Diana Sturges Earns Top Honors from the University System of Georgia

Dr. Diana Sturges, professor of human anatomy and physiology in the College of Health and Human Sciences, has been selected as a recipient of the Regents' Teaching Excellence in Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL) Award. Designated by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia (USG), the award is among the highest honors for faculty at Georgia's public colleges and universities.

Georgia Southern Radio Network Highlights Faculty Experts and Programs

During Georgia Southern’s football game on Saturday, Sept. 13 against Georgia Tech, Mohammad Davoud, Ph.D., founding dean of the Allen E. Paulson College of Engineering and Information Technology, sat down for a halftime show radio interview with the Georgia Southern Radio Network to discuss the University’s Undergraduate Manufacturing Engineering Degree Program. It is the only one of its kind in the state and the Southeast United States. He also spoke about Georgia Southern’s recent national accreditation from the Accreditation Board of Engineering and Technology. You can listen to the broadcast.

Produced by Georgia Southern Athletics, Georgia Southern Radio Network is broadcast on 11 stations in the network across Georgia and the Southeast. You can listen to the exciting lineup of programs throughout the season during half-time on local station 103.7 “The Boomer” in Statesboro.
