ETD Submission Form Updates: The ETD submission form will change to accommodate an opt-out Creative Commons License and an option for graduate students to upload their data associated with their thesis/dissertation.

Digital Commons@Georgia Southern Benchmark Numbers: These statistics were provided to the team for review. The following is the numbers for 2015: growth (89%) and breadth (97%), the demand (48th percentile). These numbers are remained with last years’ numbers. The numbers may indicate that the library should promote Digital Commons as a resource to find materials not just a service for housing materials.

Scholarly Communications Roadshow Recap: The PowerPoint presentations from the Scholarly Communications Roadshow are available on the R:Drive in the Common folder under Scholarly Communication Roadshow.

Summary of Activity: The majority of the meeting was dedicated to discussing the Summary of Activity (see below). The list was examined to determine what needed to be completed/discussed. This portion of the meeting was also used to answer questions on Digital Commons/SelectedWorks/PlumX metrics. Side notes are featured in orange. Notes in green are decisions and comments made during the meeting.
