COBA’s New Vision and Structure

The second decade of the new millennium has begun in COBA with a new strategic and operational focus. The Strategic Planning Council recently presented COBA’s new vision to become a top 100 business school in the next ten years. The vision is built upon a culture of engagement, distinctive competencies, diversity of faculty, and breadth and scope of the college’s impact in the region.

In a recent analysis of comparative strengths, COBA was identified as having maintained AACSB-International accreditation for more than 30 years, consistently producing more than 20 percent of campus student hours, developing substantial research and publication reputations, engaging ten regional business-outreach centers, and offering among the best business programs nationwide, as reflected in present top two-hundred rankings at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

The strategic plan envisions COBA accomplishing missions of academic excellence, student success, research, scholarship, and creative achievement, and fiscal sustainability by leveraging opportunities presented by growth in demand for business education and on-line delivery, applied research and regional business-outreach, and graduate education programs.

Operationally, a COBA Task Force organized by Dean Ron Shiffler recently announced the new organization for integrating structural changes to accommodate return of information systems to COBA, alignment of construction management and hospitality management into COBA, along with continuing commitment to AACSB-International accreditation and increasing retention and graduation rates.

Effective July 1, 2012, the Department of Finance & Economics, including finance, financial services, personal financial planning, risk management and insurance, and real estate, along with economics, international business, and regional economic development, will be merged and chaired by Godfrey Gibbons. The Department of Management, including management, human resources, operations management, entrepreneurship, small business, and hospitality management, along with quantitative analysis, will be separated from Marketing & Logistics and chaired by Jerry Burke. The Department of Marketing & Logistics, including marketing, sales and sales management, fashion merchandising, and retail management, along with logistics and intermodal transportation, will be chaired by Jerry Wilson. The Department of Information Systems, including information systems, business application development, business intelligence, electronic commerce, enterprise resource planning, enterprise security, technology entrepreneurship, and technology sales and marketing, along with accounting, logistics, and human resource information systems, will return from the College of Information Technology to COBA and be chaired by Tom Case. Finally, the Department of Construction Management will move to COBA from the College of Science and Technology and be chaired by Brian Moore.

COBA’s vision, mission, and plan to become a top 100 business school in the next decade has the clear unifying objective of supporting Georgia Southern’s vision of being recognized as one of the best public, comprehensive universities in the nation.

Georgia Southern’s First Ph.D. Class

Amit Arora

Amit holds an MS in energy and environmental management from Indian Institute of Technology, Delhi, India, and a BS in mechanical engineering from Aligarh University, India. He has a decade of automotive industry experience in dealer warranty support, domestic and international, with Honda and Hyundai in India. His current research interests are supply chain sustainability, strategies, market orientation, and developing sustainability indices for the logistics and shipping services industry.

Amit has published in the 2010 International Journal of Global Management Studies Quarterly and won best Ph.D. paper awards at the meetings of the Southeast Decision Sciences Institute in February 2010 from more than thirty applicants interviewed, prepared more than twenty new doctoral level courses, and developed support classes for miners in marketing, operations management, and information systems introduced Fall 2011.
A Message from Dean Shiffer

The College of Business Administration is going through an incredible period of change at the moment. If we look back about 18 months and ahead about 18 months, then we are mid-way through one of the most significant three-year periods in COBA’s history.

What has changed? What is going to change?

For starters, about a year-and-a-half ago we launched the first-ever Ph.D. program in the 105-year history of this university. Establishing the logistics and supply chain management Ph.D. program immediately thrust Georgia Southern into a new level of higher education—the highest tier in the Carnegie Foundation classifications. You could compare this change to a baseball team moving from Triple-A to the major leagues. We are well on our way to becoming a national university that will attract students from all over the country, not just from Georgia or the Southeast. Future students will be attracted because of our programs and our stature.

The Ph.D. program is in its second year and is thriving. To validate, one of our new Ph.D. students is from Arizona. Did she come to Georgia Southern because of the Ph.D. program? Yes! Would she have enrolled otherwise? No. That is what a Ph.D. program will do for a university. Once our doctoral students graduate and take positions in other universities, our reputation will open doors for other students to consider enrolling here.

COBA’s ability to successfully deliver a Ph.D. program yields intangible benefits in Atlanta. The Board of Regents recently approved four-year engineering degrees at Georgia Southern. The ripple effect is that a new college combining the programs in civil, electrical, and mechanical engineering with information technology and computer science will be formed.

The information systems program in the College of Information Technology will return to COBA. In addition, the hotel and restaurant management degree program has moved to COBA under the BBA degree to capitalize on the extensive business-related curriculum in that program. Finally, the program in construction management will also join the COBA organizational chart.

This fall, we formed a task force to determine the best organizational structure for assimilating these changes without disrupting our commitment to increasing student retention and graduation rates.

Strategically, COBA will undergo another five-year review next fall to maintain its AACSB International accreditation in business and accounting, which we have maintained for more than 30 years.

Years from now, this three-year period will be remembered as the beginning of a new era in doctoral education; significant restructuring of academic programs including information systems, hotel and restaurant management, and construction management under the COBA umbrella; and introduction and development of new on-line graduate degree programs for the Master of Science in Applied Economics, WebMACE, and Executive MBA.

All these changes will have occurred in the midst of a tight economic climate and an AACSB reaccreditation visit.

Wow! I hope you share our excitement!

From the Alumni Editor

The Georgia Southern community lost a real trooper in John Budack’s passing this fall. He had lived near Cartlton and me for about 25 years and our families were very close. We cried when Lisa, his older daughter, died and when Carol, his first wife, passed away. It is still hard for me to talk about John without getting teary-eyed.

He liked to play ping pong.

We had a table in our playroom, and we played many, many hours. His serve was not so fast, but he could return anything!

John related, once, he had never caught a big bass; so, one day we went fishing at Smith Pond. He was using one of my rods with a tight drag. When a bass hit the blue jelly-worm and took off, I thought he would never get the fish to the boat. I could tell he was tiring because of the drag and offered to reel it in, but John would not give up. He was elated to see the bass weigh-in at more than five pounds.

COBA once held alumni socials around the state, Atlanta, Macon, etc., and former students often asked about their favorite professors—sometimes, about those who were not so favorite! As I recall, the two professors who were asked about most fondly were John Budack and Bobby Smith. Sure, others were mentioned, but Budack and Smith were consistently the ones our alumni thought of as their best teachers who would always take time to help them. Since I was in their department,

Finance & Economics, I always thought it was interesting that two of “our” guys were remembered so well.

This fall, I sent out a lot of blue cards and am looking to get them back with your updates. It really helps us to know where COBA graduates are and what they are doing. We know that, with a degree from COBA, job prospects are much better because our alumni are doing so well, and we often invite alumni to interview on-campus, participate in academic events, and join us to speak to classes.

If you are thinking we might ask you for a contribution, you are right, we do need your financial support. Membership in the Eagle Executive Society is only $50 a year. If all COBA alumni joined the EEXs, the $1.1 million impact would be astounding! As you know, about half our budget comes from the state, and the Board of Regents targets tuition to cover approximately 25 percent. The balance comes from contributions, grants, and sponsorships. When you were here, someone made it possible for you to have a quality education. Now, you are gainfully employed and successful, so I hope you will heed the call to give-back!

If you have not been back to the ‘Boro lately, I think you will be literally amazed at the changes in the campus, community, and region. The growth continues—the official student body count for this year is 20,212. The campus is beautifully landscaped and Sweetheart Circle is more beautiful than ever. Hope to see you soon!

Best regards,
Department News

Belk Builds Relationship with Center for Retail Studies

COBA’s Center for Retail Studies recently received a $5,000 donation from the Belk Foundation. The Belk family of department stores was founded in 1888 by William Henry Belk and Dr. John M. Belk, who believed that education is a basis for success in society.

Next year, Landon will serve as president, Samantha will be vice president, and Madison will serve as secretary of the board.

Fraud and Forensic Education Conference

The 6th Annual Fraud and Forensic Accounting Education Conference was held at the Hyatt Regency, Savannah Riverfront, Savannah this summer. Ernest A. Almonte, CPA, MST, CFF, CITP, and CGFM, former auditor general for the state of Rhode Island, and immediate past chair of the American Institute of CPAs, was this year’s keynote speaker. Almonte is an internationally-known expert on fraud and government finance.

According to Richard Brody, conference presenter from the University of New Mexico, fraud costs U.S. businesses almost a trillion dollars annually, as much as 7 percent of business revenue, or almost $20 per employee each day of the year. The three day conference, offering up to 20 hours of professional continuing education credit for accountants, featured more than 175 registrants and 35 speakers discussing such topics as Ponzi schemes, black markets, fraud and bank failure, red collar crime (murder), pink collar crime (women), money mules, and cyber crimes; consumer, financial institution, insurance, health care, mortgage and real estate, corporate, securities, environmental, government, tax, and bankruptcy frauds; and public corruption.

Demand for accountants trained to deal with these issues has surged in recent years. The Internet has increased information sharing and exposed fraud that may previously have been undetected. Scandals at Enron and WorldCom spawned the 2002 Sarbanes-Oxley law, toughening audit and reporting requirements for public companies. The Dodd-Frank Act last year, a response to the 2008 financial crisis, increased regulation of the financial services industry and included whistleblower provisions aimed at preventing frauds such as the Madoff scheme. The conference highlighted the increasing demand for fraud and forensic professionals.

The annual conference is sponsored by the Center for Forensic Studies and Porter Keadle Moore, LLP and has been held previously in Statesboro, Charleston, and Atlanta. Next year, the 6th annual event will be held May 15-17, 2012, at the Hilton DeSoto, Historic District, Savannah.

SOA’s 16th Annual EIR

Mr. Boyd E. Search, chief staff executive of the Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants (GSCPA) and a Certified Association Executive, spoke as the 2011 School of Accountancy Executive in Residence at the Nessmith-Lane Performing Arts Center in November 2011. This represented the 16th annual Executive-in-Residence event for the School of Accountancy.

In his leadership role with the Georgia Society, Mr. Search is responsible for the Society’s vision of enhancing the accounting profession; its mission of achieving excellence in the practice of accounting; and its purpose of providing superior advocacy, leadership, service, lifelong learning, and personal and professional development opportunities for its membership. Under his leadership, the GSCPA’s blueprint for success underscores the Society’s commitment to enhancing resources, information, and leadership for CPAs; delivering value to members by safeguarding the profession’s high professional standards; providing high-quality, timely continuing professional education, and attracting the best and brightest students and professionals to careers as CPAs.

Mr. Search holds a BS in political science with a minor in economics from Ohio State University along with accounting and MBA degrees from Franklin University, Columbus, OH. Prior to his current position, he served as vice president of education and training for the Ohio Society of CPAs, managing a professional education programs of more than 500 courses, events, and program annually.

As keynote speaker for the 2011 Executive-in-Residence program, Boyd led a very informative and spirited lecture to more than 400 Georgia Southern students in attendance. Feedback from students on his topic, “Life in the Accounting World: Lessons Learned,” was excellent. Discussions centered on change and learning from mistakes. Quoting futurist David Pearce Snyder, Search stressed increasing demand for accounting services, career diversification in a dynamic profession, and technology as the driving force of opportunity. Identified keys to success for the emerging era included multiple careers, layered career paths, and flatten hierarchies within the profession; and finally, his assessments of challenges for the industry included standards of accounting for private U.S. companies, international financial reporting standards for U.S. public companies, and legislative advocacy against tax, medical procedure, and nuclear weapon patenting.

The Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants is the premier professional organization for CPAs in Georgia. The School of Accountancy works with the Southeast Georgia Chapter of the Georgia Society of CPAs to invite executives to speak to students to illustrate career opportunities that exist for accounting graduates. “The Executive-in-Residence events rank among students’ favorite programs,” said Lowell Mooney, professor of accounting, who introduced Mr. Search, “Students hear about the accomplishments of these executives and their stories of challenges, perseverance, and success.” These programs have become a highlight of the academic year in the College of Business Administration.

Mr. Search and his wife, Kristin, have three daughters; Abigail (11), Madeline (8), and Elizabeth (5). The girls will tell you that there is most certainly a dog in the family’s future.

From the MBA Director

We are excited the College of Business Administration has earned recognition the 2012 edition of The Princeton Review’s guidebook, “The Best 294 Business Schools,” which is now available in bookstores nationwide and on-line. This is the sixth consecutive year COBA has been recognized among the best in the annual survey of business school students and graduates.

A Georgia Southern MBA is no longer only for those in the region. The popular WebMBA® program has a good reputation, as well as AACSB accreditation, according to Robert Franek, The Princeton Review’s senior vice president and publisher. “We recommend Georgia Southern University as one of the best institutions they could attend to earn an MBA,” The Review concludes.

COBA’s graduate MBA programs are now available in three options. The traditional MBA is offered on the main campus, Statesboro, or at the Coastal Georgia Center, Savannah on either a full- or part-time basis. Concentrations, or emphasis areas, are available in information systems, including SAP Certification, health services administration, and international business. The Georgia WebMBAs® is completely on-line, perfect for working business professionals pursuing their degrees. It was recently named one of the best buys in the country by GetEducated.com. The Executive MBA in entrepreneurial leadership, offers business leaders an opportunity to develop entrepreneurial principles for any environment, from small business to multinational corporations.

“To continue to be ranked among the nation’s best is testament to our professors and the variety of MBA programs we offer,” said Dean Ron Shiffer. “We recognize business professionals want to earn their degrees from a reputable, accredited university, and offer them the value and flexibility to fit the MBA into their lives.”

WebMBA® Earns Tier One Ranking

The Georgia WebMBA® program—our on-line MBA program delivered through a consortium of six Georgia institutions—was recently awarded a Tier One ranking by CEO Magazine, a British publication, in its 2011 Global MBA Rankings. The rankings are grouped into on-line, executive, and part-time classifications and twelve global regions, including three emerging markets. Key performance indicators considered by the CEO review panel for the rankings included faculty qualifications, tuition and fees, international reach, innovation, delivery alternatives, and career progression.

This represents the first time the WebMBA® has earned recognition in Europe, among other U.S. on-line MBA programs, including Babson College, Boston College, Duke University, George Washington University, Indiana University, and Rochester Institute of Technology, as well as international schools such as the University of Liverpool, Liverpool, UK, Warwick University, Coventry, UK, and the Swiss Business School, Kloten, Switzerland.

In a separate three page article, CEO Magazine editor Jonathan Calens interviewed WebMBA®, Executive Director Joe Bocchi and COBA Dean Ron Shiffer about the program, highlighting the importance of accreditation as the benchmark of quality, advice and recommendations of former students, and price competitiveness of the program.

They assessed key strategic success factors of the program to include focuses on student quality, managed growth, and the on-line experience approaching the face-to-face experience. The entire article is available for review at: http://cob.legiasouthern.edu/pdfpdf%20files/ceo_article_winter_2011.pdf.

Charles Russell “Russ” Dedrickson

From his corner office window, Russ Dedrickson (MBA, 1990) does not have a view of the big city—just a nuclear plant that produces enough electricity to power one. Russ is the plant manager for Vogtle Electric Generating Facility—home of the largest single power generating unit for Southern Company, which, along with its sister nuclear-site, Plant Hatch near Baxley, generates approximately 20 percent of Georgia Power’s electricity each day. Southern Company provides electricity to 4.4 million customers in four states.

Vogtle is located about 40 miles south of Augusta. Russ has been plant manager since 2005 and oversees a staff of more than 970 employees in operations, maintenance, chemistry, health, physics, and other departments. Construction is under way for two new units at Vogtle—the first new nuclear reactors to be built in America in 30 years.

Russ was first exposed to nuclear power in the Navy. He graduated from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1978 with a BS in mechanical engineering. He entered the nuclear naval officer course, qualifying in submarines and working primarily as an engineering officer. In 1983, he joined Georgia Power Company at Plant Hatch as a supervisor and, later, managed the engineering and operations departments. In 1987, as assistant to plant vice president, he entered the Executive MBA program at Georgia Southern, was transferred to Southern Company’s corporate headquarters in Alabama, and finished the MBA by commuting from Birmingham.

Russ recalls the things he liked most about the MBA program, including professors who were involved outside the classroom with real businesses. “They had credibility because of their experience,” he said. Harvard case studies were analyzed using real data. “The sales, marketing data, and projections were scattered—just like in the real world,” he emphasized. He also recalls the opportunity to work in teams with people of diverse backgrounds, and the use of business simulation and modeling: “They laid a good foundation to be able to play ‘what if’ scenarios and assess business risk,” Russ noted. “Earlier in my career, I used these techniques to develop a 70-room Holiday Inn Express in Calvert County, MD.”

Away from work, Russ enjoys boating and fishing on Lake Thurman, where he has a home. He is a licensed pilot and enjoys flying. Family is very important to him and his favorite activity away from work is spending time with his family. Russ and his wife, Susan, have three children. The oldest, son Tray, graduated from Georgis Southern in June 2011 with a degree in applied mathematics and is now in graduate school. Younger son, Richard, is a systems operator at Plant Vogtle and daughter, Heather, a UGA landscape architect graduate, is in the real estate business in Augusta.

Chamber’s Southeast Institute for Organization Management in 2008 and became one of only 13 Georgia Certified Chamber Executives in 2009. He is also a graduate of Leadership Southeast Georgia.

Kenny and his girlfriend, Teri, moved to Monroe, and he has created and begun publishing his own printed and online magazine, Georgia Connector, which serves twelve counties east of Atlanta. The magazine focuses on business, industry, economic development, tourism, and other aspects that make the area such a great place to live.

Kenny remains active as a volunteer in the communities and chambers in which he lives and serves, and is currently a member of the Legacy Lions Club in Loganville and a participant in Leadership Walton.

PROJECT ADRIAN

PROJECT ADRIAN returned to campus this summer with 28 white collar crime students sworn in as honorary criminal investigative “special” agents joined by fifteen agents of the Internal Revenue Service from Atlanta, Augusta, Macon, and Savannah who led C O B A’ s fraud and forensic students through a series of mock financial crime investigations.

Students opened their criminal investigations on information of wrongdoings and pursued subjects of tax crimes including corrupt tax preparation, drug money laundering, fraudulent marketing of tax shelters, and evasion of taxes on gambling winnings.

The Professional Development Center’s upscale facility was staged to mimic an intelligence center, squad rooms, business offices, accountant offices, judge’s chambers, and everyday life locations, including residences. The IRS coaches prepared students by fine-tuning their investigative procedures. Teams were assigned to conduct record checks, serve subpoenas, analyse financial information, conduct interviews, setup surveillance, and monitor undercover operations. They also prepared and executed search warrants, collected evidence, and even arrested a subject or two.

Center for Forensic Studies Director Don Berez, CPA, has been bringing PROJECT ADRIAN to campus since 2007. “We’re not training our students in 11, 2001. Mr. Dunne was the lone survivor of the three executives who ran the firm. His story “Sandler O’Neill’s Journey From Ground Zero” was published in Fortune magazine in September.

Today, Sandler O’Neill is one of the largest full-service investment banking firms in the country. Dunne oversees Sandler O’Neill’s strategic functions and is active in the firm’s key client relationships. His lecture at Georgia Southern focused on how he and his firm carried on personally and professionally after the 9/11 attacks.

COBA student Tonya Cole read the Fortune article and contacted Sandler O’Neill’s New York office, while preparing a strategic marketing report for Professor Jim Randall’s MBA class. Dunne accepted her invitation to tell his story as part of the Fries Lecture series.

Forensic Lecturers

Don Berez's white collar crime and interrogation classes hosted three interesting speakers in December, specifically, Linda Downing (MBA, 2008), U.S. Attorney’s Office, explaining audit command language and Benford’s law; Marty Bragg, U.S. Probation Office, speaking on federal sentencing guidelines; and, finally, Scott Hilsen, JD, MBA, CFE, director in investigations, KPMG Forensic, discussing his new book, Fraudulent Intentions.

These guests are involved daily in the real world of white collar crime investigation, interview, and interrogation. Their presentations were extremely interesting, but keeping up with their pace and attention to detail was challenging!

John Budack, assistant professor of finance emeritus, who taught real estate classes for many years, passed away in October at the age of 73 in Virginia. He and his wife, Alice, had a second home in Virginia, and he had been battling a bron tumor.

Many alumni will remember Mr. Budack. He taught in COBA for 26 years from 1974 until 2000, when he retired. He returned to the classroom part-time after retirement and taught periodically until his death.

Mr. Budack was considered the godfather of real estate at Georgia Southern because he created the real estate emphasis in the finance major and taught all the courses himself for many years. Mr. Budack also supervised interns in real estate, linking literally hundreds of students to real world experience prior to graduation.

Mr. Budack served on the original greek housing committee that formed the Southern Greek Housing Corporation and developed “Greek Row” at Georgia Southern. He lead the establishment of a Phi Delta Theta chapter at Georgia Southern, served as the chapter advisor, and was province president for Georgia.

Mr. Budack earned a BBA degree in 1959 from the University of Michigan and an MBA degree in 1970 from Drake University. He is survived by a daughter, Karen, who is married to Todd Deal, professor of chemistry at Georgia Southern, and his wife, Alice. A memorial service was held for Mr. Budack in Statesboro on October 1.
