobacco Supply Is Aim Of New Farm Act

REFERENDUM ON MARCH 12 TO DETERMINE WHETHER OR NOT THE FARMER FAVOR OR OPPOSE THE QUOTA

One of the announced objectives of the new farm act is to help flue-cured tobacco farmers stabilize income and supplies at fair levels.

As a means of keeping supply in line with demand at fair prices to producers, the new act provides for marketing quotas in years when an abnormally excessive supply of any kind of tobacco exists, with penalties for marketing over the quotas.

For 1938, the Secretary of Agriculture, carrying out the provisions of the act, has found that the supply of flue-cured tobacco is in excess of the reserve supply level. Consequently he has announced a 1938 marketing quota for flue-cured tobacco of 705 million pounds.

A referendum will be held on March 12 among the growers of flue-cured tobacco to determine whether or not the farmers favor or oppose the quota. If more than one-third of the farmers voting in the referendum oppose it, the quota will not be effective.

The supply of any kind of tobacco is the carryover plus estimated production during the current marketing year, while the reserve supply level is the normal domestic consumption and exports plus normal carryover plus 5 per cent.

If the marketing quota is in effect, the national marketing quota will be apportioned among the states producing that kind of tobacco. In each of these states the local committees of farmers now helping conduct the Agricultural Conservation Program, will distribute the quota among individual farmers.

In recommending quotas for individual tobacco farms, the local committees are required to take into consideration several important factors. These include the past marketing of tobacco, adjusted for abnormal weather and plant bed disease; land, labor and equipment available for production of tobacco; crop rotation practices; and the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco.

All tobacco marketing quotas will be in terms of pounds. There will be a national acreage quota under the new act. The acreage allotments set up under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program will serve as a guide to help individual farmers keep production in line with the marketing quotas. In Georgia, it is estimated that from 11,000 to 14,500 acres will be needed to produce the state's allotted poundage.

The provisions for regular tobacco producing farms are such that the marketing quotas cannot be less than average production (including diversion) during the past three years, if, in the case of flue-cured tobacco, this average is 3,200 pounds or less. If the average production (including diversion) has been more than 3,200 pounds for flue-cured tobacco the marketing quota cannot be less than 3,200 pounds.

The act specifies that the quota for a farm on which tobacco is produced in 1938 for the first time in five years is not to exceed 75 per cent of the quota which would be given similar regular tobacco farms.

In years when the marketing quota is in effect, a penalty will be imposed on tobacco marketed in excess of the quota for the farm. This tax will be the higher of the following: in the case of flue-cured, 50 per cent of the market price or 3 cents a pound. The tax must be paid by the person who acquires the tobacco but it may be deducted from the price paid to the producer.

Provision is made in the act for the transfer of poundage allotments from one grower to another under the regulations issued by the Secretary of Agriculture.

yield for flue-cured tobacco appears to be around 825 pounds per acre. For the ten years prior to 1932 the average yield was 686 pounds; for the five years from 1933 to 1937, the average yield was 842 pounds. Yields during the past five years have been unusually favorable.

SCHOOL NEWS
On last Wednesday morning Miss Bertha Lee Brunson and her sixth grade presented a very interesting program in chapel. The theme of her program was "The Great Children of February." It was very interesting to sit in the audience and meet the familiar characters of history as they would hop right out from between the pages as Jacquelyn Bowen read her favorite book, and introduced themselves to the audience. Among the noted numbers of course George Washington and Abraham Lincoln were introduced. This educational program was ended with the George Washington song. Miss Daisy Grizette was mistress of ceremonies.

POEMS WRITTEN BY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

The following are several poems that the high school students have written. Many good poems have been written.

When the full thought is brought out, A room can be the richest thing in the World to me—like a book, no truer Friend,
Can you find. Always the same, With that sweet refrain never to prove, Unfaithful to you.

NATURE

(By Couredalene Denmark)
Mother Nature is a wonderful thing. When the little bird chirrup and sing She has such pretty takes and streams It fills my imagination with dreams.

A POEM

(By Rosemary Anderson)
It never occurred to me, How lovely a poem can be, Until one day, one was read orally to me. Sweet were the words, softly they were read Straight to my heart, the love was sent.

When you see the green grass growing And the lovely trees a blowing, The fleecy clouds which float in the air, And lofty mountains, everywhere.

The streams and lakes are in a glow While the beautiful sun is in a flow When the dark rainclouds hang up so high, It will soon be raining from the sky.

Ruth Clark walks right out of winter's icy grip wearing an apple green coat and a hunter's green hat, and with the coming of spring we have young and lovely women who if they aren't careful their lily white hands will become 'horny hands of toil' for they are in their gardens morning, noon, and night. Some of these devotees at nature's shrine are Warren Lane, Lavinia Floyd, Annie Franklin—and speaking of Annie Franklin reminds me of the day we called her on the phone and the answer came—'This is Mrs. Franklin's cook. No'm ain't she she's down to de branch'.

Following up the conversation we find that 'down to de branch' is a woodland spot of rare beauty, at the feet of the Franklin home, and Jane felt that she could understand why though so many of us look jaded and tired, Annie Franklin always looks so fresh and rested. We believe that in this lovely retreat where she has encouraged nature to become more lavish in her gifts she has found the best remedy for taunt nerves and petty worries that overtake the best of us. Then there's Sarg Morris and Mary Akin—they're constantly on the lookout for some brush or shrub to plant. We read in a news item Monday about a couple living on an equatorial island paradise in the Galapagos clearing away thickets to replace them with zinnias. Though we're shocked at such a silly procedure Dr. DeLoach gave us the impression in his speech at the P. T. A. Thursday that we're oftentimes guilty of committing blunders equally silly. We overlook the lovely shrubs in our forests and swamps and pay a handsome price to get the same type of plant from a nursery that will reward us with as hardy or lovely plant. A professional man and our local nightingale were superbly mounted on Sunday afternoon and cantered along so pleasantly that we thought merely riding in a gasoline buggy wasn't nearly so thrilling. I discovered punctilious husband buying a glamorous sort of garment and muttering, 'She ought to have been born on the 29th instead of the 28th and then I would not have had this to do but every four years.' We would advise Jessie DeLoach to ask said husband what he said to the blushing saleslady who waited on him. Jane ventures to say that a record will be set at George and Neva Bean's silver anniversary celebration that tops all others. Rejoicing with them will be baby Linda Bean not quite eight months old their first and only child. Clyde Jardine and Our Roaming Reporter riding over country roads. We wonder if by their return they were both Episcopal or both Presbyterian or believe that each remained 'status quo'.

Ronald Neil has been singing at Rotary luncheons—it seems the theme song was "Love's Old Sweet Song." On the second go 'round the married men were asked him and the single men to sing. Leodel Coleman and Hobson Dubois were the only single men there, but right lustily did they sing for they are not yet disillusioned and to all appearances keep an ear attuned to "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Presbyterians Meet Here For Rally

REV. ED H. HAMILTON OF SU-CHOWFU SPEAKS TO YOUNG PEOPLE'S LEAGUE OF SAVANNAH PRESBYTERY ON SINO-JAPANESE STRUGGLE

Declaring that the common people of neither Japan or China want war and that it is not for the Lords and politicians of the predominant War Party the Sino-Japanese struggle would quickly dwindle to nothing, was the opinion expressed Saturday by the Rev. Ed H. Hamilton of Su-chowfu, China. Dr. Hamilton was here to address the Covenant District of the Young People's League of the Savannah Presbytery and he spoke at the Presbyterian church on both the morning and afternoon programs. His addresses were highly interesting especially in view of the war torn condition of China at this time. The Chinese are naturally lovers of peace and have allowed themselves to be imposed upon for generations in what finally proved to be a futile effort to avoid war with Japan. Repeatedly Japan has left nothing undone to provoke war and the situation ultimately reached the point where it was a case of fight or be murdered. China is becoming well organized and if the war can be held in check for a while longer she will present a well-ordered and fully prepared enemy such as Japan, the result of the war now depends on the willingness of China to die, as the Japanese are exterminating them literally by the millions.

Dr. Hamilton's home is in Atlanta, from which the Southern Presbyterian Church sent him to China in 1922. Shortly after arriving there he married the daughter of a couple who had been in China 48 years, so he has quite a missionary background. At the present he and Mrs. Hamilton, with their five children are at home on Fultonsburg as his assistant is right in the middle of the war area. While here he is lecturing throughout the bounds of the church and those who were fortunate enough to hear him Saturday are hoping to bring him here for another lecture shortly.

Two Bulloch County Farmers Purchase Two Pure-Bred Bulls

JOHN H. BRANNEN AND J. B. FIELDS BUY TWO OF BEST BREED OF CATTLE FOR HERD SIRE

After using a good purebred beef bull for a few years it is wise to then procure a better herd sire, is the opinion of John H. Brannen and J. B. Fields.

These two Bulloch county farmers went to a herd of Hereford cattle that ranks with the best in the United States to buy herd sires Friday. They purchased two young bulls with Prince Domino lines of breeding, which is the outstanding line of breeding in the country. Neil W. Trask, the owner of the herd, had several cows and bulls that he selected over the country and paid from $350 to $1000 for.

The herd sires these farmers are now using are good individuals and have added about 125 pounds to the weight of their calves at 12 month weight. The bulls purchased Friday carry deeper fleshing on the hind quarters and are thicker, with a deeper body, than probably any other bulls in the county. C. B. Gay found some four years ago that bulls carrying all the desired qualities, even though they cost more, pay for the difference in price in one crop of calves.

The two bulls purchased by Mr. Brannen and Mr. Fields are blocky and of the compact beef type.

New Farm Bill Provides Cotton Marketing Quota

MUST BE APPROVED BY TWO-THIRDS OF COTTON PRODUCERS VOTING IN REFERENDUM ON MARCH 12

The establishment of cotton marketing quotas, based on farm acreage allotments, is authorized for all cotton producing farms under provisions of the new farm act. The principal objective of the new measure is to strengthen the Agricultural Conservation Program and provide more effective control of burdensome crop surpluses.

The quotas, if approved by two-thirds of the cotton producers voting in a referendum on March 12, will represent the number of acres whose production may be marketed this year without restriction. Georgia's tentative acreage allotment is 2,036,000 acres.

The Adjustment Act provides for a national cotton allotment of approximately 10,750,000 acres in 1938. The number of acres needed, at normal yields, to produce the balance allotment is being apportioned to the cotton producing states and counties with no county to receive less than 60 percent of the cotton acreage planted and diverted in that county in 1937. The Mr. Kennon will be divided among individual farms, with special consideration for small producers.

This division will give all farms a minimum allotment up to five acres of cotton and a small allotment will be available for producers receiving between 5 and 15 acres. The remainder of the county allotment will be divided in such manner as to give each farm in the county or administrative area a uniform percentage of the crop land on the farm after excluding wheat, rice, tobacco acreage and the acreage used for commercial livestock production as its cotton acreage allotment. No farm may have an allotment greater than its planted and diverted cotton acreage in any of the past three years.

The 1938 marketing quota of an individual farm will be the larger of the actual or the normal amount of cotton produced on that farm's acreage allotment, plus any cotton carried over by the farm from the 1937 crop. In other words, the farmer may sell without restriction, all the cotton he can produce on his allotted acreage. On all cotton sold from the farm in excess of its marketing quota a penalty of 2 cents a pound must be paid. This means that if the farmer overplants, the cotton sold in excess of the actual or normal production of the allotted acreage will be subject to the 2-cent penalty. The penalty does not apply to cotton on farms where the total production is less than 1000 lint pounds.

Furthermore, if a farmer overplants he will lose his 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program payment and the Cotton Price Adjustment payment to which he might be entitled on his 1937 cotton, and will be eligible for a cotton loan on only that part of his cotton produced in excess of his quota and at a rate 40 per cent lower than the loan rate provided for co-operators.

For co-operators, cotton loans are authorized at a rate to be fixed by the Secretary of Agriculture between 52 and 75 per cent of parity. The parity price of cotton at present is approximately 16 cents.

The provisions of the Act do not apply to long staple cotton, 1-1/2 in. or longer, such as Georgia's Sea Island cotton.

The Act extends the maturity date of 1937 cotton loans from July 1, 1938 to July 1, 1939.

F.W. Darby Lumber Company Enlarges Mill

Beginning with a small saw mill nineteen years ago the F. W. Darby Lumber Company has grown until today it is one of the largest lumber mills in this section, with a daily capacity of 30,000 feet of lumber and an average weekly payroll of $1,000.

In the past few months the F. W. Darby Lumber Company, under the supervision of E. S. Lane, general superintendent, has completed the installation of a heavy duty saw mill and carriage which, according to Mr. Lane, has a capacity of 30,000 feet of lumber every ten hours. In explaining the modern methods in handling lumber Mr. Lane stated that they can now completely control the drying of all their lumber. He stated that they had installed a new Moore Cross Circulating Dry Kiln with automatic control of both moisture and heat which assures a perfect conditioning of lumber. Mr. Lane has been with the F. W. Darby Lumber Company since 1920 and has seen the growth of the firm from infancy to its present position. Mr. Lane takes a great pride in showing his many friends the operations of the new enlarged mill.

Mr. H. L. Kennon, recently added to the personnel of the firm as manager in the capacity of business manager. Mr. Kennon was formerly connected with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Since Mr. Darby's expansion in the lumber industry, of owning large lumber interests in Jacksonville, Mr. Kennon is in charge of

Co-op Livestock Sale Moves 98,000 Pounds Of Hogs

NEXT CO-OP SALE SCHEDULED FOR MARCH 10 AT THE PENS ON THE GEORGIA AND FLORIDA RAILWAY

The Bulloch County Coop Livestock Sales moved 98,000 pounds of hogs at the sale Thursday for $7.38 per hundred. Practically all the hogs entered in the sale weighed more than 150 pounds, which is the largest lot of heavy hogs moved from the county in one sale in several weeks.

The next cooperative sale will be March 10 at the pens on the Georgia-Florida railroad.

The four major packers, Swift, Armour, Cudahy, Wilson, entered bids on the last sale. However, Statesboro Livestock Commission company was the successful bidder. Although hogs had advanced considerably, if Chicago, Georgia packers failed to give bids in line with the rise in the market on this sale.

John H. Brannen entered some 76 head of hogs that averaged about .20 pounds. This lot of hogs would have been sold for $12.80.

Combustion of Vapor The combustion of ignited vapor in a cylinder is so rapid that it is usually spoken of as an explosion, although the word combustion is more correct. Combustion means the act or instance of burning.

Bulloch County Fat Stock Show March 21

Sponsored By Local Chamber Of Commerce

After showing here cattle will be pulled by special train to SAVANNAH SHOW AND SALE

On Monday, March 21 the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the Bulloch county fat stock show to be held at the pens on the Central of Georgia railroad. The fat stock show is being sponsored as an educational project.

In order that the maximum benefit may be derived from this show the County Board of Education, at its regular meeting last Tuesday, voted to give all the schools in the county a half holiday. All the county school students will come into Statesboro for the show.

The present plans are for the Central of Georgia to pull 15 calves to Savannah following the show with a special train. Several of the boys will accompany the cattle on the train and bed them down for the night. The other boys and farmers will probably go to Savannah on Tuesday and assist in caring for the cattle and get them in condition for the showing. Thursday, March 24 at the Savannah fat stock show and for the sale on March 25.

It has been suggested that there be a parade of the cattle at high noon through the main streets of Statesboro. The show March 21 will have the best cattle that have been fed out in the county. There are several steers in the group that practically every one who has seen them predicts they will grade U. S. Prime, which is tops as far as cattle go. All of the cattle will grade medium or better.

Details of the program and showing the cattle have not been completed. Dr. R. J. Kennedy, Mayor J. L. Renfro and C. P. Oliff comprise the Chamber of Commerce committee to work out the details.

Tobacco Quotas Now Available at County Agent's Office

QUOTAS ARE IN LINE WITH NEW FARM PROGRAM IF MARKETING QUOTA IS VOTED IN ON MARCH 12

Tobacco growers quotas in Bulloch county are now available through the county agent's office for the soil conservation program in 1938. These quotas are also in line with the new farm program if the marketing quota is voted in March 12. Every tobacco farmer is being notified officially how the quota for 1938 for that farm will be.

For growers that have an established base, the following scale was given the county office by the state office to figure the quotas on:

When the base acreage is 5.1 acres or more the quota is 70 per cent of the base. With a base from 4.8 to 5 acres the quota is 3.5 acres; from 4.4 to 4.7 acres the quota is 3.4 acres; from 4.0 to 4.3 acres the quota is 3.3 acres; from 3.8 to 3.9 acres the quota is 3.2 acres; and where the base acreage is 0.5 acres or less the quota is 90 per cent of the base.

Each new tobacco grower that has applied to the county agent for a base there will be allotted one acre, then an additional acre is granted if he has a barn as much as half completed by February 16, 1938, then an additional one-tenth of an acre for every ten acres in cultivation in excess of 50 acres on the farm. The maximum quotas for new growers is 1.5 acres where there is not a barn, with one barn the maximum is 2 acres and where there are two barns the maximum is 4 acres.

Statesboro's Blind Musician Sings And Plays His Way To Distant Places

History is full of singing troubadours, blind musicians, roaming minstrels and other romantic musical characters. Periodically Statesboro's own "Wandering Minstrel" finds his way back to his childhood haunts. We know him as "Doug," the blind color musician who picks his way with confidence about the streets of Statesboro, his guitar strapped over his shoulder, answering voices which call to him cheery greetings.

"Doug" is not unlike that of the singing troubadours of bygone days. He has traveled all over the world, singing and playing his way, without benefit of sight. He finds no strangers in these far places despite his color.

"Doug" came to Statesboro in 1910 at the age of 9, as William McLeod, from Thompson, Georgia. He lost his sight at the age of six. His only schooling days was that given him by his mother at the fireless. His mother, Minnie McLeod, cooked for Mrs. W. H. Ellis for a number of years. While here he learned to play the guitar, and except for a period of several years when he did not have an instrument, he has never been without his guitar. When he was 17

Statesboro Production Credit Association Shows Signs Of Growth

STATESBORO PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSOCIATION EXPECTS INCREASE IN MEMBERSHIP AND VOLUME OF BUSINESS

An increase in membership and the volume of business this year is expected by the Statesboro Production Credit Association, which serves Bulloch and Evans counties, according to J. E. Hodges, president. He says that many farmers have already made arrangements for their short-term credit needs for this year through this farmers' cooperative credit organization.

The record of the Statesboro association to date is one of steady progress, Mr. Hodges said. In 1934, the first year it operated, it had 155 members. Last year it served 407 members. In 1934 it made loans totaling $44,599.00, and its volume has increased each year. In 1937 it made loans totaling $149,422.00.

In 1934 the association did not have any reserve. It now has a reserve of $6,380.00. Members of the association now own $7,795.00 worth of stock in the association.

"Each year has been one of progress," said Mr. Hodges. "And as more and more of our farmers learn of the short-term credit service which we have to offer them we expect the membership and volume of business of the association to continue to grow. Our association makes loans to farmers not only for production purposes but for almost every purpose for which a farmer needs short-term credit."

Cotton Allotments For 1938 Now Being Distributed

IF MARKETING QUOTAS ARE VOTED IN ON MARCH 12 COTTON FARMERS WILL BE PERMITTED TO SELL ALL PRODUCE WITHOUT PENALTY

Bulloch county cotton allotments for 1938 are being distributed to individual farms on the following basis:

1. Five acres are allotted to individual farms unless the highest number of acres planted to cotton during the previous three years, plus the diverted acreage, is less than five acres; in this case the highest acreage planted and diverted in any of these three years is allotted to the farm.

2. Three per cent of the remaining acreage is allotted to farms having allotments of less than 15 acres.

3. The remainder is allotted to the farms on a basis of tilted acreage less acreage devoted to tobacco. No farm is given an acreage allotment exceeding the acreage planted to cotton and the acreage diverted under the farm programs for the previous three years. This means that the percent of tilted acreage which may be allotted to cotton will be the same for all the farms in the county.

It is understood that yields of lint will be given to the various farms getting an allotment of acreage in line with the per acre yield during the past three years. This yield will be used only as a basis of pay under the soil conservation program. If the marketing quotas on cotton are voted in March 12 individual farms will be permitted to sell all the cotton free of penalties on the allotted acreage.

"ACRES OF DIAMONDS"

An Editorial by
Your Roaming Reporter

ACCORDING TO Frank Smith's story, the man who wrote "Acres of Diamonds" several years ago must have been talking about the situation in Bulloch. If you remember, it was a story of a poor devil who had tried to make a living on a poor farm but without success. Finally, after years of shallow scratching of the reluctant soil, he travelled the world over in search of better lands, only to meet with disappointment. Feeling that he had better come home to die, he returned to the old home place, where for some reason he dug deep in the worn out soil to find that all the time there had been an underlying strata of pure diamonds . . . millions of them. Under every acre of land was a fortune of undreamed proportions that providence had stored for the ultimate searcher who was willing to dig deep enough for them. Well, Frank's story is simply this: That while eggs . . . and if you don't think Mrs. White Leghorn and her sisters are pouring them out right now I suggest you watch the trucks so by . . . while these eggs are finding slow sale at fifteen cents a dozen he is paying about thirty cents a dozen and express charges for fertile eggs produced in Kentucky and other states. These are eggs suitable for hatching and it would mean a difference of not less than $160 a week, or almost $10,000 a year to the farmers of Bulloch county.

Now, according to Frank, it would take very little in the way of investment to produce such eggs as his hatchery requires. About the only expenditure required would be the purchase of suitable cockerels and some care in handling the flock. As Frank's already growing business expanded he would naturally require more eggs which would mean more money and so the circle would grow. The hatchery now has a capacity of 57,000 chicks every three weeks, the time required for hatching, but the business is growing and will grow. Just now, with all the hens seeming to go on full time production at once, the price of eggs has fallen extremely low, but it is not believed that this situation will prevail long.

ANOTHER "Acres of Diamonds" story was written this week when Algy Trapnell's perfect pen of Hampshire hogs sold for sixty points above the market at Frank Parker's Wednesday sale. Algy dug deep enough in his soil to produce the finest pen of hogs sold in Statesboro in a long time . . . in fact Mr. Frank Upchurch of the Upchurch Packing Co., Atlanta, stated they were the finest hogs he had ever seen in Georgia in the 25 years he had been buying hogs. And don't get it in your head that this was just a couple of shoats either . . . there were just 71 in that pen . . . and believe me it was a PEN FULL. Now Algy was a schoolmate of your Roamer (and by the way he's promised to loan us some of his hog money) and the story of his 1937 hog raising will convince you that "it can happen." During the fall Algie sold 39, all of which brought top prices, on the previous day he sold 18 also at the top which added to the 71 sold Wednesday make a total of 128, according to Mike the mathematician of the R. R. family. All of this so interested us that we figure Algy's income from hog sales alone runs around $2500 . . . which at least will keep him in smoking tobacco with an occasional pint for egg nog (and for his friends when we stop by to eat dinner some time). Nor does the 128 make up the total, as he stuck something like fifteen just for home use in case any of his boys and their other halves get hungry and drop by to see what Pa's got in the smoke-house. Slowly we're getting away from the age old custom of Georgians "shipping off clay at $5 a ton and buying it back in the form of pottery at $500 a ton."

RULES FOR VOTING IN TOBACCO AND COTTON REFERENDA GIVEN

Here are the rules governing who is eligible to vote in the referenda on Saturday, March 12, on whether marketing quotas shall be applied to cotton and flue-cured tobacco for the 1938 season:

1. Only farmers who were engaged in the production of cotton or flue-cured tobacco in 1937 are eligible to vote. Farmers who produced both cotton and flue-cured are eligible to vote in each referendum. The vote on cotton and tobacco is being held the same day and at the same polling places in counties where both crops are grown but the question of whether quotas shall be effective applies separately to each community.

2. No one (whether an individual, partnership, corporation, firm, association, or other legal entity) will be entitled to more than one vote in either referendum, even though engaged in 1937 in the production of cotton or flue-cured tobacco in two or more communities, counties or states.

3. There will be no voting by mail, proxy, or agent but a duly authorized officer of a corporation, firm, association or other legal entity may cast its vote.

4. In case several persons, such as husband, wife, and children participated in the production of cotton or flue-cured tobacco in 1937 under a lease or share-cropping agreement, only the person or persons who signed or entered into the lease or share-cropping agreement may vote.

5. In the event two or more persons engaged in the production of cotton or flue-cured tobacco in 1937 jointly, in common, or in community, each such person is entitled to vote.

6. Since marketing quotas are not applicable to cotton the staple of which is 1 1/2 inches or more in length, (Sea Island, for example) a person who was engaged in the production of such cotton in 1937 shall not be eligible to vote unless he was also engaged in the production of cotton in 1937, the staple length of which was less than 1 1/2 inches in length.

HERE'S WHAT QUOTAS DO FOR BULLOCH COUNTY

Bulloch county farmers are going to vote Saturday, March 12, on whether marketing quotas shall be applied to cotton and flue-cured tobacco this season as provided for in the new farm act.

Here is a thumb-nail summary of what the application of marketing quotas on these crops will mean to Bulloch county farmers:

1. Quotas provide a measure for adjusting supply to demand.
2. Quotas make loans available.
3. Quotas serve to prevent further decline in cotton prices.
4. Quotas encourage more efficient production on fewer acres.
5. Quotas place no limitation on sale of cotton produced on allotted acres.
6. Quotas protect cooperators by providing that non-cooperators will not participate in any payments under the Agricultural Conservation Program.
7. Quotas provide that only cooperators will receive cotton price adjustment payments.
8. Quotas provide that only cooperators will be eligible for loans on all cotton produced.
9. Quotas provide that non-cooperators will pay penalty of 2 cents a pound on all cotton sold in excess of the marketing quotas.

One reason why the livestock industry is developing in Georgia is that the number of acres being planted to permanent pastures is increasing every year. The 35,460 acres planted last year was more than double the amount planted only four years ago, and was almost 6,000 acres more than were planted in 1936. This increase in permanent acreage is providing feed for more livestock on the farms, and, at the same time, is bringing about a better balanced system of farming in the state.

CLIPONREKA CULLINGS
by Your Roaming Reporter

And as if our nerves weren't jumpy enough this blue-looking "morning after," Mike, the family humorist, and practical joker, just passed through and said that none of the other Will Indians would think about it. It seems he had found a fire cracker lost from Christmas, and slipping thru the kitchen while his lovely ma was in the midst of breakfast cooking, milk straining and table setting, he casually dropped it in the kitchen stove so it would slowly slide into the fire and allow him time to make his get-away. The scheme worked according to schedule and it so happened that just as Ma began stirring the breakfast grits, which were boiling furiously, the grits and stove lid jumped up about a foot and from the depths of the fire box came certain sounds that made one think all the guns in China had gone off simultaneously. The result is that Ma is sitting weakly on the kitchen stool, trying to regain her composure, Mike is travelling like a comet thru the back garden heading for the tall timbers and Pa, whose heart isn't strong anyway, is simply signing off 'till next week.

Hoping my heart gets normal again, Your ROAMING REPORTER.

Talking It Over

By VIVIAN DEVOE

Dear Miss DeVoe: I read your column last week and am very interested in your idea. I would appreciate it very much if you would print the article to which you referred in the magazine "Woman's Day." I am sure that there are others who would be interested in such a subject.

I do not like the name you are using for your column. Why not call it "Talking It Over." A. C. S.

In reply to ACS's request I print the article entitled "Love and Money" as it appeared in a recent issue of "Woman's Day." But first may I say something regarding the column's head. I have had several letters expressing a dislike for the head so I am going to try the suggestion made above. If it meets with the approval of our readers we will call it "Talking It Over." Vivian DeVoe.

LOVE AND MONEY

"Dear John: Ever since our wedding day I have spent one half of my time down on my knees thanking God that I married you and the other half wondering what made me do it, and the reason that I both love you and hate you is the way you treat me about money."

"That assertion will surprise and shock you almost fatally, because while you may admit that you have a few minor faults and defects, you're sure generousness is not among them, and in special you pride yourself up on your liberality to your family. You are the American man ideal of a perfect husband—the Good Provider. And if you think of the matter at all you think of it in terms of money."

"If I have to pay cash for the meal, when women admire my brand new handbag I am glad that they cannot see that there is only a lone quarter in it."

"Last year when you gave me a bond for a Christmas gift and I murmured a polite, "Thank you, John, but won't you please take it back and give me a $5 bill instead?" you laughed indulgently at what you thought was my childishness, and I heard you afterwards telling the incident as a joke to a friend and saying, "Mary doesn't know a thing about money. Would rather have $5 than a gilt-edge bond." But there you were mistaken. I DO know about money. I know about it with the terrible knowledge of those who never have any of their own and who are driven by the lack of it to do things that degrade them in their own eyes.

"There was that time when my sister was so desperately ill, when she lacked the food and medicine that would save her life, and I asked you for money to give her and you refused me. Said you couldn't afford it. Had to pay taxes. People should lay up for a rainy day and provide for sickness. And so on and so on. Well, I sent my sister the money and you paid for it in the price of a silver-fox scarf. But I have never quite been able to look myself in the face since."

"I know that if I should say to you what I am writing here what you reply would be: That all that you have is mine, with a generous gesture that means nothing. Then you would ask in that hurt voice that I can never resist if I don't have everything I want. And I would say yes, everything except economic freedom, and you would say nonsense."

"Long ago I found out that there is no use in telling you how much better and more economically I could manage our household if I knew how much capital I had to work on. Long ago I ceased reminding you that the laborer is worthy of his hire and that I earned more than my board, and keep by my services to you and the children. And long, long ago I ceased asking you the question that puzzles every wife: Why will her husband trust her with his name and honor and the rearing of his children, but not with a dollar?"

"For, you see, I love you very dearly and this matter of money is the only flaw in a marriage that would otherwise be perfect. Also, I am very grateful to you for innumerable tenderesses and kindnesses and for the material comforts you have given me, so I shall never send this, but the sad look that you see sometimes on my face is because I am envying every business girl who has her own pay envelope and can spend what she has earned as she pleases."

Mirror an Optical Instrument

An article in the encyclopedia defines a mirror as "an optical instrument which produces images of objects by reflection; in ancient times merely a polished sheet of metal called a speculum; in modern times a sheet of polished glass coated with silver."

To The Ladies

I'm so pleased over your letters—such a nice lot of them—and so happy that you like our column. Do write often and help me to write about the things you like to read in this column.

Layette—is there any woman who doesn't thrill to the word? I've been nosing around for you "Soon to be Mothers" and had myself a lovely time doing it. Here's the result: Everything your baby needs can be bought from local stores. I have three different priced layettes planned for you. From the most economical, that includes all the necessities, to the "fussy" kind. Just write me a note. It'll be fun sharing my finds with you.

You lucky ladies who have your own smoke houses full of meat. This recipe I'm going to give you need not be just a company dish.

BAKED HAM

Three or four inch slices of cured ham, center cut if possible, clean and season with salt and pepper. Put in roaster and cover with one quart of sweet milk. Add Irish potatoes, cut in fourths. Cover and bake about three hours in slow oven. Remove cover for last thirty minutes. Serve on platter with round of meat in center and potatoes around it.

If you have lettuce in your spring garden, try this way of fixing it. Wiled lettuce can be used too.

WILED LETTUCE

One slice Breakfast bacon. One egg, 1-4 cup vinegar, 1-4 cup sugar. Fry bacon and lay on top of shredded lettuce. On the grease left from bacon put vinegar and set on a slow fire. Add sugar, then beaten egg. Cook stirring constantly, until begins to thicken. Pour over lettuce. Natural color will be smarter than ever this season. Good with black, navy, or wine red.

"SWING SKIRTS"

Have you noticed how many of the little girl dresses are being made with the "swing skirt"? Either flared or gored to bring out the swing. Make them of sturdy checked gingham, flowered prints, or solid colors. Tight waist, Peter pan collar and puffed-up sleeves. There are many varieties of these patterns—I'd like to give some of the names and numbers.

I've had a letter about a "Love Tangle," and though I couldn't offer advice, how much I did appreciate a letter of "To The Ladies" I wrote a thinking to the lady, giving her my opinion, and I'd like to know if her problem has worked out.

A prepared pudding in all flavors, that may be kept on your pantry shelf at all times. Unusually delicious—and only ten cents a package. Serves six.

JACKETS FOR SPRING
Jackets, jackets and more jackets, for spring. Make them of light weight wool and tweed, checks, plaids, and stripes. Stripes are the newest and they are used lengthwise or crosswise. Collarless too—and that is especially good if you have a short neck—if you haven't, wear a scarf with it or your dress come out over the neckline.

A deodorant that really deodorizes—silk-rooms, bedrooms, garbage cans, refrigerators—and can even be harmlessly added to your pet dog's bath water to kill that "doggy" smell. I will be glad to tell you what and where.

DID YOU KNOW
That the average American Woman carries one and one-quarter pounds in her hand bag?

That salt sprinkled on freshly boiled, and drained potatoes helps to make them white and meaty?

That we'll be seeing you next week?

FARM BRIEFS

Uncle Jim Says

A lot of poor land in Georgia now in crops would pay better in trees, grass or legumes. My neighbor says it costs more to grow crops on his bad spots than the crops are worth.

The method being followed by Triple A county committees in establishing cotton acreage allotments for Georgia farms in 1938 is not as complicated as some folks seem to think. In brief, the method works this way: First, the county will have as its cotton acreage allotment in 1938 the same percentage of the tillage acreage in the farm except:

1. No farm will have an allotment larger than the highest acreage planted and diverted in the last three years.

2. No farm will have an allotment less than five acres if five acres has been planted and diverted in the last three years.

3. Any farm on which highest planted plus diverted acreage during the last three years was less than five acres will have an allotment equal to the highest planted plus diverted acreage.

4. Farms with allotments of from five to fifteen acres may receive an increase from a small county reserve.

Recreational institutes for 4-H club leaders will be held this month in each of the four Extension Service districts of the state, G. C. Cunningham, state 4-H club leader, has announced. Miss Madeline Stevens, of the National Recreational Association, will conduct the institutes and two boys and two girls from each county the county agent and home demonstration agent will attend, and if possible a rural preacher, and a teacher from each county will take part in the meetings. The institutes will be held at Statesboro, March 10-12; Macon on March 15-18; Athens, March 22-25; and Carrollton, March 28-31.

Dr. T. S. Buie, of Spartanburg, S. C., who is in charge of Soil Conservation Service work in the region that includes Georgia, had some mighty nice things to say about the project in this state after a recent visit to a demonstration area at Rome, Athens, Americus and the Experimental areas at Athens and Griffin. He especially congratulated the farmers for "the fine way in which they have plowed-out and maintained their farms during the fall and winter months." Other things that impressed him included the large increase in winter legume acreage and the fewer forest fires.

Badly-located fields, and badly-placed fences result in inefficient farming, according to G. T. Johnson, agronomist, in charge of the Agricultural Extension Service. For this reason it is a good idea to get rid of such obstacles. The best way for Georgia farmers to begin the clean-up job is leaving out ditches and old fences.

On the map, the farm can be replanned on the basis of efficient operation and soil saving practices.

Approximately 150,000,000 trees and shrubs—35,000,000 more than was planted last year—will be set out this winter and next spring by Georgia farmers cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service on erosion-control demonstration areas, on farms surrounding CCC camps, and by the service on publicly-owned lands of the greening in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

"The motor car industry," said Mr. Macauley in making the announcement "is generally credited with showing the way out of the last depression."

So far as the automobile industry is concerned, the most serious barrier to business improvement is the large stock of used cars in dealers' hands, Mr. Macauley pointed out.

"Too many unused, worn-out, unreliable cars, without modern safety brakes, safety glass, large tires and steel bodies, are in operation today," he continued. "Too many are costly to operate. Eleven million cars seven years old or older are licensed. For operation throughout the country."

"Many of these cars can be replaced during National Used Car Exchange Week—to the great advantage of the buyer and of the public."

Payments To "Small Cooperators" Will Be Increased This Year

Provision for larger payments to operators of small farms who cooperate in the 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program are provided under the new farm act, County Agent Byron Dyer, pointed out this week. The larger payments to the small farmers are the result of changes the new act makes in the method by which payments are to be made in connection with the 1938 program. The new act provides a system of increasing the payments to farmers who would earn less than $200 under the regular rates.

Under this system, the following scale will be used: When payment (at regular rates) is not more than $20, the total payment will be increased 40 per cent; payments of $20 to $40 will be increased $5, plus 20 per cent of amount over $20; payments of $40 to $60 will be increased $12, plus 10 per cent of the amount over $40; payments of $60 to $186 will be increased $14; and, payments of $186 to $200 will be increased to $200.

This scaling upward of the smaller payments will be a first check against funds available for payments.

"The new act in the main, merely adds to the present Agricultural Conservation Program by providing for acreage allotments, marketing quotas when growers want them, and crop loans," the county agent said.

"Farmers who take part in the AAA program this year will qualify for payments by staying within their soil depleting crop acreage allotments, and by measuring up to their soil-building goals."

Farm To Farm
By BYRON DYER

That it is possible to grow wheat for home use in Bulloch county is demonstrated every year by JOHN H. BRANNEN. Mr. BRANNEN grows enough wheat to supply his entire farm with flour annually. At first he found that some of the families on the farm did not care for home-grown flour. They wanted self-rising flour. He found that he could have the necessary ingredients mixed in the flour when it is ground to make self-rising flour out of his own wheat and thereby solved that problem. At this season of the year before other crops show much green color it is an inspiring view to pass the fields Mr. BRANNEN has planted to oats and wheat. He could justly call his farm "Green Acres."

Terraces that make running water walk are necessary on the small farms just as they are on large units, declares J. E. STEWART. The terraces on this farm are as efficient as any found in the county.

DAN W. DAVIS has found time during the winter months to build a nice new home on his farm. MRS. DAVIS says that they expect to paint it now while it is new to add to the life of the home as well as to the attractiveness.

Approximately 150,000,000 trees and shrubs—35,000,000 more than was planted last year—will be set out this winter and next spring by Georgia farmers cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service on erosion-control demonstration areas, on farms surrounding CCC camps, and by the service on publicly-owned lands of the greening in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

NO ANSWER

On February 2 we asked the editorial question why the case involving the operation of Bank Night at one of our local theaters was not prosecuted.

So far there has not been any explanation made or offered. There are a number of persons who are vitally interested in this case. But it seems that to secure an explanation pressure must be brought to bear from some source.

The Grand Jury meets Monday, March 21. It occurs to us that the members of this body on whom the people of Bulloch county depend for the proper dispensation of justice, are interested in clearing it up for the satisfaction of the people who come to this bar for justice. If they find that there was reason enough for the case to have been not pressed then they will clear, in the minds of the people in Statesboro, any suspicion of irregularities is handling of the case. If, on the other hand, they find that there is no explanation, then their duty seems clear.

We do not know if the theatre operator who was under indictment feels that the case was handled efficiently and impartially or not but we can understand why he would like for the whole thing to be forgotten. His business depends on the whims of the public, yet in this case we see an opportunity for him to do the citizens of Statesboro and Bulloch county a great service. It seems to us that, he would much prefer light being thrown on this case at his own instigation rather than letting a third party ask for light or for the grand jury itself to demand light.

With the establishment of the Bulloch Herald we pledged it to the promotion of the welfare of this community. Our masthead carries the line "Dedicated to the Progress of Statesboro and Bulloch County," and we are taking our job seriously. We are young and like youngsters may be asking questions out of order. But you can't ignore this question and overlook it because of our youth, for the question still would be in the minds of every right-thinking person had we never become a newspaper.

OFFICE AS A DUTY

This is a political year. Much concern will be manifested in some quarters as to who will be elected what. In some quarters the interest will reach a low with the mere question of "Who won?"

The Monroe Advertiser in commenting on office as a duty says: "Since this is going to be somewhat of a political year, it is well to consider that the welfare of citizens is loosely divided into what is generally called private and public interests. The success of a man's business and the happiness of his family are issues which usually lie nearer to his heart than all others since they touch his life more directly. These are our private interests and to them we devote the bulk of our attention and effort. We can never separate ourselves, however, from what we regard as our public welfare. There are issues of town, county, state and nation which are more or less related to our private prosperity and happiness. The fact is that both private and public affairs must be looked after by somebody and no country can be what it ought to be unless both these phases of activity receive constant and capable attention. There is thus a call to every capable man to do his part by serving as a public official at times if the necessity arises and he can thereby advance the welfare of the people. It is a species of selfishness which keeps many able men tied to their private interests and indifferent to the calls for public service.

"There is a belief in many quarters that crookedness and politics are companions and that a worthy man cannot succeed as an official. In so far as there is any foundation for this belief it is the fault of worthy men who shirk office because they are unwilling to incur the worry and loss which public service would entail. This opens the gates to the man who aspires to office because he has nothing else to do and men are thus selected through the force of circumstances rather than on account of their fitness. A failure to recognize the duty of holding public office has doubtless given opportunity for the development of the professional politician, who is often a curse to the country because he knows and cares more about being elected than he does about the duties of the office and the welfare of the public. There has thus been created a condition which should lay upon the conscience of every worthy citizen, no matter how busy with other affairs, the debt which he owes to the people in the matter of public office.

"EULOGY OF THE DOCTOR"

By Robert Louis Stevenson

There are men and classes of men that stand above the common herd: the soldier, the sailor and the shepherd not infrequently; the artist, rarer still the clergyman; the physician almost as a rule. He is the flower of our civilization, and when that stage of men is done with, and only remembered to be marveled at in history he will be thought to have as little as any in the defects of the period and most notably exhibited the virtues of the race. Generosity he has such as is possible to those who practice an art, never to those who drive a trade; discretion, tested by a hundred secrets; tact tried in a thousand embarrassments; and what are more important Herculean cheerfulness and courage. So it is that he brings air and cheer into the sick room and often enough, though not so often as he wishes, brings healing.

WHAT OF BURTON'S FERRY?

In the past ten or fifteen years there has been enough correspondence between interested parties, regarding the Burton's Ferry Route, that if it were compiled and edited it would constitute a fairly accurate picture of this section's progress. The Burton Ferry Route has always been something of a will-o'-the-whisp—now we have it—now we do not have it. We talk about it, write about it, but does anyone know about it?

We feel like we will eventually get it through Statesboro, we have been assured that we will and it is quite possible that, with time, we will get it just as a matter of course. But this might be in five years maybe ten years. Why can't we get it sooner?

Changes in the recently-amended national housing act, including restoration of the property improvement credit plan, are intended to help farmers to repair, rebuild, or modern their homes, barns, and other service buildings. The Federal Housing Administration says new dwellings, garages, barns, silos, and hog poultry, and milk houses and similar structures may also be built with loans insured by the FHA. "How to Modernize Your Farm," a booklet describing the national housing act as it applies to farmers, is now available, and free copies may be had by writing to the Federal Housing Administration, Washington, D. C.

Some 75,000 tree seedlings are available without cost to Georgia's 4-H club boys and girls this year. They are being offered for demonstrational purposes by the Soil Conservation Service, through Jule G. Liddell, state coordinator. Club members can obtain the seedlings through their county agents. This offer affords the young farmers of Georgia an opportunity to play an important part in the coming industry of the South.

Mr. and Mrs. G.E. Bean
Celebrate Silver Wedding

Beauty and simplicity marked the reception at the Woman's Club on Sunday evening March 13, given by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Bean in observance of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The club room was never more lovely than on this occasion. The color motif of green and white was effectively adapted to the decorations and refreshments. Vases and bowls of white gladioli with graceful fronds of spirea were used with artistic effect. The receiving line had for a background, on each side, tall silvered cathedral standard bearing gleaming white tapers. Dogwood blossoms massed to form a pyramid were used in the center. The rugged granite fire place was lavishly adorned with narcissi, baby breath and trailing ivy. The gifts were displayed on long tables placed against the wall. At the end of the room opposite the receiving line was placed the lovely tea table overlaid with an Italian lace cover and centered with a silver basket filled with white snap dragons and spirea flanked by silver candle holders with slim white tapers. Silver comports placed at intervals held the

SUPT. WOMACK AND SUPT. LITTLE VISIT NEVILS SCHOOL

On last Thursday, Supt. H. P. Womack and Supt. M. R. Little visited our school. These two gentlemen made some very favorable remarks about our school plant. In a recent letter written by Mr. Little to Supt. H. H. Britt he stated that the Nevils school plant had progressed at a rapid rate and was still improving. He suggested every effort possible be put forward in having a building constructed to take care of vocational activities such as cooking. These co-operative people appreciate these facts very much and are willing to do their part when it comes to supporting their school.

ASSISTANT COUNTY AGENT BROWN AND MISS MAXWELL, HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT VISIT NEVILS SCHOOL

Mr. Brown, the assistant county agent and Miss Elvie Maxwell, the county home demonstration agent, visited our school Wednesday of last week. Mr. Brown met with the 4-H club boys in the auditorium while Miss Maxwell met with the girls in the library where they began their first sewing. The time was used in cutting patterns for aprons.

HIGH SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

The high school department is now doing a splendid piece of work in writing poetry. Ruby Burned is now leading her class in this type of work.

The two following poems were written by Miss Burned for which she deserves much credit:

NEVILS HOPES

By Ruby Burned

We hope to get Nevils on the accredited list, And we are practically sure, that we are going to do this.

For Mr. Saxon has recommended our school, And that of course will be our main tool,

In gaining the success that Nevils should and will attain, By working our way on this list first thing.

Supt. Womack has agreed to help us also And we appreciate all help, as we hope somehow to show,

But we're sure in the end that we will win, With the help of these two, kind gentlemen,

We're hoping to build a shop and canning plant combined; And thus far, we have got along fine.

The cooperation of the community has been grand, In helping our school to its permanent stand.

So we thank the folks for all of this Which enables our school to ascend to the accredited list.

(There are twelve members of the eleventh grade at Nevils school this year of which we are very proud. The following poem is dedicated to them by a prominent member.)

"THE NEVILS TWELVE"

We'll begin with Mary Miller our best girl athlete

Full of fun and kindness and her holiness can't be beat.

Then we'll take Lena Mae Denmark who always makes us laugh;

And when she goes and does a thing, it isn't done in half.

And next we'll take Willard Rushing our best boy athlete;

His sportsmanship is wonderful even in defeat.

Now comes Inman Lanier, the baby of the class;

Always eager to help everyone and hopeful till the last.

Next we'll take Eunice Denmark, our popularity girl,

Who joins in every fun or sport and keeps so neat her curls.

Now comes Ruby Dell Anderson, with her disposition so sweet;

Who always keeps her clothes and hair arranged so very neat.

Next we'll take D'Edwin Groover, a friend of everyone;

Always teasing, always pleasing and very full of fun.

Now next in line is Junior Hood, whose studiousness is very, very good.

And now we'll take Eloise Davis, whose happy face and sunny smiles

Keeps us merry all the while. Now for Wilma Lee Anderson, with her quick and clever wit;

Always willing to do her part, never trying to shun a bit.

And now for Daniel Hodges, who is always just the same;

Always flirting, never shirking, never is to blame.

Last comes Ruby Burned the author of this poem.

Who wrote it just to show her friends she didn't really know 'em.

Hawaiian King a Casino

Although horse races are held annually in Hawaii, gambling of a kind is prohibited by law. Yet horse racing and gambling thereon was once the principal sport of Hawaiian kings. Several land-owning families of today owe much of their acreage to King Kalakaua's poor racing judgment. The king, minus cash, habitually attended races with a map of Oahu in his pocket. He wagered land against money.

A LOT OF CAR

for a VERY LOW PRICE

The Ford effort to make your dollars buy a constantly better car is well illustrated in the Standard Ford V-8.

It has all the basic Ford advantages. It is built on the same chassis as the De Luxe Ford V-8. It gives you a choice of smooth 85-horsepower or 60-horsepower V-8 engines. But it sells at low prices, and includes bumpers, spare tire, cigar lighter, twin horns and other equipment that make it a still bigger bargain.

With the thrifty 60-horsepower engine, the Standard Ford V-8 is priced especially low and gives the greatest gas mileage in Ford history. Hundreds of owners report averages of 22 to 27 miles a gallon—or even more.

Your pocketbook will approve of the Standard Ford in every way. And so will you when you drive it!

Rehabilitation Families Show Increase In Assets

Despite a drought over much of the state in 1936 and low prices for farm products during 1937, families on the rural rehabilitation program in Georgia have been able to increase their assets each year.

The annual report of State Director R. L. Vansant, of the Farm Security Administration, revealed today that the net worth of rehabilitation clients had risen steadily from an average of less than $50 in 1935 to approximately $500 at the present time.

"The increase in net worth of rehabilitation families in Georgia since 1935," the report said, "is outstanding evidence of the value and effectiveness of farm and home planning. The total assets of families accepted for rehabilitation in 1935 averaged less than $50.

"At the end of that year their net worth had increased to $150 per family, and, at the beginning of 1937, records show that the average had risen to $250. A careful analysis of records of 2,000 families, selected at random from Georgia rehabilitation files on January 1, 1938, shows that their net worth averaged $503.23.

"These figures were arrived at after deducting all indebtedness which a family may have had, from a reasonable estimate of the value of all livestock, equipment, feed, seed, food and household goods on hand," Vansant's report continued. "We might safely assume, then, that this analysis of 2,000 families would be a fair basis for estimating the average net worth of all families on the program in Georgia as being approximately $500."

The report showed further that the Farm Security Administration loaned during 1937 a total of $2,068,370.59 to its 9,735 Georgia clients, or an average of $212 per family. Despite the lowered cash income, more than one million dollars has already been repaid and $200,000 more is expected to be collected from the 1937 crop after clients complete their marketing and receive their payments for participating in the Agricultural Conservation Program. The remainder of the sum advanced this year will fall due from one to five years.

As another sign of progress, the report cited reduction of the average loan from $335 in 1935 to $250 in 1936 and to $212 in 1937. This need for a decreased sum by clients, according to the report, was due to the fact that farmers last year grew much more of their food for home consumption and practically all feed needed for livestock.

In addition to its regular loan program, the Farm Security Administration made 17,793 direct grants, totaling $321,701.33, to more than 10,000 families last year. Some of these grants were to families not on the rehabilitation program.

The annual report called attention especially to the home management phase of the program.

"While the financial record of Georgia rehabilitation families is very commendable," it said, "their record of carrying out a balanced, 'live-at-home' agricultural program is even more remarkable. Ninety-nine per cent of our clients planted summer legumes of some kind, and much interest has also been shown in the use of winter cover crops.

"At least 97 per cent of the families on the program have adequate feed for their livestock, 99 per cent kept an average of 15 or more chickens, 95 per cent had hogs to kill for home meat consumption, and 95 per cent had one or more milk cows.

"Rehabilitation families also maintained excellent gardens during the year, which resulted in an improved state of health. Not only have gardens and subsistence patches provided an adequate supply of food for the table during the producing period, but they have supplied a surplus for canning. Farm women who were canning an average of 10 quarts a year when taken on the program, last year canned an average of 119 quarts of fruits and vegetables. In addition, they dried 571,564 pounds.

"A survey showed also, that 2,500 boys and girls from rehabilitation families enrolled in 4-H club work last year, and that 82 per cent of the school-age children attended school regularly. There were 3,300 boys and girls in high school, and 150 attending college. Many wives of rehabilitation clients participated in the activities of home demonstration club. In fact, all members of these families are taking a more active interest in community affairs.

A Paper Company Programs Its Tree Futures

By M. S. KAHLER

To those interested in forestry, the phenomenal increase of paper mills in the South has raised the question—"What will this new development mean to the timber supply in the South and what steps will be taken by the industry to maintain in perpetuity the wood producing capacity of southern forest lands?"

The southern development in paper manufacture is now well distributed over the southeastern states and it would be premature to attempt a broad answer. In the case of one company, however, the answer already has been made.

On the outskirts of Savannah, the Hermitage Mansion was a show place of the South for generations. Today it has been replaced by a huge, modern paper mill. The third unit of this mill was finished last fall, at a total cost of about twelve million dollars. Thirty-five hundred people have found work in the mill, or in the timberlands surrounding it. With their families, they represent fourteen thousand people who rely on this one enterprise for support.

About three hundred thousand cords of wood will be fed into one end of this mill each year. After it has been cut into strips, and cooked to separate the fibers and run over a paper machine, it will come out the other end in the form of paper bags and kraft paper in rolls. That means a daily consumption of about nine hundred cords of wood. Where is it coming from, and what steps will be taken to provide a perpetual supply of wood?

The company, has recently initiated a conservation program which has as its central objective the growing of continuous crops of pulpwood and other forest products.

An interesting feature of this program is that it is designed to promote the growing of timber not only on company lands but on forest lands owned by others as well. Pulpwood is being bought from farmers over a wide area surrounding Savannah. In making these purchases, the same conservation methods will be enforced as on company-owned lands. Such purchases will be spread over as large an area as transportation costs will permit, in order to avoid the necessity of over-cutting any part of the area from which the company will draw its wood supplies. Special effort is being made to avoid over-cutting in the area closest to the mill.

In some cases, purchases from the farmers are in the form of pulpwood; in others, the timberland is leased from the farmers, and the actual cutting done by contractors under the direction of the paper mill management. In either case, definite measures are being taken to encourage proper cutting methods to insure the conservation of the wood supply. The evidence of the carrying out of these plans is present on the ground in the form of low stumps, no waste in tops, utilization of worked-out turpentine trees and in other ways.

How can conservation methods be carried out on privately-owned lands when the cutting is done by contractors? The contractors doing the actual cutting have been given a clear understanding of the company's program, and it is their responsibility to see that this program is carried out. As a further check, a system of company inspection makes sure that the conservation program is actually complied with.

Land owners are invited to make complaints where they see errors or injustices in cutting procedure, and immediate steps will be taken to correct them. Owners are also encouraged to seek advice of outside agencies as to the best methods of cutting in order to retain high productivity. Where the owner has his own plans for the preservation of timber tracts, every effort is being made to cooperate in carrying out these plans.

The organization believes that the most important step in any conservation program is to leave enough young trees well distributed over the cutting area. The real crux of its program is this constantly growing stock of young trees—under seven inches in stump diameter—scattered over all areas, whether on privately owned or company property. Where young trees are scarce, seed trees are left to the number of eight to the acre, and as well distributed as possible. Youthful trees are protected, too, by exercising care in the locating of truckways so as to avoid injury to them.

The ravages of fire is one of the greatest drawbacks to any forestry development plan. Even a small fire kills off the struggling youngsters. A real forest fire will do immeasurable damage. For that reason, fire fighting is one of the most important responsibilities of the company's forestry organization.

Complete fire control is being effected through cooperation with the government. Fire towers house lookouts who are constantly on guard for a lick of flame or a wisp of smoke. Telephone lines and short wave radio flash warnings to affected areas. Truck trails and permanent fire lines are being extended as rapidly as possible. Labor crews for the suppression of fires are constantly on the job. In addition, the company supports local timber protective organization work. As further protection for young trees, efforts will be made to control grazing. If other methods fail, any abused areas will be fenced.

As far as possible, pulpwood will be derived from thinnings and partial cuttings, from tops of trees cut for sawlogs, from worked-out turpentine trees and from large non-turpentine pines which are too rough or defective for sawlogs.

Company holdings will, of necessity, carry many trees which are without silvicultural or economic value. By occupying the ground they prevent more valuable trees from growing. Full utilization of the soil dictates that such trees should be eliminated. Open areas will be planted and dense young stands will be thinned out as additional cultural measures.

With extensive holdings in the state of Georgia, the company has been brought into naval stores operation, the production of high grade sawlogs for lumber manufacture and the production of other forest products. With the purpose of producing pulpwood, naval stores, sawlogs and other forest products, all phases of company operation are being coordinated for sound operation and the insurance of future productivity.

NO WAY TO STOP IT?

The state department of agriculture announced this week chemical tests had disclosed that widely used brands of eyelash and eyebrow coloring to be poisonous.

At the same time, Columbus Roberts, commissioner of agriculture, said Assistant Attorney General Ellis Arnall reported there was no statute under which the state could prohibit their sale.

State Chemist J. Preston Yarborough said both preparations used paraphenylenediamine, a derivative of aniline, as the base. He added his department had received reports of one death, one case of total blindness and several cases of impaired eyesight attributable to one or the other preparation.

Dr. Yarborough said Kentucky, New Hampshire and the cities of New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles had banned the sale, use or possession of any of these dyes. Both cosmetic preparations are manufactured by California concerns.

"These dyes are being used in beauty shops of Georgia for the purpose of dyeing hair, eyebrows and eyelashes," he said. "Usually the customer has to sign some agreement relieving the operator and the dye manufacturer from all responsibility of any ill effects."

A bill seeking to prohibit the sale of drugs, cosmetics or patent medicines in Georgia unless they were approved by the state chemist was abandoned in the extra session of the general assembly.

CLIPONREKA CULLINGS

Uncle Hezy came over from across the creek this morning after enjoying a season of bad health, all of which left the old gentleman in an extremely disagreeable humor. It seems that because the continual head cold he acquires Aunt Het of bringing home from a meeting of the ladies aid society some time in December, Uncle Hezy has suffered a desperate attack of High Blood Pressure, or as Aunt Het describes it "More of a case of High Blood Pressure," the measures, a perfect hospital case of the "rheumatics," a severe case of toothache in the only tooth left in his lower jaw, and some sure signs of oncoming old age, (which have probably caused him more concern than all the rest combined).

This morning Uncle Hezy seemed mightily perturbed over the new deal in cotton acreage allotments, his allotment having been reduced from fourteen and 3-4 to a little below 9.7. According to Uncle Hezy: "This darn whipper snapper of a county agent had it in for me, cause I didn't vote for the reduction and when he got a chance, he cut me down to next to nothing." But just at this point Aunt Het, who had finished with her shopping, said it wasn't the county agent who had stirred up all the rumpus but a feller who rit a piece in the Atlanta Journal Sunday about a feller who come from some furrin country where they wuzent any boll weevils and where they didn't have to buy no fertilizer and made more'n a bale to the acre without no trouble at all. It seems Uncle Hezy had already been complaining about not being able to get out of the house for the summer agents, when along come old man Etheridge, just back from a gallivant in all over Flurridy an he had a Journal which he had picked up off a seat in the bus where the other feller left it. He began reading it and about the first thing he read was that about this man whose name was Urbana Verges who had cum all th way from some crazy country where it wuz winter when it ought to hev been summer an they planted cotton in October an picked it in April. Well he hez been married, he could make more money on it at five cents a pound and the way Uncle Hezy snorted at that was just too bad to see. According to the old gent: "There ought to be something done about it, an if Albert Deal or Preston don't get a law passed stoppin it, I'm going to vote for Gus Floyd next time. No man ought to be allowed to grow cotton an not have to buy no fertilizer ner support no boll weevils." And as far as we could see him down the road, we could still hear his voice above the roar of his Model T as he drove off, telling the world that it just wasn't fair for a feller to live in a country where a man didn't have to pay tax to a guano man or a Boll Weevil. "HOW CAN WE COMPETE WITH THAT KIND OF THING," were his last conscious words!

As we've been roaming about the country pricing fertilizer for the other man to sell, just about the prettiest sample we've seen of the husband and wife who live in a country where a man didn't have to pay tax to a guano man or a Boll Weevil. Talking It Over

By VIVIAN DeVoe

Every clever woman knows that she must refrain from getting the best of her man if she would get the best of him.

"Why is it that men like nitwit women and invariably give them preference over the strong minded woman who, know what it's all about?" asks a correspondent in utter disgust. Well I am not so sure the men like nitwit women for the long pull of matrimony; but definitely they dislike aggressive women who wear the pants, make the plans, put the pressure to them and force them to play second fiddle to a female in the matrimonial duet.

When men pass up the smart girl it is because the girl is smart enough to reckon with a man's inalienable right to be the cock of the walk, head of the works, master of all he surveys. It's because the girl doesn't know her psychology well enough to recognize the importance of giving the cock the credit for his success in life.

Just watch the wife who is putting over a fine job. Nine times out of ten she's no nitwit but is clever beyond belief. She has a clear comprehension of the masculine mind and the masculine ego. She knows that to get the best out of any man she must refrain from getting the best of him. She understands that the minute she makes him feel inferior to her, that minute his manly pride is in revolt against her. She's aware of the fact man race is Rosalind Brannen's little girl. Rosalind if you must know is officially Mrs. Rufus, and if you can find any handsome children than her two, we'll buy the drinks . . . and naturally the girl, who look remarkably like her mother, is just too pretty for description. If she doesn't grow up to be a heart-breaker we'll miss our guess . . . one of the most fitting things we have seen, was the tent show that blew into Nevills and located their tent next door to C. J. Martin's office and hung up a banner reading: "TEMPLE OF KNOWLEDGE." Mrs. Martin said she was going to have C. J. camp right in the tent and see if he could absorb any. Judging from the last time we saw C. J., tho, either she didn't or C. J. didn't. However, the show moved on to Register and will probably be a race between Lonnie Jones, Cyler Daugherty and Lonnie Rushing to see which one can get the most KNOWLEDGE for his dime . . . or maybe these old age pensioners get in free.

We wonder . . . Lon Davis is looking much better, after getting a pan full of change, he cut me down to next to nothing." But just at this point Aunt Het, who had finished with her shopping, said it wasn't the county agent who had stirred up all the rumpus but a feller who rit a piece in the Atlanta Journal Sunday about a feller who come from some furrin country where they wuzent any boll weevils and where they didn't have to buy no fertilizer and made more'n a bale to the acre without no trouble at all. To The Ladies

This is a letter from Mrs. M., of Brooklet, with her recipe for which she gets a six months subscription to the Bulloch Herald.

My family like this way of fixing Pork Chops and I hope that you will like it too. It serves six people.
6 pork chops.
6 medium size potatoes.
1 teas. salt.
1-2 teas. pepper.
1-2 lbs. flour.
3-4 cup boiling water.

Wash potatoes and cut in thin slices, peel and lay in baking dish with salt and pepper. Cover with Pork Chops and season with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Add boiling water and bake forty minutes an hot oven. Turn chops once.

I hope that you will like this recipe.
Yours truly,
Mrs. M., Brooklet, Ga.

Have you noticed the amusing names that the large hoisery concerns are giving to their colors? One uses carnal colors, as Band Wagons, Fireworks. Another uses Kentucky Derby colors, as Saddle-Thor-Bred—Bookie. Another Plantation Colors as Possum, Sugar Cane. In spite of which we have about the same shades in hoisery that we had last year—not quite so much on the reddish side.

"Whats in a name?" is an old expression, to which most of us would answer, "Nothing." Most of our proper names are derived from Latin, Greek or Hebrew words, and really have a meaning. For instance, Homer is a Greek word meaning Sociable. Dorothy is a Latin word meaning Gift of God. Would you like to know what your name means? I will be glad to tell you, and each week I will give a girls name in this column.

We hear so much about Good Manners that it might be amusing to you to know how one of our accepted rules originated. The hostess is always served first because back in the old days no one could be certain that the food was not poisoned until the hostess proved it. Its memento Good Manners today not to taste your food until your hostess starts to eat—but it was once a matter of life and death.

DID YOU KNOW—
That there are two widows to every widower in the United States?
That Mrs. Roosevelt will address a group of rural women in Atlanta on March 29th.
That we'll be seeing you next week?

THE FANCIFUL PEN—TWILIGHT
Twilight is coming
Over the sky,
Darkness is drawing
Nigher and nigher.

Cool breeze from heaven
Arms of the sea
Bring down from mountain
Songs of the free.

White fields of clover
Fold up their hands—
Dream—sail away
To heavenly lands.

Dark pines are nodding
Saying goodnight
To sunshine and blue skies
That once were so bright.

Soft sings the sweet voice
Of nature and love—
All is at rest

Road Contracts to Be Let

It was learned here last week that contracts for 5.62 miles of road and one bridge on the Nevills-Brooklet road will be let April 1.

The road from Brooklet to Nevills connects state highways Nos. 26 and 97. The contract calls for clearing, grading, ditching, and top-soiling the entire 5.62 miles. It also includes one concrete bridge. The work is supposed to begin within ten days after the contract is let and finished within 150 days.

This road when completed will give the county a cross road from Federal Route 80 which is state road 26 over to the north-south bound highway through Bulloch county.

NEVILLS NEWS

BY MISS MAUDE WHITE

SCHOOL NEWS

Perhaps some folks are wondering where the logs that have been passing through Nevills, almost daily, for the past two weeks are going. Well here is the answer. The logs are being hauled to the saw mill for the purpose of converting them into lumber to build a canning plant and work shop on the Nevills school campus. We now have enough timber for the building, as soon as it can be sawed. We are very much delighted over the progress being made getting this new building erected.

WEDNESDAY CHAPEL PROGRAMS POPULAR

Two very interesting chapel programs were presented on each Wednesday of the past two weeks. The first one was by the fourth grade under the supervision of Miss Maude Lou Anderson. These folks had been studying "Eskimo Land" and the program was in the form of a radio program being broadcast from Greenland. Each child gave some interesting point or fact learned about Eskimo life, and was then enjoying it. The radio announcer was E. W. Fox. In a very interesting manner, E. W. announced each speaker who immediately stepped forward to the miniature microphone and delivered his message.

The second program presented (last Wednesday) was by the third grade directed by Miss Maude White. Since the chief center of interest in this grade is now "Food" they presented a very amusing program centered around milk. Little Virgil Hicks had charge of the Bible lesson for which he read the twenty-third psalm in a very adult manner. A giant milk bottle was made to stand in the middle of the stage from which many "fabrics and elves" came, each telling his name such as "Protein, Calories, Water, Fat, Mineral Matter and etc." They told of the work they did for the different parts of the body. After doing their dances and singing their songs, "Naughty Boy, Johnny," played by Delmas Rushing Jr., who did not want to eat his oatmeal or drink his milk, was awakened from a deep sleep by his mother, played by Letha Mae Lott, calling him to dinner from the lawn, where he had got tired and fell asleep beneath a large tree which was suddenly changed into a huge milk bottle, that served as the home of the fairies. "Johnny Bad Boy" accepted his dream as a good lesson and he always thereafter called for a glass of milk and tried to drink at least a quart a day.

These chapel programs that are presented weekly are very interesting and educational for, as far as possible, they come right out of the student's every day work, organized in a presentable manner.

Supt. and Mrs. Britt acted as emcees. From was enjoyed, but the outstanding feature of the evening was the "Stately Courtship" contest in which Miss Lavada Martin and D. Edwin Groover won the prize. Several games were played. The house was attractively decorated with beautiful spring flowers. A delicious ice cream of Russian Tea and crackers was served.

SLIPPERY RAIN-DRENCHED ROADS

● A new tire comes to town to give you the greatest life-saving protection on wet, slippery roads that you've ever had on your car—a tire that's actually a ROAD DRYER!

Just look at the row upon row of non-slip, ending spiral bars in this new Life-Saver Tread. Then you'll understand why it acts like a battery of windshield wipers, sweeps the water right and left, forces it out through the deep grooves, making a DRY TRACK for the rubber to grip.

Yes, sir, the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread will stop you quicker, safer—on a wet pavement—than any tire has ever stopped you before! That's why a "Silvertown Stop" can easily be a life-saver to you on slippery rain-drenched roads.

And, adding one safety feature to another, this new Silvertown is also the only tire that gives you the Golden Ply—the famous Goodrich invention that resists the terrific blow-out-causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. By resisting this internal heat, the Golden Ply protects you against high-speed blow-outs.

Extra Safety At No Extra Cost

Remember, many tires cost more than Silvertowns; but no other tire—at any price—can give you this two-way protection against skids and blowouts. Unless you make your next tires Silvertowns you'll be cheating yourself and your family out of the greatest tire safety ever offered.

Our streets are afloater with sweet young things home from college and unless we miss our guess our department stores and ladies ready-to-wear places will prosper, for these girls with all the instincts of a siren will wheedle and out of some of these nifty spring models we've seen in our show windows. . . . We wonder if Miss Smith doesn't emulate the late, Anna Held, and take milk baths, for those snowy arms and shoulders rising from black velvet made us green with envy at the Silver Wedding anniversary of the George Beas. . . . and did you notice when Baby Linda grew weary of so much society and yielded to a bored whimper Daddy George was there pronto while Neva nonchalantly chatted on. . . . Little Betty Lou Moss is astonishingly like Granddaddy John DeLoach. . . . She's a charming young miss and converses with the ease of a seasoned socialite.

The party fixings were lovely when Eloise Morris, Willie Mathews and Janie Lee Olliff entertained Friday, and the Easter rabbit completely fooled Arline Brannen. Arline thought it was a felt bunny given as an Easter favor and grabbed the ice cream confection in her hands, remarking as she did, "Oh, I'm going to take mine home to Sue". . . . There were eight very young married couples at the Methodist church last Sunday evening and the minister was so gratified that he called them down and shared with them the lovely bowl of pansies from the altar.

Adventurous boys have been doing big fishing at the Big Ditch, but they are a bit wary of the game warden. . . . So many are making pilgrimages to far-away gardens, but we have more beauty spots in town with each passing springtime. The foundation is already laid for the very loveliest garden at the rear of the Percy Bland home, and Nan Bland is the fair devotee of the soil there. Her plans include a reflecting pool, an outdoor fire place, romantic trellises and three or four hundred plants. Behind it all she plans a garage apartment. . . .

Anne Oliver set a vase of gorgeous purple and white lilies over to Georgia Brett when Georgia entertained her club. . . . We were delighted over the account of the Carlton's Soup Kitchen Supper. It's just the sort of thing Jane advocates. Most of our women run themselves ragged to have difficult parties, now as for me I'd like to say some time soon to my friends, "Oh do come home with me for supper. It's just going to be slumgullion." Did you ever eat any? Well, you shouldn't put it off, and I'm passing it on to those who'd like to have something different like Mrs. Carlton and have loads of fun besides. Why shouldn't we entertain with intelligence and PLEASURE?

Josephine Johnston (you know Marian and Det's Jo) could furnish us with steady copy for this column. The other day we presume it was about lunch time. He said, "Mother, I want to be Uncle Henry's boy." (Uncle Henry is a faithful darkey retainer) and extending his hands, he went on, "I'm a turnin' already." But Marian directed the ambitious young hopeful to the lavatory. How hard hearted we mothers have to be. . . .

The striking looking brunette you've seen on the streets lately is Barton Lowell, the director for "THE CIRCUS," a production being staged by the Legion Auxiliary, and she's had very little difficulty getting snake charmers and bearded ladies. . . . As Ever, Jane Extension Plant Pathologist S. B. Fenne reports that quite a number of fields of Austrian field peas are being affected with blight. He advises care in securing disease-free seed, and warned farmers not to plant Austrian field peas on the same land more than one year out of three, after blight has been observed there.

G. I. Johnson, Extension agricultural engineer, says there are no "quotas" on trench siles in Wilkes County. He points out that from beginning of six trench siles in Wilkes in 1934, the number has increased to 50, with seven being built in 1937.

2.88 MILESTONES Of Georgia's Progress

THE AVERAGE price of electric service in the homes of Georgia served by the Georgia Power Company for the first time in January, 1938, was 2.88 Cents per KWH.

(The depression had just begun, but prices in general were still high. The price of electricity, however, was low for those times. It had been declining almost continuously since 1913.)

The average price of electric service in Georgia's homes for the first time in January, 1934, was 5 Cents per KWH. (A reduction in rates was made in April, 1933. Another reduction became effective January 1, 1934.)

The average price of electric service for the first time in June, 1934, was 4 Cents per KWH. (Still the result of the late rate reduction, together with increased use of electricity for greater comfort and more leisure in Georgia homes.)

The average price of electric service for the first time in November, 1937, was 3 Cents per KWH. (Another rate reduction went into effect January 1, 1937.)

Rates are still on the downward path. The average price in February, 1938, was 2.88 Cents per KWH.

Continuously lower. When the average price dropped below 6 cents, 5 cents, 4 cents and 3 cents—it never went back. Electric rates that rank among the lowest in the nation are another priceless asset of Georgia.

THE NAIL HIT UPON THE HEAD!

Last week we received a letter from one of our readers which is too good to keep in our files. It comes from Mr. J. M. Burgess, a former resident of Statesboro, now living in San Angelo, Tex. Mr. Burgess touches a subject which is close to the hearts of every business man in Statesboro. It is a subject which has been cussed, discussed and re-discussed to the extent that it is almost disgusting to realize that nothing seems to have come of it. We feel sure that Mr. Burgess will be glad to pass his letter on to the other readers of the Bulloch Herald. He writes:

"Having read your editorial 'What of Burton's Ferry?' I am disappointed to learn that the bridge has not been built. With all the fine bridges Huey Long built in Louisiana and the ones we have in Texas I was certain that Pete Donaldson would have long since had this bridge completed. You are right when you say: 'There has been enough correspondence between interested parties regarding Burton's Ferry Route', but the trouble is, words do not build bridges, it takes concrete action as well as concrete and steel. Bulloch county deserves this route and should have had it long ago. Your editorial recalls to my mind the delegation that came over from Allendale, S. C. Mr. W. B. Moore wired Congressman Chas. G. Edwards in Washington and Mr. Edwards immediately introduced a bill in Congress authorizing the construction of same. A few months later Dr. R. J. Kennedy announced that the federal engineers were making a survey and I was so pleased over the matter that one Sunday afternoon I drove over in Screven and went down as far in the swamps as I could go and came back home and told the folks at the Brooks House that the bridge would be completed in twelve months.

"Well, lots of water has passed down the old river since that time in 1927 and no bridge yet. And as you say EVENTUALLY you will get it, BUT WHY NOT NOW? To do this it is my opinion the most important thing you need is the hearty cooperation of Augusta and Savannah, something I do not think you have had any too much of, up to the present.

"After six years of cotton curtailment the South capped it off by making nearly nineteen million bales in 1937. Give West Texas a few inches of rain this year and enough cotton will be made regardless of how much acreage is reduced.

Congratulations to you on your paper.
Very truly yours,
J. M. Burgess, San Angelo, Texas."
The nail has been hit upon the head!

TAKE CARE OF YOUR CHILD'S TEETH

In a recent survey of seven schools in Bulloch county one of our local dentist found that of the 2,097 children examined 1,273 were found to have 3,342 defective teeth.

In commenting on the survey Dr. H. E. Mc-Tyre, Bulloch County Health Commissioner, states that although some of the survey was conducted last fall, giving ample time for corrections to have been made, a very small percentage has had any type of correction.

There is one very important reason for giving the teeth of children good care. It is essential to maintain good health. No untrained person can realize the nervous reactions from a toothache or the effect upon digestion of poor mastication, due to a single aching tooth.

When the pulp is dying, the family usually is made conscious of the child's suffering by his loss of sleep and poor digestion, all of which lower his resistance to epidemics; but before the active pain makes him annoy them the average family pays no attention to the child's teeth. It is a duty of the dental profession to awaken parents to the need for children to have dental care before tooth decay can get a foothold.

When working with parents, every dentist should seize the opportunity to explain that carries or tooth decay is a preventable disease, if early care is given. There is a time in the life of every individual when the proper application of our simplest remedies would prevent the long list of ills described under the head of infective foci. This care consists of proper diet and oral hygiene, both of which are regulated by the mother and not the dentist.

The dentist has already examined your child. He made certain recommendations regarding your child's teeth. Do not ignore these recommendations. They will save your child and you hours of discomfort and worry later.

THE GOOD OLD WHITEWASH

What makes the oldest hen house neat?

The whitewash,
What makes the pigpen smell so sweet
The whitewash,
What renovates them through and through,
Makes rotten posts as good as new
And stops the holes the rats gnaw, too?
The whitewash,
The good old whitewash.

What is it cures the country's ills?
The whitewash,
What pays the fool consumer's bills
The whitewash,
Let poets sing of 606
And the other dope that doctors mix;
There's naught this side the river Styx
Like good old whitewash.
What makes administrations clean?
The whitewash,

And every critic false and mean?
The whitewash,
When favorite lackeys step awry,
And many wrongs for right cry,
What's sure to fill the public eye?
The whitewash,
The good old whitewash.
What makes a man of any mutt?
The whitewash,

And gentlemen where flunkies strut?
The whitewash,
The Constitution's guarantees,
The laws and justice on their knees,
What makes one proud of sights like these,
The whitewash,
The good old whitewash.
What bureau's work is never done?
The whitewash,

Although it runs by moon and sun?
The whitewash,
When Peter opens the books on high
With all the public standing by
For what will some folks vainly sigh?
The whitewash,
The good old whitewash.

OIL DRILLING IN SOUTH GEORGIA

Perhaps it would be well to suspend "wise-cracking" as far as possible, while a serious test of the possibilities of oil discovery in South Georgia is under way. Many attempts in recent years to find gold in North Georgia in sufficiently paying quantities to warrant continued operation have proven fruitless in the vicinity of Dahlonega, once a flourishing gold field, and the efforts to find oil in South Georgia may prove equally futile, but there should be general satisfaction in the fact that the Pan-American Production Company has announced that a deep well is to be started near Offerman in Pierce county, something more than a hundred miles to the southwestward of Savannah, about April 2.—Savannah Morning News.

An easy way to commit suicide is to walk on the highway at night dressed in dark clothing. It nearly always succeeds.

Here is a complete course of instruction in one short lesson for making a good after dinner speech: Have a good beginning and a strong ending, and keep them close together.

"Well, all I've got to say," we overheard a woman remark to her friend on the streets Saturday, with whom she was discussing a certain man, "is that it takes a lot of imagination to see any good in that man."

TO THE LADIES

By ADELAIDE BARNETT

To safeguard baby's health, is a challenge that every Mother is thrilled to accept. Advantages that the weatheriest mother could not give her baby a few years ago may now be had by all of us. Vegetables, fruits and cereals come to you in cans. They are of a fine, smooth texture, thus making them easier to digest. Your baby food can be bought in your local stores.

How long has it been since you spent as much time looking at a beautiful painting as in selecting a lipstick? How about giving at least as much thought to inside beauty treatments as you do to exterior ones. By the time that you are fifty your face shows exactly the kind of person that you have been. Lines are inevitable of course, but they don't matter as long as you get nice ones—the ones that come from laughter, sympathy, even tears for the sorrows of others. Every time that you refrain from passing on some malicious gossip you lessen your chances of getting a hard look around your eyes. Every time that you are glad about some other person's success, you have defeated, for the moment, the inner imp who enjoys making the corners of your mouth turn down instead of up.

THIS WEEK'S PRIZE RECIPE

Here is the recipe that wins, for Miss Emma Slater of Brooklet, Ga., a six months subscription to the Bulloch Herald.

1 qt. cooked tomatoes
Chopped onion
Soda crackers
Butter
1 lb. grated cheese
Salt and pepper
Cook tomatoes and season to taste. Crumble layer of crackers in bottom of baking dish, then layer of grated cheese, then layer of tomatoes, butter and onion. Continue until dish is filled. Sprinkle cheese over top and bake.

The Duchess of Windsor, the former "Wally" Simpson, was again named the world's best dressed woman. We might all take advantage of the key-note in her dress, at all times—simplicity. For day time she favors tailored suits and dresses, for evening, simple white that molds the figure. She is always perfectly turned out with not a wrinkle in her clothes or a hair out of place.

Footwear continues the harmonious spring picture. Open toes are smart and important. Shoes can be gay in either design or color—so is entirely an individual matter.
Don't put your Sunday roast into a hot oven and sizzle the life out of it just for the sake of browning it. Roast it in a moderate oven, not more than 350 degrees, and it will be juicier and tastier than ever before, and a beautiful brown into the bargain, and don't add water or a cover.
Did You Know: That small new potatoes and peas make a good soup?
That a little starch added to the water used in washing windows will not only help to clean them but will keep them from streaking?
That we'll be seeing you next week? Give a lasting polish?

BULLOCH STOCKYARD SHIPS THREE CARS TUESDAY

The Bulloch Stock Yards shipped three cars of livestock from their sale Tuesday of last week.

Number one hogs sold for $7.65 to $7.75 a hundred pounds. Walter Perkins of Millen had one lot of hogs which sold for $7.90 hundred pounds. The lot consisted of thirty head. There was a good demand for feeder pigs. One lot of pigs, average sixty pounds, brought $9.50 a hundred pounds. The market on both hogs and cattle was slightly off, though good beef sold from 6-12 to seven cents. Mature yearlings and cows sold exceptionally well. Ben L. Gay of Bulloch county sold ten head of cattle for an average of $7.75 a hundred pounds.

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MEET WEDNESDAY

On last Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock the Nevills Home Demonstration Club held its regular meeting. The following program was rendered: Devotional by Mrs. Rufus Brannen.

Address on "Facts on the Life of Frank L. Stanton, by Mrs. G. C. Avery.
Reading: "Sweet Little Woman of Mine," written by Frank L. Stanton, and given by Louella Futch.
Songs, "Mighty Like A Rose" and "Just a Wearying For You" by Audience.

MISS ADAMS HOSTESS FRIDAY NIGHT
Miss Emma L. Adams entertained her music and expression pupils last Friday night with a party given in the home of Mrs. B. G. Hodges. Mrs. W. J. Davis presided over the registering book and met the guests. Mrs. R. G. Hodges was assisted in entertaining and directing the games by Misses Maude White and Robena Hodges.

Many games were played. Each member of this group invited a guest, about fifty people were present. The outstanding feature of the evening was the "Matching Balloon Games." An inflated balloon carrying the name of the batter, was batted across the room to a group of girls. Each girl scrambled for a balloon, in this way couples were formed and they marched to the spacious dining room where a delicious course of sandwiches, cake, fruit and punch were served.

The club will hold all future meetings at 3:30 o'clock. The most outstanding feature of the program was the talk given by Miss Willis Vie Dowdy, Extension Economist on Home Improvements, on "The Convenient Arrangement of the Kitchen." Miss Dowdy in a very pleasing manner stated that all homes should be arranged; "Economically Sound (Make more than you spend), Mechanically Convenient, Physically Healthful, Morally Wholesome, Mentally Stimulating, Artistically Satisfying, Socially Responsible and Spiritually Inspiring." She emphatically said all families should save 10 per cent of every dollar made. In stressing kitchen improvements she placed special emphasis on "The Cooking Center," "The Serving Center" and "The Food Preparation Center." She said most kitchens were built too large with all the furniture and utensils placed for beauty rather than convenience. She asked all to follow this motto in the kitchen, "Let Head Save Heels." She gave splendid instructions on the following topics of your kitchen, ventilation, lighting, arrangement of equipment, water supply, floors, table covers and painting the walls of your kitchen and the colors to use. Miss Dowdy was very much enjoyed and all expressed their desire of having her visit with them again.

The club will hold all future meetings at 3:30 o'clock. The most outstanding feature of the program was the talk given by Miss Willis Vie Dowdy, Extension Economist on Home Improvements, on "The Convenient Arrangement of the Kitchen." Miss Dowdy in a very pleasing manner stated that all homes should be arranged; "Economically Sound (Make more than you spend), Mechanically Convenient, Physically Healthful, Morally Wholesome, Mentally Stimulating, Artistically Satisfying, Socially Responsible and Spiritually Inspiring." She emphatically said all families should save 10 per cent of every dollar made. In stressing kitchen improvements she placed special emphasis on "The Cooking Center," "The Serving Center" and "The Food Preparation Center." She said most kitchens were built too large with all the furniture and utensils placed for beauty rather than convenience. She asked all to follow this motto in the kitchen, "Let Head Save Heels." She gave splendid instructions on the following topics of your kitchen, ventilation, lighting, arrangement of equipment, water supply, floors, table covers and painting the walls of your kitchen and the colors to use. Miss Dowdy was very much enjoyed and all expressed their desire of having her visit with them again.

The High School students enjoyed it very much and our Senior Post, Miss Ruby Burned wrote the following poem in dedication to the entire school

MISS MALLARD LOVELY BRIDE-ELECT HONOREE AT AFTERNOON BRIDGE

Miss Pauline Mallard, whose marriage to Alton Settles of Rocky Mount, N. C. will be an event of next month, was the inspiration of a lovely bridge party given Thursday afternoon by Miss Alfred Merle Dorman at her home on Savannah avenue.

Dogwood blossoms in graceful arrangement and pink radiance, roses gave additional beauty to the rooms where tables were placed for the guests. Dainty home made refreshments from sweetheart roses awaited each guest, and Miss Mallard was presented with a corsage of sweetheart roses. Miss Dorman's gift to the honoree was a piece of china matching her set.

Mrs. Sidney Lanier received stationery for high score, for 2nd high, Mrs. Eugene Mitchell received correspondence cards. Miss Grace McNorrell was awarded correspondence cards for cut.

At the conclusion of the games delightful refreshments consisting of chicken salad, saltines, olives, egg fluff and ice cream were served.

The guest of honor wore a modish afternoon frock of rose alpaca made bolero style and trimmed with navy blue taffeta. Her hat, a navy and rose model, had introductions of fish net in the back and tied under the chin with navy ribbon.

Miss Dorman's guests included: Miss Miller, Grace Gray, Jurelle Shuptrine, Emily Akins, Isabel Sorrier, Mary Eva Sowell, of Stillson, Mary Lovett Sharpe of Savannah, Mrs. S. Lanier, Mrs. Eugene Mitchell, Grace McNorrell and Mrs. William Deal.

MRS. DEAL AND MISS McNORRILL HONOR

MISS PAULINE MALLARD

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Grace McNorrell and Mrs. William Deal, who both have apartments with Mrs. W. H. Kennedy on South Main street, were co-hostesses at a lovely afternoon bridge party complimenting Miss Pauline Mallard, whose engagement to Alton Settles of Rocky Mt. N. C. was recently announced.

Quantities of dogwood, cherokee roses and spruce were used to decorate the rooms where the guests assembled. Three tables were placed for bridge guests and one table was placed for guests who called later for tea.

Miss Mallard was presented by her hostesses with a piece of china matching her set. Miss Julia Reese won high score and was given a double deck of cards. Miss Alfred Merle Dorman received a handkerchief for follow, and Mrs. Sidney Lanier received note paper for cut.

Late in the afternoon the hostesses served a dainty salad course. Sprays of valley lilies tied with white ribbons anticipated the approaching nuptials.

Miss Mallard was lovely in a powder blue sheer wool with a corsage of pink roses.

This party was the first in a series planned for the popular bridge-elect.

RECENT BRIDE HONOREE AT STATED TEA

Mrs. Marvin Pittman and Miss Martha Donaldson entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of the former with a lovely seated tea honoring Mrs. Talmadge Ramsey, whose marriage was an event of February 16th.

The spacious rooms were artistically decorated with roses, with red roses predominating. These lovely flowers furnished a fitting background for the "Musical Romance" which was the chief feature of entertainment. The clever skit was prepared and presented by Miss Donaldson and furnished great amusement as the story of Frances' and Talmadge's romance was developed to a musical accompaniment supplied by Miss Aline Whiteside. The story was in the form of a contest and Mrs. John Mooney was awarded the prize.

Delicious refreshments consisting of a variety of sandwiches, cake, and an iced drink were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Walter Alfred Jr. and Miss Dorothy Brannen.

The guests were Mrs. Talmadge Ramsey, Mrs. J. L. Matthews, Mrs. Walter Alfred Jr., Mrs. B. H. Ramsey, Mrs. J. C. Hines, Mrs. Henry Ellis, Mrs. Lewis Ellis, Mrs. Jim Donaldson, Mrs. Bob Pound, Mrs. R. L. Cone, Mrs. Lovell Mallard, Mrs. R. J. Kennedy, Mrs. John Mooney, Mrs. Hollis Cannon, Mrs. Ed McTye, Miss Sara Mooney, Miss Aline Whiteside, Miss Carol Anderson, Miss Cecile Brannen, Miss Grace Gray and Miss Dorothy Brannen.

ALL'S FAIR

Jane interviews this week Miss Bartan Lowell, director of the circus, a stage production being sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Q. How do you like Statesboro? A. I was quite thrilled with Statesboro, for I was relieved to find it much different from Dover where I spent three-quarters of an hour having a heart to heart talk with a donkey and three pigs and silently praying that Statesboro would offer more possibilities. I really like Statesboro because it's warm, lazy and romantic, and makes me want to go rural and milk cows and plow several fields—but I won't, of course.

Q. Have you found talent here? A. Oh, quite definitely!

Q. Be more specific, Miss Lowell. Our public likes names in this column. Who plays your lead? A. Naturally I look for pleasing personality for my leading roles, and I feel that Buster Bowen can fill this part adequately.

Q. On whom are you relying for comedy? A. All the characters supply a certain amount of comedy.

Q. Are there no notable comedians in your cast? A. My parts aren't definitely set, but Dr. Lane read 'Barde', the amorous bearded lady, at my first rehearsal while the rest of the cast became slightly hysterical and rolled in the aisles. Tony, the excitable balloon man, who frantically tears his hair through both acts of the Circus will be played by Bing Phillips or C. C. McCollum, either of whom will be very funny. Mabel, the Lion, is always appreciated, and in this instance will be played by Crook Smith. Ralph Cat will fill the front end of Maudie, the Donkey, and I refuse to commit myself about the other part of Maudie's anatomy. This also promises to be an amusing part—No pun intended.

Q. What is the most thrilling moment in the Circus? A. Of course, after directing the Circus 35 times I can't say that I become thrilled about any of it, but I'm sure that Kermit Carr playing Rajah the Magician will thrill everybody as he hypnotizes somebody in the audience and proceeds to decapitate him from the proverbial 'soup to nuts'.

Q. Have you successfully filled the roles of your side show freaks? A. I think that Roy Beaver played Little Luella the Fat Lady will be an enormous success. (Forgive me, Mr. Beaver.) Will Hagin will eat a seven course dinner consisting of fire from the proverbial 'soup to nuts'.

Q. Don't you have any feminine roles in the Circus? A. Yes, Dorothy Phillips has a principal part and Mrs. Kennon is coy and kittenish as Lady Van Mildew. I also have eighteen of the loveliest high school girls dancing in the two routines.

Q. A circus isn't complete without clowns. Will there be any in your show? A. I have some very cute young men who are clowns without any effort. They are Johnnie Phelps, Bill Brigham, Lloyd Lanier, Charlie Layton, Dell Pearson, Luke Anderson, Z. L. Strange, Awtry Northcutt and Dub Lovett. I have a mock wedding in the clown acts and Bill Brigham is very sweet and feminine as the blushing bride.

AS EVER, JANE.

MRS. WOODCOCK HOSTESS TO THREE O'CLOCKS

Mrs. Wilburn Woodcock entertained the members of her club on Thursday afternoon at her home on Savannah avenue. The attractive room was decorated with gladioli and roses.

Miss Brooks Grimes received for the high score a bridge set. Mrs. Hugh Arundel was given tea napkins for second high. The hostess served a salad course and iced tea.

Drivers whose cars are improperly lighted will be required to leave them where stopped until the lights have been fixed or they will be given the alternative of having a case made against them for failure to observe the Motor Vehicle Law.

This Shingle Pays a Return on Your Investment

Your money comes back in fuel saved: in greater home comfort, winter and summer: in added roof beauty. This is the only shingle built with outside slow surface for weather protection: cork layer underneath for insulation. Tests show that it is easily possible for a roof of Carey Cork-Insulated Shingles to return its slight additional cost over plain asphalt shingles through the fuel saving in a single winter. Before you re-roof or build, come in or write and get all the facts about this shingle that gives you TWO values at ONE cost.

Here's Proof
Place flying pan on hot stove. Lay in three shingles and square of plain asphalt. Place火柴 on each square. As shingles burn, plain asphalt shingle is too hot to touch while the cork-insulated Carey Cork-Insulated Shingles—proof that the cork-block retards penetration of heat.

That Mrs. A. J. Atterbury be paid $3.00 per month, to be paid to D. B. Franklin.

That the Basley Orphans Home be paid $10.00 per month for the care of four minor children of Ralston Jones, now living in and being cared for by his home.

W. M. Hodges having tendered his resignation as notary public and ex-officio Justice of the peace for the 1340th G. M. district of Bulloch county, we recommend the appointment of H. W. Futch to fill this office in said district and county.

J. F. Everett having tendered his resignation as notary public and ex-officio Justice of the peace for the 48th G. M. district of Bulloch county, we recommend the appointment of O. O. Stewart to fill his place in this office in said district and county.

It appearing to the grand jury that there are vacancies in the board of education of said county caused by the expiration of the term of office of W. C. Cromley and by the resignation of C. B. Gay, it is recommended that W. C. Cromley be reappointed to succeed himself and that E. L. Womack of Port, Ga., be appointed to succeed Mr. Gay, who has resigned.

We recommend that our representatives in the general assembly for the year 1938 have the present act creating a tax commissioner ex-officio sheriff of Bulloch county in order that all collection of taxes may be made through this office.

We have made a casual survey of the condition of the county in a financial way and as the case presents itself to us we feel that in order to carry on as a county the time is fast approaching when other sources of revenue will of necessity have to be provided in order to maintain our county institutions, highways and courts. It is our understanding that the household and homestead exemptions will deprive the county of a large portion of its revenue leaving the county in a badly crippled condition. We wish to go on record as believers in local self government inasmuch as our counties are concerned and that we as a body are opposed to any idea of centralization that will in the least affect the rights of our county. As a body we realize that other means of taxation for the county's support will have to be sought and for this reason we are asking for the constructive citizenship of our county begin at once to give this matter due thought and consideration in order that our representatives in the next general assembly may be thoroughly advised as to the attitude of our people in these matters. We feel that any legislation in the future in the matter of taxes should be first considered from the standpoint of the counties of the state relative to their support and maintenance. We are asking that the citizenry of our county as a whole begin to give this matter their consideration. We further ask that our press and civic bodies take up this matter and give the public the benefit of their opinion in all these premises.

At the request of the solicitor general we have made an investigation of criticisms lodged against more certain of our court officials. No evidence has been submitted to this body to warrant our finding an indictment or lodging any charge of misconduct against such officials. However, in the future we carefully caution our court officers to be extremely vigilant in the administration of the courts affairs, leaving no room for their misconception of their actions by the public.

We recommend that these presentments be published in the Bulloch Times.

We recommend that our clerk, W. D. Kennedy, be paid the sum of $5.00 for his services to this body.

We desire to express the appreciation and thanks of this body to his honor Judge William Woodrum for his able charge, and to the solicitor general, W. G. Neville, for his assistance and counsel in matters coming before this body.

R. H. Warnock, Foreman.
W. D. Kennedy, Clerk.
Approved, this 23rd day of March, 1938.
Wm. Woodrum, Judge, O. G. C.

Increase In Demand
For Improved Grade
Of Cotton

It is advised by many of those who have made thorough studies of the cotton situation from a world-wide standpoint that South Carolina growers should devote their efforts to the production of cotton of superior staples and quality. While it is well known that there has been an over-production of cotton, it is not generally known that there has been an increasing demand for the better grade of cotton at substantial premiums. The production of such cotton, therefore, appears to be the solution of the problem facing the growers of the South. This can best be accomplished by following the recommendations of the Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations.

It is of greatest importance to plant varieties of cotton which are known to produce a high yield of superior staple. There are many good varieties of such cotton now being marketed by seed breeders throughout the South. After selecting a suitable variety of cotton, it is essential that proper attention be given to the matter of fertilization and cultural methods in order to produce the greatest possible yields.

Recent publications by the Experiment Station of South Carolina, North Carolina and Georgia show that a high ratio of potash in the fertilizer applied to cotton is of prime importance in the production of high yields of the quality of cotton now in demand. In addition it is significant that those growers who are consistent winners in the state-wide 5 acre cotton contest make a practice of applying plenty of potash to their crops.

Many of these high producers are finding it profitable to use a high ratio of potash in the fertilizer mixture applied before planting and to supplement this with additional potash as a side-dressing at chopping time. Second applications are especially important on soils where cotton is inclined to rust.

When an ample amount of potash is applied, large well-developed bolls are produced, the staple is better and is more uniform, rust is prevented or controlled and picking is made easier. Potash is recognized as one of the cheapest fertilizer materials available. As a consequence fertilizer mixtures containing from 6 to 10 per cent potash are rapidly gaining in popularity and the cost is only a few cents per acre more than is paid for mixtures containing 3 and 4 per cent of potash.

Three glorious days awaits you on April 6, 7, 8th.

Local Officials Endorse Drive Safely Crusade

TO OBSERVE COMMON SENSE RULES IN DRIVING ON HIGH-WAYS: CAMPAIGN IS STATE WIDE

Prominent local citizens from every walk of life have heartily endorsed the "Drive Safely" Crusade which is being sponsored by the Colonial Oil Company and its dealers.

Commenting on this drive to save lives, avoid accidents and prevent injuries, Dr. A. J. Mooney, president of the Statesboro Rotary Club states it is in direct line with the aims of the Rotary Club in the operation of its Safety Campaign. He states that such a campaign puts every person on his honor to keep a sincere pledge to drive safely.

The Golden Rule of driving is the basis of the "Drive Safely" pledge which every motorist is being asked to sign in the "Drive Safely" Crusade. If every motorist will observe the rights of others and "drive as you would have others drive," many accidents can be avoided.

Motorists who sign the "Drive Safely Pledge" will receive an attractive metal emblem which will be installed above their rear license plate, reading "Pledged to Drive Safely".
This will act as a constant reminder to themselves and the motorists in back of them to follow the common sense rules of safe driving.

As a further method of keeping safety foremost in the minds of all motorists, monthly contests are being conducted which will handsomely reward motorists. The April contest offers 75 prizes, totaling $1,000 to Georgia motorists for the best slogans on highway safety.

In announcing the "Drive Safely" Crusade, Mr. Wiley Moore, president of the Wofford Oil Company, has emphasized the fact that the purpose of this drive is not to sell merchandise —but to save lives. Motorists who go to Woco-Pep service stations for the pledge cards, "Drive Safely" emblems, or contest entry blanks are under no obligation to buy anything and station owners have been instructed not to solicit business on the occasion of these calls.

In Bulloch County the "Drive Safely" Crusade activities are being directed by Sam J. Franklin, local representative of the Colonial Oil company.

SOCIETY

BIRTHDAY DINNER FOR MR. W. C. AKINS

One of the most enjoyable events of the week was the old fashioned birthday dinner Friday at which good friends assembled at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Akins and family to celebrate Mr. Akins' 63rd birthday.

The scene of the delightful affair was Hickory Lodge on the Dover road where Roger Holland has set up an outdoor kitchen in this rustic spot. The dinner was designated as a fish fry, but the menu contained the fried chicken, barbecue, cakes and pies that delight the appetites of those who attend an outdoor meal. There was also a steaming pot of Bulloch county's renowned Mallowdown Stew. The long table had for its centerpiece the lovely birthday cake with candles.

There were about 125 people present. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Berman, Mr. Hodges, Rex Swain and Mr. and Mrs. Jake Bennett of Savannah, Desie Miller of Augusta, and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. DeLoach of Claxton.

Children and grandchildren present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Akins and sons, Lowell and Levaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Blyse Deal, Miss Sudie Lee Akins and Bobbie Akins.

AFTERNOON BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. A. L. Clifton, Mrs. Bing Brown and Mrs. Homer Simmons Jr. were co-hostesses at a lovely bridge party at the Tea Pot Grille on Tuesday afternoon. Vari-colored spring flowers were used effectively in decorating. The favors, prizes and refreshments reflected the Easter season.

High score prize was a beautiful pot plant. A candy jar filled with candy Easter eggs was given for second high, and cut prize was a cunning pottery Easter bunny containing an attractive pot plant.

During the social hour the guests were served colorful fruit salad garnished with colored Easter eggs, canapés, saltines and iced tea. The favors were miniature candy rabbits.

ALL'S FAIR

"April showers bring May flowers—Also grass in the garden."

Whose nurse is this. (Over telephone) "Hello, who is this please?" "Is it Shing. Mrs. Blank's nurse." "Is Mrs. Blank at home?" "No'm she sho ain't. She went off, an' she ain't got back yet."

Jane views our city—We'd like for some one to sneak out before day and cut down that jungle of reeds in front of the Post Office. Mark off the lawn, and set out grass. Then, if the afternoon sun shines with unbearable warmth in the west windows, we suggest gay striped tropical awnings. There is a tip for you, Mr. Raines.

Dr. Pittman's talk at the Chamber of Commerce Ladies' Night dinner on the Personality of Towns brought to our mind a recent conversation concerning that very topic. These young women were wondering just what one thing would more clearly than anything else characterize Statesboro, and they all agreed that this caption would be more apt than any suggested, "Statesboro, the City of Thrift." Thrift is, as you know in addition to being the virtue of hanging on to cash, is that lovely lilac flower that so beautifully borders nearly every walk in town. This hardy flower was brought here from South Georgia, and we recall seeing it first at Melrose Kennedy's, Mrs. McCrae's and at Holly Donaldsons. Any way it has spread like the proverbial wild-fire. And while we're thinking of the Ladies' Night weren't the favors cunning? Real little Japanese umbrellas all delight the soul of any little girl and then Saturday morning dawn came the April showers as suggested by the prophetic favors.

Martha Donaldson invited the parents of her pupils to a Dutch tea on Thursday afternoon. (No, it doesn't mean what you're up to in a perfectly adorable Dutch costume from quaint peaked cap to wooden shoes, brought to her by Aunt Lila from Holland.

Ladies, don't fool yourself! You definitely do not have a monopoly on the society racket. Some of our men that you think are headed for the alipper and fireside chair, regime are meeting regularly and enjoying their High Five Club. E. C. Oliver, Fred Lanier, Jim Mathews and a host of others are no slouches when it comes to these games.

Orchids to the Dramatic Club—We hope you revelled in the beauty of Cape Cod Maple living room spits, the luxurious rug, the cozy glow from two lovely lamps that the Dramatic club used on the stage of the High School auditorium. Their evening as they presented their One-Act plays. The club bought and paid for this lovely furniture.

Crook Smith as a Lion in the Circus is a Roaring success.

We hear rumors of about five new homes to be built soon. Developing a new section. All of which makes me glad I live in Statesboro. As Ever, JANE.

Eldridge Mount, a student at Georgia Tech spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Mount.

PHILATHEA CLASS SOCIAL The regular social meeting of the Philathea Class of the Baptist church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the country home of Mrs. Arnold Anderson.

After a brief business session presided over by Mrs. Howell Sewell, president of the class, a delightful social hour was enjoyed. Group captives were Mrs. Arnold Anderson, Mrs. A. J. Shelton, Mrs. Gordon Mays and Mrs. Ora Key.

The hostess served a delicious salad course.

AFTERNOON BRIDGE PARTY

Important among the social events of the week was the lovely bridge party given Thursday afternoon at the Woman's club with Mrs. Frank Williams, Mrs. Dan Lester and Mrs. W. D. Anderson as hostesses.

Quantities of spring flowers in artistic arrangement served as a charming setting for the large social contingent assembled at the eighteen tables placed for the players.

Mrs. B. L. Smith was awarded a ficion of Lucien LeLong perfume for the high score; Mrs. Gilbert Cone received correspondence cards for low, and Mrs. John Mooney won as cut prize an attractive travelling kit.

Favors and tallies suggestive of the approaching Easter season were used. The Easter motif was cleverly introduced into the delightful menu served during the social hour. The attractive party plates contained chicken salad, pickles, crackers, salted nuts and white cakes topped by cunning yellow bunnies.

DRAMATIC CLUB HAS BRILLIANT DANCE AT WOMAN'S CLUB

The Woman's Club on Friday evening was the scene of an unusually gala affair as the members of the Dramatic Club assembled with their dates for a dance.

Miss Eleanor Moses and Richard Montgomery charmed the group. Those attending were: Catherine Hodges and Robert Hodges, Margaret Brown and W. R. Lovett, Martha Williams and G. C. Coleman Jr., Betty Smith and Frank Olliff, Margaret Mathews and Roy Hitt, Margaret Anne Johnston and J. Brantley Johnson, Annette Coleman and John Thayer, Martha Evelyn Hodges and Humith Marsh, Maxann Foy and Frank Farr, Liz Smith and Gene L. Hodges, Helen Rowse and Jack Averitt, Sara Alice Bradley and Bob Darby, and Janice Arundel and Awtrye Northcutt, Skeet Kennon and Dight Olliff.

"Lady Windermere's Fan" Goes Into Rehearsals

FIRST ACT BEING WHIPPED INTO SHAPE UNDER DIRECTION OF MRS. J. O. JOHNSTON

Rehearsals for "Lady Windermere's Fan", the play to be presented by the Fine Arts Committee of the Women's club, began last week. The first act, under the direction of Mrs. J. O. Johnston is fast being whipped into a finished condition.

Mrs. Johnston states that the scenes in which the Duchess of Berwick appear, played by Mrs. W. A. Bowen, will furnish some of the highlights of the play. Mrs. Johnston is devoting a great deal of time in working with Gilbert Cone and Mrs. Everett Williams who play the parts of Lord and Lady Windermere. Their parts, according to Mrs. Johnston, represent the portrayal of two of the most dramatic parts attempted in Statesboro by local talent.

W. A. Bowen, playing the part of Lord Augusta Lorton, will furnish the comedy relief in the play, who cannot remember whether he has been married twice and once divorced, or twice divorced and once married. Mrs. Henry Ellis, playing the part of Mrs. Erymme, is the one which causes all the trouble in the story.

Others in the cast are: Leodel Coleman, Harry Aiken, John Temples, Everett Williams, Henry Ellis, Bob Pound, Clyde Jardine, Mrs. Bob Pound, Mrs. Hubert Amason, Mrs. Jim Donaldson, Mrs. Fred Beasley, Mrs. Carl Blackburn and Miss Eunice Lester.

Warnock News

WARNOCK SCHOOL The Warnock P. T. A. held its April meeting at the school on Friday April 1st, at 2 o'clock. After a short program, business was discussed. Since our auditorium is almost completed, plans were begun on a dedication program. As soon as plans are complete, further announcement will be made.

A group of Rosenwald directors, accompanied by Miss Franchet visited our school this week. Most all the grades now have a science table. It is quite interesting to visit these rooms and see little plants growing.

The pupils in the first four grades went to see Shirley Temple in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" last Monday. All the youngsters had a good time. Some of the high school pupils have been writing original poems. Below you will read one written by a high school girl:

Keep chicks and adult birds separate. Baby chicks should not be allowed to run on land that grown fowls have used.

Statesboro To Observe Air Mail Week

ALL MAIL FROM HERE DURING AIR MAIL WEEK WILL ADVERTISE STATESBORO AND BULLOCH COUNTY

Statesboro will participate in the celebration of National Air Mail Week May 15 to 21, it was announced today by Postmaster Geo. T. Groover at the local post office.

Plans for the national celebration were officially begun on March 20 with the announcement of the appointment of state chairman by Paul R. Younts, postmaster, Charlotte, N. C., who is national chairman.

L. F. Livingston, postmaster, Atlanta is chairman for Georgia. D. E. Flanders, postmaster, Swainsboro, is district chairman and Geo. I. Groover, postmaster, Statesboro, is chairman for Bulloch county.

A casket featuring air mail week and advertising Statesboro and Bulloch county will be stamped on all letters passing through local office during the week.

Air Mail Week is celebrated to make patrons of the Postal Service air-minded, with emphasis on the development of air mail in recent years.

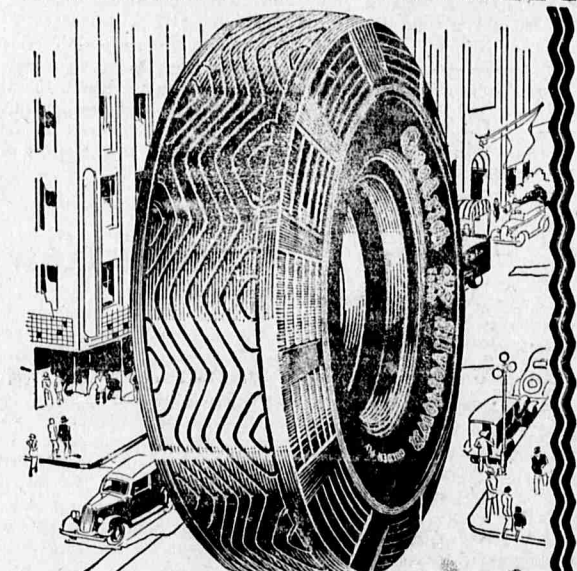

Twenty years ago there was no air mail service. The route was established on May 15, 1918, with short line operating between New York and Washington, a distance of 218 miles, and was operated in two relays. The high speed for a mail in recent years was about 80 miles per hour.

Today scheduled flights of 1,000 miles with capacity loads of mail, express and passengers and with speed of 175 miles per hour are common occurrences. Air mail travels from New York to California overnight. Air mail travels from Statesboro to New York or Chicago overnight.

The service has developed in twenty years from 218 miles until today air routes total 68,826 miles. Mail planes flew during last year more than 70,000,000 miles.

LETS PRESENT A SOLID FRONT

With interest right now running rather high on the proposed Burton Ferry's Route it seems to be an opportune time to begin applying the pressure. Last week a meeting was held in Atlanta with representatives from Sylvania, Statesboro, Claxton, Glennville, Loudiwei, Jesup, Nahantia and Folkston and the members of the highway board in conference. The discussion became rather complicated to the average person. In listening to anyone attempt to explain why Burton's Ferry cannot be completed now, one becomes so confused that one wonders if Burton Ferry is not just a dream. It has been a dream for a great number of years. Meetings have been held in Atlanta time after time. Meetings all up and down the proposed route. And all the while other routes are being completed; new routes are being worked on. And Burton's Ferry is still just a promise.

But it occurs to us that if we start at home on this thing we might get somewhere. All the right-of-way deeds from Statesboro to the river have been secured except one for the extra 100 feet required by the highway department through creeks and swamps. This deed is being held up because the land owner wishes to secure a concession on another road from the local board of commissioners. The board has offered to pay for this additional 100 feet but the land owner will not agree to accept it. He admits that he intends to let them have the footage they require but not until he secures the concession he is asking on the other road, a community road. If this were straightened out it still might be months before there would be any further consideration on the Burton's Ferry Route, but it seems to us that we could present a better case if we could say that cooperation was being given wholeheartedly all down the line.

Lets forget our personal benefits on this thing. Think of the greater good for the greater number which is the basis for every civic move for the betterment of a community, every county, and every state. A solid front goes a long way when presented to anyone, even to a highway board.

SAFETY AGAIN
With our highways being improved all the time, with automobiles being built faster and faster and more and more people driving, too much cannot be said about "DRIVING SAFELY."

Some few weeks ago the Statesboro Rotary club set up a Safety Council and adopted a set of safety rules and regulations. At each meeting since the organization of that council each member of the club that has violated one or more of these rules and regulations reports himself and pays the fine set by the recorder. Since this council has been operating in the club, infractions of the safety rules have been reduced to a very low number.

Now a large commercial organization has begun a DRIVE SAFELY campaign which is state-wide in its scope. Automobile drivers are being asked to sign a pledge. This pledge does not set down any hard and fast rules but merely pledges the motorist to apply the Golden Rule to driving, to consider the rights of others, to observe state and local traffic regulations, and to apply the common sense rules of safe driving. This is a pledge which every good citizen will gladly make.

TO THE LADIES

A prominent man says that his great success is not based on his knowledge of his steel business but on his knowledge of how to handle men. Every wife who makes a success of marriage could say the same thing. It rests on her knowledge of how to handle her man. All husbands have their peculiarities and faults that no wife can cure or alter. Also they have their pet vanities to which a wife cannot appeal and by which she can manage them if she is willing to take the time and trouble. For instance, it takes far less time to clean up the cigarette ashes from the floor than it does to have a quarrel about his dropping them. It isn't as new wearing as clean up the bathroom after him as it is to have a scene over the way he left it. There is no other branch of study that so well pays a wife as learning how to handle her husband.

Every spring wardrobe should include a set of dress accessories that you can possibly afford—colored gloves, bright flowers, huge handbags, unusual hats, gay blouses, exciting footwear—and you can make one suit seem like several.

According To The Record

Dear Mr. Editor:

This morning we ran into our good old friend, Mr. Graphophone, who immediately after our customary greetings turned on a record and let us have the latest news from his disc. It seems that he had been cutting down new ground and the weeds there needed hawking. And did he know his dirt?

Mr. Graphophone says to us: "Did you know there grass-rootsers are in convention again?" Noting that in his eye we determined to find out if our suspicions were well grounded, so we asked him: "Where is the convention and what is its purpose?"

Without any more cranking of the old machine the record started to play. EASTER

For forty centuries, in unbroken column, the race of man had been marching into the shadows, and of all the millions who had descended into the shadowed valley, not one had ever returned. No dead human form through all the centuries had risen up into a post-mortem life. There was in all Earth's area not one empty grave. No human heart believed, no human voice declared that there was such a grave—a grave robbed by the power of a victor stronger than man's great enemy, death. It was therefore a new and wonderful message which the Apostle communicated, when unto the dying grade of men he lifted up his voice in the words: "One human form has risen from the dead; one grave of earth is empty; the man Christ, Jesus who was dead, is alive again."

VOTE YOUR CONVICTION TOMORROW

Bulloch county citizens will have the opportunity tomorrow to decide for themselves if they desire to legalize and control the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages, or whether they wish to continue in force the so-called prohibition law, which in the past has been a sham and a farce.

We wish to impress upon the voters of Bulloch county the importance of casting their ballots in tomorrow's referendum, regardless of whether they favor repeal or oppose it, so that the results of the election will represent a true and convincing mandate from the people.

LET'S RE-ROUTE HEAVY TRUCK TRAFFIC

Someday one of those large gasoline tank trucks is going to blow up in an explosion on our streets that will rock Statesboro's very foundations.

We have noticed that all heavy truck traffic which pass through Statesboro, these gasoline trucks included, come in and out at a speed far in excess of any possible safety margin. They come in and pile up under the red light at the intersections of the four Main Streets.

It occurs to us that all this heavy truck traffic could be re-routed so that it would not have to come through the business section of the city. Let all such South bound traffic turn left at S. W. Lewis arge, down Hill Street to the railroad, make a right turn and come out on East Main Street between the bus station and the Central of Georgia depot. All North bound traffic would reverse the route, make a right turn at the depot and a left turn at Hill Street to come out on North Main Street at S. W. Lewis' garage.

This is the route the buses use coming in to and out of Statesboro. The drivers state that they had rather use this route. Such arrangement would surely mean a greater safety margin for the automobile drivers of Statesboro and relieve East Main and North Main Streets of that heavy traffic that obstructs traffic.

WHITTLE DOWN THE SURPLUS

It is not the fault of the new Farm Act that cotton is sick. It is unfair to blame the law for something that happened before it was born. Neither is it reasonable to expect it to master a probable 12,000,000-bale carry-over in one year. Most farmers realize that so far as cotton supplies are concerned we are not far from the situation that existed in 1932. The only course open to us is to "hit the saw dust trail" again and gradually whittle down the surplus. If the new act can bring the carry-over to normal within three years it will have proved its efficiency.—The Progressive Farmer.

HOW WE COULD GET BURTON'S FERRY ROUTE

With interest reviving in the Burton's Ferry route, a number of people are asking us how to go about trying to get this route completed as soon as possible. In talking with a number of those who have had the most to do with such projects we have worked out this possible method for obtaining an early completion of the Burton's Ferry Route in Georgia.

First, perfect a strong Route Organization from Sylvania to Folkston, with an active and aggressive outstanding man to head such an organization. Then let each county commissioner group elect either one of their number, or the most progressive, aggressive and outstanding man the county affords to represent them at organization meetings and with power to act for them. If possible the organization should have a paid secretary who could devote his whole time to the promotion of the route in cooperation with the Highway Board and keeping a degree of peace in such an organization.

Second: Start at once with the Highway Board, Bureau of Public Roads, Association of State Highway Engineers, the Governor, our Congressmen, and the U. S. Senators to have this route taken into the Federal Aid System and also assigned a U. S. route number.

Third: Have delegates call on the Highway Board and Governor at least every two weeks from some county along the route. Have interested citizens write the Board or the Governor, so that there will be one or more letters going into Atlanta on this thing every day.

Fourth: Fight as a body and individually for grading contracts all along the route.

Fifth: Bring all the pressure possible to bear on the Board to have the Ogeechee River and Central of Georgia bridges put on the 1939 Federal Aid program.

Sixth: Fight for high type paving material, so that once the route is completed, it won't be closed for repairs. Since the paving is the most important and also the most expensive encountered, the board cannot be expected to pave the whole route in one year unless they use the cheapest material available. Therefore, the paving of this 200 mile stretch can be expected to last at least three years. The ungraded or newly graded counties should help the counties with the oldest or settled grades get their pavement first. Under such a program we could make those with the power to give us this route feel our wishes. With such a concerted program there cannot be any doubt that they would listen to us.

Why, it might even get us the Burton Ferry Route!

REASONS TO GO TO CHURCH

(From the Herald-Journal, by Theodore Roosevelt)

I. In this actual world, a churchless community, a community where men have abandoned and scoffed at or ignored their religious needs, is a community on the rapid down grade.

II. Church work and church attendance mean the cultivation of the feeling of some responsibility of others.

III. There is enough holidays for most of us. Sundays differ from other holidays in the fact that there are fifty-two of them every year—Therefore on Sundays go to church. IV. Yes, I know all the excuses. I know that one can worship the creator in a grove of trees or by a running brook, or in a man's own house just as well as in church. But I also know as a matter of fact the average man does not thus worship.

V. He may not hear a good sermon at the church. He will hear a sermon by a good man who, with his good wife, is engaged all the week in making hard lives a little easier. VI. He will listen to and take part in reading some beautiful passages from the Bible. And if he is not familiar with the Bible, he has suffered a loss.

VIII. He will take part in singing good hymns.

VIII. He will meet and nod or speak to good quiet neighbors. He will come away feeling a little more charitable toward all the world even toward those excessively foolish young men who regard church-going as a soft performance.

IX. I advocate a man's joining in church work for the sake of showing his faith by his work.

To The Ladies

With Strawberry season on us I think that it may be of interest TO THE LADIES to include strawberry recipes in your column. The wise housewife will want to preserve her strawberries for winter use. They add a pleasing variety to the winter diet and are delicious when preserved or made into jam. Strawberry shrub makes a very delicious drink. Plain canned strawberries may be used for making short cakes and pies, but it is recommended that strawberries be made into preserves and jam rather than be canned.

WORK ON SHEPARD'S NEW TOBACCO WAREHOUSE IS WELL UNDER WAY

The work on the new tobacco warehouse at the corner of College Street and Bulloch Street is moving along at a satisfactory pace said Mr. R. E. Shepard who is building one of the largest tobacco warehouses in the state here.

More than three-fifths of the floor space in the new house will be of concrete it was learned. The brick pillars which will support that part of the floor which will be wood are complete and work will begin on the concrete section at an early date. About twenty men are now working but a considerable larger number is to be employed in a short time. The new warehouse will be completed sometime in June.

9 cups sugar, 1 cup water.

Wash and hull berries before measuring. Put sugar and water into preserving kettle, stir and boil until sugar is well dissolved. (This amount of sugar and water gives a very heavy syrup). Cook syrup thick as desired, add strawberries and boil 15 minutes (rolling boil). Start timing when rolling boil begins. Do not stir but shake the kettle and skim. Pour into flat pans or trays and shake occasionally until cold. The shaking is the secret of success; it causes the berries to absorb the syrup and remain plump and whole. Put into the jars when cold. Never cook more than three quarts at the time, and it is best to shake all of the time as cooking and occasionally when cooling. This recipe, if followed closely, will produce whole berries suspended in thick syrup and having a bright red color. Store in dark place to keep berries from fading.

The seventh month of our school has successfully passed and the following people have made the honor roll.

CULTIVATE POTATOES EARLY TO ELIMINATE HOEING, AGENT SAYS

A good way to eliminate practically all hand-hoeing in the potato crop is to get in some early cultivation before the plants come up, according to County Agent Byron Dyer. Harrowing the field diagonally across the rows with a spike-tooth harrow is the first thing to be done, he said, advising that this cultivation be made soon after the potatoes sprout in the ground. Then, this should be followed up by harrowing in the opposite diagonal direction before the plants are up to a good stand. "An ordinary spike-tooth harrow slightly is the best thing for the first cultivation, and a weeder is preferable for the second time," Mr. Dyer said. "In this way, the crop is not injured as much as when hoeing is done, and it is not so expensive." He added that if they be plowed the first time with a row cultivator. Regular shallow cultivation should be kept up at intervals of from 8 to 10 days, until the potatoes reach the size of a No. 2. Then, a cultivation should be given that will only slightly ridge the dirt to the rows, he added. The agent advised that, in cultivating the crop during the early growth it is best to keep the ground fairly level. He said that excessively high ridges will reduce the yield per acre. In cultivating the potato crop after the plants are up, the agent suggested.

All Shingles Cost Money BUT.. This Shingle Pays a Return on Your Investment

Your money comes back in fuel saved; in greater home comfort, winter and summer; in added roof beauty. This is the only shingle built with outside solid surface for weather protection; cork layer underneath for insulation. Tests show that it is easily possible for a roof of Carey Cork-insulated Shingles to return its slight additional cost over plain asphalt shingles through the fuel saving in a single winter. Before you re-roof or build, come in or write, get all the facts about this shingle that gives you TWO values at ONE cost.

Here's Proof Place 1 sq. ft. of Carey Cork-insulated Shingle in a small square of plain asphalt shingle. Place 1 sq. ft. of each on a stove. Note that plain shingle is too hot to touch much more quickly than cork. But Shingle is so cool that the cork layer retains heat at night.

JIMMY LASTER PLACE SOLD LAST WEEK

The old Jimmy Laster place between Brooklet and Emit was sold last Tuesday by the Statesboro court to the highest bidder, who was Mr. Jim Williams, of Brooklet. The history of this old farm place is quite romantic. It has been known as the Jimmy Laster Place for over a half century. It was a part of the old homestead of Jimmy Laster's father, Henry Laster. The latter part of the eighteenth century it was willed to Jimmy, who lived there all his life, and now he and his first wife's side by side, in a little cemetery of their own, located on the "Old Jimmy Laster Place". He married three times, his first wife, Lily Martin died ten years before Jimmy died. About ten years ago Jimmy followed her to the little secluded cemetery. Now Jimmy's other wives are dead. Jimmy probably loved all his wives, but there is no mistake about his love for his last wife, Lily, both before and after she died, he would say, "There ain't nobody like Lily." Surely this was true as for as Jimmy was concerned.

The place brought $3,900 dollars, which was used to pay off the debts, and those heirs who had not already sold their share in the will.

Miss Mildred Hagag of Emit spent Sunday with Miss Ruth Cone.

CELERY A SPRING BARGAIN

Celery is plentiful and will be a good buy for housewives all spring, right through to the end of May. Many people do not realize that celery can be cooked, as well as served raw. While it is valued highly for its flavor and crispness as an accessory or chopped up in salads, its cooked flavor is also pleasing.

If very little water is used and if the liquid liquor cooks out of the celery, it is served with it, seasoned and slightly thickened if desired, no food value is lost. Celery is also good cooked in combination with tomatoes, turnips, or carrots. The stalks and the tops may be chopped to give flavor to meat or poultry stuffings.

Dried celery leaves keep well and make good soup seasoning. Celery leaves cut from the celery stalk are easily dried when placed in a pan on top of the stove or in the oven, after baking is finished and the fire has about died out. Leave them in the pan on top of the oven for several

EGGS IN WATER-GLASS

Surplus new-laid eggs may be put down in water glass at any time, if they are handled promptly. During the spring months, if more eggs are laid than can be used in ordinary ways, a supply may be put down for use during the season when prices are high.

The eggs should be put down into water glass as soon as possible after gathering. It is a good practice to candle every egg and to discard the cracked eggs, using only the sound, clean, fresh, fertile ones. Even minute cracks may cause spoilage and contaminate other eggs in the jar.

To make water solution, boil 11 quarts of water, cool, and add 1 quart of sodium silicate (water glass) and mix well in a non-metal container previously cleaned, sealed and dried. Most drug stores sell water glass. A 5-gallon crock will hold about 12 dozen eggs and leave room for at least 2 inches of water glass solution above the last layer. This is very necessary. As it is almost impossible to move the crock safely after the eggs are placed in it, it is best to decide beforehand where it is to

COUNTY AGENT GIVES ADVICE TO FARMERS' CANNING VEGETABLES

County Agent Byron Dyer this week gave information to Bulloch county farmers who might be interested in canning vegetables for home or commercial purposes.

He said that selecting the proper varieties, planting at the proper time, and harvesting the crop correctly will help to make a uniform, high quality product. Corn, okra, and tomatoes were the three main crops he discussed.

"The varieties of corn for canning should be of good quality and should have a fairly long maturing period," he suggested. "Yellow or white varieties may be used, but the yellow varieties are becoming more popular in commercial canned products."

"It is very important that corn be picked at the proper stage of maturity for canning and the method of corn stays in this stage only about 2 days. Corn is usually at the proper stage for canning when the kernels of the center of the ear first reach a highly glazed appearance."

Varities of corn recommended by the county agent for canning are: Norfolk Market, Truckers Favorite, Hastings Prolific, Golden Cross Bantam, Golden Dent and Jarvis Golden Prolific.

Mr. Dyer said that okra may be planted at the same time as cotton, and will be ready for canning in 50 to 60 days. He suggested that two later plantings be made at 6 to 8 weeks intervals in order to have a supply all through the summer. The green colored varieties are preferable for canning, he stated, among those being Dwarf Green and Perkins' Mammoth. Of the white varieties, White Velvet is probably better adapted to Georgia conditions.

An improved pasture program and a campaign for more livestock work well together to help bring about a more diversified system of agriculture.

More profit will be realized out of the poultry flocks, if proper culling is practiced, feeding problems are worked out, parasites are controlled, and diseases are prevented.

PICTURES OF FARMS MADE FROM THREE MILES IN AIR

County Agent Byron Dyer stated this week that his office has completed plans on all but 9 percent of the 3,295 farms in Bulloch county.

These plans will be blue printed in triplicate so that one may go to the county agent's office, one to the Federal government and one to the farmer.

These plans are being made from photographs which were made from airplane. The pictures were made from a height of about three miles. 368 pictures were made in four hours. Each photograph shows an area of about two square miles. These pictures from which the plans will be made are a part of the AAA program.

In addition to the cheap fee furnished by a heavy growth of grass, sloping fields are protected from erosion losses. The grass slows up the flow of water and allows it to soak into the soil.

The four main factors affecting the rate of egg production are: breeding, feeding, housing and sanitation.

Boars and brood sows should be selected from large litters, as hogs from large litters tend to produce large litters.

Good pastures, wisely used, provide one of the best and cheapest roughages for dairy cows.

WE were pretty sure we had a great car when some months ago we checked the final blueprints on the 1938 Buick.

It had the new and mighty DYNAFLEX engine for sparkling action—the sensationally desirable TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING for a lullaby of a ride.

Looking ahead in that promising day, we figured we had every chance of getting our sales share by reason of what this car gave the buyer for his money.

Now, when times are sterner, it appears we built better than we knew—we've got a car folks just won't do without!

This great new Buick was first introduced to the public last fall. Through September, October, November, it sold in steadily increasing volume.

In a period when sales of other cars were sliding off it went ahead, in one month actually outselling one of the Big Three of the lowest-priced field.

It's still going ahead—not car Number Seven or Eight, as one might expect by its price-class, but one of the season's Four Best Sellers!

There is only one explanation of such a record when made by a car in the thousand-dollar bracket.

Such a car is so good—has so much of value in it—people just won't do without it!

They buy it not only in preference to other cars—they buy in preference to waiting for easier times and readier money-to-spend!

That's the convincing sort of car you're about to drive when you first take the wheel of a 1938 Buick.

If you haven't yet handled a new Buick, you ought to—just to see what such a car is like!

"Better buy Buick!"

Carolyn Briggman in smart togs scoring a hit with Maudie the Donkey at the "Circus"? Roy Green was quite professional as the usual comedy type Englishman... Romance runs rampant in the springtime. We offer as evidence the fact that popular young couple were seen viewing a lot on the Portal road and probably visualizing a honeymoon cottage there. Also that pretty curly-haired staid lady at a store on South Main is wearing a lovely diamond.

Glimpses here and there: Corner lot cleaned off where Northcut house burned. We hear that a young business woman is going to build a house there and induce mama and papa to come to town. Sunday afternoon Ruth Sewell was looking over site where they will erect a new home. Those lovely pines in front had their share in attracting the Sewells' to this lot. Our guests... Young couples, either newlyweds or dating couples, have a habit of dropping in late on Saturday nights at Jimmie and Sara Wray's for co-op suppers. It's great fun they say. Understand that Bob Pound is very good as a salad mixer... The Ed Mitchell is housekeeping in an apartment on North Main Street. Overheard young matron who was anticipating luncheon at Isabel McDougald's, "Isabel always has the nicest things to eat, and she prepares for parties with so much ease." Another woman remarks "Well, it's easy for her, 'cause Walter is away from home so much."

Jane will have trouble retaining her willowy figure I'm afraid, for there's been devil's food cake and potato salad from Lillian Braswell, cake from Lena Belle Ford, and as food for our esthetic nature there were dewy buds from Georgia Brett and modest violets from Wilfred Bradley.

Snatches of conversation convince us that the class of '18 is making elaborate preparations for their 52th reunion... Helen Brannen and Liz DeLoach sauntering down street with identical floral prints. Cars lined up on road to Register in an attempt to get there for the Chamber of Commerce supper given by Register P. T. A.

Jane extemporizes on—EASTER BONNETS. Statesboro maids are passing fairly they paint their faces, they curl their hair. That our maids are lovely we're ready to swear, but their hats, my gosh, are a trial to bear.

And so we've decided to pass on these tips, so the hat you wear won't clash with your lips. For each young girl there's a definite fashion; to lead her to it is our present passion.

For Carol Anderson, a lovely lass, we suggest a hat trimmed with lots of elegant ribbons. For Cecile Brannen, naive and frail, we suggest a poke with crumming veil.

Liz DeLoach, how her beauty blooms! Would be adorable with ostrich plumes. Sara Mooney's features are so extra good she might even risk some kind of hood.

Carrie Edna Flanders with quietly tread could wear a fruit basket on her head.

A witch's hat with high peaked crown would be just the thing for Carolyn Brown.

For Sara Ellis, blond and sweet we suggest a straw plague with pink camellias on top and a bow in the back.

Evelyn Pound's so pretty she wouldn't look badish with a vegetable hat all trimmed with radish.

And so, my friends, I might go on, but I haven't time, and what is worse they're the dickens to rhyme.

As Ever, JANE.

Board Of Education Elects New School Superintendent

S. H. Sherman Is Elected To Head Statesboro Schools

HIS ELECTION FOLLOWS LOCAL BOARD'S FAILURE TO RE-ELECT SUPT. C. E. WOLLETT

S. H. Sherman, for the past eight years superintendent of schools at Statesboro, has been elected to head the Statesboro public schools. He was announced last week by Mr. Fred T. Lanier, chairman of the board of education.

Mr. Sherman, according to Mr. Lanier, accepted the position Wednesday night of last week. Mr. Sherman is well known throughout the state as one of the leading school executives. During the eight years he has been at Statesboro he has seen the school there take its place with the top ranking school systems in the state. He taught at the Teachers College summer session for two summers and is well known in Statesboro.

Mr. Sherman married the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lev Martin, a former resident of Statesboro. Mr. Sherman's election followed the local board of education's failure to re-elect Supt. C. E. Wollett who succeeded Mr. R. M. Monts two years ago. Mr. Wollett worked under Mr. Monts for nine years before he became superintendent. He is at present the secretary of the district high school association. He has been working on a higher degree at Duke University and plans to return there this summer.

Bulloch Voters Must Qualify Before May 8

SEVEN PUBLIC OFFICERS IN BULLOCH COUNTY TO BE UP FOR ELECTION IN GENERAL ELECTION

B. H. Ramsey, Secretary and Treasurer of the Bulloch County Democratic Executive Committee, this week announced the ruling recently made by Attorney General M. J. Yeomans regarding the General Election which will be held in November 8, 1938.

According to the ruling, Mr. Ramsey stated, if one wishes to vote in the State Primary Election to be held in September of this year and in the General Election on November 8, one must pay all poll taxes due, which means 1937, and qualify on or before May 8, 1938. Mr. Ramsey added that since May 8 comes on Sunday this year, the safe thing to do is to pay the poll tax and qualify on Saturday, May 7, even though the law usually provides that where a deadline falls on Sunday it may be met on the following Monday.

The General Election this year will be on November 8, hence all poll taxes must be paid six months prior to that date, which will be May 8.

Before a citizen may vote in a General Election, he or she must have been duly registered, and he or she must be on the voter's list prepared by the county registrars and filed with the Clerk of the Superior Court. Poll taxes are levied as of January 1st of each year, and are due on December 20th of each year, and if not paid, when due, are thus in default after December 20th of that respective year.

The officers in Bulloch county that come up for election are: Chairman of the county commissioners and the two board members, the Judge of the City Court and two representatives. It is Bulloch's time for senator from this district. All the state house officers from the Governor on down. The congressmen and one U. S. Senator are up for election.

Harry L. Brown, assistant secretary of agriculture and former Georgia Extension director, will be the principal speaker at a gathering sponsored by the Soil Conservation Service in Gainesville, April 26.

Under the plan loans will be available for the purchase of five farms in Bulloch county to those five applicants who receive the approval of the regional office of the Farm Security program. The applications of the other three are now awaiting final approval, and will be announced at a later date.

Under the plan the loans will be made for the purchase of a farm by a tenant farmer whose ability, character, and experience warrants such a loan. The farmer has forty years in which to repay the loan, in payments amounting to $43.20 per year, per thousand dollars at a 3 per cent rate of interest. The Act provides that the farmer may make larger payments in years of plenty and less in lean years. However the purchaser cannot repay the loan in full under five years without the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The loans are made to farm families whether on their own land or as tenants on rented land, who are unable to secure proper credit from other sources to make a crop or to purchase needed livestock and equipment.

Miss Ruby Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan G. Lee is expected today from Seoul, Korea.

Miss Lee wrote her family saying that she would leave Korea March 30 to arrive in San Francisco Friday of last week. It will take her at least five days to make the trip there to Statesboro.

Miss Lee has been in Korea for almost seventeen years. She is now serving her third period as a Missionary for the Methodist Church. She was to have come home this June for her mother's birthday but due to ill health or her mother she arranged to come earlier.

Bulloch County Approves Legalizing Liquor 4 to 1

Food Handlers Required To Have Physical Examination

AMERICAN LEGION COMMUNITY HOUSE PLANS COMPLETED

Preliminary plans for the new American Legion Community house to be built on Grady street, opposite the high school building have been completed according to Mr. C. E. Layton, in charge of plans.

The building will be 33 feet in length, including the terrace on the front. It will include an auditorium which will be 62 feet by 40 feet. The stage will be 18 feet by 26 feet. The stage will be the deepest in Statesboro. There will be two offices, one for the American Legion and one for the American Legion Auxiliary. The cost will be approximately $6,000. More than $500 have been pledged.

At its regular meeting on Tuesday, April 12 the city council passed an ordinance requiring all cooks and nurses employed in private homes and all waiters in hotels and restaurants and meat cutters and all persons who handle food in any manner. The ordinance does not specify drug store fountain operators but it is understood that where they make sandwiches they would come under the head of those handling food.

Such handlers of food must have a physical examination by either a private physician or the County Health Officer at least once each year beginning with the passing of the ordinance. The ordinance requires that the examination be made in the presence of the County Health Officer. The examination must include a blood Wassermann test for syphilis. Upon the examination a report is to be made to the County Health Officer who, if the report is satisfactory, will issue a certificate.

This certificate must be posted in a public place in the holder's place of employment. Persons employed in private homes shall be required to furnish such certificates for inspection upon the request of person or persons by whom employed or by the request of the City or County Health officials.

The ordinance provides for a fine of no less than $2.50 and not more than $10 or 15 days imprisonment in the City Jail, one or both in the discretion of the Mayor.

The County Health Officer states that it is probable that those coming under this ordinance see a private physician for such examination. The doctors are cooperating in the matter and are making the fee for the examination reasonable, however, that the persons are unable to pay a private physician's fee they are urged to go to the County Health Department in the Sea Island Bank building for this examination.

THE CITY COUNCIL TAKES A STEP FORWARD

Last week the city council passed an ordinance which represents a definite step forward in the welfare of the city of Statesboro. It passed an ordinance which provides for a physical examination, including Wasserman blood tests (for syphilis) for all cooks, nurses, waiters, meat cutters and all persons who handle food in any manner.

The ordinance requires all such food handlers to be examined by either a private physician or by the County Health Officer. If the person is examined by a private physician he is required to furnish the County Health Officer with a report of the examining physician's findings. If the report is satisfactory then that person will be furnished with a certificate which must be posted in a public place in the person's place of employment. Persons employed in private homes are required to furnish such certificates for inspection upon request of the city or County Health Department or the person by whom employed.

The council put teeth in the ordinance in providing that violations shall be punishable by 4 fine of not less than $2.50 nor more than $10.00 or 15 days imprisonment in the city jail, one or both in the discretion of the mayor.

If you are a housewife, see that your cook and nurse is examined and furnishes you with a clean bill of health. If you operate a drug store (where sandwiches are made and sold), a meat market, cafe, hotel, or employ anyone who handles food, see that such food handlers are examined and furnishes you with a clean bill of health. Send them to your family physician or if they cannot raise the necessary physician's fee, send them to the County Health Department.

ANOTHER ASSET TO THE COMMUNITY

The group of men here in Statesboro working on plans for a golf club for this community is doing a fine thing.

Statesboro has long felt the need of such an organization built on a firm basis. This group is considering a tract of land near Statesboro on the Statesboro-Dover road, which will eventually become the Burton's Ferry Route. They have secured approximately 40 applications for membership made up of men and women who are very enthusiastic over the plans, calling for a nine hole golf course, and with time a club house, tennis courts, etc. The course will be built under the supervision of golf professionals who are experts in laying out golf courses.

Such a club is going to attract a number of people who are now going to Savannah, Waynesboro, Millen and other places where there is a golf course, to spend their week ends. With such a club here, together with Statesboro's other attractions, these transients are going to stop here and spend that time here. When people move into a new community the first thing they consider are the community's churches, schools, playgrounds and then they wish to know if there is a golf course. There can be no doubt that a golf course can be made an asset to a community. It is such an asset that this group of men and women are planning. The people of Statesboro should back it wholeheartedly.

IT STILL PAYS!

Just 234 years ago this month, America witnessed the publication of its first permanent newspaper, the Boston "News Letter."

But the birth of this famed fledgling on April 24, 1704, is memorable not only as a worthy landmark in the history of American journalism. It is also memorable because the "News Letter" now ancient pages contained the first advertisements America had seen, and because these advertisements held revolutionary implications. They contained the seeds of the mass production of goods, lower costs, and an increasingly higher living standard.

THE BULLOCH HERALD WEDNESDAY, APRIL 20, 1938

Without advertising, your family car would possibly cost $3,000, your washing machine $300, a tube of toothpaste, $1.00.

We mention these things, and we hope you will excuse the editor for taking this opportunity to talk a bit of shop, because in looking at this newspaper today, you may say of some item, "Looks like a bargain all right, but how much is this ad costing me?"

In answer to this, an authority on advertising costs, recently disclosed the precise truth of the matter. On a nationally advertised brand of soup, you pay 35-100th of a cent per can, for advertising, on a similarly advertised soft drink, 1,576-100,000th on each five cent bottle. On all other popular items the costs are just as microscopic.

But as ever wise business man knows, FIRST, you've got to tell the world what you have to offer. If merchants hide their light under a bushel, as the saying goes, the customer can't be expected to see the light, or their bargains. Far-sighted merchants knew that when they placed ads in the "Boston News Letter" 234 years ago. And their principle remains constant, "It pays to advertise!"

BUILD THEM SOME TENNIS COURTS

With the action of the Teachers College Athletic Association closing their tennis courts to all but college students, the young tennis enthusiasts of Statesboro find themselves with their tennis racquets and balls in their hands and no court upon which to play.

The Bulloch Herald, last year, pleaded on behalf of these young tennis fans for public courts on the municipal play ground out on Fair Ground Road.

They are now circulating a petition asking the city to build them a number of courts. As we see it here is an opportunity for our City Fathers to win the whole-hearted admiration of its youth. There will come a time when this youthful quality will pay dividends.

The city could build four to six tennis courts on the playground at not too great a cost. The city has cooperated with the Stewards of the Methodist church in building the two courts behind the Methodist church. The city can build tennis courts and know about what it takes to do so.

Build six courts for these kids. Then the fathers and mothers will know where they can find at least 24 of their sons and daughters during the daylight hours at least.

WHITE HOPES, DARK HORSES

With the Democratic executive committee to meet in Atlanta Saturday to map plans for the biennial primary in September, Georgia finds itself on the brink of another political campaign, and Bulloch county finds its own political pot simmering.

Already national, state and local prophets are polishing up their crystal balls. Bandwagons, in storage for two years now, are being streamlined for a new year, a new campaign, new platforms—and new hopes!

However, it's much too early to make reliable forecasts, even though political scrimmage is under way, watch out. There's still plenty of time for white hopes to come riding forth on dark horses!

FACTS ABOUT TAXES

An average "take" of $104 from every man, woman and child in America!

A total charge of $13,500,000,000—equal to one-fifth of the entire national income, twenty cents out of every dollar earned!

An amount equal to more than the total yearly cost of feeding the 130 million mouths in America! That's our tax bill—local, state, federal!

In the past ten years it has gone up one-third. One business concern paid a 600 per cent tax increase in the past two years—enough to put 6,500 additional men to work for an entire year. Another business paid out $115 in taxes for every $5.00 paid out in wages.

These are facts! The price-tags on local, state and national government are being marked-up each year. Where is the end to be?

TO THE LADIES

This week's Charm Tip — For the Home Woman: Curb the "nerves" promptly. Recognize the signs in your temptation to lose your temper with the children or with their father. He yourself off to a quiet room, relax and rest.

If you've been crabbing about too many straight lines in modern furniture (so have we!) here is good news. Round gracious lines and genial curves are going to be the thing from now on in modern.

We're no plaster saint but we do enjoy our church. Mainly because our minister is both intelligent and spiritual, and his sermons not only move us and start us on a train of thought we are grateful for, but they are something a body can understand.

April showers bring out handkerchiefs. But it isn't the weather, it's a lowered resistance that makes you catch cold every spring. The common cold is responsible for so much illness and loss of time that the following rules, posted in the government buildings at Washington, are well worth your attention:

LET'S TRY AND WIPE OUT COLDS.

1. Keep away from those already infected.
2. Dress sensibly according to the temperature and weather.
3. Keep out of stuffy crowded and overheated places.
4. Drink lots of water regularly.
5. Avoid overeating and constipation.
6. Learn to sit and breathe properly.
7. Get a regular amount of outdoor exercise.
8. Do not use drinking cups, towels or tableware used by others.

With summer vacations coming up, here is an idea. One of these summer cruises on a freighter. Takes a long time but it's the thing to do and not too expensive and you still see a part of the world.

THIS WEEK'S FAVORITE RECIPE:

Now, with an abundance of vegetables you may often substitute eggs for meat in planning spring menus. Try them as the main dish sometime and you will be surprised at the well balanced meal you can achieve.

HOT CORN CUSTARD

3 well beaten eggs.
1 can corn.
1 cup milk.
1 cup cream.
1 tablespoon sugar.
Salt and pepper.
1 tablespoon butter.

Beat the eggs well. Mix the corn, milk, cream, sugar, salt and pepper and add them to the beaten eggs. Melt the butter and add to the mixture. Bake to a golden brown in a moderate oven in an earthenware pan which you set in a dish half filled with water.

THAT you won't be long before you will be selecting that new bathing suit.

THAT in Spring a young man (and an old man's too) fancy turns to the clothes he ladies wear. That we'll be seeing you next week.

EMIT COMMUNITY TO HAVE FARM PRODUCT PACKING HOUSE

Mr. Fortunato Strozzi of Emit community is now making plans for a farm product packing house, construction to begin within the next two weeks.

This will act as a wonderful substitute for the farmers' market, the citizens of Bulloch county tried to establish some time ago.

When it is completed the farmers of Bulloch county and adjoining counties may bring their produce to this packing house and trucks will haul it to the largest markets of the North, so the farmer gets the highest prices and not have to worry about selling their hard worked for product for almost nothing.

Mr. Strozzi has made it plain that if farmers will cooperate with him, this packing house will prove to be more than a blessing to them. Either they may bring their products there and sell them immediately for the Savannah market price, or leave it there until he can get the highest market price from northern markets.

At the beginning of the large market transportation, Joseph Gorman, Inc., will truck the goods to the market, Lombard, Philadelphia.

Only the farmer can inform you of the great service this much needed packing house will render them. They need no more to worry about not being able to sell their goods at the place; Miss Ann Elizabeth Smith, second place; Miss Effie Lynn Waters, third.

In the music contest Miss Betty Smith placed first, Miss Annette Coalson, second; and Miss Maxann Fox, third.

Gene L. Hodges placed first in the declamation contest, Robert Lanier, and C. B. McAllister tied for second place.

The winners' expression were Miss Margaret Ann Johnston, first

The judges were from Savannah.

EMIT COMMUNITY TO HAVE FARM PRODUCT PACKING HOUSE

Mr. Fortunato Strozzi of the Emit community will begin construction on a farm product packing house in about two weeks, it was learned here this week.

According to a statement made by Mr. Strozzi he will cooperate with the farmers that may bring their produce to his place where they may sell them immediately at the Savannah market price, or they may leave them to wait for the highest possible market price.

Mr. Strozzi's plans call for the installation of a cannery at a later date.

Better varieties, proper fertilization, and good cultivation are the aims of several counties in producing the 1938 cotton crop. Many farmers are highly in favor of the one-acre community plan and the acreage of these projects is expected to increase this year.

Applications For Soil Conservation Payments Signed

FARMERS COMPLYING WITH SOIL CONSERVATION PROGRAM ARE URGED TO SIGN THESE APPLICATIONS

Formal application for the 1937 soil conservation payments are being signed by Bulloch county farmers this week. The applications have been carried to each district for a short period of time and then returned to the county office.

Farmers complying with the soil conservation program in 1937 are urged to sign these applications this week if possible. With the Superior Court scheduled for next week, the county agent's office will necessarily have to be moved and signing these forms will be impossible during the court.

The applications shows the planted acreages to the various crops as well as the cultivated acreage of the entire farm and the practices carried on in 1937 that caused a soil conservation payment. These acreages were measured from the aerial photographs. Farmers signing the applications should examine the forms to make sure none of the soil building practices or other things that would earn payments are in error. Tenants interested in the 1937 crop also sign the application. Checks will be made payable to both the landlord and the tenants as per their interest in the crop.

These applications should have been filed in January. However, the photographs for Bulloch county were not available until late in December of 1937, which made it impossible to check performance earlier.

Farmers complying with the program in 1937 will be given a blue print of their farms which will show the cultivated acreage in each tract of land. This plan will insure accurate plantings for future programs.

The soil conservation payments for Bulloch farmers that cooperated in 1937 will be approximately $225,000.

First Baptist Church To Begin Meeting Sunday

REV. R. PAUL CAUILL OF AUGUSTA WILL BE THE SPEAKER AT SERIES OF MEETINGS BEGINNING SUNDAY

Rev. R. Paul Cauill, minister of the First Baptist Church of Augusta, will be the preacher in a series of meetings beginning next Sunday at the First Baptist church. Mr. Cauill is an outstanding Bible student and presents interesting and helpful expositions of the Word. His earnestness and deep spiritual power compel men to hear wherever he goes. The pastor of the First church here states that we are very fortunate in having Mr. Cauill for these services. Arrangements are being perfected so that the work on the new building at the church will not interfere with the morning services. Also preparations are being made for the musical and the piano are nearing completion. The hour for the morning services will be announced later.

The music will be under direction of Mr. Coalsen with Mrs. J. G. Moore at the organ. Young people will be counted upon to sing in the Junior choir under direction of Mrs. E. L. Smith, who has been training a group of youths in church music for many weeks.

Every member of the faculty of the Sunday School of the church is expected to attend a meeting this evening (Wednesday), making preparations for an effective evangelistic campaign among the unconverted people of the city. All others who are interested in bringing lost people to Christ are also invited to attend this meeting on Wednesday evening.

The church invites people of all faiths and especially those who are not Christians to attend these meetings.

More Georgia farmers are finding out every day how electricity can help them in solving their problems, but none is more enthusiastic than T. J.

Offerings and prices on the livestock market at the Bulloch Stockyards yesterday were among the best in recent weeks, according to Manager O. L. McLemore.

Mr. McLemore indicated between 100 and 150 head of cattle will probably be brought to this market next week, meeting in part the continuing strong demand for beef.

Prices at the sales: Top hogs, 7.35 to 7.45; No. 2's, 7.15 to 7.30; one lot extra good 2's, 7.40 No. 3's, 7 to 7.30; No. 4's and 5's, 7 to 7.60.

Thin grazing cattle brought 5.50 to 6.25, and the beef type sold at 6.65 to 6.85. Fat butcher cattle brought producers 6.5 to 7.85.

More Georgia farmers are finding out every day how electricity can help them in solving their problems, but none is more enthusiastic than T. J.

Isn't this the real problem of Beer —and almost its only problem?

THERE ARE people, of course, who steadfastly and sincerely believe beer to be intoxicating, or its use sinful, harmful, or a first step toward use of "hard liquor." Just as sincerely we hold that the weight of evidence is overwhelmingly against them...that beer is a mild, wholesome food beverage...and that "there is nothing more promising to combat the evil of too much alcohol than the opportunity of drinking good beer."

No...it is not in beer itself, we believe, that its gravest problem lies, but in those conditions, undesirable to us all, which sometimes surround its sale.

How should that problem be handled...by brewers, by retailers, by consumers, and by the public authorities? On its handling, we believe, depends the ultimate success or failure of the art and science of brewing, with all its manifold contributions to human pleasure and happiness and to the farm and industrial welfare of this country.

In that belief, a short time ago the Brewers Foundation was organized...to align the brewing industry with forces working for the public good in this country.

Our underlying motive...to perpetuate and promote our industry...is of course obvious. But equally obvious, we hope, is the fact that our interests coincide with the public interest.

Important progress has been made. Brewer-members of the Foundation already represent nearly half the production of beer and ale in the United States; and these members are pledged, individually and collectively, to the Brewers Code, one significant clause of which is as follows:

"We pledge our support to the duly constituted authorities for the elimination of anti-social conditions wherever they may surround the sale of beer to the consumer."

Being practical men, we promise no miracles. We cannot immediately or effectively "police" the quarter-million points where beer is sold (nor, to be fair, have we legal authority in many cases to do so). Nor can we, immediately, bring about full compliance with the law among all retailers, nor honest enforcement by all authorities.

But a beginning has been made...and we do promise that you will see results from it.

How far we can go, and how soon, depends very much on ourselves...but partly also on you.

Public opinion, once aroused, can operate to bring about honest enforcement of existing laws. Restriction of your patronage only to legal, respectable retail outlets can and will operate to raise retailing standards. Public preference for the products of Foundation members will bias winners of your approval both to members and to cooperating retailers, and will encourage them to renewed efforts.

This is, therefore, at once a statement of our objectives and an appeal for your support, without which we must fall short of our high hopes. We urgently invite your full and sympathetic cooperation.

Grady Head To Be Here Soon

TO INSTRUCT PROSPECTIVE LIQUOR DEALERS ON RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING SALES

It was learned here this week about ten persons have applied for bonds in anticipation of obtaining a license to open and operate a liquor store in the county.

This action on part of the prospective liquor store operators follows Bulloch's law legalizing the sale of liquor in the county on April 14 when the county voted four to one in its favor.

On Tuesday last week the county commissioners fixed the county license at $250, which is the minimum fixed by the law. Before a person can begin selling liquor in the county his various licenses and fees will cost him $415. Besides the county license of $250, there is the Federal license of $25, the State license of $100, and $40 for a bond. In the event the city grants licenses this figure will be greater.

April 30 is the first day liquor can be sold here legally. The fifteen day period beginning with the date of the election required by the law will be up on April 29. However no sales are anticipated until T. Grady Head, Commissioner of the Department of Revenue of Atlanta advises under what rules the dealer may operate. Mr. Head is expected here sometime next week.

Statesboro Wins Two First Places

BETTY SMITH WINS FIRST IN PIANO AND MARGARET ANN JOHNSTON AND MIRIAM LANIER WIN DEBATE

Statesboro High School tied with Sylvania with 24 points for the first place in the First District Literary Meet held in Swainsboro Friday night, April 22.

Statesboro won two first places and three second places with Sylvania winning three first places and two second places. Statesboro's final score added up to equal Sylvania's by winning the debate which counts ten points toward the literary cup.

The other schools in the district placed as follows: Vidalia second place with 20 points, Swainsboro and Millen tied for third place with six points each. Alamo and E. C. I. won three points each and Greenville won 2 points.

The events and the school placing first were: Declaration, Sylvania; Vidalia, Loue Hershey; Girl's Essay, Vidalia, Dot Thompson; Piano, Statesboro, Betty Smith; Debate, Statesboro, Margaret Ann Johnston and Miriam Lanier; Home Economics, Vidalia, Dorothy Lewis; One Act Play, Sylvania, Spelling, Sylvania.

The literary cup this year will be long to both Sylvania and Statesboro. Statesboro will keep it one half year. Both school names will appear on the cup and the possession of it jointly will constitute one leg of it for each school. The school winning three consecutive years becomes the permanent owner.

The judges were Albert S. Hardy, prominent Georgian editor of the Gainesville News, former president of the Georgia Press Association and chairman of the Press Institute program committee; Mrs. A. B. Conger, Bainbridge, president of the Georgia Federation of Women's clubs, and Robert C. Mizell, secretary of Emory University, a keen student of government and chairman of the Citizenship Institute.

Major Clark Howell's telegram to Mr. Hodges was as follows: "Judges in the Atlanta Constitution $7,500 Progressive Government Awards for 1937 have designated Bulloch county as the winner of the First Congressional District award. Check for $250 will be mailed tomorrow (April 23). Personal congratulations for the splendid work done by your county."

Mr. Hodges replied: "Thank you for your wire advising award of the First Congressional District prize to Bulloch county in Atlanta Constitution County awards for 1937. We deeply appreciate the work you are doing through your paper for the people of Georgia and congratulate you of the great amount of good done and the interest created in the County Governmental awards."

CO-OP LIVESTOCK SALE TOMORROW AT C. OF GA. PENS

The Bulloch Co-op livestock sales committee announces a hog sale for Thursday, April 28, at the Central of Georgia pens.

The committee has in mind making a study of auction markets being operated on a cooperative basis during the next few weeks and to compare the results of that system with their own.

Hogs entered in the last sale were of excellent quality. None of the 97 hogs shipped weighed below 170 pounds, and averaged the some 200 lbs. If there is a way of selling the hogs on the merits of the finish and quality for more money the committee plans to find it and put such a system in operation for the summer and fall season.

SAVANNAH GREETS NEW 10,000 TON CRUISER

The citizens of Savannah are celebrating the visit of the 10,000-ton cruiser "Savannah," which arrived there Monday. Highlight of the celebration was the Memorial Day program yesterday.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Byron Dyer, county agent; Dr. R. J. Kennedy, president of the Bulloch County Bank and C. P. Olliff, president of The Sea Island Bank left Statesboro Sunday to fill engagements with officials of the Big Five Tobacco Manufacturers in hopes of securing a second set of tobacco buyers for the local market.

The Big Five tobacco manufacturers consists of American Tobacco Co., R. J. Reynolds, Lillard, Liggett and Myers, and Brown and Williamson. Others that will be seen are Imperial and Export.

Going with the representatives of the local market were Mr. Jake Bennett of the Georgia and Florida railroad, R. E. Sheppard and Mr. Cobb of Foxall Warehouse.

In asking the companies for another set of buyers they will be shown that the increase in acreage and the increase in floor space and the fact that more than 2,000,000 pounds of tobacco was turned away from the local market last year, constitute reasons for getting the Statesboro market another set.

SUNDAY MOVIES

With feeling running rather high in certain quarters on the question of Sunday Movies, those condemning and opposing them find themselves in the peculiar position of not seeing their foe. They know that the American Legion hopes to sponsor movies at the local theatre on Sundays, but they see no concerted move on the part of those in favor of the practice other than their securing a cross section of public opinion.

Those who are condemning this thing—Sunday Movies—make it out as the possible means of weakening and undermining the society of our community; leading our youth farther and farther on the road to destruction. Alarmists, all. There is no such concern over those condemning Sunday Movies, who themselves play golf, tennis, ride to Tybee, to Savannah, Augusta for a baseball game, and other forms of recreation on Sundays.

Should Statesboro have Sunday Movies it would be a matter of just a few weeks when we would all wonder why we attached so much importance to the whole thing, if we should think of it at all.

We see Sunday Movies, not as an evil to our community, but as one of the many forms of mental and physical relaxations required by all. Because one prefers an afternoon ride, golf, tennis, fishing, visiting the relatives, should that one condemn another for going to the theater to obtain the same end?

We respect the objections to Sunday Movies of those few who have the right to cast the first stone, but we fail to reconcile the objections and the actions of the greater majority who are condemning them.

WHY AN ORDINANCE?

Under a certain amount of pressure by a group of business men here in Statesboro, the city council placed an ordinance on its books prohibiting or restricting activities of house to house and business to business sales solicitation without a license or permit from the city.

Aimed at magazine salesmen, hosiery salesmen, cosmetic demonstrators with the object of selling and other salesmen of such merchandise which adapts itself to sales tactics, this ordinance becomes just another of the multitude of laws which appear on the books of Everytown, Ga.

Put teeth in such a law and it becomes a protection to our merchants and business men and homes. The merchants and business men pay special taxes to transact business here. They carry merchandise that can be depended upon as the best that your dollar can buy. This cannot be said of the things one buys from door knockers.

THE CURB MARKET

At a recent meeting of a number of farm women of Bulloch county, the possibilities of a curb market were considered.

Such a market would help toward raising that thing we all hear so much about—the purchasing power of the farmer. More money in the farmer's and farmer's wife pocket ets mean more money to buy dresses, shoes, salt, sugar, refrigerators, furniture, and all the other things making for a higher standard of living.

Such a market would prove a boon to the housewife here in Statesboro when she does her shopping for the kitchen. She has a larger choice of vegetables, fruits, canned goods, and the many other farm products, at prices that do not include the middle man's mark up.

The idea should be encouraged and backed since it would prove of mutual benefit to both the producer and consumer.

WAGES—OR TAXES?

In view of the recommendations of the last Grand Jury regarding the study of taxes we print the following editorial taken from the Atlanta Constitution. It concerns the railroads of the nation but it is just as applicable to other businesses as to the railroads.

"Any informed observer of the economic structure of the United States, and of business and individual finances of today, cannot fail to be alarmed at the steadily increasing proportion of income which must go to the tax collectors.

"The day is not far distant, indeed in many individual cases it already has arrived, when the decision must be made whether earnings of industry and of enterprise are to go to the workers in the form of wages or to the multitudinous governmental units in the form of taxes.

"Dewitt M. Emery, president of the National Small Businessmen's Association, in a speech last Wednesday night, told the story of a successful manufacturing plant, employing 1,800 workers, which had been forced to close its doors because of the impossibility of paying taxes. This plant, said Mr. Emery, was paying 31 cents out of every dollar of gross revenue in wages, but was forced to pay 41 cents of that dollar in taxes. Thus the collector was getting 30 per cent more than the worker who created the added value. The employees of the plant were contented and happy. There was no vestige of labor trouble. Yet the demands of the tax collector forced it to close and thus put 1,800 persons out of work.

"The railroads of the nation are in such financial condition that they constitute one of the main problems before congress. It is considered inevitable that government aid and possibly government control, must come if the railroad systems of the country are to be saved.

"Yet no student of the railroad problem can overlook the fact that their present financial troubles are largely due to the heavy drain upon their revenue by taxes.

"It is not the federal government that is chiefly to blame. There are tens of thousands of smaller, local taxing authorities which have, in many instances, done more than their share to bleed the roads white. The states, the counties, school districts and local municipalities have issued billions of dollars in local government bonds which are being retired today on tax revenue collected from the roads. This condition adds to the problem, for it involves the security behind such bonds and threatens a greater collapse even than the rails themselves if they are forced into general bankruptcy.

"Again, if government control of the railroads comes, it means more workers divorced from their jobs, through consolidations, and that means more unemployed, a greater drain on the public treasuries for relief and, completing the wretched circle, more demands for taxes.

"It used to be that citizens gladly paid taxes to support their governments. But the steadily rising drain upon the nation's wealth, by taxes, is rapidly reaching a point of impasse.

"When it becomes, as in the case of the industry cited by Mr. Emery, necessary to close down and take away workers' pay envelopes entirely, the tax problem has reached proportions that demand drastic remedy.

"It also must be remembered that the 41 per cent of gross revenue taken from that plant in taxes, was before the pay envelopes were distributed. Each worker, out of his weekly wage, pays another 25 per cent in direct and indirect taxation.

"When the workers of the nation awake to the fact that the choice must be made, whether the wealth they create is to go to the tax collector or into their wages, the first step toward a cure for what now appears an incurable economic disease will have been taken."

THE EFFICIENT USE OF ELECTRICITY

There is an old adage that says, "The Workman's worthy of his hire." Farm families may make their electric workman worthy of their hire if they apply good old-fashioned principles of thrifty management in their use, remembering that the penny saved is the penny earned.

Electricity has come into prominence in our modern life because it is so convenient and so simply controlled. In making the most efficient use of electricity there are two or three things to keep in mind. Probably the most important is that the cost of electricity is based on the amount of current which is used in the actual operation of a light bulb or any appliance. Two things are to be considered in determining the value of electricity, one is whether or not you are making the most efficient use of the current which is based on the operating lights and appliances and the other is whether or not electricity can work more effectively for your family than some other source of heat or power. Other guides to economy in use of electricity are:

1. The changing season, the color of your walls, and the color of lamp shades, affect your electric service bills.
2. Use light bulbs of proper size if you want to get the most light for your money.
3. Turn lights off when not in use.
4. Keep bulbs clean and free from dust and replace them when they begin to turn dark grey.

Woman's Club President Makes Report For 37-38

As President of the Statesboro Woman's Club I submit the following report:

We started in our new Club Home with a debt of $1200.00. A debt so big that at times I felt faint hearted, almost frightened at the task of the coming year.

With a group of officers that set to work with a will, things seemed to brighten from the first.

With Mrs. Groover Brannen as the first vice president and Mrs. C. P. Olliff, second vice president to preside at board meetings and to keep the minutes I knew that we were well established in this quarter of the club work.

Mrs. Ben Deal as Recording Secretary sat by as a sort of "measuring angel" whose efficiency gave me confidence and assurance in all meetings. Mrs. J. L. Mathews, Corresponding Secretary, kept up the club correspondence with the precision of an experienced business woman.

National Hospital Day was observed by the club on Thursday, May 12, with "open house" between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The open house program will be in charge of the members of the hospital auxiliary who are making plans for the day. The program will be announced at a later date.

National Hospital Day was originated in 1921 by the late Mathew O. Foley and is observed on May 12, the birthday of Florence Nightingale. Today the idea has grown until thousands of hospitals in the United States observe this day.

Miss Naomi Zitterouer, Superintendent of the hospital states that on National Hospital Day the public is invited to come to the hospital to see and learn just the sort of place that Bulloch County has at its disposal.

The members of the Hospital Auxiliary are planning on offering tiny buttons for sale that day, the proceeds to be used in the establishment of a hospital ward for strictly charitable purposes. Mrs. John Mooney is the president of the Auxiliary.

The members of the Board of Trustees of the hospital are: A. E. Temple, chairman; Delmas Rushing, H. Oliver Knight, Percy Averitt and J. L. Johnson. The members of the County Commissioners who will participate in the observance of this day are: Fred W. Hodges, M. J. Bowen and G. P. Lee.

Denmark Woman's Club Have Style Revue

The Denmark Woman's Club held its monthly meeting at the Denmark High School auditorium last Wednesday. This meeting proved to be the most interesting one of the year. Mrs. R. P. Miller presided.

The feature of the meeting was the style revue with about fifteen of the ladies participating. They all modeled lovely printed cotton dresses with accessories to match. Mrs. Harold Zetterow won first place. She will enter the county wide style revue from which a representative will be selected to go to Athens during the farm-home week in August.

The club will begin making trays and baskets at the next meeting to be held on May 18. Pine needles and raffin and reed will be used. After the program and business session held last Wednesday, Mrs. R. P. Miller and Mrs. Russell DeLoach as hostesses served drinks and salads. Mrs. A. J. Trappell is secretary and treasurer of the Denmark Woman's Club.

successful of all activities. This occasion will be long remembered as one of the happiest in the life of the club. Another successful and happy occasion was the participation in the assistance in the President's Ball. The club home was given as a place for the ball and the members made it a warmly happy and delightful occasion.

The club has promoted many other delightful activities that I think of but for the lengthiness of this report I cannot comment on here.

My year as club president has been one of the happiest of my life. I have presided at every meeting and have attended every meeting of the board. The loyalty and kindness of my associate members has been such that it has lifted my soul to the beauty of faith in God's love and the eternal goodness of the group of the sweetest women that ever lived. With such cooperation and loyalty that I have had as your president no one could have failed. There are no words through which I can pay a tribute sufficient to express all that I feel. My happiness is humble, truly, it is for I am painfully conscious of my own weakness and lack of power, but with Statesboro Woman's Club as individuals back of me, I am unafraid even of the future.

With all my heart, I thank you and humbly pray that power which we are pleased to call God will grant you his richest blessing in all your tasks of the coming year.

Respectfully submitted, MRS. R. L. CONE.

Plans Under Way For Curb Market

MRS. LEILA MIZE, EXTENSION ECONOMIST IN MARKETING OF THE UNIVERSITY OF GA. SPEAKS AT MEETING

On Wednesday morning, April 20, at the Court House in Statesboro under the direction of Miss Elvie Maxwell, County Home Demonstration Agent of Bulloch County, a meeting was held for the purpose of making definite plans for the establishment of a Grocers Retail Market at an early date, at which the farm housewife and 4-H Club girls and boys may offer for sale the products which they grow and make.

The meeting was well attended by citizens representing the community organizations of interests, including the Chamber of Commerce, Superintendent of Schools, Rotary, County Farm Agent, local business men and members of the local Woman's Club representing the consumers interest, and a body of rural women who wished to be among the sellers on the market.

Miss Maxwell introduced Mrs. Leila Mize, Extension Economist in Marketing of the University of Georgia, Extension Service, who gave a brief outline of the organization and accomplishments of many other markets in the state similar to that proposed for Statesboro. Procedures were outlined for making a market organization, and factors which influence the establishment and successful operation of such a retail market.

Sentiment in favor of the establishment of such a market was unanimously expressed.

Committees were appointed to secure a location, and to draft rules for its organization.

These committees are to meet on Saturday, April 23, at 3:00 o'clock at the office of the Home Demonstration Agent for the purpose of completing plans for the early opening, provided a suitable location can be secured.

The educational committee leaders, Mrs. Elvie Maxwell and Mrs. Bonnie Morris turned in $55.00 through their skillful and energetic efforts through a project of their own.

The Citizenship Committee, Mrs. Jas. Brannen and Mrs. Joe Watson put on a play and did that most difficult of things in statesboro secured an audience that brought door receipts to the amount of $1.25.

The Benevolent Committee, Mrs. C. E. Cone and Mrs. A. M. Braswell, leaders, have done an excellent piece of work. Mrs. Cone's office work up town has not kept her from giving time and effort to make our club year a success.

The Club Home Committee, Mrs. B. H. Ramsey, leader, has taken in $225 through rentals and has served two special dinners, the receipts of which amounted to $25.26. This committee has also placed shades and drapes at the windows with no expense to the club.

Please do not let us forget that looking after rentals is a hard job, that requires patience beyond belief. After each rental Mrs. Ramsey saw to it that the club was cleaned up and that the keys were in place. And after most rentals, cleaning up was a task to try one's soul.

The Membership Committee with Mrs. Arno Bennett and Mrs. C. H. Remington, leaders, served a special dinner towards their quota with the assurance of easily completing their pledge.

The Ways and Means committee has worked untiringly with Mrs. Frank Williams and Mrs. Harvey D. Brannen as leaders. They have sponsored two benefit bridge parties and helped in every way possible in other projects assumed by the club, and have reached every expectation in the raising of funds.

Mrs. Fred T. Lanier, chairman of the Garden Club committee has kept the park in perfect condition and has beautified the Club Home grounds by planting trees, shrubbery and flowers. She has carried cheer and smiles to many of the sick by sending flowers from the park. She will turn in her quota before the end of the club year.

Mrs. Z. S. Henderson and Mrs. William Deal chairmen of the program committee have given us wonderfully interesting programs and will have turned in their quota by the end of the club year.

The club officers consider the Christmas party for the older ladies one of the most delightful and most

HOME ECONOMICS
TEACHER AT NEVILS
Supt. H. B. Britt announced here today that it was definitely understood that Nevils will have a Home Economics teacher next year. Mr. Britt has had a notification to that effect.

We are very much enthused over this fact for some folks were kept out of school this year because we did not have Home Economics here. We are expecting to have a much larger enrollment in the High School Department next year.

NEW BUILDING AT NEVILS

The patrons of Nevils High School have contributed sufficient logs to build the vacation building. This is approximately 30,000 board feet. Only a small amount remains to be procured. This building is to be constructed without any additional levy of taxes and without any bonds.

There will be two rooms for home economics, a class room and shop for agriculture and a room for canning.

The building will probably be built through the aid of the WPA. A project has been submitted and so far the prospects are very encouraging.

Most of the work in preparing the trees for the mill has been done by the vocational boys under the supervision of Mr. G. C. Avery.

The majority of the patrons of this school have contributed to this building in some way. They furnished logs, money or either offered their services in some way.

A surprisingly small number have refused to contribute anything. Are you one of the ones.

OUR FAVORITE RECIPE
Mr. Editor asked me to tell him, so he could tell the rest of the Bulloch county cooks, our favorite recipe. Well Mr. Editor, mom and I made up a perfectly delicious recipe for soup—No, I don't mean the recipe was delicious, the soup. Mom put on a ham bone (course it had meat on it) and let it cook me, then she put rice in it and took me to add some tomatoes, as many as you like, and chip up some onions and a few Irish potatoes, then salt and black pepper.

Cook at a moderate temperature until all ingredients are done, and if you like soup at all, you'll like it. I don't know what to call it. You name it Mr. Editor. Maggie, I mean Mrs. Lorin Mills, promised she'd tell me a really good recipe next time, and don't fool yourself—Maggie's a good cook.

Mr. Editor says tell him our favorite movie stars. All is news, he says. Well I think Ruth likes Claudette Colbert the best because—don't tell her I said so, but because she favors Claudette. Well, maybe Ruth didn't say so, but I bet that's one big reason. And clothed, she's a regular movie fan, likes them all, but I think she mentions Robert Taylor most, and she's always interested in what Ronald Colman's doing. Well, let's say, all of them. And me, well Pocketbooks often spring a leak. And they are worse than leaky roofs or leaky valves when they do.

The worst leak of all is paying more than we need to pay. The best way to stop that leak is to shop and buy where we get full value and save money at the same time.

The ads in this newspaper will stop the leaks and help you keep your pocketbook plump.

Rotarians Hear Dr. Destler On Hospital Insurance

PLAN MUST BE NON-PROFIT-MAKING AND SPONSORING AND CONTROLLED BY LOCAL GROUP

At its regular meeting Monday the Statesboro Rotary Club heard Dr. C. M. Destler of the Teachers College on the subject of Hospital Care Insurance for Bulloch county.

Dr. Destler stated that he, together with a number of others in Statesboro had been giving considerable and serious study to the subject with the object of presenting a workable plan for this community. He stated that such a plan, to be successful, sponsored and controlled by representative groups in the community rather than private investors who are primarily concerned with personal gain.

"The benefits of most plans" said Dr. Destler "usually include hospital care for twenty-one days, including special services (x-ray, laboratory and anesthesia) for each person mentioned in the contracts. In general, the operations of these plans increase the willingness of patients to accept advice from physicians that they enter hospitals for treatment. Group hospitalization also enables all of them to pay their doctor's bills more promptly when discharged. The per-

OFFERING A NEW IDEA IN ENTERTAINMENT WITH AUDIENCE TO TAKE PART IN SOLVING DETECTIVE PLAY

The Senior class of the Statesboro High School will present the twentieth annual Stunt Nite at the High School auditorium on Thursday night May 12.

Since 1918 the Senior Classes of the high school have been presenting Stunt Nite for the purpose of assisting in the financing of the Criterion, the class annual. During the twenty years since 1918, eighteen Stunt Nites have been presented, there being two years when the Senior Class did not publish the Criterion.

The Stunt Nite this year presents fifty three Seniors. The program will be made up of skits and acts as has been the custom. One of the outstanding acts will be one in which two quick doctors open up an office and treat a number of patients for a number of days.

The audience will be two short detective skits in which the audience will be given an opportunity to solve the crimes committed. The solution will lie in clues which members of the cast will give. Just before the end of each skit the curtain will be drawn and the audience will try to solve the crime. It promises to be interesting.

Smith will be the villain. George Hite will be the judge and Skeet Kennon the sheriff, with Troy Maltard the old lady housekeeper who insists upon singing.

HOSPITAL INVITES PUBLIC TO VISIT ON NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY ON THURSDAY, MAY 12

Miss Naomi Zitterouer, superintendent of the Bulloch County Hospital, issues the following invitation to all the people of Statesboro and Bulloch county:

"Dear Friends, Thursday, May 12 is recognized throughout the country as National Hospital Day. On this day the hospital invites the general public to visit their institution so that they may become acquainted with the work which the hospital is doing in behalf of the patients and the community.

Undoubtedly you have been in a hospital either as a patient or to visit the hospital and inspect the various departments with their highly technical equipment, the research laboratory, X-ray, the distary and other departments. You will be pleasantly surprised and most assuredly proud that you have an institution with high ideals and only one motto, "To serve you and the community." Will you come? "Signed Miss Naomi Zitterouer, Superintendent."

We urgently invite you now to come and visit the hospital again, this time, however, as our most welcome guest. We are anxious to see old friends and serve you and the community. Please remember National Hospital Day is not a donation day. We merely wish to have you visit with us so that we may show you how the hospital functions with its staff of well-trained doctors, nurses and other health workers.

Protect Wild Life Says County Agent

BULLOCH COUNTY 4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS HAVE A CHANCE TO GO TO WILD LIFE CAMP THIS SUMMER

Bulloch county 4-H Club boys and girls will have an opportunity to attend the State Wild Life Camp this summer, according to County Agent Byron Dyer.

He advised that 50 free trips will be given in the state and that boys and girls in this county will be eligible to compete for these trips.

John H. Brannen entered more than 12,000 words of wild life bulletins may be obtained at his office, the agent said and he particularly urged that Miscellaneous Publication No. 291, entitled, "Teaching Conservation of Wildlife Through 4-H Clubs" be used in the wild life conservation program.

The agent pointed out that the wild life record book is for recording the activities of individual club members in the wild life program and urged that the boys and girls in the county do this.

One of the most important things, he said, is to stress forest fire prevention. Fire is one of the most destructive agents to wild life, as it destroys both food and cover.

Mr. Dyer recommended that the 4-H club members in the county encourage wild life by planting such crops as sorghum and brown-top near wooded places where the birds and animals can find cover easily.

The first of the new state-wide legal whiskey sales in Bulloch county in fifty-nine years. The last legal sale was made on Friday, December 19, 1879.

That day is remembered by a few of the old timers here in Statesboro and the county. They recall it as the day Drew Holloway, a negro, was hanged for the murder of Benson Brown, the father of old Mike Brown. Mr. Josiah Zetterower, father of Mr. Josh Zetterower, operated a barroom where Minkovitz and Sons Department store now stands.

Mr. Math Donaldson in recalling the day day states that the largest crowd that had ever been in Statesboro up to that time was here to witness the hanging. About 1,000 people were here recalls Mr. Donaldson. Holloway had been brought up from Chatham county jail where he had been in safe keeping, since Bulloch did not have a safe jail at that time. The hanging took place in a pine thicket where the J. A. McDougald house now stands on South Main Street. Elias McElveen was the sheriff at that time and cut the rope by which Holloway swung.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE FOR BULLOCH COUNTY

At the meeting of the Rotary Club Monday, Dr. C. M. Destler presented the essentials for an acceptable plan of hospital care insurance, which could be adapted to Bulloch County and surrounding communities. These essentials are as follows: (1) emphasis on public welfare; (2) non-profit sponsored and control; (3) enlistment of professional and public interest; (4) free choice of physicians and hospital; (5) economic and actuarial soundness; (6) limitation to hospital service; (7) dignified promotion and administration.

Already there is a hospital insurance plan being incorporated in Bulloch county but not by a local group. In their petition for charter the incorporators give their residences as Jacksonville and Macon. They hope to sell hospital care insurance in this county. Their petition for charter indicate that it is to be a non-profit organization. But think a moment. Are three persons coming into Bulloch county from Jacksonville and Macon and go to the expense of incorporating, selling contracts, promotion and administration of a hospital insurance plan, without making something out of it. "Non-profit" reads the petition—We wonder.

A hospital care insurance plan to be successful should be sponsored and controlled by representative groups in the community rather than private investors who are primarily concerned with personal gains.

In studying the plan of the group of Jacksonville and Macon as outlined in their pamphlets we find that the cost of one of the insurance contracts is about fifty per cent higher than the cost of the New York City plan which is one of the highest in the country.

There is a group of men in Statesboro studying the hospitalization insurance with the idea of presenting an acceptable plan based upon the needs and conditions in the community. Their word will have the backing and endorsement of all the local organization in Statesboro and Bulloch county. They hope to present their plan at an early date, at which time it will be presented and studied by the Medical Society, the hospital board, the board of county commissioners, the Rotary Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Woman's Club, the P. T. A. and various community clubs over the country. In their study of the plan these organizations will keep in mind the seven essentials of an acceptable plan outlined in the first paragraph above.

The group working on the plan has only an idea in this work. Given to the people of this section a hospital insurance plan at the lowest cost possible to them, a plan that will fit their needs, and a plan sponsored by and controlled by local men. A truly non-profit plan.

Beginning next week the Bulloch Herald is going to run a series of articles on Hospital Care Insurance. These articles will be based on the study and findings of the group which is working on the plan for Statesboro and Bulloch county.

BULLOCH COUNTY LOSS

A great many people who have learned to know Miss Naomi Zitterouer will regret to learn that she asked the hospital board to accept her resignation.

When Miss Zitterouer came to Statesboro she found the Bulloch County Hospital new, with no one knowing where to start or how to start. Immediately upon taking her charge the hospital took on the business-like air one feels in a well-organized and effectively operated situation. The hospital in a short time began to come out of the red. Its reputation as an up-to-date well-equipped and wisely administered hospital began to be recognized far and wide.

We have come to know well, and to love Miss Zitterouer and her office manager, Miss Collins. The people of Statesboro and Bulloch county who know them have grown to love them. When they leave they are going to be missed and the board is going to find it hard to replace them.

Everyone, whether patient or friend, or relative of a patient immediately finds oneself attracted to them and with a feeling of confidence know that everything humanly possible will be done for those who come under their care. Such qualities in persons in such positions as held by Miss Zitterouer and Miss Collier are rare and when we find them we should hold fast to them.

We would like to see them stay with us. We know that the people of the city and county would like to see them remain here, and it is hoped they can be prevailed to do just that.

The Editors Uneasy Chair

Slim Waller says that if they would give him the warship "SSavannah" he believes he could patrol the Ogeechee river with it and clean up the fish trapping situation in short order. We'll see if we can't make arrangements for Slim to use it a day or so.

Is it a part of our city's administration duty to politic for or against a question that comes up for its consideration? We are talking about the Sunday Movie question. Such a question should be considered by the council without those who oppose it taking an active part in the fight against them and it is not for those who are for it to get out and beat the drum for Sunday movies.

Harry Cone says that if everyone pays all his bills before buying his liquor, as some of the newspaper advertisements advise, he will have no money with which to buy liquor. He comes pretty close to being right.

Geo. T. Groover and the local aircraft corporation are to be congratulated upon the part they are to play in National Air Mail Week, May 15-21.

With summer coming on and with our playground football field lighted it seems to us that it would be a good idea to organize a city soft-ball league to give the "tired business man" an opportunity to get out and turn loose. Soft ball games played at night would furnish playing opportunities for a greater number than if played in the afternoon.

Dame Rumor is really getting about. It comes to this department that the voice of the people is being trained to say its say. Dame Rumor has already let it be known that D. B. Turner is flirting with the idea of running for a place in the House. And it is pretty well known that A. M. Deal is courting the Senator's chair and now we hear that Harvey D. Brannen is homesick for his old desk in the Senate. And the friends of D. B. Franklin are urging that he run for Representative and John Everett for the Senate. And Geo. M. Johnston can be entertained with the idea of the House.

The courts of law are having a lot of fun with the card players. First came the Board of Tax Appeals with the ruling that you can charge up some card losses on your income tax, if, and the if is a big one, you play with the assurance that you are going to win.

Next came a legal decision that a card game isn't a game of chance, but a game of skill. And now the California State Supreme court has just ruled that a card player who calls off a new deal with a gun in his hand, isn't a robber, but well within his rights.

In the case in question, a certain Dave Rosen found himself broke at the end of the card game. With gun cocked, he demanded his money back, and got it. That, said the court, was a perfectly legal action.

When next you step out for that evening of bridge, don't forget to take your law book along. With things as they are, you never can tell!

This Is How To Live

The other day when Mom and I were washing, we got to talking about the paper and me writing for it. Mom is always throwing off on me about writing. She said: "I don't understand why any paper would accept your junk." Well says I, "Is that right Mom?" "Yeh," says Mom, and threw a piece of clothes in the tub I was wrenching out of, soaking me good. But I didn't say anything, because I knew something else was coming and I wanted to hear it. Then Mom said, "Oh well—a paper's about the best thing out—it takes everything that is put on it."

I just have to tell you this, Yesterday, old Tom brought in some mail, and I heard him in the kitchen meowing like death was at the door. So I went in there to see what was wrong and tom came prissing over to me like he'd done something shore "tuff. I thought he had a rat at first, so I began to brag on him. Come to find out it was a poor little bird. Well, I started to tell it away from him right then, but tom was so proud of it, I hesitated. I blame myself for it 'till yet. Then sympathy got the best of me. I called tom and the little bird got away and flew up on the safe. Tom liked to had a fit. Almost turned the safe over so I kicked him out the door, and gave him a piece of meat. Then I got the little bird and showed it to mom. Mom said it was a turtle dove, boy that made me sore at tom. I wished I hadn't give him any meat at all. Mom said maybe if I'd put some olive on it, it would live. Poor little brave creature, it just sat with it's little head up and suffered without a murmur—till it died—with its little head still up.

How many people could suffer like that without a murmur? I couldn't. But from now on, I think I'll try to complain at little things, like the headache. Just seeing that little brave creature die like that—without even haging its head or lying down, makes me think that lots of people troubles are brought on by their own imagination.—Ebb

In some sections of the state, farmers make a practice of planting runner peanuts, to be hogged off. The agent said this is a good practice and advised that any of these crops will make good feed.

It is a good idea to save seed from some of these "triple threat" crops, according to the county agent. He suggested that it is sometimes practical to save a few seed for sale, in addition to the ones kept for home planting.

When the spray is being prepared, the agitator in the tank should be kept in constant motion, Mr. Dyer said. Applications of this mixture to the plants should be made at 10-day intervals for at least three applications, and insects or diseases are severe, more applications may be necessary.

Mites are a serious problem with the average farm flock, but the commercial poultryman is seldom bothered with them, as he knows what to do. If the roosts and nests are painted once a year with carbolineum, carbo-soda, anthracene oil, creosote or any good termitic remedy or wood preservative, the flock will not be bothered with mites.

Lice are not often serious with farm flocks on free range, as the hens dust themselves. Head lice on the baby chicks, however, may cause losses and both hen and chicks should be treated.

Peas And Beans Can Be Used For Several Purposes

County Agent Byron Dyer this week advised Bulloch county farmers to plant such crops as cowpeas, soybeans, lespedeza and runner peanuts, because they can be used for several purposes.

He said that such crops may be planted for food, feed, seed or soil improvement, and that the proper amount of such crops will supply the needs of the farm and maintain the fertility of the soil.

"The 1938 Agricultural Conservation program encourages the use of these crops," Mr. Dyer said. "It is fortunate that these crops are well adapted to most of Georgia, and particularly to Bulloch county. A farm program here is not complete without all these crops."

Mr. Dyer advised that, in using these crops for soil improvement purposes, as much crop residue be left on the land as possible. The stubble is very effective in controlling erosion during the winter months and these crops will protect the land during the summer rains, if they are not grazed too closely.

CARE OF FURNITURE

Furniture cannot stand forgotten after the pores of the wood have been filled and the surface polished. The wood needs to be fed with oil occasionally to keep it from drying out.

A certain amount of moisture in the air is necessary to woods, also, and if the air of a room becomes too dry in a heated house in winter it is not good for the furniture. When the moisture in the wood dries out, the parts become loose, the wood shinks, cracks and veneering may loosen.

Daily care of fine furniture will help to keep the wood in good condition. The formula for an oil finish to use in resting old furniture, is also good for a polish to use at once or twice a year on varnished and oiled furniture.

It is simply a mixture of two parts of commercially-boiled linseed oil and one part turpentine. The oil feeds the wood. This polish removes the dull foggy appearance often noticed on furniture in daily use and, if the surface has fine checks on it, they will show less after polishing.

Apply the mixture with a soft cloth. Wipe off all excess polish with a clean cloth and then polish by rubbing briskly with the grain of the wood until the fingers leave no mark and the surface is thoroughly dry.

furniture wax by melting a quarter pound of pure beeswax in a double boiler. When slightly cool, add a pint of spirits of turpentine and stir until it is like a thick batter. Put in a jar to use as needed.

Adding a little boiled linseed oil will make the wax waterproof. Adding burnt umber color will give a good color for lighter woods and jet or ivory black for darker ones. The wax should be colored so that it will not leave a light film on the surface.

To restore a varnished surface that has turned white from water or hot dishes, rub lightly with a piece of flannel dampened with spirits of camphor, essence of peppermint, or a drop or two of ammonia.

The milky film that develops on a varnished surface in a damp climate is often impossible to remove. If an oil rub does not help, it may be necessary to refinish the piece.

Local Plane To Take Part In National Air Mail Week

Will Take Batch of Mail To Atlanta

STATESBORO AIRCRAFT CORPORATION PLANE TO PICK UP MAIL AT SWAINSBORO AND AT LOUISVILLE

Mr. Geo. T. Groover, postmaster, announced here this week that the local postoffice would take an active part in the National Air Mail Week, May 15-21.

He stated that a plane of the Statesboro Aircraft Corporation, piloted by Lawrence B. Dobbs of that corporation will leave Statesboro during the week with a batch of mail bound for Atlanta. The plane will also pick up mail at Swainsboro and Louisville.

This will be the first time in the history of Statesboro that a batch of mail will have been carried from here by a plane owned by a local corporation.

Last year a batch of mail was picked up here and carried to Atlanta, August 9, when Dick Fell, the pilot, picked up more than 400 pieces of mail here.

Mr. Groover stated that Mrs. C. P. Olliff, Lannie F. Simmons and Hoke S. Brunson, officers of the Statesboro Aircraft Corporation are cooperating to make this year's Air Mail Week a success. He added that hundreds of privately owned airplanes will take to the air, piloted by their owners, on May 19 to provide a special pick-up on Air Mail Service which will extend into a great number of communities which now are remote from the regular transcontinental air mail lines.

He reported that the private flyers are cooperating with enthusiasm in the preparations for these special flights. "This will be a contribution of their time and service to the Air Mail Week program and by this co-operation, which will provide one of the outstanding features of the week, the aviators are showing an admirable spirit of loyalty not only to the Post Office Department but also to the great cause of aviation progress," said Mr. Groover.

Postmaster General Farley praised the idea of air mail week, when he was here last Wednesday.

A distinctive, two-color air mail stamp will be issued by the U. S. Post Office Department as a special recognition of National Air Mail Week.

Mrvain Cox To Run For Congress

FORMER SECRETARY OF HOMER C. PARKER WHEN MR. PARKER WAS IN CONGRESS

With the field still wide open one of the latest suggested entries for Congress from the First District is Marvin Cox, former secretary to Homer C. Parker, while Mr. Parker was in Congress.

It is understood that Mr. Cox will leave Washington, where he now holds a government position, for the purpose of visiting points in the First District, to sound out the situation.

Mr. Leonard Routree, father-in-law of Mr. Cox is now an active candidate for the State Senate from the Swainsboro district. It is believed that if Mr. Cox should run for Congress it would result in the withdrawal of Mr. Routree from the race for Senate.

Congressman Peterson is preparing to issue his formal announcement soon. Local rumor has it that Homer C. Parker will announce and T. Ross Sharpe of Lyons tells his friends he is a candidate for Congress.

200 Pure Bred Bulls In County

According to a report from Byron Dyer, county agent, there are now more than 200 purebred beef bulls owned by Bulloch county farmers.

Last year 120 of these bulls were brought into the county and are being used in the herds of native cattle. Approximately 800 cattle ready for sale on the spring market will be from herds using these bulls.

Farmers are interested in the beef cattle industry because they are able to make some money from it. Dyer states, "Prices were favorable throughout last year and practically all the beef projects were successful."

Pasture demonstrations in connection with the beef cattle were also successful during the year. Several new pastures will be started this year.

The eight schools taking part are: Brooklet, The Laboratory School, Ogeechee School, Sylvania, Millen, Lyons, Sallis and Newington.

As a part of the Festival, the 250 children sang in a group a number of songs. Under the direction of Ronald Neil they sang, "The April Chorus," "Who Has Seen the Wind," "The Prayer," from Hansel and Gretel and "Bird Calls."

IMPROVING THE CHILD'S READING

Miss Jane Franceth is doing a great work in the county schools. We give below a recent report of the reading improvements made by the county schools, which indicate her influence here:

"An intensive program in Bulloch County schools to improve the children's ability to read has produced encouraging results. Standard tests were given in the fall and again after six months of school for the purpose of measuring growth. According to the findings, as measured by these tests, the children of Bulloch County have exceeded the national average in reading growth by an average of three months. The growth shown during the six months of school was nine months.

"Though Bulloch County's children still rank below the national average, if the rate of growth continues to exceed the national average as much as it has done this year, our children will reach the national average within a period of approximately four or five years. The children in the first and second grades, on the average, are already very near to the national average.

"Though the high school students in Bulloch County are farther below the national average for their grades than any other group, they showed the most improvement in reading this year. Their average growth in the county during the six months of school was almost twelve months.

"Though some schools made more gain than others, all except one school exceeded the national average in growth. One school showed a growth of 10.8 months during six months of school.

"The amount of improvement in children's abilities to read can no doubt be attributed to many factors. A few of these are as follows: (1) Methods in teaching reading in the Bulloch county schools have been improved. Emphasis has been placed by almost all of the Bulloch County teachers on reading as a thought getting process. Mere word calling does not suffice. Much emphasis has been placed on stimulating purposes in reading through centers of interest especially in the field of social science. Emphasis is being placed on reading many references to satisfy assignments. Reading from one text does not suffice. Much effort has been placed on making available, books ranging in difficulty from easy to hard in every grade so that each child may be challenged to his limit regardless of the limits of the average for his grade.

"It is interesting to note that, with some exceptions, teachers who have put forth the greatest efforts to provide opportunities like the above seem to have been able to show the most improvement in reading, if standard test measurements are reliable.

"(2) Another factor which has no doubt affected the reading growth has been the availability of reading material made possible by the Bulloch County Library. No one school is financially able, by itself, to supply sufficient reading material for its children, but the circulating library makes it possible for each school to use at least nine times as much material as it could if each school had to work alone.

"(3) Another factor which no doubt contributed to the reading growth in Bulloch County was the effective use of the new state text books. Due to the State Adoption of many good texts, distributed free the children have been provided with many more excellent reading materials than they have ever had before.

"(4) The Rosenwald helpers from South Georgia Teachers College have contributed much to the increased efficiency of the schools. In the field of reading, alone, they have given special help to children without outstanding difficulties, taught demonstration lessons, helped teachers to secure suitable materials to fit individual needs, aroused interest in reading books, and in many other ways have helped the schools accomplish their objectives.

"Plans are under way at the present time to provide opportunities for children and for adults to read books from the county and local school libraries during the summer. In some districts it will be possible to secure W. P. A. help in the circulation of books. It is hoped that growth in children's abilities to read will continue during the summer months as it has during the year. Any district wishing to continue library facilities during the summer should see Mrs. Edith Jones.

"Plans are under way to buy new books for the local and county libraries. The State is giving Bulloch county $1000 if it can be matched by the county for the purpose of buying books. The Bulloch County Library is prepared to match half of this at the present time. The other half will be matched by the local libraries during the summer or early fall. Half of the books will circulate through the Bulloch County Library, the other half will remain in the local school libraries."

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

The folks in the Warnock community are smart. Their auditorium-dedication exercises were such a success that they want to thank every one who had a part in it. Mrs. L. S. Faircloth of the Warnock P.T. A. writes to this department and states that everyone was so wonderful about the whole thing that she cannot think of any way to thank them all. Now when folk like that fill up to the extent that they just choke up when they try to thank people for being so nice, they have to get someone to do it for them. We feel sure that everyone who had anything to do with dedicating the new auditorium did so with enjoyment and we believe that everyone knows it was appreciated. So know that the people of the Warnock community appreciate it all.

If Congress adjourns by June 1 each Senator and Representative will receive $454.50 per week for their actual time of legislative service since January 1, 1938. Each one will have worked 100 hours a month—25 hours a week—$20.00 per hour. The Constitution of the U. S. fixes the salary of Representatives and Senators at $10,000 a year plus allowances for stationery, clerical assistance and traveling expenses to and from the sessions of Congress.

And now comes the information that the Senate recently approved a travel allowance for all members of both houses, whether they traveled or not. They will get $222,000. We are inclined to agree with the Morning News—"The mileage grab vote legalizes this wasteful expenditure of the taxpayers' money, but the fellow who robs a hen roost also gets something for nothing—and goes to prison if he is caught at it."

Stunt Nite! It is now an institution, like the Junior-Senior Banquet, like the Criterion—it is a part of graduation. We venture to say that 90 per cent of the audience that will be there tomorrow night will not see it as a current Stunt Nite but as a repetition of the Stunt Nite they were in when they were a Senior. The skits may be different but it is still Stunt Nite!

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." What a world of memories that title conjures in our minds. Grimms' Fairy Tales. They come to life beginning tomorrow. Seeing Walt Disney's characters one loses sight of the fact that they are only fantasies in an artist's mind given form by pen and ink. We congratulate Hal Macon on bringing this picture to Statesboro and we know that every kid seeing it will thank him with us.

The Works Progress Administration of Georgia is conducting a State-wide survey of all blind persons in Georgia.

The purpose of the survey is to locate every blind person in the state of Georgia, regardless of race, sex or age and financial condition. It is necessary that all blind persons be counted in order to get a composite picture of the blind situation in Georgia.

This survey includes any person whose eyesight is so impaired that he or she is unable to carry on his or her work under ordinary conditions or who cannot see well enough to read even with the aid of glasses, or whose vision is less than 20-200 of normal in the better eye.

MRS. EDWIN GROOVER

ENTERTAINS

WITH "AT HOME" FOR

POPULAR VISITOR

Among the lovely social affairs of the week was the "At Home" given Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Edwin Groover complementing her cousin, Mrs. Clyde Mitchell of Huntington, W. Va., house guest of Mrs. E. C. Oliver.

Double larkspur, snap dragons, feverfew, roses and Easter lilies, in artistic combinations, made an exquisite setting for the brilliant occasion. In the dining room a color motif of white and green was suggested in the decorations and refreshments. The tea table was overlaid with a Tuscan lace cloth and was graced with a silver basket of Easter lilies and pink larkspur. At each end was placed a silver candlestick with a slim green taper. A similar arrangement was made on the buffet and serving tables. Ice cream molded in the shape of an Easter lily was served with embossed individual cakes.

Mrs. Esten Cromatie and Miss Brooks Grimes greeted the guests on their arrival. Mrs. Edwin Groover received her guests in a white lace frock with lace bolero. Mrs. Mitchell was lovely in a flowered crepe with black and rose as the predominating colors.

Assisting in entertaining the guests were: Mrs. J. O. Johnston, Mrs. Harvey D. Brannen, Mrs. Cecil Nesmith, Mrs. Frank Grimes, Mrs. Robert Donaldson, Dorothy Brannen, Mrs. Gordon May, Mrs. Jason Morgan, Mrs. Frank Simmons, Mrs. Harry Smith, and Mrs. W. E. McDougald.

Mrs. E. L. Barnes, Mrs. W. S. Haney, Mrs. Roger Holland, Martha Donaldson, Mrs. Roy Beaver, Mrs. Herbert Kingery, Mrs. Hugh Arundel, Mrs. George Bean presented a musical program that delighted the callers throughout the afternoon.

Punch was served in the sun room by Mrs. Hinton Booth and Mrs. Dan Lester. A hostess tray filled with mints and salted nuts was placed by the punch bowl.

The essentials of criteria for an acceptable plan of hospital care insurance are as follows: (1) emphasis on public welfare; (2) non-profit sponsorship; (3) enlistment of professional and public interest; (4) free choice of physicians and hospital; (5) economic and actuarial soundness; (6) limitation to hospital services; (7) dignified promotion and administration.

Emphasis On Public Welfare

Group hospitalization is intended primarily for the general public who use the hospitals. It is a method of insuring employed persons to budget hospital bills rather than a plan for providing revenue to hospitals.

Non-Profit Sponsorship and Control

"Representative groups in the community should sponsor and control hospital service plans rather than private investors who are primarily concerned with personal gain. No individual should be allowed to assume the risk of financial gain or loss, although employed persons should receive reasonable income for necessary services. Financial gains

FOUND BY POLICEMEN AND

HOSPITAL

Statesboro's night policemen R. W. Akins and A. J. Wilson, played nurse to a wondering child found on the streets of Statesboro Friday morning about 1 o'clock.

The fifteen-month old girl was found standing in front of John Everett's store. Policemen Akins and Wilson were stumped for a moment but decided to call Mayor Renfro to learn if it would be OK to take the girl to the hospital. Upon receiving the Mayor's OK they carried the youngster to the Bulloch county hospital and turned her over to the night nurse who gave it some orange juice and put it to bed in the doctor's dressing room.

About 4:30 in the morning the girl's mother, Mrs. Carl Woodcock, reported missing the child to Officer Willard, who told her that the child was being well cared for at the hospital. Mrs. Woodcock told the police that the child slipped out of bed where they were sleeping and made her way

STATESBORO AIR MAIL WEEK

This week is National Air Mail Week. Statesboro is taking a major part in the observance of this week. We will not only be celebrating aviation achievements of the past, but will be taking a decisive step to facilitate a major development of the future. Experts recognize the great need of feeder lines to supplement trunk air routes in this country. Fifteen such feeder lines are to be flown in Georgia tomorrow (Thursday) by pilots sworn in for one day of government service. Statesboro will send such a pilot flying a home owned plane to Atlanta.

Fifty-one Georgia cities will be given a practical demonstration of air mail service and an opportunity to show through use of the special facilities provided by the Post Office Department, what permanent establishment of feeder lines would mean to the state. Civic organizations throughout the state are cooperating in the observance and more than one hundred municipalities have arranged for special cachets to be stamped on every piece of mail handled through their post offices.

Some months ago a leading aviation magazine predicted that feeder lines reaching into hundreds of smaller towns and connecting with the trunk line air routes will be the next big development in commercial aviation.

The remarkable growth of the air mail service and what it means to the country were reviewed by Post Master General James A. Farley in a recent radio address. "Since the air mail system was established twenty-years ago," he pointed out, "More than a billion and a half pieces of mail have been transported. Included in this mail have been thousands of articles whose value cannot be estimated—such as medicines and serums which have been rushed by airplanes to save the lives of seriously ill persons and to prevent epidemics in communities."

We congratulate the local post office on being able to secure such a prominent part for Statesboro to play in this air mail week. We congratulate the Statesboro Aircraft Corporation on offering its equipment to make it possible for Statesboro to participate in this event.

GEORGIA AIR TOUR

One of the features of the observance of National Air Mail Week is the third annual Georgia Air Tour, a three-day mass flights scheduled to get under way Thursday, with more than fifty pilots visiting key cities to foster interest in aviation.

We are pleased to learn that Statesboro is included on the schedule of this tour. A number of these planes will come to Statesboro Saturday morning and are expected here about 10 o'clock.

This air tour has become an annual feature through which Georgia industries may bring their products before the citizenship of the state, while officials of the various cities on the itinerary are conveying their messages of goodwill to others along the route. We welcome the aviators of Georgia.

THE BULLOCH HERALD WEDNESDAY, MAY 18, 1938

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Of course the city knows about it but it occurs to this department that something could be done about it. The intersection of Oliff Street and Zetterow Street—we are talking about. It's bad. One person is now in bed and has been for some time because of it. A warning sign would help.

Ye Ed has received a likeness of Dopey of the Seven Dwarfs done in soap accompanied by a note—"He would make a good companion for you."

Now we have a sneaking suspicion that someone is casting reflection on our intelligence—and then on the other hand it may be a suggestion that we need a washing. We hardly know what of make of it. We saw the show "Snow White" and in our mind, Dopey was a right smart guy. He carried the tail light thus providing the safety factor in the Seven Dwarfs' travels. He remained silent all the while the others were talking themselves into trouble. He was the only courageous one of the Seven. He was the shock absorber of the crew. And above all he was an optimist.

So we've rationalized Dopey into being quite a fellow and no one stands on our desk beside an ivory Buddha sent to us by a friend from Bombay India. A pair—Dopey and Buddha.

You're burning up over a piece of impending legislation. You tell somebody you are going to send your protests to your congressmen. Some fatalistic friend volunteers the advice, "Save your time. If you have to exercise your democratic prerogative, sign a petition. What's the difference? They all go into the same wastebasket anyhow." But two Senators, Gerald P. Nye from Nebraska and Arthur Capper of Kansas, have put the Indian Sign on such fantastic nonsense. They say that "Twelve letters carry more weight than a hundred signatures on a petition." Figuring on that basis one telegram should be worth about 1200 names.

Vice President Garner in explaining his differences with the president, puts it this way: "I sometimes disagree with my wife and friends, but that does not take away my affection for them." We think John has something there. What a dull place this would be if we all agreed with one and all on every thing. Disagreement can be the real test of one's character. Who wishes to be a "Yes Man"?

"Two years ago in Bulloch county there was a purging of the voters lists in preparation for the approaching election. Something like five thousand names were cancelled as defaulters and notices were required to be sent to these by legal processes. When the work was completed, it was found that the work of purging the lists had cost the county approximately $4,000 for that year, and that there were approximately that number of voters who had paid the $1 poll tax. This meant that it had cost the county exactly as much to prepare the voters' list as had been collected.

"But that is only part of the story. The $1 collected from each voter was not placed in the treasury of Bulloch county; it went to the state of Georgia. Bulloch county had paid $4,000 tax payers' money to collect $4,000 for the state of Georgia.

"At this moment the country registrars in Bulloch county are again engaged in purging the list of poll tax defaulters. Approximately 2,000 notices have been mailed out by the board. The expense, will be approximately $500.

"So there we are again, Bulloch county is paying $500 of her cash to collect $600 for the state of Georgia. What ought to be done about it. Wouldn't it be the part of disdom—just simple economy—to abolish the poll tax prerequisite? Why pay poll tax if the other and more important taxes are to be left unpaid?"—The Bulloch Times.

There can be no doubt as to the wisdom of the suggestion made in the above editorial. There are some states which have done away with the poll tax altogether and with good effect. It is something that Bulloch county might consider which would have the approval of all.

WHAT HELPS BUSINESS HELPS YOU

"What Helps Business Helps You". Sounds reasonable doesn't it?

The merchants and business men of Statesboro will use the week of June 6 to educate the people of this community in the truth of this statement.

The Chamber of Commerce is trying in with the nation in an effort to stimulate business. The local office of the Georgia Power Company is cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce and will aid in the distribution of the posters, stickers, and other means of publicizing the week.

The merchants of the city will take advantage of this week to make a special value week, realizing that the slogan "What Helps Business Helps You" can just as easily be said "What Helps You Helps Business," and that every value offered will be helping you thus helping business.

Augusta has already used this application of a business principle to a great advantage. Other sections are using it successfully.

Help business so that what helps business will help you.

GRADUATION TIME

Throughout Bulloch County, as throughout the country, it is graduation time. Thousands of high school graduates will be turned out into the world—some to pursue their studies farther, others to take up work in various fields in making a place for themselves for the future.

To those students who plan to go to colleges and professional schools, good advice is to consider the money which you spend there as an investment. An investment on which returns will be measured in the amount, and quality of work you do while there. If we look at it from this standpoint, success or failure can be measured in the same way as success or failure in any other endeavor.

Which is better, an investment which pays a return of 2 per cent, or one that pays 10 per cent? Apply this to your college work, which we shall call an investment, and measure your returns in the amount of labor that you put into getting an education and professional training. Only a college education cannot be measured merely in dollars and cents. Although in the future the money you spend in college, if used wisely, will pay returns all out of proportion to the original investment.

While a college education is important, it is not altogether essential to success. Those students who are denied the advantages of this, can more than make up for it in utilizing their opportunities, and of making every effort to improve themselves with each year.

In college as in work, however, a great deal depends upon the individual and the adjustments he makes. It is important that this adjustment be made early and that it be the correct one. And the correct adjustment is one that allows the individual to be in tune with his environment so that he may fit himself endearingly into the lives of his contemporaries.

KEEP YOUR DRIVER'S RECORD CLEAN

In the drivers license bureau of the State Patrol a record is kept of every person who holds a driver's license.

Every traffic accident, every traffic ticket, every injury to self or others, every arrest, every conviction is kept on the individual record in this file.

Every warning ticket issued by the Troopers is kept on file. When three warning tickets are received in the same individual file, the person's name is sent out so that stricter treatment can be given if yet another violation occurs.

During the six months of the State Patrol 15,995 first warning tickets were issued.

This means that your record as an automobile driver is on file. This means that your own record is going to be the witness against you. This means that your own record is going to be proof.

It may be of outstanding importance to keep your record as an automobile driver clean.

INCOME AND OUTGO

Here is a fact that must be kept in mind in reaching a conclusion about public politics.

The State of Georgia spent $4,179,829 above its income during the past 10 months, although tax collections exceeded those of the same period a year ago by $6,772,439, a summary by Zach Arnold, state auditor shows.

Total receipts were $35,427,823 and expenditures were $39,607,652. For the same ten months, July through April, in the previous fiscal year, collections totaled $28,655,384 and expenditures $26,923,298.

Arnold said the increase in expenditures for the 10-month period total $12,700,000.

Of the increased spending, $4,400,000 went for highways; $5,000,000 for common schools; $1,900,000 to the Public Department for old age pensions and increased aid to state institutions and $1,400,000 was used for the expanded health program establishment of Public Safety Department, unemployment compensation division, and employment division of the Department of Labor. Sharp increases in collections were shown for income taxes, property, professional and poll taxes, beer and wine taxes.

Income tax collections jumped to $4,225,000 from $2,580,826. Property, professional and poll taxes increased to $5,105,089 from $3,797,726. Beer and wine taxes rose from $493,047 to $1,028,532.

Fuel oil and kerosene tax collections for the current 10 months totaled $16,236,654 for the previous period. Liquor taxes, which were included in the budget for the first time, showed $511,881 for the 10 months. Automobile license taxes amounted to $1,490,386 compared to $1,330,018.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

With the first tobacco in the state cured by a resident of the Mill Creek district in Colquitt County it looks like an early tobacco market. Dry, hot weather is being held partly responsible for the quick maturing of the tobacco this year. Growers all over the state are beginning to make preparations for their first curings.

Senator Walter F. George has made a splendid record, according to the Douglas Enterprise. Eugene Talmadge cannot defeat Senator George. He will get a good many votes but not enough to give him the nomination is the opinion of the Albany Herald. Talmadge came out for free land to be purchased with relief funds and for an expansion of CCC camps. Heretofore he has been against the government giving away anything and had been criticized sharply for an alleged reference to CCC boys as "bums and loafers"—"We're off, but we haven't seen anything yet. If Mr. Rivers tosses up his hat, then we're going to really have something.

According to a recent news release qualifications for the September 14 primary are coming in very slowly, and the state committee really needs money. The Chairman of the state committee suggests a newspaper ad in the Want Ad section: "WANTED, CANDIDATES — Candidates for state offices are asked to hurry and qualify for the September 14 primary by paying the entrance fees to the State Executive Committee. Otherwise, the committee may not have sufficient money to hold the primary."

Agriculture Alone Can't Pay
This $85,000,000 Tax Bill!

The cost of government in Georgia for 1938—state, county and municipal—will be approximately $85,000,000.

That sum, which must be raised through taxation, is more than the value of Georgia's entire cotton crop, including the seed.

It is more than the combined value of Georgia's cotton and corn crops, and about three-fifths of the value of all crops.

Georgia is an agricultural state, two-thirds of our population is rural, but agriculture alone could not foot the state's tax bill. And agriculture doesn't need to do it, because the businesses of Georgia pay a big share of it.

Georgia, though rural, has long pursued policies favorable to the growth and development of business. And that policy has returned big dividends to rural Georgia in better roads, better schools, better and more adequate public services—paid for in large part by the tax contributions of business. Without the tax payments of Georgia's mills, factories, banks, stores, railroads, public utilities, and all the other elements represented by the word BUSINESS, taxes would be an impossible and crushing burden on the back of agriculture.

What helps business helps the farmer because business lifts much of the tax load from his shoulders. What hurts business hurts the farmer because the burden then falls back on the land.

In this, as in other things, business and agriculture have a common interest and what helps one helps both.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES
BEGAN AT NEVILLS
FRIDAY NIGHT

The Senior Play, "Good Gracious Goodness," which was presented Friday night, May 20 was the first event to take place in the Commencement Exercises at Nevills High school.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR THIS WEEKEND

The following program will be presented Friday night, May 27. The two first grades with Miss Hatcher and Mrs. Futch will present a Mother Goose playlet, including "Mother Goose Rhymes" and songs with characters costumed.

The second grade with Mrs. Norman, will present a playlet entitled, "The Seasons." Costumed characters will help to identify the seasons as they come.

The third grade assisted by the fifth and sixth grades under the supervision of Misses White, Van Landingham and Lord will present "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." This play is so arranged that the "Snow White" music, such as "Whistle While You Work," "Heigh-Ho," "Snow White" and "Some Day My Prince Will Come" will be used as choruses between the acts.

Characters will be so costumed that it will be easy for you to recognize them. If you missed "Snow White" at the theatres this will be your chance to see a good substitute.

The fourth and fifth grades under the direction of Misses Anderson and Brunson will present "The Candy Shop."

The children of these two grades will be dressed to represent the many candies, such as lollipops, peppermint sticks. Preceding this number will come the song "Cherry Blossom Lane."

The seventh grade with Mr. Breinarl Hodge, will present a short, but very educational number called "War" and Peace," with several countries of the world participating.

Mrs. Ruel Clifton, with her seventh grade will present in a very interesting manner a little play entitled "The Good Little Girl," which promises to be very good.

The announcement of Miss Adam's program is in other space of this paper. This entertainment is expected to be very good for it is the best taken from the music and expression department for this year's work.

Juniors-Seniors Banquet In Nautical Setting; Freshmen-Sophomores Prom

Thursday evening at the Woman's Club the Junior Class of the Statesboro High School was host to the Seniors in the annual banquet. So realistically was the atmosphere of a shipboard depicted in the decorations that one could almost feel the tang of the salt air. As the honor guests entered the building by gang plank, John Oliff Groover and Dan Groover, one in a blue sailor suit, the other in whites.

The interior, with life preservers conveniently placed against the walls, with clusters of blue and white balloons depending from the ceiling forming a central decoration the entire festoons of moss draped on the rafters, and flower drenched tables, presented a picture never-to-be forgotten by the Seniors at this all-important social function.

The school colors, blue and white, were used effectively in the table appointments, favors and refreshments.

Two long banquet tables arranged the full length of the club room and the officer's table extending cross wise between them, were alternately decorated with the centers with silver sail boats on azure reflectors, blue candelabra, and lovely baskets of blue larkspur, feverfew, and Easter lilies.

Each plate was marked with a miniature three-masted sailboat, rools of serpentine and packages of confetti.

After Superintendent C. E. Wolcott returned thanks, Dight Oliff very enjoyed the evening dancing was furnished by Carl Collins' Orchestra.

The annual Freshman-Sophomore Prom was held Thursday evening at the home of Prunella Comartie. The lovely backyard was brilliantly illuminated for the occasion.

Series Of Parties For Miss Martha Cone

One of the most brilliant social events of the season was the lovely tea given on Friday afternoon by Mrs. James Thomason at the home of Mrs. W. H. Aldred Sr. on North Main St. honoring Miss Martha Cone, whose engagement to Robert Benson has been announced.

The spacious home was ensuite for the occasion and was beautifully decorated with quantities of garden flowers. The daintily appointed tea tables overlaid with a cover of Point de Venise lace had for its central decoration a crystal basket filled with white double larkspur and fern. Crystal candelabra holding yellow candles emphasized the color motif of yellow and white. Fancy canapes and party cakes, embossed with yellow, white and white floral motifs salted nuts and amber punch were served.

Mrs. Gilbert Cone received the callers at the door and Mrs. C. E. Cone introduced them to the receiving line. Receiving with Mrs. Thomason were Miss Martha Cone, the lovely bride-elect, Mrs. Maud Benson, mother of the groom-elect and Mrs. Ghelston Lockhart of Macon, Mrs. Thomason's sister. Mrs. Herbert Kingery conducted the guests to the dining room. Serving refreshments were: Mrs. Henry Ellis, Mrs. Jimmie Allen, Mrs. J. C. Hines, Mrs. James B. Brown, Sara Hall, Isabel Sorrier and Betty Jean Cone.

Mrs. Byron Dyer directed the guests from the dining room to the porch where Mrs. H. C. Cone presided over the bride's book.

Mrs. Thomason received her guests in a gossamer white frill of mousseline de sole with v shaped neckline and short puff sleeves. The full skirt fell into softly flowing lines from the hips, the fullness being achieved by a succession of ruffles.

Miss Cone wore a becoming ruff of pale blue organdy with bouffant skirt. The bodice was shirred and featured the fashionable high neckline. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

About a hundred guests called between the hours of 4:30 and 6:00.

Continuing the series of lovely parties being given for Miss Martha Cone, whose marriage will take place early in June, was the buffet supper and linen shower given by the Y. W. A. girls of the Baptist church, at the home of Mrs. Kermit Carr. Perfection of detail marked the decorations in the home and the delightful refreshments served. Colorful summer flowers were used in effective manner, and the supper which was served buffet style presented the same varied color effects in the use of ice cubes containing mint, cherries, and olives for the ginger-ale grape fruit juice beverages. Boiled ham, devilled eggs and a variety of open-faced sandwiches, stuffed celery and celery curls were served.

The guests were met at the door by Mrs. Sidney Lanier, Pres. of the Y. W. A. Others invited were Miss Belle Greer, Miss Lola Thomas, Miss Elvie Maxwell and Mrs. Ralford Williams.

Many lovely linen pieces were presented the bride-elect.

Hospital Care

stances recommend hospital care where he would hesitate if he had to consider the matter of cost to the patient. During the period of hospitalization, the freedom from worry about the hospital bill often contributes to the patient's recovery. In addition, evidence is clear to the effect that hospital service enables physicians to collect reasonable fees from people of moderate means at the time of hospitalization, whereas otherwise the doctors might be expected to render free care.

The official endorsement by local medical societies and the cooperation on boards of trustees in local plans by leaders of the medical profession are evidence of the active and intelligent interest which leaders in the medical profession are taking in an improved program of budgeting hospital bills.

SCOPE OF HOSPITAL BENEFITS

Group hospitalization provides for service rather than cash reimbursement, although the amount of benefits may be measured by the established hospital rates for various types of general or special service. A number of plans provide for X-ray service (cost of materials only) nursing, meals, operating room, anesthesia when administered by hospital and laboratory expenses up to $10.

Use of maternity delivery room (where obstetric services are included in the benefits) is also provided without extra charge, usually after a waiting period of ten or twelve months following the effective date of the contract.

Medicines and dressings are included in all of the contracts. The foregoing benefits are for 21 days.

TYPES OF ILLNESS COVERED

Hospital benefits are provided for all types of illness or injury, with a few exceptions such as pulmonary tuberculosis, venereal diseases, quarantinable diseases and mental disorders. Services of a private physician or nurse are excluded from the benefits.

Accident and emergency illnesses are usually covered immediately after application has been filed and accepted, although some of the contracts specify that coverage begins on a certain day and hour following the acceptance of the contract.

Hospital care for ordinary sickness and injury usually is provided after a very brief waiting period, such as ten days.

A private physician's judgment is the deciding factor in declaring the need for treatment. The subscriber agrees that he will not seek treatment for conditions known to him to exist at and to require hospital care at the time of the application. In case of accident or emergency illness, most plans provide for limited payments for services outside of the home area. The payments are usually cash allowances similar to the amounts paid to participating member hospitals. Such payments are made directly to the hospital which is expected to extend credit to the patient on the basis of his certificate and enrollment card.

Authority May Be Useful
"He who seeks much authority," said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "should remember that merely grasping the bridge is not always sufficient to control a runaway horse."

More than 1597 applications were sent off, which will represent approximately $200,000 when payment is received. It is not definitely known just when the checks will be received but Mr. Dyer stated that it should be within two weeks. He added that each participant will receive notice when the checks arrive.

The 1937 cotton subsidy payment checks will be paid with the compliance with the 1938 program. The performance check on the 1938 program will begin sometime this month stated Mr. Dyer. These payments will amount to approximately $250,000 and should be here shortly before September 15. And the 1938 soil conservation checks should follow shortly afterwards, amounting to about the same as the subsidy payments.

Dyer Suggests Leguminous Crops

EXPLAINS THAT THERE IS NO LIMIT TO NUMBERS OF ACRES OF LEGUMINOUS CROPS THAT MAY BE GROWN ON A FARM

Such crops as cowpeas and soybeans planted for hay or often produce more feed per acre than could be grown by the form of corn on the same land, County Agent Byron Dyer suggested this week.

He pointed out that the average yield of corn in Georgia for the five year period, 1932-36, was 3.9 bushels per acre. This amounted to about 463 pounds of digestible nutrients per acre. During the same period, the average yield of cowpea hay in the state was three-fifths of a ton, or 675 pounds of digestible nutrients per acre.

In comparing the yields of some of the other crops with corn, the agent said that the average yield of soybeans for hay was nine-tenths of a ton, or 880 pounds of digestible nutrients, per acre. The average yield of peanuts was 569 pounds, with the pounds of digestible nutrients per acre being about the same as the yield per acre.

Mr. Dyer explained that there is no limit to the number of acres of such leguminous crops that may be grown by a farm. He urged farmers in the county to increase their food and feed supply by growing these crops.

"The Farm Act provides that the county committees must take into consideration the food and feed needs of the farm, among other factors, in establishing the total soil-depleting acreage allotment," the agent continued.

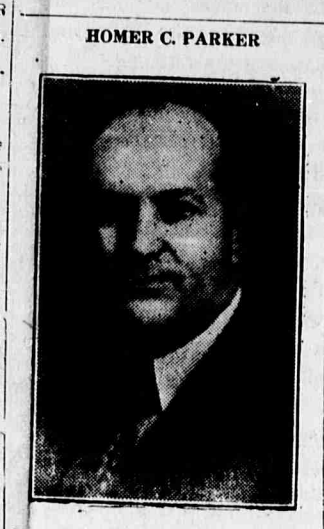

"At the same time, a primary aim of the program is soil conservation, and it is necessary for at least a part of the diverted acres to be devoted to non-depleting crops. This acreage can be used for such crops as cowpeas and soybeans for hay."

BURTON'S FERRY BRIDGE TO BE COMPLETED BY END OF YEAR

Work on Burton's Ferry Bridge, one of the four new spans to be constructed across the Savannah River, highway use, will be completed before the week end, contractors predict. Three contracts involving $538,186 are in effect on this bridge between Sullivan and Allendale, S. C. which will replace one of the last ferries on the Savannah river.

Construction on the two approaches is about 85 per cent completed. The main span, which will cost more than $200,000, is about 25 per cent completed. An average of 125 men besides highway department supervisors have been employed daily.

13 Candidates Qualify For Seven Places In Primary To Be Held June 29

Parker Seeks Comptrollership

QUALIFIED IN ATLANTA LAST WEDNESDAY AS CANDIDATE FOR STATE COMPTROLLER GENERAL

Homer C. Parker of Statesboro qualified for the race for the Democratic nomination for the office of state comptroller general in Atlanta on last Wednesday.

Mr. Parker in a statement, expressed hope, "my candidacy will meet with the approval of the people of Georgia, and I will be permitted by them to fill the office to which they elected me in 1930 and which was taken from me by unscrupulous politicians." Mr. Parker here referred to the primary in which he led in the popular vote for the nomination but was denied it by the convention in Macon.

Mr. Parker added: "I am going to make my campaign independently of others. Those citizens who are interested in my welfare are from all factions... of our people. I shall take no interest in the campaign of any other candidate for office. I feel I will have my hands full in attending to my own business."

"I want to thank the people of Georgia for their many kindnesses to me in the past and especially do I thank the citizens of the First Congressional district for the kind treatment accorded me in years gone by. I hope my conduct in the future will be such as to permit the support and friendship of the homelands at all times."

A native of Baxley, Appling county, Mr. Parker has made his home in Statesboro for a number of years. He has served as solicitor of the city of Statesboro, as mayor from 1924 to 1927, as state adjutant general from 1927 to 1931 and as congressman from the first district in 1931 and 1932-34. He is a World War veteran.

T. W. Rowse Reports FRED W. HODGES UNOPPOSED

"78,000 LOANS IN GEORGIA, FLORIDA, NORTH CAROLINA AND SOUTH CAROLINA," SAYS MR. ROWSE

Returning from Columbia where he attended a conference of secretaries of national farm loan associations of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, Mr. T. W. Rowse, secretary of the Bulloch County National Farm Loan Association, which serves Bulloch, Evans, Effingham, Chatham and Bryan counties, said that reports at the conference indicated that the farmers of the four states had met their obligations to be associations in a splendid manner last year. The outstanding recession in the prices of farm products had not affected the farmers of the four states as going to meet their obligations if there is any way in the world that they can meet them."

Mr. Rowse said that during the year 1937 the bank itself and acting as agent for the Land Bank Commissioner made 2,907 loans in the four states for a total of $3,142,508. There were 847 loans made in North Carolina for a total of $1,126,395; 448 loans in South Carolina for $508,215; 772 loans in Georgia for $960,528 and 240 loans in Florida for a total of $457,270.

Mr. Rowse said that the secretaries reported that farmers over the four states were continuing to avail themselves of the opportunity to secure long-term farm mortgage credit through national farm loan associations. Some are borrowing, he said, for the purpose of refinancing old indebtedness and an increasing number for the purchase of land. The rate of interest on loans now being made through national farm loan associations is four per cent, Mr. Rowse said.

MRS. TALTON BAXTER WINS $25 IN WOOL-PEP SAFETY CRUSADE

Mrs. Talton Baxter of Port of Statesboro won a check on Tuesday of last week for $25 by Sam J. Franklin, Distributor of Wool-Pep products for having secured the greatest number of "Drive Safely" pledge cards in the Wool-Pep Drive Safety Crusade. Mrs. Baxter was sixth highest in the state, having signed up 706 pledge cards during the month of April.

Mr. Franklin received honorable mention for his activities in the statewide campaign to help make the highways safer for driving.

Cravey Qualifies For Treasurer

Zack D. Cravey, former Game and Fish Commissioner, has qualified for his race for State Treasurer by paying the entrance fee and filing a formal letter of entry with the Democratic Executive Committee.

In addition to his Atlanta headquarters, Cravey intends visiting in each Congressional District for a week or ten days and setting up a temporary headquarters in some centrally located town.

In announcing this innovation, Cravey said: "It is an original idea, but I believe the people are entitled to see the candidate they are going to vote for and this offers an excellent way for me to meet and mingle with the citizens of each district."

"I owe the people of Georgia a visit anyway, and in settling their votes, I want to thank them personally for the support they gave me as their game commissioner."

At a recent meeting of the board of trustees of the Stilson school the entire faculty was re-elected.

"WHAT HELPS BUSINESS HELPS YOU"

The week of June 6 has been designated as "What Helps Business Helps You" week. The week set aside by the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce as a week for encouraging business in this section.

If anyone were to ask you Mr. Citizen, why you don't develop your town as a trading center, why you don't make use of its resources for industry, why you don't help keep its streets clean, why you don't promote playground facilities for its youth, you would probably say—"It isn't my business."

And you would be right up to a certain point.

It isn't your business any more than it is the business of ten or twenty or a hundred other citizens who happen to be living here.

You can't go out and clean the streets, you can't go out and build tennis courts or swimming pools, or erect a factory to provide jobs for idle workers or open new channels of trade with other communities.

But, if all you citizens felt that way, you wouldn't accomplish very much. Things don't get themselves done by themselves. They do not just happen, like the weather.

Someone has to step out in front. Someone has to make the start. No community can get very far without leadership.

Here is where your Chamber of Commerce comes in. To do the jobs that are nobody's business but, at the same time, everybody's business.

In more than a thousand communities, devoted groups of America's two millions business men are banded together, just as these in Statesboro are banding themselves together, and are eagerly engaged on the job of reselling the American System of free business enterprise which has given this nation the highest living standards of all times—and can continue to do so.

We were once proud to be dubbed a business nation. We had come, recently, to be ashamed of that designation. But the current interlude of "hard times" has now taught us once again to take pride—and to put faith—in the common sense practical method of providing in abundance more things for more people.

Is it too much to hope that we shall gain our stride again?

NO—if we return to the time-tried American way of wholehearted teamwork; if we return to lower government expense and thus release more money for business expansion; if we encourage—rather than hamper the men who have dreams and are willing to dare in the business worlds.

All of which is wrapped up and comprehended in the simple phrase:

WHAT HELPS BUSINESS HELPS YOU

The JOB of each man who believes these things is to set about immediately to convince his neighbors, no matter how small his circle of influence.

Come to town next week and Help Business Help You. Each merchant will have some special value to offer you.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

In the next few weeks, what with politics in the air, somebody is going to get their toes stepped on and their feelings hurt and there is going to be some frayed edges so this little bit of wisdom may be timely: "The fellow who cherishes hatred in his heart is pouring sand upon the bearings of life. There are many people in the world who may not tend to increase the surplus of your affections, but in such cases you may either expend your sympathy or indulge in laughter and thus escape the weighty and serious state of mind which anger brings about."

We may have our little differences about doctrines, theories, party affiliations and such like, but there will never be a great upheaval on account of disagreement about the immersion of an angle worm, the cobwebs on the garden hoe and the shortest distance from a place of toil to the banks of the Ogeechee or the dam of a nearby pond.

If a man does not get all that he ought to get out of life as the years pass he has in a sense lost his life. A brief outline of many lives is thus sketched by a local philosopher: In youth they have the time and the yearning for the good things of life but they lack the money. In middle life they have the yearning and the money but lack the time. In old age they have the leisure and the money but have lost the yearning.

Now that all the candidates that are going to run for public office have qualified a stop will be put to all the rumors that so and so is going to run for such and such office. The pressure has been transferred from wondering to certainty. Each candidate now knows who he has to fight, but that does not mean that he knows what he is fighting. Nor can they all tell you just what they are fighting for. But we all know that they want "the place."

We are inclined to agree with the good brother who stated that the farmers who need relief most are those who have moved to town.

During times of election it is amazing how versatile the candidates are. If he is talking to a farmer the candidate becomes a farmer—if talking to a mechanic, he becomes a "mechanic"—if talking to a doctor, he becomes a "humanitarian"—if talking to a banker he becomes a "poor man" and if talking to the people he becomes "their friend."

Today the fisherman will get out his fishing tackle; and the barefoot boy will cut him a pole and dig him a worm and both will "a fishing go." We betcha the fisherman will tangle his tackle and will swer the hold the finny tribe has upon him is more diabolical than the devil himself and the barefooted boy will return with five beam, two trout and two red-eyes. And while we are here we wonder what has become of the Sportsman's League organized two or three years ago with good resolves.

And the Swimming Pool opened Saturday. "Come On In, The Water's Fine." What an invitation! "Last One In Is A Rotten Egg"—What a curse! Few refuse the invitation and none wishes to be cursed. There is no exercise finer than the matelbWtW "m" no exercise finer than the natorial art. There is no relaxation better than that to be found as the cool waters laves tired bodies and there is no finer fun than that provided by a diving board, water-wings or a water polo ball. Observing the swimmers it becomes a far cry from the cumbersome costumes of our grandparents to the one-piece swim suits of today.

Under a new rule of the State Board of Education, the official state flag must be displayed as well as the United States flag on the campuses of Georgia public schools, beginning next term. Soon it is going to be necessary to add a Boy Scout to the school faculties to give instruction in flag etiquette.

WITH THE COUNTY AGENTS

BYRON DYER ELVIE MAXWELL

Approximately 500 Georgia farmers attended a clover harvesting combine demonstration in Hart county recently. Included in the crowd were large groups from America's and Clayton, where interest is especially keen in the machine-mowing of clover. A feature of the demonstration was the testing and measuring of the seed and losses that were conducted by the machinery class of the University of Georgia College of Agriculture, under the supervision of Prof. F. W. Hightower. The business-like manner in which the clover was tested drew praise from many of the people there.

Georgia farmers have been allotted 139,964 acres of wheat under the 1938 farm program. Not many farmers in the state are being allocated allotments for their individual farms, however, since wheat acreage allotments are to be made only to farms which usually raise more than 100 bushels for sale. The rate of the wheat payment will be 12 cents per bushel for the average yield for the farm for 1937, the gross farm income from sales of farm products, value of farm products held for home consumption, and government payments to farmers was estimated at $100,000,000. Last year's income compares with $9,317,000,000 in 1936 and with the low point of $5,284,000,000 in 1932.

Plans are now under way for a harvest festival to be held in Dodge county this fall as an outgrowth of the county's first vegetable show which was held recently. Approximately 400 people attended the vegetable show and 16 of the 16 home demonstration clubs in the county were represented. The meeting was under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen J. Carvill, home demonstration agent of Dodge county, and was sponsored by the County Home Demonstration Council. A seed show will be a feature of the harvest festival.

The beef cattle situation this year has been characterized by relatively low prices of the better grades of slaughter cattle, and a fairly strong demand for stocker and feeder cattle, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports. Present indications are that marketings of well-finished, grain-fed cattle during the next 3 or 4 months will continue to increase seasonally, and will be considerably larger in the summer and fall months than in corresponding months of 1937. Although prices of such cattle frequently tend to advance in early summer, no marked advance is expected in that period this year, chiefly because of weakness in the demand for meats. But in late summer or early fall, some seasonal advance in prices of the better grades may occur.

DUCKWORTH ASKS HIGH COURT POST

Assistant Attorney General William H. Duckworth, of Cairo, announced Wednesday his candidacy for the Georgia Supreme Court, to succeed John B. Hutcheson, who will retire.

Mr. Duckworth was the first law partner of Governor Rivers, the first candidate to pay an entrance fee for the state primary, and the first World War veteran to qualify as a candidate for the Georgia Supreme Court. His announcement follows:

"It is my opinion that this Court has made a record of public service unexcelled by any department of our State Government. The personnel of the Supreme Court has always been the highest type of men. It would be a privilege and an honor for any one to sit upon that court with the present justices who are great lawyers, excellent men and patriotic citizens."

"The Supreme Court, being the final guardian of the lives, liberties and properties of the people, is entitled to the support and respect of all citizens. At the same time having been established by the people, the Supreme Court must never forget that it belongs to all the people and that every one is entitled to a full and free opportunity to properly present his case to that court for decision."

"Having engaged in the practice of law for twenty years, I know the intense interest every lawyer has in his cases and his desire for swift and efficient decisions of the court upon all questions of law presented by him."

"I tell you all about it when I call and also will show you how you can save money on needed household products which I carry."

Therefore, it shall be my purpose to meet this worthy desire and evade no question, but decide them upon sound legal principles in a decision that is free from ambiguities and that will leave no doubt as to what the Supreme Court has held on such questions.

"I know the people want prompt and speedy justice, and the lawyers appreciate decisions in their cases as expeditious as possible consistent with deliberation and

On last Wednesday night Miss Emma L. Adams presented a beautiful music and expression program. This program was entirely different from any she has staged here before. It was given in the form of a contest in the expression department. Those acting as judges were Mrs. W. L. Downs, Misses Marie Wood and Oliver, from the Teachers College.

The students of the expression department were divided into two groups. Group 1 was composed of the little folks in which Dewayne Martin won first place. Group 2 was the larger pupils of the department and Louella Patch won the first prize. Mrs. R. L. Winburn of the Teachers College presented the gifts to the winners after making a very short but interesting address.

President of Parent-Teachers Association Makes Annual Report

ANNUAL REPORT OF PRESIDENT OF P.T.A.

"We have come once more to the close of another year of service in parent-teacher work, and we are almost tempted to use that time-worn phrase, so dear to us in the past: 'It is with mingled joy and sadness, but if we emphasize the joy of surrendering our mantle to the president-elect, she may regard the mantle dubiously, and we dare not express sadness, for that isn't done anymore. We live in an age where, melancholy topics are carefully shrouded, and with unseeing eyes for all unpleasantness, we pretend optimism even though surrounded by multiplying causes for worry and anxiety."

"We are proud that we have served as your president these two terms. Our contribution to the success of the association has been small but personally we have been greatly enriched. We have enjoyed the close fellowship of sincere workers; we have been closer to the splendid faculty; the whole program and plan of education and problems of child welfare have become clearer. Out of it all has come a desire to be of real service in the future. We believe that the need of Parent-Teacher harmony is becoming more acute. When we hear that Dr. Mayo of Rochester is credited with the statement that unless something is done about it, that in fifty years here will not be enough sane people to take care of the insane, we are alarmed. We should be more than alarmed. We should be stirred to action. Our children, our children's children are threatened. Parents and teachers should band together to wage a battle against every possible contributory cause, among which nervous breakdowns and alcoholism appear to be in the lead. These causes are not remote. Don't pass them off with a shrug."

"We want to pass on to you a recent explanation as to why our girls of today are drinking. They are drinking not because they like it, but because a drink or two enables them to forget the prescribed decencies and makes it easier for them to excuse themselves when they lower their moral standards. Let us not say to ourselves that Dr. Mayo is an alarmist. He is not; he is a clear-headed scientist issuing a warning that should be repeated with all the fire and fervor of Patrick Henry's Liberty speech until careless pleasure seeking mothers are awakened from their apathy enough to ask, 'Where is my boy tonight? What is my girl doing tonight?'"

"Let us rather say that another year we will join hands with Mrs. Rushing, our new president. We will study ways and means of safeguarding youth. We'll cooperate with the teachers to keep our young people physically strong, mentally alert, and morally straight."

"And now that we have cleared our system of that we will get down to the facts of our administration. We have enjoyed having Mrs. Brantley Johnson as our secretary. Her records are complete and accurate, and will be passed on as another chapter in the history of P. T. A. work. We regret the parliamentary ruling that prohibits her giving such valuable assistance to our incoming president."

"Mrs. Groover Brannen, our vice-at the high school auditorium. The most outstanding event of the meeting was the style revue. A number of very attractive dresses were modeled at the revue by Mrs. E. W. DeLoach, Mrs. Arleigh Fitch, Mrs. H. H. Britt, Mrs. Letzack, Mrs. Rufus Brannen, Miss Madge Lee Nesmith, Mrs. Ansley, and Mrs. G. V. Avery. Miss Madge Lee Nesmith was the winner and will compete in the county style revue in which a winner will be picked to go to Athens in August.

At the roll call each one present was asked to respond with her favorite flower. "The Rose" proved the most popular.

Miss Elvie Maxwell, home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration in cottage cheese. Several salads were made and served. After the social hour the meeting adjourned.

Little Victor Rimes of Detroit, Mich., is spending several days with his aunt, Miss Elina Rimes.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sneed of Sta. Barbara were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Britt Sunday.

"Justice To All" Is Well Received

Miss Ruth Kirby Skipper's book, "Justice To All," recently published, is being well received by the reading public as is revealed in a number of newspaper notices that the book has been getting.

The Pentland Book Review of London writes: "Miss Skipper writes well and with affection and understanding of her characters, and has a sense of the dramatic." Eugene Anderson in the Macon Telegraph: "The story is not a sermon. It is purely fiction but so truly represents the state of affairs in Georgia after reconstruction days it may almost be classed as a historical novel."

"The Tampa Bulletin, Tampa, Fla.," "This is a new novel which for the sheer delight of its description of a certain phase of Southern life, is not surpassed even by 'Gone With The Wind.' It would seem that almost every fact of Southern life has been depicted by the novelist, that Miss Skipper has given the world something entirely new in this work, that comes from a knowledge that results from her life-long experience in the section of which she writes so ably."

Other papers giving Miss Skipper's have done his been a pleasure, and we only regret that our term of office is not marked with greater achievements. We pledge our assistance in the future.

"Lastly we wish to thank every officer, our superintendent, every teacher and every member of the unit for the whole-hearted manner in which they have supported our feeble efforts."

Respectfully submitted, —

MRS. ERNEST BRANNEN.

Finland formed part of the kingdom of Sweden from 1154 to 1809, then was united to the Russian empire as an autonomous grand duchy. On December 6, 1917, its house of representatives proclaimed Finland an independent and sovereign state. Civil war followed but on July 17, 1919, the Finnish Diet resolved to establish a republic and a peace treaty acknowledging the independence of Finland was signed with Russia on October 14, 1920. While a certain measure of self-government dated from the constitutional law of 1906, Finland's status as a separate country dates back only to the World War period.

Valerian, an Old Plant

Valerian was supposed to have been poured in ancient form upon Christ's feet by Mary Magdalene. One of the Hindu legends pertaining to this plant is that a man after planting one of the plants went away for a long visit. He told his wife to care for this plant patiently as a beggar and came back unexpectedly one day to see if his wife had fulfilled her promise. This was his test of her faithfulness to him. He found the plant in fine condition and they lived happily ever after. Valerian is sometimes used for seasoning in broths.

Southern Ginners To Keep Allotment Book

Southern cotton ginners may be required to keep county production records of all cotton ginned as well as a record of the cotton ginned, in an effort to prevent inaccuracies in allotments under the administration's new farm act.

A bill to this effect has already been passed by the senate and is now before the house.

At present the cotton statistics act does not require the ginner to keep records of cotton produced in other counties than that in which the gin is located.

In other words, if Farmer Brown, living in Green county, takes his cotton to White county, he is required to record that Farmer Brown's cotton was ginned in Green instead of White county.

What makes this matter important now is the fact that the apportionment of cotton to each county under the 1938 farm act is based upon the average produced in each county during the preceding five years.

The farm administration gets its figures from the census bureau which canvasses gins during the ginning season, to report on the number of bales ginned in each county.

The proposed legislation is aimed to remedy a situation which it is claimed may result in inaccuracies and injustices in making county allotments. Ginners would be required to keep records of the cross-county ginnings and the census bureau would be required to compile such information. Proponents of the bill contend the bill would require only a minimum amount of additional effort on the part of the ginners.

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL BEGINS MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 13 UNDER DIRECTION OF MRS. B. L. SMITH, AND MRS. A. L. CLIFTON

The First Baptist Church will open its new educational building next Sunday morning. The departments and classes will occupy the building for the first time. In the afternoon the building will be open for inspection by all who would like to go over it. Guides will be present to show visitors the rooms and equipment.

This building is being completed at a total cost of approximately $25,000, including equipment and a steam heating system centrally located which will heat the auditorium as well as the educational building. The building has fifty rooms and will easily accommodate seven hundred students. Over head in all three stories a composition material has been used which absorbs sound, thus making the rooms practically sound-proof. It is recognized that Statesboro now has the most nearly adequate building for religious education in this section of the state.

Appropriate exercises will be held in the general assembly of the Sunday School which begins at 10:15 A. M. Dr. H. F. Hook, general superintendent, states that he expects at least six hundred people present for the opening day, and several hundred more from the other churches will visit the building in the afternoon. The open-house hours in the afternoon will be from four to six o'clock.

On Monday morning, June 13, the Vacation Bible school begins its sessions. This school is under the direction of Mrs. B. L. Smith and Mrs. A. L. Clifton and children ages 3 to 16 are invited to come.

For the sake of the record Linton G. Lanier the incumbent and J. J. E. Anderson are running for the office of the judge of city court. We reported that "J. J. E. Anderson opposes Linton G. Banks," that is not true at all.

And George P. Lee is running for member of the board of commissioners.

Albert M. Deal prominently mentioned before the closing hour for qualification as being a candidate for congress will not run for that office.

ELECTRIFICATION SOUGHT FOR BULLOCH

$130,000 EARMARKED FOR PROJECT WHICH WILL INCLUDE BULLOCH AND CANDLER COUNTIES

Rural electrification for various areas in Bulloch county seems much nearer reality than was anticipated by those working on the project 10 days ago.

Some $130,000 has been "earmarked" for a project that will probably include most, if not all, of the area surveyed in Bulloch and that surveyed in Candler county. Three of the areas mapped in Bulloch were plotted from the Candler county project terminals. The 44th district, and part of the 45th, will fit very well with the line coming down to Excelcor, with the 1209th and 1716th districts fitting in just as well with lines in the eastern side of Candler. To reach the remainder of the plotted area, it will be necessary to connect only about a mile of unplotted distance, some 4 miles north of Statesboro on Route 90.

At a meeting in Metter Tuesday it was deemed wise to proceed to apply for a charter for the organization, to be known as the Excelcor Electric Membership Corporation, J. Floyd Nevills and M. W. Turner represented the Bulloch area in applying for the charter. Barring no set-backs membership fees, easements, and contracts will be signed in some 30 days. Lights should be on in some of the area not later than fall.

THE HULL TRADE PROGRAM

It is often asserted, though never proved, by advocates of the old tariff system that Secretary Hull's reciprocity program has resulted in an enormous increase of agricultural imports which compete with American farm products. The fact is that only four per cent of this country's agricultural imports during the last fiscal year, apart from sugar, represented items covered by the reciprocal trade agreements. Most of the others made their way in over a tariff wall; and there were two reasons for their increase: "First, economic recovery, which raised the industrial demand for non-competitive products, such as rubber, silk and tin; and, second, the widespread drought which produced a temporary shortage in feed crops. Had it not been for these imports, the farmer would have lost far more stock than he actually did. By December, 1937, these exceptional imports had already registered declines, and in the month exports of lard, wheat, fruit and tobacco showed increases in comparison with the preceding year." These facts, taken from an impartial analysis of our foreign commerce records, refute the idea that the American farmer's home market is being jeopardized by a flood of imports let in under the reciprocal trade agreements.

Those agreements, however, do agriculture a great service by helping to widen its markets abroad. Our farms normally produce so much more than America itself consumes that a foreign outlet for the surpluses must be found, if unprofitable prices are to be prevented. The South should be keenly aware of this fact. Less than half of its cotton is taken by American mills. Only by selling largely abroad can our cotton interests hope to prosper. And every reasonable hope of this nature is bound up with the broad program of developing the nation's foreign commerce. A policy that promotes trade in general will be best, in the long run, for every field of our exports.

"We must choose between bottling ourselves up in a system of nationalistic monopolies in which pressure groups scramble for more and more of less and less and removing those maladjustments in our national life which are due to excessive protectionism." So writes Raymond Leslie Buell, a distinguished economist and student of world affairs, in an admirable booklet recently issued by the American Foreign Policy Association, of which he is president, "The Hull Trade Program and the American System," it is entitled. This trade program, Mr. Buell cogently argues, is one answer to both the domestic and the foreign problems with which we are now gravely confronted.

"It does not attempt to provide a solution for all difficulties," he says, "but it does stress the belief that through the gradual reduction of trade barriers, a number of this country's economic maladjustments may be removed without drastic regimentation; and that world economic tensions, which have contributed to the rise of dictatorships and now threaten to engulf nations in a new world war, may be lessened. Most important of all, the Hull trade program undertakes to assert the primacy of national interest, in contrast to the special pleading of tariff lobbyists. . . . It represents an effort to restore a degree of freedom to the old economy, and to lessen the fetters chaining private initiative and the investment of capital. It is not inconsistent with well-considered social reforms, or with government activity to lessen the fluctuations of the business cycle. None the less, it is based on the belief that wealth must be produced before it can be distributed, and that competitive private enterprise is the best means of producing wealth while maintaining principles of democracy."

Thus the basis interests of the American system and the urgent needs of American economy both are served by the reciprocity program. It is approved by the wisest leaders in business regardless of party lines—Atlanta Journal.

The press of Georgia this week loudly hailed the announcement for re-election of the state's senior senator, Walter F. George. Editors in widely separated sections unreservedly predicted victory for the distinguished senator, regardless of whatever opposition. "Senator George is unquestionably one of the ablest and most popular Senators in Congress and he should, and undoubtedly will, be re-elected in the fall election," editorialized the Harnesville Gazette. " . . . To defeat him would prove a calamity from which it would require years for this state to recover," said the Athens Banner-Herald. "We would be voting against our own interest to vote for someone else," said the Dallas New Era. The Columbus Enquirer was equally wholehearted in saying: "By all means Senator George should be returned to Washington."

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

The police force of the city should be recommended very highly for their fine work in clearing up the traffic problems of the city that arise during each day, but their seems to be a few streets that they do not bother with and these streets although they are traversed as much as streets in the business section are, and they are the alleys. As an example as to what congestion in the alleys and back streets of the business section of the town can cause a driver—we saw a car drive on one of the back streets and was about to enter the main street but at the entrance onto the main street several cars and trucks had parked in such a way that they prevented the driver to enter the main street. The articular street that he wanted to go on was West Main, coming out by L. J. Shuman, but he could not come out because of the parked cars. To get out he had to back out and come out at John Everette grocery store, and it was no easy job to do that, for there were cars parked along that street and it is a very narrow street, making it that much worse to pass by. Why isn't something done to keep these back streets cleared as much as the main streets.

And we would still like to see the day when auto drivers passing under the stop light might make a right turn on a red light. We run into a very good definition of a traffic light the other day. A little Green Light that turns red every time you approach it in your car.

It might help a lots for the City Council to pass a law forbidding minors from entering a pool room and playing.

We wonder how many of the people in Statesboro know the following facts: That there were 103 school children killed in traffic accidents during 1937; That hidden taxes add five cents to the price of a tube of toothpaste; That in the last six years Australia has sold three times as much wheat in the world as the U. S.

If any one should ever come down to the Bulloch Herald office and not find any one there, all you will have to do is see our secretary who has a private office next to the Herald office. Mrs. Watson is without a doubt the best all-round secretary in the whole town. She never fails to watch out for us if there is no one around to receive our visitors.

In keeping with their reputation of offering nothing but the newest and best in entertainment, the Georgia Theatre will present, as an added stage attraction Wednesday, June 8, WTOC's popular group of radio, vaudeville and recording artists, The Georgia Playboys. This group is very popular throughout this entire section, having been a noon day feature of WTOC for nearly two years. Their popularity is attested by the enormous amount of mail they receive, and is well deserved. The boys in this group are all versatile and accomplished musicians, and each playing two or more instruments. Their program of old time string music, popular and novelty selections with vocal solos and duets is fast and snappy with something doing every minute. They present a combination of violin, base fiddle, tenor banjo, guitar, and ukele.

Blackface comedy will also be a feature of the show. Stage shows will be presented at 8:30, 5:30, 7:30 and 9:30 p. m. In connection with this stage show, the Georgia Theatre will present on the screen, the popular and dainty operatic star, Miss Grace Moore in the much-talked about film, "I'll Take Romance." Cone-Benson Solemnized At Home Of Bride's Grandparents

Miss Martha Noel Cone, daughter of Cissy H. Cone of Stilson, became the bride of Robert Moore Benson, son of Mrs. Maud Benson, Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cone on North Main street. It was most fitting for the wedding to take place in this old residence, a cherished landmark in the city, for it was formerly the home of the bride's grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Cone, pioneer settlers of Bulloch county.

Rev. C. M. Coalsen, pastor of the Baptist Church performed the impressive ceremony in the presence of the families and close friends of the bride and groom.

The vows were spoken before an improvised altar in the living room. Ferns banked in pyramid effect formed a background and hasket holding white gladioli and feverfew were placed on each side, the entire scene being illuminated by white burning tapers in seven-brided Cathedral candelabra.

The program of nuptial selections were rendered by Mrs. J. G. Moore, aunt of the groom, organist and Mrs. James Thomson who sang, "At Dawning."

The candles were lighted by Betty Jean Cone and Priscilla Cone. Betty Jean's dress was a flesh pink organza with flared skirt and blue grosgrain was used as its trimming. Priscilla Cone wore a heaven blue marquisette made along princess lines.

Miss Effie Cone, of Guyton, maid of honor and her sister's only attendant wore a rose chiffon made along princess lines, a graceful flared effect being achieved in the use of fluted ruffles around the bottom of the skirt. Her corsage was of pink rose.

The bride, who descended the stairs alone was met at the foot of the ivy entwined staircase by her father, Cissy H. Cone, who gave her in marriage. They were joined at the altar by the groom and his best man, Paul Franklin Jr. The bride was lovely in her smart two-piece suit of navy alpaca with which she wore navy accessories. A shoulder spray of brides roses and gardenias completed her costume.

Mrs. C. E. Cone, aunt of the bride, was handsomely gowned in Eleanor blue lace.

Mrs. Benson, mother of the groom, wore a handsome navy crepe dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was of sweet heart roses.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cone were hosts at an informal reception. The wedding guests were met at the door by Mrs. Waldo Floyd. Mrs. Fred Hodges was at the living room door and Mrs. C. P. Oliff directed the guests to the dining room. The bride's table was overlaid with a lovely hand-made lace cloth and was centered with a silver bowl filled with shasta daisies and feverfew and flanked on either side by a three branched silver candelabra with white tapers.

Mrs. W. E. McDougald directed the guests from the dining room. Miss Christine Carruthers presided at the bride's register. In the gift room where lovely gifts of linen, crystal, china and silver were displayed were Mrs. Gilbert Cone and Mrs. Byron Dyer. Departing guests were served punch from ivy encircled punch bowls.

Mrs. W. A. Bowen assisted by Misses Joyce Smith, Dorothy Remington, Betty Jean Cone and Priscilla Cone served punch.

Mrs. Benson who has served as secretary to Mr. Dyer, the county agent for several years, received her education at the South Georgia Teachers College where she had been awarded a scholarship. The groom is a graduate of Oglethorpe University and is in the employ of the Sea Island Bank. The couple left in the afternoon for a wedding trip to Montreat, North Carolina. On their return to the city they will occupy an apartment at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Maud Benson.

COMMEMORATION EXERCISES COME TO CLOSE

Dr. Thomas B. Stroup, head of the English department of the Teachers College addressed the graduating class of 1938 at the Nevils school.

Last week closed the nine months term of the school at Nevils. The commencement exercises were very good and the auditorium was filled to its capacity at every performance. Evidently the people of the entire school district were well pleased with the programs by their continued presence at each program.

These exercises reached the climax Monday night May 30, when Dr. Stroup gave the twelve graduates some good advice. "Learn how to live first of all," Dr. Stroup said "and be just human beings with a balanced understanding of individuals. Society will take care of itself and citizenship will develop."

This able speaker told the graduates "to always hold fast to their own identity of things and train themselves for health, to think and reason, to create an artistic desire and love and appreciate art and nature and all would be well and let good human life be the object of your search in the world.

RUBY BURNED AWARDED FIRST HONOR

Ruby Burned was first honor graduate of the 1938 class and delivered the Valedictory address. She was also awarded a one year subscription to Readers Digest. Miss Burned is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Burned. Lena Mae Denmark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Denmark was awarded second honor graduate and delivered the Salutatory address. Superintendent H. H. Britt delivered the diplomas to the following seniors: Lena Mae Denmark, Willard Rushing, Mary Miller, D'Edwin Groover, Ruby Burned, Daniel Hodges, Eloise Davis, Wilma Lee Anderson, Junior Hood, Eunice Denmark, Inman Lanier and Rubye Dell Anderson.

Principal E. D. Bell delivered thirty five Junior certificates to the members of the two seventh grades. Immediately following the processional the invocation was given by Mr. Dan R. Groover.

"GOOD GRACIOUS GRANDMA" PRESENTED

The Senior play, "Good Gracious Grandma" was the first program that began the series of program during the commencement exercises. This play with some of the best local talent in action received excellent mention.

REV. H. L. SNEED DELIVERS BACCALAUREATE SERMON

Sunday morning, May 29 at 11 o'clock, the 1938 graduates of the Nevils High School marched to their places in the auditorium of the Nevils School to take part in the first baccalaureate services of this kind. The twelve seniors were clad in robes. The music was under the direction of Miss Emma L. Adams. Immediately after the processional came the Doxology, the invocation and a song. The seniors sang their anthem, "Blessed Sunshiner" and two members of the Senior class, Mary Miller and Lena Mae Denmark sang "Valley of the Peace."

The speaker was Rev. H. L. Sneed, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Statesboro. He delivered an address which impressed his audience very much. He used as his general theme, "He Knoweth Only The Way I Take," taking this subject from the 29th chapter of Proverbs. After the hymn "Blessed Be the Tie" came the benediction and recessional.

Miss Elna Rimes will spend a few days with relatives near Clayton and then will accompany her uncle and nephews back to Detroit, before going to her home in North Carolina.

Miss Emma L. Adams will spend a few days with friends and relatives in Vidalia and Savannah before going to Tennessee to meet relatives. From there she will begin a tour to Washington, D. C. It will be about two months before she will be at her home in Atlanta.

IT SEEMS IT'S A CAR FOLKS WON'T DO WITHOUT!

We were pretty sure we had a great car when some months ago we checked the final blueprints on the 1938 Buick.

It had the new and mighty DYNAFLASH engine for sparkling action—the sensationally desirable TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING for a lullaby of a ride.

Looking ahead in that promising day, we figured we had every chance of getting our sales share by reason of what this car gave the buyer for his money.

Now, when times are sterner, it appears we built better than we knew—we've got a car folks just won't do without!

This great new Buick was first introduced to the public last fall. Through September, October, November, it sold in steadily increasing volume.

In a period when sales of other cars were sliding off it went ahead, in one month actually outselling one of the Big Three of the lowest-priced field.

It's still going ahead—not car Number Seven or Eight, but one of the season's Four Best Sellers!

There is only one explanation of such a record when made by a car in the thousand-dollar bracket.

Such a car is so good—has so much of value in it—people just won't do without it!

They buy it not only in preference to other cars—they buy in preference to waiting for easier times and readier money-to-spend!

That's the convincing sort of car you're about to drive when you first take the wheel of a 1938 Buick.

If you haven't yet handled a new Buick, you ought to—just to see what such a car is like!

"Better buy Buick!"

SOCIETY

ALL'S FAIR

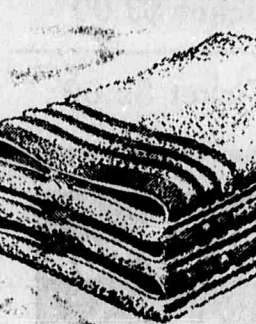

It was a very solemn occasion as Mrs. Majors of Claxton was about to install the PTA officers until some body in a stage whisper said, "Looks like a healthy corps of officers," and something slightly akin to a magnified giggle rippled over the audience. The officers installed were Ethel Rushing, Marion Oliff, Sara Morris and Mary Atkins. Friend Jane, we understand is well stocked up with cigarettes since his friends gave him a house warming. Some body should have given him some of these ready made biscuits that are available now at any grocers, for we have it on good authority that he ate seven biscuits at his evening meal prior to the party. You didn't know they were counting them on you did you, brother? And it was "Ship Ahoy" when Jane Franchet went nautical and gave a breezy party for Elizabeth Donovan. We would have enjoyed barging in even as a beach comber. Sam Bartow Lamb and Martha Kate down town with Baby Lamb. One Minute he was carrying her like she was a fragile piece of china, and next like a bag of money. Keep it up dad. Practice makes perfect they say. We had a guest about two weeks ago who said, "They need to do something now to the Jaekel Hotel," and when we went down town on Monday morning the scaffolds were up and the painters were at work. Statesboro just needs a hint and they spring into action and Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe are no exceptions. Orchids to you! It's looking very pretty and it is a credit to our town.

This seems to be a year of reunions. We note in our paper that Dr. Mooney attended the reunion of the class of 1898 of the Old Atlanta Medical College. It hadn't occurred to us before that Doc Mooney and young Doctor John were alumni of the same institution, but the Atlanta Medical College was succeeded by the Emory Medical School. Much is being said about the Silver Jubilee members of the 1913 graduating class are planning. This '13 class has 28 living members.

ber and 23 of these plan to be present. We predict that the three bachelor members, Joe and Tom Zetterower and Outland McDougald will have the time of their lives and will even have the nerve to sympathize with their classmates who had not escaped matrimony. This class claims many firsts among their accomplishments. They while in the seventh grade, bought the first drum for the school. This drum was used for them to march out to the bandstand. They bought another during their senior year. Foy is the first child of a member of the class to graduate from college. Dorothy Hodges Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Wilton Hodges was the first child of a member of the class to marry. Mrs. Frary Waters, nee Sadie Denmark is the first of the number to be "Grandma."

WITH THE COUNTY AGENTS

BYRON DYER

ELVIE MAXWELL

Extension Beef Cattle Specialist R. E. Dasher points out that a common trouble during the winter season is the lack of feed for livestock. He says that a correct measure, he suggests the use of silage, through means of the inexpensive but useful trench silo. Right now, he says, is the time to plant a few acres of sorghum and corn, or sorghum alone, to be saved as silage. Then, later in the summer, the trench silo can be dug, with no cost except the labor. With a trench full of silage, the winter feeding problem is solved. Ask your county agent for the circular on how to construct a trench silo.

The purchase of 215,933 acres of land to be added to 48 National Forests and purchase units has been approved by the National Forest Reservation Commission. These purchases, in 24 states and Puerto Rico, will be administered by the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Included in the purchases was the Chattahoochee unit, with 5,895 acres in Georgia and Alabama, bought for $30,712.

Indications that kudzu is an effective form of vegetation for the protection of meadow strips, which are used for terrace outlet channels, can be seen in the Soil Conservation Service demonstration area near Americus, according to Project Manager H. G. Dasher. Fifteen meadow strips were largest on record, amounted to 18,946,000 bales, the Department of Agriculture reports. The next largest crop, 17,978,000 bales, was in 1926. An all-time high record was established also in yield per acre, last year's 266.9 pounds an acre exceeding the former record of 233 pounds an acre in 1926.

Georgia farmers are making good use of pasture sod for erosion control as well as a cheap source of feed for cattle and other livestock. The top picture shows a pasture which was seeded to a mixture of lespedeza and pasture grasses and which a year later was providing good grazing on a thick, erosion-resisting sod. The picture below shows a contour-furrowed pasture with a complete cover of sod after two growing seasons. By conserving rainfall, contour furrows promote a denser growth of grasses and legumes which in turn help to control erosion.

Complete returns show that commercial Irish potato growers in 1937 early and intermediate potato-growing states voted approximately three to one for a continuing marketing agreement program, which includes an enforcing order. In Georgia, where only Chatham county was involved, the vote was six for the agreement and none against.

FOR 19 CONSECUTIVE YEARS THE WINNERS OF THE INDIANAPOLIS 500 MILE RACE HAVE PROTECTED THEIR LIVES WITH FIRESTONE GUM-DIPPED TIRES

THEY said it couldn't be done—that they could not withstand the torture of the new high speeds. Yet Floyd Roberts set a new record, at this year's Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour for the 500 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

With the sun-baked brick of the straight-away and the granite-hard surface of the turns pulling and grinding at their tires, 33 daring drivers, every one on Firestone Tires, waged a thrilling battle for gold and glory. Never before have tires been called upon to take such punishment. Never in all the history of the motor car has tire safety been put to such a gruelling test. Yet not one tire failed—not one single cord loosened—because Gum-Dipping, that famous Firestone patented process saturates and coats every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply with liquid rubber counteracting the tire-destroying internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Why risk your life and the lives of others on unsafe tires? Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with Firestone Triple-Safe Tires—the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedways for your protection on the highways.

County Agent Says Fight Cut Worm

RECOMMENDS POISON BAIT TO FIGHT CUT WORMS WHICH SEEM TO BE DOING CONSIDERABLE DAMAGE TO CROPS

In view of the fact that considerable damage to crops from cutworms has been reported recently, County Agent Byron Dyer this week told Bulloch county farmers how they may control these pests.

He recommended the use of a poison bait, composed of 25 pounds of dry wheat bran, 1-2 pound of Paris green and 2-12 gallons of water. Molasses may also be added to make the bait more attractive and to prevent rapid drying.

"To prepare this bait," Mr. Dyer advised, "mix the bran and the poison (Paris green) in a bucket or tub, so that each flake of bran will be thoroughly coated with poison. Then add the water and stir until the slurry is moist. When molasses is used, first dissolve the molasses in water, then add the solution to the bran."

The best method of applying the poison, according to the agent, is to broadcast it by hand. He said it is advisable to apply it late in the afternoon, since cutworms are nocturnal feeders.

Poison bait ordinarily is applied where cutworms are found, he explained. However, in the case of army worms which enter one side of the field, the poison can be applied to the infested area, and also to a strip about 15 feet wide ahead of the "army."

The county agent said cutworms appear to be worse in the cotton fields this year than at any time since winter legumes have been planted on a large scale in Georgia. They usually appear in fields where winter cover crops have grown, following ideal weather for their development, that he described as a "dry fall, mild winter, and cool spring."

RUPERT RACKLEY PRES. OF MIAMI REALTY BOARD HERE

Rupert Rackley of Miami, Florida, a native of Bulloch county, now president of the Miami Realty Board, was a visitor in Statesboro last week. He visited the Rotary club Monday at noon and attended the twenty-fifth reunion of his class, the class of 1913 of the Statesboro high school.

Mr. Rackley left Statesboro in 1925 and went to Miami and entered the real estate business as a salesman. He is married and has one child. He was installed as president of the Realty Board in Miami November 11, last year. The Miami Realty Board is the largest organization of its kind south of Philadelphia.

Mr. Rackley's father, Dr. Guy H. Wells, was a physician in Statesboro, Georgia, and he said that there has been an excess of rain fall in the two Carolinas. He added that the Carolina tobacco will be short in weight and is not curing out satisfactory because of the excessive rains.

"It looks like a good year for the tobacco farmers in this section," said Mr. Sheppard, "with the prospects of the price being as good, if not better than last year. My advice to the farmers in this section is to pay particular attention to the curing of their tobacco."

Work on Mr. Sheppard's new warehouse is progressing. The roof is about 50 per cent completed, and the contractor will begin pouring concrete for the floor this week. It is the largest warehouse in this entire section.

MISS VIRGINIA KENAN PLAYING IN MUSICAL QUARTETTE, WASHINGTON

It was learned here this week that Miss Virginia Kenan, daughter of Mrs. J. S. Kenan, is appearing with the Dixie Debs, a modern musical combination, now playing at the Lafayette Cocktail Lounge in Washington, D. C.

Miss Kenan is the guitarist of the Dixie Debs. She studied the guitar in Statesboro for several years and later with Perry Bechtel at the Atlanta Conservatory. The Dixie Debs is a musical quartette made up of four Georgia girls. This quartette is one of the few to use the combination of marimba, trumpet, guitar and string bass. Last season Miss Kenan appeared with the quartette for eight weeks at Virginia Beach, Va.

MEN WHO WERE MARRIED

Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay.

—GOLDSMITH

Dick Norman

This is not the whine of the ensnared culprit who can't take it; nor is it the pious gesture of the counterfeited individual who, entering prison, embraces Christianity with fervent hope that it will enhance his chance of parole. The purpose of this article is to parade before you some of the outstanding figures in the world of crime, and let you thereby be convinced, perhaps, of the utter futility of a criminal career, and the inevitable suffering and sorrow it entails.

There is no such thing as a successful crook. The world has never yet produced one. "What profit it a man if he gain the whole world and yet lose his soul?" Why men of marked intellectual attainments will deliberately engage in a life of crime is beyond the comprehension of the normal mind. Is it because they cherish a hope of fabulous rewards as the fruits of their nefarious depredations? If so, they are chasing a rainbow without an end.

There is about as much chance of a man succeeding in a life of crime as there is of his drawing pictures of the "fourth dimension."

Jimmy Hope was one of the most skilled and daring bank burglars with whom the police ever matched wits. He looted New York's Bank of Manhattan for more than $1,000,000. Yet he died penniless, in Sing Sing prison, clothed in the garb of a felon.

The criminal ingenuity of Cassie Chadwick was of such a character as to startle and appal. She "trimmed" the smartest bankers in Ohio for millions, lived like a queen for a moment and then died—a broken old woman in a prison cell.

The newspapers proclaimed Gerald Chapman a super-criminal, a master-mind. He looted the sacred United States Mails for approximately $3,000,000. Captured and convicted, he was shut off to the Atlanta Penitentiary for a long term of years. Shortly after his imprisonment he planned and executed one of the most daring and sensational escapes in American prison annals. He was later captured and condemned to death for murdering a policeman.

Divested of the garish glitter and the tawdry glamour that once clothed his flagitious but meteoric career, broke and unfriended—he died, dangling at the end of a rope.

As a safe cracker, "Canada Blackie" stood without a peer. His criminal reputation was international in its scope. In his wanderings about the world he left a string of looted safes in his wake. Broken in both body and mind, without a dollar or a friend, he died in Sing Sing Prison a few years ago whispering to his pals, "Boys, the game ain't worth the while."

"Ole" Bill Minor was one of America's picturesque crooks. "Hissing rattlers" was his racket. His loot ran into the millions. The best years of his life were spent on the blighted side of prison walls. His health shattered and his money gone, he died in a Southern prison a few years ago, and only through the Christian charity of a noble hearted woman, who looked and saw the heart of gold beneath the soiled exterior, was he saved from a grave behind prison walls.

Al Capone was for many years the overlord of gangland. Machine guns roared his mandates, and political pundits were at his beck and call. He well might have said with Louis XV., "The law! I am the law!" The American public stood stunned and benumbed with amazement when the Federal government sent him, in chains, to bleak Alcatraz Prison. Today, with his mind cracked and his reasoning faculties gone, he babbles like a drooling imbecile as he ceaselessly paces the limited length of his narrow cell on that grim, fog-enshrouded rock in San Francisco bay.

One of the most potent and pathetic pictures of the dead-sea fruits of a life of crime is that of the two Bidwell brothers, (Americans, they were) who, through orgery, "clip-

THE AMERICAN LEGION AND HOSPITAL AUXILIARY MAKE STATEMENT ON SUNDAY MOVIES

With the inauguration of Sunday movies in Statesboro the members of the American Legion and the Bulloch County Hospital Auxiliary have issued a statement in an attempt to acquaint the people of Statesboro with the facts concerning Sunday movies.

The statement is addressed to the citizens of Statesboro and asks that each individual take a mental inventory of his or her activities on Sundays. "Do you go to swimming, either here or out at the swimming hole, creek or Tybee . . . do you go to baseball games . . . or maybe you prefer to go to Augusta or Swainsboro or some of the other nearby towns to see the movies . . . how about the Post Office? . . . do you go there on Sundays to get your mail and spend most of Sunday morning reading it . . . or maybe you go to your store or office and attend to some matters that you just feel like you have to look after, or do you have a farm . . . ride out on Sunday to look over the crops and . . . a quite sociable game of bridge on Sunday night . . ."

The statement points out that the proceeds from the operation of Sunday movies are to be used for strictly charitable purposes; one-half of the fund to go to the upkeep of a charity ward at the Bulloch County Hospital, the other half to go into a fund to be distributed to the needy by the American Legion.

According to the statement the Sunday movies will not interfere with the religious services as far as the hours are concerned and that each picture to be shown will be approved by a committee to insure a "good clean picture."

The statement concludes with the request that the citizens of Statesboro consider carefully and in a friendly manner this question of Sunday movies.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Rev. C. M. Coalson of the Baptist church has given us a signed statement, Mr. Coalson does not beat around the bush in this statement. He goes straight to the heart of his subject without mincing words. In reading it one cannot help but see the logic in his thinking. We give you the statement:

"To all who are operating unnecessary businesses on Sunday:

"It now looks as if we are headed toward a seven-day week business world, in which the one-day rest and worship period will be wholly lost. Operation of filling stations, drug stores (for unnecessary sales), swimming pools, some grocery stores and now the cinemas on Sunday; citizens going to Tybee and other pleasure resorts, and to cinemas in neighboring towns—all these tend toward secularizing the holy Sabbath day, and bring us many steps toward losing the quiet, restful and worshipful benefits of the Lord's day. The flagrant operation of liquor stores, on any day, has an even more baneful effect."

"I do not set myself up as a moral policeman with the assumed right to determine for any man what he shall do. The only authority I have is the authority of a studied opinion reached through prayer and serious thinking, and that opinion is that all these things are dangerous and will, in the long run, do the city, especially the children, incalculable harm.

"Therefore, simply as a Christian citizen, I would appeal to all those who are operating any unnecessary business on the Lord's day would desist and help make our little city a God-fearing, Sabbath-keeping place for the rearing of our children.

"I have said these things personally to some of those concerned and, as opportunity offers shall say them to the others. God is my witness that I say them in love for every one who may differ with me in the premises.

"This appeal I make for Christ's sake.
"C. M. COALSON."

IVANHOE COMMUNITY CLUB WILL ELECT NEW LEADER JULY 4

The Ivanhoe community club will elect its leader July 1 for the next year, according to an announcement made at the June meeting by W. A. Groover, the present leader.
The club was organized July 4, 1932. The election of a leader comes as part of the annual meeting in July. The plans this year vary from those of the past only to the extent of not having the meeting July 4 and making it an elaborate affair. The meeting July 1 will be in the form of a regular meeting and will be held at the Steel bridge, provided the weather permits. Mr. Groover has served as the community leader since 1934.

LIVESTOCK MARKET FEATURED BY SPIRITED BUYING THIS WEEK

With buying unusually spirited the local livestock market saw very good prices this week, according to O. L. McLemore, manager of the Bulloch Stock Yards. There was a large sale of hogs with No. 1's bringing $5.50 to $6.00 per hundred. No. 2's brought $5.15 to $5.35; No. 3's, $4.15 to $4.30; 4's and 5's 7.25 to 9.10 according to quality. 50 and 60 pound feeder pigs brought 8.25 to 9.50. One sow with 11 pigs sold for $36.00.
There was a good run of cattle with tops bringing 7.50 to 8.75. Native fat cattle brought 5.00 to 6.75; fat cows 4.50 to 6.25; native common yearlings, 4.00 to 4.75; thin grazing yearlings, 4.00 to 5.50.

FARM BRIEFS

D. L. Floyd, chief statistician of the Georgia Crop Reporting Service, gives us some interesting figures this week on the ages of automobiles and other machinery on farms throughout the United States. A recent survey made by the Federal Census, in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, discloses that one out of every six cars on the farm is more than 10 years old, and that more than half of them are models earlier than 1933. Farm trucks and tractors also present a striking picture of obsolescence. One-fourth of this type of machinery is more than 10 years old. While large increases of farm machinery were indicated for 1937, comparatively little was bought during the "depression years". The survey covered about 3,000 farms in selected counties of 40 states. While the survey was so small to produce an accurate estimate, Floyd says, at least it is sufficient to show the general trend

VITAMINS IN CANNING
By ELVIE MAXWELL

One hears much these days about vitamins, and their importance in a well-balanced diet. However, vitamins are not generally understood by the average person. One question which is argued long and often is, "Does canning destroy any of the vitamins in fruits and vegetables?" In general, heat alone in cooking and canning does not injure any of the vitamins. But what the chemists call "oxidation"—that is, the action of the oxygen in the air on the food—may destroy both vitamins B and C. And heat hastens oxidation. Vitamins A, D, E, and G suffer little or none in canning. But the loss of C in canning is often very important because fruits and vegetables are the chief source of C and because everyone must have a supply of it every day, since the body is unable to store it.

Oxidation and heat together then are destroyers of this vitamin, while acid and cold are its protectors. So food canned by the open-bottle method, where it is exposed to both heat and air, loses more of its vitamin C than food canned in vacuum or in the presence of very little air.

And fruit and vegetables that wait for hours in a warm kitchen before cooking or canning lose much more of their vitamin C than those that are freshly picked or kept chilled in a refrigerator. Modern methods of removing air from food and packaging in sealed containers such as the food preservation industries now use are aids in saving vitamins from oxidation.

The chemists say that acid makes vitamin C more "stable." So canned fruits hold their vitamin C very well because they are acid, but vegetables lose much of their original C. Tomatoes are a good example of this. Tomatoes are not very acid when fresh, but they are acid, so, in canning, they lose little of their naturally rich vitamin supply. On the other hand, cabbage and peas and green beans—also good sources of C when fresh—lose much of their "vitalizing" C.

Investigators at one experiment station found that canning destroyed from 50 to 85 per cent of the C in peas, lima beans, spinach and green asparagus. But they found that practically all canned tomatoes were found to contain the C, though different brands differ in the amount they contain, just as different varieties do.

Even acid cannot have C in foods that are exposed to the air for long, especially if they stand in a warm place. Orange juice squeezed, in the evening and set aside for breakfast, will lose much of its C by morning. Jars of tomatoes, after they are opened, also lose C as the air acts on the tomatoes. Raw cabbage, shredded raw carrots, apple cider soon begin to lose after opening. If allowed to stand open for a long time, they contain just as much vitamin C as if they stood out in the warm kitchen.

If you buy lima beans or peas already shelled, you won't be getting nearly as much vitamin for your money as if you had bought them in the pod and shelled them just before cooking. But temperature has an effect here too. Orange juice kept in the refrigerator doesn't lose C as fast as if it stands out in the warm kitchen. This is true also of other foods.

As mentioned before, many of these facts are also true of B. The anti-neuritic B in fruits or vegetables is at least partly destroyed by drying, cooking and canning. But it is destroyed less in fruits than in vegetables, for the acids help stabilize it. They also are the reason that fruit may be sterilized with less heat and for a shorter time than must be used with non-acid vegetables.

NEVILS NEWS

BY MISS MAUDE WHITE

NEVILS. P. T. A. MEETING

The regular meeting of the Nevils P. T. A. will be held Thursday afternoon June 16th at 4:30 o'clock in the High School auditorium. The main feature of this meeting will be the installation of the new chairman and their committees. All members are especially urged to attend. The new president, Mrs. Delmas Rushing will preside, with her secretary, Mrs. Ruel Clifton. The meeting will start promptly, so please be on time.

THE NEVILS SUMMER READING GROUP

The first Summer Reading Group had their first meeting last Saturday, in the school library. A good many books were checked out, but many more are expected to come next Saturday. We have a big selection of books to check from. We have approximately a hundred new books, suitable for all ages to read. Some of these books came from the Bullock County Library and some from the Lord of Hand Book Mission which were donated to our School Library at the closing of school.

We are extending an invitation to all readers, young or old to come with us each Saturday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock. As soon as we get a little better organized we are planning to have a "story telling" hour and other entertainment. We will have professional story tellers with us to entertain the kiddies.

A Readers Certificate will be awarded to the readers, complying with the requirements of the State Board of Education. See your librarian, Miss Maude White, for full information. Don't wait too late to begin reading to get a certificate, for you will have to qualify to be awarded a certificate at the end of the summer. Come to the Library Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

TRUCK FARMING

Many of the people here are very busy with their truck farm produce, such as tomatoes, butter beans, peas, squash, cucumbers, corn and string beans. Loaded trucks go out every day to take this produce to market. Some are getting a fancy price for it and others are barely making expenses on it. They are very anxious to get through with these products before they have to begin curing them to tobacco which will be only a few more days. The weed is growing in a hurry since the good rains have been coming, and is expected to begin ripening within a very few days now.

CANNING PLANT AT NEVILS

A canning plant will soon be in operation at Nevils school now for part of the equipment has been delivered to the grounds. The boiler and retorts have already been erected and as soon as a scall shed and shelter can be constructed the good work of canning can begin. Mr. G. C. Avery is doing a good piece of work in getting this plant to going.

Those attending Summer School at South Georgia Teachers College, at Collegeboro, Ga., this term are: Maude White, Lucille White, Lila Mae NeSmith and Mrs. B. F. Puteh.

It was learned here today that Edna Rimes, the history teacher at Nevils was in Detroit, Mich., visiting her brother there. She accompanied her little nephew, Victor Rimes, home after he spent some few days with her before he closing of school.

Mrs. Slaton Lanier and Miss Lucille White attended the Baccalaureate address at South Georgia Teachers College Sunday morning.

Principal Eugene D. Bell was visiting in Nevils Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Anderson, of Savannah, were the dinner guests of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Jno. L. Anderson Sunday. They having come up to bring their little sisters, Hazel and Vivian Anderson, who had been spending a few days in Savannah with them.

Mrs. Slaton Lanier of Savannah was the dinner guest of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Stapleton Sunday, she having come up to attend the Baccalaureate Address at South Georgia Teachers College.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hodges and children Geneva and Betha, of Savannah and Mr. and Mrs. Howell Atwell of Statesboro, were the dinner guests of Mrs. B. D. Hodges Sunday.

Good size and fairly rapid growth are the characteristics most sought in determining the best breed of chickens for canning. Breeds with yellow legs and skin are preferred, such as Plymouth Rocks, Jersey Giants, Rhode Island Reds and Wyandottes.

COLUMBIA S. C. PAPER COMMENTS ON MRS. LANE ENTERING SENATE RACE

In a column called "Around the State House" The State, one of the leading newspapers of South Carolina carries the following paragraph:

"One woman is offering for the state senate down in Georgia. Mrs. Julian C. Lane of Statesboro, having already paid the entrance fee, in membership of the last legislature in South Carolina there was not a single woman. And yet such matters as care of indigent children, care of the blind and of the old—in all of which women are supposed to be particularly proficient—engaged the time of much of the long session."

SOCIETY CLUBS PERSONALS

Class of 1913 Reunite For 25th Anniversary

CLASS OF 13 IS BRILLIANT ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

The Woman's Club presented a scene of unforgettable beauty Tuesday evening as the graduation class of a quarter of a century ago reunited to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation from Statesboro High School.

Old scenes, dear faces, treasured experiences, tender romance, humorous incidents all flashed across the scroll of memory once more as the 'boys and girls' read again that motto of yesterday, "If you wish to see our monuments, look around us." With what prophetic sense it must have been selected, for the class consists of lustrous men and women in far-flung spaces and in varied professions, every one a shining monument.

The class colors, green and white and the class flower, pink carnation were beautiful adapted to the decorations and the table appointments. The broad mantle was banked with fern and pink carnations, having in the center a silver vase filled with pink carnations. Silver candlesticks with green and white tapers were on each end. Using the mantle as a starting point and extending around the spacious club room was an unbroken mass of native fern and palms interspersed with lovely baskets of pink carnations. The lights were shaded with green and depending from the ceiling were myriads of green balloons with 25th anniversary written on them.

The long banquet table, exquisitely arranged in all its appointments, was placed in the center of the room. Hand painted cards featuring the pink carnation and tied to a silver bell with silver ribbon marked each place. The mint cups were white graduation caps filled with green and white mint.

At each end of the table was a silver bowl of pink carnations. A sumptuous mat of fern studded with pink carnations extended the length of the table and was broken at intervals by silver candelabra holding green and white tapers. In the center of the table viewing the scene from this place of vantage was the Sweet Girl Graduate a figure robed in white satin with a green collar and white cap with green tassels holding the diploma of the graduates, and standing on a reflector banked with fern and pink carnations. Silver ribbons ran from the tops of the candelabra and the class colors connected them at their base. Silver wreaths embossed with the figures 25 wreaths adorned the table.

The surprise of the evening was a gift at each place from Dr. Herbert Kennedy of Omaha, Neb. On it were the words "For old times' sake." Inside was a photographic reproduction of the early newspaper account of their graduation and the picture that had accompanied it.

Horace Smith acted as toastmaster; the address of welcome was made by Mrs. Hattie Powell, Dr. Julian Quattlebaum of Savannah made brilliant response. The main speaker of the evening was a former faculty member, Miss Dreta Sharpe of Cuba. C. C. Z. Donaldson, former class prophet once more lifted the veil of the future, Mrs. Barney Averitt gave a toast to Mrs. Sadie Denmark Webster who is the first grandmother in the class. Throughout the evening the opportunity was given to each member to speak right out in class.

As the lovely four course banquet progressed the merriment increased and brilliant repartee marked the conversation. Adding to the entertainment was the lovely program of musical selections given by the children of the members of the class.

Among the class members returning from various points for the occasion were Mrs. Hattie Powell, Dr. Kennedy of Omaha, Neb., Dr. and Mrs. Julian Quattlebaum of Savannah, Dr. Tom Zetterover of Dublin, Mr. and Mrs. Derick Davis of Bainbridge, Outland McDougall of Port Pierce, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Rackley of Miami, Fla., Mrs. George P. Fleming of Lakeland, Fla., Joe Zetterover of Savannah, Billy Roach of Dublin, Mr. and Mrs. Gelason of Pooler, Mr. and Mrs. John Bowen of Savannah and Mr. and Mrs. Fray Waters of Denmark.

Series Of Parties For Miss Sadie Lee Akins

Last Wednesday afternoon Miss Nell DeLoach and Miss Carolyn Brown were co-hostesses at a delightful matinee party complementing Miss Sadie Lee Akins whose marriage to Durward Fulford will take place on Thursday.

After the show the guests were served refreshments at the Tea Pot. Miss Akins was presented with a piece of silver matching her pattern. The guests included: Miss Akins, Aline Whiteside, Sara Remington, Mary Jones Kennedy, Christine Caruthers, Elizabeth Deal, Carolyn Blitch and Mrs. Bob Bryan.

Mrs. Roy Bray and Mrs. Robert Bland were charming hostesses on Thursday at the home of the former with a bridge party honoring Miss Akins. The rooms were effectively decorated with quantities of mixed flowers. The bride's table held a miniature bride while all other tables were centered with brides' maids, and the attractive talle were brides. Their gift to the bride-elect was a silver bon bon dish.

Mrs. Emitt Akins received tea napkins for high score, and Miss Martha Parker was given a bottle of Evening in Paris perfume for cut. Miss Gladys Thayer was given a novelty vase for low.

At the conclusion of the games dainty refreshments consisting of congealed salad, sandwiches, crackers and pickles were served. Those playing were: Miss Akins, Carolyn Blitch, Sara Remington, Grace Gray, Aline Whiteside, Caroline Brown, Helen Parker, Martha Parker, Gladys Thayer, Nell DeLoach, Grace McNorrell, Mrs. Bob Bryan, Mrs. Ralph Howard, Mrs. Frank Olliff, Mrs. Grady Johnston, Mrs. Emitt Akins, Mrs. Henry Ellis, Mrs. Raelof Williams, Mrs. Ernest Cannon and Mrs. Jessie Akins. ins, Mrs. Clarence Williams, Mrs. Bloyce Deal, Mrs. Kate Kingery and Miss Lonnie Belle Bland.

On Monday Miss Akins shared honors with Mrs. Robert Benson, a recent bride, at a luncheon given at Cecil's by Miss Christine Caruthers, Miss Grace McNorrell and Miss Julia Reese. The private entertainment hall was beautifully decorated with gladioli, shasta daisies and zinnias. Miss Akins was presented gifts of silver and china, and Mrs. Benson was remembered with a piece of pottery. The luncheon was served in four courses. Covers were laid for: Miss Akins, Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Emitt Akins, Mrs. Jimmie Wray, Mrs. Bob Bryan, Mrs. Ralph Howard, Doris Wallace, Ethel Mae Boyd, Gladys Thayer, Carolyn Blitch, Elizabeth Deal, Aline Whiteside, Sara Remington, Helen Parker, Martha Parker and Nell DeLoach.

The tables were placed on the lawn where pretty flowering shrubs made an attractive setting for the group. Each hostess presented the honoree with a silver coffee spoon matching her pattern. Delicious frozen salad, sandwiches and beverage were served the guests. There were about thirty present.

Mrs. E. N. Brown and her daughter Margaret, entertained for Miss Akins on Tuesday morning with a bridge party and a handkerchief shower. A profusion of summer flowers adorned the rooms where the tables were placed, a color motif of pink and white being suggested in the decorations and refreshments. Punch was served to the guests on their arrival. Miss Akins was given a plate matching her china. Stationery was given for high score, and handkerchiefs were given for cut. Guests were invited for six tables.

ALL'S FAIR

Comments Here and There:

What man says that his wife goes for weeks without spending a nickel? Hey, wait a minute! Don't all speak at once. What black haired girl cuts her own hair, does her own thing and talks like the lightning express? Who has violet eyes, modest demeanor and wears darling frocks that mama makes?

Do husbands have sent Editor Coleman that cunning soap image of "Dopey"? He mooned over it so that he had to take a vacation.

Do husbands have sent Editor Coleman that cunning soap image of "Dopey"? He mooned over it so that he had to take a vacation. Myrtle Preston whipped up a little Legion fish fry. Wasn't wife an angel? Your guess is as good as mine. If we were running an Intelligence Bureau for absent wives, we'd write about that college professor who appeared to be having such a swell time while his wife was away for ten days.

A certain class member recently departed was the inspiration for the following telephonic rhapsody: "Hello central, Give me Heaven! What? — Oh, I mean Milledgeville, and listen, Operator, Please don't cut in at the reunion. Of three minutes—We want to be alone!"

Oh, me, Oh, my, I've got those terrible blues! Car mentioned above has new occupant, or are we getting color blind?

Herbert Kennedy remarks sleepily to wife after hearing Court House clock: "I know I'm in Statesboro, I've heard lots of clocks but none that sounds like the home town clock." By the way, Herbert really injected howls of mirth into the reunion with those reproductions of a picture and accompanying write-up of the class of '13. Rummaging among his keepsakes he discovered an old and faded copy of the picture of the graduating class of 1913. Wonderfully plain reproduction was made and one of each put at every place at the banquet table.

Remarks overheard after luncheon with Anne Oliver: "Wasn't that the best fried chicken? Yes, but that home-made ice cream was heavenly! Our orchids this week go to Fay Fox—As she played in recital her fragile loveliness was faintly suggestive of a girl of the Old South and the grand piano might have been a harpsichord, but her dresden china daintiness is deceptive, and the full resonant tones she evoked were unlike the airy tinkle of the Colonial instrument for this girl of the New South has strength, courage and initiative, and all of those characteristics that make for leadership. And as college authorities smiled her out and honored those qualities, we were thrilled and happy for her."

And that attractive young couple, the Jimmie Wrayas are going to leave soon. We understand they are being transferred to LaGrange. Sadie Lee Akins just barely has time to catch her breath in between parties, before her marriage to that football star of a few years ago who used to make us hold our breath as he made spectacular plays for T. C.

May days were lovely, June days are rare. But any old day is a grand old day if it isn't darkened by care. As Ever JANE.

ANNOUNCEMENT. Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brown announce the birth of a son; Ernest Hampton, on Sunday June 12.

Culminating the series of lovely parties with which Miss Sadie Lee Akins has been feted was the dinner party given Wednesday evening at the Tea Pot Grille after the rehearsal by Mr. and Mrs. Emitt Akins.

The bridal motif was emphasized by the use of a miniature bride and groom and a wedding bell in the center of the table. The place cards were brides and grooms and these were attached to the central decoration with satin ribbons. Bags of rice tied with tulle were given as favors. Quantities of shasta daisies and gladioli in artistic arrangement adorned the private dining room. The guests included the wedding party and those who will assist in the reception.

ATTEND FLORAL CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. Z. Whitehurst left Sunday for Atlanta to attend the Floral Telegraph Delivery Convention which was held in that city on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Ernest S. Simmons of Toronto, Ontario, International President of this floral organization, was present. A short course dealing with modern methods in floral designs and the art of floral decoration was offered to a group of florists. Mr. and Mrs. Whitehurst were enrolled for the course.

AFTERNOON BRIDGE HONORS. Mrs. Leroy Cowart.

Mrs. Thad Morris and Mrs. E. L. Poindexter entertained with a bridge party Monday afternoon honoring Mrs. Leroy Cowart of Atlanta. Quantities of summer flowers were used in the rooms where the guests were assembled.

Mrs. Cowart was presented with a set of novelty mirror place cards. Miss Henrietta Parrish received a pottery vase for high score. Mrs. E. N. Brown was given a house plant in white pot for cut.

During the social hour the guests were served ice cream, ginger ale and sandwiches.

JUDGMENT AND UNDERSTANDING

The Women's Auxiliary of the Bulloch County Hospital feeling the need of a charity ward in the local hospital to provide hospitalization for those who could not secure it otherwise, reasoned that since the city and the city council permitted private business to operate for private gain on the Sabbath there could not be any objections to operating the picture show for charity.

We have come to understand our town and council better and are ready to admit we judged them without first understanding them. Before passing judgment again we will try to understand why some unnecessary businesses operating on Sundays are good and have the approval of the city and city council and one which offers its proceeds to a worthy and charitable cause is not good for and does not have their approval.

The Hospital Auxiliary in sweeping around its own door says: "We sponsored this cause with the unselfish aim of serving our fellowman. To maintain a charity ward at the hospital requires $60.00 per month. Such a sum cannot be raised consistently in the manner men have come to expect women to finance their projects. The picture show seemed to offer a solution. But due to so much talk and criticism as well as the questioning of our motives we have decided to abandon the idea of financing our charity ward through the proceeds from Sunday movies. In so doing we recognize the priority of mankind's spiritual needs and do not desire to tear mankind down spiritually in order to build him up physically.

"We feel that as an organization whose only aim and purpose is to provide ways and means of ministering unto the diseased bodies of mankind, we have been judged without understanding. 'There is but one virtue: to help human beings to a free and beautiful life; but one sin: to do them indifferent or cruel hurt; the love of humanity is the whole of morality.'"

As a man is so he sees.

GIVE FARM AGENTS A REST

There's an old story about a dance hall out West which displayed the following sign: DON'T SHOOT THE FIDDLER. HE'S DOING THE BEST HE CAN.

No doubt nearly every county agent in the South these last few weeks has felt like hanging up a similar sign. The county agent didn't write the 1938 farm act and he is not to blame if Congress waited almost till planting time to pass it and then left a thousand and one kinks in it that only time and experience can straighten out. The county agent is doing the best he can in a bad situation and everybody should have patience with him. We are indeed quick ready to sympathize with a North Carolina agent, one of whose farmers died in 1936 with some dispute pending about a government crop payment. Although the county agent reported the death, the U. S. Treasury Department kept sending one letter after another until finally—just when the agent had been through a full month of night and day agony over 1938 crop allotments—he sent Washington this reply:

"I have been in hell 30 days and I know Mr. Jones isn't there. Under present conditions no county agent can ever get to heaven, so I can never tell you whether Mr. Jones is there. All I know is he has been dead two years and I'm through!"

Just as far as possible lets give the farm agent a little rest—and all possible thanks for a hard job conscientiously performed!

PROGRESS BY LEADERSHIP

Thirty years ago Statesboro was an unobstructive country town. Today it is a small city with its population exceeding 5,000 and its merchants doing business that runs into many thousands of dollars each year. In the past few years there has been much progress, such as: the addition of religious groups, foundation of many civic organizations, new business enterprises, a hospital, a county health department, and many other things that make for progress of a community. But how are these things started? How were they promoted? And how may they be continued?

They were started because the people wanted them. They were promoted because the people boosted them. And they may be continued by the people making the community progress. How may a community progress?

Through progressive leadership. Leaders that have initiative, choosing things that are best for the people they represent. Leaders who have the ability to look to the past and decide what will be better for the future. Leaders who will boost the activities of the people. Leaders who have high ideals and standards.

Do you recognize your leaders? Perhaps they are not out in the front, but are quietly pushing from the rear. Content to say nothing of their deeds or merit. Yet communities do not progress through leadership alone. Leadership is only representative, speaking the peoples thoughts and will. The people are far more important than the leaders. But for the leaders to be right the people must be right. The people must select a leadership that comes up to the highest standards in every respect. In this way and in this way only may a community progress.

On June 29th the people of Bulloch county will have an opportunity to select leaders. They should be chosen only after careful consideration of their merits and demerits by the voters. So let the people of Bulloch county progress by choosing the right leaders.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

According to a survey made by the American Institute of Public Opinion there is a widespread belief among the American people that the New Deal is using the WPA to elect New Deal candidates; that few members of either party—Republicans or Democrats—approve such use of the relief set-up and that if more voters become convinced of New Deal misuse of the WPA the consequences may be serious to the Democrats, but that—so far—Roosevelt has not lost very much on this account.

Two youths caught climbing over the iron fence at the White House told police they thought the big white house must be a motion picture house and that they decided to see the show. We feel sure that if the police had not caught them they would have seen a show better than any motion picture.

In recapping the record of the 75th congress we find that it set a peace-time appropriation record, split the Democratic party, and enacted most of, but not all, the laws President Roosevelt proposed.

It passed crop-control, big navy, public works, and tax laws. It did not pass the Roosevelt Supreme Court bill or provide for a New Deal in governmental organization. And its tax measure did not satisfy the President.

Headline in a daily newspaper: "Roosevelt and Bride Off On Secret Trip After Brilliant But Kissless Ceremony." We reckon it's legal just the same.

A train that runs on standard railway track, or will leave the track and travel on the highway or paved street is an early prospect for service between Adel, Georgia and Perry, Florida. Such a train made up of one car to accommodate 16 passengers and compartments for mail, is being demonstrated now. Its wheels have heavy rubber tires which are guided on the railway track by small flanged wheels in the front and rear. All there is left for the engineer to do now is to add paddles and get a steamboat whistle.

Georgia borrowers of HOLC funds are 97.8 percent prompt in paying their obligations according to a statement made by state manager, Frank A. Holden.

14,850 loans to Georgians total $3,644,632 of which 14.9 per cent or $5,083,786 have been paid. 507 loans have been paid in full. 10,175 accounts are entirely current or less than three months in arrears, while 2,600 other borrowers were meeting all current bills and monthly payments on their arrears. 500 other borrowers are making small monthly payments.

FLOWERS IN THE HOME

A question common asked by the housewife is: "What kinds of flowers are best for cutting—that is, which ones generally keep longest in water?" As a usual thing, one can count on daisies, asters, verbenas, iris, lilies, carnations, chrysanthemums, calliolas and such spring flowers as daffodils and tulips to keep best of all flowers. With the right care, they may stay fresh a week, or even two weeks in the case of chrysanthemums, if kept cool.

Violets, forget-me-nots, pansies, heliotropes, and cyclamens will last from one to four days longer if you let them "float" or stand in a deep jar of water for about six hours before arranging them. Some flowers do not keep at all well as cut flowers, such as hollyhocks, poppies and cosmos. So these may better be enjoyed in the garden than in the house.

A mistaken idea that some people have is that flowers will keep better in copper bowls or vases, and will last longer if aspirin is put in the water. The latter practice, according to plant scientists of the Department of Agriculture, has never been found very helpful. The only possible way that aspirin could help would be through the keeping down of bacteria that cause the flower stems to decay and close up the tubes that carry the water up to the blossoms, but this would be very slight at the most.

The best way to keep flowers fresh is to see that they get all the water they need. First of all, cut them in the early morning before the sun is hot and when the plants have had the night to drink up the moisture.

The next precaution is to cut the flowers properly. Breaking off or cutting with a dull knife may injure the stems. Cut most stems with a slanting upward slice to expose as much of the tubes as possible, and place immediately in a pair of cold water, so that they will not have time to dry out or wilt. Woody stems should be split two ways for a couple of inches again, to open the tubes. One exception is the chrysanthemum stem; that should be crushed before being placed in cold water.

To keep flowers fresh, two things are advised daily. One is the changing of water, and the other is the clipping of the stems under water. Bacteria in the water soon cause the cut end of the stem to clog up. By cutting the stems every day, the tubes will stay open. If the flowers remain in a warm room in daytime, they will appreciate a float in a cold room at night. Or, better still, wrap them in waxed paper and leave them in the refrigerator for the night.

All leaves that come below the water line when the flowers are arranged may well be removed, because this foliage only adds to the spoilage of the water.

Selecting White House Site
President Washington and Major Pierre Charles L'Enfant, who laid out the national capital, selected the site for the White House in 1791. A competition was held for plans for an executive mansion, and the winning architect was James Hoban of Dublin. The corner stone was laid October 23, 1792. The building was not ready for occupancy until November, 1800, when President and Mrs. John Adams moved in. When the British captured Washington in 1804, they burned the White House. Hoban superintended its restoration.

THE NEVILS VACATION READING CLUB MEETS THURSDAY

The Nevils Vacation Reading Group has had its third meeting already. A good many children are taking advantage of this opportunity but there are still others that we are anxious to have join us. All children that were promoted to third grade this year are eligible for a U. I. C. certificate for reading a limited number of books and reporting at the end of the summer. Children below the third grade will not be eligible for a certificate but will be awarded with some honorary event, such as a trip, picnic or party of some sort. If you'd care for a certificate then don't wait too late to begin reading. Once you start with the good story material we have in one library, you will enjoy it so much that you can't quit. We get new readers each week. Come be with us Saturday afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock and bring your friend or neighbor.

We are insisting upon the cooperation of all our patrons throughout the school district in preparing transportation for these eager children to make it possible for them to participate in this summer activity. Bring or send your child—and your friends then you have done your part. We want every child of our entire community to participate if they have a desire to.

An assistant librarian is expected to be able to assume her duties in Nevils library by the 20th of June.

plant at Nevils. The plant was crowded from 9:30 A. M. until night called them home. The most popular vegetable named Tuesday seemed to be corn. Corn came from every direction, some on the cob, some in the ear and some in pots ready to be cooked. We had Mrs. L. Anderson and her mother, Mrs. W. A. Waters of Pembroke and Statesboro to bring some vegetables to be canned. Mrs. Anderson's food was ready to be canned and her local canning plant would not be ready to operate until last of the week, in order to save her vegetables she brought them to the Nevils Plant.

The World's Dumbest Animal

THE South American sloth spends 90 per cent of his life hanging upside down in the high tree tops, moving about only at night to feed on leaves and young shoots. During the day this dumbest of animals looks like a tuft of moss hanging on a shadowy limb. No matter how hungry he is, a native will not eat a sloth. The only compliment one can pay this animal is that he never makes a mistake, never lifting one long-toed foot off the limb until he is sure the advancing one is on solid foundation. Indian hunters once brought a mother sloth into camp, a baby clinging the gray fur on her back. When the youngster was taken away, she made no commotion like other animals under such circumstances; indeed, she would have crawled away without the baby sloth had not some thoughtful hunter tied the little fellow to her back!

Flower of Day
Anemone is regarded by the Chinese as the flower of day. The early Romans used Anemones as a cure for malaria fever. In the Holy Land, the Anemone is called "the blood drops of Christ" because blood fell upon the plants which sprung up around the cross on Calvary on the evening of the crucifixion. Anemones were supposed to have retained their red color from that time on.

Black Ducks Are Wise
Black ducks know how to avoid enemies. Their nests, well camouflaged with weeds and hidden in swamps or brush, can be found only by accident. Parent ducks keep their young huddled close on open water. They fly at night, feed generally at dawn and dusk. When danger nears, they fly to the middle of a river or lake, or leave the vicinity entirely.

Miss Sudie Akins Weds Durward Fulford

The marriage of Miss Sudie Lee Akins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Akins, and James Durward Fulford of Charlotte, N. C., formerly of Summit, Ga., son of Mrs. J. W. Fulford and the late Mr. Fulford was solemnized at a beautiful home ceremony Thursday morning June 16 at the home of the bride's parents on North College Street.

Elder Willie R. Wilkinson read the marriage service in the presence of friends and relatives. As the guests were assembling Miss Gladys Thayer played MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" and "Love Song" by Goldman.

Miss Florence Daley of Atlanta sang, "I Love You Truly," a nuptial selection rendered by the bride's twelve year old nephew, Lowell Akins. Miss Thayer used "Liebestraum" and "Tenderly" just preceding and during the ceremony.

The ceremony was performed in the living room before an improvised altar. The background of the altar was graceful arrangement of ferns and ivy and on either side were pink gladioli in white vases on tall white pedestals. The bride, a lovely brunette, entered with her brother, E. L. Akins, and was met at the altar by the groom and his brother, B. W. Fulford, his best man. She wore a modest white suit of sheer alpaca and a white silk turban and pale accessories. A shoulder spray of Talcott roses and lilacs of the valley completed her costume.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for the bridal party. Mrs. Homer Parker and Mrs. Fulford, who had received the wedding guests and directed them to their places, assisted in entertaining.

MRS. H. H. COWART HONORS MISS ELEANOR MOSES

Miss Eleanor Moses, house guest of Mrs. H. H. Cowart, was the guest of a lovely party Friday evening, given by Mrs. Cowart at her home on Donaldson street. A variety of summer flowers adorned the rooms where three tables were placed for the guests.

Clyde Jarline was awarded a cigarette holder for high score for men and Miss Elizabeth Sorrier was given perfume for high for the ladies. Miss Moses, the guest of honor, was presented a handkerchief and sachets.

TOBACCO TRADITION

The tobacco grower today has descended from a long line of romance and tradition. When the English first landed on the shores of what is now North Carolina over 350 years ago, and in Virginia in 1607, they found the strange new leafy plant. From the Indians they learned the pleasurable pastime of the pipe. Like wildfire Englishmen adopted it. In the early colonies of the South tobacco was everywhere legal tender. Wages, debts, purchases, and even the parsons' salaries, were paid off in tobacco. Huge loads of it annually sped by sail eastward to old England. The tobacco planter was soon able to live in style. He used his leisure to develop a culture that breathes romance even to this day. He was elegant and polished in appearance, speech and manners, and his wife and daughters were apt to be models of refinement and beauty. The planter ranked at the top in the social system. He set up his own government over the plantation, took an active interest in public affairs, and skilled himself in the practices of government. Thus he developed that spirit of freedom which first flared up in a tobacco colony, and which flamed furiously into the Revolutionary War, resulting at last in American independence. Tobacco provided the wealth that gave the first English colonies on these immediate shores their sustenance, and which made it possible for them to thrive on into the fruition which we enjoy today. Therefore, we repeat, those who plant tobacco today belong to a great tradition, and one of which to be proud. It is strictly American tradition, for tobacco was first found on American shores.

BUDGET OPERATIONS REVIEW

The State's Budget is automatically balanced and at end of eleven months of the fiscal year July 1st, 1937 — June 30th, 1938 the State's financial picture is revealed as follows:
The Legislature authorized the expenditure for the period of $49,953,065.32, including $4,900,964.39 balances from previous fiscal period. Funds available in the period to apply in payment of the authorizations were $44,639,115.63 leaving $5,313,949.69 of the Budgets of the State Departments, having a fixed sum appropriation, to be subject to the "Grandfather Clause" requiring the expenses of the State to be reduced to be within available monies thus keeping the budget continuously in balance. At the end of each fiscal year appropriations in excess of available funds cease to be obligations.
Of the $44,639,115.63 limit placed on budgets of the State Departments for the eleven months period only $42,817,941.95 has been expended thus showing a reserve of $1,821,173.68 held for the Departments at May 31, 1938.
In brief, the total expenditures authorized for the eleven months period were $49,953,065.32, actual expenditures were $42,817,941.95 or $7,135,123.37 less than authorized, or $1,821,173.68 less than the cash available.
87 1-2 per cent or $37,450,936.28 of the $42,817,941.95 expenditures on Budget for the eleven months of this fiscal year was for roads, education and public welfare activities, showing $18,618,014.03. $14,575,562.81,

THE BULLOCH HERALD WEDNESDAY, JUNE 29, 1938

$4,262,359.44 respectively, leaving 12 1-2 per cent or $5,367,005.97 for all other activities of the State, including Public Debt and Interest.
The expenditures this fiscal period were $12,984,555.14 greater than last fiscal period. 35 per cent or $4,525,223.38 of the increase going to road activities, 34 1-2 per cent or $4,499,132.40 of the increase going to education, 15 1-2 per cent or $1,998,342.04 of the increase going to Public Welfare activities including Old Age assistance and the balance of 15 per cent or $1,967,832.32 of the increase going to all other activities of the state including the newly established Highway Patrol, Unemployment Compensation Division, Employment Division and expanded Health program.

GOOD NEWS FOR FARMER

A leading farm implement manufacturer has announced price reductions ranging from $150 to $650 on crawler-type tractors, effective immediately. Other manufacturers, it is believed, will soon meet the price cuts on this type of tractor. While price reductions on their machinery of production is welcomed by farmers at any time, the present case is particularly timely since farmers are faced with the prospect of receiving lower incomes from their crops this year. No price reductions have been announced on wheel-type tractors, which are used by a majority of farmers. However, the strengthened competitive position of crawler-type tractors which will prevail as a result of lower prices, may eventually force similar reductions on the wheel-type tractor.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR—Antiseptic candy which releases hydrogen peroxide to free the mouth of germs. . . Combination mirror, lipstick and flashlight so that women can "make up" in the dark. . . A fountain pen equipped with a roller blotter concealed inside the cap. . . Vacuum cleaner which beats the rug before scooping up the dust. . . A roller dry-shaver which operates on the face like a lawn mower goes over grass. . . A chemical solution to act as an invisible "third skin" for hands to protect them against oil, ink and grease or dirt. . . A new kind of posture foundation summer shoe called suntog which can be washed with water and soap.

HEADLINES — Only 14,000,000 of the 25,250,000 homes in the country are equipped with furnaces. . . Stop, Look, Listen—more grade crossing accidents occur on Saturday than any other day. . . U. S. recaptures lead as the world's largest producer of beer, turning out almost 59,000,000 barrels last year. . . Housing shortage—three million city homes in America have fewer rooms than there are people living in them. . . Miami, Florida, with more than $5,500,000 invested in ten airports, has investment in flying facilities equal to $5,200 for each year round aviation employ in the city. . . Honesty Increasing—for every three purchasers of autos on time who skipped payments by giving wrong addresses and moving out of town in 1930 only one gets away with it today. . . Biggest Price Drop on Record—Back in 1907 helium cost $2,500 a cubic foot, now the Bureau of Mines produces it at Amarillo, Texas for one cent per cubic foot.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

A working man gave us the following poem and stated that he believed that it would be interesting to others. He did not know who wrote it but stated that it had helped him. We give it to you as he gave it to us.

If you think you are beaten, you are:
If you think you dare not, you don't
If you think you'd like to win but you can't It's always a "chinch" you won't
If you think you'll lose, you've lost;
For out in the world you'll find Success begins with the fellow's will—
It's all in the state of mind.

Full many a race is lost
Ere even the race is run;
And many a coward fails
Ere even his work's begun.
Think big, and your deeds will grow;
Think small, and you'll fall behind;
Think that you can, and you will.
It's all in the state of mind.
If you think you're outclassed, you are;
You've got to think big to rise;
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You ever can win a prize.
Life's battle does not always go
To the stronger or faster man;
But sooner or later, the man who wins
Is the fellow who thinks he can.

RALPH KERSEY DROPS DEAD WHILE WAITING TO SEE DR.

Ralph Kersey, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Kersey, dropped dead in the county health office over the Sea Island Bank here Saturday afternoon.

ALL'S FAIR

When Sara Alice Bradley, Dot Remington, Jack Averitt and Robert Morris left on the bus for Jacksonville to visit Bob Darby, the bus trip was one of the most of them a "bus ride" was a new experience. We imagine it would be amusing to learn how many of this young generation have never made a train trip. Those of you who have set the alarm clock for about four o'clock in the morning and have gone on one of those Sunday School picnics to Tybee, spent about three or four hours hanging to a rope until you learned to ride the waves, ate bushels of cotton candy, had your pictures made and came home sore and unburned had an experience that has no parallel in modern times. Nor does this generation count among their pleasures anything like the Fourth of July picnics usually given by the Macons, where we all drank lemonade from a large tub using tin dippers instead of paper cups—and in the afternoon there was always an exciting ball game and it nearly always rained, and lucky was the person who could find a top buggy or better still a surrey. Our musical entertainment oftentimes consisted of good harmonica players. Speaking of music reminds me that the William Deas are at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and William is studying every phase of music from eight o'clock in the morning until five in the afternoon. And Annette Franklin after meriting Calculus at Agnes Scott and receiving grand reports in all other work is at Emory University, personally we think she's getting off work so that she can ease up and have a good time for herself later on—after all, Annette! How we envy the endurance of some people, here Junior Johnson galvants all over Ontario, takes in Buffalo, N. Y., goes in on Sunday and on Monday we find her putting up peach preserves. Lure Johnston whose birthday is June 24, the same as the little Lindbergh baby that was kidnapped, has the right idea about birthday celebrations. On his 4th birthday he invited "Uncle" Jessie Outland and Grandma Johnston for dinner Friday evening and thereafter proudly displayed a bank full of money. All the

Bulloch County Man Demonstrating New Improved Sea Island Cotton Gin

L. L. Foss of Bulloch county is now displaying a new improved Sea Island cotton gin. Mr. Foss is the inventor of the old type Sea Island cotton gin.

The new gin, called the improved double roller, Sea Island cotton gin, has two crank legs, two strippers with a two and three-fourths inch crank shaft with a one and one-half inch hollow through which water is forced while operating. Thus the old trouble of overheating in the old type gin is overcome.

The old gin had three strippers, three crank legs with a solid crank shaft, turning 600 revolutions per minute. At this speed there was no means of keeping the shaft cool, its speed being 1,000 revolutions per minute.

Mr. Foss claims that the new improved gin will gin one-third more cotton than the old type. The old type was capable of turning out a bale of cotton every hour.

All the supports on the new improved gin which hold the crank shaft and strippers in place are stronger than the old type.

Foss and Son Gin Company of Pulaski are now taking orders for the new gin.

THE TOBACCO SEASON WILL OPEN IN GEORGIA on Thursday, July 28, according to an announcement made in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., on July 1 at the meeting of the Tobacco Association of the United States.

The Georgia markets will be the first to open. The South Carolina markets will open August 1, and the Eastern North Carolina markets, on August 25, the middle belt markets on September 27 and the dark firmed Virginia markets on November 28.

Realizing that the early market opening is a matter of great importance, Senator Walter F. George telegraphed the convention Thursday of last week, asserting the industry in Georgia would be injured if the markets were opened before August 2.

This year will see a new warehouse on the Statesboro market. R. E. Shepard will complete his new house in the near future. When it is finished it will be one of the largest warehouses in this section. It will provide 105,000 square feet of floor space and is more than three times as large as either of the other houses.

Cobb and Foxhall will operate both the warehouses formerly owned by the Statesboro Tobacco Warehouse Company. Mr. Cobb and Mr. Foxhall purchased these two houses in October of last year. Mr. W. E. Cobb, with Mr. R. P. Holt, who died several years ago, leased one of the houses in 1928 and has been on the local market ever since. Following the death of Mr. Holt, H. M. Foxhall joined with Mr. Cobb and since 1928 Cobb and Foxhall have operated together. This year their warehouse floor space will be doubled.

OUR LIBRARY LOOKING AHEAD

With a sense of gratitude that is justifiable the American Library Association cites the figures of its present service to the public. They include 6,000 public libraries; 100 million books in circulation; 77 1-2 million persons served and twenty six million registered borrowers.

That is a record worth studying, particularly when it is considered that practically all this total is of comparatively recent growth; that it represents a tremendous advance in literacy, in widened horizons, in thinking and in intellectual enjoyment for the American people.

The people of Bulloch county are advancing along these same lines under the influence of the Bulloch County Library. With its services being extended into the various sections of the county and the organization of reading clubs with planned programs the library movement in the county advances. But in Bulloch county there are certain problems that must be solved before the library can do its greatest good. The chief of these is the problem of distribution of books and the education of the people to use the facilities the library offers.

With the splendid record behind them and the clear recognition of the problems that confront them we have a feeling that the library leaders eventually will attain the objectives toward which they are working.

BUSINESS — To the business man confidence is the basis of profits, and the prospect of profit is what makes prosperity. Factories are reopened or new ones built as soon as operators believe that there is at least a 50-50 chance of being able to sell more merchandise at a profit in the near future. The return of confidence usually begins to manifest itself in the stock market. People are willing to pay more for stocks and bonds of corporations once they feel assured that earnings and dividends are likely to increase. Last week men and women all over the country and even in Europe began to invest idle money in American securities. Result—the stock market rose to a new high for 1938. Even confirmed pessimists had to admit that all signs indicate the low point in the depression is behind us.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR — Golf clubs with transparent heads, in which arrows are imbedded to guide the stroke. . . . "A can't miss torpedo" which, in case it misses an enemy battleship, turns back and strikes the warship from the opposite side. . . . Portable partitions for soda fountains, which move on an overhead rail and can be adjusted to divide off any number of seats from others. . . . A germicide more potent than tincture of iodine, yet less irritating. . . . An "elevator" car which runs up and down the side of the stairs in your home.

HEADLINES — New car registrations declined, but filling stations see upturn in business—reason: old cars burn more gas than new ones. Cigarette production shows increase over last year. . . . Private power companies last year paid a tax bill of $330,000, or 16 per cent of gross revenues. United

TAKE A TIP

We fell under the "spell" of the state troopers on a night last week.

Our heart fell behind our thoughts upon hearing the siren of a patrol car coming up behind us, while driving on U. S. 80 about three miles north of Portal. "C hurch is out" we said to us, as we came to a halt on the side of the road. "How-do-you-do" the patrolman greets us, nice as you please, "Not so good, and you" (we could see no reason for telling the S. T. a lie). "Do you know you've been driving with the rear light out?" "No," we said. "You have. I regret it but I must write you a ticket!" the trooper informed us. So with a feeling of the lost, we reached for our drivers' license. While fishing through our wallet for the license we remarked: "While you are making out the ticket, we might as well fix that light and be done with it." "What do you mean," inquired the trooper. We told him that we had an extra light bulb and that while the car was stopped we could put it in. The trooper then volunteered to help us put the bulb in. After having some trouble with the lens on the light he said: "All the lights on this model car are like this. They are made so that the lens are hard to get out. Tell you what I'm going to do. I am not going to give you a ticket. Any man who carries an extra light bulb along with him doesn't deserve a ticket. You have this thing fixed as soon as you get to town and we'll forget all about it."

Our spirits rose from sub-zero to extreme enthusiasm for the entire highway patrol. "A fine bunch of men," says we.

And a great job they're doing in helping make our highways a safer place on which to travel.

Get your car an extra head-light and an extra tail light and save yourself a lot of grief. It's a tip.

Recently the following letter has been going the rounds of the press. It is written by an unknown author in answer to a collection letter. It sums up the times in which we are now living. We feel sure that after having written it the author must have felt a great deal of satisfaction in getting it off his chest:

DEAR FRIEND: In reply to your request to send a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it impossible. My shattered financial condition is due to Federal laws, State laws, county laws, sister-in-laws, mother-in-laws and outlaws.

Through these laws I am compelled to pay a business tax, amusement tax, head tax, poll tax, school tax, gas tax, water tax, sales tax, liquor tax, income tax, food tax, furniture tax and excise tax. Even my brains are taxed. I am required to get a business license, car license, liquor license, truck license, not to mention a marriage license.

I am required to contribute to every society and organization which the genius of man is capable of ringing to life, to woman's relief, the unemployed relief, and the gold diggers relief. Also to every hospital and charitable institution in the city, including the Red Cross, the Black Cross, the Purple Cross and the Double Cross.

For my own safety, I am required to carry life insurance, property insurance, liability insurance, burglar insurance, earthquake insurance, tornado insurance, unemployed insurance, old age insurance and fire insurance.

My business is so governed that it is no easy matter for me to find out who owns it. I am inspected, expected, suspected, dejected, and examined, re-examined, fined, commanded and compelled, until I provide an inexhaustible supply of money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race.

Simply because I refuse to donate to something or other, I am boycotted, talked about, lied about, held up and held down and robbed until I am almost ruined. I can tell you honestly that except for the miracle that happened, I could not enclose this check. The wolf that comes to my doors nowadays had pups in my kitchen. I sold them and here is the money.

Sincerely Yours,

Lesson for July 10

CALEB: LIFE-TIME DEVOTION

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 14:6-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let us go up at once, and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it.—Joshua 1:6.
PRIMARILY TOPIC—Brave Caleb.
SECONDARILY TOPIC—Caleb the Brave.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Hero's Reward.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Courage for Difficult Tasks.

"We need to know more about good men who are occasionally great, and less about great men who are occasionally good," says the author. "Caleb is one of the characters about whom the Bible does not say much, but in every case the word is one revealing high and noble character. Consider such passages as Numbers 13:6, 30; 14:7-9, 24, 30; 26:65, as well as the lesson for today. The background for our study of today, and in fact an integral part of the lesson itself, is the story of Caleb's courageous stand with Joshua when the spies returned from their visit to Canaan, which is related in Numbers 12. There was then a comparatively young man, but demonstrated by his every word and deed that he had from his youth learned to know and obey God. Note first of all Caleb's:

I. Perfect Obedience (vv. 6-8).
"I wholly followed the Lord my God. Such a testimony from man like Caleb is no idle boast, no effort to parade his faith and piety before others. In saying it he was repeating what God and Moses had both said about him. In his heart he knew it to be true. It is God's will that each of His children that they should come to such a place of simple trust and complete obedience that in every circumstance of life they need know only one thing—God's will, and then in faith to go and do it. It is a life learned in its truest and simplest and powerful in the strength of God Himself.

II. Promised Inheritance (v. 9).
"Surely the land wherein thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance." Such was the promise of God through Moses. Forty-five long years had elapsed, but even through this period of wilderness wanderings and the conflict in subduing Canaan the promise had lived in Caleb's heart. He knew it would be fulfilled, and he waited serenely for God's time.

Such also are the promises of God which keep the heart singing in our hours of trial and sorrow, which light up the dark ways, which strengthen the heart of His children. Learn God's promises, cherish them in your heart, expect God to fulfill them.

III. Preserved Strength (vv. 10, 11).
"The Lord hath kept me alive. . . . and I am still strong." Caleb was a man kept of God, in full vigor in his eighty-fifth year, "like a rock in a changeless sea, like a snow-capped peak in a change of cloud and storm and sun" (Meyer). No doubt there was what our forefathers like to call "the longevity of the antediluvians," but even apart from that let us recognize that life and strength come from God and that those who walk with God in holy living may count on Him for the renewed strength of Psalm 135:5.

An incidental, but extremely important, lesson, we should learn is that God has no age deadline. The church has frequently sinned against Him and against His faithful servants by "shelving them" for younger men, when they would have brought blessing to themselves and to the church by encouraging and using them. The writer of these lines is a young man, but he would speak here a word of loving admonition regarding his honored brethren who have gone on before to bear the brunt of the battle.

IV. Powerful Assurance (vv. 12-15).
"If . . . the Lord will be with me, then I shall be able." Caleb asked for no easy task. He was ready to go up against the giants of Hebron. Read Deuteronomy 3:11, and you will find that there were men in those days who needed thirteen-foot beds. But Caleb was not afraid. He counted not on his own strength, but on the power of God. It is significant that while the other sections of the lesson were only partially conquered Caleb brought his formidable adversaries entirely under control, so that the land had rest from war" (v. 15).

The spiritual application to our day is evident and appropriate. There are giants in the land in this year of our Lord 1938. Corruption—social and political—raises its brazen head. Drunkenness and vice leer at us with the suppliant suggestion that we cannot control them. There are giants "within us"—greed, selfishness, love of ease, lust, passion, cruelty (Blakely). Are we to do nothing about them? If we are to meet them in the strength of the flesh we might almost as well do nothing. But in the power of God, we are like Caleb—able.

In his name we may take up a slogan of today, "Let's do something about it!" and really do it, for His glory.

All's Fair...

Sing a song of red bugs, ants and lemon pie. We ride, we swim, we burn, we bake.
On the glorious Fourth of July.

promise of rain gave way to sunshine, and though many left for beaches and other sources of recreation out of town, many of our people stayed at home probably remembering the slogan to "be alive on the fifth" . . . A goodly portion of our high school age folks were at the slating ring, going off to a slow start the rink has steadily won more devotees to that greatful art . . . Callie Thomas is our nomination for the best woman skater on the floor . . . And the Mc- Dougald twins, a boy and a girl, arrived on the eve before the Fourth on the eve of the slating ring. Bet Papa Bernard thought all those firepoppers were celebrating his parental estate.

A ride over Statesboro these days fills us with pride, as we view signs of prosperity and civic improvements on every side . . . Shopper's man- every warehouse reminds us of acre upon acre of waving tobacco to be gathered, cured and offered to buyers for money—lots of it . . . Two new residences going up on South Main Street, an imposing looking apartment house on Bulloch street—the McDou- ald home whose broad verandas and stately columns set far back from the street reflect the gentle grace and grandeur of the old South, is getting a new coat of paint . . . Completed tennis courts back of the Methodist church answer the urge to exercise in competitive sport, and just out of the city limits the path of the golf links grows each day more discernible and our small boys will soon be proudly displaying quarters they earned for caddyding . . . But we want to hand our bouquets this week to Mrs. Bill Simmons, for we credit her with an immaculate appearance of her home, her lawn and the entire premises. Even the tidy chicken coops overlook a vista of petunias—We sought in vain for the sort of trash that seems to smother us as we pound away on a typewriter, but Sula must be a C-Man with dirt and rubbish her natural enemy.

Corinne Pafford off to Camp Bon Air in Tennessee where she again assumes the role of Counselor. Corinne is in charge of Camp Dramatics and she declares that her credits are many. light the young folks there. Mar- lan Lanier, and Betty McLemore, go also this year as counselors. Martha Wilma Simmons accompanied them.

Anne Williford, that charming young woman in the Power Company office, has seen the quintuplets, and she declares they are much more attractive than their picture. . . . Foy Oliff and Inman Foy back from Ty- bee and burned even to their eye- brows. Foy persists in his claim that he saw a shark . . . Roger Holland cruelly dangles a piping hot chicken skewer before quivering glafactory serves of Charles Layton at the Chi- cken Supper Friday evening at Lan- nie Simmons' fish pond . . . Alma Booth whole-heartedly recommends St. Simon as a summer resort.

Allice Katherine and Hubert Am- azon have just returned from a lov- ely trip including all the beauty spots of Florida. They went to Key West over that breathtaking expanse of highway stretching for miles over the water. A K's artistic temperature responded to the ever-changing colors of the water and the lovely skies.

Nevils News

The Nevils canning plant has been in operation since its opening. Since its opening, it has been an extra day is added in case some one had an unusual large lot of food stuff to can. The plant has run at capacity all the while, it being necessary to continue into the night. People from all sections of the community have helped in the duties around the plant.

Since the raw vegetables are selling so low at the present time, the general opinion is that the canned food will prove more profitable for the truck farmers.

All the people interested in the canning of their foodstuffs at Nevils are urged to prepare them on the same day that they expect to can them. It is the experience of those operating the plant and the housewives who utilize it that no food can be expected if it is prepared the day before it is to be canned. It is requested that all with foodstuffs to can have it at the plant before 4:00 o'clock.

GROWTH OF READING CLUB CORRECTED

Last week it was reported that the reading club has grown from 30 to 36. This should have been from 30 to 36. The membership at the meeting on Saturday, June 25, was 66. It is expected to be larger.

GROWTH OF READING CLUB AMAZING

It is amazing to see how the enrollment of the Nevils Vacation Reading Club has grown. The first Saturday the enrollment was 18. At the third meeting the membership was thirty. The club was well organized at the fourth meeting and under the enthusiasm of the new officers and the old members the membership increased to sixty-six. Other new members are expected at the next meeting. (Perhaps you will find a later article giving the latest account elsewhere in this issue of the Herald.)

Several of the members are at the camp and may not be back in time to attend Saturday's meeting, but we are expecting new members to fill their places. A story-teller will be present as often as possible. The Vacation Reading Club will meet on each Saturday from 4:30 to 6:30 in the School Library.

VISITORS AT NEVILS

On last Saturday morning, June 25, Mr. Richard J. Hurley, librarian of the Roslyn Public Schools of Roslyn, N. Y., and now a member of the Teachers Summer School faculty was a visitor at Nevils High School Library. Mr. Leon Holloway, School Service Librarian, also a visitor. Mr. Hurley, who is now teaching Library Science offered some very helpful suggestions, as to the arrangement of the present library. Mr. Hurley will meet with the Reading Club group and be the guest story-teller in the near future.

Misses Lila Mae Nesmith, Maude White and Lucile White and Mrs. F. F. Fuch who are attending the summer school at the Teachers College were at home over the weekend for the Fourth of July.

The question of the problem of getting the highway constructed together with the necessary bridges was discussed. Governor Rivers stated the route from the Savannah river to Sylvania is now in Federal Aid, but that the part of the route from Sylvania to Folkston is now in the hands of the State Department, but there is a possibility that this section may be placed in the Federal Aid System—if so, he added that this step may speed up the construction of the route.

T. J. Evans of Sylvania, Judge of the city court, gave a short talk preceding the address of Governor Rivers. Mr. Evans stressed the importance of the development of the Burton's Ferry project being put over, explaining the route as coming down from Virginia through South Carolina, across the Savannah river to Folkston and to the Florida line. He said: "I believe that this project means more to the development of the number of sections, than any other project."

Skating Rink Open Here

SKATING RINK WITH THREE SESSIONS A DAY IS OPENED AT THE STATESBORO ARMYORY

There is fun for all if all will take the evening or night off and go down to the National Armyory and don a pair of skates.

Opened only for a few weeks the Skating Rink in the Guards Armyory is proving to be one of the most popular spots in town to have fun. Both the young and old are enjoying skating.

Under the experienced management of Mr. Sam F. Schlesinger, the rink has become the most popular place of amusement in town. Mr. Schlesinger, who is from Atlanta, stated last Thursday that he has leased the Armyory floor for an indefinite period and if the public demands it, he will continue to operate the rink right on into the winter months. He stated that the bowling alley is to be moved out of the building and that there will be considerable more space when it is removed.

With Mr. Schlesinger are his son, Sam Jr., and his daughter, both who are very good roller skaters.

Three sessions are held daily. The first one begins at 3 in the afternoon and lasts until 5. The night sessions are from 7:30 until 9:30 and from 9:30 until 11:30. Music throughout all sessions is provided by the management and admission to the spectators is free.

Waltz skating and dance skating are the main features throughout the sessions.

Mr. Schlesinger also stated that less than $100 would be given by professional skaters if wanted.

Governor Rivers In Favor Of Burton's Ferry Route

Tells Delegations At Sylvania Meeting

JUDGE T. J. EVANS STRESSED IMPORTANCE OF BURTON FERRY ROUTE AT MEETING IN SYLVANIA JULY 5

"You need in Georgia a distribution of traffic. I think we should encourage a policy of establishing alternative routes rather than the policy of widening routes," Gov. E. D. Rivers stated in Sylvania the afternoon of July 5 to an assembly composed of delegations from Bulloch, Evans, Tattnall, Wayne, Brantley, Jenkins and Chatham counties.

Governor Rivers together with some of the members of the State Highway Board and others inspected the Burton's Ferry bridge being constructed over the Savannah River between Sylvania and Allendale, S. C., and the two bridges being built over Briar Creek between Sylvania and the river.

After the inspection trip, Gov. Rivers admitted that he could not have gotten in a week's conference from delegations in his office in Atlanta, just what the Burton's Ferry bridge means to this section, but that he was after his inspection that the development of the Burton's Ferry route will mean the opening up of beneficial traffic between several states.

He added that the Highway Board is trying to build highways on logical routes—where most needed. He said: "Building a road on its merits to serve the needs of the state at large, as well as the local vicinity should, and is being considered. I believe that the Burton's Ferry road fits this need."

Governor Rivers set forth a three-fold value of the Burton's Ferry route if developed. First, that it will furnish a splendid alternative route for people going and coming from Florida. Second, it will relieve traffic conditions on the Coastal Highway. Third, the improved traffic conditions will be far-reaching, serving many more people than those living in this vicinity.

The question of the problem of getting the highway constructed together with the necessary bridges was discussed. Governor Rivers stated the route from the Savannah river to Sylvania is now in Federal Aid, but that the part of the route from Sylvania to Folkston is now in the hands of the State Department, but there is a possibility that this section may be placed in the Federal Aid System—if so, he added that this step may speed up the construction of the route.

T. J. Evans of Sylvania, Judge of the city court, gave a short talk preceding the address of Governor Rivers. Mr. Evans stressed the importance of the development of the Burton's Ferry project being put over, explaining the route as coming down from Virginia through South Carolina, across the Savannah river to Folkston and to the Florida line. He said: "I believe that this project means more to the development of the number of sections, than any other project."

Jim Gillis, Sr., of Soperton, member of the state highway board was at the meeting. Those from Statesboro who represented Bulloch county are Dr. R. J. Kennedy, Mayor J. L. Renfro, Fred W. Hodges, Geo. P. Lee, M. J. Bowen, C. B. McAllister, D. B. Franklin and Harvey D. Brannen.

FOR THE GOOD OF OUR YOUTH

With the first of its "open house" entertainments a success, the Woman's Club has started one of the finest things that has happened in Statesboro in a long time.

These weekly "open house" nights are being held to give the youth of Statesboro a place to go at night and indulge in wholesome entertainment under the supervision of people who understand the needs of the young boys and girls of today.

Once a week the home of the Woman's Club will be open to all of high school age. Music is being furnished, game equipment is available and every opportunity to make the evening a pleasure is offered. It is hoped that this "open house" idea will become an institution which will work for a greater understanding of the problems of our youth.

JOIN THE TOBACCO MOTORCADE

The Chamber of Commerce is planning on "telling the world" about Statesboro's Tobacco Market. Plans call for a motorcade to be made up of fifty or more automobiles to visit all the tobacco area in this section on Wednesday afternoon, July 20. Stops will be made at Claxton, Reidsville, Glennville, Lyons, Cobbtown, Collins and other towns. Short talks will be given, telling of the advantages of the Statesboro market.

Here is an opportunity for people to not only talk about their tobacco market but to back up what they talk.

More definite plans will be made at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday, July 19.

We common people—lowly tax-payers—are having our day. Some of our mail comes addressed with "Hon." written before our name. We become sovereign citizens, fellow countrymen, and persons of some importance. But after September 14 we will be once again just the common people—lowly tax-payers.

TIP TO CANDIDATES: Better check your mailing lists and see that all your mail goes out with "Hon." before your fellow countryman's name. We overheard one sovereign citizen declare that she was not going to vote for a certain candidate because he had neglected to address her mail as "Hon." when she learned that her friends had rated that title. So to your mailing lists candidates, or else.

The seriousness with which the members of the Statesboro Country Club are going about the construction of its golf course and tennis courts indicate that they intend to give Statesboro something that has been needed here for a long time.

West Main Street is coming into its own. There was the time when one referred to West Main as being "across the railroad tracks," but that is not so now. Walk down one side of the street and up the other and one finds West Main a true part of the business section of Statesboro.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

What do people keep under the glass tops on their desks? What do people clip from newspapers and magazines and paste on their desk corners or on the wall near where they work?

In our cruising about town we have come across some of the world's greatest poems, paragraphs, examples of humor, prayers and other inspirational literature, all under glass desk tops, glued on walls and desk corners.

Mrs. Ethel Floyd has about the largest collection of clippings we have found. She keeps them over her work table in the back of her gift shop. They include Lambone's Meditations, a Prayer, cartoons taken from the funny papers and poems clipped from newspapers and magazines. We selected one at random. It was a saying of Andy Gump of the funny paper: "WELL—there is one thing that nature has never been known to grant to one individual—and that is—COMMON SENSE all the way through—somewhere everyone is weak. We all have our faults. And again the old question arises: WHO LOSES ALL THE FAULTS THAT OUR NEIGHBORS FIND?"

Kermit R. Carr has the inside of his tellers' cage at the Sea Island Bank covered with clippings. His collection, like Mrs. Floyd's, includes a prayer. Pointing to one of the clippings he said: "There is one poem that I always glance at when I feel myself getting hot under the collar and some customer comes in and doesn't help matters and I find myself relaxing and able to greet the customer with a smile."

"A lot depends on you
On what you say or do,
On every move you make
And every step you take,
You're only one 't' true
But much depends on you."

Remember that your smile
Lights up the world awhile,
The others feel cast down
Because they see your frown,
And just your friendly touch
Can often mean so much.

Oh, you can every day
Strew roses on life's way.
Or, if you choose, impart
Deep sorrow in one heart.
Be careful what you do—
So much depends on you."

George Johnston keeps Shakespeare under his glass desk top, so get your volume of Shakespeare down and you have an idea of what his desk top looks like.

Dr. J. H. Whiteside keeps his collection of clippings out in the reception room of his office. He has a burlap bulletin board and we copied this poem written by his knowledge: "Count your garden by the flowers;
Never by the leaves that fall.
Count your days by the golden hours;
Don't remember the clouds at all.
Count your nights by stars, not shadows;
Count your life with smiles, not tears;
Count your age by friends, not years."

C. B. McAllister is keeping a scrap book. He finds things he likes and slips them under his desk top and then when his desk becomes covered he takes some of the clippings out and carries them home and puts them in his scrap book. He likes Goldsmith, "The Deserted Village."

"Aid slighted truth, with thy persuasive strain,
Teach erring man to spurn the rage of gain;
Teach him that states of native strength passeth,
Tho' very poor may still be very best;
That trade's proud empire hastes to swift decay
As ocean sweeps the labour'd mole away;
While self dependent power can time defy,
As rocks resist the billows and the sky!"

And just in case you're interested our favorite is:
"And there were three men went down the road
As down the road went he—
The man they saw, the man he was
And the man he wanted to be."

Don't remember the clouds at all.
Count your nights by stars, not shadows;
Count your life with smiles, not tears;
Count your age by friends, not years."

C. B. McAllister is keeping a scrap book. He finds things he likes and slips them under his desk top and then when his desk becomes covered he takes some of the clippings out and carries them home and puts them in his scrap book. He likes Goldsmith, "The Deserted Village."

"Aid slighted truth, with thy persuasive strain,
Teach erring man to spurn the rage of gain;
Teach him that states of native strength passeth,
Tho' very poor may still be very best;
That trade's proud empire hastes to swift decay
As ocean sweeps the labour'd mole away;
While self dependent power can time defy,
As rocks resist the billows and the sky!"

And just in case you're interested our favorite is:
"And there were three men went down the road
As down the road went he—
The man they saw, the man he was
And the man he wanted to be."

GROWERS ADVISED TO PILE TOBACCO HIGHER

According to a statement made by all three of the warehousemen on the Statesboro Tobacco Market, R. E. Sheppard, W. E. Cobb and H. P. Foxhall, the tobacco companies who buy tobacco on the Georgia markets prefer the tobacco on the baskets in weights of 100 pounds up to 400 lbs. The warehousemen advise all the growers to pack their tobacco so that it will pile up on the baskets to weigh more than one hundred pounds, but a single thought in the whole Statesboro region. They are 'tobacco' and 'prosperity'.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MOTORCADE CALLS AT MANY TOWNS IN THIS SECTION TO BOOST STATESBORO TOBACCO MARKET

It isn't stretching the truth much to say there are only two words and but a single thought in the whole Statesboro region. They are 'tobacco' and 'prosperity'.

The farmers are fully prepared for the opening of the markets tomorrow (Thursday). The greater part of the crop is cured and the weed is grading out the best in years.

Leaving Statesboro on Wednesday morning of last week and swinging through Bryan, Evans, Tattnall, Emanuel, Candler, Toombs counties, a Statesboro Chamber of Commerce motortrade carried the message of the Statesboro tobacco market. More than 30 automobiles left here, including a truck with a band.

Stopping at each town along the route, members of the motortrade made talks and issued an invitation to come to Statesboro for the opening exercises and the dedication address of a new warehouse by Governor Rivers yesterday afternoon (Tuesday) at 4 o'clock.

R. E. Sheppard, W. E. Cobb and H. P. Foxhall, the local warehousemen, were introduced at each stop. Colonel Hinton Booth and Colonel Albert M. Deal were spokesmen for the delegation.

There is genuine enthusiasm over the tobacco crop prospects. Confidence of a sustained upswing is based on the prediction of warehousemen that the price is certain to be good.

A PROMISE TO GOD

Oh God wilt thou forgive me,
Or need I ask you to?
I know that I've been sinful,
I know I've been untrue.

But God if you'll forgive,
Again I promise true,
That my life I shall live,
From this day on for you.

Now a little prayer—me strong,
Please God to make me strong,
To overcome this weakness,
That makes all men do wrong.

Ga. Flue-Cured Tobacco Yield To Be Best In Years

JULY 1 CROP REPORT SHOWS A 23 PERCENT INCREASE IN ACREAGE OF FLUE-CURED TOBACCO

Georgia's flue-cured tobacco yield based on conditions as of July 1, is indicated at slightly more than 1,000 pounds per acre, according to estimates of the Georgia Crop Reporting Service. The estimated yield of 1,001 pounds per acre would be the highest in history.

The July 1 crop report, issued recently, showed a 23 per cent increase in acreage of flue-cured tobacco and an estimated increase in production of 32 per cent over last year. This year's acreage is 99,200, compared to 80,600 acres for 1937. Also, the 1937 production was 75,013,000 pounds, while the estimated 1938 production is 99,200,000 pounds.

D. L. Floyd, chief statistician said in his report from Athens that the 1938 crop acreage is about the same as last year, with the decreased cotton acreage being offset by substantial increased plantings of some other main crops. No estimate of the cotton crop will be made until the August crop report.

"During the early part of the season," the report stated, "protracted dry weather in the southeastern part of the state caused crops to make rather poor progress, but general rains in late May and early June came in time to avoid serious damage. Practically all of South Georgia had received sufficient moisture through July 1, and prospects were reported generally good for most crops.

"In the northern part of the state conditions were less favorable, due to excessive rains during most of June. Crops had suffered somewhat from lack of cultivation, and, in extreme northwest Georgia, considerable bottom land had not been plowed up to the latter part of June. Since July 1, however, hot, dry weather has prevailed over most of the state, and food and feed crops, especially, are needing rain in many areas."

Hospital Care Plan Committee Meet

THE POINT THAT THE ORGANIZATION WILL BE STRICTLY LOCAL AND NON-PROFIT.

The committee working on the Hospital Insurance plan for Bulloch county, at its meeting Thursday night, voted to present the completed plan to the board of trustees of the Bulloch County Hospital, and to the Bulloch County Medical Society for their approval.

According to Dr. C. M. Dentler, chairman of the special committee, the plan, which is being prepared by the committee on hospital insurance, and the committee on hospital service of the American Hospital Association.

A publicity committee was named at the meeting Thursday night to promote the plan.

Dr. Dentler made a statement in which he stressed the fact that the Bulloch County Hospital Service Association will be strictly a local organization, operated on a non-profit basis. He stated that all the organization, promotional, educational and enrollment work will be done on a voluntary basis. Because of this, the membership fees will be low enough to permit families of low income to join the association and enjoy the benefits of the plan.

The committee will meet again tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

State Weed Quota Announced by AAA

553 POUNDS OF TOBACCO MAY BE MARKETED IN THE STATE WITHOUT PAYMENT OF TAX.

South Georgia tobacco growers feared yesterday they may market 71,033,000 pounds of their 1938 crop without payment of penalty taxes.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration at Washington announced this marketing quota for Georgia's share of a national quota of 780,000,000 pounds.

Estimates made by the Georgia Crop Reporting Service at Athens recently indicated a production of 99,200,000 pounds of bright leaf this season.

This would leave 28,215,000 pounds outside the quota, which could be sold only upon payment of a penalty tax of 50 per cent of the market price, with a minimum tax of 3 cents a pound.

AAA officials hope the effect of the quota will be to force low grade tobacco off the market, with farmers selling good quality leaf at higher average prices.

The national quota was fixed after the national Crop Reporting Bureau estimated total production would reach 801,700,000 pounds. AAA officials at Washington at that time were quoted as saying if the crop reached such proportions, a large share of it would be outside the quota.

Other state quotas announced today were Virginia, 65,458,000 pounds; North Carolina, 48,578,000; South Carolina, 84,302,000; Florida, 11,007,000 and Alabama 420,000.

Miss F.H. Out Cards

The first test of the actual application of marketing quotas will come in Florida and Georgia July 28, when the 1938 auctions begin. In the mean time, AAA employees in both states are working to break down the state quotas into individual allotments, so that each grower may dispose of his tax-free share of the highest.

At Athens, AAA officials said they were working day and night to get an effort to get out individual allotment cards to growers. It was hoped to have these cards out by the opening day.

They said 25,000 cards were necessary this year, the total swelled by 8,000 new growers marketing this year.

Poundage allotments by counties in Georgia were not available, the triple A explaining that individual quotas were being worked out to keep the state total within the allotment.

Georgia's quota is 8,470,530 pounds less than actual sales in 1937, when buyers paid $15,750,510 for 79,528,580 pounds, according to records of the State Department of Agriculture.

In only five previous years has the total production reached as much as the marketing quota fixed for 1938. Those years, production and approximate average prices were:

1928, 82,877,835 pounds, sold for $10,504,765; 12 1-2c.

1930, 108,305,150; sold for $10,767,000; 10 1-4c.

1936, 88,299,126; sold for $17,670,567; 22 1-4c.

1937, 79,528,580; sold for $15,870,510; 19 1-2c.

Back in 1932 the crop dropped to 11,599,767 pounds, largely on account of blue mold, but climbed steadily through 1936.

Other Years—

Records for other years follow:

1931, 58,536,984; sold for $3,751,545; 6 1-2c.

1933, 59,288,407; sold for $6,125,047; 10 1-4c.

1934, 33,318,086; sold for $6,642,562; 19 1-2c.

Previously the tobacco crop in Georgia had been at $10,000 per acre, but for $80,000 in 1937, increasing fairly steadily with each season.

Committee Draws By-Laws For Hospital Care Plan

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following are the suggested by-laws contained in the report to the organizing committee on the hospital care insurance plan. These by-laws are subject to the approval of the various civic and community organizations of the county and before they can be incorporated in a workable plan will be approved by the members of the hospital service association, and the state insurance commissioner and others.

THE BULLOCH COUNTY HOSPITAL SERVICE ASSOCIATION

(Suggested By-Laws)
1. The Bulloch County Hospital Service Association, incorporated by the Superior Court of the Ogeechee Circuit under the laws of the State of Georgia, is a non-profit organization established to provide hospital service to its members in return for dues paid.
2. The Bulloch County Hospital Service Association shall be governed by a Board of (to be determined) Trustees, subject to instructions given it by the members of the Association at their annual meeting.

3. The Trustees of the Bulloch County Hospital Service Association shall include the trustees of the Bulloch County Hospital, one representative from each additional hospital under contract to the Association, and Trustees elected by the members at their annual meeting.
A majority of the Trustees shall always be trustees or directors of participating hospitals. One trustee shall always be a practicing physician. The other Trustees shall be elected from the members of the Association. Elected Trustees shall hold office for three years and be elected by the members at their annual meetings. In case of interim vacancies, the Board of Trustees are empowered to elect temporary Trustees to serve until the next annual meeting of the Association.

4. The Trustees shall compensate participating hospitals for services rendered to the Association members in cash after such services have been completed, periodically in accordance with agreements concluded with the Association. All such compensation shall be limited to the services listed in the contracts made by the Association with participating hospitals and with members of the Association.
5. The books and records of the Association shall be subject to inspection by the State Insurance Commissioner, the State Welfare Department, and subscribing members at any time.

6. At the end of each twelve months the Trustees shall submit a detailed report of the activities of the Association to the members at their annual meeting, and a financial report whose accuracy is attested by a competent auditor.
7. The Treasurer of the Association shall be placed under a fiduciary bond with corporate security for the proper handling of the funds of the Association.
8. The finances of the Association shall at all times be kept separate from the general budgets of the participating hospitals.
9. Employees of the Association shall be reimbursed by salary. No commissions shall be paid for the sale of memberships, nor shall any private sales organization be paid a percentage of premiums for promotion or the sale of memberships.

10. Money subscribed by individuals, hospitals, or organizations to provide initial working capital for the first six months' operation of the Association shall be repaid only out of earned income, over and above operating expenses, payments to participating hospitals and legal reserve. No interest shall be paid on such funds nor shall subscribers to the initial working capital of the Association be regarded as its stockholders.

11. Hospitals under contract with the Association must first be approved by the County Medical Society concerned as being properly equipped and staffed to render the hospital services required.
12. The terms of contracts between the Association and its participating hospitals, and between the Association and subscribing members must be approved by the medical society of the county concerned.

13. Participating hospitals shall sign contracts providing for uniform services and must be compensated equally for equal services rendered to members of the Association. All hospitals under contract to the Association shall be subject to the supervision of the State Department of Public Welfare. In case this Department withdraws its approval from a hospital under contract with the Association, the contract may be immediately terminated by the Association, and the State Insurance Commissioner and others.

14. The area to be served by the Bulloch County Hospital Service Association shall include Bulloch County and those neighboring counties within a radius of fifty miles whose medical facilities are inadequate in relation with the Association, subject to approval by the Trustees of the Bulloch County Hospital Service Association.

15. Under no circumstances shall the activities of the Association interfere with existing relations between physicians and hospitals or between physicians and patients.
16. Members shall be solicited by official field representatives of the Association, duly accredited by the Association. With the exception of salaried employees, these representatives shall receive no compensation for their services.
17. Members of the Association shall be free to select any one of the participating hospitals and to utilize the services of any of the practicing physicians using the local hospitals of the counties participating.

In case the hospital selected is filled up to capacity, the member may select any other participating hospital. Should none of the participating hospitals have available space, the Association will refund double the annual dues of the member or the member in question, or contribute to the care of such cases in non-member hospitals at the rate of $4 per day for private service and $5.50 per day for private room service, up to a minimum of 21 days per year including services rendered in participating hospitals, in accordance with the contracts with the member or members in question.
In the case of members whose business takes them outside of the area served by the Association, hospitalization resulting from accidents or other emergencies will be cared for on the same terms.

18. No membership contract shall become effective until after thirty days from the date on which application for membership shall have been approved by the Trustees or by any committee that they designate for the purpose. The effective date of the contract shall be placed on the membership card issued to each member by the Association.
19. Except in case of serious injury or similar emergency, no member shall enjoy the privileges guaranteed by his contract with the Association unless a physician's recommendation that he be admitted to one of the participating hospitals be secured in advance of each admission to a hospital for care.
20. The plan of hospital care insurance adopted by the Association shall be submitted for approval to the following agencies before it goes into effect:
1. The organizations represented on the general organizing committee.
2. The county medical societies concerned.
3. The trustees of hospitals participating in the plan.
4. The State Insurance Commissioner.
5. The Committee on Hospital Service of the American Hospital Association.
21. The plan of hospital care insurance adopted by the Association shall not go into effect until 500 contracts have been signed. Until that date no liabilities may be incurred by the Association, nor any expenditures may be made from the initial working capital subscribed by interested individuals and organizations. Should the minimum number of contracts not be secured all money subscribed shall be returned to subscribing members.

New Rules For Drivers Licenses

Commissioner of Safety Phil Brewster announced rules and regulations for revocation and suspension of driver's licenses this week. These rules become effective immediately as provided in the driver's license act of the 1937 General Assembly.

"I have laid down these rules only after careful consideration of the causes of accidents on the streets and highways," he said. "It has taken some time to educate the drivers on how to prevent their licenses from being suspended or revoked, but I am sure every driver will see the advisability of this plan through which the permit to drive can be suspended," Brewster said.

Actions for which the license revocation will be mandatory include hit and run, driving under influence of liquor, using car in escape or commission of felony, failure to report any accident in which is $50.00 or more or in which injury or death has resulted, and removing car from accident scene before investigation in any accident in this category.

Violations of the rules laid down by Commissioner Brewster would in most cases also be a violation of state traffic laws. Some of the rules, however, are in addition to existing statutes and were promulgated by Commissioner Brewster after studying accident causes.

Discretionary suspension of the license by the courts or Commissioner of Safety will result from reckless driving, which is defined generally as driving without regard for the safety, rights and privileges of others; failure to stop for a school bus loading or unloading; passing through school zone faster than 25 miles per hour; parking in highway; failure to dim lights when within 300 yards of approaching cars; use of possession of siren by unauthorized persons; failure to stop when signalled by officer; driving with brakes that will stop in less than 120 feet from forty miles per hour; driving without two head-lights, tail lights; persistent disregard of warning tickets issued by the troopers; driving without adequate rear view mirror; driving with more than

Home Clubs Hold Annual Picnic

Extension Swine Specialist Jones Purcell reports from Tifton that a much larger number of entries are being fed out this year for the ton titler show to be held in Savannah September. He says 4-H club members, as well as other swine producers, have plenty of feed on hand and all indications point toward a much larger and better quality show than the 1937 event. Some 500 hogs have already been entered for the 1938 show, with 37 entries of ton titlers and 11 entries in the pens and single barrow classes. Preparations are in charge of the Savannah Livestock Development Committee.

H. W. Harvey, Georgia Agricultural Extension Service horticulturist in charge, reports that 200 four-H club members representing 36 counties are participating in the Home Beautification Contest being sponsored by the Georgia 4-H club department. Despite dry weather in some sections and other obstacles elsewhere he declares that much progress is being shown by most of the contestants. He urges all 4-H club members in the state to get busy with their home beautification work, and to have their homes ready for final judging by the contest judges.

The legal profession lost a protective new member several years ago when Carol Posey enrolled in a CCC camp assigned to the Soil Conservation Service at Villa Rica. Before enrolling in the camp, Posey studied law for a year at college. But work in the camp aroused interests in a different sort. He found forestry such a fascinating study that he decided to make it his life work. With the aid of funds saved during enrollment in the camp, Posey returned to college in 1936. This fall he will enroll for his senior year at North Carolina State College, and he expects to enter forestry work when his college training is completed.

Georgia's increasing number of Sea Island cotton growers will be given additional help through the services of G. Jenkins, who has been entrusted jointly by the United States Bureau of Plant Industry, the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service, the Georgia experiment stations, and the State Board of Entomology. He has already reported for duty, and is making his headquarters at the Coastal Plain Experiment Station in Tifton. County Agents have been called upon to furnish Mr. Jenkins with the number of acres planted to the long-staple Sea Island, or black seed, cotton in each county this year, so that the work can be planned.

Private creditors are showing no reluctance to invest funds in farm mortgages, having extended over $100 million of such credit in the 12 months ended April 1, 1934, compared with $642,017,000 for the preceding 12 months. W. L. Hyers, governor of the Farm Credit Administration, who gave these figures in a recent statement, said total farm mortgage financing during the recent period was made up of 40% credits, including the Federal land bank commission, aggregated $749,855,000. While the amount of mortgages taken by individuals and commercial banks declined slightly during the first three months of this year, as compared with the 1931 first quarter, the volume of such loans was offset by insurance companies continued increase, being 15 per cent above the 1931 total, and more than three times as high in 1934.

Home Clubs Hold Annual Picnic

More than 150 members of the Home Demonstration Club of the local county met at the steel bridge on Thursday for their annual picnic. There are nine clubs in the county under the directorship of Miss David C. Reynolds, home demonstration agent. Representatives were at the picnic from all nine clubs. At the picnic each club under the leadership of its president presented a program, with prizes going to the three best presented. The last program was given by the West Side club directed by Mrs. W. S. Smith, president. New Castle won second and Warnock, third. The judges were Miss Francis Shelton, Miss Edna Greer and Miss Dorothy Potts. The other clubs represented are: Keveland, New Castle, New Castle, New Castle, Ivanhoe, West Side, Lechee and Warnock.

County agricultural agents all over the state have joined in the intensive campaign to determine whether the white-fringed beetle is infesting Georgia crops.

Director Walter S. Brown, of the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service, who has branded the pest as a "major agricultural threat to every farmer in the South," this week urged all farmers and 4-H club members to go to the lookout for the beetle.

Mr. Brown said the campaign to control the white-fringed beetle is being carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service and the State Department of Entomology. Intensive scouting for the beetle is being done by inspectors of the Department of Entomology and Vocational meetings, at which a motion picture of the white-fringed beetle is shown, are being held throughout the state in conjunction with county agricultural agents.

Georgia farmers are asked to report all suspicious-looking beetles to their county agent, or to the Extension Service in Athens, or to Manning Yeomans, State Entomologist, at State Capitol, Atlanta, Georgia.

The Extension director said that the native of South America has been found in four southern areas of the United States. While damage to crops in this country has been localized to date, he added, the insect is capable of causing serious damage to field, garden and truck crops.

Mr. Brown declared the first specimens of the white-fringed beetle in the United States were reported from the Orange County, Fla., in 1938. Since that time they have been found in isolated sections of Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Florida. One beetle has been found in The county, Georgia.

"The adult beetle," the Extension director explained, "is approximately one-half inch in length and about six to eight mill across the abdomen. Its color is dark gray with a lighter color along the margins of its elytra. The body is densely covered with hairs."

"The adult beetle," he continued, "has been known to attack and sometimes to almost completely destroy plants of cotton, peanuts, sweet potatoes, garden crops, and many other crops. However, the most of its damage is in the soil as a root feeder, which feeds extensively on the roots of plants, such as corn, cotton, nuts, tobacco, potatoes, cane, as clovers, other crops and weeds."

LEGGERS

A committee consisting of nine licensed liquor dealers in Bulloch county appeared before the county commissioners when they met in regular session Tuesday of last week.

The spokesmen of the committee stated that they were protesting against the low fines which the county was imposing upon those who had been convicted for violating the liquor laws of the state. He added that the committee imposed recommendations of $25 and $50.

The fine was between $25 and $50. He pointed out that there were two of three fines of $100 and $50 but very few that high. The case of the negro woman which was fined $415 was pointed out as being unable to pay the fine and was taken to the county jail.

The fine was made in the meeting that this was "an example case" made in an attempt to scare the bootleggers.

It came out in the meeting that he came out in the meeting that the bootleggers were not going to pay them and make a fine of $100 of the fine in one or two Saturday nights operations. "If we must pay almost $500 a year to do our business legally, then we must have some protection, we must have competition. There are few such businesses in other business, why can't we have protection in a business which is illegal?" asked one member of the committee.

The committee was high in its praise of the state and county officers in being able to get the bootleggers, but their complaint is when the offenders are brought before the court they are released on the payment of low fines.

As for the commissioners, Chairman Frank H. Jones, stated that there were two ways to meet about a change in the situation: to see that the cases are tried in another court or for a committee of the dealers appear before the Grand Jury and ask their case and ask for protection.

The first term of the 1938 summer session at the Teachers College closed Friday at last week. The 1938 session was by far the largest ever held.

With 526 teachers enrolled the first term opened June 15. A checkup on the figures given out from the various schools in the state reveal that the college here is the largest summer session in the state from the standpoint of enrollment. The growth in enrollment at the college has been steady for the past five years. In 1936 the college proudly proclaimed that six hundred and twelve teachers were in attendance. In 1937 the figures jumped to seven hundred forty-four. This summer session enrolled slightly two more than the 1937 session. Of the eight hundred twenty here this summer, six hundred thirty eight are women and one hundred eighty eight men. Last year at the first summer session ninety three counties and six states were represented, this summer one hundred ten counties and six states are represented. The counties leading in enrollment this summer in order are, Bulloch, Laurens, Emanuel, Tattnall, Toombs, Candler, Evans, Screven, Chatham and Ware.

President Marvin S. Pittman stated the last session was one of the most successful ever conducted by the college. He explained there was much enthusiasm among the teachers enrolled and serious study was in evidence.

Marketing Quota Cards At County Agent's Office

COUNTY AGENT SAYS QUOTA CARDS ARE AVAILABLE AT OFFICE—WILL NOT BE MAILED OUT

According to a statement made this week by Byron Dyer, county agent, final tobacco marketing quota cards are available to Bulloch county farmers in the county agent's office.

Time cards are not being mailed out, since most of the Bulloch grown tobacco is being sold locally.

Indications are that the allotted poundage will not be sufficient to take care of all the tobacco grown in 1938 but it is going to permit the majority of the tobacco of quality tobacco to be marketed free of penalties.

Mr. Dyer states that this should work with tobacco just as in the case of watermelons, potatoes and other crops. When the cut watermelons start selling in competition with quality stuff it tends to effect the price of these products adversely. This is about the same situation in tobacco.

When it is not possible for a farmer to sell all the tobacco he produces, naturally he is going to sell the best, or highest priced tobacco first and then if there is any poundage left on his quota card he will take up the quota with the inferior grades.

"WE NEED MEN LIKE SEN. GEORGE"

The mails brought to us this week another letter from Mr. J. M. Burgess of San Angelo, Texas, a former citizen of Bulloch county. Mr. Burgess still takes an active interest in the affairs of our county. His first letter threw new light on the Burton's Ferry Route. Mr. Burgess' second letter gives an interesting sidelight on the recent election in the state of Texas when W. Lee O'Daniels was nominated for the office of Governor. His letter follows:

"I want to express to my friends in Bulloch and surrounding counties the wish that they work for and vote for Senator Walter F. George as democratic nominee. There never was a time in the history of our country that we so need such men as Senator George and Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina, as now.

"On Saturday, July 23, the state of Texas had the most phenomenal and thrilling election in the entire history of the state. There were thirteen candidates seeking the nomination for the office of governor.

"W. Lee O'Daniels, Fort Worth hill billy radio flour salesman entered the race about eight weeks ago. When he announced all the politicians considered it a joke. He traveled all over the state taking with him his hill billy band and the people flocked to hear him. In the city of Houston he had the largest crowd ever gathered there, being larger than the one gathered for the Democratic National Convention when Al Smith was nominated. When the votes were counted W. Lee O'Daniels received more than all the other twelve candidates combined.

"The southwest has had good rains and it looks like an enormous crop is going to be made. Out in New Mexico there is cotton that will produce two bales to the acre. My guess for the 1938 crop is 14 million bales."

We believe that we can assure Mr. Burgess that the people of Georgia know Senator George for what he is—a sane, courageous, and clear-thinking statesman known throughout the nation for his devotion to the principles of democratic government, and ever on the alert to safeguard the interests of his state.

For 16 years he has gained experience in the Senate. For 16 years he has risen in committee influence and in the confidence of his party. Today his standing in the nation justifies Georgia's pride in him. Senator George has our support because he has our confidence. In his 16 years of senatorial experience he has never compromised with principle or betrayed the people who named him to one of their highest offices.

We agree with Mr. Burgess—Senator George has brought high distinction to his party and this state. Georgia will keep him where he is—where men of his unquestioned ability and unchallenged integrity were never more needed than now.

"TWO WHOOPS AND A HOLLER"

Months ago we began plugging for marking the streets of Statesboro with proper identifying signs. Recently the writer of "Round Town" in the Bulloch Times brought up the subject again.

There is a saying that is used so much that its effectiveness may be lost at times—"It's the little things that count"—street signs showing the street name and whether, north, south, east or west.

Have you ever asked directions in the hills of Tennessee. Try and get somewhere following the direction—"two whoops and a holler." Can we really say Statesboro is progressive when we cannot be really sure of the name of the street we may find ourselves on except the street on which we live? Let's identify our streets!

A REAL ASSET

Last week we saw a man who had never hit a golf ball in his life take a club in his hand and with a natural easy swing hit one with all the grace of a professional.

We will bet our bottom dollar that man will become a golf enthusiast.

With work progressing on the golf course of the Statesboro Country Club interest in the club is increasing here.
Two tennis courts are practically completed. The fairways on the golf course are being sodded now. The contract was let and work began last week. Those who have seen the course are very enthusiastic about it. When the course is finished it will prove a definite benefit to the city.

CONGRATULATIONS to the city for providing parking space for the tobacco farmers who are selling their weed on the local market. A large area in front of the warehouses has been cleared and made available for parking space, making it possible for the tobacco grower to park his car, truck or wagon while his tobacco is being sold. Everything possible should be done to attract and make his stay in Statesboro as pleasant as possible.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

KNOW WHO IS RUNNING YOUR GOVERNMENT?

Along about election time there is much talk about our public officers but when you step up to the average citizen and ask him to name the public officials elected by the vote of the people he can't tell you for whom he cast his vote.

The Atlanta Journal last week conducted a little "snoop" campaign. The snooper went about asking John Q. Public to name his state, county and city officials. He found that the average voted "batted" about 500, which is to say that he knows about half the names of the elective job holders.

Taking our cue from the Journal we nominated our own "unofficial snooper" and scouted hither and yon and caused untold mental anguish to the victims of our inquisition. A college professor hummed and hawed and batted about 500 on the state officers. He did fairly well on the county officers and not so good on the city officers.

A druggist established a high, being able to name every state, county and city official except the chairman of the Georgia Public Service Commission.

A public utility man, not a native of Statesboro, scored high on the state officials but could not name from memory all of the county and city officers.

A furniture dealer named eight of the 10 principal state officers and scored 100 on the county and city.

A college student was able to name only four of the state officials and missed eleven of the thirty-three county and city officers.

A member of the "court yard assembly" not only could name all the state officers, county and city officers but could name every candidate now campaigning for the state offices.

A farmer was unable to name but three of the state officers but could name all the city and county officers with the exception of the city attorney.

Of the twenty-five people interviewed at random, the majority are familiar with the local elective job holders, but admitted ignorance of the 11 state public officials asked.

You say it's easy. Is it? Try and name the holders of the following public offices.

STATE: U. S. Senate, 2, Governor, Secretary of State, Comptroller General, State Treasurer, Attorney General, Commissioner of Labor, State School Superintendent, Chairman of the Public Service Commission and Congressman from the First District.

COUNTY: Commissioners, 3, Ordinary, Sheriff, Clerk, Tax Collector, Tax Receiver, Solicitor General (Superior Court), County Surveyor, County School Superintendent, Coroner, Judge Superior Court, Judge of City Court, State Senator, Representatives (2), and Solicitor of City Court.

CITY: Mayor, Clerk, City Attorney, Building Inspector, Councilmen (5), Board of Education (5).

ROAMING REPORTER IS FOUND AFTER LONG SEARCH

SPECIAL NOTICE

To the thousands, and thousands, and thousands, millions? . . . of inquiring subscribers who were in during the past spring to learn the whereabouts of our erstwhile Roaming Reporter we are inditing this little note. When our Roamer roamed off the last time about March, it was our understanding that the army of fertilizer salesmen from the various enemy camps had gotten his range and were shelling his dugouts with disastrous results. For weeks on end the only contacts we were able to establish with him tended to bear out our understanding of the situation and were made while on the run. Even after the season was supposed to have passed and news of the battle front kept drifting in that our R. R. had inflicted about as much damage on the enemy camp as they had on his, we learned that he was still slipping about hither and won, furiously and secretly, that he was so engrossed with the matters claiming his attention he forgot his lovely passenger until he passed Middleground school, whereupon he promptly brought her home to the college and apologized most profusely to Miss Vandy. However, one never can tell what kind of story competitors like John Tillman and Bruce Atkins will tell, and we did not print anything about it at all.

Just this week it developed that all his hurried travelling about the community clubs had to do with a dress-making contest our Roaming Reporter was sponsoring in which the materials for the dresses consisted of fertilizer bags used by his company to hold their product. And it was a fetching sight the winners of the two first prizes, Miss Mary Forbes of the Denmark club and Miss Leonora Whiteside made as they literally stole the show with their original and lovely costumes all the week at the tobacco opening.

Miss Forbes, whose father, Walter Forbes, is an extensive grower of tobacco designed her costume as Miss Gold Standard, which is the Mutual Co's highly featured tobacco brand, while Miss Whiteside appeared in a most becoming peasant costume as Miss Mutual. As guests of our Roaming Reporter they were entertained at the Tea Pot for dinner, accompanied by Miss Elvy Maxwell, county home demonstrator, and Horace McPherson, photographer, including one with His Honor, Gov. Ed. Rivers.

Thursday they visited the Metter market, where they attracted almost as much attention as Senator George, with whom they were also photographed. Thursday, we understand, they were dinner guests of Mr. Ellis, president of the Mutual Fertilizer Co., who presented both young ladies with a nice box of Nunnally's candy.

Our Roaming Reporter says he got a grand kick out of the whole program and has asked us to thank the kind christian friend who was so nice. Estimating Georgia tobacco average over the country with a car load of pretty girls. He says he had been trying to get his wife home from the mountains of North Carolina for a month without success but that it is only took that wire to bring her home P. D. G. on Thursday evening. And with that explanation we hope you can all rest better henceforth and we are assuring our Roamer that he can come home now as all is forgiven.

Joshua Everett Honored On 87th Birthday

Historic old Lake Church in Candlerville was the scene Sunday of a reunion of the descendants of the late Jehu Everett and his wife, Pore Jones Everett. Saturday, July 30, was the birthday of Mr. Joshua Everett, son of Jehu Everett. The reunion was held on the Sunday nearest Mr. Everett's birthday so that he might be honored on his 87th birthday.

Tables and benches were placed under the moss-covered trees and a beautiful basket dinner was served. After dinner with Eason Everett, of Dublin acting as chairman, the descendants present formed a permanent organization and all agreed to meet each year. John Everett of Statesboro was elected permanent chairman. Mr. Joshua Everett, who, though 87 years old, retains the vigor and splendid physique of earlier days, paid a tender tribute to his deceased wife, Jennie Dekle Everett, and recalled briefly the log cabin in which they lived for four years until he "decided he could build a better house," and he related some of the interesting family history. Later in the afternoon they went into the nearby church and sang songs that were dear to the old patriarch's heart and the group was dismissed by prayer led by Elder Henry Waters of Claxton.

There were about 80 people present. Those attending the reunion from Statesboro were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williams and son Frank; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Aldred Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Walter Aldred Jr., Miss Eunice Lester, Hamp Lester, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lester Sr., Mr. and Mrs. R. F. All's Fair...

We hadn't realized that little Albert and Ann McDougald were making history when they arrived at the Bulloch County Hospital but we have since learned that they are the first twins born there. . . . Orelida to Baby Linda Bean who had a birthday Saturday July 30th and was a whole year old.

We wondered why Imman Foy Jr. grinned so broadly these days, but there's no mystery about it any longer, for we have since learned that the lucky chap was presented with a baseball by the manager of the Savannah team autographed with all the names of the ball players. . . . We like to see our friends being recognized as they travel around and when Jimmie Morris proudly displayed a kodak picture of himself made with Jack Dempsey, we held it sorter reverently until—but that is Jimmie's secret.

There's also that group of women who went from here to a political rally and had their pictures made on the speakers stand and ever since Jack Murphy has been looking in the comic section of the Saturday Evening Post for said picture. . . . That's all right, Jack, but we understand those same ladies were entertained at a mighty good dinner.

Remembrance struck right in the midst of Alfred Dorman's house party. As Alfred Merle waits at Dover to meet Mary Burdell of Atlanta, a telegram arrived here saying, "On account of my marriage I won't be able to be with you"—And so the five some became a foursome.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bean, Mr. and Mrs. Imman Foy and Imman Foy Jr. went to see the ball game in Savannah Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Gus Newton of Millen visited Mrs. Bernard McDougald Monday.

Miss Elizabeth Watkins of Rome is visiting Misses Marguerite and Jessie Neville.

This fall will see a Home Economics course included in the courses of study at the High School for the first time in a number of years. The Board of Education is to be congratulated in offering it again to the girls of Statesboro.

We would like to see next a commercial course offered. The advantages and benefits that such an addition to the High School curriculum are too obvious to enumerate.

Mr. S. H. Sherman, the new superintendent of the Statesboro Public Schools, asked a question at this week's Rotary meeting: "How many of you men here today have had to use the Latin or French you learned at high school in your business? How many of you have used the Algebra you studied in high school to work out a problem in your business?" The boys given at that meeting indicate the need of courses in high school that our young people can put their teeth in—typewriting, bookkeeping, business arithmetic manual training, agriculture.

A great number of high school graduates do not get to go off to college. These who do not should be given an opportunity to study something they can use when they finish high school. And what course could be of more use than a commercial course? Let it be next?

"SERVICE ABOVE SELF"

At its meeting this week the Statesboro Rotary Club announced its intentions of setting up a student loan fund to help young people without the necessary funds secure a college education.

This fund as planned by the Rotary Club will be administered solely for the benefit of Statesboro and Bulloch county youths and loans will be restricted absolutely to those who cannot obtain a college or university education without help. A committee of Rotarians will be named to administer the fund.

Definite work of this kind by a civic organization will develop a solidarity of purpose and unity of action, and stabilize its ideals of service. The opportunities to serve are all around us and no matter what our resources are the demand will not be met. If a report should become current that there was a large treasure buried in our community we would dig the place to pieces in an effort to find it. There are richer jewels than any material treasure hid away in humble homes that can be found and developed and marketed with very little effort. And it is a significant fact that as we grow older it is the acts of service that we have rendered to others along the way that we will remember with the most pleasure.

We do not know of a greater service that can be done in a community than the one the local Rotary Club is planning with its Student Loan Fund. Here is a real application of the club's motto, "Service Above Self."

THE IVANHOE COMMUNITY CLUB
Statesboro cannot claim all the organizations for community improvement and promotion in Bulloch County.

There is the Ivanhoe Community Club which has received wide recognition for the promotion of the welfare of the people of its section of the county.

The club was organized on July 4, 1932. In

A news item of a Negro taxi driver who was unable to work for a time because of illness. He obtained $50 from a government relief agency to tide him over. Now he is back at work, and is trying to return the money. When it was pointed out to him that he was not legally obligated to do this, he observed that "that was the way I'm raised—and that's the way I'm raising my child."

A great many other Americans can learn a lesson from this Negro taxi driver. One of the most ominous portents on the horizon is the fact that thousands of people have apparently come to look on relief as a "profession." They plan to make it their "life work." Productive jobs in private industry hold no attraction for them, when they can take it easy at the taxpayers' expense. They figure someone owes them a living.

This isn't a criticism of those people who have turned to relief only as a last resort, and are eager to get off the rolls as soon as opportunity for a real job comes along. Nor is it a criticism of relief per se. The hungry must be fed, the homeless sheltered, the clothed clothed. Honest beneficiaries of relief aggressively seek real employment. SEATED TEA EVENT OF WEDNESDAY

A social affair characterized by beauty in music and a lovely musical program was the seated tea given by Mrs. R. G. Fleetwood and Mrs. G. C. Hitt on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the latter on South Main Street.

A variety of garden flowers were exquisitely arranged in bowls and in vases beautifully decorated the living room, library and dining room where small tables were placed to accommodate the seventy five guests who were present. A dainty salad course and an iced beverage were served the guests.

One of the features of entertainment was a novel contest and during the hour a musical program was directed by Mrs. George Bean. Those taking part on this program were: Mrs. Z. S. Henderson, Mrs. Orville McLemore, Wilma Aldred, Mrs. E. L. Barnes and Mrs. G. B. Mathews.

The hostesses received their guests in lovely afternoon frocks. Mrs. Fleetwood wearing black lace with a corsage of red roses and Mrs. Hitt wearing a modish purple lace model with a corsage of pink roses.

All's Fair...

Miami Shores, waves breaking gently on warm sands, and three children ranging from 5 years to 18 months splashing in the snowy spray, all form a part of the picture as Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hart enjoy a belated honeymoon at the Florida resort. Mr. and Mrs. Hart were married seven years ago in Ridgeland, S. G., but kept postponing their honeymoon, but now they are off at last. Mrs. Hart was before her marriage, Dottie Lester. Dottie, we salute you. A woman who can get her husband to take her on a honeymoon after seven years of matrimony deserves our orchids this week.

But we nominate as our luckiest vacationist, Jim Coleman, now of Atlanta, but still one of our boys. Jim was one of a party making a Caribbean Cruise. Everything was going nicely, but not particularly exciting, until a Swedish Consul entered the scheme of things. The consul invited Jim and three girls who were in the party to stay in his home while they were in Panama City. Their host proved to be very wealthy and entertained them most lavishly. He insisted that they stay for three nights and join their party at Cristobal. The time drew near and Jim and the girls were wondering how they were going to get to Cristobal by sailing time. They didn't want to question such a perfect host. But at the proper time this gentleman like a modern Aladdin chartered a Pan American Clipper and set his guests down beside their steamer just a few minutes before sailing time. And as if he had not been royal enough in his attention he joined them later in Havana having come there by plane from his home in Panama City.

And we are reminded that Almaria Johnston and her attractive children are breathing the salt air of Tybee and dodging stingers. With them are the Mark Etheridges of Louisville Ky. Mrs. Etheridge is as you know, Willie Snow Etheridge, author of that delectable group of essays, "As I Live and Breathe," that we enjoyed so much even as we bridge party, and later gave us "Mingled Yarn." From our acquaintance with her through her book we know she'd be grand company at the beach. We believe she could eat hot dogs with the greediest of us along with the leanest, and slap mosquitoes with a much gusto as the next one, and then when the moon comes up, I'd like to be there for her description. She'd be sure to use simple words with a quirk of humor, but none of the limp beauty would be lost. Jim and Nana Moore are not so old that they have forgotten how badly it hurts to take a tumble down steps, which, no doubt, accounts for the improvised gate across their front porch into a spacious play pen for their grand baby, Joe Hines.

We're amused by a fashion note, "The Corigan hat—a scamp in suede which goes any way"—and we wanted to put one rakishly on Lis Smith. Speaking of hats we're partial to that huge pink felt with loads of swank worth so stunningly by Winnie Jones. The call of the peanut vendors, the fascinating chant of tobacco auctioneers, the lush beauty of clematis and coral vines, young girls on horse back an old men whittling on the Court way to a bridge party, very young mothers wheeling pink and white babies on shady streets. It's Statesboro in the summer, and we'll wager that no matter how far we roam we'll feel the tug to come back long 'bout peanut time.

And have you noticed the cars lined up every night out at Cecil's Place. The young folks tell me that you can really swing them to those dizzy tunes, and that the new music box is a honey. We've gone a long way from the old phonograph with the pansy horn.

As Ever JANE.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Douglas and daughters, Beverly and Shirley returned Monday to their home in Terre Haute, Ind., after a visit to her father, A. P. Donnelly.

For an Electrified Georgia---
★
WHERE WE OURSELVES CAN'T BUILD
WE WILL HELP OTHERS TO BUILD

TWO YEARS AGO when the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) was first making itself felt as a force for good, the Georgia Power Company in a newspaper advertisement publicly offered its cooperation to the REA and to the Georgia cooperatives organized under the REA plan.

For years before then we had been vigorously carrying forward our own rural electrification program—and that work still goes forward. But we knew that the federal government, with millions of dollars at its command, could build the additional rural lines faster and farther than we could. And so, for AN ELECTRIFIED GEORGIA, we offered our help.

That public pledge has been backed up by actual deeds. In some instances, our engineers have made the preliminary surveys for Georgia REA cooperatives. In others, our field representatives have aided rural groups in getting organized, and our home service girls have helped farm wives to learn to use their new appliances advantageously.

We are not seeking to take more credit to ourselves than is due. We have merely joined with other organizations and individuals to help wherever we could, in whatever way we could, and we have considered ourselves honored that so many groups of farmers and their leaders have wanted us to help. These services to the REA cooperatives we have given without charge, and we now renew our offer of these services FREE to other cooperatives.

We have helped in this movement because it offers outstanding benefits to Georgia, and the tradition of the Georgia Power Company is that we help in ANY movement for the good of Georgia. We have helped also for sound and solid business reasons. In these hard times, we need all the business we can get, and we are grateful to the federal government and the REA for having broadened the market for electric power in Georgia.

Seventeen of the Georgia REA cooperatives are now obtaining their electric power supply from us (at advantageously low rates). We thus regard them not only as good friends but valued customers.

For all of these reasons, we are proud that the first REA cooperative in the United States to be dedicated by the President of the United States is in Georgia. Our congratulations to the Lamar Electric Membership Corporation and to the people of Barnesville. Sincere good wishes also for the success of your venture in extending electric service to previously unserved farms.

GEORGIA POWER COMPANY

A CITIZEN WHEREVER WE SERVE

Mr. President...

Here is good news of electrical progressiveness in your adopted state—

In addition to aiding the REA cooperatives, the Georgia Power Company has now built 4,033 miles of rural lines of its own and is now serving 46,000 rural electric consumers—exactly the same low rates as we offer in the heart of Atlanta.

In very few other states can the villages and farms buy their electricity as cheaply as the big cities. This uniformity of rates, plus the lowness of our rates, explains why Georgia ranked lowest in the nation in the price of electric service in communities of less than 1,000 population. In a recent survey by the Federal Power Commission.

Georgia homes and farms served by this Company are now buying their electricity at an average price of 2.9 cents a kilowatt hour. The national average is 4.3 cents.

Among the states, Georgia continues to rank FIRST EAST OF THE ROCKIES in the use of electricity in the home.

Homes, urban and rural, served by this Company now use an average of 1,372 kilowatt hours of electricity a year. The national average is 872.

These records have been made despite the fact that the 161,000 rural and urban homes served by this Company's electric lines are scattered over an area of 44,000 square miles. We serve 545 Georgia cities, towns, villages and hamlets, and only eight of them have populations of more than 10,000. A total of 448 have populations of less than 1,000.

Electrically speaking, Georgia is setting the pace for the nation! Already Georgia is far ahead of many wealthy communities in the East and North, both in the cheapness of electric service and in its widespread use by women in the home, by farmers and by industrial workers. But we are not satisfied with the progress already made. We recognize electricity's important role in the advancement of human welfare. And we will ever strive, in the future as in the past, to hasten the day when our state will truly be—

Washington, D. C., May 21, 1938
As of this date, I have filed for nomination of my candidacy for re-election to the Democratic primary of September 14, next, for United States Senator.

I wish to express to the Democrats of Georgia profound appreciation of the confidence they have reposed in me, and to say that I have to the best of my ability sought at all times to justify that confidence. If again nominated by them, I shall be equally diligent and appreciative.

In the course of the coming weeks, as opportunity and occasion may offer, I shall be glad to discuss the vital questions of our time and frankly to make known my views on all subjects of concern to the people of Georgia.

Respectfully yours,

"AT YOUR SERVICE" CAR IN TOWN TO HELP LOCAL DEALERS

One of the American Oil Company's white fleet of "At Your Service" cars which are traveling from Maine to Florida in the American Oil Company's territory is in Statesboro, stopping at the local Amoco stations for the benefit of the dealers. It was brought here by A. B. McDougald, Amoco contractor.

Each car carries buckets, paint brushes, brooms and all the equipment needed to show Amoco dealers how to clean up rest rooms and station premises. Each car has a porter who will do the work of cleaning up the stations inside and out. These men will leave each station in clean and up-to-date condition and will point out to the dealers the benefits of maintaining their stations in this condition.

The object of the "At Your Service" and "Clean Up" campaign, says Mr. McDougald, is to teach every dealer to operate his station more efficiently and to instruct him as to how he may be a better merchant. Sanitary code, sidewalk signs and enamel discs will be given to those stations which conform to the principles of service and cleanliness which the American Oil Company has established.

M. V. Huling, dealer sales promoter of the Atlanta Division in making stops in the Statesboro district, in the company's drive to insure its customers better and more efficient service stations.

All's Fair...

Sweet sounds—the whir of an electric fan, ice clinking on the sides of a glass.

Sweet sights—the rippling of leaves in the breeze, blowing chiffon on a lovely lass.

Sweet dreams—of Greenlands icy clime, and lolling on green grass, and the Smallwoods keep cool at the pool, and speaking of the Carr's reminds me that Billie Carr gets my initials this week, for Bill did just the sort of thing that would make everyone concerned. Realizing that the many lovely new people had moved into her neighborhood and displaying that genius for kindness and hospitality so often exercised in the past, she invited her new neighbors to a club called themselves the "Friendly Sixteen" and thanks to Billie Carr the strangers in her midst are liking Statesboro fine.

Did you know that Theodosia Donaldson will begin teaching in the Vocational Department of the Albany schools in September. Theodosia had guests last weekend who were from Nebraska. They were very much interested in Georgia history. Theodosia took them to Savannah and they visited the old Fort, old rice fields, and in their walk to the "Cotton patch" of the "Cotton patch" as she is better known, admits that she learned a lot of things about her own state that she never knew before.

This week's tragedy... A certain King Bee of the bollel peanut industry had promised his faithful peanut venders, a half of ice cream—the good old bollel custard variety—and his cow got lost!

Kimball Johnston thought catching a five pound bass was something to write home about. We think so too, that all we catch is just bait for the big ones. I have recently learned that Statesboro's best fishermen are women. They tell me that Mrs. Cleve Jones and Mrs. Solie Preotter really know how to catch them.

Statesboro has some early birds. We heard them flying by 6:30 Sunday morning.

Long life and success to the farmer," Nell Blackburn, that immaculate and attractive saleslady at E. C. Olivers, has just returned from New York City. She says that the dresses are prettier and cheaper. Nell always looks so good in her clothes that Mr. Oliver had better be careful or some of those shops will be engaging her to model for them. She says that girls up there are pulling their hair up high on top of the head and arranging it in a mass of curls.

THIS TAVERN OBSERVES THE LAWS

When you drink Beer in a tavern... choose your tavern

When you restrict your patronage to legal, respectable retail outlets, you not only encourage those better outlets but you've made a start toward driving out the bad spots in your community.

And that is exactly the aim of the great body of honest retailers of beer who, along with the brewers, recognize that Beer's only problem is to remove the anti-social conditions that sometimes surround its sale.

Existing laws can curb these evils. Help us by demanding their strict enforcement! Sales to minors, or after legal hours... or use of a beer license as a screen, for selling ill-liquor or for operating an illicit resort... all these are violations of the law and should be stopped. Public opinion, once aroused, can see that such practices are stopped!

MRS. A. J. TRAPNELL ON COMMITTEE WHICH DREW RESOLUTIONS ASKING FOR PUBLIC SCHOOL MUSIC

Seventeen Bulloch county women returned from Athens Saturday after spending a week in Athens at the state Farm and Home Week. They were accompanied by Miss Elvie Maxwell, Home Demonstration Agent. Speeches of greetings were made by Paul W. Chapman, Dean of the College of Agriculture of the University of Georgia, W. S. Brown, Director of the Extension department, and Lurline Collier, State Home Demonstration Agent.

While in Athens the Bulloch delegation took part in demonstrations and attended lectures on various subjects including Nutrition, Family Life, Clothing, Home Improvement, Marketing, Handicraft, Farm Woman's Chorus, and Food Preservation. A number of the ladies from Bulloch were awarded certificates of achievement after having attended three consecutive demonstrations.

A resolution was adopted during the week recommending that the board of education add public school music in the schools. This comes from the feeling of the farm women of the state that there is a definite need of having music taught in the schools.

Mrs. A. J. Trapnell served on the committee which drew up the resolution.

Mrs. Madgie Lee Nesmith of Nevils represented Bulloch county in the State Style Revue.

Seven clubs of the county were represented: New Castle, Mrs. G. B. Bowen, Mrs. Delmas Rushing; Nevils, Mrs. Robena Hodges; Nevils, Mrs. NeSmith; Denmark, Mrs. Cleve DeLoach; Mrs. A. J. FARM BRIEFS

The 4-H Club boys and girls who attend the annual Farm and Home Week at the University of Georgia have a "daily" newspaper of their own during the time they are in Athens. The paper, known as The 4-H Echoes, starts out each year with an editor-in-chief and a staff of reporters made up of club members who are interested in writing. The reporters who write the best stories during the four days the paper is published are "promoted" from day to day to associated editor. When Editor-in-Chief Edna Langley of Grady county, ran the last edition off the mimeograph this year, four reporters had made the grade and had their names on the masthead as associate editors. They were Glenn Colwell, of Butts county; Fred Roberts, of Cobb county; Jeanne Patterson, of Chatham county; and Annie Ruth McCorkle of McDuffie county.

The fathos show season is at hand again and Jones Purcell, of Tifton, Extension Swine specialist, advises that some of the finest hogs ever produced in Georgia will be exhibited and sold at this year's shows. Cairo held the season's first fa show in the state on August 16, with the Albany show scheduled for August 30. Other show dates are Valdosta, September 1; Macon September 5 and 6; Columbus September 6 and 7; Moultrie, September 7; Savannah's Coastal Empire Ton-Litter show, September 15; Thomasville, September 22; and Southeastern Fair, Atlanta, October 3-8.

Mrs. Waldo Floyd and children, Waldo Jr., and Virginia Lee, and her mother, Mrs. Virgie Lee Hilliard returned Saturday after an extended visit at Jacksonville Beach and Enterprise, Ala.

Statesboro Leads State Tobacco Markets In Average Per Pound

Average Is 19.01 For Third Week

OFFICIAL FIGURES FOR STATE SHOW ALL TIME RECORD FOR THIS YEAR

According to official figures from the State Department of Agriculture on pounds sold first hand and average price for the third week ending August 12, Statesboro led the state in average price per pound. For the week the warehouses at Statesboro sold 1,883,350 for an average of 19.01. With the greater part of the tobacco rush season about over the growers are finding floor space in the local warehouses without trouble. In the opinion of the local warehousemen the greater part of the crop is in, and sold. They state that a closing date has not been set by the local board of trade but that it is expected that it will close either next Wednesday or Friday.

According to Stiles Martin, statistician of the Department of Agriculture the official figures for the second week ending August 5, show that Statesboro has sold 1,515,100 pounds for $364,263.29, for an average of 24.04.

The first twelve sale days in the state set an all-time record for sales with $17,908,226.99 paid to growers. This figure surpasses the total of $15,570,510 paid during the entire season of 1937 and on the basis of unofficial reports apparently exceeded the previous all-time record high in 1936 when buyers paid $17,670,567.60 for the crop.

Official figures on the third week sales will not be available from the State Department of Agriculture until later in the week.

The Board is to look after the general sanitary conditions of the city and to report any nuisance likely to endanger the health of the city in any neighborhood in the city.

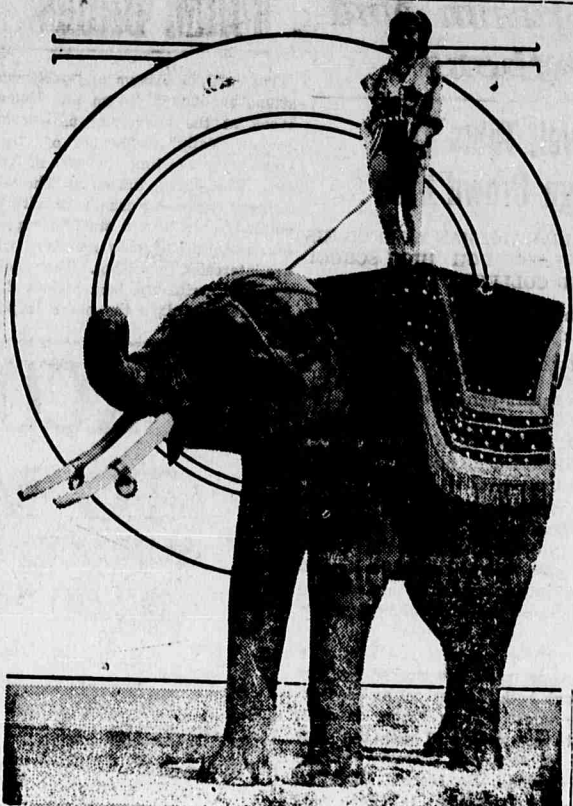

ing the First District women for the rally. Mrs. Brannen will preside during the first part of the session, after which Mrs. J. A. Rollison of Waycross will take over the program. Mrs. J. O. Johnston of Statesboro will represent this section of the district as one of the speakers.

State AAA Office Makes Calculations

ADJUSTED CALCULATIONS RUN THE COUNTY TOTAL POUNDAGE UP SOME $50 TO 900 LBS. Final adjustment allotments on tobacco for 1938 were furnished the county committee by the state office Saturday. After reviewing the figures furnished the county by the state which had every individual adjustment as well as preliminary allotment listed in the various growers' names, some 10 of the community committeemen that were available and the three county committeemen and a few local tobacco growers approved distributing and allotments. Those reviewing the calculations felt that the county as a whole had received about all of the poundage that could be expected and that most of the deserving cases had been ironed out.

The calculating of the allotments for each individual tobacco grower in Bulloch county and in the state was completed in the state office. Community committeemen took the application for the quota from the growers; these figures and facts given the committee by the growers were submitted to the state office without alterations. The quotas in pounds were figured as prescribed by the law by the state office. Committeemen did not have any poundage to recommend for upward or downward adjustments.

Adjusted calculations ran the county total poundage up to some $50 to 900 pound average, which when added to the extra acres received by the county in the spring makes Bulloch an item in the tobacco growing industry. The law made it possible for committeemen to recommend request for acreage enough to build the county planted quota from some 2400 to about 4200 acres. With poundage enough to cover this extra acreage, the tobacco crop in Bulloch will probably be the largest money crop in the county for 1938.

Scenes such as is pictured above will soon be enacted once more in Statesboro when Downie Bros. Circus comes here for two performances on the lot back of the High School building. Downie Bros. circus, greatly enlarged this season, have augmented their performances with several feature acts from the old country most of which are on tour in The States for their first time.

H'Way Board Recommend Extension Of U.S. No. 301

U.S. No. 301 From Petersburg, Va.

RESOLUTION PASSED BY STATE HIGHWAY BOARD ASKING FOR CONTINUATION TO FLORIDA LINE

It was learned from an authoritative source this week that another of the highways coming through Statesboro will be given a Federal number. A copy of the resolution passed by the State Highway Board dated July 22, requesting the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Public Roads and the American Association of State Highway Officials, to designate as a part of the U. S. Marked Highway System the road from the Georgia-South Carolina line by way of Sylvania, Statesboro, Claxton, Glenville, Ludewig, Jesup, Nahant, Folkston, St. George, to the Florida line as a continuation of U. S. Marked Highway No. 301. The resolution was signed by Mr. W. L. Miller, the chairman; and Jim L. Gillis and Herman H. Watson, members.

WHEREAS, it is the understanding of the State Highway Board of Georgia that the State Highway Commission of South Carolina is requesting that the road from Summerton, S. C., to the South Carolina-Georgia line be designated as a continuation of U. S. Marked Highway No. 301.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads and the American Association of State Highway Officials, be and are hereby requested to designate as a part of that system of roads known as U. S. Marked Highway System the road from the Georgia-South Carolina line by way of Sylvania, Statesboro, Claxton, Glenville, Ludewig, Jesup, Nahant, Folkston, St. George, to the Florida line, said road to be designated as a continuation of U. S. Marked Highway No. 301.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED THAT the Secretary of this board be instructed to transmit a copy of this resolution to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads, American Association of State Highway Officials and the State Highway Commission of South Carolina.

The resolution is signed by the members of the State Highway Board. This Federal Highway No. 301 now begins at Petersburg, Virginia. In North Carolina it runs through Wilmington, Smithfield, Fayetteville and Lumberton, which is the heart of the North Carolina tobacco section. In South Carolina it comes through Florence, and down to Summerton where the number is dropped. In the event it is continued in accordance with the resolution it will give Statesboro a north-south Federal Highway which is extensively used by the tourist traffic.

GEORGIA—THE RATTLEGROUND!

When President Roosevelt made his history making speech as Barnesville, he challenged the free ballot of Georgia and attacked the very vitals of the south in assailing the state's rights.

One bloody war has been fought in the United States over the right of States to govern themselves. Now we are to witness the spectacle of Georgia being made the battleground of a new battle attempt at a wild dictatorial policy by the New Deal Trustees.

Defeat of Senator Walter F. George in the forthcoming primary would be a sad day in the history of the Democratic Empire state. Aside from the retirement of an outstanding and influential member of the national congress and the substitution of a political puppet, it would mean the furling of the flag of freedom in our glorious state.

Reelection of Senator Walter F. George means that Georgians believe in keeping Democracy in the New Deal. That is the plain simple issue.

If we abandon Georgia's senior senator, we scrap those high ideals of democratic government for which our forebears fought and died. It means that their sacrifice were made in vain, and that we are not true sons of red blooded Americans.

Mr. Roosevelt has told Georgians he will fight any dictatorship, but we all are aware by this time that his "Yes Men" in Washington have no conscience or compunction on that score.

News stories tell that Edgar B. Dunlap has been "liquidated" as Georgia counsel for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and by the time this appears other outstanding Georgia political heads probably will have fallen under the axe of the New Deal advisors.

Mr. Roosevelt has not assumed responsibility for the action taken against Mr. Dunlap, but it will be as hard to disclaim responsibility for it as it will be for him to convince free voting Georgians that he was not so interested in electrocuting Senator George at Barnesville that he forgot to electrify the REA line he was supposed to dedicate.

If Senator George had been willing to pay the price; if he had been willing to sell his own self-respect and conscience; if he had been willing to have sold his freedom of thought, or if he had been willing to sell the birthright of Georgia and Georgians to govern themselves, he could have been the fair haired "boy of the administration" in this campaign.

George stood staunchly for government by law, and not by irresponsible mobs. He refused to be dictated to and thus incurred the disfavor of those in power. Georgians are asked to dismiss a man who has been loyal to every tradition of the old South, and to send a man to the senate who says candidly and frankly he will vote "Me Too" or "Yes Sir" on every measure bearing the administration's approval.

If Georgians want that kind of government they can get it by voting for the senate hopeful, Lawrence Camp.

Mr. Camp has said he will vote for everything the national administration wants. The President in his Barnesville address said that in effect. This the President and the President's advisers have the first claim in Camp and not the voters of Georgia who are asked to send him to the senate. He will be a fighting representative of the administration and not a fighting representative of the best interests of those who are supposed to be his constituents.

The Herald is convinced that Georgia has been made the battleground for a new assault on Southern state rights, and that the answer which Georgians make on September 14 will be definite and final.

We want our traditions, our rights and our ideals conserved. We are unwilling to write finis to the glorious state of Georgia and to write what will be the doom of free government in America.

Georgians are on trial. This is Georgia's battle and Georgia has been made the battleground.

5 MILLION HAVE MALARIA YEARLY

It has been estimated that 5 million persons suffer from malaria yearly, with a total annual loss of nearly 100 million dollars, it is revealed by Ruth Campbell in her article "Malaria Still Kills" in the July issue of Hygeia.

Ten thousand deaths was the toll it took in the United States in 1936 alone. This is the estimate of J. A. LePrince, senior, health officer of the U. S. Public Health Service. And for every person who died of malaria there were 500 who suffered from it—a total of 5 million cases.

Each case represents an average outlay bringing the total to almost 100 million dollars. This represents only a part of the actual loss, which includes deductions from earnings and general loss of earning power traceable to the physical and mental enfeeblement of chronic sufferers. Obviously, when an attack is in progress the sufferer is in no condition to do a day's work and such direct losses should be counted.

The effects of malaria are mental as well as physical, a fact which has not been given the importance malaria have been found to be backward at school, and frequently they must be classified as feeble-minded. The anemia that comes from the disease makes concentration difficult.

A parasite which feeds on the red blood corpuscles, as the one causing malaria does, will cause serious anemia and bring about a state of general ill health and malnutrition. Also, one attack of it does not confer immunity, as happens after an attack of yellow fever or smallpox. Instead, one serious attack of malaria often seems to predispose to another.

Those who have managed to survive for a considerable period of time in a malarious country generally have a certain tolerance for the disease; yet even these are likely to succumb to it in an epidemic. Often while malaria does not appear on the death certificate it is the real cause of the fatal outcome.

YOU OUGHT TO BE SHOT!

We have just been wondering if you have been shot—with the necessary three injections of typhoid vaccine for the prevention of this dread disease. We are wondering, too, if in the future you will take the advice of the Department of Public Health of Georgia and receive one shot of typhoid vaccine annually. We hope so, because typhoid immunizing vaccine has, beyond any question, proved its value.

JUST TEN YEARS AGO—

It was announced that the Georgia Normal would open on September 11. The new additions to the faculty included J. A. Carruth of Cowens, Texas, who will teach in the education department and Robert Donaldson who would have charge of the publicity and personal service and would teach English and journalism.

Mrs. R. P. Holt, wife of R. P. Holt of Holt-Cobb Warehouse died in Raleigh, N. C. on Monday, August 20, 1938.

"Bringing Up Ma" a comedy play was presented at the high school auditorium, sponsored by the PTA.

Water was over the Dover bridge. Lucy Mae Brannen gives bridge party for Martha Camp of Monroe and Elizabeth Hardy of Barnesville. Mary Mathews won a pair of ear bobs for high score and Almarita Booth was given an address book for low score.

The Statesboro tobacco market closed with total sales of 2,684,182 pounds which sold for a total of $298,199.04.

Jane Reviews A Book—

"The Yearling," one of the new books to be found at the Bulloch County Library, written by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings was the one and only book we read this week, and we are wondering as we reluctantly put it aside, closing it very gently whether we could bring ourselves to read another book very soon. We have lately been satiated with books whose characters are paraded through all of the smart places of the two hemispheres, who are ready with clever conversation who are cynical, and whose philosophy of life affords little that could be of value in our own lives.

"The Yearling" is a book that may have offered a sort of escape as we vicariously borrowed the rosy illusion of unreality to relieve the tedium of drab days, but after we read "The Yearling" we are somehow ready to wrap the plain and ugly role of reality closely about us and wear it as proudly as a mantle of honor. We met people in the book who became as real as Mr. Cumming, Walter McDougald or Willie Mathews.

The setting of "The Yearling" is North, Central Florida. We traverse the scrub land bordering the St. John River. We view the miracle of bird and creature, flower and tree, wind and rain, sun and moon, through the wide worshiping eyes of Jody Baxter, a yearling boy who at the opening of the book becomes drunk with the pleasure of making a flutter-mill on a thin green April day. We follow Jody Baxter through a year of his life, and we live with him such experiences that in that brief year cause us to feel that we have known him for a long time.

We are glad that a woman could have written such a book. Intimate knowledge of all wild things, not only from a scientific viewpoint, but from a knowledge of the hermitage of the hunter and pioneer who in those early days after the Civil War hunted for food to ease the pangs of hunger and not for the mere love of the chase.

The main characters beside Jody Baxter, are Penny Baxter, Jody's Father who had grown to maturity no bigger than a boy because "ration" had been short and hookworm abundant, but in life's difficulties he stood like an ash sapling among giant oak trees; Jody's mother, vaguely remains a shapeless bulk with a sharp tongue but when she broiled venison it made our mouth water.

The Forresters, giant rough men who lived four miles from Baxter's island offer contrast to Penny Baxter. Fodder Wing, a deformed half-wit, is created with Ariel like artistry. Grandma Hutto offered in contrast to Ma Baxter. "Something about her was forever female—old men were enslaved by her silver curls.

Of drama there is plenty — our pulse quickens to remember when the rattlesnake bit Penny Baxter, when the Forresters burned Grandma Hutto's house, when Penny and Jody killed old Slew-foot, a marauding bear, and finally a lump comes in our throat as we recall the killing of Flag, Jody's pet fawn. Running on through the book as a secondary plot is the story of Flag, the pet fawn who brightened the life of the lonely boy in the scrub country. The tender relation between Jody and his pet until Flag too becomes a yearling is one of the finest things we've read in many years and we're wondering when we'll find such a good book again.

A. H. Jennings, of America, one of the South's veteran Poland-China for the fair circuit this fall. Jones Parcell, Extension swine specialist, who recently visited the Jennings farm, reports that a good lot of barrow is also being fed there for the fat hog show at Albany.

In 1930, the census figures showed that Georgia had about 100,000 farms that reported no milk cow. In a special census report on dairying in 1935 this number had dropped to about 70,000, showing that real progress was being made. Since 1935 it is believed that many farms that previously had no milk cow, now have at least one. Some counties have (according to available figures) from 200 to 300 farms that do not have a cow.

What Is Advertising?

A long time ago there was no advertising. Every man with something to sell had to tell people about it personally and individually. This was not a great handicap in those days, for no one had very much to sell.

But as soon as large-scale manufacturing was begun, it was necessary to find a way to tell many people about products and to tell them quickly and at one time. To fill this need, advertising naturally developed as a universal business process. Without it could not operate large factories making goods for millions of consumers.

Advertising is sometimes spoken of as a special kind of business, as a separate industry supported by other lines of business. It is no such thing at all. Advertising is simply a part of the process of selling the products of every industry. It does the important job of selling people, about merchandise and where to buy it, and it stimulates their desire to buy.

It is not enough to make goods and to transport them to places where consumers can buy them. The public must be told about the goods—how desirable they are, how people can make themselves more comfortable, more healthy, or more happy through buying them. In other words, the merchant must be sold, not merely placed in sale. Advertising does a large part of this "selling," and there is no other method that can take its place.

Since the days when there was no advertising, the quantity of goods produced has been multiplied by many many times. Consequently each consumer's share is vastly increased. The wealth created in making the goods is distributed to consumers through payment for wages, materials, and dividends, and thus they are able to buy the greater volume of goods produced.

But merely being able to buy does not make people buy. Salesmen and advertising must be kept on the job all the time, to keep merchandise moving from factory to consumer, or the wheels will soon stop turning. The work of selling is just as important as the work of making and advertising is the only way by which the large volume of goods now being produced can be sold.

In performing its selling work, advertising shows us the way to better living, by creating desires for better things. Through conveniences introduced by advertising, the burdens of housekeeping have been made easier and the family diet has been improved. Babies are healthier and homes are more sanitary because of the educational influence of advertising. Newspapers are sold for a few cents a copy, because advertisers pay most of the costs.

While doing all this useful and valuable work, advertising costs the consumer nothing because it is the most economical form of selling and lowers the cost of distribution. Advertising is the voice of the industry, telling us all how to live happier lives and how to make our money go farther.

Hospital Care Service To Be Gauranteed To It's Members

1. On a ward contract.
2. Twenty-one days' bed and board in a ward, general nursing.
3. Operating room service.
4. Anesthesia when administered by the hospital anesthetist or remuneration to the physician administering the anesthetic at $5 for minor operations in a clinic and $7.50 for single minor operations, $10 for major operations.

d. Routine drugs and dressings.
e. Routine laboratory examinations consisting of urinalysis, white and red blood counts; basal metabolism tests; and differential, etc. Applicable only to bed cases in the hospital.
f. X-ray service.

Limited to the cost and development of X-ray films and fluoroscopes for the examination of bed cases. Not inclusive of X-ray therapy or interpretation.
These benefits do not include the admission of members to hospitals for X-ray examinations solely for diagnostic purposes.

g. Obstetrical cases.
Hospital care is provided by the association for the care of obstetrical cases only after the first year from the effective date of any subscription agreement. Obstetrical care shall include care of the mother, use of the delivery room, usual dressings and the newborn child during the duration of the hospital stay of the mother.

Dangerous complications such as ectopic, hemorrhage, etc., which are incidental to pregnancy and which require hospitalization shall be eligible after the usual waiting period of 30 days following the issuing of the contract. This shall also apply to hospitalization for operations to terminate pregnancy when indicated, providing the member shall present a statement signed by her physician and two consultants that the procedure is necessary.

The Association is not responsible for extraordinary expenses growing out of major complications in obstetrical cases, but if the hospital stay of the mother is prolonged beyond 21 days including hospitalizations of that year it will deduct one-third of the hospital charges listed in "a-f" above, for the additional period.

h. Restrictions:
These benefits cover all types of illnesses and injury except active venereal diseases, quarantinable diseases, tuberculous, active pulmonary tuberculosis, auto or chronic alcoholism and Workmen's Compensation cases.

In obstetrical cases members shall enjoy these benefits subject to the restrictions listed under "g." In cases of chronic surgical conditions such as hernia, fibroid tumors, ovarian cysts, non-toxic thyroid, etc., the Association requires a twelve month waiting period after the effective date of membership contracts.

Subject to these conditions, the subscriber to a membership contract agrees that he will not seek hospital treatment at the expense of the Association for conditions known to him to exist and to require hospital care at the time of his application for membership.

2. On a private room contract.
a. Twenty-one days' bed and board in a private room, general nursing.
b. All services guaranteed in ward contracts, subject to restrictions listed.

Per diem rates to be paid participating hospitals in compensation for the services specified.

Subject to final consideration and approval of the Trustees of the Bulloch County Hospital, the following per diem rates have been quoted to the Organizing Committee by the hospital authorities:
1. For bed in a ward and specified services, $4 per day.
2. For a private room and specified services, $6.50 per day.

These rates to be payable to the Hospital for each day of hospitalization received by a member of the Bulloch County Hospital Service Association, irrespective of whether the member receives only bed and board and general nursing, or these and all the other specified services. The per diem rate is preferred by the Association because it enables it and the Hospital both to budget hospital costs and because it simplifies payment to the Hospital for services rendered.

Areas To Be Served by the Bulloch County Hospital Service Assoc.
Although each non-profit hospital care association is permitted by statute to serve an area within a radius of 50 miles from its center, it is intended that only Bulloch and Evans counties with their incorporated towns and villages shall be served by the association during its first year of operation. Thereafter, if neighboring counties and the Trustees of the Association desire, it may be expanded to include a wider area. Such expansion, however, would necessitate approval by the medical societies comprising the association, and the inclusion, possibly of other hospitals in the plan of operation.

Administrative Organization & Costs
During the period of organization of the Bulloch County Hospital Service Association, which shall be until the minimum of 500 contracts has been secured and Trustees of the Association have been elected, all administrative work shall be done on a voluntary basis subject to the Organizing Committee. This committee shall have charge of educational work, the promotion, the membership drive, the incorporation of the Association and necessary legal work, the perfection and conclusion of the necessary contracts with participating hospitals and members, and other details incidental to preliminary organization. This shall be subject to the restriction that no money shall be expended for such purposes except out of the initial working capital subscribed by interested individuals.

Permanent Organization:
1. In order to quote membership rates to its members at the lowest possible figure, the Association will find it necessary to utilize Volunteer services by interested persons. Such volunteers, unpaid services, may include:
a. Collection of dues, subject to the regulations laid down by the Trustees.
b. Presenting the hospital insurance plan to interested groups as farm organizations, Parent Teachers Associations, neighboring groups, employee groups and the like.
c. Selling memberships under authorization from the Trustees.

2. Permanent Organization:
a. Not less than 500 contracts growing out of major complications in obstetrical cases, but if the hospital stay of the mother is prolonged beyond 21 days including hospitalizations of that year it will deduct one-third of the hospital charges listed in "a-f" above, for the additional period.
b. Estimated cost of administering 500-1000 contracts for one year.
c. A full-time secretary and bookkeeper at $35 per month, $1,020.00.
d. Rent: a joint office, at $7.50 per month $90.00.
e. Office supplies: file case, used typewriter, desk, supplies for one year, ($25.00), $100.00.
f. Printing, $40.00.
g. Total, $1,250.00.

c. On this basis the cost per contract, on a minimum of 500 contracts will be $2.50 per year.

If the number of contracts should increase, the cost of administration per contract would necessarily diminish, until with 1,000 contracts, with the same organization, the cost would be $1.25.

If the number of contracts should exceed 1,000, the office could be expanded or the duties of the secretary be increased in exchange for increased salary if the Trustees saw fit, without raising the administrative cost per contract above $2.50 per year.

Proposed membership contracts and fees.
The Organizing Committee proposes that the Association offer three types or varieties of contracts to prospective members.

1. On a private room contract.
a. Twenty-one days' bed and board in a private room, general nursing.
b. All services guaranteed in ward contracts, subject to restrictions listed.

Per diem rates to be paid participating hospitals in compensation for the services specified.

Subject to final consideration and approval of the Trustees of the Bulloch County Hospital, the following per diem rates have been quoted to the Organizing Committee by the hospital authorities:
1. For bed in a ward and specified services, $4 per day.
2. For a private room and specified services, $6.50 per day.

These rates to be payable to the Hospital for each day of hospitalization received by a member of the Bulloch County Hospital Service Association, irrespective of whether the member receives only bed and board and general nursing, or these and all the other specified services. The per diem rate is preferred by the Association because it enables it and the Hospital both to budget hospital costs and because it simplifies payment to the Hospital for services rendered.

All's Fair...

Some one suggested that the reason for this hot weather is that the politicians are steaming up, which reminds us that when Marian Johnston spoke in Swainsboro Wednesday, Jane overheard a remark to this effect: "Wasn't Mrs. Johnston simply marvelous. She made a wonderful speech and she was so pretty to look at."

We aren't so far behind New York, Nell, for Monday evening when a nettie entertained for her very attractive visitors, Carolyn Alley and Lottie Moore, we gazed in open-mouthed adoration at lovely Lottie Moore—her golden brown hair was pulled up and arranged in a mass of curls.

Lorrie Mallard will make a lovely bride. She is just that dainty petite type that could wear the old fashioned classic satin adapted to the status quo. Distressed to learn that Jimmie Renfro is going back to Columbus, Miss Jimmie has made many friends here. She has occupied an apartment at her brother, Mayor J. Renfro's, and in a remarkable short time after her coming here she became identified with church work and has been lovely to know. Hurry back to us Jimmie!

That old landmark, the Grimes Clock, is dressed up in fine style, and is just as colorful and pretty as a debutante. Statesboro can point with pride to one more citizen of noble lineage crosses county lines. Sam Northcutt has received an invitation to go to Waynesboro next week and fry chicken. Now we regret very much that we have never eaten any chicken that Sam fried.

That patient old oak on the Court House square deserves a break. Unmindful of the rugged beauty of its bark, our citizens cover it with circulars, photographs of candidates and the like.

Little Jane Beaver unlike many of our young belles didn't want a birthday party, but Ruth got a noticeable little red table and chairs to match, and there was a cake and candles. Lily Deal and her girls are at Mid again. We heard that Hazel and Pig both had excellent places for another year.

It's bad to cut your foot but Emerson Brown thinks it's got to happen to you, you're lucky to have it happen right in front of the doctor's house and have such capable first aid rendered.

It's too hot for me to write and too hot for you to read so get a long mind I think I'll stop and get a long tall glass of lemonade with plenty of ice.

As Ever, JANE.

Park, president of the Georgia Commission on Standard Elementary Schools, that eight of the county schools had met the requirements and have been duly approved as a Standard Elementary School for the school year 1938-39 in Group I. This group includes all the schools that fill the highest requirements of the commission.

These schools in this group are: Nevada, Shiloh, Brooklet, Register, Port, Womack, Ogeechee and the Laboratory School at the Teachers College.

Mr. Womack added that Denmark and Middleburg schools were approved as standard elementary schools in Group II for the year 1938-39.

FARM BRIEFS

Georgia flue-cured tobacco growers are beginning to realize more than ever the importance of properly sorting and preparing their crop for the market.

A large quantity of flue-cured tobacco is sold each year on the auction floor only to be re-sorted and re-sold at a profit by the first buyer. The buyers of this poorly sorted tobacco often make more by correcting the sorting mistakes of the grower than the grower receives for several months spent in producing the crop.

This season, the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with county agents and the Agricultural Extension Service in South Georgia counties, C. G. Garner, Extension economist who was in charge of the demonstrations, estimates that more than 6,000 tobacco growers attended these demonstrations. Next year, these growers will be able to use the methods taught at the demonstrations in their own sorting rooms.

QUESTIONS ASKED BY DR. A. J. MOONEY AND LEOBEL COLEMAN REGARDING YOUTH PROGRAMS

The Rotary Club, at its regular weekly meeting, Monday conducted a Youth's Panel.

Leo Coleman, chairman of the program committee, introduced Homer Blitch, Albert Key and Ennis Call, who made up the panel. Dr. A. J. Mooney and Leo Coleman led the discussion. Questions were asked of the panel by the youth of the county schools that had met the requirements and have been duly approved as a Standard Elementary School for the school year 1938-39 in Group I. This group includes all the schools that fill the highest requirements of the commission.

These schools in this group are: Nevada, Shiloh, Brooklet, Register, Port, Womack, Ogeechee and the Laboratory School at the Teachers College.

Mr. Womack added that Denmark and Middleburg schools were approved as standard elementary schools in Group II for the year 1938-39.

crop harvested in 1939. This provision enables wheat growers to put aside wheat now for payment of next year's premium when the price of wheat is likely to be higher.

Supplies of hogs for market in the marketing year beginning in October probably will be materially larger than those of the present marketing year, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The Bureau says that the effect of these larger supplies upon hog prices for the year as a whole probably will be offset, at least in part, by improvement in the consumer demand for meats.

H. W. Harvey, Extension horticulturist, reports that a group of DeKalb county people are planning a small rural park in their community.

When surveyors mapped a new county road through a rural section of Baldwin county, Roger W. Starnbridge discovered that the new highway will run right through his farm, necessitating the removal of nearly every building in his place. Mr. Starnbridge took his problem to County Agent H. C. Cook who called in G. J. Johnson, Extension engineer, to help work out a satisfactory solution. As a result, the Starnbridge farm is to have a new mule barn, new dairy barn and new feed barn—all built from Extension Service plans and all built safely out of the way of the new road.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

The Statesboro Burial Vault Company wishes to make clear to the people of this section the TRUTH in regards to CERTAIN RUMORS.

We are the only manufacturers of Reinforced AIR SEAL CONCRETE VAULTS in Statesboro and Bulloch county.

The term "AIR SEAL" has a standard set by the Federal Trade Commission, which requires a minimum of five inches AIR SEAL on a Burial Vault, and we are the only manufacturer in Bulloch county to meet this requirement and this type of vault is patented, which patent we operate under.

We also build a burial vault that is mechanically sealed, only. There is more difference between our AIR SEAL Vault and Mechanically Sealed Vault, both of which we build and a similar mechanically sealed vault built, than is talked by certain parties.

We introduced PRECAST CONCRETE VAULTS to this section, which were FIRST sneered at by some—you remember it—BUT LOOK NOW!

I have had over twelve years experience in Engineering and Inspection of Federal Roads and Streets, and other types of Concrete work. ALL THE MATERIAL we use will meet specifications for the type of work used for "AIR TIGHT" DOES NOT MEAN AIR SEAL. Don't be misled.

If it is price... We meet Any Competition. If it is QUALITY and INTEGRITY in a product—We are UNEQUALLED.

We have more regard for your feelings than to approach you about this matter in time of need. IT IS UNETHICAL and I KNOW IT.

We await your call. STATESBORO BURIAL VAULT CO. Z. Whitehurst, Prop.

Tobacco Review Meet In Douglas

GROWERS TO CHOOSE BETWEEN HEAVY CROP WITH LOAN INCOME AND SMALL CROP WITH HIGH INCOME IN 1939

Georgia tobacco growers will receive about $19,000,000 for the 1938 crop as compared with $1,250,000 for the 1937 and $6,400,000 for the 1933 crop, J. B. Hutson, assistant AAA administrator, pointed out to county committee members, review committee and county agents assembled at Douglas Saturday. The 50 tobacco counties were represented at the meeting. Mr. Hutson stated that tobacco growers had a choice between a heavy crop for 1939 with a low income or a small crop with another high income. He urged Georgia growers to continue just as they are going and showed over the past 20 years where the income from tobacco in Georgia was increasing gradually.

The assistant administrator explained to the group that it was not possible under the present law committee to distribute tobacco poundage to the individual growers; the Supreme court had ruled against the delegation of power in this respect and Congress had written into the law the steps necessary to follow in distributing the quotas. The formula used to calculate the poundage allotments was prescribed by the act as written by Congress.

Mr. Hutson praised tobacco growers for trying to make the 1938 program work after it came to them so late. In reviewing the history of the present program, he stated that a bill was introduced in 1937 but failed to pass; then a committee appointed from the agricultural committee of Congress held hearings in various sections of the country, and that from these hearings this committee drew the present law and passed it into this past spring.

The review committee from Bulloch attended the meeting.

Malaria Drainage Project to Start

TO ELIMINATE CONDITIONS FAVORABLE TO THE BREEDING OF THE MALARIA BEARING MOSQUITO

Mr. David, engineer of the Bulloch county health department, announced yesterday that a malaria drainage project will be started here August 29.

Mr. David stated that the first of a number of planned projects will begin at a point due south and back of the Bulloch county hospital. The engineering survey on this section has been completed and work will begin on Monday of next week. He stated that it is a WPA project and that approximately 25 men will be used in the work which will consist of ditching, filling in and other work to eliminate conditions which breed the malaria carrying mosquito. Mr. David explained that the malaria mosquito flies in a radius of about one mile. This being true his plans are to carry on his drainage projects in four sections, each to begin at a point on the edge of the city. In this way each project will cover a maximum area.

Mr. David made extensive surveys and hopes to, with time, rid this county of all possible sources of malaria.

His work is in connection with the work of the Bulloch county health department.

Origin of Ostracism The Athenian method of exiling a person was introduced after the fall of the family of Peisistratus. If the assembly decided a person was endangering the public welfare it set a day for voting. When the poll took place each voter put into an urn a potsherd (ostrakon) marked with the name of one he wished ostracized. The person named on the most ostraca was exiled, unless less than 6,000 votes were cast. The exile lasted normally 10 years.

ESTIMATED THAT 1,400,000 APPLICATIONS WILL BE HANDLED COVERING 14,648 BALES OF COTTON

Cotton price adjustment payments, authorized under an appropriation of $130,000,000 by congress of 1937, will be made on not exceeding 60 per cent of the 1937 base cotton production of farms for which applications are submitted, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration has announced.

The AAA estimates that through the Cotton Belt 1,400,000 applications will be handled, covering about 14,648,000 bales of cotton production and that the average rate of payment will be 2.89 cents per pound.

At the average payment rate, payments on 60 per cent of the 14,648,000 eligible bales will total approximately $127,000,000. Administrative expenses are estimated at about $3,000,000.

Cotton price adjustment payments, under the law, are applicable to the base cotton production of all farms on which cotton has grown in 1937, but it is provided that no payments are to be made in case the producer or producers knowingly overplanted their 1938 cotton acreage allotments. The maximum amount of 1937 cotton on which the producers on a farm may receive payment is 60 per cent of the base production, and in case the amount produced in 1937 was less than 60 per cent of the farm's base production, payment will not be made on more than the amount actually produced, except where failure to produce 60 per cent of the base production was due to crop failures from specific causes.

The 1937 base production of a farm was the adjusted normal production of its base acreage, the base acreage representing the normal acreage devoted to cotton, adjusted to bring the base acreage of all such farms within state and county allotments.

Under the payment legislation, as originally passed, the rate of payment on eligible cotton was established as the amount by which the average price of 7-8 inch middling cotton on the 10 designated spot market was below 12 cents per pound on the date of the sale of the cotton by the producer, the rate not to exceed 3 cents per pound in any case. An amendment later provided that the maximum rate of 3 cents per pound will apply to eligible cotton produced in 1937 and not sold by the producer prior to September 10, 1937, the date on which the spot market average first fell below 9 cents during the 1937-38 marketing season. This makes it possible for producers who are holding their cotton or who put their cotton under government loans to receive price adjustment payments without transferring title. The payment rate for those who sold 1937 cotton before September 10, 1937, will be the amount by which the spot market average was below 12 cents on the date of sale, not to exceed 3 cents.

In cases of crop failures due to hail, drought, flood, boll weevil or other insect or fungus infestation, the producer will receive payment on the normal production of his 1937 cotton acreage, but not in excess of 60 per cent of the 1937 base cotton production established for the farm. Where any part of the producer's 1937 cotton crop was destroyed by fire or other unavoidable natural cause after it was harvested but before it was sold, the eligible part of such cotton will receive the maximum payment of 3 cents per pound.

Printed instructions and application forms are available to Georgia producers through the offices of county agents and county AAA committees. It is expected that distribution of payments will get under way in September.

Gathers Snake Eggs

T. L. Hendley, who lives near Brooklet relates of his finding of a large copper colored moccasin coiled around forty snake eggs.

Mr. Hendley stated that he was out walking in one of his fields on a sandy ridge of a thick swamp as he came upon a huge copper colored moccasin coiled around a pile of snake eggs. The snake appeared to be blowing its breath over the eggs in the center of its coil. He succeeded in killing the snake and upon counting the eggs found that there were forty. He gathered the eggs to show his friends.

All the offices of the above county agencies are grouped around a large lobby. Miss Sara Hall, Bulloch county Welfare Director, stated that there will be three National Youth Administration girls on duty to furnish information regarding the agencies which have offices in the building.

For the information of those who have occasion to call on any of the agencies, Mr. Dyer, the County Agent moved from the Grand Jury room on the second floor of the court house, the Farm Security Administration moved from the third floor of the court house and Miss Sara Hall, Bulloch County Welfare Director, moved from the third floor of the Bank of Statesboro building.

SUPERINTENDENT S. H. SHERMAN TALKS TO MEMBERS OF ASSOCIATION - PROMISES TO COMPLETE COOPERATION

The members of the Statesboro Athletic Club at a meeting at the court house last Friday night, heard a report of last year's football season, given by Harry Smith, treasurer.

The meeting was presided over by Dr. J. H. Whiteside, president. About 30 members of the association were present.

After the treasurer's report, Coach Snag Johnson gave the members an idea of how his football schedule will work. He stated that he is working out his schedule so that there will be no conflict with the Teacher's College schedule. It was announced that the college has three games scheduled to be played on the lighted field here.

Mr. S. H. Sherman superintendent of the Statesboro Schools, was called on to talk to the members of the association. He stated that it was his purpose and that of Coach Johnson to work in complete cooperation with the Athletic Assn. He suggested the Association assume complete control and responsibility of the management of the lighted field.

Mr. B. H. Ramsay talked to the members and pointing out that the high school football team and that every man who had a part in making it possible should take it up on himself to see that it is successful. He added that the time and the services of a great many of the members had been donated with no expectation of remuneration of any kind except a personal satisfaction in putting it off.

The membership of the Association, he explained, consisted of every man who had signed one of the forms which made it possible to raise the funds to build the field.

The Board of Directors will appoint the committees for the operation of the field this season, at a later date. Coach Johnson stated that the schedule will be announced when completed.

GAME SPONSORED BY STATESBORO AA

The Statesboro Athletic Association announced that Thursday night it will sponsor a donkey baseball game, to be played on the high school lighted football field. The game will start at 8:00 o'clock. The price of admission will be 10c and 25c.

All the players will be local men and the entire game will be played from the backs of the donkeys. A great evening is expected. Some of Statesboro's leading baseball players will be in the lineup.

Jake Hines Hit In Eye By Baseball; Eyesight Endangered

PLAYING WITH AKRON, OHIO TEAM - EYE SEVERELY CUT WHEN BAD HOP ON BALL HITS HIM

It was learned here last week that Jake Hines, playing third base with the Akron, Ohio, Yanks, baseball team was seriously injured in a ball game on August 14.

The accident happened in a game between Akron and Portsmouth in the Middle Atlantic League. A baseball hit hard, to Hines at third base, took a bad hop and hit him in the left eye. The eye was severely cut and a hemorrhage occurred before he could be removed from the field. A doctor sewed the cut before he was removed to the Peoples Hospital in Akron. The incident happened in the first of a double-header. It was his home run, two singles and succeeded in bringing in four runs.

Hines has been in professional baseball three years. His batting average up to the date of the accident was .342. He is now under contract to Newark, N. J., of the International League. He began playing with Akron about July 4 of this year. He had previously played with Augusta.

According to Mrs. Hines, the doctors express the hope that he will be able to see with the injured eye, but it is too early yet to know definitely.

FOR CITY COURT FOR SEPTEMBER 12 JURORS DRAWN

The following jurors have been drawn for the September term, 1938, City Court of Statesboro, to convene Monday, September 12, at 9 o'clock A. M.

Lester Akins, Albert J. Brannen, S. J. Riggs, J. Edwin Donohoe, Raymond G. Hodges, Alvin P. Belcher, M. G. Hodges, J. E. Donaldson, E. L. Poindester, Josh Martin, T. E. Deves, L. A. ANY DEADLOCK VOTES OCCUR, VICTORS WILL BE DECIDED IN SECOND PRIMARY, OCTOBER 5

With fourteen days to go, candidates for major offices are mapping plans for the final stretch campaign.

Sixteen speeches were made Monday in the governorship and senatorial campaign.

If Georgia's primary campaign develops any deadlock votes, the victors will be decided at a second primary October 5.

Since October 5 is the date for the state Democratic convention at Macon to nominate formally winners in the September 14 balloting, the convention then would be deferred until October 21.

In a second primary the candidates involved would have to pay a new qualification fee in accordance with rules of the state Democratic executive committee governing this year's primary. This fee would be fixed by Chairman Charles S. Reid, Mrs. Fred A. Stowe, secretary and a sub-committee.

Although predictions are scarce and heavily qualified, some old time observers expect run-offs in some of the races and give three reasons for their forecast-number of candidates in the field, multiplicity of issues and rapidity of developments.

Under the county unit system of nominating, failure of any candidate for senate, governorship and for state house office to poll a clear majority of 206 county unit votes would force a run-off between the top man and the runner-up.

The method of nominating congressmen from the ten Georgia districts, whether county unit or popular vote is left with the Democratic executive committee of each district.

Although registration this year is known to be generally off, observers expect the great majority of those registered to vote September 14 because of the intensity of the contests.

LEARNING BY DOING

Then the whining schoolboy, with his satchel And shining morning face, creeping like snail Unwilling to school. — Shakespeare.

Tomorrow brings to an end the happy vacation days when school boy and school girl alike forgot all he and she learned during the previous months of school. Tomorrow begins anew the school year. Some will return to pick up where they left off; others will enter for the first time. These last will find themselves upon the threshold of a great adventure. And adventure it should be—an adventure of doing.

We learn by doing . . . say our great educators, not by listening. Your children play music, draw pictures, cultivate flowers and vegetables, work in machine shops, build bridges, cook food and eat it together, bank their own money, travel, worship, sew up their clothes, they LIVE every minute a full, well rounded life.

Their teachers look upon them as people, and they know that their attitude toward religion, art, work, play, moral standards is the most important phase of any true education. Our progressive Statesboro School System is putting first things first. Cooperate with its teachers—they are guiding your children into lives of happy usefulness.

TO SELL STATESBORO TO TRAVELLERS

When you are traveling and are in a strange town, who is the first person you think of to ask your way about. More times than not it is the policeman.

This being the case, is it not true then, that your first impression of the town is given you by the way that policeman receives your questioning?

If you have had any experience with the patrolmen of the State Patrol, the first thing that strikes you is the appearance of these men and the courtesy with which they approach you. An out-of-state traveller cannot help but be impressed with these representatives of Georgia.

More and more out of town people are passing through Statesboro. A favorable impression made upon these people will reap benefits. An officer of the manner of Georgia's State Patrolmen, stationed at the center of town could do more to sell Statesboro to travellers than any other single attraction.

HOT WEATHER

Atlanta, of recent days, seems to have suffered from heat more than in a number of years. Regardless of the official thermometer readings, the summer sun has apparently been more oppressive, more discomfort-producing than in a long, long time. It may be the humidity. Or it may be the additional heat of political campaigns making itself felt.

Whatever the cause the people have complained more and more about the "fearful weather," than they have in a half dozen years.

It may be more oppressive than usual. But whether this be true or not there is one remedy for personal discomfort more effective than any other yet suggested.

That is, don't think about it. Every time an individual grouches about how hot it is, every time one feels the emotion of self-pity just so much harder does it become to bear. Go about your work as calmly and effortlessly as possible. Drink a reasonable amount of cooling liquids. Wear white clothes, loose, not restricting. And, above all, think of other things besides the weather.

That is the recipe for comfort under an unusually strong Georgia sun.

YOU GUYS WOULDN'T HURT THIS GIRL?

Today my daughter who is seven years old, started to school as usual. She wore a dark blue dress with a white collar. She had on black shoes and wore blue gloves. Her cocker spaniel whose name is "Coot", sat on the front porch and whined his canine belief in the folly of education as she waved "good-bye" and started off to the hall of learning.

Tonight we talked about school. She told me about the girl who sits in front of her—the girl with yellow curls—and the boy across the aisle who makes funny faces. She told me about her teacher, who has eyes in the back of her head—and about the tree in the school yard—and about the big girl who does not believe in Santa Claus. We talked about a lot of things—tremendously vital, unimportant things; and then we studied spelling, reading, arithmetic—and then to bed.

She's back there now—back in the nursery and sound asleep, with "Princess Elizabeth" (that's a doll) cuddled in her right arm.

You guys wouldn't hurt her, would you? You see I'm her daddy. When her doll is broken or her finger is cut, or her head gets bumped I can fix it—but when she starts to school, when she walks across the street, then she's in your hands.

She's a nice kid. She can run like a deer and dart about like a chipmunk. She likes to ride horses and swim and hike with me on Sunday afternoons. But I can't be with her all the time—I have to work to pay for her clothes and her education. So please help me look out for her. Please drive slowly past the schools and intersections—and please remember that children run from behind parked cars.

Please don't run over my little girl.—Eufaula, Alabama.

WE WONDER . . .

If the city votes the bond issues scheduled if street name signs could not be included in the work to be done in the public improvement program.

Why our police court records show no traffic cases. Is it that Statesboro is the traffic Utopia of Georgia, no speeding, no running through stop streets, everybody with lights.

If all the housewives in Statesboro who have cooks have had them furnish a health certificate from the Health Commissioner.

If the number of bicycle enthusiasts who ride their bicycles at night have thought of the danger to which they expose themselves when they ride the streets without lights.

If something could not be done about some of our alleys. Surely our City Fathers are aware of the conditions which exist on some of these streets.

How much would it cost to repair the hole in the sidewalk by the Confederate Monument on North Main St.

What strangers must think of our city upon being stopped by police for turning right on the red light, when they are used to driving in cities which permit right turns on the red light. Why not a "No Right Turn On Red Light" sign. It might make for a better impression of our city.

Why a large monkey wrench and sledge hammer had to be used on the up-town fire hydrants to get them turned on so that the system might be flushed by the firemen at their practice, recently.

All's Fair...

And still the thermometer soars—
Would you put a welcome like this over your threshold now?

"Come in the evening or come in the morning—
Come when you're looked for, or come without warning;
Kisses and welcome you'll find here before you,
And the oftener you come the more I'll adore you."

Or would you make up one like this and put it in a conspicuous place? If you come in the evening or come in the morning
You'd best bring your dinner, now take my warning
Or frowns and scowls you'll find here before you
For 100 in the shade won't make me adore you.

But to that group going to St. Simon's the weather is made to order for they will find comfort from the sizzling heat in the winter. Maybe if we will think about the sun, it will help us endure the heat, and speaking of winter reminds me of a cute story I heard recently about a certain interesting triangle. It seems that a young admirer gave his girl friend a radio, last Christmas, the other arm of the triangle comes across with a canary bird in a beautiful cage and looking askance at the radio, the young fellow said, "I have trained him to sing every time you turn on the radio," and the canary bravely does its best to drown out the radio.

Prof. Sherman says we really must have a new gymnasium. He has dismantled the old grammar school auditorium and there will be no more games up there. Luck to you, Mr. Sherman we hope you get it.

Statesboro people looked mighty good on the screen, and now that Harry Atkins and Fay Foy were selected as King and Queen of the movies, our guess is that they will soon be tripping off to Hollywood.

Will Mason took like he was used to that sort of thing. Anyway it was a good piece of work and we enjoyed it.

It will soon be time for all the clubs to get into action, Jane Cone at the helm of the Woman's club, Ethel Rushing martalling forces for the P. T. A. and all other groups the U. D. C. and A. L. A. The Music Club, The Cotillion Club, the Hospital Auxiliary. Very few people realize the work and energy required to direct these organizations, and many others fail to appreciate the great service they are rendering their city when they steer a club through a successful year.

Women in rallies, veteran campaigners appealing to the public, radios full of oratory and promises, badges and parades. We say we don't like these things, but we do. The excitement gets in our blood and we watch for results as keenly as we would watch a Derby Day entry. And with much more at stake.

The "March of Time" picture was especially interesting this week at the Georgia theater, because in the story of the young doctor we came to his problems—and we saw offered as a plan to relieve the doctors and hospitals of the heavy burden of charity patients they are called on to serve—a plan of "Hospital Insurance" such as an interested group are striving to put into practice here in town.

Aftermath of the Circus—A group of youngsters on Savannah Avenue staged an amateur circus Friday afternoon and when the young promoters split their profits they were richer by a nickel. Charles Groover was manager and his troupe artists were John Ford Mays, Foy Olliff, Ernest Brannen, Buck Mosley and John Olliff Groover. The most interested spectator was little Frank Williams.

See you next winter.
As Ever, JANE.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mrs. H. D. Anderson was hostess at a lovely party on Saturday evening at her home on Zietenover Avenue complimenting her daughter, Carol, on her birthday. The living room and music room were effectively decorated with coral vines and other summer flowers, pink being the predominating color used.

In the dining room a color motif of green and white was accented in the use of white dahlias and fern used in a silver bowl on the center of the dining table. Burning green and white tapers interspersed in the centerpiece of flowers gave additional beauty to the decorative scheme. Threebranded candelabra at each end of the table held green and white tapers. Places were marked with green and white handpainted cards. A four course dinner was served after which the beautifully embossed birthday cake was brought in on a silver waiter, and placed before Miss Anderson.

Covers were laid for: Carol Anderson, Sara Mooney, Aline Whiteside, Cecile Brannen, Carolyn Blitch, Elizabeth DeLoach, Blanche Anderson, Mrs. J. C. Hines and Mrs. Ralph Howard.

J. T. J.'S ELECT NEW PLEDGES

CHANGE MADE IN JOINT MEET-ING OF BOARD OF EDUCATION
THE PTA AND SUPERINTEN-DENT
Mr. S. H. Sherman announced yesterday that beginning Friday the Sta-tesboro schools will go on a one-season schedule. Mr. Sherman stated that school will begin at 8:30 in the morning and dismiss at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon.

The change was made effective at a joint meeting of the Board of Education, the Executive Committee of the PTA and Mr. Sherman.

The new schedule provides for 45 minute class periods.

Mr. S. H. Sherman, superintendent has announced that school will begin at 9:00 o'clock tomorrow morning. At that time all the grades from the first through the eleventh will assemble directly in the High School auditorium for opening announcements and a brief program.
The members of the Board of Education will introduce all the new teachers to the students and patrons present.
Immediately after the assembly the students will return to their rooms and studies begun seriously.

A Home Economics department and public music instruction have been added to the courses offered at the high school. For the first time credit will be given for courses in expression and music.

Mr. Sherman has been here for some time getting the schools ready for the coming year. He has been in the building. The bars have been down of the grammar school auditorium which has been used as a basketball court. The boy's basement of the high school building has been completely renovated. Other repairs have been completed.

In addition to measuring the acreage, it is also necessary to establish the normal yield of cotton on farms that are being issued "red" marketing cards. The yield must be established because the farmer who over-plants is required to pay a penalty of two cents a pound only on that cotton produced in excess of the normal or actual yield on the allotted acreage, whichever is greater. The "red" marketing card certifies the total number of pounds that may be sold without penalty. When the producer who overplanted sells beyond that poundage, he is required to pay the penalty.

The normal yields per acre for virtually all farms in the state's cotton counties already have been established, Durden said, and the work is so nearly completed that by the end of this week every county in the state should be in a position to issue "red"
marketing cards.

While a "white" or "red" marketing card will finally be issued for every cotton farm, Durden said arrangements had also been made for all those farmers whose cards are now being worked out to go ahead and sell their cotton.

"Those few producers whose farms have not yet been measured," Dur-den said, "or whose normal yields have not yet been established, can sell their cotton at once before marketing cards are issued to them by simply posting the two cents a pound penalty with the buyer. The amount

Cotton Quotas Not To Interfere With Marketing Of Crop

COTTON GROWERS IN THREE CLASSIFICATIONS: "WHITE," "RED" MARKETING CARDS AND THOSE WITH NO CARDS

Assurance that the marketing quota provisions of the federal farm program will not interfere with the normal movement of cotton to market has been given Georgia farmers by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Homer S. Durden, state Triple-A administrative officer, said in Athens this week that at this time Georgia farmers fall into three classifications so far as marketing quotas are concerned but that regardless of classification, a farmer could sell his cotton without delay.

He said the classifications are those farmers with "white" marketing cards and those with "red" marketing cards and those with no marketing cards at all.

In the first and largest class, Dur-den said, are those farmers who planted within their acreage allotment and therefore are entitled to sell all of the cotton produced on their allocated acres without penalty. The only thing these farmers need to sell their cotton is a "white" marketing card certifying that they have not overplanted. Farmers who have not overplanted, and whose acreage has been checked, should be able to secure white marketing cards from their county offices without delay, he said.

"Red" marketing cards are being issued as promptly as possible, Dur-den said, to those farmers who have overplanted their acreage.

In addition to measuring the acreage, it is also necessary to establish the normal yield of cotton on farms that are being issued "red" marketing cards. The yield must be established because the farmer who over-plants is required to pay a penalty of two cents a pound only on that cotton produced in excess of the normal or actual yield on the allotted acreage, whichever is greater. The
"red" marketing card certifies the total number of pounds that may be sold without penalty. When the producer who overplanted sells beyond that poundage, he is required to pay the penalty.

The normal yields per acre for virtually all farms in the state's cotton counties already have been established, Durden said, and the work is so nearly completed that by the end of this week every county in the state should be in a position to issue "red"
marketing cards.

While a "white" or "red" marketing card will finally be issued for every cotton farm, Durden said arrangements had also been made for all those farmers whose cards are now being worked out to go ahead and sell their cotton.

"Those few producers whose farms
have not yet been measured," Dur-den said, "or whose normal yields have not yet been established, can sell their cotton at once before marketing cards are issued to them by simply posting the two cents a pound penalty with the buyer. The amount

Sherman Asks For Cooperation At School Opening

STATES HE FEELS LIKE A RACE HORSE AT THE BARRIER:
"RACING TO GET STARTED"

S. H. Sherman, Statesboro's new school superintendent opened up the 1938-39 school term by having all the grades of both the High School and the Grammar School assemble in the High School auditorium last Thursday morning at 9:00 o'clock.

Mr. Fred T. Lanier, chairman of the Board of Education introduced the superintendent to the body.

The opening program for the new term was very short but very fitting.
The program was opened by a piano solo by Miss Maxam Fox. The students then all stood and sang, "America." Following this Rev. Williams of the Methodist church read a scripture from the Bible.

Before introducing Mr. Sherman,
Mr. Lanier stated that the board did quite a bit of investigating before making a selection as to who would be the man for the office, and he felt sure that they had selected the man that will do the work that is expected of him.

Mr. Lanier stated that before the change in the schedule of the school was made, the new schedule was studied very carefully and he believed that it will work out to be much more satisfactory than the two-season schedule which has been in effect for so long a time.

The chairman of the board said that the school was noted for two things, its cooperation with its church and its cooperation with its schools, and he said that he hoped this cooperation will continue. He asked that the students cooperate with Mr. Sherman and the faculty so as to make this one of the most successful school years in the history of the institution.

Mr. Sherman, in just a brief talk, stated that he was indeed happy and honored to be selected as the new superintendent of the Statesboro Public Schools for the coming school year and he hopes that the coming term will be one of the most successful. Mr. Sherman stated that he was like a horse at the barrier just before the race began, "That he is a racing to get started and that he doesn't want to stop." Mr. Sherman said he feels with the full cooperation from the faculty, the entire student body, that it will be a successful year.

After these few words the new superintendent went on to make the usual announcements concerning the necessary arrangements that always go with the opening of school.

He introduced each of the new faculty members to the student body and visitors by calling their names and asking them to come up on the stage.

Rev. Williams read the benediction and the students went to their rooms and immediately began classes.

CAMPUS CLEANING AT NEVILLS HIGH SCHOOL
The Board of Trustees of Nevills
High School announces that this afternoon at three o'clock the annual "campus cleaning" will be held at the campus of the school.

The first floor was remodeled last year and when the work on the second floor is completed, East Hall will be practically a new dormitory throughout. In West Hall the third floor is being painted and remodeled. The first two floors of this hall were redone last year. When the improvements are completed on the two old halls, the three girls' residence halls will have a capacity of 308 with every room like new and only two young ladies will be allowed to use one room.

This college will be able, this fall, to accommodate many more students than ever. Sanford Hall, which accommodates 176, will house the members will also be placed in the Gar-ruth cottage and the gymnasium giving room for more than 200 men on the campus.

Pre-Election Polls Show George Leads Senate Race

Senator Walter F. George seems destined to be re-elected in the primary of September 14. This is based on public sentiment as seen and reflected in various state-wide polls conducted throughout the state.

It is now apparent that Senator George will poll over 60 per cent of the popular votes cast in the primary, and will carry in excess of 140 congresses. Senator George is gaining steadily. Camp is apparently in second place now, with Eugene Talmadge in third place. McKee is running a very poor fourth, and will not figure in the race at all.

Mr. Edgar Dunlap, who was outstanding in the 1938 Triple-A farm program upon the basis of 7.5 inch cotton, with premiums and discounts for grades above and below Middling 7-8 inch, in accordance with an approved schedule. Loans will also be made to non-cooperating producers upon that portion of their production in excess of their marketing quotas of 60 per cent of the rates applicable to cooperating producers.

The average price of 7-8 inch middling spot cotton, on the 10 spot markets designated by the Secretary of Agriculture, recently fell below 52 cents per pound. The official price of cotton is required by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 to make loans to cooperating producers of not less than 52 cents and not more than 75 per cent of the parity price of cotton; and to non-cooperating producers upon that portion of their production in excess of their marketing quotas at 60 per cent of the rates of loans applicable to cotton produced by cooperating producers.
The sales opened on July 28 and closed August 26.

Georgia tobacco growers received an all-time record of $18,818,764 this season, the State Department of Agriculture announced last week. Their 92,533,681 pounds of leaf sold for an average of 20.84 cents.

Statesboro led all the markets that had only one set of buyers in the total number of pounds sold. The local market, however was eleventh in average price, with an average of 19.65 cents per pound.

The official figures revealed Florida, Alabama and South Carolina tobacco brought an additional $476,621 for 2,343,270 pounds in the fifteen Georgia marketing cities.

This made the total sales at Georgia warehouses $19,295,385, also a new record. The $4,877,201 total lbs.
averaged 20.34 cents.

The sales opened on July 28 and

Durden said that any farmer who is dissatisfied with his cotton marketing quota may have it reviewed by a local committee of three producers if he makes application for a review within 15 days after the mailing of his notice of quota. He also pointed out that producers who planted in excess of their cotton acreage allotments will be exempt from the two-cent penalty, if the total production on their farms does not exceed 1,000 pounds of lint cotton. Valerian, an Old Plant Valerian was supposed to have been poured in ancient form upon Christ's feet by Mary Magdalene. One of the Hindu legends pertaining to this plant is that a man who planted one of the plants went away for a long visit. He told his wife to care for this plant patiently until he returned. This man dressed as a beggar and came back unexpectedly one day to see if his wife had fulfilled her promise. This was his test of her faithfulness to him. He found the plant in fine condition and they lived happily ever after. Valerian is sometimes used for seasoning in broths.

ALL'S FAIR

Dr. Pittman rates our return this week in a walk. On his return from Mexico where he and son, Marvin, were brushing up on their Spanish, Dr. Pittman presented his friend, Alfred Dorman, with a beautifully carved walking cane. The cane is pretty enough to serve as an incentive for strolling down the Avenue. Maybe when these gentlemen become more agile from exercise, they will favor us with the Mexican Hat Dance.

A tip to Harry Akins, George Johnston, Richard Montgomery and all other romantically inclined young men. There will be a full moon Friday night, and since it is the full moon nearest the autumnal equinox, it will rise only a little later each night for several nights. So make your plans for moonlight dates accordingly.

Bright lights at the rear of the moon home are usually an indication that a game of badminton is in progress. John and Sally Mooney are acquiring professional form in that popular game.

Statesboro is becoming a town of gab-fests. Louise DeLoach goes to Chicago so often we might call her a commuter. Jessie Averitt and Ouida Simmons make treks to automobile factories whether it be hot or cold, and now comes a card from Helen Arnold that she's on her way from California 'The Right Way.' Our citizens who have visited Mexico could form a sizeable club. Mary Margaret Blitch spent the summer in California and trips up and down the Atlantic Seaboard have become casual affairs. We suggest that it is winter we have a series of lectures with our traveled citizens assuming the role of 'Stoddard.' We understand that Dr. Pittman could give us a most graphic description of a bull fight. While we—alas, can only tell about the big one that got away while we were fishing at the Ogechee.

Have you noticed Ouida Simmons new hair cut. Why those folks in Atlanta have practically made a glamour get out of Ouida. Personally we want to fix our windows like Olivia Purvis Averitt's at the Johnson apartments. We are afforded a generous peek into the interior, but some day we are coming on up because that peek is intriguing. And aren't we having a time waiting for lunch at two o'clock, but we have a nice long morning, and we never did work after dinner anyway.

Our orchids this week go to Hal Macon for bringing us Alexander's Rag Time Band on Monday after it begins at the Fox Theatre in Atlanta on Friday.

Hay Fever sufferers in Statesboro have become legion — They need to chip in and build an air-conditioned club where they can congregate in peace and discuss the various plants and foods they are allergic to.

That car that we see on the streets with venetian blinds really has something.

Dame rumor has it that the air at a recent house party was full of Static, and that a certain high school club is also having some hot politics. All of which doesn't disturb us in the least, we have our own little fish. As Ever, JANE.

HEALTHFUL SCHOOL LUNCHES

WHY HAVE A GOOD SCHOOL LUNCH

By Elvie Maxwell
Home Demonstration Agent.

1. The child's physical growth and development are determined largely by his diet. Hence every child should have a lunch which is adequate in both quantity and quality.

2. The children are more mentally alert when provided with the right sort of food.

3. The breakfast of the average farm family is poorly selected. The early breakfast hour and the hurry in which breakfast is often eaten tend further to hamper the child's nutrition.

4. The supper of the average farm family is, likewise, inadequate containing no fruits and vegetables as a rule.

5. No indigestible foods, such as dinner at home. If these are not included in the school lunch, the child receives far too few of these important foods.

6. A good school lunch will do much to remedy the malnutrition which is found in so large a number of our rural school children.

7. Every mother should be as careful about providing a lunch for her child as she is about her child's making A in school subjects.

He will represent the state of Georgia and its people vigorously and efficiently. ZACK CRAVEY VISITS

147 COUNTIES, COVERING 19,200 MILES

Zack D. Cravey, former Game and Fish Commissioner, candidate for State Treasurer, on Saturday had completed 147 counties with his plans this week arranged to visit the other 12 counties in Georgia.

In a statement just issued by Mr. Cravey he says:

"When I assume the office of State Treasurer, I expect to cooperate with every official in the State. There is one condition existing now that I will surely correct; that is, I will promptly pay each month the many county treasurers throughout the State the gas tax which is used for secondary road expenses.

"My race is in excellent condition and reports from my friends over the State, the weekly press, a large majority of which have endorsed me, indicate a sweeping victory on September 14.

"I wish to take this opportunity to express my sincere appreciation to the weekly press of Georgia and to my hosts of friends who will appear at the polls in every precinct in Georgia on September 14 in my behalf."

THE RESPONSIBILITY IS OURS

Today (Wednesday) 3,285 Bulloch countians will do well to think, and think earnestly when they begin striking names from the ballot as they set about exercising their right as voters in the election for a United States Senator, a Governor, representatives to the National Congress, member of the State Senate from this district, and numerous other officers to represent them in the affairs of the state.

Public indifference to vital political and economic problems is today one of the chief menaces to American institution, for such indifference provides a fertile soil for the growth of undemocratic movements.

After today, comparatively few voters will take the trouble to follow up the activities of the officials they elect. Whether or not lawmakers frame wise and beneficent laws, whether or not the executive authorities administer these laws efficiently and impartially, and whether or not the courts prosecute violations speedily and effectively, are matters toward which a considerable number of our people display a supreme indifference, until the next election year.

Our right to vote for whom we please is the one thing we take so much for granted that we oftentimes overlook its significance. In using this right we select the way in which we go forward or turn back.

In the campaign now closed, we have voiced our conviction that Georgia needs such champions of democracy as Walter F. George during the coming years. If American democracy, as it lives today in the hearts of Georgians, is not to perish, Senator George must be the victor. If the program which has been so splendidly launched for the betterment of Georgia is to be completed, Governor Rivers must be elected.

But today when you go to the polls no one can rightly presume to tell you what you should think or do. Today all other powers must step aside, while you take charge. Yours is the sole authority at the ballot box—and yours the responsibility.

A HOME MAN FOR COMPTROLLER GENERAL

Without it being deliberate a great many voters have lost sight of a great many things in connection with the primary today. With the Senatorial race almost completely overshadowing the field, other races are being run which have a bearing on our welfare as well.

Mr. Homer Parker has waged a campaign for Comptroller General based on his record as a public official. He is a conservative and is opposed to any new form of taxation. Mr. Parker has a long record of public service. After the World War he practiced law in Statesboro. He was twice elected mayor of Statesboro, resigning this position in 1927 to become the adjutant general of Georgia. He served the state in this capacity for four years under Governor Hardman.

While adjutant general he made the race for comptroller general in 1930 and both he and the incumbent, Wm. B. Harrison, received an equal number of county votes (186) but Mr. Parker received a plurality of 1,199 popular votes. The nomination was denied him by the delegates to the state convention in 1930.

In 1931 Mr. Parker was elected to congress from the First District for two terms. In his third race he received 3,492 more votes than his successful opponent, who won the office by the operation of the county unit system of election.

Mr. Parker is a Bulloch county man and a Bulloch county man is the best there is for the job.

GEORGIA'S COUNTY UNIT VOTE SYSTEM

Georgia's county unit vote system is the most peculiar in the United States. This is the only state where the county unit system obtains.

No one seems to know just how it got started. A nestor of democracy in the state said a few days ago that its history is "veiled in antiquity."

Years ago, prior to the direct primary elections for United States senator and governor, the Democratic nominees for governor were chosen by the general assembly.

In those days it took all summer to choose the gubernatorial nominee. Now it takes nearly all summer, considering the campaigning, but the result is determined in one day's balloting.

When the convention system was in vogue, each county had a mass meeting at the courthouse to determine which candidate would get the convention delegates from that county. These courthouse mass meetings started late in March or early in April. One north Georgia county would have a convention one day and a south Georgia county would meet the next day. The candidates tried to keep up with the county conventions and it kept them busy. There were no paved roads and no radio. They had only personal appearances and newspapers.

Sometimes alone about July one candidate might have received the delegates of 30 or 40 counties while another had only two or three counties. When the lagging candidate found himself in such shape he often conceded the election to his opponent. Then when the remaining county conventions were held the voters didn't consider the governor's race. If such an event occurred in a state house office race that race was dropped from consideration.

In the early fall a convention was held in Atlanta, Macon or elsewhere and the delegates from the various counties voted as their county mass meetings had instructed them.

Then as now the general election in November was a mere formality.

At these county conventions as long back as the oldest Democrat can remember it was the custom to allow each county two convention delegates for every representative the county had in the lower house. The custom still prevails on the county unit vote. There are 205 members of the house and 410 county unit votes.

The county unit vote really came into vogue in the early days of Tom Watson, in the nineties. Watson was a strong champion of the county unit system, modeled after the federal electoral vote system and designed to "protect the country counties from the city counties."

The county unit vote system became a major issue in the 1908 governorship campaign between Governor Hoke Smith and Joe Brown, with Watson and the county unit sponsors backing Brown. Brown won and from that day until this the county unit plan has not been challenged.

Only in few instances have candidates receiving the larger popular votes failed to obtain the largest county unit vote and these instances were in minor races. In several instances, however, because of the county unit system candidate for major office, with two or more opponents, have received the majority of the county unit vote but failed to obtain a popular vote majority. This was exemplified in the 1932 gubernatorial race when Eugene Talmadge first was elected to that high office. Talmadge polled only 116,000 of nearly 280,000 popular votes cast but his vote was so distributed that he obtained 265 of the possible 410 county unit votes. Thus it can be seen that with less than 40 per cent of the popular vote in his column Talmadge got more than 65 per cent of the unit vote.

Poultry Tips for September

In September laying houses should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected and made ready for the new poultry year.

Move the pullets into their laying quarters as soon as the first egg is found on the range.

Do not crowd too many pullets in the house, as this is a good way to start crows. Allow 3 1-2 square feet per bird.

Continue to feed growing mash to the pullets for a week after they are moved to their new quarters and then gradually change to the laying mash the next week.

Give the old hens a final culling, disposing of those that were not able to maintain good production throughout the summer months.

Young pullets reaching maturity should not need much culling, but should those that are smaller than the others of the same age, and those that are late to come into production.

Select cockerels for breeding purposes that are large, well developed, have plenty of "pep" and of a good started type. Eliminate those with standard disqualification, crooked toes, crooked breast bones, off colored eyes, narrow backs and crow heads.

The testing season seems to be starting earlier than usual this year, and the number of flocks in Georgia have already been officially selected and blood tested under the National Plan.

Valerian, an Old Plant
Valerian was supposed to have been present in ancient form upon Christ's feet by Mary Magdalene. One of the Hindu legends pertaining to this plant is that a man after planting one of the plants went away for a long visit. He told his wife to care for this plant patiently until he returned. This man dressed as a beggar and came back unexpectedly one day to see if his wife had fulfilled her promise. This was his test of her faithfulness to him. He found the plant in fine condition and they lived happily ever after. Valerian is sometimes used for seasoning in broths.

LANIER'S MORTUARY
Allen R. Lanier, Mgr.

HEADQUARTERS
WALTER F. GEORGE
CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION
U. S. SENATOR
P. O. BOX 1418
ATLANTA, GEORGIA

To the People of Georgia:
On the 14th instant, you will render your decision, by selecting one of four candidates to represent you in the United States Senate. The campaign has been unprecedented in character. It has been my pleasure, as well as my duty, to present my cause to the people, based strictly upon my record, made during conditions of distress, which were, themselves, unprecedented.

No votes cast by me in the Senate can properly be appraised without keeping in mind the conditions that confronted us. Theories that were safe guides in normal times were insufficient in abnormal times. There were certain fundamental truths that afforded beacon lights while tempests raged. Loyalty to these was essential to the preservation of our government as framed by our patriot forefathers.

In clinging to these safeguards, in preference to new and dangerous theories, I have violated no sentence of our party platform, nor any call for legislation favoring relief to the needy and suffering humanity, nor for the betterment of those of our fellow Americans who were losing the fight by adverse conditions beyond their control.

I have presented my record to the people. It is an open book. By the record I have answered all misrepresentations of fact. The opposition has no faith in their own misstatements.

The issues are too grave to permit me to wage a campaign on personal grounds. The issue of representative government transcends all else. However humanitarian, however wise and patriotic the Chief Executive may be, now and in the future, government by the executive is a revolutionary departure from the Constitutional government which has guided us from a narrow fringe of people on the Eastern seaboard to 150 million of people scattered over an empire reaching from the Atlantic to the Pacific and to the islands of the sea.

I am asking you to approve my course and to give me another term in the United States Senate, and to be assured that my gratitude for the honor you have bestowed will follow me to my resting place under Georgia soil, which is as dear to me as life itself.

If I know my people, your answer will be a thunderous -- YES.

SOCIETY CLUBS PERSONALS

ALL'S FAIR

Scene: The Swanky King and Prince Club at St. Simons--Enter: Statesboro boys and girls, members of a house-party. Dramatic moment: During a lull in music that was "too, too divine" the orchestra leader called for some one present to sing with the orchestra, and lo! Tiny Ramsey and June Carpenter--June of the light brown hair, stepped right up, obliged with a rendition of "Flat Foot Floogie" and Jane captivated them all with that delightful little ditty entitled "A Ticket A Ride." From then on everything was "on the house" for the two artists who won terrific applause, and that's not all.

And from out in Birmingham comes a story of how Ruth Rebecca Franklin got a swell invitation with Douglass (Wrong-way) Corrigan and gave readers a clever feature story. Doug promised Beck a ride to Atlanta if she could find a place to stay away in, but tiny she is, she failed to find a place to squeeze into.

Frank Hook, at a recent steak fry demonstrated a new cooking rack that he had made in the Industrial Art Class, and at the same time established a reputation as a first class cook. You girls had better look to your laurels.

They say the college wardrobe used to consist of six pairs of liot stockings, a black, six plain white shirts, and a pair of white slacks. Two wool skirts, dark colors. One Sunday dress with elbow sleeves and neck not too low, etc. But today it's another story.

Liz Smith who is shorter bound has among her campus clothes, a dark red dirndl with white dots and her modern Sunday dress is a love of a silk, teal blue with silver trimmings, and a Tweed sport coat that's a knockout. Lenora Whitehead is specially proud of her shoes. All looking as if they were ready to be stepped in and go places, and those alligator dress shoes should go smart places. Then there are black suedes and black evening slippers with platform soles, that will dance many a mile maybe and then that frivolous pair of blue satin mules. Jean Smith who goes back to Vandy has among her campus clothes an adorable sport dress with teal blue wool skirt and maroon velvet blouse. Annette Franklin goes back to Agnes Scott where she will sport a red plaid dirndl, and Alfred Merle Dorman, who is going back to Wesleyan after all, has an ensemble that glorifies that lowly animal, the skunk--It is an Eisenhower model. The coat has a collar of skunk fur and the fur extends down the front and around the bottom of the coat. The dress top is satin with varicolored trimming at neck line. Her shoes, bag and hat all feature the suede satin combination. With this ensemble she will wear fall ornaments of gold fashioned like autumn leaves. Annette Coleson also bound for Shorter College can wear for those first important evening affairs a lovely black taffeta frock, quaint and old fashioned in line, but very modern in appearance. A full skirt billows from a basque waist and has a deep ruffle around the bottom. It is worn with a red velvet jacket and touches of red velvet enliven the dress.

Annette has for street wear a modish brown tailored wool suit with which she uses rust accessories. Another chic outfit Annette has is a black silk alpaca with bolero with white gardenias. The seniors at Statesboro High are already proudly displaying class rings, pins, belt buckles, etc.

Aren't we proud of the touch of fall in the air, and I don't feel a bit like saying, "The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year."

As Ever, JANE.

Virtually complete returns showed about 65 per cent voting in favor. A favorable vote of 66.6 per cent was needed. Referenda which won the necessary two-thirds majority included proposals to regulate interstate shipment of such minor crops as citrus fruits, cauliflower, celery, cantaloupes, grapes, prunes, hops, honey bees and milk. Proposals which were defeated would have dealt with onion sets and California peaches and pears.

Had the August forecast of this year's crop been 21,000,000 bushels larger, the AAA would have been required to conduct a referendum in the midwestern corn belt on a proposal to cure farmers to store a part of their crop to prevent excessive marketing.

County Teachers Organize County GEA Unit

More than 125 Bulloch county school teachers gathered at the court house in Statesboro last Thursday for the purpose of organizing a unit of the Georgia Education Association.

H. H. Britt, superintendent of the Nevills school was elected president, W. Louis Ellis, superintendent of the Westside school, vice-pres. of the Bulloch county unit and Mrs. F. W. Hughes of Brooklet was made the secretary and treasurer.

Register is the first school in the county to join the new unit one hundred percent with every member of the faculty enrolling.

A committee was named to decide if the new organization shall meet at regular intervals or if meetings will be called as needed.

At the meeting a review of the 1937-38 educational program for Bulloch county was made and the new program for the 1938-39 school year was studied. The aim for the new school year is to continue the improvement of the curriculum in the county schools so that children of the county might be better able to meet persistent life problems. The activities planned to accomplish this aim consist of the teachers of each school visiting the other schools, a county library program, a Roosevelt helping teacher program, establishment of a county bureau of publication, improve program of making and keeping records in the county, special studies in home economics, agriculture, libraries, health program and other allied activities.

The county unit will affiliate with the state organization of the Georgia Education Association.

MRS. D. L. DEAL SPEAKS AT ROTARY CLUB ON GYMNASIUM NEED

Mrs. D. L. Deal was the principal speaker at the Statesboro Rotary Club at its regular meeting Monday noon.

Mrs. Deal spoke in behalf of the Gymnasium which is included in one of the bond issues being voted upon by the city today. She pointed out the need of such a building for the children of Statesboro, adding that the men of the city needed it just as much as the youth of the city. She told the members of the club that such a gymnasium as planned would furnish a place for them to turn away from their business worries and allow them to relax, thus bringing about a new mental activity.

Mrs. Deal closed her talk with a plea that the members of the club support the bond issue for the construction of the gymnasium.

MRS. JULIAN C. LANE SAYS H. D. BRANNEN NOT QUALIFIED

Mrs. Julian C. Lane, defeated candidate for the state Senate filed a contest with the secretary of the county executive committee, on the grounds that she was the only qualified candidate for the state senate from the Forty-ninth district.

Mrs. Lane was a candidate in the June county primary when she received 657 votes to 1473 for her opponent, Harvey D. Brannen. Her name was again placed in the ballot in the September primary and she received 537 votes to 1,947 for Brannen.

Mrs. Lane filed a protest and contest with B. H. Ramsey, secretary of the state Democratic Executive Committee. She asked that a recount of the votes be made in this county and that he be declared the nominee.

Mr. Talmadge says that he hopes to establish himself the winner in sufficient additional counties to give him a total of 222 unit votes, well above the required majority of 206.

The party rules require contests such as Mr. Talmadge has filed here to be made within five days after the voting. The county then has ten days to select a recount of the votes.

If the contestant is reversed by the county executive committee, he may appeal to the state executive committee within five days after the county ruling.

Mr. Ramsey, secretary of the county executive committee, stated that he will call the committee to hear the claims as set forth in the contest filed as soon as possible.

Grade And Staple Premiums Offered Under Cotton Loan

LOAN PROGRAM PROVIDES FOR PAYMENTS RANGING FROM 10 TO 345 POINTS

Loan premiums will be given on all cotton above 7.8 inch middling, the rate depending on the grade and staple length, according to rulings that have been made by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, and the Surplus Commodity Corporation.

The government loan program is based on a rate of 8.50 cents a pound on 7.8 inch middling, but provides for payments of premiums ranging from 10 to 345 points, for better than this staple length or grade, County Agent Byron Dyer said this week.

"This means that the correct classification of each individual bale of Georgia's current cotton crop is more important than ever this season," Mr. Dyer continued, "because for grades and staple other than 7.8 inch middling, the rate will be decreased as well as increased."

"Just how much additional money will be lent Georgia farmers under the premium system will not be known until the grade and staple report on the 1938 crop is available."

"If the same system had been in effect last year, approximately 59 per cent of Georgia's crop would have been eligible for the premium offered on staple and 12 per cent for the premium on grade."

The full loan rate will be available this year only to cotton producers who have not knowingly overplanted their 1938 allotment. Non-cooperators will be eligible to receive a loan at only 60 per cent of the rate applicable to cooperating producers and only on that part of their production in excess of their farm marketing quotas.

City Voting Today On Bond Issues For $55,000

Election Forecasters Prove Uncanny In Pre-Election Prediction In Senatorial Race

The American Institute of Public Opinion, popularly known as the "Gallup Poll" specializes in forecasting events, especially elections. In the recent senatorial race the Poll measured the voting in a pre-voting forecast with an average error of only one and fifty-one hundredths per cent.

Dr. George Gallup, director of the institute said on Tuesday before the election, Wednesday, that Senator George would receive 46 per cent of the votes. He actually received 44.03 per cent. He predicted that Talmadge would receive 29 per cent of the votes. Mr. Talmadge received 31.77 per cent of the total votes cast. And to top it off, the Doctor forecast that Camp would receive 25 per cent of the total votes cast. He actually received 24.2 per cent.

No one knows how Dr. Gallup and his institute guess about securing his data upon which he bases his predictions but there is an uncanny accuracy about the accuracy of his forecasts.

COUNTY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENTS NAMED

With all the fourteen county school superintendents named, the county school superintendents of them all, except Clatsop, Mr. Womack, stated Saturday that a superintendent had not been elected at that time.

The superintendents are as follows: Brooklet, J. H. Griffith; Denmark, George Donaldson; Esia, J. C. Cato; Leefield, Lincoln Boykin; Laboratory School at the Teachers College, W. L. Downs; Middleground, Ernest Anderson; Nevills, H. H. Britt; Ogechee, Elizabeth Donovan; Port, H. G. McKee; Register, Harris arville; Stillson, S. A. Driggers; Warnock, W. E. McElveen; West Side, W. Louis Ellis.

Farm families who desire federal aid to finance crop-making operation next year are urged to make arrangements early, said Nathan R. Bennett, county extension supervisor in charge of the Farm Security Administration offices in Bulloch county.

Ample funds have been provided for next year's loan requirements of families who farmed with FSA assistance this year and additional funds are now available to allow more families to be aided.

"An advice from our regional office in Montgomery, Ala., states that new families may be helped this year if applications are submitted in time to be handled. New applicants are urged to make arrangements before the rush season. The local offices in the Brannen building on West Main street will be open each day in the month between the hours of 8:30 and 5:00 to receive new applications," Mr. Bennett said.

"Loans may be secured to finance purchase of necessary farm supplies, livestock, feed, fertilizers, fuel, tools, household equipment and in case of new families for temporary food or clothing requirements."

"Loans are made to families who own or rent lands that are capable of producing a good living and the additional earnings to repay loans. If the borrower is a tenant, it is required that he must have a written lease for the period of the loan."

Assistance is given the family in working out a practical plan of farm and home management. This plan, worked out by the borrower and the county extension supervisor, outlines the operations for the year based on available farm labor and productivity of the soils to be cultivated. The plan provides for food for the family and feed for the stock so that the family can live at home and also produce a cash income to retire debts and buy more livestock and equipment, or other practical requirements.

APPLICATIONS BEING CONSIDERED FOR FSA FARM TENANT FARM PURCHASE ACT FOR 1938-39.

According to a statement made by Nathan R. Bennett, Jr., Farm Security Administration supervisor for Bulloch county, the county committee is considering eight applicants for purchase of farms under the Bankhead-Jones Tenant Farm Purchase Act for 1938-39. These will be selected from 411 applications by Bulloch county tenant farmers.

Mr. Bennett stated that these eight when selected will make nineteen farms purchased under the act. In 1936 there were five, 1937-38 there were six.

One issue is for $10,000 to be added funds by the WPA for the purpose of constructing and equipping a gymnasium for the use of the public schools of Statesboro.

Another issue is for $35,000 to which will be added $28,636.35 by the WPA for the purpose of constructing additions to and extending the water system and sewerage of the city, making a total of $63,636.35 available for this purpose. If this issue is voted for, plans call for an expenditure of $34,545.45 to be used to extend the sewerage system of the city and $29,090.90 to be used to extend the waterworks system.

The third issue is for $10,000, which, if voted, will be added $32,061.60 by the WPA and $38,027.95 by the property owners for the purpose of additional street paving with concrete, gutters, turn-outs, sidewalks, and storm drainage in the city. The total cost of this project will be $75,079.55. The bond issue for $10,000 is for the purpose of paying the city share in the cost.

The city council passed the ordinances calling for the special election on these bond issues at their meeting August 9.

The preliminary applications for two projects to be covered by the bond issue have been completed and have been submitted for approval pending the outcome of the election. The plans for the gymnasium have not been completed but will go forward as soon as the outcome of the election is known.

According to an announcement from the city office there are approximately 575 qualified registered voters in Statesboro. Col. Hinton Booth, the city attorney, stated that those who have filled the requirements to vote in the November election are qualified to vote today, provided they are registered at the city office and have filled the residence requirement.

He explained that for the bond issues to be approved it will require the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the persons voting, which number must be a majority of the total registered qualified voters.

It is explained that the bond issues are voted on separately and a voter may vote for or against any one or two or all three of the issues.

NEVILLS HAS ICE BOXES AT SCHOOL

Each day there will be an ice box in each building to preserve the milk or fruit juices that children usually bring to school for their lunch. This means that each child can have ice milk or juice by just placing it in the ice box upon arriving at school in the morning. Two large boxes are already placed there and another one expected this week in order to take care of every child each day.

This service is carried on through the courtesy of the Claxton Ice Co. We hope this activity will be a success as it is new and the first time it has ever been tried in this section.

NEVILLS SCHOOL OPENS WITH DR. R. J. KENNEDY AND COL. LINTON G. LANIER PRINCIPAL SPEAKERS

On last Friday morning the Nevills High School opened its Fall Session for the new scholastic year with a large crowd of patrons, friends and students present. The auditorium was filled to its capacity with many students, that could not be accommodated in the school building.

Dr. R. J. Kennedy, member of the State Board of Education and president of Bulloch County bank, gave a most interesting inspiring and educational address that will long be remembered by the adults, and will mean much in the lives of the students of this school. After this interesting speaker congratulated this community on the material growth, and rapid progress that their school plant had made and was still making, he assured them that the Nevills High School's qualification was worthy of becoming accredited and he had been informed by the proper officials that the papers properly signed and filed with the accrediting officials was all that was necessary to be done, to place it with the best accredited schools of the county. Dr. Kennedy gave a most encouraging fact when he stated that the State Board of Education was now striving to make the scholastic training throughout the state on more equal basis; that is the rural children would have an equal chance to that of city children by means of using the same text books. He also pointed out the simplicity of text books and the gradual making of the subject material more easily linked with the present knowledge of the child, by making them more attractive and written in simple form which is a great aid to the teacher as well as students. Immediately after Dr. Kennedy's address Col. Linton G. Lanier made some very fitting remarks in the form of advice to the students. His strongest stress was placed upon honesty and the part it plays in the life of every individual. He also gave many compliments on the "growth" of the Nevills School plant.

Dr. C. E. Stapleton, member of the County Board of Education, gave an interesting report on the development of the plans of the new building which is expected to be completed within the next few days. This building will take care of the Agriculture and Home Economics department as well as the canning plant, he stated.

Supt. H. H. Britt introduced the Faculty members and gave a report of plans for the present school year. Miss Maude White gave a report

Teachers College Enrolls 576

CROWDED CONDITIONS PREVAIL IN MEN'S RESIDENCES AS REGISTRATION MARK SOARS

On Wednesday morning of last week the 1938-39 term of the South Georgia Teachers College was formally opened with one of the largest enrollments in the history of the college. A total of 576 students enrolled as compared to 508 students for the last year.

The 576 that are registered now have completed their registration, and according to Dean Z. S. Henderson, there will be others to register yet. The freshman class enrollment number rose to 254 students and compared with that of last year it is sixty-three more than the number which was 191. Although there is considerable more space on the campus this year than has been at any time, crowded conditions for men's quarters have caused the officials of the college no little amount of thought. The opening of the new dormitory for the women relieved the situation of crowded conditions for an illness of four months. The funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock of last week from the Portal Methodist church with Rev. Frank Jordan in charge of the services. Burial was held in the Portal Cemetery.

Mr. Parrish, aged 63, was a native of Bulloch county and was a leader in his community. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Floris Woods Parrish; one daughter, Mrs. E. L. Womack of Portal; one son, J. E. Parrish of Portal; one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Bland of Statesboro; two brothers, J. L. Parrish of Register and Rufus E. Parrish of Statesboro; two granddaughters; Miss Sara Womack and Miss Joyce Parrish.

M. W. Turner Saves His Own Tobacco Seed For 1939 Planting

From a germination test found in the county agent's office it is possible for local tobacco growers to save their own planting seed. In the past Bulloch tobacco growers have gone to North Carolina to procure planting seed.

When the 1.2 acres he planted from these saving seed appeared more and more to him. He had the field inspected for various diseases and found that

C.S. Cromley Harvests 48 Bales Of Cotton On 39 Acres Of Land

The early destroying of the 1937 cotton stalks, using good cotton seed as for staple and quality, and disinfesting the seed before planting accounted for the 48 bales of cotton C. S. Cromley harvested from 39 acres in 1938.

Mr. Cromley states that these three factors played a major part in the yield and quality of cotton produced. However, he did use some 400 to 450 pounds of fertilizer per acre on his cotton.

In the fall of 1937 he grazed his stalks early and then cut them with a stalk cutter, then followed with a disc harrow. He thought it wise to get rid of any place for hibernation of boll weevils early. This was in October.

$64,323 Subsidy Payments Made

ON 673 APPLICATIONS WITH AVERAGE CHECK AMOUNTING TO $81.89 FOR FIRST LOT OF FARMERS

Subsidy payment on the first 673 applications paid off for Bulloch county farmers amounted to $64,323.66. More than 1,500 other applications are in line for payment was for $81.89.

All the applications signed up are ready for payment. However, there are still some 50 to 75 farmers that have not filed application for checks. These farmers have been officially notified three times that their application was ready for filing.

The subsidy payment on the 1938 cotton, or the 8 cents as usually termed, will probably be the last payment for Bulloch farmers under AAA until in the early spring. Soil conservation checks and the subsidy on the 1938 crop will in all probability be paid off after the completion of the crop year.

With the some $270,000 to be paid, if the maximum is asked for, on the 1937 cotton, the possibility of earning $249,000 on soil conservation for 1937, the possibility of earning some $90,000 on soil building practices if the farmers take full advantage of the payments available for planting winter legumes, terracing, etc., coupled with the subsidy on the 1938 cotton crop, it is possible for Bulloch farmers to get $780,000 that is in sight.

Bulloch Farmer Uses Electricity To Keep Livestock From Roaming

A shock and the pigs and cows go back where they belong!

C. W. Collins of Aaron community found that shocking hogs and cows back to where they belonged. The shock doesn't cost as much as the necessary wire for cross fencing will cost to cut off various fields and patches for the livestock, according to Mr. Collins.

The small battery electric fence out fit on this farm is portable and easy to move as well as being part of the most modern farm equipment.

Hogs and cattle have to be trained inside another fence to stay away from the live wire. However, this is not a long process. Usually two or three contacts takes all the ideas of roaming around out of their heads.

Mr. Collins is using a strand of barbed wire some two feet from the ground for the cattle while the pigs are cut off for the hogs is wired in by a strand of wire about six inches from the ground. So far this set has proven satisfactory and enabled this progressive farmer to only graze off a small area at the time, which makes it possible to keep the livestock from roaming over a large field and wasting feed as well as walking away from the live wire.

Little is known here concerning the Teachers opponents for Friday evening. Wingate, however, has a heavy team built around a seasoned 210 lb. center. The visitors will bring twenty two men to Statesboro and will arrive here Thursday afternoon for a workout Thursday evening.

Though the Teachers suffered a severe drubbing at the hands of the University of Tampa in Tampa last week, Coach Crook Smith hopes to iron out the crinks before the opening game here.

For the opening game the admission for adults will be $1.00, for women 50c and for students and children 25c. Any woman accompanied by an adult admission will be admitted free.

HIGH IN BULLOCH COUNTY

Middleground Junior High School opened its 1938-39 term of school last Friday morning with a large group of enthusiastic pupils and patrons present.

Dr. J. E. Carruth of South Georgia Teachers College spoke to the group. He brought to the group three main purposes of education, saying the things that seemed most needed to be said in the community for the interest of the school and for the cause of education.

The Junior High School has been accredited for the school year 1938-39, an elementary school was also accredited and placed in group II. Middleground is the first and only accredited Junior High school in Bulloch county.

Superintendent Ernest Anderson outlined the program that the school will follow during the year and mentioned the advantages and honors that come to the school and community by virtue of the school being placed on the approved list of Two-Year High Schools of Georgia. He also stressed the things which must be done for the school to continue to hold its position and asked for a continuance of the fine spirit of loyalty and cooperation on the part of the patrons.

The faculty for this year includes two new members. Mrs. Glenn Bland Jr., Statesboro; and Miss Susan Everett of Cedar Grove, Georgia. Other teachers, besides Supt. Ernest Anderson, are: Miss Frances Southall, Broxton; Miss Ola Deal, Statesboro; Miss Christine Moore, Statesboro, and Mrs. Carlos Brunson, Pulaski, Ga.

VIDALIA BRINGS A TOUGH AND RUGGED SQUAD TO MEET THE BLUE DEVILS IN THE OPENING GAME FOR THE BLUE DEVILS

The curtain on the local football season will rise tomorrow night at 8 o'clock when Coach B. A. "Snag" Johnson's Statesboro High Blue Devils will march upon the Athletic Association gridiron and attempt to lick the "red ink" out of the Vidalia High Indians.

The Indians will come out of their tepees for the second time when they take the field against the local boys. The Indian Braves defeated Reidsville last Friday afternoon 12-7. Their beating the Reidsville boys was a very polite way of warning Statesboro that they were out for revenge for a 7-0 defeat that the Blue Devils handed them last year.

Coaches Johnson and Montgomery have been putting the locals through the mills all this week in preparation for tomorrow night's opener. Today will be devoted to a polishing up session in order that the Blue Boys might put on a real show for the fans and that they might make the best of the tough situation that looms ahead of them tomorrow night.

The game will begin at 8 o'clock P. M. With weather as it has been for the last few days a crowd of around 2,000 should be on hand to witness the debut of the 1938 edition of the Blue Devils and of the local football season.

No definite lineup was given out by Coach Johnson late Tuesday afternoon and there is no telling just which of the thirty boys will get the call. But it is believed that the following boys will get a chance to show their abilities in the encounter against Vidalia. In the back field there is Edwin Groover, a speedy and shifty back. Groover weighs in the vicinity of 125, which is rather light. He will do some of the aerial tossing. John Smith will take charge of the generalship and will also do a share of the punting and passing jobs. Joe Robert Tillman, fast and a good runner, will take the job as chief punter if he gets a call. Davis Barnes, 180 pound full-back, who has seen three years service of varsity football, is expected to do great things tomorrow night. Davis is undoubtedly one of the best. He is hard to beat at line plunging and pass receiving. He can snatch a pass from out of nowhere. His tackles are so hard that you can hear the echo five minutes later. There is also Bruce Robertson, fast and shifty, and a vicious tackler and blocker. James Cowart who is light and fast. James is inexperienced but is learning fast.

On the line there will be the following boys that will probably get a call. Cliff Purvis, veteran end and one of the best. Cliff knows the duties of his position and does them well. At tackle there is Roy Hitt, largest man on the team, tipping the scales in the neighborhood of 185 pounds. Other tackles are Dean Dickey, George Groover, Harry Pike, Therman Lanier, Harry Smith, Marvin Prosser. All of the boys are in the first year of possible varsity football and they are all on an even scale. Any one of these boys can play the guard position as well as tackle, although they find a good bit of stiff competition in W. R. Lovett and Frank Farr. Loyd Lanier who was expected to hold down either guard or tackle has been troubled with a bad charley horse and will not see any action at all. Waldo Martin is very promising and may get a chance at those Indians. At center their is the veteran of last year's battles, Charles Layton. He will take care of the bulk of the key position. Coach Johnson can shift, if necessary, versatile W. R. Lovett in at the center post and it will still be well taken care of.

To date the Blue Devils have only seven games scheduled for this season, but it is expected that there will be one or two more games to be added to the list.

1st. District High School Association Meets Here

DISCUSS IN DETAIL ELIGIBILITY OF STUDENT FOR ATHLETIC CONTESTS

More than fifty superintendents, principals and athletic coaches, representing more than twenty-five of the high schools of the First District met at the Statesboro High school auditorium here Saturday morning.

Mr. E. K. Bell of Ludowici, president of the association presided at the meeting. Immediately after the meeting was called to order each representative introduced himself and his associates.

Superintendent S. H. Sherman suggested that the Secretary of the Association issue complimentary tickets admitting the superintendent, principal and athletic coach of each school in the district to all athletic contests between schools of the association. He explained that this will bring about a feeling of neighborliness among the schools and encourage visiting between the school heads.

Dr. M. S. Pittman of the Teachers college was present at the meeting and stated that an invitation had been extended to all the high schools of the First District to attend one Teachers College's football game, the game to be selected by the heads of the invited schools.

A detail discussion of the by-laws of the Association was held as they apply to football and basketball contests between the schools.

After the meeting the executive committee met.

The officers of the First District Association are: E. K. Bell, Ludowici president; Clyde Herndon, Adrian, secretary and treasurer; J. H. Griffith, Brooklet, first vice president; V. E. Glenn, Greenville, second vice president; H. M. Flanders, Pembroke and W. R. Morris, Swainsboro, members of the executive committee.

Briar Patch Meat Plant Serves 50 Farmers

IVANHOE AND STILSON COMMUNITIES OPERATE MEAT CURING PLANT SUCCESSFULLY ON COOPERATIVE PLAN

Cooperation is proving profitable and serviceable to Ivanhoe and Stilson community farmers when it comes to curing meat.

The Briar Patch Meat Curing plant is now a paying business for these 50 cooperative-minded farmers and at the same time making it possible for them to cure their meat at a saving. Last season these 50 farmers cured their own supply of meat, took in meat for 96 other neighbors and received a dividend of $5.77 per share.

It cost these cooperators one cent per pound to get a sugar cure on their meat, 37,117 pounds of which is a saving of about two cents per pound and about one-fourth of a cent per pound to smoke the meat.

This cooperative project has worked successfully since the fall of 1932. It was started in the early fall of 1932. The money was raised to complete construction and equipping the plant. The bank the money was deposited in closed after all the materials were ordered. These farmers just dug down in their pockets and carried the project on to completion. The 50 shares were sold to people living in the community to procure the necessary money to build the plant. The late John W. Davis was instrumental in getting the project under way.

NEW JACK PURCHASED IS SIX YEARS OLD AND VALUED AT $1,000

Cap Mallard, Jr., replaced the jack that died last week with another pure bred Tennessee jack.

George Logan, the coming six-year old jack he now has is valued at $1,000. He has the ideal coloring; that is, black with a white under line and nose and weighs 900 pounds. The pedigree accompanying the animal indicates that he is from the best line that is available to farmers in this section.

Mrs H.V. Franklin Puts Up 2000 Cans Of Fruits And Vegetables

The desire to live at home and a little effort to make food preservation less burdensome perhaps are the outstanding reasons more than 2,000 cans of various vegetables are found ready for winter use at H. V. Franklin's farm.

Several years ago Mr. Franklin built a small house for the then small children to use as a "play house." The children grew up. The house became obsolete. Mrs. Franklin then took over the play house. She renovated it into a brooder house. The poultry business outgrew the house. Again it had to be remodeled. This time it was developed into a farm canning plant. It is equipped with a small stove, hotel size retort to preserve food under pressure, a sealer, and other necessary equipment. The house is of such construction that it is easy to keep clean.

Today, there are more than 2,000 cans of products stored in the house that were processed during the summer months. And Mrs. Franklin is still going strong. The fall garden of butter beans, white mush peas, purple hull jerseys and tomatoes look favorable to more cans to be added during the next few days.

Tomatoes, string beans, peas, corn, tomato juice, soup mixtures, butter beans, beets, peats, peaches and other farm products that can be processed make up the winter supply for the family and the tenants on the farm. The canning plant enables the tenants to process their own products when they care to and for Mr. Franklin to be able to supply them with products saved that are usually purchased through the winter.

One unique feature of Mrs. Franklin's canning is that she never forgets the things needed. She even has butter that accumulated during the summer processed, which means she will also have something to cook with anytime she wants to bake a cake.

The larger quantity as well as variety of planting seed found in the canning house attracts attention. Mrs. Franklin explained that she tried to save ample planting seed of all the vegetables they grew, including egg plants and other vegetables that are as a rule hard to get planting seed for without considerable cash outlay. Surplus plants also play a part in the farm income on this farm.

Mrs. Franklin's part of the farming business also has a financial side in addition to her gardening. She has cleared more than $400 on her farm flock of hens above all expenses since January 1.

Statesboro Boys In Two College Football Games

Last Saturday two Statesboro boys played on two major football teams in two of the South's major football games.

When the whistle began the Tech-Mercer game at Grant Field in Atlanta, Spec Landrum was at the quarterback position for the Mercer Bears. He played the entire game, doing the major part of the passing and a great part of the ball carrying. Spec is the son of Mrs. Landrum, the dietitian of the Teachers College. He finished at Statesboro High School in 1935, after playing with the Blue Devils. He is now a Sophomore at Mercer.

Morris McLeMore, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. McLeMore, plays guard for Vanderbilt at Nashville, and was in the game when Vanderbilt played Western Kentucky Saturday. Morris plays guard and is now playing his third year of college football.

On Tuesday night of last week he was interviewed by a sports writer over radio station WSM at Nashville. During the interview he was asked how he stayed in physical condition during the summers and Morris replied that he operated a "one-man-truck-line" hauling watermelons from Bulloch county to North Carolina. When asked to explain how that helped him stay in training Morris replied:

"Boy when you load and unload Bulloch county watermelons you got to be in condition, for they weigh more than seventy-five pounds."

He explained that his cousin, Henry McLeMore, famous United Press sports writer, had placed him on the 1937 All American football team because Henry was afraid that if he did not that his Aunt Deda (Mrs. O. L. McLeMore and Henry's aunt) would not favor him with her excellent fried chicken.

Morris is 20 years old and weighs

According to Mr. Doy O. Gay, Registrar for seasonal employment with WPA, he has received 547 applications up to Saturday noon of last week. Of this number Mr. Gay stated that 230 had been placed on road work and drainage work. He added that there were 150 more that had been certified and will be put on work as soon as he can issue the card indicating the worker's eligibility.

Mr. Gay in explaining the seasonal employment with WPA stated that any person whose present income is derived from the farm as a landowner or sharecropper, or renter, or wage hand, or day laborer is eligible to apply for this work. "If an agricultural worker needs supplementary income to give him a minimum standard of living providing health and decency, he is eligible for WPA employment at such seasons as his services are not required on the farm," said Mr. Gay.

Mr. Gay pointed out that only one member of the family may be employed on works program projects. He added that he expects to receive more than 1,200 applications for this seasonal employment with the W. P. A.

Used Car Stolen From Phebus Motor Co

A wrecked auto, found near Swainsboro Monday, has been identified as the car stolen from the Phebus Motor Company at Brooklet, some time Sunday night.

The garage of the Phebus Motor Company was entered sometime Sunday night and a used car, a dozen auto batteries, a gun and $2.50 were stolen.

It is believed that the robbery was performed by two men who climbed the barbed wire fence at the rear of the building, broke the glass pane in a window, unlocked it and entered the building. The car was driven out a large door at the side of the building.

T. E. Daves, manager of the company was notified of the robbery by J. D. Alderman who went to the building to get his car which was in another part of the building. Mr. Daves notified the sheriff.

Georgia And Florida Engine Jumps Track

With the aid of the lights of the High School football field and while Statesboro High Blue Devils were playing Vidalia Indians, last Thursday night, a train crew was jacking up a Georgia and Florida railway engine pulling a train which broke a rail and jumped its track. The train was on its run from Statesboro to Midville. The accident happened at Darby's Lumber Yard, near the old Savannah and Statesboro Railroad shops.

Railway jacks were brought here from Vidalia by a motor car, which arrived about dark. The train crew had to build fires to see how to work until the lights at the football field were turned on at 7:30. The engine was jacked up and new rails placed under it and then the engine pulled itself back on the tracks. Three hours were necessary to get it on the tracks from the time they began using the jacks.

Austrian Winter Peas Cost $4 Per Hundred

The cooperative order for winter legumes has been accepted. Austrian winter peas will cost the farmers buying cooperatively $4 per hundred, hairy vetch $8.10, and inoculation at dealer's prices delivered.

Orders for the seed will be booked through the week by the vocational agricultural teachers and the county agent for delivery on Monday of each week. The seed will be paid for when delivered, which makes it necessary for farmers placing the order to leave the order to leave the money necessary to pay for their seed.

The contract with the seed concern closes October 15. Farmers desiring to purchase these seed cooperatively are urged to file orders prior to that time.

Under the soil conservation program for 1938 and the program tentatively approved for 1939 soil building payments for planting winter legumes will be made. These payments are adequate to take care of the expense of seeding and turning under the cover crop.

PARENT-TEACHER WEEK

This week is "Parent-Teacher Week" and is receiving special attention in every State in the Union.

Governor Rivers has issued a proclamation calling upon every father, every mother, every teacher and every interested citizen in all the school areas of the State to cooperate in making this week a success.

The school and the home are the two institutions upon which a nation is built, they are vitally interdependent. Indeed it would be hard to imagine good homes without good schools or successful schools without responsive homes.

Parent and teachers, more than any other two groups of people, have in their hands the molding of the lives of the young people of the country. Only when they are working together can they meet such a responsibility.

Bulloch county has always had a well organized Parent-Teachers Association. The successes of the schools in the city of Statesboro and in the county are founded in this organization.

"HIGHWAY" FOOTBALL TEAM SUPPORT

Last Thursday night when the Statesboro High School played Vidalia High school the opening football game of the season the people of Statesboro turned out to support the hokie team in fine fashion, in spite of the unpleasant weather condition.

Such support is what assures the success of our football teams. The members of the Athletic Association appreciate it a great deal and are doing their best to provide the best possible for the teams which represent Statesboro.

However there is one group of supporters for which there seems to be some doubt as to the worth of their support. At the game last week a number of these supporters parked their cars along the highway below the lower entrance to the field and saw the game from where they were parked.

Is that what one would call proper support to our football team and our school?

"DEAR BOY"

"Dear Boy,
"And so you are in college. The dream of the little boy in grammar school and the bigger boy in High School has at last come true. And now you are to be a freshman in the new college world—a world bounded, in a material sense, by a few blocks of buildings and campus and athletic fields—but as to the things of the spirit, it is unbounded in ideals, aspirations, opportunities and all the possibilities that make life "One grand sweet song."
"For a little while it will seem almost too big a world for immediate digestion, and the boy heart in you will turn back with longing to the protecting walls of home, with all that such remembrance means of love and care and petting and humoring—all those merry touches that once may have gone unnoticed, but which now takes on a value never dreamed of in the old sheltered days. Just keep in mind though, that the love from that home can pierce college walls and sweep through space and will always be surrounding you. Also, that the honorable record you make in the coming months and years will be the reward you ever give for that sacred love.
"Then of course, there will be some necessary drudgery, work and study—even college has its "nuts"—and you will have the puzzles of math and the eccentricities of English, and the secrets of science, to say nothing of the mysteries of unknown languages which will perhaps bring furrows to your brow (only for a brief period, however), for there are professors standing by to meet just such needs."Some professors love books, some boys, some of them (may their tribe increase) love boys and books; but all of them, deep down in their hearts, have for their real purpose a desire to provide as nearly as possible, safe conduct along the rocky road of learning."
"The eighteen years back of you, dear boy, will be a wonderful background for you as you struggle on through these new phases of life's development. May good, honest work, clean sportsmanship, play, friendships, strong and true be college life to you."
A college boy handed us the above letter. He stated that it was written by the librarian at Mercer University. He added that he believed it was good advice to any boy in college for his first year. He's right.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE
We are not asking you to believe this story. To say it is a fish story is to immediately set up a wall of disbelief. But it is a good story none-the-less.

The events making up this story occurred on the Ogeechee river, whose red breast and catfish are famous over the entire state and whose waters reflected South Georgia's history long before the days of Oglethorpe.

The story as told to us has D. C. Proctor and Dedrick Waters fishing in the Ogeechee at the Blithen landing. D. C. has a 90 cent minnow with which he has fallen in love. A beauty—is that minnow—just suits D. C., it has the right weight, the right coloring, the right feel and all. D. C. just knows it will prove irresistible to the smartest of the finny tribe which lie suspended in water space in the shallow pools under overhanging willows.

D. C. makes the cast which begin the series of events of this "hard-to-believe-story." His 90-cent "I'm in love with" minnow drops lightly upon the surface of the waters of the Great Ogeechee. It sinks slowly and fatefully into the water and in so doing assumes the likeness of the most delectable meal a smart trout could desire.

Things now begin to happen. A trout takes D. C.'s minnow and the line sings as it cuts through the water and D. C. with the feeling of "I knew it!" begins playing the fish, which he knows to be a large one.
And now enters tragedy. Just as D. C. about has his trout in the bag the minnow which the trout has taken comes loose from the line. . . no reason, just comes loose and now, no minnow, no trout. D. C. is feeling, rather low. He has an idea—he asks Dedrick to paddle the boat about in that vicinity. He believes that the trout might dislodge the minnow from his gills and the prize minnow float to the surface of the water and be recovered.

At this point of the story D. C. and Dedrick's attention is diverted to a definite disturbance in the surface of the river under some low hanging willows near the river bank. They move over to the place where the water is being churned to a white froth and investigate. Ok—get all set—for we warned you this is a "hard-to-believe" story.

D. C. and Dedrick find that all the water excitement is being caused by D. C.'s trout, which was still on his 90 cent minnow, one of those hooks had caught on a piece of log just beneath the surface of the water. And so D. C. catches his three and one-half pound trout and saves his 90 cent, "I love you" minnow.
And that is just the way the story was told to us.THIS WEEK TEN YEARS AGO

SEVENTH GRADE TO HAVE FORMAL GRADUATION EXERCISES IN MAY

By CLETUS NESMITH

The seventh grade students have been feeling quite important for the past few days since Superintendent Sherman has announced that the seventh grade will have a formal graduation, be awarded diplomas and wear caps and gowns just like the seniors of the high school.

Even the eighth grade "threatens" to turn around and go back just to get the thrill of junior graduation. Mr. Sherman has already arranged for the diplomas to be sent when the company is notified of the number needed.

We are betting on the whole class graduating with all this dream being true.

NEW BOOKS FOR LIBRARY TO BE ON SHELVES IN FEW DAYS

We are very happy to announce a number of new books have been ordered for the library and should be ready for circulation in about two weeks. Seventeen, Alice Adams, To Have and To Hold, Death Comes for the Archbishop, and a number of other titles that have been frequently requested are included in the list.

With the arrival of the new books, pupils will have a wide selection to choose from and they will read not just for credit in English and History but just for the joy of adventuring into the worlds that await every reader between the covers of books.

New books—New worlds. And every book is a new world until you have read it regardless when it was published.
Watch for a display of the new books in the library.

PLANS FOR STUDENT COUNCIL ARE BEING MADE

By SARA HOWELL

Plans are being made to form a student council for the Statesboro High School. Officers will be elected and each home room will have one representative in the council.

These officers and representatives will be elected according to their academic work and citizenship. Members of the council besides the officers and representatives will consist of the faculty and student officers.

The student council has long been a dream of the school. Its realization will go one step further in making Statesboro High one of the best, if not the best school in the state.

NEWS AND VIEWS

By "DUB" LOVETT

Faculty has meeting in school library. I saw each going up. Seems to me they should invite us sometimes.

We begin to see a little hair sprouting. Don't get discouraged. Just four or five more inches to go.

The members of the football team that played last Thursday night were given a drink and a sandwich at the College Pharmacy Saturday by Mr. Lester Proctor, one of the team's best supporters. If we don't win Friday night from E. C. I. the favor has to be returned to Mr. Proctor by each boy.

Mr. Montgomery sure has knee action, you should watch him lead the cheering in chapel.

Why does a certain little bald-headed soda jerk look so down hearted these days?

Mr. Sherman's idea of a chapel program is really something. Come on down some Tuesday or Friday about 12:00 o'clock and see for yourself. You're always welcomed.

The High School band gave their first concert a lovely success. Director, Mr. Carpenter, a lovely success. We all extend our congratulations to him. He's a swell fellow.

Miss Huckabee's keeping house—Wonder when "he" will arrive?

You noticed these snooty 7th graders, especially since they learned that they are to have formal graduation.

The High School band is getting new uniforms. Come out Friday night S. G. T. C. students and see how a brand looks and sounds.

Talk of the school. When will the first issue of the High Owl come out? Question of the school. Who will win the student council election?

THE VALUE OF MUSIC TRAINING IN HIGH SCHOOL

An Editorial
By JACK AVERITT

In considering the term music, it is exceedingly difficult to estimate its great value to a high school student, not only during his high school life but during his college years and even in later life. It builds a foundation on which one may find support in all courses of study.

The person who studies music in high school and gets the foundation there has truly acquired a valuable accomplishment. During this study one becomes associated with other music leaders who are usually among the first in their community. In this manner he is known as being one who is able to come in contact with other people easily. Naturally people envy a person who has the ability to get up before an audience gracefully and effectively.

To the student entering college, musical training proves itself valuable once again. He is known personally by the majority of the students. He associates with the best people and becomes a member of the most desired organizations. In this way one learns the higher ideals of life.

Even in traveling one comes in contact with many distinguished and interesting people through his previous training in music.

In one's later life music plays a most vital part. Many are the opportunities offered to the music lover. Although one doesn't take music as a profession, to him entering business, his work comes more easily with the knowledge of this great art. One can spend many happy hours after coming from the office, finding this pleasure in his music.

Someone has defined music as "the rhythmic creation of beauty" and truly this fits the term most perfectly. Another has stated that no education is complete without music. In our modern times it is becoming harder and harder to get along without music. The study of music is really a pleasure but it is gradually becoming a necessity.

W. Otto Messner has expressed the thought of music beautifully in these lines:
I am music, my child!
I am heard in the breeze,
In the storm, loud and wild,
In the humming of bees.
In the bird—songs at noon
In thy mother's low croon
In the laughter of thine
I am Music Divine! My child!I am music, my child!
I am seen in the stars,
In the hills, undressed
In the wave-beaten bars
In the sky-mirrored sea
In each flower and tree
In mart, mill and mine
I am Music Divine! My child!I am music, my child!
I am felt in the breast
Of the ravage and wild,
Of the gentlest and best.
In thy smiles and thy tears,
In thy hopes and thy fears,
My solace is thine:
I am Music Divine! My child!CORRECTION
In last week's Herald the article on attendance was a bit confusing since it referred only to the means used in extreme cases of attendance violation. Instead of the usual procedure with absences and tardies. Superintendent Sherman wishes it known he is very anxious to maintain an excellent record but that drastic means of securing such an attendance will be used only in cases of deliberate violations of attendance. To students who are absent or tardy for unavoidable reasons or for any legitimate reason the utmost leniency will be extended at all times. Every department of the school is operated on the most democratic way and the word rule in the usual sense of the word is rather an objectionable term since the general regulations of the school is a joint government by faculty and student body.

FRESHMEN TEAM UNDER COACH MONTGOMERY SHOWS TALENT

By JOHN SMITH

Under Assistant Coach R. A. Montgomery, the Freshmen team of the football season are not yet heavy enough for the varsity squad, have organized what is known as the Freshman team.

These boys are working hard and will by next year be ready to move up to the varsity as more experienced players.

Junior Pointeater, Robert Groover, and Zack Smith show speed and will be expected to be in shape to do much next year. Robert Groover has on several occasions played on the second team against the varsity and has shown quite a good bit of ability.

John Jones, Freddie Brannen, Robert Morris and Lamar Aikens show much ability as linemen. Belton Braswell has been injured but he will step in somebody's shoes to take a place on the varsity next year.

SENIORS CONDUCT CHAPEL SINGING PROGRAM FRIDAY

By FRANCES BLACKBURN

The senior class had charge of the singing in chapel Friday with Miss Carmichael in charge of the program. After the singing of a few songs, Mr. Sherman made a short talk about the game Thursday night of last week in which Statesboro defeated Vidalia by a score of 13-0. Mr. Sherman expressed his deep appreciation of the splendid work of the team and the fine sportsmanship shown by the team. He suggested that the boys dedicate the game with E. C. I. to Mr. Johnson. The game between Statesboro and E. C. I. is to be played Friday night on the local gridiron.

A song was sung to Mr. Sherman and to Mr. Johnson, and after several requests the Bells of St. Mary's was sung.

The student body is rapidly improving in the assembly singing.

ANNELE COALSON RATES HIGH IN MUSIC PLACEMENT TEST

By JACK AVERITT

Annelie Coalson, former Statesboro High student, now a freshman at Shorter College rated third place in the music placement test given to all freshmen majoring in music.

Annelie is a twice winner of the regional district radio contest in Savannah and took an active part in the music promotion in Statesboro High School.

Annelie is keeping up the reputation of Statesboro High School at Shorter, as Gladys Thayer ranked among the first in these tests several years ago.

STUDENT BODY STAGES PEET MEETING FOR GAME LAST WEEK

By Frances Blackburn

A pep meeting was held in the High School auditorium last Wednesday during the activity period for the purpose of arousing football spirit for the game between Vidalia and Statesboro last Thursday night in which Statesboro won 13-0.

The cheer leaders, Maxann Foy, Digh Olliff, Hu Marsh Smith, Martha Hodges, Annie Laurie Johnson, and Martha Wilma Simmons, led the meeting.

Special yells were given for Mr. Johnson, coach, assistant coach Montgomery, the cheer leaders themselves and three of the players, Davis Barnes, captain, John Martin, alternate captain and Cliff Purvis.

Inspiring talks were given by each of those giving the yells. The spirit shown during the meeting was one which has not been shown in S. H. S. for a great many years. There was enough excitement and enthusiasm in the faces and voices of the student body and faculty to win every game this season.

School songs were sung and the meeting was closed with a spirited singing of the Alma Mater.

Harold Waters—I always say what I think.
Carmen Cowart—I wondered why you were so quiet.Miss Huckabee—Life is an uncertain thing. Just think, the end of the world might come today.
Frank Farr—Aw, Heck! And I've got my home work for tomorrow.

Blue Devils Battle E.C.I. Bulldogs Friday Nite; Game To Be Toughest On '38 List

High Schoolers Show Great Fighting Spirit In Drubbing Vidalia Indians 13-0

"We are going to beat E. C. I. Friday night." Those are exactly the words that the coach of the Statesboro Blue Devils uttered the day after the game between Statesboro and Vidalia in which Statesboro was victorious 13-0.

Coach Johnson of Statesboro High said that he didn't care what was printed in the newspapers or what was said by the fans as to how good a team the E. C. I. coaches will bring down here Friday night, he knows his boys were going to outstep the boys with "Bulldogs" as their nickname. He stated that "Bulldogs" doesn't mean a thing, when it is put up against the "Devil."

With the Vidalia Indians' scalp under their belts the Blue Devils from the Statesboro High school are preparing for probably the toughest game of the season. E. C. I. has already won in their "won column" and they say they will chalk up another Friday night. But they didn't say which column they would be chalking in, although it was supposedly taken for granted that they meant the "won column."

The game with E. C. I. will be played under lights on the Statesboro Athletic field and is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock.

All of the Blue Devils are in fine shape although they were quite a few sore muscles and several scratches after their tilt with the Indians on Thursday night. These should be worked out by the time the whistle blows for the kickoff Friday night.

BLUE DEVILS DEFEAT VIDALIA 13-0
WITH TWO DEFEATS ON A RAIN SOAKED FIELD 13-0

On a football field that had three days of washing by heavy rains and that was being wrenched off with a light drizzle that insisted on falling throughout the entire game, Davis Barnes and ten other Blue Devils defeated the Vidalia Indians in a manner that proved very decisively that they, the Blue Devils, were much the better team.

With two plays, a pass for an extra point, a punt, a field goal, a stout line on defense, and a fair defense for a pass attack (a wet ball) the Blue Boys of the High school marched off of the newly washed Athletic gridiron in much more glory than they did when they marched on for the opening kickoff that lit the fuse on the local football season after they had secured thirteen points and compared to the "none" that Vidalia acquired.

The two plays were—an off tackle line drive with Davis Barnes making anywhere from five to ten yards at a try—and carrying a portion of Vidalia line with him—and run with Joe Robert Tillman, Bruce Robertson and Edwin Groover carrying the ball for nine gains. The pass for the extra point—Edwin Groover to John Smith. The good punting by—Joe Robert Tillman and John Smith. The stout line—they all did well, but special mention goes to Cliff Purvis, Charles Layton and Roy Hitt, end, center and tackle, respectively. The fair pass defense, a muddy field and wet ball. That is the ball game with around 500 people there to witness it and get a good taste of a Fall rain.

Both of the Blue Devils scores were made by Davis Barnes and he still was carrying a portion of the Vidalia line.

Early Value of Commodities
The value of commodities in terms of tobacco fluctuated from year to year, in older times. In 1938 a pound of sugar was the equivalent of a pound of tobacco.

Devotional, Mr. James J. Radcliff.
Address, "The Nutritional Lunch," by Miss Lucy Stokes.
Miss Stokes gave an outline in a chart form of a daily balanced diet for a growing child, and expressed the importance of strictly sticking to this diet. Miss Stokes also gave an interesting report on the results of the hot lunch, served at school last Wednesday, which was a very good success. Plans were submitted to secure cooking utensils, dishes and other material for the home economic department.

Miss Stokes began a project Monday afternoon by which she hopes to assist with financing this department. The faculty was asked by the organization to take charge of the "J. E. Mainer's Crazy Mountaineers" radio program which will be staged on Wednesday night, October 26, at 8:00 o'clock in Nevills High School auditorium, and put it on to the best advantage of the school. After a round table discussion the guests were invited to the library where refreshments were served by Mrs. B. F. Fitch, Mrs. G. C. Avery, Mrs. Dewey Martin, Mrs. C. E. Nesmith, Mrs. Dr. C. E. Stapleton.

HOME EC. LEFT BEING FURNISHED
Miss Stokes, who is at the head of the Home Ec. Dept. of Nevills High School, spent a part of Monday in Statesboro, assisting with the purchasing of the equipment for her department. A wood stove, an electric stove and a refrigerator is already placed. The people of our community are contributing generously in helping to fill the cabinets of the Home Ec. department with dishes, silver, and cooking utensils. We appreciate these donations greatly and several more are expected to come in soon.

THE LUNCH ROOM
The Nevills Lunch Room on the school campus is functioning very satisfactorily. A meal is served each day to more than 100 children. The home economic department is laboring.

15,000 LBS. OF WINTER LEGUME SEED RECEIVED

The first lot of winter legume seed ordered cooperatively totaled about 15,000 pounds. Most of this shipment was sent last week. The shipment delivered this week was for some 12,000 pounds.

The price for Australian winter peas and hairy vetch for the cooperative order is good until October 15. Bulloch farmers that desire to buy the peas at $4 per hundred delivered and the vetch at $8.10 are urged to file their order with one of the vocational agriculture teachers or county agent prior to Saturday night.

Under the soil conservation for 1938 enough payments are available to offset the cash outlay in seeding winter legumes and the using of 16 per cent acid phosphate or basic slag on these legumes.

Petition Asks For Juvenile Court

PETITION POINTS OUT NEED OF SUCH A COURT AND THE GOOD THAT IT MAY DO

A petition is being made to Hon. Wm. Woodrum, Judge of Bulloch Superior Court asking for the establishment of a Juvenile Court in Bulloch county. The petition asks Judge Woodrum to appoint City Court Judge Linton G. Lenoir as the judge of the Juvenile court.

The petition points out the need of such a court and that Judge Woodrum has the authority according to Section Five of the Juvenile Court Amending Act of 1935.

The petition further points out that there have been a number of cases lately in Bulloch county that would come under the jurisdiction of a Juvenile Court but at the present there is no one with authority to deal with these cases until they have really committed some crime and that it is improper to allow certain orphans, incorrigibles, delinquent and neglected children continue in bad environment until they become criminals, when in many instances with the proper assistance, they can be brought up to be good moral citizens.

Mr. And Mrs. W. W. Mann Do Their Own Home Landscaping

Taking advantage of the fact that there are many native plants in Bulloch county that will change just a home into a place of beauty and pride, W. W. Mann and Mrs. Mann have over the last three years found 58 varieties of shrubs and 14 trees suitable to use in landscaping the ground about their home. Mingled with these native plants they have 54 varieties of cultivated flowers and plants. Behind a large, spacious lawn of carpet and centepede grass they have more than 1,000 shrubs, flowers and trees grouped in a well-planned garden that is a demonstration for the community.

In discussing their landscape program in a 30 minute period over radio station WTOM from Savannah Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Mann pointed out that their project was a family job and that there was work in the garden for every member of the family.

Mr. Mann stated that it was necessary to select small plants and then prune them severely. He never fertilizes the plants when transplanted but uses mulch around the roots. The fact that he has lost only a few plants out of his more than 1,000 moved indicates that his idea is correct. All through the year these landscapers select their plants and tag them for transplanting in the fall.

Mrs. Mann thinks it important to study the grounds from all approaches to the home, from the various parts of the house, through the windows, and from the rear of the house, and then follow a definite plan if the desired effects is to be obtained. She has grouped her plants so well that the bare sand yard around the house in 1935 now is a garden they can just be proud of. Their groupings show that the plantings were not made around this country home without thought and study. The placing of the shrubs, trees, and flowers about the large lawn is comparable to that found in urban communities.

The native plants selected have blossoms, leaf beauty, form, fall color of berries and leaves even when the bloom is inconspicuous.

For softening stiff lines or covering bare spots, they have used native cypress, weeping, and trumpet vine in addition to ivy, corn and wisteria. A Cherokee rose also helps screen one of the back yard fences.

For a base they have massed a few varieties of shrubs with taller growing plants flanked by smaller ones to lengthen the blooming season. Broad leaved evergreens were used for background because they disliked the formality of the quick effect confiners.

Mr. and Mrs. Mann admit that using native plants to landscape their home called for more labor than would have been required of them had they purchased their plants from a nursery, but Mr. Mann was quick to add that it did not call for the cash outlay that nursery stock would have called for.

Talmadge And Supporters Stage Walk-out In Macon

PLATFORM CALLS FOR CONTINUANCE OF THE RIVERS PROGRAM IN THE STATE AND CO-OPERATION WITH NATIONAL ADMINISTRATION

With the efficiency of a steam roller the state Democratic convention in Macon last Wednesday moved swiftly along with no indication of the fireworks which were touched off at 8:30 in the afternoon when Samuel D. Hewitt of Atlanta, chief counsel for Talmadge, called upon the convention to nominate Talmadge, asserting that the George nomination had been "obtained by fraud and in violation of the laws of the state."

The Talmadge fight developed after Governor Rivers and Senator George had been duly placed in nomination and resolutions offered declaring them the nominees of the party for Governor and Senate.

Mr. Hewitt, appeared before the microphone and announced that he was a delegate by proxy from Marion county. The proxy was certified by B. S. Miller, chairman of the Marion delegation. When he had secured recognition from Zack Arnold, the presiding chairman, Hewitt faced the convention waving what he said were ballots "stolen from the ballot box in Greene county." This statement was greeted with cries from the galleries "That's right, that's right." He stated that he was ready to present affidavits showing that "George either himself or through his agents had purchased votes in Greene county."

Hewitt also charged that a number of ballots had not been counted in Habersham county. He cited 22 contests filed in as many counties by Talmadge and declared that Talmadge had been denied a fair hearing in all these counties.

Hewitt was followed by B. S. Miller, who seconded Talmadge's nomination. He insisted upon the right

DR. R. J. KENNEDY CASTS BULLOCH'S FOUR VOTES AT MACON CONVENTION

Dr. R. J. Kennedy, as chairman of the Bulloch county delegation to the state Democratic convention, cast Bulloch county's four unit votes for Senator Walter F. George in the roll call which was forced by the supporters of former Governor Talmadge at the convention held in Macon last Wednesday.

To be heard amid cheers from the galleries and scattered boos from the delegates' section on the main floor, C. T. Guyton, of Effingham county, who also made a seconding talk furnished the most amazing demonstration of the convention. Possessing a voice which would have been heard over the entire auditorium, it was magnified by the microphone into a boom which rocked the hall. The delegates feeling the tension lessened began heckling the speaker with shouts of "Louder! Louder!" and "Take him away. But Guyton outshouted 5,000 voices and retired only when Zack Arnold, vice chairman, called time on him. The convention having previously adopted a rule allowing only five minutes for each of the seconding speeches.

After the seconding speeches were made and a vote called for on the nomination, Talmadge received 242 county unit votes, 36 more than the 206 necessary to nominate a candidate. Talmadge received 148 county unit votes and Camp 20 unit votes. With the roll call completed the democracy of Georgia renominated Walter F. George as its candidate

BLUE DEVILS AND E.C.I. FIGHT TO 13-13 DEADLOCK IN THRILLER

Blue Clad Forces Travel To Swainsboro For First Grid Game Out Of Own Backyard: Nite Game

BLUE BOYS FIGHT SUPERIOR MAN-POWER IN ONE OF SEASONS MOST HEFTIC GAMES

Statesboro's fighting football forces rocked on their heels by E. C. I.'s superior drive and man-power in the first half, came back with a second half surge to score two touchdowns and an extra point and thereby possess a six point lead. The Blue Devils tried desperately to hold that six point margin, but the E. C. I. Bulldogs again rose to their superior drive and power to cross the glory strip once more and to tie the score at 13-13.

And as the some 1500 people braved the chilled October moonlight and held their breaths in fear that the Emanuel boys might push over that most precious one point which would give them victory, the Statesboro Blue Devils rose up in all their might and stopped cold, in his tracks, O'Toole, who had the Blue Devil line at his mercy all night. And when the final whistle blew the score stood E. C. I. 13, S. H. S. 13.

Statesboro lost the toss and E. C. I. elected to receive and Davis Barnes got off a nice long kick and the Blue Devils were put into play on the E. C. I. 35 yard line. Two line plays failed and the Bulldogs went into kick formation and as a result of a bad pass from center they lost fifteen yards. This put the ball on their own 20 yard line. They kicked over on the next play, but it was a poor kick. It was Statesboro's ball on E. C. I.'s 40 yard line.

The Blue Devils began a drive that seemed destined to turn into a score but after an incomplete pass from John Smith to Joe Tillman the threat of E.C.I. receiving the ball on their 10 yard strike and from then on to the half it was E. C. I. all over the field. The Bulldogs unleashed their power with O'Toole doing most of the mail work, drove right on down to a touchdown and an extra point. Johnson scored the six points and O'Toole backed over for the extra point.

In the last minute of the second quarter, Layton, Blue Devil center, intercepted a pass from Henderson and it looked as though he was a way but he was tripped and the half ended two plays later.

The Blue Devils came back for the second half and with a renewed spirit drove uninterrupted to the glory mark and converted for the extra point to tie the score 7-7. Smith backed over for the touchdown and then on the try for the extra point, passed to Barnes for the extra point.

In the same period, the Blue Boys on the line who were playing with all their hearts broke through the E. C. I. wall and blocked a punt, Layton who had been playing heads up ball the entire night snatched up the oval pigskin.

Macon Convention

for the United States Senate, Former Governor Talmadge, who sat in the rear of the auditorium, heard the roll call which eliminated him from the Democratic primary contest, left the convention hall after the result was announced. He said that he had "no comment" at this time.

Senator George was placed in nomination by State Senator David S. Atkinson, of Savannah. Mrs. John A. Rollison, of Waycross and Revenue Commissioner T. Grady Head, of Ringgold, seconded the George nomination.

In his acceptance speech, Senator George declared that he would work for the common good of all Georgia democracy and promised to give full support to the program calling for full payment of old-age pensions by the federal government and for revised and improved payments to farmers participating in the crop control programs.

Before beginning his speech the senior senator introduced the members of his family and Edgar B. Dunlap, former attorney of the Atlanta office of the R.F.C. who was dismissed from that position for taking an active part in the George campaign.

The Rivers nomination was made unanimous when Glen Gies of Cobb county reported to the convention that his name had been placed in nomination to the convention and J. J. Manahan, Jr., son of the candidate for governor, cast Haralson county's vote for Rivers.

Charles S. Reid, retiring chairman of the state Democratic committee, placed Governor Rivers' name before the convention for renomination. Seconding speeches were made by T. G. Reeves of Columbus, chairman of the board of commissioners of Muscogee county, Henry T. McIntosh, of Albany, and Professor A. G. Cleveland, supervisor of schools in Valdosta.

Mr. Rivers in his acceptance speech called upon the Democrats of the state to "march unitedly for the continued progress." He called for the completion within the next two

Tiny Airplane Uses Eyedropper To Fill Gas And Oil Tanks

Last Wednesday a plane took off from the Statesboro Airport, which to a casual observer may have caused him to wonder. The plane was a small one with a wingspread of only six feet, yet it was a large plane in its class.

Before it took off the owner filled its fuel tank with gasoline and added oil to the engine. Instead of using a gasoline pump he used an eyedropper. It required ten eyedroppers full of gasoline to fill the tank and an eyedropper of oil. The power plant of this plane is a one-fifth horsepower engine.

Contact was made, the propeller turned over and the plane took off. It gained altitude and circled around the field and landed. Its flight was about five minutes.

The plane is a flying model with a wingspread of six feet. The parts were purchased by Lannie Simmons, an assembled by Tom Swift, a student of the Teachers College.

The flight was under the direction of Larry Dobbs of the Statesboro Aircraft Corporation.

On Friday October 14, 1938, Superintendents S. H. Sherman and H. P. Womack and Col. Fred T. Lanier, the chairman of the city board of education, checked and approved the Master Program of work which is to be carried on in the vocational department of agriculture in the Statesboro High Industrial school for the term 1938-1939.

A PUBLIC INFORMATION BUREAU

If you are moving and looking for a new house to rent, where do you go? If a family moves into Statesboro and begins looking for a home in which to live, who do they see first? If a tourist comes to Statesboro and wishes to know something of the city and county, where may he stop to secure the information? If you have an apartment or a room or a house to rent how do you let it be known?

There are people every day with just such information for people who are looking for just that information.

What we need is a clearing house for this information. We have a Chamber of Commerce, with a secretary, a Rotary Club, with a secretary, but neither of these organizations maintain an information service such as this. To do so would require a full time or a near full time secretary.

Why could not our Library be used as an information clearing house. It is centrally located. A sign could be prominently displayed that a stranger may find it. A desk could be set up in the Library and a part time secretary established to receive, and file such information for the use of the public at its will. A Public Information Bureau, if you please.

A PORTABLE LIBRARY NEEDED

And now with all the schools in the county well under way the problem of furnishing books to the children who are being taught to read and to love reading arises.

The county Library has hundreds of books for these children but the children are handicapped in not being able to come to Statesboro to get the books and the Library is handicapped in being inadequately equipped to carry the books to the children.

The method now being used consists of a librarian whose only means of transporting these books-hungry children is an old "Model A."

A "book-mobile" as such a car may be called—a portable library—would increase the utilization of the Bulloch County Library greatly and the great good that it would render to the county school children could not be measured in figures.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Friday afternoon we saw a lady park an automobile. We sat at our desk and saw her take five minutes to do so. The place was below the Post Office on the East side of the street. There were no other cars parked along the curbing. This lady driver and her companion pulled over to the curb from the right side of the street and came to a stop. The lady's companion got out and discovered that the rear of the car projected over one of the parking lines. She informed the driver of this state of affairs and the car was moved. They then decided that the car was not close enough to the curb. Placing the car closer to the curb took up some time. Finally, after completely encircling the machine, the two came to the conclusion that the car was correctly parked.

We are sure that there is a moral to this story. You figure it out the next time you park your car up town.

Did you read the platform of the state Democratic organization as printed in the daily papers? And we are sure that you read how Senator Cotton Ed Smith, the South Carolina purger, went to Washington and to the White House demanding a handout for cotton. But he couldn't get to first base. The White House door failed to open.

Now let's go back to the platform of the state democratic organization. Georgia Democrats have wrapped themselves in a strong administration document, completely forgetting about Senator George, who beat Mr. Roosevelt in Georgia, and butters the Washington administration generously.

This platform opens with congratulations to the national administration for having "kept faith with the platform of 1936." It re-endorses that platform, "as a true expression of democratic principles." It re-endorses the national administration and commends to the governor and the Georgia General Assembly that they continue to "operate in harmony with the national administration for the purpose of preserving the party." Cotton Ed Smith should come to Georgia to learn some new tricks, rather new applications of old tricks, for watch carefully, the hand is more quick than the eye—in order that Georgia may continue to enjoy and receive all legitimate federal benefits.

"Party harmony" is pledged and President Roosevelt is given three cheers for the brilliancy with which he "literally pulled back the world from the brink of a conflict in Europe."

We place our bet on the nose that Georgia will get hers.

The taxable property in the City of Statesboro is $2,210,187. Seven percent of this amount is all that the city may bond itself, which would be $154,713. The present bonded indebtedness is $71,500. The recent three bond issues authorized by the voters of Statesboro amounting to $55,000 will increase the bond debt to $126,500, well within the $154,713 limit or seven percent of $2,210,187.

The March of Time short was shown at the Georgia Theatre last week presented most effectively how cities are solving their traffic problems. Their police departments are taking the trouble to study traffic problems and work out each one according to its peculiarities. We wonder if a study might not be made here in Statesboro and solutions arrived at for some of our more serious traffic problems. It could be done at very little expense.

JOURNALISM CLASS PLANS TO ENTER HI-OWL IN GPSA CONTEST

By ROBERT MORRIS

Only a few years ago school newspapers in Georgia schools were few, but now practically every outstanding school has its news sheet. These school publications range from the full size four or eight page papers to the small mimeograph paper or to a section in a county weekly.

Many of the school papers are entered in G. S. P. A. contests held in the Henry Guard School of Journalism at the University of Georgia next May.

The editors of the HI-OWL hope to start up in time to enter the yearly contest.

Newspapers will be judged on the following basis:

1. News (40 points), number of stories, variety of topics, adequacy of coverage of school events and style and structure of stories.

2. Features (20) local interest, timeliness number and range of interest and style and structure.

3. Editorials (15 points), quality, content arrangement. (In case publication does not carry editorials, the ten points under this heading will be divided between the editorial page and make-up).

4. Make-up (15 points) general effectiveness, typography, headlines, cuts, proof reading and press work.

5. Advertising (15 points), quality, content arrangement. (In case publication does not carry advertising, the ten points under this heading will be divided between the editorial page and make-up).

The HI-OWL will be published this year by the Journalism class, however, students as teachers throughout the school system may contribute articles of news in any issue.

BLUE DEVILS VARSITY TEAM AS THEY LINE UP

By EDWIN GROOVER

In this column I am going to try to help you identify some of the Blue Devils and give you some information that you probably never knew.

At center there is Charles (Girle) Layton, 170 pounds, a vicious tackler and one of the main cogs in the forward wall.

At right guard we have W. R. Lovett, 148 pounds, a good man to have on defense, at left guard we have Nathan Jones, weighing 155 pounds, this man has paved the way for a many a Blue Devil touchdown this season.

At right tackle we have Roy Hitt 180 pounds, a vicious blocker and there are few men in the district that can carry him out of a defense play, at left tackle we have Harry Smith, 145 pounds, Harry is a new man on the team, this year being the first year he has played football.

In the end positions we have Cliff Purvis, playing right end and Harry Pike at the left post. Cliff, better known as "Cotton" is one of our best men at end and the Blue Devils have never had. He weighs 160 pounds. At the left end we have Harry Pike, 145 pounds, a vicious tackler and a handy man to have on any team.

In the backfield we have Davis Barnes at fullback. He weighs 185 lbs. and is without a doubt the best fullback in the district. When he hits the line he seldom fails to go less than five yards.

At quarterback we have John Smith 126 pounds. John is the field general and a hard tackler.

At right half back we have Joe Tillman, 149 pounds, a hard runner.

At left half we have Edwin Groover and Bruce Robertson sharing the honors. Both boys are fast and they are very shifty and hard to stop on a broken field.

Blue Forces Crush Swainsboro, 20-0

BLUE DEVILS PLAY RAGGED BALL TO DEFEAT A WEAK SWAINSBORO TEAM EASILY

Playing a poor brand of football against a much weaker Swainsboro eleven the Blue Devils from Statesboro High defeated the Swainsboro eleven by three touchdowns and two conversions for the extra points.

The Blue Devils did not, in any way, show the spirit, the fight, and the football ability that they did in the game with E. C. L. Their defensive play was ragged and the offensive showed a tremendous let-down as compared to that of their previous games.

Coach Johnson allowed the second team to play the entire third period and the reserves drove up the field 60 yds. and it looked as though they were going to score but the Swainsboro boys tightened down on them and they could do no more.

J. G. Martin, without the services of one arm which was shot off in a grammar school, displayed wonderful passes into the arms of Ed Smith. He completed three consecutive passes.

The Blue Devils scored in the first, second, once more the last thirty seconds of play.

The tally in the first came after the Blue Devils received the opening kickoff and drove seventy five yards up the field without surrendering possession of the ball. Davis Barnes bucked the ball over and John Smith passed to Barnes for the extra point.

In the second quarter it looked as though the Statesboro High Schoolers decided to quit as Swainsboro chalked three first downs in a row and came within twenty five yards of the Blue Devil goal.

Late in the second quarter after Timman and Barnes had put the ball in scoring position, Edwin Groover on reverse scored. Groover twisted out of the arms of one man and completely outran three others for the tally. On the try for the extra point Smith's pass to Purvis was incomplete.

The second team took possession in the third quarter, but with the beginning of the final period Coach Johnson sent his varsity back into the fray and with only thirty seconds to play, John Smith drove back to his twenty and passed to Barnes for the final score. Smith went over right tackle for the extra point. The final score being Statesboro 20; Swainsboro 0.

Coach Johnson, is sending his undefeated Blue Devil squad through regular season all this week in preparation for the tilt with Ludowici here Friday night on the Statesboro Athletic Association field.

Little is known as to the strength of Ludowici's football team. The only thing is that they defeated the Vidalia B team 20-0. It has been heard that the Ludowici fans boast a good team. We will find out Friday night.

The Blue Devils came through last Friday's "breather" OK, with the exception of a bruised shoulder of half-back Bruce Robertson.

Much work is being done on the offensive and defensive departments this week.

The Blue Devils have no pass defense. If they have they certainly did not use it in the Swainsboro game in Swainsboro last Friday.

The kickoff for the Blue Devils fourth game will be at 8 o'clock.

300 Miles R.E.A. Lines Approved

CONTRACTOR SAYS ENGINEERS NOW WORKING ON LINE AND CONSTRUCTION WILL BEGIN SOON

Bulloch county now has about 300 miles of rural electrification approved, since the extensions asked for, have been added. These 300 miles of line along with the lines already in rural areas established by utility companies give the county almost a complete coverage and puts current within reach of most of the farm families.

Engineers are now working on the line and construction will get under way immediately, according to J. V. Tillman, contractor. The project covering Bulloch and Chandler counties will eventually have close to 500 miles in it.

Homes that have not been listed and are along within reach of the present proposed lines, can still be added and current put in along with the others in the community, provided application is filed prior to construction of the line in that vicinity. It will probably not be possible to add homes after the line has been built by a house that is not signed up for sometime. Applications for the line will be filed with County Agent Byron Dyer for the homes in Bulloch County.

Approval of the extensions was procured last week after a conference with the various R. E. A. offices in Washington. Representing Bulloch county at these conferences were Mr. Olliff, Mr. Nevils, Mr. Turner and Mr. Tillman. So far as is known the extensions into all the areas lined up have been approved and Mr. Tillman authorized to build these lines along with the original letting at the same unit bid.

AN EDITORIAL

WHY PARENTS SHOULD VISIT SCHOOL

Mental, emotional, social and moral adjustment of a child must remain to a certain extent imperfect, in even the best of cases, unless parents and the teachers work together for that adjustment. Of course there are cases where this adjustment is made largely by a fortunate environment for the child in his home where the parents or others have worked unconsciously in cooperation with a supposed plan of school. The cases, however, that give both parent and teacher the greatest concern and anxiety is essential to the teacher's ability to successfully take her place in the life of the child for purpose of helping him take his place in the social group at that greatest of institutions the public school.

There is only one way other than the visit to the school by the parent for a superintendent or teacher to really get a line on the child's background and that is for the teacher to visit the home of the child. This plan, it is to be regretted, is often not possible. The visit of the parent gives the superintendent and the teacher the opportunity to interest the parent in the school and to gain the respect and confidence of the parent. To the child, especially the small child it gives the feeling that the school and his parents are not so far apart and foreign to each other. The child is invariably pleased to see his mother or dad among visitors being shown attention by his teacher. Most parents like to do things for the school to which their children go, but when they are not acquainted with the school and its inner workings, what they do, seems so abstract that they do not get nearly so much joy from the doing as when they feel that they do not get nearly so much joy from the doing as when they feel that they are serving personal friends. Classroom exhibits, school carnivals, class talks and many other activities that may be of great interest to the parents may be used by schools as a means of inducing parents to visit schools. It is natural for a parent to enjoy hearing his child explain something that he has done, some exhibit in a class room that has involved individual thought and work on the part of the child. Parents have a great tendency to limit their visits to the smaller children, that is the primary and grammar school grades, but we wish to impress upon the parents that there is no place in the whole school where a close association of parent and school could do more good than in the adolescent or junior high school. The problem of the adolescent today seems more difficult than at any time in the past. The complexity of social life today presents a real problem to the boy or girl who must make a successful adjustment in the social world. Parents sometimes find themselves almost as bewildered as their children as to what are the wisest decisions. In almost any instance a visit to the school and an understanding between teacher and parents—that could insure a heart-to-heart talk would be of inestimable value to parent and child. The school of today is in many respects very different from schools of a score of years ago and it is only through visits of parents and cooperation of parents, through close association that the school can be successfully tied up with the life problems of children and so mean much to those children whose welfare belongs to home and school alike. We cannot afford to forget that the great central objective of our educational program is making good citizens for a democratic society, and unless teachers and parents can work in the closest cooperation and understanding friendship, the success of this objective can never be attained. Visits from parents enable superintendent and teachers to know each other and form friendships that mean an understanding of the child and his world in a way that can never be reached by any other means.

We hope that we may have the happiness of many visits from parents during the year. We certainly assure you that you are always WELCOME.

THE MODERN AGENT OF MERCY

The new emergency first-aid stations on the highways of Georgia have brought home to many the boundless extent of the Red Cross service. There are now 25 of these Highway Emergency First Aid Stations in operation in Georgia. These posts of mercy have been established so that victims of motor accidents may be spared the "what-ifs" of the past.

Ordinarily one thinks of the Red Cross in connection with the great calamities of war, flood, fire and storm. Its work when such disasters befall has made it a universal symbol of swift-winged relief and compassion. Yet it also brings the hands of care to the humblest homes. In the past year Red Cross nurses made thousands of visits to the sick in communities where nursing and medical attention were not readily available. Its registered nurses give instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick to mothers and daughters in both rural and city homes.

Whenever epidemics threaten the immunizing work of the Red Cross is on hand to combat them. First aid has become a common place resource in time of need. The Red Cross made it so. No one can calculate the lives saved through this timely institution.

The greatest teacher of mankind declared "Blessed are the merciful." There are many ways of meeting that implied charge, but one of the surest is through the Red Cross. It enables us to reach out a hand to someone on a bed of pain in the shattered places, in helplessness or need. The Red Cross is a common agent of unselfishness and good will, in a world where there are unhappily too lacking. It is one approach to the way of Him, of whom it was told in Matthew XIV, 14:

And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and He healed their sick."

DEMOCRACY IN THE SCHOOL

By FRANCES FLOYD

The work being done by the Journalism class is symbolic of the work which is being carried on throughout the entire city schools.

The school is making a great effort to operate on true democratic principles. This is true beginning with the citizenship program in the grammar school and will extend through the student participation in a school Democracy for the High School Department.

The real purpose of education should be the preparation for worthwhile citizenship. The pupil in school community therefore should have an opportunity to express himself democratically. The student council will endeavor to make this possible.

We are right training boys and girls to live in the future as much as in the present. To be a worthwhile citizen today will mean a worthwhile citizen tomorrow.

A boy or girl in Statesboro High School today stands on his own feet and makes his own mind. Not the mind of licensed freedom but the mind of a growing democracy.

This is democracy in the making.

We are very glad to know that Mr. Williams' little sister, who has been seriously ill, has passed the crisis and is rapidly improving.

SIDELINE Sidelights

By SARA HOWELL

Friday night when S. H. S. and Lowndes lined up for the kick-off the Statesboro High students occupied the big grandstand for the first time. Here, before the big grandstand has been given to the visiting teams while the students of the High School occupied the small stand on the opposite side of the field. But these up and coming cheer leaders of ours decided that since there are always more local students than visiting ones, we should have a large grandstand. So the large stand it was. Now this is the spirit we like to see in our cheer leaders. Yea man!

The High School Band was on deck as usual to furnish music during the game. The band was just as "peppy" as ever and kept spirits running high.

The game last interest for seven or eight grammar school boys after about the second touchdown. So they set out to entertain themselves by staging a miniature battle-royale among themselves on the forty yard line. Their mother's soon broke that up, however, and the game was on.

The most amusing part of the game was during the last quarter when Mr. Johnson sent in all the boys who were dressed in their uniforms even to the tiniest freshman, to play for a few minutes. These little boys really got a thrill out of that and we are proud of what they did.

Did you see the "cheap big injun," Big (T), Chief "Shrimp" Olliff walking around in his ceremonial blanket with fringe on everything.

Some of our little boys really got excited Friday night. Don't know whether they were excited over the game or something else but they jumped up and down so much that they broke the bench on which they were sitting.

Our "twin" water boys, Dight Olliff and Jack Averitt were really the "stuff." I'm afraid that the crate of milk bottles was about almost too much for them though.

WHY HAVE A SCHOOL NEWSPAPER

An Editorial
By Russell Pearson

The most important current question at Statesboro High School is, "When is the first issue of the HI-OWL coming out?" This question is about settled.

The members of the Journalism class with the cooperation of Supt. S. H. Sherman are making plans for the immediate publication of the HI-OWL. Some people do not realize the value of a school newspaper. To some it may seem useless and non-educational, but this is not true in any respect. Various benefits are derived from it and new questions arise that help the students working with the paper.

Many people do not know the meaning of newspaper work. They know that the editorial is a part of a paper, but if asked what it is, they would be few who could answer intelligently. The school paper teaches what these things are by bringing them constantly before the pupil. Pupils write them and it develops and interests them in school work. It develops alertness, alertness to see and recognize good news and to remember it. It promotes English by teaching the pupil to compose and write an article in the most attractive way.

These are all great helps, but the most important function of the school newspaper is that it brings the home and the school classes together. And parents receive information about the school that they would not have otherwise.

MISS MOSES STUDIO REDECORATED

By JACK EVERITT

In order that her pupils have a more beautiful place in which to study Miss Eleanor Moses, director of the Speech Department, and Dramatic Club of Statesboro High School, has done a considerable amount of work in making her room more attractive.

Shades and curtains have been added, oil paintings and other beautiful pictures have been placed on the walls and novel vases containing flowers are used on the several tables.

Miss Moses uses the stage furniture that was bought by the Dramatic Club in her studio.

The expression pupils are enjoying their room and we envy them in having such a beautiful place in which to study.

REPORT CARDS ISSUED TO STUDENTS

By JOHN T. NESMITH

On last Thursday afternoon report cards were issued to the students of the Statesboro Public Schools for the first six week period.

The system of grading this year is different from that of last year. This year, instead of the A, B, C, method of grading, the only grades will be S for satisfactory and U for unsatisfactory work. On the back of the report card each teacher states what kind of work that student is doing and whether or not he needs to change his study habits.

This year there is no department mark as Supt. Sherman has said, "Each student should be a good citizen of his school and conduct himself as such in the classes and in the home." We are good citizens therefore, it would be useless to designate marks in department on the report card.

NEW BOOKS FOR JOURNALISM CLASS

By ALBERT KEY

Among the new books for the Journalism class are: "A Handbook for Reporters," by Donald Hoover; "Modern News Reporting," by Carl N. Warren; "Journalism for High School," by Otto and Murre; "A Student Journalism Laboratory," by Greenswartz.

These books give a great deal of valuable information to the student taking Journalism and are very helpful. The class is gradually building up an excellent library for this work.

STUDENTS VOICES TESTED FOR GLEE CLUB

By SARA HOWELL

Don't get alarmed at those sounds that you have heard boldly issuing from the auditorium during the past week. We haven't all turned to animals and joined the zoo although I'll admit some of the voices did sound like it. All those queer noises you heard were only Mrs. Johnson, our public school music teacher auditioning students for the Glee Club which will be begun at an early date.

The students really felt very important when they were asked to sing the scale and the first verses of "America." The boys who acted as if it were an everyday occurrence. Each boy had to inform his classmates whether he sang bass or tenor as he returned from the tryout. I overheard Albert Key questioning Bernard Scott, "Say, what kind of a voice do you have anyway?" To which Bernard's reply was "Oh, boy." Upon being asked why he sang so low, Dight Olliff answered, "Well you see, it is because of my altitude."

"Gittie" Layton says he thinks he got zipped because he had to sing only five notes for Mrs. Johnson to find out he couldn't sing. Sid Smith told me that he sings bass but I wonder if he really can get down that low.

Now the question everyone wants is "Did I make the Glee Club?" Well, boys and girls look on the bulletin board Monday or Tuesday for your names.

By ALBERT KEY

A dance was sponsored by the T. E. T. after the football game with Lowndes last Friday night was very successful. The dance was held at the Woman's Club and the music was furnished by the Statesboro High Indian Nites.

The dance was chaperoned by Mr. R. A. Montgomery and Miss Grace Gray. Among those that attended the dance were Mrs. H. H. Cowart, Miss Gamage and Mrs. Emil Akins and the High School students.

The members of the orchestra are: Drums, Harold Waters; Saxophones, W. E. Lovett, Albert Key and Zack Smith; Flutes, Neal Bunn, Josh T. Nesmith; Vocal, Lowell Akins and piano, Bernard Morris.

The Home Economics Department of S. H. S. is now under way at the Statesboro High School, renovating the Home Economics Department.

The department is given over to the department which consist of four kitchen units, including two electric stoves, two oil stoves, one electric refrigerator, two sinks and a large amount of cabinet space.

The plans for the department provide for a dining room space in which may be held banquets and luncheons. The work will be completed in about two weeks.

Woman's Division of NAAFP Platform For Girls' Athletics

Sue Hammack of T. C. to Discuss Problems at G. E. A.

With a great number of the county schools already practicing basketball, getting ready for the winter season, Miss Sue Hammack, co-chairman of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, has been studying the improvement of officiating for girls' basketball games.

Miss Hammack was in Savannah recently in conference with Miss Dorothy Gordon of Savannah, who is the chairman of the Federation. They are attempting to interest men officials in knowing the girls rules and trying to secure rated officials in all the games in the state.

Miss Hammack stated that on November 2, when the First District E. A. meets at the Teachers College a meeting of all those interested in girls' basketball will be arranged after the regular G. E. A. meeting. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the girls' rules.

Allice Allen, Section, vice-chairman of the Women's Division of NAAFP, has written a study, "A Dilemma in Athletics" and Miss Hammack offers it here. It includes the platform of the organization.

In times past certain games used to monopolize the whole physical education program. For example, basketball had an exaggerated and conspicuous prominence on the program; in fact, it frequently was thought of as the whole program, as synonymous with physical education. Instructors of necessity relegated to the background the art of teaching all types of skills, in favor of doing the game to a high point of perfection, that they might excel in competition with other coaches and schools. The basketball season in schools often lasted from October to April — seven long months. It was little wonder the students who really liked the game, many times became over-trained, and those who did not enjoy the game acquired a deeper distaste for it and a lasting aversion to physical education as a whole, because to them it was exemplified by this one activity.

This over-emphasis on basketball prevented any student from developing a variety of recreational interests while in school.

But the training season for basketball began to grow shorter as leaders of students came to see the value of other games, and discovered how much fun they really are. For instance one girl came to college with such an intense liking for basketball that she said no other game could ever compare with it. But after a season of hockey, which, by the way, lasted only seven weeks, her attitude changed, she said, "Oh, I didn't know hockey could be so much fun! A hockey game takes more players and therefore calls for greater teamwork, you cover more ground, and it's great fun to play outdoors. Now I don't know which I like better, basketball or hockey!"

Likewise, a teacher might be partial to teaching on sport only, to the exclusion of other phases of the program that might yield just as rich rewards, as in the case of the teacher who had specialized in swimming and was called upon to take over the dancing in an orientation course in physical education for freshmen. She became so enthusiastic over it that she declared, "I'm getting worried for fear I'm going to like dancing too much. I never want to do anything better than swimming." It often happens through exploring the possibilities in other activities, new and lasting interests are discovered.

It is important for growing girls to be offered a wider variety of activities from which to make their choices, so great a variety that every girl will have sports for every season and games to suit her fancies. It is the obligation and privilege of those identified with educational programs as leaders, to help students secure a variety of skills and to aid them in making more discriminating choices, so that their play time will yield them the greatest possible returns in health and cultural values — returns that need never end in their constant enjoyment.

This is the dilemma of every athlete—the choices that he or she has to make among his leisure-time and other activities. The school can offer opportunities for the exploration and development of individuals in their recreational life. And the teacher can help them appreciably in building a "hierarchy of values" so that, as the years go by, the individual, building constantly on past experience, learns to make ever more discriminating choices.

It is for these ideals and for the highest possible standards in recreational opportunities for girls that the Women's Division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation has been striving these many years. Their "platform" is the working basis for all-round programs in athletics for girls, and has been the starting point for much improvement in these programs, as exemplified in the following principles:

To:

1. Promote such programs of athletic activities for all girls and women as shall meet their needs, and as shall stimulate and develop in activities that are suited to all ages and capacities.
2. Promote competition that stresses enjoyment of sport and the development of good sportsmanship and character rather than those types that emphasize the making and breaking of records and the winning of championships for the enjoyment of spectators or for the athletic reputation or commercial advantage of institutions and organizations.

3. Promote interest in awards for athletic accomplishment that have little or no intrinsic value.

4. Promote the training and employment of women administrators, leaders and officials who are qualified to assume full responsibility for the physical education and recreation of girls and women.

5. Promote the use of suitable costumes for athletic activities.

6. Promote the provision of sanitary and adequate environment and facilities for athletic activities.

7. Promote the appointment of adequate time allotment for a physical education program such as shall meet the needs of the various age groups for growth, development and the maintenance of physical fitness.

8. Promote the training and employment of women administrators, leaders and officials who are qualified to assume full responsibility for the physical education and recreation of girls and women.

9. Protect the health of girls and women through the promotion of medical examinations and medical "follow-up" as a basis for participation in athletic competition, and of a system of supervision that shall assure a reasonable and sane attitude toward participation in activities at times of temporary physical unfitness.

10. Protect athletic activities for girls and women from the dangers attendant upon competition that involves travel, and from their commercialization by interest in gate receipts.

11. Promote the general adoption of approved rules for the conduct of athletic and games for girls and women.

12. Promote the study of the existing rules of all sports to the end that they may be changed to meet the specific needs of girls and women.

The Women's Division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation welcomes opportunities to help you make use of its resources. Copies of the platform and other materials may be secured by writing to headquarters at 303 West 42nd Street, New York 18, N. Y.

County Agent Says Legume Cover Crops For Orchards

COUNTY AGENT URGES WINTER LEGUME COVER CROPS FOR ORCHARDS.

County Agent Byron Dyer, this last week urged Bulloch county farmers to use a good winter cover crop in their peach orchards this fall. He said Austrian winter peas and hairy vetch are the winter legumes likely to give best results as cover for peach orchards.

"Experiment stations generally recommend the use of winter cover crops to be plowed under in the spring, in peach orchards," Mr. Dyer continued. "While both Austrian winter peas and hairy vetch are recommended, if Austrian winter peas are used, it is best to change to hairy vetch after a year or two, as peas do not do so well in peach orchards over a longer period of successive plantings."

"Some orchardists prefer clean cultivation in the summer, following the turning under of winter legumes. Others are getting good results by allowing the natural weed growth to spring up and mow this at intervals during the summer letting it fall to the ground as a mulch."

"If the clean cultivation method is practiced, it should consist of at least three diskings or enough to control weed growth. If the natural growth is left, it should be mowed often enough to prevent robbing the trees of moisture."

"In young peach groves, some growers have been getting good results from the practice of winter cover cropping with legumes, followed by a summer clean-cultivated inter crop such as cotton."

"Where any of these practices are used, supplemental fertilization should be practiced, using a 4-8-6 commercial fertilizer which is an analysis about 4 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent phosphorus, and 6 per cent potash, at the rate of about one per hundred pounds per acre of the tree's diameter. "In older groves where trees are beginning to crowd to some extent, it has been found preferable to cut out some of the trees, so the ones left will have plenty of room."

all's fair.....

On a certain street in town which for obvious reasons we do not designate a certain matron heard an unusually chatter in her back yard. On investigating she found a bunch of boys striving to hide three gallons of contraband liquor they had found hidden in a sand pit. Some of the group suggested that they bury it all concurred in the opinion that they sell it off, a gallon at a time. Visions of ice cream cones, picture shows, football games and even more extravagant orgies of spending, no doubt, fired their imaginations. The matron who had been observing them quietly decided that the time was ripe for some adult advice and reminded that not only was it a state and county offense to sell liquor, but that it was also a Federal offense. It all wound up by having the policeman come out and take the liquor in charge.

What very young girl away at school called a certain blond high school chap over long distance telephone three weeks ago.

Preparation is under way for the annual P. T. A. Carnival. Mrs. Arthur Howard in the general chairman position with an efficient army of co-workers we're sure it will be a gay Halloween for us all, and as usual there is much speculation as to who will rule over the royal court.

Bey of young people coming out of show the occasion was Agnes Blitch's birthday. We understood that it also got a present.

After the smoke of the first explosives had cleared the dinner progressed to a more aesthetic plane and the guests were favored with musical selections rendered by Miss Eleanor Moses, soloist, Percy Averitt with his musical saw, accompanied by Mrs. Percy Averitt and a male quartette. The High School orchestra under the direction of Marion Carpenter gave several numbers. The program concluded with a clever skit entitled "Bill Enough." The cast included: Bill Bowen, Leode Coleman, Albert M. Brown, Hinton Booth, Roy Beaver, Edith Atkins, John Mooney, Crook Smith, Byron Dyer, El Minkovitz, S. H. Sherman, Harry Cone and others.

The table was beautifully decorated, the Halloween idea being faithfully carried out in every detail. Tiny fashions of perfume were given to the ladies as favors and the boys were favored with fascinating noisemakers. Turkey was the piece d' resistance of the delightful menu.

LADIES' NIGHT AT THE ROTARY

The annual ladies' night of the Rotary Club literally went off with a bang Tuesday evening at the Woman's Club. A mirth provoking program led by Alfred Dorman and the benchmen, Bill Bowen, Thad Morris, and John Mooney set a fast tempo for the evening. Guests were shocked by their arrival by the handshaking committee who really had a new trick. Tricky tableware, explosive cigarettes and matches had the ladies in a tizzy. Halloween favors, witches, owls and all the signs of the season were in evidence on every hand.

After the smoke of the first explosives had cleared the dinner progressed to a more aesthetic plane and the guests were favored with musical selections rendered by Miss Eleanor Moses, soloist, Percy Averitt with his musical saw, accompanied by Mrs. Percy Averitt and a male quartette. The High School orchestra under the direction of Marion Carpenter gave several numbers. The program concluded with a clever skit entitled "Bill Enough." The cast included: Bill Bowen, Leode Coleman, Albert M. Brown, Hinton Booth, Roy Beaver, Edith Atkins, John Mooney, Crook Smith, Byron Dyer, El Minkovitz, S. H. Sherman, Harry Cone and others.

The table was beautifully decorated, the Halloween idea being faithfully carried out in every detail. Tiny fashions of perfume were given to the ladies as favors and the boys were favored with fascinating noisemakers. Turkey was the piece d' resistance of the delightful menu.

Mrs. Porter Stephens received hose for high, and Miss Carrie Lee Davis was given an ash tray for low. Cut prize, a twin set of ash trays, went to Mrs. Remer Brady.

The season was also reflected in the bridge table appointments and the refreshments. The hostess assisted by Miss Pennie Allen and Mrs. Grady Bland served delightful refreshments consisting of chicken salad, date nut bread topped with whipped cream and cherries, rice crackers, olives and tea.

Guests were invited for eight tables.

MRS. DONEHO'S BIRTHDAY REMEMBERED WITH LOVELY SETTING
A pretty compliment to their mother, Mrs. J. E. Doneho, was the social tea on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bruce Oliff on Savannah Avenue with Mrs. Inman Foy, Mrs. Frank Simmons, Mrs. Percy Bland, Mrs. J. O. Johnston, Mrs. H. F. Arundel, Mrs. Waldo Floyd, Mrs. Edwin Groover, Mrs. Howell Sewell, Mrs. Edith Atkins and Mrs. R. L. Cone.

The lovely occasion preceded Mrs. Doneho's birthday which was Sunday October 23.

Dahlias and roses in artistic profusion adorned the living room. In the dining room the color motif was pink. The dainty lace covered tea table was centered with the birthday cake topped with pink cream and encircled with coral vine. Mints, cakes, sandwiches and salted nuts were served the callers.

About sixty of Mrs. Doneho's friends were invited and were entertained in two groups, the first group calling from 3:30 to 4:30, and the second group calling from 4:30 to 5:30. Mrs. Doneho's sister, Mrs. Cecil Brannen assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Burke were weekend visitors in Atlanta.

At the conclusion of the games the hostess served ice cream and cake.

Mrs. Ralph Parker, president of the club, presided over the business session, at which time plans were made for a Halloween party which would include the husbands of the members. Statesboro Blue Devils "Hurry Home" After Defeating Wrightsville Tigers 20-13 To Prepare For Another Hard Foe Here Friday

Blue Devils Battle Improved Reidsville Eleven
On Lighted Field Here Friday Night At 8 P.M.

CLIFF PURVIS INTERCEPTS PASS
AND RUNS 60 YARDS IN OPEN MINUTES OF SECOND HALF TO SCORE

It was one of those "knock down and drag out" and the best man stays in the longest" affairs in Wrightsville last Friday afternoon when the Blue Devils from Statesboro had defeated Wrightsville 20-13. This was the first defeat for Wrightsville in a total of eight years.

The game was featured, other than the intervening squabbles, by a sixty yard run by the Blue Devils ace end and star defensive player, "Cliff" Purvis, on the third play in the second half, faded back to cover a Wrightsville end in the flat zone, intercepted the pass and streaked the sixty yards without a man trying a hand on him.

The Blue Devils were outplayed as far as the statistics show but they buckled down when it was necessary and held the Wrightsville Tigers on the two foot mark late in the fourth period to keep them from tying the score.

The brilliant playing of Cliff Purvis was without a doubt the spark plug for the whole Blue Devil squad.

The fine playing of Nathan Jones at guard and the excellent kicks that he got off on the kick-off was another dominating feature of the Blue Devils game. Roy Hitt at tackle, played good ball on defense and Charles Layton and Davis Barnes, who were backing up the line on defense did a fine job of it. The majority of the running plays of the Wrightsville eleven was over the line and Davis and Charles were right there to meet the Tiger backs.

Statesboro's first score came early in the game when Wrightsville attempted to punt and the kicker was rushed by the Blue Devil forwards and the ball went straight up. After a line play carried the ball down to the 30 and a pass over the line failed, John Smith faded on the next play and passed over the goal line into the end zone where Purvis was waiting for it. Smith again passed to Purvis for the extra point.

Statesboro kicked off to Wrightsville, Nathan Jones really put his toe into the ball and it went down to the 5 and a Tiger back brought it back fifteen to the 20. Three plays later Wrightsville punted and Edwin Groover, playing the safety position, made a breath taking catch and ran the ball back from the forty-five to the twenty. Again the Blue Devils had the ball in scoring position and they took advantage of the break and in a few plays Joe Tillman drove over the line for the score. The try for the extra point failed and the score at the end of the first quarter was Statesboro 13, Wrightsville 0.

After the first quarter, the Wrightsville boys after being taken by surprise by such a scoring spree, took things into their own hands and from then on it was their ball game. They scored with ten seconds left to play in the first half.

In the second half Statesboro kicked off to Wrightsville and three plays later Cliff Purvis wrote "finis" as far as Statesboro was concerned. It was then he intercepted the pass and ran, unopposed for sixty yards, to score the Blue Devils final touchdown.

After this Wrightsville seemed to get furious (please take that in the right manner) and they brought on such a passing attack as the Blue Devils have never been up against. The passes were flying everywhere and early in the fourth quarter after several completed passes, Wrightsville drove over from the 2 yard stripe for their second score.

Again late in the fourth period they worked the ball down to the two foot line and had four downs to make it in and on the first down Cliff Purvis recovered a fumble and the ball went over into the Blue Devils possession and five plays later the ball game went to Statesboro and Wrightsville was beaten for the first time in eight years in their own backyard.

And if it is permissible, this correspondent would like to say one thing. We believe that it is very easy to understand why the Wrightsville football team has not been defeated in the long period of eight years on their own playing field.

Coach B. A. Johnson and his victorious Blue Devils are back on their own grounds today and are very glad to be. Johnson has been sending his squad through tough workouts in order to be ready for another tough team Friday night when Jake Riggs brings his football eleven over from Reidsville to tangle with the Blue Devils.

In the game last Friday, more Blue Devils were hurt, than in other games of the '33 season. But they were all back in uniform today and they are working hard to regain their physical standard of the past.

Jake Riggs will bring with him a much improved ball club Friday. On last Friday afternoon his team held the Lyons powerhouse to two touchdowns.

Coach Johnson stated Monday morning that he regards this game with Reidsville to be as tough as any of the past games and any of the ones following it.

Statesboro High is undefeated and tied once. With the game Friday night, Millen on the eighteenth and Sylvania on the day before Thanksgiving, the Blue Devils will wind up the season, unless they play for the championship.

The Fords Tell Their Plans for 1939

IF WE KNEW anything better we could do for the country than make good motor cars, we would do it.

By every one doing his best in the job he thinks most useful, this country is going to regain its momentum. We have tried to do our best in our job.

When business was suddenly halted in its recovery more than a year ago, we determined that we should keep going anyway, if not at full-volume motor car production, then at getting ready for greater motor car values that would help future production.

EXPANDING FOR THE FUTURE

We began to build 34 million dollars' worth of new plants and equipment. We felt that if we could not employ all our men building motor cars, we would employ as many as we could building better production facilities.

We were told, of course, that this was no time for expansion, that a wise business policy would be to "hold everything"—which means stop everything. But no one ever got anywhere standing still.

Besides, we are not defeatists. We do not believe this country has seen its best days. We believe this country is yet in the infancy of its growth. We believe that every atom of faith invested in our Country and our People will be amply justified by the future.

We have America is just beginning. Never yet have our People seen real Prosperity. Never yet have we seen adequate Production. But we shall see it! That is the assurance in which we have built.

Business is not just coming back. It will have to be brought back. That is now becoming well understood in this country; for that reason 1939 will be a co-operative year. Manufacturers, sellers and buyers will co-operate to bring back the business that is waiting to be brought back.

This construction program is almost completed. It has increased activity and payroll in a number of related industries. It has given us better facilities for building better cars and trucks, and eventually our new tractor which is being perfected.

THIS MEANS MORE VALUE

The current program has provided a new tire plant, which will turn out a part of our tire requirements. . . a new tool and die plant that will help us cut the cost of die . . . and a steel-press plant that will enable us to make more of our own automobile bodies. These are in addition to the plants we already had for producing glass, iron, steel, plastics, and many other things.

We do not supply all our own needs, of course, and never expect to. The Ford engine is one thing

Mars Invasion

ther bulletins reported the terrible conditions which resulted from the "invasion," then the Martians were attacked and soon destroyed by some of the earth's germs to which the "earthlings" were immune and the earth became once again a safe place upon which to live.

The program was so realistic that listeners throughout the nation became panicky and actually began to leave their homes in metropolitan areas seeking what they thought might be a safe refuge.

In Birmingham people gathered in groups for prayer. In Memphis weeping women were trying to learn additional "facts." Residents in Jersey City, N. J. sought police for gas masks. Hundreds of people fled into the streets. Officials of electric companies were urged to turn off the lights so that the enemy could not find them. People in Atlanta began worrying about the "end of the world" being at hand.

The dramatization was so realistic, that despite four interruptions during the radio play announcing that "This is purely a fictional play" people refused to be calmed.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. Arthur Howard, general chairman of the P. T. A. Carnival wishes to thank everyone who contributed so generously of their time and substance toward making the annual carnival a great success.

Superior Court is still in session with a large number of criminal cases to be tried.

The October term convened here on Monday, October 24, the first regular session of Superior Court in this county since October of last year. The civil docket was heavy and practically the entire first week was devoted to the trial of civil cases. Last week, the second week, many criminal matters were handled. Burglary was by far the most conspicuous charges with fifty-four cases being imposed in 8 cases.

The burglary of the Eli Kennedy State at Reidsville resulted in fifteen years for Tuggle Smith, twenty years for Bill Hodges and one year for John Pittman. Reuben Servant who was charged in two cases with entering stores in Statesboro drew five to ten years in each of the cases.

There have been several assault cases, with only one murder case on the docket. Prince Lee, colored, was given life imprisonment for murder. The court spent last Friday on the case of the State against W. E. Edwards, charged with manslaughter. Edwards was the driver of an oil truck that collided with a car driven by B. I. Lowe, last November near Peralta. Mr. Lowe died from injuries sustained in the wreck and his wife died several days later from the same wreck injuries. Edwards was acquitted.

Dr. Raper, the author of the book "Peace to Persuade" discussed the South of today, looking at the soil erosion and human erosion, the rapid increase of farm tenancy, the monotonous diet, low income and crude tools, local politics and civil liberties, rural problems and urban liabilities, race relations and economic competition, poor land and poverty, rich land and factory farming.

"Year after year, thousands of white propertyless families have been replaced by negro sharecroppers. This displacement has been most rapid since 1930, though beginning much earlier. At present nearly two-thirds of the South's 1,831,000 tenant families are white. This formula worked out by the whites to keep the negro dependent penalizes more and more whites" Dr. Raper said.

Continuing the speaker added, "we Southerners live in a godly country. We have the opportunity and challenge to use our varied material and human resources for adequacy—for the abundant life. Such a program calls for the untiring efforts of men with good hearts and clear heads. Here true religion and true statesmanship can work together redemptively and creatively."

Dr. Raper insisted that the South's bridges and droughts, her pellagra and lynchings, are more than just regional receipts for exploitative farm practices; they are physical and social facts which must be listed as liabilities. He stated that in the end these liabilities are no less costly to the distant metropolitan area than to the local farm community.

The meeting was held in the auditorium of the South Georgia Teachers College last Wednesday with John Varnedoe of Savannah, district vice president in charge. Dr. C. M. Coalson gave the invocation and Dr. R. J. Kennedy, member of the State Board of Education, gave the welcome address. The response was made by W. J. Andrews, president of the G. E. A. Secretary R. L. Ramsey presented the distinguished guests and visitors.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, was present, together with members of his department. The college chorus, under the direction of Ronald J. Nell, and the band under the direction of C. N. Harris, presented several numbers. The afternoon session was given over to departmental meetings.

Democracy is government by the people. County-planning committees, county-discussion groups, county A. A. committees, and AAA referendums are all steps in our agricultural democracy.

Dr. Raper insisted that the South's bridges and droughts, her pellagra and lynchings, are more than just regional receipts for exploitative farm practices; they are physical and social facts which must be listed as liabilities. He stated that in the end these liabilities are no less costly to the distant metropolitan area than to the local farm community.

The meeting was held in the auditorium of the South Georgia Teachers College last Wednesday with John Varnedoe of Savannah, district vice president in charge. Dr. C. M. Coalson gave the invocation and Dr. R. J. Kennedy, member of the State Board of Education, gave the welcome address. The response was made by W. J. Andrews, president of the G. E. A. Secretary R. L. Ramsey presented the distinguished guests and visitors.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, was present, together with members of his department. The college chorus, under the direction of Ronald J. Nell, and the band under the direction of C. N. Harris, presented several numbers. The afternoon session was given over to departmental meetings.

Democracy is government by the people. County-planning committees, county-discussion groups, county A. A. committees, and AAA referendums are all steps in our agricultural democracy.

Mayor Renfro Issues Proclamation On Red Cross Roll Call Nov. 11-24

Each year, Americans in every community are called upon to take part in a great nation-wide movement to relieve human suffering and raise health standards in this country. I refer to the word done by the Bulloch County Chapter of the American Red Cross and thousands of other chapters throughout the country.

It is not necessary, I know, for me to remind citizens of our community that the work of the Red Cross is a vital contribution to our community welfare. Both from the standpoint of the year-round local program and the work on a national basis, such as the relief for victims of disasters, the fight against epidemics, public health nursing for isolated communities, or assistance to service men or disabled veterans, Red Cross aid to these needy help has proved its worth. For years past our community has had a share in this work through the annual membership Roll Call of the Red Cross, through which work is supported, is from Armistice Day through Thanksgiving Day. Your support during this period will insure a continuation of Red Cross work here and in other parts of the country. The Red Cross asks so little, yet does so much that we cannot afford to deny such an appeal.

I am pleased, therefore, as Mayor of Statesboro, to designate this period as a time when all members will be asked to renew their memberships, and those who have not enrolled before are asked to add their names to the ranks of Red Cross members in our community.

The new water tank will be a 150,000 gallon tank on a steel tower elevating the water 111 feet. It will be located on the south west corner of Hill and Oak Streets. The pump house and pump will be between Hill St. and Mulberry St.

The new water main extensions will run as follows: On College Boulevard beginning at Savannah Avenue along College Boulevard a distance of 3,230 feet to the Georgia & Florida highway right of way a distance of 1400 feet and angles off for a distance of 600 feet. On Donaldson street from Savannah Avenue to Oil Mill Street. From the new tank to new pump house at Mulberry Street and Hill Street along the Central of Georgia Railway to tie in on the present system at East Main.

The extensions include eleven new fire hydrants.

LET'S NOT CLUB OUR BUSINESS MEN TO DEATH

You have often heard the remark, "Statesboro is over-organized."

In hearing that remark we are reminded of a small town that has been a small town for years and years, and during those years it has been said by the people of the town that it is clubbed to death—so many clubs and organizations the town will not, or cannot support them—consequently they all suffer.

Judging from the number of calls from the many sources that have been made recently and that will be made up until Christmas the thought occurs to us that maybe there must be something to the remark that Statesboro is too well organized and too heavily clubbed. Ask any merchant and business man.

This is not intended as a challenge of clubs and organizations. There is need for and a place for both to fill. But let's be careful not to club and organize our city to death. After all, it is the business people of the town or community who actually support it, and business people often feel they have reached the end of the row in contributions and donations. They give 'till it hurts,' and then they must, for the protection of themselves and their business, stop. Aside from this, some people are so constituted that they give liberally so long as they are not rushed too fast, but when crowded they quit entirely and will not help any.

We know one merchant who just before Christmas last year contributed to nineteen different causes, sponsored by nineteen different clubs and organizations. Suppose each merchant in town were to turn around and ask for a contribution or donation from each organization or club in town.

Let's be careful. Let's not club our business men to death.

"GEORGIA NUT WEEK"

We have baby weeks, cotton weeks, cheese weeks, apple weeks, tomato weeks, drug weeks, and every other sort of weeks until we are prone to become weak with weeks.

And along comes Governor E. D. Rivers and declares this week, November 7-12, as GEORGIA NUT WEEK.

And we realize that there are some wise-acre who will make some nasty crack about it. They will say we already have enough NUTS in Georgia without encouraging them with a special week. Up at Milledgeville we have a large institution for unfortunate, mentally, and everybody makes cracks about that.

But the fact that Georgia has some real worthwhile nuts. One of our local buyers last week shipped two full car loads of pecans totaling 65,000 pounds. He will ship more than 250,000 pounds before the season is over. Georgia raises eight and one quarter million pounds of pecans a year. One-third of all the pecans grown in America and three times as many as any other state. There are some figures at which to take a crack.

WEAR A POPPY

To America, facing disturbed world conditions and struggles against economic troubles will come next Saturday a message of assurance and courage. It will come from the men who gave their lives for America when the country was facing a warring enemy twenty years ago.

The message will be in such simple form that everyone, even the children, can understand. It will come in the form of little red poppies worn on the coat lapels. It will speak of the days when Americans were dying for their country and will urge the same spirit of courageous patriotism in facing the dangers of today.

The poppy is the flower that grew in the shell-crushed soil of the battle front in France and Belgium, the only touch of beauty surviving war's destruction and the only floral tribute for the war dead. It became and remained the symbol of the highest patriotic sacrifice. On Poppy Day each year, The American Legion and Auxiliary bring it to us with its eloquent message from the dead.

Can anyone wear a poppy without feeling a glow of pride in his country? Can anyone see the poppies blooming brightly on hundreds of coats without knowing a surge of confidence in America? Reminded by the poppies, can anyone doubt that the nation capable of such effort and sacrifice twenty years ago, will be victorious over today's difficulties?

Every American should wear a poppy on Poppy Day and all America should catch the poppy's message. The brave little blossom says:

"Remember the dead, aid the disabled and carry on for America."

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

We do not know what hard luck is. Listen to the story told by Louis Brown of Jackson, Miss.

Louis was a fairly prosperous and happy negro farmer until a few weeks ago.

Then—

Somebody burned his house. He moved his family into the barn. Then somebody burned the barn.

Louis thought certainly his enemies would be satisfied when he was forced to camp out with his family.

But one night they knocked his milk cow in the head and killed her. Only his chickens his house, his mule and horse remained.

Then somebody shot his mule, crippled his horse and burned his chicken house.

Louis then lost his courage. He called the law.

There is in Toombs county a colored church, in which the preacher has had more trouble than somewhat collecting sufficient money to meet expenses, the main item of which is, quite naturally, the pastor's salary.

Every week he has been writing out lengthy appeals which he would have one of the deacons read to the congregation.

One Sunday recently, the pastor did not show up. One of his manifold offerings brought this message for the deacon to read to the congregation:

"This is no appeal. It is a report. I ain't got no pants."

A great many farmers, even the best of the cotton farmers in Bulloch county, are asking the question "What is Cotton?" Beth Williams, Quitman Free Press wag, answers the question as follows:

"Cotton is the overcoat of a seed that is planted and grown in the South to keep the producer broke and buyer crazy."

"The fiber varies in grade and staple, and the man who can guess nearest about these is called 'a cotton man' by the public, a fool by the farmer, and a poor business man by his creditors."

"The price of cotton is fixed in New York, and goes down when you have bought, and up when you have sold. A buyer for a big cotton mill was sent to New York to watch the cotton market. After a few days deliberation, he wired his firm: 'Some thinks it will go down, and some think it will go up. I do, too. Whatever you do will be wrong. Act at once.'"

"Cotton is planted in the spring, mortgaged in the summer, and left in the fields in the winter."

STUDENTS OF COUNTY URGED TO PATRONIZE HI OWI ADVERTISERS

In the past when the advertising manager of the High School paper submitted the advertising space to the business men in Statesboro, it had not been very recently been pestered into each county school in Bulloch by the epidemic of "advertisers" for this that or the other, they sometimes gave us advertising with the feeling that it was purely a gift, but not so this year. Twenty five copies of this clever little paper put out by the journalism class of S. H. S. was mailed to each county school in Bulloch County today and this is a request to the students who read those papers to go far enough to read every advertisement in them. You will find them clever and well written. We ask you to remember these merchants when you are in town and give them at least a part of your trade.

OUT OF TOWN STUDENTS EXPRESS OPINION OF S. H. S.

I had been very happy at West Side during my nine years in school there and I dreaded just a little to come into S. H. S. I had heard that the students were slightly "snooty" and that the teachers were "strict." At the end of the first day in S. H. S. I knew I had come to a great school where I would be happy. They are all so friendly and quite a number told me that they were glad to have me as a schoolmate.

The teachers, I found unusually

GRAMMAR SCHOOL GAVE INTERESTING PROGRAM

This program, for lack of space this notation did not get into the Hi Owl and though it is late in getting in we feel that it is only fair to these clever youngsters to include their names in this issue of the Herald.

The very delightful program based on the traditions of Halloween was as follows:

Witches predicting—Gloria Macon, Virginia Mock.

The Dances of the Skeletons—Betty Banks, B-Ty Bates Lovett, Betty Miller, Jo Anne Baines and Claudia Hodges.

Cats Cake Walk—Betty Weller, Brannen Person, Johnny Brannen.

SENIORS TO PLAN A THANKSGIVING PROGRAM

The D section of the Senior Class will have charge of the Thanksgiving program. The program will include an operetta based on the colonial life of the Pilgrims and their first Thanksgiving.

In recent years many leading educators have come to believe that the best way to teach is to get away from the idea of emphasizing grades. The child should be encouraged to study for what he may get from a subject rather than for the grade it does.

No grade mark is given, the letters U and S are used—S for Satisfactory and U for Unsatisfactory. A space is given for evaluation and remarks to be written by the teachers of each pupil in her class.

TO BE REPAID

Yes, it is true that Uncle Sam is spending money with apparent unbridled recklessness (maybe we should spell it wisely) but only think of the fun the boys are having while spending it and the great number of really needed public buildings, school houses etc., that we are getting with it, that otherwise we would never get; and remember too, that much of it is but loans, we will secure loans at that, to be repaid.

PREVENT THIS

While many folks are in the throes of the hunting season it is necessary and timely to caution the fathers who shoot the guns to take care in leaving weapons lying around where a playful child might reach them. Remove shells and ammunition from the reach of a child wanting to stage an act of "cops and robbers." Last year four children were injured trying to drive a bullet with a hammer. This

Have Deftest Toes

Tribesmen and tribeswomen who live deep in the Malay jungle, have perhaps the deftest toes in the world. The Malay shoes are provided with a knob upon a stem, and wrap her toes if she is to keep her sandals on. In other words, to remain shod at all, she must walk partly on the side of her foot.

REPORT CARDS DISTRIBUTED

This week more than 400 new report cards were distributed to the students of Nevils High School. When we say "new" it has a two-fold meaning. First it is the first time cards have been given out this school year and it is the first time a card of this kind has been given before.

No grade mark is given, the letters U and S are used—S for Satisfactory and U for Unsatisfactory. A space is given for evaluation and remarks to be written by the teachers of each pupil in her class.

SECOND GRADE—
We are studying about the circus. We made a freeze on the circus parade. We enjoyed making booklets on circus animals. We will take them home when we finish making them. Mr. Little came to see us Friday. Mr. Womack came with him. We were glad to have both of them.

THIRD GRADE—
We are studying about "Frogs." We read stories this morning and found that frogs come from tadpoles. As tadpoles grow, hind legs appear, then front legs. His tail is gone and it's not a tadpole anymore, it has become a frog.
We were happy to have Miss Franchet and six Rosenwald students with us this morning.
—Betty Joyce Woods.

FOURTH GRADE—
During supervised lunch the Fourth Grade has been studying and talking about health and good manners. When eating soup they find this poem very helpful in remembering the correct way to eat soup:
"Like little ships at sea
I dip my soup away from me."
—Willie Belle Donaldson.

FIFTH GRADE—
Fixing Our Table.
Our class decided to fix our table over. Two boys painted it green. Then we got some old cloth. The color is green, trimmed in white. We wanted to have it so the Librarian could check out the books better. We put newspapers under the oilcloth so that when we had to print we could do it more smoothly.
—Sara Lou Kennedy.

The Fifth grade has elected new class officers as follows: President, John Ed Brannen; Vice President, Thelma Lee Wallace; Secretary, Milton Williams; Treasurer, Ransome Noblitt; Student Council, Melrose Rector; News Reporter, Margaret Rector and Dorothy Rushing. The old officers were: President, Sara Lou Kennedy; Vice President, Leavenue Jones; Secretary, Emma Jean Bohler; Treasurer, Zeal Williams; Student Council, Corrine Williams.
—Dorothy Rushing.

Those who made 100 in spelling are Ruby, Emma Jean, Leavenue, Ransome, Allen and Melrose. We have Black and Gold sides. The Blacks went out to 75 and Golds 73 1-2 and the Blacks beat the Golds.
—Katie Laura Cartie.

SIXTH GRADE—
We are beginning the study of the Maritime countries of Northwestern Europe. We feel sure we are going to enjoy this study.
We have repeated our reading table and our flower pots. This certainly helps to make our room more attractive.
Those making 100 in spelling last week were Eva Nevil, Alta Anderson, Iris Knight, Irene McElvaine, and Sarah Beth Woods.
Miss Franchet visited our room on Monday.
Our teachers attended the G. E. A. one hundred per cent and we enjoyed the holiday the same.
—Eva Nevil.

At the end of the six weeks we elected new officers. They are: President, Carolyn Bowen; Vice President, Frank Simmons; Secretary, Karlyn Watson; Treasurer, Sara Beth Woods.
—Karlyn Watson, secretary.

NINTH GRADE—
The ninth grade History class has made booklets on the different countries we have studied. The booklets were very interesting to make. We drew pictures on the different topics we have studied. We are beginning the study of ancient Greece. We plan to make booklets and write plays in our study of Greece. Miss Herndon, our history teacher, directs our activities.
—Ida Neville.

READING GROUP—
Mrs. DeLoach, a Rosenwald student, has been at the Register school for the past two weeks. She helped the ninth grade organize a reading group. We decided we would put on a play. Mrs. DeLoach is gone now, but we are still working on the play that we plan to present on Thanksgiving.
—George Thomas Holloway.

JOURNALISTIC WRITING—
The ninth grade English class has asked Mrs. Gay, our teacher, to let us study Journalism. Five of the ninth grade students are members of the Editorial Staff of the Register "Hi-Lights." The class is very much interested in writing for the school paper and also the county papers. We are going to enjoy Journalism writing a great deal.
—La Rose Stephens.

WE SEE "ROBIN HOOD"
Last Tuesday (November 1) the ninth grade went to see "Robin Hood." The class particularly enjoyed the scenes in Sherwood Forest, the fencing scenes and home-coming and coronation of King Richard. We were pleased very much to get to see the picture since most of us had read the story of "Robin Hood."
—Ruby Lee Key.

PLAN TO WRITE FOREIGN LANDS
The ninth grade English class is planning to write individually to students that live in foreign lands. Mrs. Gay sent the order to receive the names for us and we are expecting them at any time now.
In this correspondence we expect to learn about their school and home life, customs, appearance, and occupations.
We think that this is going to be a very interesting project.
—Louise Anderson.

TENTH GRADE—
In history we drew some cartoons illustrating things about history. We picked out some of the best ones and sent them to Mr. Schiller and his pupils at the College. We are hoping that he will send us some of his pupils' work.
In English we have been learning how to pronounce words correctly and are now learning how to spell them.
The girls in our class can hardly wait until we get our wool dresses finished. We know that we are going to enjoy wearing them.
Mr. Womack and Mr. Little visited our school last Friday. We are always glad to have them.
The majority of our class attended the show, "Robin Hood," at the Georgia Theatre last week. We enjoyed it.
—Henriette Smith, Class Reporter.

ELEVENTH GRADE—
In "Government" and Problems of Today, we have finished our charts and have put them up in the room.
Miss Franchet and six Rosenwald students visited us Monday of last week.
The Student Council met in the auditorium Monday of last week. It was a call meeting, not its regular meeting time.
Jerald Dekke, who has been sick for the past week, is now back in school.
—Wilhelmina Waters.

HOME ECONOMICS CLASS STUDYING CLOTHING
In Class II of the Home Economics, we have just finished studying clothing. In this study we were taught: How to keep a budget, how to judge clothing, where to buy the best clothing, and the colors best suited to each type of person.
In connection with this, the girls made a color chart. It is very attractive and we feel proud of it. In this study, we feel that we have been helped a great deal in selecting our winter clothes.
We are now taking up vegetables and fruits. We will work in the laboratory during this study. We have already prepared cabbage and bell pepper salad in connection with the School Lunch Room. During the year we will help every time we have a chance, as we feel that it will be a help to us and also the seniors.
—Margaret Strickland.

BASKET BALL COURT IS BEING CLEANED UP
Some of the High School boys have cleaned off the ball court in preparation to get it in shape to play on.
They have secured posts with which to build the goals and have already started building them. We will be glad when the courts are ready and we can begin practicing. We are expecting a good team this year.
Mr. Crouch, the athletic coach, has announced that the Register School will have a track team this year. We have some good material and are anxiously waiting to begin training.
—Bud Tillman.

Carey ROOFINGS AND SHINGLES
"A ROOF FOR EVERY BUILDING"

The attention of the people of Statesboro is invited to inspect, unobstructed and dilapidated buildings in the heart of our city, photographs of a few of them being published here. All of these buildings and about that many more are located within two blocks of the courthouse (in the rear of the Brooks House). A great number of them are no property that adjoins my own, despite the fact that I have previously bought and tore down or moved seven houses and seven water closets, one mule stable and one chicken house.

Three of the structures in the top row of the picture represent the "gutted" type of architecture. The water closets represents the "stink" type. The others, for the purpose of classification, may be assigned to the "decayed" type.
The burned building is located on the corner of North College and Elm Streets. It was burned in September of 1937, more than 13 months ago. The city officials have permitted it to stand despite the fact that the citizens of the community have pleaded with them to have it taken down.

The open toilet is located within a few feet of Mr. E. L. Akins home and also within a few feet of North College Street. It has stood there, menacing the health of the people for decades, despite the fact that a city ordinance forbids its existence. The Akins family have lived with it for many years.
I personally have tried to do my part towards the upbuilding of Statesboro. I can point you to six respectable residences within the city that I had built. There are nine white families in these homes at this time. Someone pays taxes both to the city and to the state and county on these homes and their furnishings. I have paid approximately $700.00 in taxes to the city and to the state and county within the last four years, despite the fact that I have had employment for only seven months during that time. In 1937 my taxes were more than $200.00.
I lay no claim to better treatment than that accorded other citizens, but I do believe I am entitled to be treated.

Largest Bird Family
Finches form the world's largest bird family, with more than 1,200 species and sub-species. To this family belong such groups as the grosbeaks, sparrows and buntings.
Indians Mined Turquoise
Indians mined turquoise on the Mojave desert long before Europeans obtained these precious stones from the Turks and gave them the name, "Turkish stones."

"ORPHANS OF THE STORM"

Fleeing a tornado near Clyde, Texas, parents of these babies were killed, their automobile tossed a quarter-mile away. Hours later a telephone inman heard a child's whimper in a roadside ditch. There he found 3-year-old Jesse Donald Rutledge, water up to his chin, holding his 3-month-old brother Darryl's head above water. Relatives being unable to care for the orphans, Red Cross workers arranged a maintenance fund to support them until they are 16. A Texas college promised scholarships and ranchmen started a herd of cattle for their benefit. The Red Cross will help the boys make adjustments as they grow older.

New Fords On Display Here And Brooklet

The two finest Ford cars in the 35 years of the company's history are now on display at S. W. Lewis here in Statesboro and at the Phebus Motor Co., in Brooklet. The new Fords are on display along with the newest member of the Ford family, The Mercury Eight. Harry Cone of S. W. Lewis, Inc., and Mr. Daves of Phebus Motor Co., both stated that the new Fords and the Mercury Eight were causing much interest. The cars, which are now on display in the sales rooms of the two agencies are individually styled. They both have compelling beauty.

A new feature this year is the introduction of hydraulic brakes on all models.

The De-Luxe Ford V-8 with wholly new streamlines, has a distinctive appearance of its own. At the same time both it and the Ford V-8 share a family likeness with the Lincoln-Zephyr and the new Mercury 8.

The De-Luxe has a deep hood with long lines, unbroken by louvers, low radiator grille in bright metal and wide-spaced headlamps set into the fenders. The words Ford De-Luxe, in script letters of chrome, are divided at the front of the hood. The hood handle is concealed in a vehicle extension of the radiator ornament.

After the game Thursday night Statesboro has but two more games left. Miller here on the local field and the car-haul will drop the following Wednesday when the Blue Devils cross the Ogeechee River to play in Savannah.

At the present Statesboro is one of the leading contenders for the District Championship as they are, along with E. C. L., the only team in the district without a defeat against them. Should the Blue Devils get by Miller and Savannah they will have a clean slate and will probably be a choice for the playoff game for the District Championship Crown.

Red Cross Roll Call Enlists Many New Members

Mrs. W. W. Edge Speaks In Schools On Work Of Red Cross

The Annual Red Cross Roll under the capable direction of Mrs. W. W. Edge is steadily moving forward, and her co-workers are hopeful of enlisting a larger membership than Bulloch county has ever had.

Mrs. Edge is rendering a splendid service for this institution of mercy which now is help financially to meet increasing demands made on the American Red Cross. It must be remembered that no call is ever made on the Red Cross in vain. In order that such splendid service shall continue everyone must have his or her share in the contribution.

Last week, Mrs. Edge made world for Red Cross at the following schools: Warnock, Esila, Middle Ground, Newville and Portia. She also outlined the work of the Red Cross before members of the Brooklet Parent Teacher Association and addressed the members of the Middle Ground Community Club.

During this week Mrs. Edge will address other schools in the county as follows: Cliftonville, Statesboro, West Side, Register, Ogeechee, Denmark, Stillson.

Mrs. Edge has been delighted with the interest the people in the county have shown in this worthy cause, and is confident that in Red Cross as in all other undertakings Bulloch county will stand prominently.

An exhibit dealing with the varied uses of a one-horsepower portable motor can be put on in the farm proved a popular attraction at the Walker and Chattahoochee county fairs. The exhibit, supervised by J. L. Calhoun, Extension rural electrification specialist, attracted more than 5,000 visitors at the two fairs.

CITY IS ENJOINED FROM TEARING DOWN GUS FLOYD HOUSE

Condemned By Public Health Board At Meeting Last Month

Gus Floyd, Gus Floyd Jr., Mildred Floyd, Hernandez Floyd and Marion Floyd, through their attorneys, D. C. Jones and R. Lee Moore, on Monday morning filed an injunction against the city of Statesboro to prevent the carrying out of condemnation proceedings against a burned house at the corner of Elm and North College Streets.

The house belonging to the Floyds burned about a year ago. The unburned sections of the house were left standing and on October 4, of this year, upon recommendation of the Public Health committee, the house was condemned and a contract to tear it down and move the materials was awarded to Math Proctor on November 8.

The injunction states that the city illegally condemned the house as a nuisance. It further states that the owners wished to repair the building and had attempted to secure a permit from the city to use the unburned and uninjured material remaining in the building and that the permit had been refused. It goes on to say the owners still wish to rebuild the house and that if the city is permitted to tear down the house the owners will suffer a loss of $800 or more. The petition for the owners kept clean and sanitary all the time the date of the fire and that the party burned house is not a nuisance.

Judge Wm. Woodrum granted a restraining order and will hear the case at the January term of Superior Court to be held on the Fourth Monday in January, 1939.

$1,023,768.63 PAID BULLOCH COUNTY FARMERS SINCE 1933

Orders For Winter Cover Crops This Year Reach 175,000 Pounds

Subsidy payments on cotton grown in 1937 have been delivered to 1877 work sheet signers in Bulloch county totaling $140,513.67. There are more than 2200 work sheet signers in the county, which will make the total payments under this program amount to more than $200,000.

The payments received to date brings the total money paid to Bulloch farmers by the Agricultural Administration since 1933 to $1,023,768.63. These farmers have already qualified for some $300,000 in the 1938 program.

Payments for 1938, when all the farmers were cooperating with the program, amounted to $262,304.47. In 1936, when the soil conservation program was optional and the farmers did not cooperate as much as possible under the program, the payments were $160,030.25. The payment dropped to $100,690.11 in 1937 when it was again optional for the farmers to cooperate.

One payment Bulloch farmers are qualifying for in 1938 that they have more or less overlooked is the soil building practices payment. In 1933 the cooperative orders for winter cover crop seed have gradually increased since that time until this year they have already reached more than 175,000 pounds. This effort to build the soil will also mean some $95,000 in soil conservation payments to Bulloch farmers.

EDITORS NOTE:

There can be no doubt of the part that livestock plays in this county and this section of the state. It means cash in the farmer's pockets each week, it means meat in their smokehouses each winter. But what about the part livestock plays in the other sections of the nation.

Recently Ralph McGill, executive editor of the Atlanta Constitution and one of the leading newspaper men in the nation, made a trip to Chicago and the stock yards and the slaughter houses in that city. With an exceedingly keen pencil he has presented through the Atlanta Constitution a picture of the livestock industry which we feel every farmer in Statesboro and Bulloch county should see.

We approached Mr. McGill and asked his permission to reprint the series of articles as they appeared in his column "One Word More" appearing daily in the Constitution. So with Mr. Ralph McGill's special permission we give you the first of his articles: The Real Beef Eaters—

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 1.—Americans are the real beef eaters. Today I watched $1,200,000 being spent for beef at one packing house. America is hungry each day.

"In the morning the beef was in the yard, in the afternoon it came to the slaughter room, sliding to the floor, where the beef butchers went to work. They moved with unbelievable sureness and swiftness, being among the most skilled workers in the world. "Three hundred and two cattle came to the floor today. In the space of two hours, those 300 cattle had become clean sides of beef, moving into the cleaning room. The workers had washed off the stains, put away their gleaming knives, the floor was cleaned and sluiced with water. The process was a spectacle. Quickly hides were removed. With uncanny speed, the animals were cleaned and halved.

"Thirty million pounds of beef emerge from this one packing house each week. That is the average. Almost 2,000,000 cattle came to the Chicago market last year to become food for America.

"The scene is one worthy the effort of some great painter of American scenes. One hundred and fifty cattle per hour are changed from newly slain animals to clean sides of beef moving into the cooling rooms.

Three Pigs, One Cotton Bale—
"Georgia, with her lush fields, her streams of water, ships no cattle to the Chicago markets.

"Geography has nothing to do with the quality of beef. Georgia can produce, and in some few localities is producing, as fine beef as well as the west produces.

"Good beef is a matter of blood lines and of feeding. One is as important as the other. Georgia, with her growing corn crop, already is "finishing" hogs with corn feeding. Cattle are next.

"The packing house people are convinced the south is to see the next great development in livestock.

"Georgia, already the leading pork state in the southeast, ships no hogs to the great markets. Georgia packing houses cannot obtain enough to fill the Georgia demand. The state imports forty millions of dollars worth of pork products.

"Here, where is located the center of the meat industry, is the drama which can inspire the south to speed up its production. With the freight rate differentials to be abolished, Georgia could, if she ever develops the stock, ship her surpluses to markets with greater ease than many of the sections now shipping here and to Kansas City.

The Quotas and Livestocks—
"The farming quotas are turning farmers to livestock. Not all states can produce it as well as Georgia.

"The South has years of work before she can fill her own market demands. The stock farmers of Georgia ought then to be able successfully to compete with those of other sections because the cost of production should be less.

"At present, Tennessee has probably more of the best cattle than any other of the really southern states. This does not mean the south should go in for exclusive production of prime and choice cattle.

"It is astounding to discover that of all the cattle which come to the Chicago market, and more of the better cattle come here than to any other market, only one half of one percent are rated as prime. Only about 1-2 percent are graded choice.

"About 95 percent of the cattle arriving here, and the percentage would be greater at other markets, are graded as good, medium and on down.

Knights of the Round Table—

"I sat for a while today at the largest packing plant in the world, with the "knights of the round table." They are five very interesting gentlemen who sit there at a round table and with the orders from hundreds of cities placed before them, route the cars of meat.

"It is an astounding experience. While we sat there they worked out the New England section and sent within a few hours, 250 cars of meat rolling to more than 60 New England cities.

"America was hungry. Down below, the trains puffed in with their loads of cattle and hogs and lambs. Trucks arrived with the same. Experts worked, thousands of typewriters clicked, thousands of figures were made; men considered the market; there was a great hive of industry going. America was hungry.

"I thought of cars being routed to Georgia because Georgia, a state great in territory, opportunity and men, had been so committed to the one-crop system it just import much of its poultry and eggs, much of its pork and beef. But the picture is going to change. Georgia has begun.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

A GREAT DAY

It was a great day when Georgia and South Carolina joined hands across the Savannah River last Friday at the dedication ceremonies opening the new Burton's Ferry Bridge.

But the people of Statesboro and Bulloch county must realize that the job is not yet done, just because the bridge is open. Our work has just begun. A trip over to Sylva will prove this. Not a lick of work has been done from the Ogeechee River back ten miles on the Screven side. Screven has the way open into the city limits of Sylva. And there is a paved road from Sylva down into Savannah. And there is a paved road from Sylva up to Augusta. And Savannah and Augusta love the people of Screven. See our point.

Because the bridge is open is exactly why we should pull the route on into Statesboro. Through tourist money is good money, but visualize the vast possibilities of a new territory opened with "repeater" visitors every Saturday and every day in the week, to buy overalls, Sunday suits, Easter bonnets, Santa Clause, plow stocks, tooth paste, auto tires, radio and all.

The bridge open is merely the end of the first quarter for us and the score is one touchdown against us.

Not more than two saw Mr. R. Lee Moore with a deft and swift motion of his hand, remove his "bridge work" when he began speaking at the Burton's Ferry Bridge exercises Friday.

Dr. R. J. Kennedy was pleased as punch when R. P. Searson, master of ceremonies, referred to him as "That Grand Old Man from Statesboro", but later Doc confessed that he resented, just a little bit, being called "old."

There is a remarkable likeness between U. S. Senators James F. Byrnes of S. C. and our own Walter F. George. They took somewhat alike and their voices fooled one of our local representatives.

C. A. Quattlebaum recalls forty years ago when Georgians used to swim the Savannah River to help the South Carolinians in their elections. "A South Carolina election was never won until they had counted the Georgia vote," remembers Mr. Quattlebaum.

Georgia Farmers Vote On Quotas December 10

Georgia farmers are going to vote December 10 to decide whether the marketing quotas that were in effect this year for cotton and flue-cured tobacco are to be continued in effect for the 1939 season. Preparations for the referendum are now underway throughout the state.

Voting places will be provided in all counties and communities where cotton or flue-cured tobacco is grown. Homer S. Durden, state administrative officer of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, said in an announcement concerning the referendum.

County conservation committees will be in charge of the arrangements and the voting will be conducted like any regular election. Three local farmers will be named by the county committee to serve as election officers in each community. The county committee also will designate the voting place in each community and see that a ballot box and a supply of printed ballots are provided.

"The ballots will be publicly counted in each community immediately after the polls close," Durden said, "and the county results will be announced at county seats by the county committees as soon as all boxes report. The county returns will be tabulated in Athens in cooperation with newspapers and press associations just as the returns from political elections are regularly tabulated in Atlanta.

"This is the same procedure that was followed in the referendum last March. This procedure appears to be the most convenient method of giving to the public through the press and radio a prompt report on the results of the ballot."

Where cotton and flue-cured tobacco are grown in the same community the election for both commodities will be held in the same place but separate ballot boxes and separate ballots will be used. The voting will be secret. This means that each farmer will mark his ballot privately and cast it in the customary way, just as in any regular election.

The question to be decided in the case of cotton is whether or not the marketing quotas are to apply to the 1939 cotton crop. All farmers who produced cotton this year with a staple of less than 1-2 inches will be eligible to vote. Quotas are not applicable under the farm act, to cotton with a staple of 1-2 inches or longer—such as Sea Island cotton. Therefore, a farmer who produced such cotton this year is not eligible to vote unless he also produced some cotton with a staple of less than 1-2 inches.

No cotton or flue-cured tobacco producer will be entitled to more than one vote whether an individual, partnership, corporation, association or firm.

All farmers who engaged in the production of flue-cured tobacco this year will be eligible to vote in the election on tobacco quotas.

In order to become effective, cotton quotas must be approved by a two-thirds majority of the farmers voting in the cotton election, and the flue-cured tobacco quotas must be approved by a two-thirds majority of the farmers voting in the tobacco election.

Questions And Answers On Cotton Quotas

Editor's Note: Georgia farmers will vote December 10 on marketing quotas for cotton and flue-cured tobacco. The questions and answers on cotton quotas which appear below were furnished to the Herald by the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service in an effort to give local readers the best available information on the election details and how quotas operate.

Q. When will the election on cotton marketing quotas for 1939 be held?
A. On December 10, 1938.

Q. Who is eligible to vote?
A. All farmers who produced cotton with a staple of less than 1-2 inches in 1938.

Q. Who will be in charge of the election?
A. The county conservation committee. They will designate a voting place and select five local farmers to serve as election officers in each community.

Q. Will a secret ballot be used?

Yes. The voting will be conducted as in any regular election.

Q. If a two-thirds majority of all producers taking part in the election vote their approval, will quotas be applicable in States, counties, and communities where the favorable vote was less than the required majority?
A. Yes. The cotton problem is a national problem and not confined to any State or locality. Consequently, quotas, if voted into effect, will apply wherever cotton is produced.

FACTS ABOUT COTTON QUOTAS
Q. When cotton marketing quotas are in effect, what is the quota of a farm?

A. It is the amount of cotton that can be sold without penalty. For a farm planting within its cotton acreage allotment, the quota is the amount of cotton it produces, plus any cotton produced in a previous year which would not have been subject to a penalty if it had been marketed that year. In other words, the cooperating farmer can sell all the cotton he produces on his allotment without penalty. For a farm on which the cotton acreage allotment is over the cotton produced on the allotted acres, or the normal production of the allotted acres, whichever is greater, plus any cotton produced in a previous year would not have been subject to a penalty if it had been marketed that year.

Q. What is the purpose of cotton marketing quotas?

A. The use of quotas is one means of keeping the supply of cotton more closely in line with demand. Quotas also serve as a protection to farmers who plant within their allotments. Without quotas producers who overplant might defeat the efforts of those trying to adjust the supply to demand.

"Why We Celebrate Thanksgiving"

—By Betty Joyce Woods.

The Pilgrims crossed the ocean in a ship called the "Mayflower". When the Pilgrims came to America there was nothing to see but forest. The first year they had little to eat, because they planted the first crop too early. But the next crop was a fine harvest. The Pilgrims said, "Let us have a Thanksgiving Day and express our thanks to our Heavenly Father for His blessings." They invited their Indian friends and after it was over they said "let us give thanks every year."

The third grade has been reading stories and learning songs about the Thanksgiving holidays. We read a story in our Fact and Story book and found why we celebrate Thanksgiving.

—Betty Joyce Woods.

FIFTH GRADE—

By Mildred Hodges

The fifth and seventh grades are going to have a play in chapel. We are going to sing songs, read stories and say speeches. Miss Griffin and Miss Smith, will have charge of the play. SEVENTH GRADE

This is a brief paragraph of what the seventh grade is doing this last month.

The seventh grade's center of interest this month is "Colonization of Life in the Thirteen Original Colonies." We are getting information on the southern, middle Atlantic, and the New England colonies. We have completed colonizing the Southern colonies and we are learning how the people of the South lived in the colonial period. Among our activities will be notebooks to be kept by the whole class, a booklet and frieze to be made, and a bulletin board activity.

As we progress in our work we will let you know what we do.

THANKSGIVING DAY—

On the last Thursday in November it is our custom to celebrate Thanksgiving Day. Thanksgiving means the act of giving or rendering thanks; or a public celebration of divine goodness.

The first Thanksgiving Day was celebrated one year after the Pilgrims landed in America, November 1621. The older people tried to teach one lesson that day. "Not to just celebrate Thanksgiving because of the feast that was to be spread but to be thankful to God that they had such an opportunity to make the the food."

On Thanksgiving Day, if you contribute nothing else toward Thanksgiving just give it one thought. Why we celebrate this day and what we have to be thankful for.

—Margaret Strickland.

all's fair.....

Becoming "sixteen" is an event that girls look forward to, but Dight Olliff was all unconscious of having achieved so many years. Monday of last week was his birthday and Marion wanted to have a surprise birthday dinner for him. Maxann Foy, Martha Evelyn Hodges, Harold Waters and several of his class mates were delegated to keep him down town until the big moment arrived. All went well, but as Dight's regular supper hour approached it became increasingly difficult to keep him entertained. Maybe he recalled previous experiences when Foy got to the table first. Anyway the supper was an affair to be remembered as thirty of his friends celebrated the occasion with him.

The J. T. J.'s and the T. E. T.'s are planning a medley which.

The football fans will see a game and in the evening boy meets girl. Some of our popular high school girls have to keep date books, and no wonder, for we heard a boy say he had a date for the 2nd "No break" for the Junior-Senior Dance in April. Frank Olliff Sr. declares the new bag limit for doves. He declares he had his 15 by good daylight Monday morning.

Those attending "Tobacco Road" from Statesboro noted that our women failed to laugh when others appeared convulsed at vulgar humor of the play.

Thanksgiving Day promises to be very quiet for the older ones, but we are wondering when our high school set will get their forty winks. Those who go to the barbecue will come in late and get up by six thirty to be at the Tea Pot by seven for the Breakfast Dance. Again that evening the progressive supper runs into a dance. Many of that same group are going to the football classic in Athens.

Keep your radio tuned in next Monday afternoon on WTCC Savannah from 2:30 on for Miriam Lanier, Maxann Foy, Dorothy Hegman, Patty Banks, Shirley Lanier, Frances Anderson and Charles Brooks McAllister are going on the air and they are really good. We like the fan light over the W. S. Hanners' room, those lovely fluted columns, those gay splashes of poinsettias against the white stucco at the Bruce Olliffs, the delicately tinted walls at the Howell Sewells, the graceful vine twining over the Frank Williams doorway, and we are eagerly awaiting a better glimpse of the handsome stone facade of the Statesboro Telephone Company.

As Ever, JANE.

BRILLIANT SOCIALS PLANNED BY J.T.J.'s

A glance at the social calendar of any J. T. J. member reveals that the latest in tedious hours will not be the experience of any one of their members on Thanksgiving day.

On Thursday morning at seven o'clock, the festivities begin with a breakfast dance at the Tea Pot. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Jardine, the sponsors of the J. T. J.'s will be present. On Thursday evening they are entertaining with a progressive supper. Maxann Foy will serve cocktails at her home on Minnah Avenue. Bulloch County To Get 35,071 Acres Of Cotton In 1939

Bulloch county's cotton acreage allotment for 1939 is 35,071 acres, it was officially announced in Athens by Homer S. Durden, state administrative officer of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Other allotments of local interest include: Montgomery with 12,672 acres, Treutlen with 12,454 acres, Tattnall with 10,136 acres and Emanuel with 4,201.

These allotments represent the county's share of the 2,212,422 cotton acres allotted to Georgia for 1939 under the federal farm program. Of this total, 2,101,098 acres have been divided among the state's 155 cotton growing counties. Of the balance, 37,106 acres have been held in reserve for allotment to new growers and 74,216 acres have been reserved for adjustment of possible errors.

In addition to the original quota announced today, this county as well as all other cotton growing counties in the state will receive a proportionate share of this reserved acreage.

The largest county allotment went to Burke, which received 60,304 acres. The smallest allotment, 11 acres, went to McIntosh, a coastal county that grows very little short staple cotton. The farm program does not apply to Sea Island cotton.

Four counties—Towns, Rabun, Fannin and Union—do not grow any cotton at all and consequently received no allotments.

Cotton allotments to individual farmers already have been worked out in a number of counties by county conservation committees composed of local farmers, Cotton and farm cured tobacco allotments to individual farmers in all counties are expected to be made before the December 10 vote on marketing quotas.

"The most important phase of the amendment," Mr. Dyer said, "change the method of expressing nitrogen basis. About four fifths of ammonia is actual nitrogen. The nitrogen, according to the new law, now must be expressed in whole numbers.

"The method of stating the formula was changed from a phosphorus, and potash (PNK) basis to a nitrogen, phosphorus and potash (NPK) basis. In other words, under the old law an 8-4-6 would mean 8 per cent phosphoric acid, 4 per cent ammonia and 6 percent potash. Under the new law it would be stated 4-8-6, which would mean 4 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent phosphoric acid and 6 per cent potash.

"To the average person," the county agent continued, "the changes may seem insignificant but for special crops, such as flue cured tobacco, which is very sensitive to kinds and amount of fertilizers, the change is quite important.

"Changing from an ammonia to a nitrogen basis means that what was 3 per cent ammonia under the old law becomes 3 per cent nitrogen under the new law. This increase in actual nitrogen is enough to affect the tobacco crop and make changes necessary in the actual pounds of fertilizer recommended.

"For example, the general fertilizer recommendation in Georgia for flue cured tobacco has been 1,000 lbs. of an 8-4-6 fertilizer. Under the old law, this would give 30 pounds of phosphoric acid, 30 pounds of ammonia (24.7 pounds nitrogen), and 80 pounds of potash.

"In order that the farmer may be applying these amounts under the new law, it has been necessary to change the formula from an 8-3-8 to a 3-10-10 and the amount per acre from 1,000 pounds to 800 pounds. By making the change in the formula and in the amount per acre the far of phosphoric and ammonia and potash would apply the same amounts as would be applied according to the recommendations under the old law."

"When you export your soil fertility you are exporting part of your farm's capital. Can you afford to send your soil and labor abroad for practically nothing? Can you afford to plow up your hillside and sell your labor for 5 cents an hour when the ultimate end is destruction?"—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

Fifty years ago there was no federal meat inspection.

no allotment is to be less than 50 per cent of the 1937 planted and diverted cotton acreage on the farm, unless an increase to 50 per cent might cause the allotment to exceed 40 per cent of the farm's tiled land.

A small reserve acreage is available in each state for allotment to farms producing cotton in 1939 but which did not produce any cotton in 1938.

S.G.T.C. Blue Tide Seeking Revenge Against Erskine Here Thursday In Thanksgiving Tilt

TWO TEAMS ARE EVENLY MATCHED TO GIVE OUTSTANDING GAME FOR FANS; TEACHERS ARE IN GOOD CONDITION

The Flying Fleet from Erskine College, Due West, S. C., will be the foe of the South Georgia Teachers College Blue Devils in the annual home-coming game here Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the new athletic field.

Information from Due West indicates that the fans will be treated to one of the best games of the season. The two teams are evenly matched as any two teams could be.

For the first time this season all of the Teachers will be in good condition. The team has been hampered all the year by injuries and sickness. The Reds have shown more spirit in scrimmages all last week and are anxious to win this game in order to make a more favorable balance in the win column. The element of revenge will also enter the picture. The Seedeers soundly trounced the Blue Tide last year at the beginning of the season. The Teachers will be out to change that picture.

The Tide has a better record than the Erskine gridders, winning three and losing three against teams in their class. The Flying Fleet has won only one game all season. The Seedeers have somewhat light but fast team whose chief weapon is a passing attack with a combination of Burris to Edwards. The Teachers will depend upon the usual inspired game of every man on the team.

A written lease, covering the usual rental agreements for the protection of both tenant and landlord, must now be signed by tenants securing aid from the Farm Security Administration.

Statesboro Blue Devils Defeat Millen Raiders In Mud Battle 14 - 6

Playing heads up football throughout the entire mudfest with the Millen Raiders last Friday night, Coach B. A. "Snag" Johnson's Blue Devils defeated them 14-6 to advance within one game to the First District championship crown.

As a result of a two hour downpour just before the game time, the Athletic Field was a sea of mud and the two teams were rated "Even Stephen when they lined up for the kickoff."

The Blue Devils kept the ball deep in Millen's territory during most of the game. Smith kicked twice to the Millen three yard striped, once to the one yard yard line, and once to the eight yard marker.

The Statesboro line was alert on every play and the pass defense of the Blue Devils broke every attempt of the Red Raiders. The Seedeers' first score came late in the first period on a forward double lateral for 43 yards with the ball changing hands four times with Smith crossing the glory mark.

The play was without a doubt one of the most brilliant ever witnessed by Statesboro fans. It was followed by Smith faked back to the Millen 43 yard stripe and shot a pass 10 yards to Barnes in the right flat zone. Barnes ran 10 yards and as he was about to be tackled he threw a lateral to Purvis. Purvis reversed the field and crossed over to the left. He ran about 18 yards and as he was about to be swarmed with Millen players he dropped a lateral to Smith, who had possession of the ball first, and Smith carried it the remaining feet.

Bridge Celebration

Senator George followed Senator Byrnes. He praised those who had dreamed the bridge and brought to a realization that dream. He pointed out that the route would drop on down through one of the richest sections in the country to the county bordering on the state of Florida.

He said that the South must face and solve two problems, the railroad freight rates and reasonable interest rates for financial business and industry.

He declared that the discriminatory freight rates against the South could not be adjusted by individual bills, but through the Interstate Commerce Commission. He pointed out that he had asked the Administration to appoint a man from the South on the Commission. But none was placed on it.

"Real progress starts at home," Senator George continued, "and we must tackle the problem by building health and educating and training our youth both morally and spiritually." "That way he said much could be done in 'radicalizing from our boundaries those that have no sympathy with the concepts of our government and those principals that have builded America.'"

"Our country is nothing like a grown nation and although it is a broad land, it is not nearly wide enough for a yellow or a red flag. Communism or any other anti-Americanism."

In referring to the recent primary in Georgia he stated that he held no bitterness toward anyone. "It was a real campaign and we all knew that there had been a primary in Georgia," he added.

Mr. Nix praised the people of South Carolina and Georgia for the fine cooperation they had displayed in the building of the bridge.

He emphasized the part education plays in making a real government, suggesting that parents take time off each day and instruct their children in what goes on in government. He advocated a course in government in schools, not a course in dates and historical events but "an intensive study of the principles of government upon which the United States were built."

"Stick with the national farm program," he said. "It took twelve years for the farmers of the south and the farmers of the west to join forces and get a program that would work. You didn't get the program without effort. You had to fight to get it. You will have to fight to keep it!"

LIVESTOCK MARKET CONTINUES GOOD AT THIS WEEK'S SALES

The Bulloch Stock Yards report another good run of hogs and cattle at the sale yesterday, according to O. L. McLemore. Mr. McLemore advises the farmers to bring their stock to the sales early so that they may return home before dark. Sales start at 1 o'clock.

Top hogs brought 6.35 to 6.50 with most of the number 1's selling for 6.40 to 6.50; Heavy hogs brought 6.25 to 6.45; No. 2's 5.90 to 6.10; No. 3's 5.60 to 5.85; No. 4's 5.75 to 6.50; Barbecue pigs 5.75 to 6.50; extra good small feeder pigs 7.00 to 8.00, with a good demand for sows and pigs.

The cattle market was stronger and the demand was stronger this week with best selling for 6.00 to 6.40. Fat bulls brought 4.00 to 5.50; fat cows 3.75 to 4.75, according to the quality; canners 3.00 to 3.50.

Potomac men cooperated in handling the crowds which drove from the four extremes of the two states to witness the dedication. A large field was cleared for a parking ground. Five airplanes circled overhead during the exercises and an ox-cart drawn by a huge ox was seen ambulating down the old Burton's Ferry road.

Forty hogs and one Billy goat were barbecued to feed the throngs present. Gallons of Brunswick stew, and hundreds of loaves of bread and barrels of pickles, together with a beautiful fall day added to the exercises to make it a real Georgia-South Carolina celebration.

More than a thousand cars waited in three lines for Mrs. James M. Patterson of Allendale to cut the ribbon to open the bridge.

HOWELL CONE AT IVANHOE CLUB ANNUAL CELEBRATION

At Thanksgiving Celebration At Club House Nov. 24

Ivanhoe community club members observed Thanksgiving with their annual dinner at the club house.

Rev. W. D. Howell led invocation. Howell Cone, Collector of Port, Savannah, discussed some of the things the members of the club and people in the county had to be thankful for.

One of the major items discussed by Dr. Cone was the type of people found in the county. Bulloch county citizens are made up largely, according to Mr. Cone, of people that have been reared in this section and a people that love the system of agriculture practiced here.

"This high type of citizenship found plays an important part in the wide diversity of crops developed upon for a living by these people," Mr. Cone said. "This causes people over the state to regard Bulloch one of the leading counties."

One point that Bulloch has been foremost in and been able to achieve distinguishes recognition over the state as the consolidation of the some 75 rural schools into about 12 good ones.

Mr. Cone stated that this work started some 12 to 15 years ago.

Mr. Cone further pointed out the advantages of living in a land where there was no fear of war or economic depression, all of which the group would be thankful for.

A basket dinner that carried turkey, baked hen, barbecue, cakes, pies and all the trimmings as Thanksgiving dinner should have been served to the some 150 people present.

Two Candidates Answer The Herald's Questionnaire

Saturday, Statesboro will go to the polls and elect a mayor and two councilmen. For the first time in a number of years the interest in a city election is running high. There are three candidates in the mayor's race, J. L. Renfro, the incumbent, Dr. R. L. Cone and Homer C. Parker. Dr. J. C. Lane who announced his candidacy in the race withdrew last week.

In the councilman's race are Harry Smith, Roger Holland, Dr. H. L. Hook and Lannie F. Simmons.

Last week the Herald mailed to each of the candidates a questionnaire in an attempt to learn upon what grounds each candidate sought election. Answers were received from Mr. Renfro and Mr. Parker, candidates for mayor. None of the candidates in the council race returned the questionnaire.

As stated in last week's issue of the Herald we give the following statements prepared by J. L. Renfro and Homer C. Parker.

Homer Parker Answers

Q. What is your platform?

A. "I do not believe in lifetime tenure in office for any man or any set of men. I want for myself one term of two years only. I believe in elective officials who will not be afraid to work for the people as a whole. Those who hope to remain in office indefinitely, are usually away from the desires of certain groups, especially those who control the most votes in an election year. I believe in progress all the time. I am more interested in our schools than anything else. Sanitation comes second."

Q. Do you propose to vote for or against additional taxes?

A. "I am against additional taxes."

Q. Do you think that the local traffic problem is being handled satisfactorily at the present time or could it be improved?

A. "I think it could be improved immensely. Our parking system is all wrong. I believe in parking cars at an angle of 45 degrees. When cars are so parked, the driver does not block traffic in either direction when he parks or when he backs out of a parking place. Then too, it is so much easier to park this way."

Q. Do you think that the efficiency of the police department could be improved? If so, how?

A. "I certainly do. Some of our policemen are much too temperamental. There should not be too free use of fire arms, clubs and bullets, even on prisoners."

Q. Do you think that the efficiency of the fire department could be improved? If so, how?

A. "I certainly do. Some of our policemen are much too temperamental. There should not be too free use of fire arms, clubs and bullets, even on prisoners."

F. C. Parker and Son of Statesboro operate the new stock yard. Both were present at the opening sale.

Judge Frank Mitchell, mayor of the city of Swainsboro made a speech of welcome to the large gathering and Colonel Beasley, of Augusta, prominent auctioneer, was in charge of the day's sale. A barbecue was served at noon.

The opinion of those at the sale indicate that Swainsboro may become one of the leading livestock centers of South Georgia.

At the first sale over 250,000 pound of livestock were sold, bringing over $15,000. More than 1,

WELCOME NOBLES

Statesboro welcomes you Nobles. We think you are a grand bunch of men. We think you are doing a great work. You are here today to forget your troubles and enjoy the friendship of your fellow Nobles from all sections of the state.

When you see a car marked "Hop On Noble"—it is your private town car to do your sightseeing. When you see a man wearing a ribbon marked "official" you will recognize him as a Statesboro Shriner—ask him he will tell or direct or answer you, your questions.

The merchants of Statesboro welcome you. Every place of business is your headquarters for the day.

THE CITY IS YOURS.

HOUSES OF MAGIC

When one sees a Shriner's parade and laughs with them at the caperings of their Nobles we forget for a moment that behind that great organization a work is being carried on which draws the praise and support of the entire nation—The Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children—Real "Houses of Magic."

In the eyes of the intelligent generation of today, miracles are matters of disbelief and scepticism, but, nevertheless, every day wonders are being performed in these Houses of Magic. When the Shriners planned these "Magic Houses" they wanted something different from the hospital as the average person thinks of the word—they wanted cheerfulness, sunshine and happiness to prevail in their "hospital."

The first "House of Magic" was opened on September 16, 1922. Since that date 15 hospitals have been set up and are now in operation. Nine of these were built by the Shrine, two were built and presented to the Shrine and four are mobile units. 27,215 children have been treated since the founding of the first "House of Magic."

These hospitals are maintained and their existence assured by the interest every Shriner takes in the great work being done. Additional interest is shown in the numerous contributions and bequests received each year from people who wish to see the work carried on.

When you see a kid with a twisted leg, or a shriveled body, or one leg shorter than the other, or wearing steel braces indicating that dreaded disease, Infantile Paralysis, your heart goes out to that kid and you would give anything in the world to be able to help that kid return to a normal active, care-free life.

When you see the parade tomorrow and as you welcome the host of Nobles here, remember—Here are the men who are the motivating force behind one of the greatest works in the nation—Builders and Patrons of "Houses of Magic."

OUR HATS OFF TO BLUE DEVILS

Our hats off to you, Blue Devils. And to you, Coach Snag.

You have done a swell job this year. You have provided the fans of Statesboro one of their most thrilling football seasons. You have been likened unto the famous team of Georgia Tech—"What next Blue Devils?"—and away you would go with the fans dropping left and right from sheer excitement.

You have played your hearts out. You have been dished out plenty of punishment, and you could take; you did plenty of trouble-dishing-out yourselves—you could give it. You met teams supposed to beat you two and three touchdowns and you "mowed 'em down", and during it all you displayed a sportsmanship such as that about which column upon column of newspaper stores are written by great sport writers.

You, as individuals, have never forgotten that the game was being played for the team's sake. You as a team have never forgotten that the game was being played for the game's sake, with the spirit Statesboro High School behind it all.

In every game you gave your all and fans love you for it. Whatever the outcome of any playoff the officials may decide you are our Champions.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

WITH OUR NECK OUT

Saturday with the city election over we'll either be able to say "I told you so" or we will be using hours explaining why we could not say, "I told you so."

Today we are going to play political football, stick our neck way out and say, Dr. Cone, Mayor; Dr. Hook and Harry Smith, councilmen; with Dr. Hook leading the ticket.

Now Statesboro is not unlike Bulloch county, and Bulloch county is not unlike any other county in the state. Their voters will elect an official for one term, return him for a second term if he has turned in a good first term. But if he runs for a third term you hear—"he's had it long enough" and if he has any opposition at all he stands a good chance of losing his office.

Mr. Renfro has held the office of mayor for eight years. He has given Statesboro a consistently progressive administration based on a firm foundation. He has held a tight rein on the city's finances keeping it in good financial standing. He has devoted a great deal of his time to the office. He played a responsible part in making the present improvement program possible.

Roger Holland has been on the council for a long time. He devotes all his time to the position. He too, has done a fine job. He may be criticized for improvements about properties belonging to his family but it must be remembered that those properties furnish a large part of the revenue going into the city's coffers.

Harry Smith will be returned for a second term, having turned in a good first term. He has worked on a worthwhile program and should be allowed to continue it.

Dr. Cone is as conservative as the present mayor. He is familiar with the office, serving as mayor pro-tem for ten years. He could be expected to hold just as tight a rein on the city's finances as Mr. Renfro, and still be progressive.

Dr. Hook, during the last week, has built up a heavy following. He is an active member of the Baptist Church, being Superintendent of that Sunday School. Roger Holland, Lannie Simmons and Harry Smith are all Methodists. And one cannot say that these things do not count.

Up until Saturday of last week Lannie Simmons had not done any active campaigning. His various business enterprises prevented his getting out and rallying his strength about him. We are looking for him to run a strong race because of his wide personal popularity. And then too, he comes in the paragraph above.

Homer Parker has a good platform which is a shriveled body, or one leg shorter than the other, or wearing steel braces indicating that dreaded disease, Infantile Paralysis, your heart goes out to that kid and you would give anything in the world to be able to help that kid return to a normal active, care-free life.

And Dr. Lane was smart in withdrawing from the race. He didn't have a chance running against the field in which he found himself. His withdrawal in favor of Dr. Cone will add little strength to Dr. Cone's race.

So with our neck out—Dr. Cone, Mayor; Dr. Hook and Harry Smith, councilmen. We can only hope the vote saves our neck.

And Troy Mallard off to Chicago, the Windy City. We do not envy Troy at all. We have been reading the newspapers and we freeze to death anyway.

If you don't believe it consult your calendar. Three weeks, three days until Christmas.

We'll have to begin working again on Saturday afternoons. The football season is over and there will be no more radio - from the field broadcasts... oh yeah, like to have forgotten the Rose Bowl game, January 1.

We wish to thank our neighbor, J. H. Watson for leaving two of her pot plants in our office. She says she must thank us for letting her keep them with us during the winter. But they are going to make our winter much more pleasant than it might have been.

A certain couple here in town were bound for points above the Mason-Dixon line a couple of weeks ago and there is a little story that is being told on them—it goes something like this:

The couple were up in the mountains in North Carolina and the husband was holding the steering wheel (his wife was driving). He was going pretty fast and the hilly terrain was giving him a rather funny feeling, especially in the mid-section and he began to feel the need to get out of the car. IT WASN'T LONG BEFORE HE HAD TO. He stopped the car, got out and commenced to relieve that "funny feeling." His wife, unknowing of his plight, also got out of the car and walked around to where he was and asks, "What's the matter—are you sick?" The husband's reply was, "Well, what in the hell do you think that I am standing out here vomiting for?"

The main competition that a country weekly newspaper has, so far as giving to its subscribers first news, is the woman and her telephone.

G. Boy goes to see his T. Girl friend out in the country, with whom he has a date.

S. Boy is already out there with T. Girl and does not know that T. Girl has date with G. Boy.

G. Boy arrives at T. Girl's home and does not know that S. Boy is there. So T. Girl has S. Boy to leave via the back door, while G. Boy walks in the front door. G. Boy doesn't know what is going on.

There's something funny about the old saying: "What one doesn't know, will not hurt you."

City election is coming
Cold weather is here.
Santa Claus is coming
New Year is almost here.

Lover of fresh air... Carrol Beasley... The dern fool just breezed by on his motorcycle. Fresh air is O. K. as long as it is not in the state of freezing.

All the citizens of the "BORO" that are not eligible to vote in the city election would save these politicians a lot of time and energy, if they would pin buttons where it could be seen reading, I am ineligible to vote... Sorry.

Effie May Waters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Waters, who lives on Mulberry street says that she wants to get married when she becomes of age and until she does get married she wants to be a nurse. She also says that she doesn't want to work after she gets married. Effie May is fifteen years old is a member of the Junior class in Statesboro High.

Headliner in Newspapers: WORLD PREPARES FOR WAR... My letter to Santa Claus.

Dear Santa,
I have been a good boy all my life and I think that I should get a lot of things for Christmas this year. Here is a list of things I want you to bring me this Christmas:

1. A machine gun,
2. A big cannon,
3. An airplane that will outfly any others,
4. A gas mask
5. And a bomb proof cellar for my home.

Santa Claus I hope that you will be good to me this year. My mother says to tell you that I have been a good little boy this year.

Your little friend,
PEACE LOVER.
P. S. Oh, Santa, I forgot, Send me a wood dummy of Adolf Hitler.

Came Wednesday morn'
I was full of bliss,
That I could have sworn
That something was amiss.

Came Thursday morn'
So cloudy and dreary,
That I knew almost,
Something had happened so dear.

It was quite a shock
When I first heard,
That a telegram boy
Had brought the glad word.

Perhaps my little verse
Doesn't make so much sense,
But oh, so much worse
I can't think of another verse to finish it.
But Hoke Brunson and Sara Page Glass have done it.

Questions And Answers On Marketing Quota Election

EDITOR'S NOTE: Georgia farmers are soon to vote on marketing quotas for cotton and flue-cured tobacco. The following questions and answers were furnished the Bulloch Herald by the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service to give local readers the best available information on how the election will be conducted.

Q. When will the election on cotton and tobacco quotas be held?
A. Saturday, December 10, 1938.

Q. Where will the election be held?
A. In all counties and communities where either cotton or flue-cured tobacco, or both, are grown.

Q. At what hour will the polls be open?
A. Not later than 9 a. m. local time.

Q. When will the polls close?
A. At 5 p. m., local time.

Q. What question will appear on the ballot?
A. In the cotton quota election the ballot will read: "Do you favor marketing quotas for the 1939 crop?" The farmer will mark his ballot "yes" or "no". A similar ballot will be used in the election on tobacco quotas.

Q. Will the voting on cotton quotas be separate from that on tobacco quotas?
A. Yes. In all communities where both cotton and tobacco are grown, one voting place will be used but the ballot boxes will be separate.

Q. Will the voting be secret?
A. Yes, the farmer will mark his ballot privately and cast it just as in any other regular election.

Q. Who will be in charge of the election?
A. The county conservation committee of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration (Triple A). The committee will designate the voting places in each community and name three local farmers to serve as election officers.

Q. Who will be eligible to vote on cotton marketing quotas?
A. All farmers, including tenants and sharecroppers, who produced cotton in 1938 with a staple length of less than 1-1/2 inches. Quotas do not apply to any cotton with a staple length of 1-1/2 inches or longer, such as Sea Island cotton; therefore, Sea Island cotton producers will not be eligible to vote unless they also produced some cotton with a staple length less than 1-1/2 inches in 1938.

Q. Who will be eligible to vote in this election on tobacco quotas?
A. All farmers, including tenants, and sharecroppers, who engaged in the production of flue cured tobacco in 1938.

Q. Will any farmers be entitled to more than one vote?
A. No. The law says no farmer, whether an individual, partnership, corporation, or association, can vote more than one time.

Q. Can a farmer vote by mail or proxy?
A. No. There will be no voting by mail, by proxy, or by agent. Each farmer must cast his own vote in person.

Q. A duly authorized officer of an eligible corporation, firm or association, may cast the vote of such an organization.

all's fair.

Thanksgiving Day in Statesboro was as spirited and exciting as youth could make it. The gray day began early with the high school set. Wide-awake J. T. J's and their dates were greeted at the Tea Pot Thursday at 7 o'clock by a sleepy sponsor who clamored for coffee and more coffee. After the fifth cup Clyde was the life of the party. About ten o'clock the college parade began up and down the street gay townsmen allowed their procession of floats colorful and clever. In the afternoon after a dinner of turkey, stuffing, sauce and ambrosia we found football fans at the College field standing in the misting rain (We got that word mizzle from Daphne du Maurier's "Jamaica Inn"—it's a good one. You want to get it from the library and read it) to watch that close game between Teachers and Erskine. Again a supper those same early morning revelers met in the private dining room of the Tea Pot which had been remodelled very realistically we'd say into a barnyard minus the chandelier and a cow, but there was a haystack and plenty of corn (The kind on a cob)—after a regular Thanksgiving dinner the party moved on to Janice Arundel's for dancing, where the floor was as slick as glass. And our modern couldn't take it for we heard rumors about "dancing barefooted as a yard dog." One boy missed his shoes and found them in the refrigerator—that proximity to the ambrosia proving most detrimental to the latter. However the group that came in later understood the technique of dancing on polished floors, and while the cold razor outside they were cozy inside and danced until they choked the nicelolol.

Then there is the story of the sweet young thing who coming out of the warm theater Thursday became chilled by the bitter weather outside, went with her date to get something to drink. Immediately she inquired of the man taking her order, "Have you anything hot to drink?" He looked over the counter at the shivering, shivering girl, swallowed and said, "Yes, mam, we have—beer." "Haven't you anything hotter than that?" she persisted. "Swallowing again he admitted, "Yes mam, much hotter!" And the girl and her date ordered two cups of coffee.

The Blue Devils really delivered the goods in Sylvania Wednesday afternoon. We understand that the letter men have their choice of a gold football or a nice sweater. We believe that we would rather have the football. You can use it for a watch fad and show it to your grandchildren, while the sweater will wear out at the elbows.

Anybody hungry? Just go to Mr. Sonny Donaldson's. He's got enough venison on hand to feed a regiment. A few days ago he felled a mighty monarch of the forest all with a few bird shot. It was the first time that Mr. Sonny had ever shot at a deer. We were told that it was done in self defense.

What young high school senior wrote 'Surprise dance' on all the dance cards Thursday morning? And did you hear about the boys who borrowed a car from a used car place, an it gave out of gas as they were driving home. The thrifty lads refueled with a dime's worth, and as they hadn't used it up when they reached the used car lot they sat in the and ran the motor until the tank was empty. Now will some of you college professors explain what attribute of character is indicated by this action?

High School Eleven Crushes Sylvania's Title Hopes 27-7

BLUE DEVILS CRUSH SYLVANIA 27-7 IN LAST GAME OF REGULAR SCHEDULE; BLUE DEVILS TOP DISTRICT

Sylvania had a double barrel shot gun and Statesboro had a double barrel shot gun. Sylvania fired her once and it took Statesboro's both barrels. It happened within one minute and forty seconds it caused a great deal of excitement. After the smoke had cleared the score was tied 7 to 7 and the two teams settled down and started playing football.

On the opening kickoff, of the Sylvania and Statesboro ball game last Wednesday afternoon in Sylvania, Statesboro kicked off to Sylvania and Sylvania's fullback, James Page scampered eighty yards behind beautiful interference for a touchdown. The extra point was good. That took 40 seconds. Sylvania then kicked off to Statesboro and the ball was on the play on the blue Devils' own 43 yard line. On the first play from scrimmage of the ball game John Smith faded back and shot a bullet pass to Davis Barnes in the Sylvania right flat zone. Barnes lateraled to Tillman and Joe Robert ran forty five yards for a touchdown. Smith passed again to Barnes for the extra point. That took one minute.

But the teams settled down to play a little football and the game was nip and tuck until the last few minutes in the first half when Barnes blocked a Sylvania punt on Sylvania's 11 yard line and Barnes recovered it. One minute remained for the Blue Devils to go eleven yards that would put them in the lead. Three running plays and one pass put the ball on the one yard line and gave the Blue Devils a first down and on the first play Smith went over. Jones' placement was good.

Early in the second quarter the Blue Devils held Sylvania for four downs within their own five yard line.

The Blue Devils were kept back in their own territory throughout the first half.

But in the second half the Blue Devils came back with a new spirit and displayed a beautiful offensive attack and completely throttled any of Sylvania's attempts to advance towards the goal.

After an exchange of punts the Blue Devils held the ball on Sylvania's 35 yard line and Smith and Robertson advanced the ball on down to the nine yard line and from there Smith went over left tackle for the Blue Devils third touchdown. Jones' placement was wide.

Sylvania took the ball down the 'Boerians eight yard marker via a twenty two yard pass and a penalty halfway to the goal line following the Blue Devils kickoff to them. But the Blue Devils forward wall held their own and took the ball on downs.

In the final period the Blue Devils carried the ball once more over the glory stripe and this time Smith accounted for the score. Robertson Smith and Barnes had advanced the ball down to the two yard line and Smith rove through the line for the first Blue Devil score. Nathan Jones place kicked for the extra point.

City Election

of the fire department could be improved. If so, how?

A. "So far as I know, our fire department is O. K. I think they do excellent work for the equipment they have. I have seen it save many buildings that I thought were burning down."

Q. What is your attitude toward additional city improvements? Are you for or against additional improvements? If so, what improvements would you propose?

A. "I am for those needed improvements that can be had without issuing additional bonds and without increasing the tax levy. Some of the town down here need to be paved immediately. For instance the one leading to the Army from East Main Street and South Main Street and the one from North Main to Walnut St. next to Hodges Filling Station. It would be desirable to have the city ordinance be amended and be made accessible to the citizens of Statesboro."

A. "Yes."

Q. Do you think that all the existing city ordinances should be enforced? If not, give reasons.

A. "I certainly do. If any of them are bad, they should be repealed and declared null and void. No ordinance should remain on the statute books that the Mayor and Council will not enforce. No one has the right to choose the sanitary conditions in which laws he will violate."

Q. Are you in favor of a meat ordinance providing for the inspection of meats to be sold in Statesboro.

A. "Yes, I also favor a sanitary slaughterhouse or houses."

Q. In view of the recent agitation regarding the sanitary conditions in Statesboro, if you should be elected, how would you propose to remedy such conditions, if proved to exist?

A. "By asking the people to cooperate with me."

"By condemnation proceedings in those cases where the citizens refuse to cooperate."

"By zoning the city in all those cases that cannot be reached by the other two methods."

(My candid opinion is that our people can be depended on to cooperate. I doubt that either of the last two methods would be necessary.)

(Signed) HOMER S. PARKER.

Mr. Renfro's Statement

"In reply to the letter and questionnaire sent to each candidate for mayor and councilman by Mr. Leodel Coleman, editor of the Bulloch Herald, on November 21, I desire to make the following statement:

"In the first place I do not like newspaper publicity, and have never sought it. I do not think anything is accomplished thereby."

"My record as mayor for the past eight years and the accomplishments of my administration indicate what might be expected of me in the future. I have always supported every progressive movement for our city; and our civic organizations such as the Chamber of Commerce, Woman's Club, Public Library, and PTA, of which I was its first president, have had my active support."

"I do not believe in excessive taxation to have things just to gratify our vanity. I am most certainly opposed to excessive taxation, and think we have now just about what we can bear."

"Most certainly I believe in sanitation, and we have kept the city clean to where it brings us favorable comment from those who pass our way. Our fire department is well equipped and well manned. And the other departments of the city are functioning well."

"I work with those who are elected by the people or who are hired by the city. There is no discord nor strife."

"Your city has a splendid record standing for we pay our contracts and do not make them unless we are reasonably sure we can meet them. During my administration we have paid some $60,000 in bonds and some $40,000 in bond interest, as well as all other bills."

"I think this enough said. Respectfully,
J. L. RENFRO, Nov. 22, 1938.

Marketing Quota

In the event two or more persons engaged in producing cotton or tobacco in 1938 jointly, in common or in community, each such person is entitled to vote.

The election is being held in all states, counties and communities where cotton and tobacco are produced. In order for cotton marketing quotas to become effective in 1939, two-thirds of the farmers voting in the cotton election must vote their approval; and in order for tobacco quotas to become effective in 1939, two-thirds of the farmers voting in the tobacco election must vote their approval. In other words, each election is separate and it would be possible for farmers to approve quotas for one crop and reject them for the other.

Ballot boxes in this county will be located at the regular voting places.

Statesboro vs Vidalia

ery, Dub Lovett, guard and Davis Barnes, his fullback who is carrying a bum shoulder. The balance of the squad is pretty good condition.

The Vidalia Indians have one of the most improved teams in the District and are coming to Statesboro with one idea Friday night. That is, beat Statesboro.

The Indians, under the hands of Amos Teasley, got off to a rather poor start in the first of the season but they are in championship style for Friday night's encounter.

Coch Johnson, in a heart to heart talk with his boys told them that they were going up against the best team in the District and it was going to take every ounce of their strength and every breath in their fighting body to whip the Indians. He stated that if they didn't go to work and get into first class shape, he would be very doubtful as to their chances of licking the Indians.

The Blue Devils are carrying an undefeated record in the District and the Indians have been defeated twice within the District and have one tie. But both defeats came in the earlier games of the season and now the Indians have the E. C. L. Bulldogs to their credit and the crushing 19 to 0 victory over Dublin. Statesboro tied ECI 13-13.

The Blue Devils were the unanimous choice for one team in the play-off and it was definitely thought that this team, that came out victorious last Thursday morning when the Indians met Lyons would be the team to play Statesboro for the championship. The game turned into a 6 to 6 deadlock and that complicated matters.

In an effort to determine the team to meet the Blue Devils, a meeting was held at the Statesboro school on Monday morning, when it was decided that the Vidalia High School had the stronger team and therefore they would be the team to meet Statesboro.

and Wallace Waters have moved away from our school. They are going to Canoochee school. We are also sorry that Jan Gay and Illena Cox are absent due to illness.

ELEVENTH GRADE

The eleventh grade English is having a debate. The subject is "A newspaper gives its readers what they want rather than what is best for them." Speakers for the affirmative are Wilhelmina Waters, Mary Grace Anderson, and J. A. Stevens. The negative side is being upheld by Corinne Collins, Dorothy Carolyn Riggs, and Wilma Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bowen and Carolyn Bowen spent Tuesday of last week in Savannah.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In November 23 issue of the Herald we published the first of a series of stories written by Ralph McGill, Executive Editor of the Atlanta Constitution on the Chicago Stock Yards and the part they play in the livestock industry over the nation. This week we give you the second story of that series with Mr. McGill's special permission.

THE PRICE OF MEAT

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 2. — "Early in the sixteenth century the great Spanish conquistador, Hernando Cortez, landed on the Mexican beach near Vera Cruz. He had brought some few Andalusian cattle and from them came the first Texas longhorns.

"In 1538 Ferdinand DeSoto brought, from Cuba to Florida, a few pigs. Portuguese traders left cattle and pigs in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia in 1533. A few cattle reached the Virginia settlements before 1609, but not until 1610 did the first real lot arrive. The first sheep came to Jamestown from England in 1609.

"Today in America there is the amazing flow of meat. Every day, every minute, from farm and ranch, from the hills and valleys, in summer and winter, meat is on the move by truck and by rail. In every meat shop of the cities, it is to be found, chilled and clean, awaiting the housewife who goes shopping for it.

"Along with the parade of meat goes the parade of prices. The housewife, having so much to spend for meat, wonders at prices. She may blame the producer, the butcher, the packers. Actually, she herself helps to make the price.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

"For some days I have watched the parade of meat arrive in Chicago. I have seen it alive in the pens, then slaughtered, cleaned and cut for the markets of the nation.

"The packing houses are so regulated and the business is so highly competitive, there can be no collusion on prices. The government keeps an exacting control, knows and prints, in official government reports, the profits of the packers. They are not large.

"What is not generally understood about meat is that it is a product which must be sold; only frozen meat is stored. The packer sells out his product within the week. The beef he buys must be sold, and sold within a week or 12 days at most. He cannot keep it. The beef killed for the market must go there. He can't make the price. Demand makes them.

"About five-eighths of the meat produced in America is produced west of the Mississippi river. About five-eighths of the meat produced is consumed east of the Mississippi river. About 35 per cent of that five-eighths is consumed in the section beginning with Pennsylvania and going northward into New England.

"Consider what goes into the making of the price of meat. It requires about six to eight months to make ready a pig for market. It requires from a year to a year and a half to make ready a lamb. From the time a calf is brought into the world there is from a year and a half to two years before that calf goes to the cattle market as a steer or cow.

BY TRUCK AND BY RAIL

"The livestock must then be moved to the market. Remember that five-eighths of the meat is produced west of the Mississippi and that five-eighths of the consumers live east of it.

"Once it reaches the markets, the packers buy it or the local butchers buy. They then must slaughter it, cut it, prepare it, and sell it.

"The retailers know the demands of their customers. The customers have only so much money to spend.

"Consider now, what happens and happens frequently. There will come, for instance, 225,000 lambs to the markets. The very next week will come 300,000. That means a matter of an extra million pounds of lamb. The people in the average-sized cities do not go out and buy more lamb because there is an extra amount of it on the market. So, the surplus is shipped to the great centers of population. It has to be moved fast. It sells at 5 cents less the pound. The next week there may come to market only 200,000 lambs. There will be less lamb on the market. Prices will be higher.

"Breeders of livestock become enthusiastic and for a period breed more cattle than ever before. The market is given a surplus. Then, for a time, they will breed fewer cattle.

"Just now the livestock supply of America is far below normal. The government had grovers kill off pigs, lambs and cattle only a few years ago. Then came the drought and thousands died. There actually is not a shortage of livestock, but the supply is below normal.

"All these factors, which are nothing but supply and demand, go into making up the price of meat. When there is less meat, the prices are higher. When there is more meat, the prices are lower.

"It is a subject rather vital to the American citizen. The population of the United States is less than one-sixth of the world's total. It owns less than a fifth of the world's pigs and less than a tenth of its cattle.

"Yet we eat one-fourth of all the beef and pork consumed in the world.

"Because of trade restriction, our export meat trade has suffered. All the meat imported into America would supply a national meat ration not longer than about 12 days.

"It is ironic we should import any at all. It is especially ironic Georgia should import millions of dollars in pork, beef and poultry and eggs.

"It is important that we are beginning to do something about it."

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

To The New Mayor and Councilmen;
To The Retiring Mayor and Councilmen:

With the city election now history we express our congratulations to the new mayor and new councilmen. We feel sure that the citizens of Statesboro will back them in their handling of the city's affairs.

We praise the works of retiring Mayor Renfro and councilmen Harry Smith and Roger Holland. We believe that they can retire with the feeling that we've done a good job while the job was ours."

And we toss our hat high with Lannie Simmons. He is a shining example of what a man can do when he sets himself to it. He ran his race to a whirlwind finish, winning the hearts of all those with whom he talked. When he decided he was going to win he put every ounce of his energy to it and led the ticket.

With the experience of Dr. Cone, the stability of Dr. Hook and the enthusiasm of Lannie Simmons, together with the efforts of Arthur Howard and Dean Anderson, and the abilities of each operating as a group, Statesboro should continue to progress as it has in the past.

sidewalks of statesboro

The Shriners have come and gone—the First District Football championship title is Statesboro's—and the city administration will be under a "New Deal" soon. And so once again Statesboro is itself, after one of the busiest weekends in a long time. But the Christmas spirit is brewing fast and it's going to be another merry one, according to all the signs.

Our hat in off to the Blue Devils. Notice that the word is "hat" not "hats". We don't have another or it might be "hats".

Wonder what happened to the fake robbery of the Coca Cola truck and the stealing of chickens from a farmer's wagon last Thursday. The Shriners had the stunt planned but it wasn't pulled.

Dog-gone-it . . . If we thought that he wouldn't get mad at us we would tell you that he was driving with one hand and had a bottle of something or other in the other hand. But since he is one of the local Shriners we can't tell you.

Passed by Harry Smith's Jewelry store Saturday and was attracted by a sign reading, "The Trophies in this Window Will Be Awarded to Winning Team and its Players in First District Championship Football Game on Friday Night." The "trophies" in the window was a beautiful set of silverware.

"You know, I have traded with that man five times. We traded four times the way I wanted to and one time the way he wanted to and I got gypped four times." Now don't ask us who the "auto dealer" is and we don't even know who the man is that was "gypped." To be shore we don't.

One of Statesboro's business men went into the courthouse last Saturday to vote, and after he saw who was in charge of the polls he said, "Well, I guess I'll vote but it's not going to do any good, because that's the same bunch that stole the election from Gene Talmadge."

A couple of weeks back Mr. Inman Foy and Mr. Jack Murphy went hunting. They were strolling through the woods enjoying the beauties of nature when they were suddenly confronted by the game warden and knowing he was going to ask to see their licenses, Mr. Inman took out through the woods with the speed of "greased lightning." But the warden caught up with him after about a three mile chase through the woods and when he did, he asked, "Will you please show me your hunting license." Mr. Foy did so. The warden was dumfounded. He replied after seeing the license, "Well what in the devil was the idea of running three miles when you have your license." Mr. Inman without hesitating said, "The other fellow doesn't have one, but the next time you see him he will."

It might not be true, but it makes a pretty good story.

Here is a little item printed in one of the columns of the Vidalia Advance on last Thursday.

"Now for the championship game. It's the next and final game on the football boys program. Let us hope that we will win. The boys were beaten by Statesboro in the first battle between Vidalia and the Blue Devils. Coach Teasley and the boys say that it will be a different story this time."

—From Listen Vidalia.

The story wasn't any different, but the tune was a heck of a lot higher.

It seems that one of the candidates in the city election last Saturday was so confident of winning that he agreed to help one of the other candidates, who was not so confident, out a little bit.

Both of them got beat.

Well, we've got our hat back on our head and before we stop all of this we want to congratulate Mr. Fred Fletcher for doing the "Rhumba" for us the other night while decorating the store.

It was pretty good, wasn't it Doc Williams. We didn't know that it was in Mr. Fred.

Suggestions To Improve Cotton Conditions

With a comparatively large U. S. and world crop of cotton, the most constructive suggestions for improvement in the situation seem to be: (1) New uses for cotton; (2) Improvement of the U. S. crop through the use of better seed with improved staples; (3) The production of larger yields per acre with lower costs per pound through use of legumes in the rotation and more adequate fertilization with better balanced fertilizers; (4) Two cash crops on every farm instead of one; and (5) Enough food and feed crops on every farm so as to make cotton a cash crop in fact as well as in theory.

This program naturally calls for a reduction in the acreage of cotton with additional acres in legumes both for soil improvement and feed crops and additional acres in food crops.

Many farmers are finding that where their wheat and corn crops are complete fertilizer at planting and a nitrogen potash top dresser in the spring that both the yields and the quality of these crops are improved. When the same fields are planted to legumes, the residual effect the fertilizer applied to the small grains produces increased yields of legumes to more than offset the original cost of the fertilizer. Going a step farther, many farmers are giving their legumes a complete fertilizer, especially on the poorer soils.

With cotton, rust and blight are two of the chief factors that bring about decreased yields and poor staple. Will is a fungus disease, which clogs up the circulatory passages of the plant and turns the pith black, while cotton rust is simply potash hunger. To control rust farmers are using 8 percent potash in their complete fertilizer at planting plus 50 to 100 pounds of Muriate of Potash per acre, or its equivalent in Kainit, as a top dresser, depending upon the amount of rust present in the fields in previous years. Extra potash will also help to control wilt but will-resistant seed are necessary to fully control the disease and produce maximum yields. On many fields farmers find, also that pure bred seed purchased direct from the breeder "run out" quickly unless a high potash fertilizer is used.

Today farmers, fertilizer men and scientists are paying a great deal of attention to plant food deficiency symptoms as they occur in the fields than ever before. For instance, the firing of corn blades on the tip and along the margins is direct evidence that the crop has not received sufficient potash. If the green of the leaf fades prematurely as the crops reach maturity, and there are yellow parallel streaks lengthwise the blade, the plant food deficiency is magnesium. And so we march by progressive steps to the goal of better fertilized crops, from a standpoint both of yields and quality.

Farmers Order 300,000 Pines

Bulloch farmers interested in setting pine seedlings next spring can still procure the seedlings by placing their order now, according to J. E. Phillips, acting district forester for this section of the state, who was in the county Monday.

Mr. Phillips stated that orders were being sent to the nursery now in sufficient number to cause the setting to be considerable heavier next spring than in several years.

Bulloch farmers have already booked orders for more than 300,000 slash pine seedlings for 1939 settings. Under the AAA program these farmers will be paid $7.50 per acre for putting out trees up to the soil building allowance.

Order forms are available in the county agent's office and assistance will be given in filling out the blank.

all's fair.....

Exciting events are becoming daily occurrences in our town lately, but we are not yet so blasé that a Shrine Parade leaves us unmoved. However as one local man put it the visiting Nobles came to put on a show for us and we put on a show for them. He was referring of course to our local bands, the High School and College Musicians, who helped to make it a gala day in the old town. Doc Clifton with his negro baby was chief among the fun makers and bore the brunt of the jokers, due partly to the fact that he is a local man.

Camd camera shot of Betty Ann West clambering over the seat of the electrified Ford would be good subject for Life . . .

These people who write these travel folders and make a country so alluring that you instantly feel the urge to go to the railroad or bus station and purchase a ticket for the places so picturesquely and romantically described should employ Mrs. W. H. Ellis to write a folder on the entrancing beauty of Florida. She talks so enthusiastically of her trip that we expect to see many of our fellow townsmen Florida bound soon.

Mrs. Ellis enjoyed a little triumph over Sara Ellis on the trip. They, Mrs. Ellis, Sara and Henry, were to look in on Mrs. Keane who is remembered here as Mary Giddens, niece of Mrs. Ellis) near Orlando passing a lovely palatial residence.

Mrs. Ellis remarked that she believed it was Mary's home, but Sara laughed and observed that surely Mrs. Ellis didn't think that dream of a home was their destination. Inquiries soon proved that Mrs. Ellis was correct. And the lovely interior of Mary Keane's home was in keeping with the palatial exterior and beautiful grounds surrounding it.

When our attractive Sharter delegation went to get their tickets at the Bus Station some one observed that Lenora's ticket was much longer than Mrs. Just's. Just before the bus came in she discovered that she believed it was Mary's home, but Sara laughed and observed that surely Mrs. Ellis didn't think that dream of a home was their destination. Inquiries soon proved that Mrs. Ellis was correct. And the lovely interior of Mary Keane's home was in keeping with the palatial exterior and beautiful grounds surrounding it.

Tragedies often times make us realize our own blessings. We cannot impulse that led a devoted husband to stop on the way home after witnessing a disastrous automobile accident and purchase his wife an enormous box of candy.

We wonder how long our football heroes will have those silver football jerseys. They'll soon be anchored on dainty silver chains about equally dainty feminine necks. Robert Groover seems to furnish the spectacular plays from our newest football recruits.

We salute this week Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Lefever for their decision to make Statesboro their home upon his recent retirement from the U. S. Army.

As Ever, JANE.

Statesboro Turns Championship Grid Game Into Track Meet; Crush Vidalia Indians 35-6

VIDALIA CHALKS UP SIXTEEN FIRST DOWNS AGAINST STATESBORO'S FIVE BUT LOSE BALL GAME 35-6

The Statesboro High School defeated the Vidalia High Indians for the championship of the First District before approximately 2500 people on the Athletic Association field last Friday night.

Couch Johnson's boys didn't make but five first downs while Amos Teasley's Indians were making sixteen. But, the Blue Devils gained a total of 231 yards in five plays and each play was good for a yard.

After being held scoreless in the first period the Blue Devils quit "beating round the mulberry bush." They accounted for two touchdowns in the second frame, one in the third and two in the fourth. All touchdowns were followed by successful tries for the extra point. Nathan Jones left foot accounts for four points alone. He booted the ball through the uprights four times in as many tries.

Vidalia scored in the third period, with the help of a twenty six yard penalty against the Blue Devils. Statesboro's first touchdown came as a result of a pass from Edwin Groover to Davis Barnes. The play covered 39 yards. The second score came with only one minute to play before the half. Vidalia had the ball on the Devilers 12 yard stripe and tried to pass to Thayer but Bruce Robertson intercepted the ball on the three yard line and ran untouched ninety seven yards for the second touchdown.

Just after the second half opened the Blue Devils blocked an attempt at a pass from Edwin Groover to Davis Barnes. The Blue Devils blocked an attempt at a pass from Edwin Groover to Davis Barnes.

Vidalia's lone score came midway the third quarter.

The Blue Devils scored again with a diminutive Edwin Groover traveling 55 yards through the Vidalia eleven on a return of an Indian punt.

The High Schoolers last tany came in the fourth period after Smith had completed passes to Barnes, Lanier, and Barnes again. The three passes put the ball on Vidalia's 12 yard line and a trick play with the ball going to Barnes and faking a line charge, give the ball to Smith, who threw a lateral ball of the scrimmage line to Tillman, and with Tillman the pick-up was carried a total of sixteen yards for the final touchdown of the game.

The kicking of the High School handed Vidalia was one of the worst for the game to be a championship contest.

authorized to make unofficial announcements of the results in their communities as soon as they tabulate the votes. The unofficial county results will be tabulated in Athens Saturday night in cooperation with Georgia newspapers and press associations.

The question to be voted on in the cotton referendum will be "Do you favor cotton marketing quotas for the 1939 crop?" A similar question is asked on the blue flue cured tobacco ballot. The voter will indicate his decision by making the ballot "yes" or "no."

Under the Adjustment Act, cotton marketing quotas are based on farm acreage allotments. The marketing quota of a farm, if quotas are approved will be the amount of cotton produced on the acreage allotted to the farm. The law provides that a farmer may sell without penalty all the cotton he produces on his acreage allotment, but if he overplants he will be required to pay a penalty of 3 cents a pound on cotton marketed in excess of his quota. If he overplants he will not only lose his conservation payment and his parity payment on 1938 cotton but he will not be eligible for a government loan except on his excess cotton, and that loan will be at a rate 40 per cent less than the rate allowed cooperators on all their cotton.

The marketing quotas established for blue flue cured tobacco will be in pounds of tobacco and will be independent from the acreage allotments under the Agricultural Conservation program. Penalties applicable for sales in excess of the poundage marketing quotas for farms will bear no relation to acreage allotments for farms. However, the acreage allotment will be such that, under ordinary conditions, the production on the acreage allotment should be in line with the marketing quota.

A GREAT DAY FOR THE DEPOSITORS OF THE OLD BANK OF STATESBORO

Tomorrow the Bulloch Mortgage Loan Company will play Santa Claus to more than 1,300 people, the greater part of them living in Bulloch county. This company in the guise of Santa will make available approximately $40,000 to the depositors of the closed Bank of Statesboro, which will represent the final and one hundred per cent dividend on the deposits of the closed bank.

It was just six years ago this month that Bulloch county's Santa Claus received a blow which paralyzed him completely. Christmas that year consisted mostly of stiff upperlips.

On the morning of December 8 the doors of the Bank of Statesboro failed to open. Twelve months before, on December 12, the doors of the Sea Island Bank closed. On January 3, 1935 the Sea Island Bank reopened and subsequently paid its depositors 100 per cent. Out of the closing of the Bank of Statesboro the Bulloch County Bank was born and the depositors of the Bank of Statesboro tomorrow will be paid 100 per cent.

It is to the credit of the people of this community that there was no moping around with the closing of its banks. The community leaders went about setting up the machinery necessary to the reopening and liquidation of the assets of its closed banks. Today, as a result of their work we have two strong banks.

After the closing of the Bank of Statesboro a group of Bulloch county's leading citizens, under the inspired leadership of the late S. W. Lewis, seeing the assets of the closed bank, being dissipated by the then liquidators, organized under the name of The Bulloch Mortgage Loan Company. W. J. Rackley was made president, J. Dan Lanier, vice president, Dr. R. J. Kennedy, secretary and treasurer. These men together with Fred T. Lanier and J. L. Matthews succeeded in securing the aid of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and with this help on April 4, 1934 paid the first dividend to the depositors of the closed bank. Tomorrow will be the fourth dividend, two others having been paid on September 8, 1935 and September 10, 1936.

The officers, directors and stock holders of The Bulloch Mortgage Loan Company, who have devoted so much of their time to the orderly liquidation of the assets of the closed bank cannot be praised too highly. They have performed a great service to the county. They have given every consideration to those who owed the bank at the time it closed, making it possible for them to save their homes and farms.

The people of the county have played a large part in making this liquidation possible. Their determination to pay their obligations as they became able constitutes the real success of the 100 per cent pay-off.

It's a great day and it is a compliment to Statesboro and Bulloch county; to its people and its leaders that tomorrow the Bank of Statesboro squares off with its depositors.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This week we give you the third of Ralph McGill's stories on the livestock industry. These stories were written by Mr. McGill for the Atlanta Constitution and appeared in his column "One Word More". They are reprinted in the Herald with Mr. McGill's special permission.

LAMBS, PIGS AND FLOWERS
BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 3. — In quite some years of getting around here and there, I have been on interesting trips which included sharp comparisons.

But, so help me, friends and neighbors, never one like this. In following the parade of the nation's meat supply we have reached the land of the cod, the baked bean and the spring lamb.

I wonder if ever before on one trip another group ever spent the morning watching lambs and cattle led to the killing floors and the afternoon bending over glass cases at Harvard's Peabody museum admiring exquisite glass flowers made especially for Harvard by two experts at Dresden, Germany? We did it. A faint but not imperceptible aroma of the stockyards goes with us. We have been in so many stockyards, so many cattle pens, so many pig alleys, so many sheep pens, have ridden so many horses and visited in packing houses until we have begun to have that definite aroma of the real and honest-to-goodness stockyard man. Perhaps I should say that your old friend is accompanying a party of western cattlemen on a tour of the livestock centers and of the markets. The idea is that perhaps in the future your old friend may be able to write on the growth of the business in Georgia with some background, some comprehension of the problems facing the farmers of Georgia who are turning to livestock in a manner which is beginning to interest the nation's packers.

These westerners are large operators. They represent the states of Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Nevada, Colorado, New Mexico, California, Idaho, Texas, North Dakota, Oregon, Nebraska, Washington and the large ranches of the west. Two of them are state senators. Most of them are presidents of their state organizations. It has been a very rich experience.

THE LAND OF THE LAMB CHOP

Those who have called Boston and this section of New England the land of the Baked Bean and the Cod, have been in error.

Between them, New York and Boston consumes 45 per cent of all the lamb consumed in the United States. The amount the south and middle west consume is not enough to make a dent in the national percentages.

These cowmen will not eat lamb. As one of them politely explained today to a packing house representative, "I can put it in my mouth but it won't go down." I used to think it was just in the old days that the cowmen didn't like the sheepmen, but it is just as true today.

The cowmen along on this trip have been fine companions. One of them was English born. Another has an English born wife. Both drink hot tea for breakfast. Another lives 250 miles from the nearest city, which is Phoenix, Ariz. A few of them play poker every night and all of them are friendly. One wears expensively tailored suits and western boots which are hand-made and cost $40 the pair. They like to go to the western movies to see what the old west was like. They tell me the lariat is employed now only in the corral, except, of course, on some of the ranches, notably the great King ranch in Texas. They like steak for breakfast, don't mind it for lunch and insist on it for dinner. I now am trying to decide which of a dozen ranches to visit some summer in the future.

THE EMBATTLED FARMERS

I went late in the day to the green at Lexington where the tall farmer, Parker, said as the British approached:

"Stand your ground; don't fire unless fired upon. If they want war, let it begin here."

That was April 19, 1775. There was firing. The farmers were driven back.

I went to Concord and walked down to the old battlefield. It doesn't look like a battlefield. I guess it didn't look like one then, on April 19, 1775. The Concord river, a small, dark stream, flows peacefully by as it must have flown then. There is a small bridge across it, as there was then. Something tugs at your heart as you stand there. Your spine stiffens.

The farmers and the militia stood on the one side and the British regulars approached from the other side. The farmers led the way down to the bridge. It wasn't much, as far as men and guns went; just the farmers and the militia and a few soldiers in red coats come out from Boston and from Lexington, where they had driven in the farmers.

This time they didn't. The farmers came on. There was firing. Some of the British were killed. The others retreated. The people had won. A new nation began then its travail of birth.

Thus began, at Lexington and Concord, the fight for American liberty. There was fired "the shot heard 'round the world." There was brought before the world the fight for democracy in America.

The two British soldiers still are buried there. One wonders what their ghosts think as they meet in the air and look at what Boston has become and what America has come to be since that day, when a few angry farmers fired at them.

Cities Have Grown
Cities of the Old World have grown big within the last century. Duisburg-Hamborn, on the Rhine, a great German steel center with a population of nearly half a million, was a village of only 1,000 souls less than a century ago.

SOCIETY CLUBS PERSONALS

all's fair.....

We've heard of bats in your belfry and bees in your bonnet, but little Perry Walker aged five, has a different story about bees. Perry has a play house, and he decided that he was going to put a Christmas tree there too. Now whether Perry thinks old Santa will bring more by this arrangement we do not know, but we do know that on Sunday afternoon he put his little saw in the car as papa and Mama Walker went for their Sunday afternoon drive. He sighted a pretty tree and with his little saw he soon had it in the car. Pretty soon a bee was discovered in the car. There was no excitement—a window was lowered and the bee flew out, but there was plenty of excitement later on when it was discovered that Perry's Christmas tree was a bee tree—a veritable hive of bees. The tree was dumped unceremoniously on the lawn at his home—but a disappointed little boy, said before going to school, "Mother I hope the bees will leave my tree by afternoon, so I can decorate it."

We salute this week Bessie Kenon's mother, Mrs. J. J. Proctor. Mrs. Proctor has been quite ill recently, but is now much improved. Though somewhere in her eighties she is still mentally alert and enjoys life. She has never been sick, but she managed to escape from about six automobile accidents with only minor injuries.

We nominate the windows at E. C. Oliver's as the prettiest that we have seen this Christmas. A vision of blue and silver, Christmas tapers and shimmering merchandise so pretty that we gasp and try hard to remember why the preacher said about covetousness. Grace Walker seems to have been the presiding genius, but Nell Blackburn and Jane Proctor were able helpers.

They became so engrossed in the work of art that they forgot the time and the caca colas. So at your stop to admire their place remember the great sacrifices involved.

Mamie Hall Porritt, an animated vision in gold lame, didn't look the part of a successful executive agent for an International Air Plane Company. She was just the attractive girl that Statesboro people have always loved.

Heard recently of a new kind of fruit cake—One made with a pound of mixed fruits to a can of Eagle Brand condensed milk—no dough—merely mix and bake and they say it's delicious.

As Ever, JANE.

Brilliant Reception Given For Visitors

On Friday evening the Women's club was the scene of a brilliant reception honoring Mr. James C. Porritt, of Shanghai, China, and Mrs. Maud Hall Anderson of Washington, D. C., and given by their cousins, Mrs. E. G. Cromartie and her sister, Miss Nell Jones.

Native evergreen, pine, pine cones and cedar added holiday splendor to the decorations. Potted ferns outlined the room with a mass of green. On the piano were calla lilies. The fireplace was flanked with pines and the mantel banked with pine burs, and Pyreantha and Christmas lights entwined in cedar made a very colorful effect. Above this a Christmas wreath with a candle shed a soft light on the scene. A long table at the north end of the club room handsomely covered with an imported lace cloth had a central decoration of white snap dragon and narcissi arranged in a silver basket and placed on a reflector bordered with pyreantha berries. On either side stood three branched candelabra holding red candles. Silver services at each end of the table added to the beauty of the table appointments.

Upon their arrival the guests were greeted by Mrs. H. P. Jones and were conducted to the receiving line by Mrs. Roger Holland. Forming the line were Esten G. Cromartie, Mrs. Esten G. Cromartie, Mrs. James C. Porritt, Miss Nell Jones, Mrs. Maud Hall Anderson and Miss Pruella Cromartie.

Mrs. Barney Averitt directed the guests from the receiving line to the north end of the club room where they were served delightful refreshments consisting of chicken salad, salted pecans, and crackers. Pouring coffee were Mrs. W. T. Smith and Mrs. M. M. Holland. Mrs. E. L. Smith cut the cake which was itself most festive in appearance, laid in white and having green leaves and red berries on top. Serving the plate were Misses Maxam Foy, Nora Bob Smith, Miriam Lanier, Sara Hall, Hattie Powell, Annie Smith, Mrs. Frank Simmons and Mrs. Walter Johnson.

Assisting in entertaining the guests were: Mrs. Imman Foy, Mrs. Rufus Brady, Mrs. M. E. Grimes, Mrs. Sidney Smith, Mrs. C. P. Olliff, Mrs. W. H. Blitch, Mrs. Walter McDougald, Mrs. Bruce Olliff and Mrs. George Bean.

A musical program beautifully rendered by Mrs. Roy Beaver, Mrs. Waldo Floyd, Mrs. Edwin Groover, Mrs. S. Hanner contributed delightfully to the pleasure of the guests.

Mrs. James Porritt, who shared the honors with her sister, Mrs. Anderson, was beautifully gowned in gold lamb made in the empire style. Mrs. Anderson wore white crepe satin with bouffant effect. Mrs. Cromartie received in a black net gown trimmed with black velvet. Miss Jones wore a handsome teal blue moire taffeta trimmed in diamante. Pruella Cromartie was lovely in a heaven blue tulle affair fashioned with a hoop skirt of the colonial period and featuring pink velvet bows.

About 225 guests called between 8 and 10 o'clock.

LARGE BRIDGE PARTY AT TEA POT GRILLE

One of the most important social events of the week was the large bridge party given at the Tea Pot Grille Friday afternoon with Mrs. Percy Averitt, Mrs. Grady Attaway and Mrs. Devane Watson as hostesses.

Anticipating the Christmas season the hostesses tagged the guests with Christmas tallies attached to miniature red and green yule tide corsages. The lovely prizes were won by Mrs. C. B. Matthews playing high and receiving a bottle of perfume; Mrs. A. M. Braswell winning a double deck of cards for second high; Mrs. A. J. Mooney receiving a potted poinsettia and Mrs. C. B. Matthews also received a potted poinsettia for floating prize.

The dainty refreshments were colorful and emphasizing the Christmas season. The chicken salad was garnished with tomato aspic and the cookies were decorated with holly wreaths. Crackers and hot tea completed the party menu.

Guests were invited for seven tables. Among the out of town guests were Mrs. F. W. Darby of Jackson, Fla., Mrs. James Porritt of Shanghai, China, and Mrs. Durien of Ireland, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. Whitehurst spent Sunday in Dublin as the guest of friends.

SHOWER FOR VERA BRADLEY NEXT MONDAY AT CHURCH

As the members of the Methodist Missionary Society meet for their literary meeting at the church Monday afternoon Dec. 19, they will bring Christmas gifts for Vera Bradley, a student at the Berry School at Rome Mrs. J. E. Carruth will pack the box and send it to Vera.

MRS. JORDAN PRINTUP HOSTESS TO FRIENDLY SIXTEEN

The Friendly Sixteen were entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Jordan Printup at her home on South College street. The Christmas month was carried out in her decorations. Pines and holly were used in profusion in the rooms where the guests were assembled.

Christmas gifts were exchanged through the medium of an interesting treasure hunt. Pieces of string dangling from the chandelier led the guests through a sort of maze before the gifts were discovered tied at the ends.

Mrs. Printup served her guests tiers of angel food cake put together with fruit and whipped cream and coffee. Contests and games were features of entertainment.

METHODIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY CLOSE YEAR WITH BEAUTIFUL PROGRAM

The theme for the programs of the Methodist Missionary Society for the year was "Gardening with God," and their key word was "Growth."

The program at the church, on Monday afternoon marked the culmination of the year's work and was truly a Harvest Day program. Each officer has worked in God's Garden as the head gardener in their respective plots.

Mrs. S. J. Crouch, president opened the meeting with a few introductory remarks and included a poem on gardening. Mrs. Leonard Nard conducted the devotional which illustrated the six elements of spiritual growth based on the key word. These elements were: Grace, Reverence, Obedience, Work, Trust, and Humility. A slogan developed from the key word adopted for next year's work was "Go right on working together heartily."

In the choir were: Mrs. Z. S. Henderson, accompanist, Mrs. Roger Holland, Mrs. S. H. Sherman, Mrs. Waldo Floyd, Mrs. S. Edwin Groover. As the choir sang "Bringing in the Sheaves" the officers, each with a red rose in her hand formed a semicircle at the front of the room and as each made her report the rose was placed in a flower basket. Appropriate music by the choir accompanied these reports. After the reports Mrs. Brooks Mikell explained the significance of the roses and gave a resume of the chief accomplishments during the year. After a prayer of thanks to the Lord of the Harvest by Mrs. S. J. Crouch, Mrs. W. L. DeJarnette pronounced the benediction.

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSOCIATION PAYS DIVIDEND

Assets Grown From
$24,000 To $122,000
Since Jan. 1, 1937

Horace Z. Smith, president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Statesboro, this week announced that dividend checks approximating $1,900 have been mailed to shareholders.

This dividend represents the four per cent per annum on all classes of shares payable semi-annually to the shareholders as of record of December 31st, 1938.

The assets of the association have grown from $24,000 as of January 1, 1937 to more than $122,000 as of November 30, 1938. The association was organized in August, 1936 with only $5,000 total assets.

According to Mr. Smith, the association is very pleased with the progress made and contributes its success in a large part to the insurance by the Federal Savings and Loan Corporation of all shares of $5,000 and less. More than $51,000 has been invested in shares in the Association by local subscribers and the Home Owners Loan Corporation has invested $43,000 in the association shares.

Mr. Smith states that the purpose of the association is to enable any one to invest his money safely and to obtain a reasonable rate of return on long term savings. It promotes the accumulation of wealth by enabling investors to buy its shares, either through regular payments or by outright lump sums. All investments in shares in the association are made available to local home builders, and those who wish to refinance or purchase homes, at a very low rate of interest over a long period of time.

Officers and directors of the association are: H. Z. Smith, president; J. B. Averitt, vice president; H. L. Kennon, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. J. B. Averitt, assistant secretary; D. B. Turner, L. E. Tyson, and Chas. E. Cone, directors.

4-H CLUB BOYS
SHOW ALL TIME CORN
RECORD IN BULLOCH

Average Yield Of 87.3 Bushels Of Corn Per Acre

Lots of work and all-time commercial fertilizer gave Bulloch county 4-H club boys in 1938 an all time high record yield of corn for the county. The group of 14 records submitted to the state office for these clubsters show an average yield of 87.3 bushels of corn per acre. These yields range from 40 bushels to 19.17 bushels per acre.

The 120 clubsters growing corn as projects and completing their records averaged more than 60 bushels per acre. Troy Mallard was high producer for the county with 129.17 bushels from his acre. Troy cannot boast so freely about this high yield, even though it did win top honors in Georgia this year because Walter and Charles, two younger brothers, 126.12 bushels and 123.09 bushels right along beside him.

J. C. Brown missed state honors by a fraction of a bushel last year and came back this year with 113 bushels. Montrose Graham, known to most of the clubsters as a livestock champion, thinks that his cows and hogs need all the corn he can grow on an acre. He grew 80.5 bushels an acre.

Quinton Dickerson grew 70 bushels of corn with 100 pounds of a balanced fertilizer and 200 pounds of side dressing.

J. C. Watkins used 150 pounds of a balanced fertilizer along with lots of labor to grow his 40 bushels per acre.

Rafe Newton harvested 87 bushels on an acre, Lamar Trappell got 65 bushels, Clyde Payne gathered 75 bushels, Lynward Perkins made 57 bushels, Hubert Alford's yield was 80.4 bushels and Hinton Anderson was contented with a 100 bushel yield.

Young Mallard, the county and state champion, used 200 pounds of an E-4 balanced fertilizer and 300 pounds of nitrate of soda as a side dresser. The entire group average only 200 pounds of balanced fertilizer and 200 pounds of side dresser.

Baptists Observe Day Of Prayer

According to Dr. C. M. Coleson, Evangelistic Chairman of the Ogeechee River Baptist Association Sunday January 1, 1939, has been designated as the Georgia Baptist Convention as a day for special prayer in each of the 2,414 churches for a statewide revival with a goal of 40,000 new members won to Christ, which is one soul to each twelve church members.

Dr. Coleson stated that the purpose of the Day of Prayer in the Ogeechee River Association is to increase the number of conversions and baptisms, to enlist personal workers, to reestablish our family altars, to have one or more special evangelistic meetings in each local church over the state, to have a meeting in every church community over the state to conserve the results of such soul winning efforts by training and enlistment of all converts, to a definite New Testament stewardship, to stress and emphasize real Gospel preaching and teaching.

Dr. Coleson added that the slogan for the great denomination in 1939 is "Georgia for Christ."

Mrs. James C. Porritt Tells Rotary Club Of Chinese-Japanese War

Talking to the members of the Statesboro Rotary Club Monday, Mrs. James C. Porritt of Shanghai, China, stated that the Chinese success in the new eighteen month old Chinese-Japanese war is due to the "quiet and determined spirit of 400,000,000 Chinese who are ready to give up their lives and property rather than submit to a nation gone mad."

Mrs. Porritt who is here for the Christmas holidays was the former Miss Mamie Hall of Statesboro. She has been in China for ten years and this is her first visit home during that time.

Mrs. Porritt in her talk pointed out that the present war may be traced fundamentally to the fact that China was developing both commercially and politically so rapidly that Japan was frightened — that China with her five hundred million population, would be lost as an expanding

Xmas Lights Draw Attention

Quoting from the first chapter of Genesis, Dr. R. L. Cone, Statesboro's new mayor, last Thursday night said: "And God said, Let there be light: and there was light." A switch was thrown and the streets of the city's business section were lit by the light from 2,500 multicolored light bulbs, creating a veritable ceiling of fair-land beauty.

An estimated crowd of 2,500 attended the ceremony marking the turning on of the city's Christmas light decorations. Dr. Cone spoke in behalf of the city. He expressed his appreciation for the work and interest of the merchants who made possible the decoration. He praised them on making Statesboro one of the most attractive cities in this section during the Christmas shopping season. He gave credit to all those who had an active part in raising necessary funds for the lights.

Mrs. R. L. Cone, president of the Woman's Club spoke in behalf of the club and expressed the club's appreciation for the decorations.

Dr. A. J. Mooney president of the Chamber of Commerce represented that organization and made a short dedicatory talk.

Afterwards a street dance was given on with the block from the traffic light to the Old Bank of Statesboro building being roped off.

This year at heretofore, the Statesboro merchants are displaying a beautiful line of gifts. Shoppers are finding that they can buy here the same merchandise that larger cities are offering and that it is easier to do their shopping here and with a saving in money.

Georgia farmers, having settled the question of marketing quotas in the December 10 referendum, are now turning their attention to election of the community and county committeemen who actually supervise the operation of the federal farm program in the field.

The community and county committeemen are being elected throughout the state during the month of December. All elections are scheduled to be completed by December 31.

Every farmer who signed a worksheet indicating his desire to cooperate in the 1938 farm program is automatically a member of his county Agricultural Conservation Association.

The community committees, under the articles of association, are to assist the county committee in determining acreage allotments, normal yield and other agricultural facts required under the program; to inform the farmers of the purposes and provisions of the programs; and to assist in conducting community meetings where the programs may be discussed.

THE STORY AS LUKE TOLD IT

And she brought forth her first born son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel multitude of the heavenly host, praising God and saying: Glory to God in the highest, and peace on earth, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the Babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

And when eight days were accomplished for the circumcising of the child, his name was called JESUS which was named of the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

—St. Luke 2: 7-21.

ONLY THE HUMBLE

"Dear Santa Claus:
Please bring me a train and a pair of bed room slippers. Also some fruit and candy. I am in the second grade in school, and bring my sister some thing nice too, and bring me anything else you want to. And thank you so much.
—Your Friend."

We received the above letter last week from a friend of Santa Claus. We are forwarding it on to the proper address. This child of the second grade does not ask for much and its simplicity set us thinking.

Christmas is returning to remind the world that simplicity points the way to happiness.

Because the season glorifies the innocence of childhood, the most radiant thing on the earth, this message is easily delivered. We all know it takes little to gladden a child—a cheap toy, a kind word.

But this message of simplicity also is easily misunderstood. This is because most of the grown-ups feel it is a dream of fancy that cannot be. Some repeat with deep longing Elizabeth Aker Allen's wistful appeal, "Backward, turn backward, O time, in your flight! Make me a child again just for tonight!"

They are voicing sentimentality when they should be grasping sentiment.

Children are made happy by toys because they are attractive and can be treated any way. The cheaper ones thrill them just as the more expensive, for they have no sense of money values.

So a grown-up who would like to call back the past and wait again for Santa Claus does so because he wants to find escape.

The Bulloch county hospital auxiliary is still doing a good work in the county. Last week they gave new life to a five year old child. They made possible a blood transfusion and kept the child in the hospital for five days. What more Santa Claus could that child desire and what more benevolent St. Nick could there be?

We are saying this happiness is not wishful thinking, and that it can be found through an understanding of simplicity.

A grown-up seeing a child cry over a broken toy knows the child is shedding foolish tears. When a child a fretful because he is tired of an old plaything, the grown-up understands the triviality of his unrest. He suggests the simple remedy of getting another toy.

If he could liken the child's disturbances to his own life he would see that most of his worries are over things as small as broken toys—and that his illusions growing dim are as the child's disinterest in playthings he wants to throw away.

Get new toys?
No, new toys would change to old ones and the stimulation they might bring would leave fresh hurt when the new had changed to old.

Led back to yesterdays by appreciation of a child at play, the man should not linger long in his own childhood. If only he would try he might not find it such a long, long way to the first Christmas. There he would see a Star—it was for faith—and hear a Song—it was for hope. And he would learn that only the humble saw and heard. Then, perhaps, he would understand simplicity.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

A GEM IN BREVITY. A Monticello, N. Y., local news reporter for one of the New York papers flashed the following news report by telegraph to his paper:

"Wasserlauf's farm house aff near Swan lake. Fire siren wouldn't work. When did, no one answered. Finally several volunteers arrived. No gas in truck. Got gas. At fire, found had no extinguishing chemicals. Liberty and White Lake companies summoned. When arrived, found no water. Fire, however, lost no time. Destroyed entire building and most of contents."

SOUTH BEND, INDIANA POLICE left a prisoner unguarded in a hospital several days, secure in the knowledge he wouldn't run away. He had athlete's foot on one foot and the officers had his other leg locked up—it was cork.

SANTA'S SUGGESTION TO ALL SINGLE MEN—Send her the new phonograph record, "I Want You for Christmas." Putting it in swing time, as it were.

WE WONDER WHO STARTED the custom of barber shop shine boys, drug store delivery boys, jock joint curb service boys and such, hanging gaily decorated Christmas boxes with a slot for a coin, where the customers can't fail to see them? One reads: "Merry Xmas to you all, help the old boy to a little Xmas gift. Anything."

ED MARTIN'S RATTLESNAKE story printed in the Herald some few weeks ago made the Georgia Press Association's news service and was reprinted in a number of the Georgia papers. Ed says the Chamber of Commerce ought to be told about that because it means that everybody all over the state and country will read something about Statesboro and that's what keeps a town on the map. We think you've got something there, Ed.

THIS HURTS US AS MUCH as it does you but a newspaper must not suppress the truth. There are many men in Statesboro who talk just as much as women and sometimes say a heap less.

THE BEST CHRISTMAS SEAL story is about the street urchin who approached a counter where the T. B. seals were being offered, placing a penny on the counter, he said: "Gimme one, me sister's got it."

YOU WHO LOVE LAND might be interested in an offer being made by Bolivia, the third largest South American nation. This country is actually soliciting colonists. Her people are so busy mining that they have no time to raise their food. It is understood that she is offering 2,500 acres of land to every immigrant who will agree to farm. Additional land can be had for 2 1-2 cents per acre!

The editor of the b. h. kinda neglected me the last issue of his paper but I don't mind cause I knew his conscience would bother him so much that he would not do it again. I hope, hope.

But you can't guess where the type-writer and me are working at. . . . way out here in the fine community of adabelle, ga., in the home of the village, E. G., and to be sure the hospitality, is something else. It's downright good, the syrup and biscuit I mean, and all the milk you want.

You know . . . I used to romp all over these woods with h. v. franklin, jr. he taught me how to fall off a mule and not even know it. and a couple of miles there is where j. p. and his wife joy lives and a couple of more miles over this way frank simons and his wife camp out. . . . and oh well I got to drink another glass of the cow's milk and then I got to go.

Was over in Dover sunday evening getting some mail off to atlanta and run into jack and olivia autry. They were also getting some mail off.

these christmas lights are something to talk about. I have been to sylvan-ia and to vidalia and both places have lights but they look like candle lights compared to our'n.

the editor warned me not to write so much so I am going to say a few merry xmas's to a few and let it go at that.

but before I finish I am going to say one thing. . . . if somebody don't give me a good claw hammer for xmas I am going to cry. I want me a good one so the next time I go to vidalia by the way of cobtown, ga., I am going to stop on the oohoope river bridge and pull all of those nails out so I will not have any more flats.

I hope to go to that I will get the same number of presents that I am going to give. I have already been promised a muffer to keep my nose warm. I think that someone should give cliff purvis one too.

the only fun I get out of giving presents is receiving them from the people that I give them to.

I got a couple of good jokes to tell somebody, but I am scared that they will not think they are good. I think that I will just keep 'em until some other time.

Merry Christmas to our Subscribers. . . . editor of b. h.

Merry xmas to my readers. . . . sidewalks of statesboro (first time that a christmas greeting was sent to nobody).

AND A VERY MERRY CHRISTMAS TO OUR ADVERTISERS AND WE SINCERELY HOPE THAT THEY DO HAVE A MERRY XMAS and that they will advertise more and more every week.

the editor just told me that the paper was going to be printed on five different colors of paper, wonder what color I will be when they get thru printing them.

The persons elected as officers are as follows: President, L. M. Wiley; Vice President, R. V. Simmons; Secretary, H. W. B. Smith, Jr.; Assistant Secretary, B. J. Williams; Treasurer, T. E. Lewis, Jr.; Reporter, J. Curtis Brock. Other officers elected are: L. M. Sharpe, chairman of program committee; Solomon W. Brock, chairman of Entertainment committee; and N. G. The vocational teacher, Prof. M. M. Martin and principal L. S. Wingfield, express their desire and cooperation in helping us to make our organization without parallel in the state.

Prof. Martin states that he is pleased with the cooperation and interest of the group this year which shows a decided improvement over that of previous years.

As chairman of the reporting committee, I pledge to cover the activities of the organization, reporting information that I feel will be vital and interesting to the reading public.

The shepherd sang "As Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night." Betty Mikell sang "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear." A chorus of pink angels sang "Hark the Herald Angel Sing." Georgia's farm per capita production of eggs showed a sharp drop in the five year period from 1929 to 1934, but milk production increased during the same period.

In Bulloch county, the farmers produced 393,714 dozens of eggs for the 1929-1930 season, or an average of .67 of an egg a day per person. In 1934 it was 494,274 dozens of eggs for the 18,221 farm people living on the farms, or an average of .39 of an egg a day per person.

Milk production for Bulloch county in 1929 was 749,162 gallons, or an average of .49 of a quart per day per person. In 1934 it was 810,166 gallons, or an average of .49 of a quart a day per person.

In 1929, farmers throughout the state produced 30,543,475 dozens of eggs for the 1,430,008 people on the farms, or an average of .70 of an egg a day per person. In 1934, the production was only 22,644,131 dozens of eggs for the 1,393,069 people living on the farms, or an average of .53 of an egg a day per person.

Georgia's milk production was 14,193,191 gallons, or an average of .37 of a quart a day per person in 1929, and 15,045,267 gallons, or an average of .49 of a quart a day per person.

The survey was made by Kenneth Treanor, of Tifton, and J. William Fanning, of Athens, farm management specialists for the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service. The figures are based on the farm census of 1930 and 1935.

The specialist pointed out that the figures take into account all milk and eggs produced on farms, including that portion sold commercially or used for other purposes, such as churning of milk for butter and the use of eggs for hatching.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

If farming is to come into its own as a satisfying way of life, the present and oncoming generation of prospective farmers must be educated for the farming profession. The public schools must assume the responsibility of giving the proper training to the rural youth who are to be our farmers of tomorrow. It has been said that our educational program of the past has led boys away from the farm on account of failing to deal with fundamental farm problems and have held up the so-called professional jobs, especially to those farm boys who show superior ability.

There is in the county schools of Bulloch an organization known as the F. F. A.—Future Farmers of America. They are playing an important part in developing rural leadership and much of the hope for improved farming conditions in this section depends on the young boys who are members of this organization and are being trained in leadership, cooperation, thrift, improved farming practices, soil conservation and greater love for country life.

The Future Farmers of America had its origin in 1926 by a Virginian, Henry C. Croscow, who was and is yet engaged in the business of training teachers of vocational agriculture in his state with the problems of preparing boys for the vocation of farming. Mr. Croscow no doubt thought of Washington who was a farmer, and who belonged to the first families of Virginia. He thought of Washington's attitude toward farming and the steps he took to improve methods on his own plantation at Mt. Vernon by importing pure-bred livestock, by practicing crop rotation, and keeping accurate accounts.

He thought Jefferson was a farmer and his contribution to agriculture by inventing the steel plow and terracing the stony hillsides of Monticello and making them productive. He realized that these men clearly demonstrated early in our history that a real farmer must use his training and intelligence.

The farm youth organization appealed to boys and spread from state to state like wildfire. The first local chapter was organized in Georgia in 1928 and during the summer of 1929 the first state convention was held. The number of local chapters has steadily increased until at present there is an FFA organization in every community in Georgia where vocational agriculture is taught. At the present time there are approximately 200,000 rural youth in the nation who are active members of the Future Farmers of America. In Georgia there are about 275 local chapters with a membership of about 9,000 farm boys.

The organization is built around a strong national association with officers representing every section of the nation. Each state has its own state association, being chartered by the national organization. The state association. The state association has officers elected by the delegates at the state convention. Local chapters are organized in schools having departments of vocational agriculture, officers elected and a definite program of work set up. When certain requirements are met local chapters are issued a charter. Practically all the requirements necessary for a charter is for each member to enroll in vocational agriculture and possess facilities for and have satisfactory programs, elect officers, set up a definite program of work, state and national dues.

Recently the organization in Brooklet held its annual dad-son banquet. The type of boys present at that meeting and the other meetings held over the county will make up the future of Bulloch and Georgia. These boys deserve the support and encouragement of every citizen interested in the growth and development of the county.

BRUCE OLLIFF TELLS A STORY of a friend of his who owned a mule which may be referred to as a "pet mule." The mule would meet his owner at the gate in the mornings and accompany his master to the gate in the evenings. There was something of a faithful dog in the mule's manner towards his owner.

One day Bruce's friend came to town and got a shave and haircut and bought a new suit. He put his new suit on at the store and wore it home. He arrived home just about first dark. With out changing his clothes he went out to the lot to feed his stock. When the mule saw his hero, he set up an awful rumpus. The man could not get close to his mule. The whole barn yard family was in an uproar. The man could not understand it at all. Then in a burst of light he figured it out. He went into the house exchanged his new suit for his overalls and dirtied up his face a bit. When he came to the gate to the lot his mule met him with as friendly an attitude as one could wish, well satisfied that the enemy had been routed and his friend had been the routing factor.

TO FRANK W. Now, Frank I know just how you feel. You feel that all the news should be printed, even if it hurts somebody's toes—that is their lookout. And when one of Statesboro's most popular young couples with a smart youngster gives, not one party but two parties, I agree with you that it should go in the society pages of the newspapers. But to explain why that did not happen in this case would be to challenge the rights and privileges of those who make this world we live in the pleasant place it is, and without whom it would be pretty much of a mess. I, like you, am single and without any reflection on your intelligence, must admit that I know absolutely nothing about the workings of the feminine mind. And, I like you, just go on loving them and marvelling at their putting up with the likes of you and me.

BEST STORY THIS WEEK concerns a newspaperman. It is supposed to have really happened. In south Georgia there is a newspaper publisher who is given to imbibing just beyond the edge of enough of the flowing bowl. One Thursday he succeeded in getting out that week's issue of his paper. Immediately afterward he proceeded to get gloriously inebriated. He came to the following Thursday morning with the awareness that there was something rather important that he must do. He couldn't for the life of him recall just what it could be, but he was uncomfortably sure that it was something that concerned Thursday. It then came to him—press day. He managed to get down to his office and in one of those lucid moments which bless drunks and fools, he had a brilliant idea.

The forms from which he printed last week's paper was still on the press. He went to his type case and set one big line of type and placed it above the masthead of his paper. He started the press and succeeded in printing an edition. He put the papers in the post office and went home and rest came to him in a deep sobering slumber. When his readers received that week's paper they saw exactly the same paper as the week before with one exception. Across the top of the front page in very large type was the one line the publisher had inserted that morning—"REPRINTED BY SPECIAL REQUEST."

Somebody took that hint I made last week and Christmas Eve night when Santa came down the chimney and left the Glad Tidings, or gifts, he left for me one of the nicest claw hammers that I have ever seen. It really is a honey. On the card enclosed was a clipping of the hint and below it was written in an unknown handwriting the following:

"I hate to see such big boys cry so here's your claw hammer." Now all that is necessary for a Happy New Year is for the kind hearted person to please let me know who he or she might be.

A couple of negroes were standing in front of the grocery stores down on West Main last Saturday and both were feeling "just fine."

One of them found a half dollar lying on the sidewalk and he began to brag about it.

And in reply the claimer said, "Its got, In God We Trust, on one side of it."

And upon examining the coin the finder said, "Well damn if it ain't."

HAPPY NEW YEAR.

During the past year Statesboro has been doing great things. All though the year tremendous strides have been made in every line.

They have in their possession the First District Basketball Championship, the First District Track Meet Title, and just a few weeks back they captured the football crown. New departments have been added and the students now have greater opportunities. In the business section new buildings have been raised and old ones have been remodeled. And in the residential sections, Statesboro has spread out and has filled up gaps and holes with beautiful homes and the streets have been paved and at the present time the water works are being extended—It has been a great year.

And now another year is coming up and Statesboro is going to take it into her stride and at the end of 1939 Statesboro will be still going and Statesboro will forever continue to go, grow and advance.

Sect. Wallace Comments On Market Quota Vote

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, who delivered an address at Macon a few weeks before the December 10 referendum on marketing quotas for cotton and flue-cured tobacco, issued the following statement in Washington shortly after the result of the balloting became known.

"On the basis of fairly complete unofficial returns in the cotton referendum it appears that far more than the necessary two-thirds of cotton farmers have voted to use marketing quotas in connection with their 1939 crops, while the number of tobacco and rice farmers voting for quotas on their crops has been less than the two-thirds that would be necessary to place them in effect.

"These decisions which have been made by farmers in the manner provided for in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938 are a clear-cut example of economic democracy in the operation of the new farm program. The Act provides that in the case of five basic commodities, whenever supplies go above specified levels, producers affected must be given an opportunity to determine whether they want to supplement the conservation and acreage adjustment part of the program with more positive control in the form of marketing quotas.

"The cotton farmers studied their situation. They were faced with low prices and large accumulated surpluses. There was no prospect that foreign or domestic outlets would take enough cotton to bring the supply to manageable proportions without the continuation of existing control measures. In this situation, cotton producers voted decisively to use the marketing controls in addition to the other features of the program authorized in the Act.

"On the other hand the flue cured tobacco farmers for five years have used their programs fully and effectively. Their surplus, while slightly above the reserve supply level, is not anywhere nearly so large as is that of cotton. Moreover, the price has been at or above parity. In this situation their judgment is that they do not need to use in the 1939 season other features of the program than the soil conservation and acreage adjustment provision. Of course, if a year from now their price and surplus situation is more like that of cotton today, they can then, by their own action, go back to the use of quotas as a means of dealing with a difficult situation.

"Under the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, the national farm program is very flexible. Its provisions for soil conservation, acreage adjustment, and parity payments are not affected by decisions of growers of any one commodity on the use of marketing quotas. The national farm program as a whole, open to the producers of all crops, will go on."
