In late March, Dean Ronald E. Shiffler announced he would assume the deanship of McColl School of Business, Queens University of Charlotte, NC, effective July 31, 2012.

Dean Shiffler’s leadership in the College of Business for ten years, and as interim dean of Information Technology for four years, is significantly reflected in the national recognition Georgia Southern has enjoyed in record enrollment, new programs, broadened visibility, and Carnegie Doctoral Research University status.

When he arrived in 2002, Shiffler led the college in defining COBA’s vision of becoming a premier business school for prospective students, the regional community, and employers. The action plan included distinctive niche programming, engaging the business community, and branding COBA and its disciplines for increased recognition.

During his tenure, the college has grown substantially. COBA’s upper division undergraduate enrollment has increased 31.7 percent and undergraduate program offerings have expanded, including the School of Economics. The regional economic development major, the forensic accounting programs, information systems, hospitality management, and construction management programs, together with an enterprise resource planning certification program. In COBA graduate studies, enrollment has grown a dramatic 76.5 percent while graduate education opportunities have expanded in the WebMBA, master of science in applied economics, the executive MBA, and WebMAcc programs, along with the PhD in logistics and supply chain management, the first in Georgia Southern’s 106 year history. The college’s regional economic impact, based upon share of students, has doubled during Dean Shiffler’s tenure from approximately $63.1 million to $134 million.

For CIT, enrollment has grown 27.7 percent while a master of science in computer science degree and broadband and mobile systems, network and computer security, game programming, and software engineering certification programs have been added. The colleges have expanded service, outreach, and applied learning opportunities with centers in entrepreneurial learning, forensic studies, sales, and financial services; software and training partnerships through National Cash Register, 12 Technologies, and Chainalytics; and, the City Campus with its Entrepreneur Zone and Bureau of Business Research and Economic Development expansion.

The visibility of the college and its business programs has increased with significant endorsements, including the third eminent scholar, a chair in banking.

COBA’s national reputation has been enhanced by rankings from The Princeton Review, GetEducated.com, U. S. News and World Report, CEO Magazine, and BusinessXpress.com. Today, COBA is nationally ranked 187th in undergraduate business programs, 121st in part-time MBA programs, and the MBA and MAcc are among the top 294 business schools rankings in The Princeton Review.

Thank you, Dean Shiffler, and best wishes to you and Mrs. Shiffler. ◆

Giuliani Speaks

Rudolph W. Giuliani, 1993 mayor of New York elected on the slogan “One City, One Standard,” spoke to students at Georgia Southern’s Hamer Fieldhouse in March.

Under Giuliani, re-elected in 1997 with 57 percent vote in a city where democrats outnumber republicans five to one, crime fell by 56 percent, murder dropped by 66 percent, and welfare rolls declined by more than 50 percent.

The 9/11 terrorist attack occurred at the end of his second term, final by NYC law, culminating in him being named “Person of the Year” by Time Magazine.

Mayor Giuliani’s message, “Principled Leadership in the Face of Change and Crisis,” focused on six principles, including strong beliefs, passion, and vision for your quest; optimism and hope in the face of all odds; courage to face the potential for failure; practice, study, and preparation for dealing with the unthinkable; teamwork to carry you through weakness; and the ability to communicate, based upon mutual love and respect for people.

The Educational Foundation of the Georgia Society of CPAs has presented M. Jill Lockwood, JD LLM, CPA, its Outstanding Accounting Educator Award. The award recognizes Dr. Lockwood’s outstanding career in accounting education, leadership in professional and civic organizations, and writing, speaking, curriculum development, and research.

Dr. Lockwood has dedicated herself to the accounting profession, university, students, faculty, and community. Her knowledge and skills as an attorney, with an emphasis in taxation and a CPA, provide a unique combination to educate future CPAs and serve the profession. An engaging presence in the classroom, Dr. Lockwood gives her students personal attention and uses humor to provide practical examples of complex points of law.

Dr. Lockwood explains, “As a tax attorney, one of my first jobs was teaching. It literally forced me to get the accounting classes necessary to effectively teach tax law and accounting. I joined many of my students at the Macon Coliseum that year for the CPA examination.”

Both inside and outside the classroom, Dr. Lockwood is committed to furthering students’ accounting education. She has excelled in advising and mentoring students as faculty advisor to Beta Alpha Psi, director of Student Advisement and Student Services, and director of the School of Accountancy. Students praise her helpfulness in guiding them through their educational careers by taking the time to fully understand and articulate the university’s academic requirements. Fellow faculty members maintain high respect for her knowledge of topics and ability to clearly communicate details. Dr. Lockwood’s leadership has been invaluable to the University’s Senate and Graduation Committee, as well as the University’s library staff in understanding the need for electronic tax research tools.

Dr. Lockwood has been active in leadership roles with professional organizations including the Georgia Society of CPAs, where she is past president of the Educational Foundation and active in its conferences and chapter meetings. She lends her skills and passion to St. Paul’s Episcopal Church, Savannah; Telfair Museum of Art; Savannah Friends of Music; Savannah Symphony; Savannah Tour of Homes; and the Savannah Symphony Women’s Guild.

“My life is richer because of the students I have taught. Many of my successful partners of CPA firms and have accomplished much. I have been constantly rewarded for doing something I love,” she says.

Georgia Southern has long been a contributor to the Georgia Society of CPAs. Previous Georgia Southern awardees of its Outstanding Accounting Educator Award include Herb O’Keefe, Bill Bostwick, and Lowell Mooney. In addition, Julian Deal (BUS ED, 1960) has received the Society’s Public and Meritorious Service Awards. ◆
A Message from Dean Shiffler

It has been a privilege to serve as your dean for the past 10 years. In addition to missing the campus and community, I’ll miss the student, faculty, staff, and alumni relationships that have grown into friendships.

The past decade has seen tremendous growth. Since 2002, new campus construction has produced the Recreation Activities Center; the Bishop Alumni House; residence halls Eagle Village, Southern Pines, and Centennial Place; the College of Information Technology building; and a complete renovation and expansion of Henderson Library. Our campus is lovely and modern—a great place to work and learn!

I will miss the Statesboro community, which warmly welcomed Barbara and me despite the fact that we were “not from around here.” My work with the Statesboro-Bulloch Chamber of Commerce opened many doors and led to many friendships with the business men and women of the region. There is a “can do” attitude in Bulloch County, in which everyone celebrates the success of others. Refreshing!

When I think of the new businesses and venues established in the past 10 years, I think of the Averitt Center for the Arts, Farmers’ Market, numerous restaurants and apartment complexes, the Market District, Buckhead business district, several new hotels, and City Campus. What a tremendous period of growth for Statesboro!

People are what matter, though, and the fine folks with whom I have worked and interacted will always be special. I salute the COBA and CIT staff who handle operational details, paperwork, lost students, and grumpy callers with a marvelous degree of professionalism. At the risk of offending those not named, I especially thank Carolyn Price and Lisa Williams, who are always upbeat, dependable, creative, and make the impossible, possible.

The faculty corps has changed dramatically in the past decade: 60 percent of current COBA faculty have been hired since 2002.

I am truly proud of the excellent, supportive faculty members who shine as teachers and scholars and contribute countless hours to service.

But, where would we be without our alumni? You are the best! You come back to campus and serve as guest speakers. You keep Lewis Stewart busy by updating addresses and career successes. You serve on advisory boards, hire graduates, promote Georgia Southern among your friends, support Eagle athletics, and contribute hard-earned dollars to COBA. Thank you! In short, you make us proud to know that we helped you prepare for your life’s journey.

We have accomplished much together in the past 10 years, including the first-ever Ph.D. program, online degree programs in economics and computer science, and incredible enrollment and revenue growth in the WebMBA® program. It has led to a long list of national and international rankings, the first-ever U.S. News & World Report ranking for our part-time MBA program, national recognition for the forensic accounting initiative, centers in forensic studies, sales, entrepreneurial learning and leadership, and financial services, the opening of the City Campus and the Entrepreneurial Zone, and two successful AACSB reaccreditations, with a third, forthcoming, this fall.

I am proud to have written 459 consecutive weekly editions of the “Dean’s Update,” as of May 1, to keep us abreast of what’s happening. I am proud we added to the foundation built by former deans Paul LaGrone, Ori James, and Carl Gooding. And, I am proud to be an Eagle—now and forever. Thank you all for making my years at Georgia Southern special and fulfilling.

Hickman Is Beta Gamma Sigma Honoree

The Georgia Southern Chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma (BGS) inducted thirty-one juniors, thirty seniors, four masters, and three faculty, Misty L. Loughry, Stephanie R. Sipe, and Larry D. Staleup, at its 32nd annual banquet in April. Chapter President Cheryl Metrejean presented the 2012–13 BGS scholarship to Samantha Williams.

The 2012 Beta Gamma Sigma honoree was William R. Hickman, Jr., a licensed certified public accountant in Georgia, Florida, and South Carolina and certified in financial forensics by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. Hickman earned an accounting degree from Georgia Southern and began his career at Dabbs, Hickman, Hill and Company, LLP, in 1974. He became partner in 1983 and served as managing partner from 1998 through 2008. His responsibilities since 2008 have included leading the forensic division of the practice, corporate taxation, litigation support, and small business planning. Billy has served as accountant for the Trustee in Bankruptcy for Chapter 7 and 11 as well as Chapter 11 examiner, appearing in the Southern District of Georgia Federal Courts and Bankruptcy Courts in Savannah, Augusta, and Columbus, SC.

He is a member of the Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and past president of the Southeast Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants. Billy is past president of the Statesboro Bulloch Chamber of Commerce, United Way of Southeast Georgia, Relay for Life, Optimist Club, and Ogeechee Technical College Foundation, and presently serves on the COBA School of Accountancy Advisory Council, COBA Business Advisory Council, Georgia Southern University Foundation, and Ogeechee Technical College executive committee. He chaired the 2004 A Day for Southern campaign for Georgia Southern.

Billy has served on the board of Excelsior Electric Membership Cooperative and the Development Authority of Bulloch County. He was named Deen Day Smith Service to Mankind Award recipient in 1989, Outstanding Accounting Alumna for Georgia Southern in 1998, and Statesboro Bulloch Business Leader of the Year in 2007. The Beta Gamma Sigma honor society is sponsored by AACSB International: The Association to Advance College Schools of Business. Only business schools that have earned AACSB accreditation are eligible to have BGS chapters. Inductees to this society receive the highest recognition business students worldwide may receive. The mission of BGS is “to encourage and honor academic achievement in the study of business, to foster personal and professional excellence, to advance the values of the Society, and to serve its lifelong members.” The chapter honoree designation is offered to those who have furthered the ideals of the society through outstanding business and managerial leadership.

The Georgia Southern University chapter was formed in 1982 under the leadership of accounting professor Horace Harrell and former dean Ori James. Both undergraduate and graduate business majors are eligible to join, provided they are in the top 15 percent of the junior class and top 10 percent of the senior class.

Groom Inaugural Carter Lecturer

The Carter Lecture Series, created under the W. E. Carter Eminent Scholar Endowed Chair in Business Administration, honors benefactor’s nephew, Dr. Harry S. Carter, who received his Ph.D. in management science and information systems from The University of Georgia. Formerly vice president for academic affairs and president at Georgia Southern, Dr. Carter was provost and dean of college at The Citadel, Charleston, SC, where he is currently professor of business administration.

Dr. Carter hosted the inaugural Carter Lecture by introducing featured speaker, Duquesne University Assistant Professor and Undergraduate Director, Department of Communication and Rhetorical Studies, Dr. Alyssa Groom. The topic of her address was “Student Leadership: Lessons from a Recovering Fool!”

Dr. Groom identified leadership as a “calling” or “voice,” most often preceded by preparedness, knowledge, and intense search. She emphasized leaders must avoid the trap of being a “fool,” identifying the five progressive fool-snarles of life: (1) the simple fool, or immature, believe anything fool; (2) the silly fool, the big mouth; (3) the sensual fool, seeking immediate gratification; (4) the scorning fool, holding disdain and contempt for authority; and (5) the steadfast fool, seeking to destroy value of others.

According to Dr. Groom, leadership evolves from the “fool moments” when individuals “let go” and begin to understand the principles of leadership, including leadership decisions are concrete “to do,” or “not to do”—there is no “try” for leaders; excuses are simply lies in disguise—avoid them; there is no “cool”—you are what you are; avoid the “me” in mediocrity and “stuck” in status quo—dare greatly; when the mind goes—it happens, you may “remark on life” or “remake life”—it is your choice; and, finally, each person is “prepackaged for uniqueness—you own who you are” in life!

Dr. Groom was treated to a rousing applause from students in attendance.

LIT Career Fair

The annual logistics career fair was held in the CIT atrium in February as recruiters from 16 high profile companies interviewed students, including C. H. Robinson Worldwide, Inc., C. L. Services, Inc., CSS International, CSX Transportation; Exel; Fasental; Hub Group; Newell Rubbermaid; Peer 1 International; YRC Worldwide, Inc.; Schneider National; Southeastern Freight Lines; Superior Carriers, Inc.; Tennessee Commercial Warehouse; TICO; and Transportation Insight. The night before the event, company representatives met with student members of the Georgia Southern Logisticians Association to discuss interviewing tips and career planning.

That evening, Karl Manrodt and the logistics faculty hosted the recruiters at dinner.
22nd Annual Accounting Day Celebrated

The Zeta Delta Chapter of Beta Alpha Psi and the Georgia Southern University Accounting Association sponsored the School of Accountancy’s (SOA) 22nd Annual Accounting Day Awards Banquet on May 3, 2012. The evening’s events began with a career fair for accounting majors. Twenty-two accounting firms and professional organizations with more than 50 industry representatives met with students to discuss full-time positions and internships. The evening ended with the annual awards banquet during which the School awarded scholarships.

Beta Alpha Psi President, Kenny Douglas, recognized several members for their active participation in the accounting honor society, and presented scholarships to LaShai Joshua, Audrey Xu, Stanton Harrell, and Merrill Smith. Kenny, joined by fellow officer Caleb Holloway, also gave special recognition to Dr. Dwight Sneathen, who will relinquish his role as Beta Alpha Psi faculty advisor to student, Aaron Cohen (l) at Career Fair.

From the Directors

MSAE

COBA’s Master of Science in Applied Economics (MASE) recently announced he will be leaving COBA to become dean of College of Charleston’s North Campus, effective July 1. He has been with Georgia Southern since August 2002 and SED director since 2009. At North Campus, Dr. Gibbison will be responsible for academic program development for traditional and non-traditional students. A new bachelor of professional studies, an adult degree program, is under development and Dr. Gibbison plans to forge new partnerships in the community, “while putting people at the forefront of economic development,” he said.

MBA

The MBA Office is excited to announce its inaugural class of the new Executive MBA program (EMBA) for this fall. The EMBA is designed for the senior-level, business leader interested in strengthening their expertise. The new MBA program has an Entrepreneurial Leadership emphasis, which appeals to the small business owner, as well as to the C-level executive in a multinational corporation. The program is designed with the needs of the student and employer in mind and is delivered with minimal professional interruption. It consists of 46 total credit hours, and the courses are in an online format with two on-campus residencies and an international experience as the capstone course. Dean Ron Shiffler said, “We expect to draw candidates from all over the United States. In addition to the convenience of learning online, students will take courses in ten-week sessions. This will give Executive MBA students the optimum finishing their degrees more quickly than they would if the program were delivered in a traditional semester format.”

For more information on how to achieve an EMBA and to learn more about the program, please contact the MBA Office at (912) 478-5767 or email mba@georgiasouthern.edu.

With a 1985 BS in chemical engineering from the University of South Florida, Bill began his entrepreneurial career as a chemical analyst writing software programs and decided to get an MBA at Georgia Southern. While pursuing his MBA, Bill developed and grew GO Software, Savannah, a PC-based electronic payment processing system, to 50 employees and sold it to a Seattle, WA, firm. Later, another of his businesses, PC Charge, grew to become the industry software standard in PC payment processing, now marketed by VeriFone Systems, Inc. Bill co-founded TPI Software, LLC, Redmond, WA, and developed the Smart Payments Server, which processed payments universally. TPI was purchased by Hypercom Corporation, a leader in payment processing, where Bill became vice president, Payment Solutions Group.

More recently, Bill started SoundPOS, LLC, a small business checkout system, and transitioned it to a private investment firm. He then accepted a senior products manager position with Total Merchant Services, Inc., a credit card payment processor, presented the lecture “Become an Entrepreneur: Anyone Can Do It!” Bill explained how he once thought starting a business at home was next to impossible, yet learned hard work and dedication can bring success. For aspiring entrepreneurs, Bill advised “be a man of your word. One of the things I have learned is that you have to do what you say you’re going to do,” he said. “It is all about being true to your word.”

Spotlight on Graduate Studies

Pittman Is Freeman Lecturer

The fourth annual William A. Freeman Memorial Lecture was convened by Dean Ron Shiffler, welcoming students and introducing lecture series benefactor, the late Bill Freeman, a 1957 graduate of Georgia Southern, who was president, chief financial officer, and director of Watkins Associated Industries and managing general partner of Wilwat Properties, Atlanta. Mr. Freeman endowed the William A. Freeman Distinguished Chair of Free Enterprise, Freeman Business Scholars Program including full, four-year scholarships in business, ten scholarships in the University Honors Program, and the COBA Professor of the Year Award since 1991—the year he was named COBA Alumnus of the Year. Prior to his death in November 2001, Mr. Freeman was inducted into the COBA Hall of Fame in 1998, named the Alumni Association’s Lifetime Achievement Award winner, and awarded an honorary Doctorate of Letters at the May 1999 graduation ceremonies.

William Pittman (MBA, 1997), vice president, product development for Total Merchant Services, Inc., a credit card payment processor, presented the lecture “Become an Entrepreneur: Anyone Can Do It!” Bill explained how he once thought starting a business at home was next to impossible, yet learned hard work and dedication can bring success. For aspiring entrepreneurs, Bill advised “be a man of your word. One of the things I have learned is that you have to do what you say you’re going to do,” he said. “It is all about being true to your word.”

The Georgia WebMBA® is ranked No. 15 in the Nation.

The university System of Georgia, was ranked No. 15 in the Top 25 “Best Value” Online MBA programs by BusinessMBA.org, an online resource for information and rankings of the nation’s best business schools and MBA programs. While Arizona State University’s program took the No. 1 ranking, the Georgia WebMBA® program ranked ahead of other online MBA programs including those from the University of Memphis, Mississippi State University, and the University of Texas Online Consortium. Georgia Southern has offered the master of business administration degree since 1969. Its graduates have achieved successful careers in finance, banking, marketing, manufacturing, logistics, information systems, economic development, accounting, real estate, human resources, entrepreneurship, and management among the best regional, national, and international firms and organizations. In an increasingly complex and changing world, Georgia Southern’s MBA emphasizes fundamental knowledge and skills for today’s modern administration, management, and executive decision-making. All the business programs offered by Georgia Southern’s College of Business Administration, including the Georgia WebMBA®, are accredited by AACSB International: The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business.

“The Georgia WebMBA adds significant value for our students in several ways—through accreditation, affordability, and team-based learning opportunities. Our eleven-year history of delivering a quality-controlled, online program ensures our students are receiving a top-quality education at a price they can afford,” said Ron Shiffler, lead dean and program coordinator for the Georgia WebMBA®. “We are excited to be recognized by BusinessMBA.org as a ‘Best Value’ in online delivery of the MBA,” he concluded.
Paolo Ambrosini

Paolo Ambrosini (ECON–Agri-Bus, 1986) has been advertising manager with the TV Cable Group, one of the largest and first cable providers in Ecuador since 2005. He is also owner and general manager of Comarketing, an advertising agency he founded in 2003.

After graduating from Georgia Southern, where he was on the swim team, Paolo returned to his native Ecuador to serve as a brand accountant and budget analyst for Colgate Palmolive. He was promoted to brand manager of the Home Care and Oral Care division of Colgate in 1990. In 1992, he left Colgate to work in marketing for the Gillette and Norelco Groups. In 1996, Paolo received his master of marketing degree from the Monterrey Institute of Technology in Mexico and worked for Coca-Cola in Ecuador as a marketing manager until 2003. After Coca-Cola, Paolo founded his advertising company, Comarketing.

Nichole Calandra Krieger

Nichole Calandra Krieger (MKT, 1994) is senior director of corporate and direct marketing for the Paralyzed Veterans of America, the congressionally chartered veterans’ service organization dedicated solely to the benefit and representation of individuals with spinal cord injury or disease. She has been the senior director of corporate and direct marketing since 2009. Her role includes managing the strategic direction of the Paralyzed Veterans’ Corporate Fundraising programs as well as PVA’s Direct Marketing and Motor Sports initiatives. These programs comprise almost 90 percent of PVA’s overall revenue totaling over $100 million per year.

Nichole has worked with the Paralyzed Veterans of America since 1995, primarily planning events such as the annual Paralyzed Veterans Americas Gala and the National Veterans Wheelchair Games, the largest annual wheelchair sporting event in the world.

Nichole lives in Arlington, VA, with her husband, Andy.

Andreas Zangemeister

Dr. Andreas Zangemeister (GEN BUS, 1992) is currently a director and shareholder of a group of telecommunications, travel, and energy companies. The Reise Service Deutschland (RSD) travel agency has experienced rapid growth by providing more than 300,000 customers trips to Turkey, Dubai, Malta, Cyprus, and Spain annually. RSD has plans to expand its operations to the United Kingdom and the United States.

After graduating from Georgia Southern, Andreas returned to his native Germany and graduated from University of Cologne in 1995. While working as a business consultant for the TUV Rheinland Group, he finished his doctorate in accounting and was promoted to CFO of a subsidiary within the TUV Rheinland Group. In 2002, he left this position to become the director of corporate controlling at Hubert Burda Media, one of Germany’s top three media companies, then accepting his current position in 2006.

Patrick O’Connell

Patrick O’Connell (LOG, 1999) is employed with the Hilti Corporation, a global leader in construction tools with a presence in more than 120 countries worldwide, as head of warehouse, Central Europe. He is responsible for all warehouse operations in Switzerland, Belgium, The Netherlands, Germany, Poland, and Austria. This challenge has been a unique opportunity for him to experience multiple cultures, different logistics concepts, and new languages as he traveled the region.

After graduating from Georgia Southern, Patrick worked for eight years for Menlo Worldwide Logistics and relocated multiple times to include Dallas-Fort Worth, Minneapolis, Atlanta, and Memphis. While with Menlo, he received his MBA from the Terry College of Business at The University of Georgia (2004).

In 2007, Patrick joined Hilti Corporation as director of distribution in Tulsa, OK, responsible for its eastern U.S. and Canada distribution facilities. He was promoted to head of warehouse, Central Europe in 2011. Patrick is a past international president of Delta Nu Alpha (DNA), an international organization of professional men and women in the field of transportation and logistics. He was introduced to DNA while a student at Georgia Southern.

Patrick and his wife, Emily, currently live in Düsseldorf, Germany.
2012 Awards

The 2012 Awards of Excellence for faculty and staff were presented at a banquet and ceremony held at Spring Hill Suites Hospitality April 13, 2012.

The William A. Freeman Professor of the Year
J. Lowell Mooney

Lowell Mooney received a BA, master of accounting, and a PhD in accounting, with minor in MIS, from The University of Georgia. He has been at Georgia Southern for 23 years and is a certified public and managerial accountant. Dr. Mooney is past president of the Education Foundation, Georgia Society of Certified Public Accountants, which has provided more than $1 million in scholarships to accounting majors in the state, past director of the School of Accountancy, and past faculty advisor for Zeta Delta Chapter of Beta Alpha Psi, the accounting honorary fraternity.

He has received several teaching awards including the Beta Alpha Psi’s Outstanding Faculty Award, Accounting Information Systems Educators’ Conference Best Paper Award, the college’s Martin NeSmith Service Award and Accounting Association’s Professor of the Year Award.

During his service as director of the School of Accountancy, Dr. Mooney initiated several programs unique to SOA, including Meet the Firms, where representatives seeking accounting majors come to campus; SOARING, a fall event for new and returning accounting majors; Principles Recognition Awards, a recognition program for students who excel in Act 2101 and 2102; and, the School of Accountancy Leadership Council.

Lowell Mooney is one of the best teachers in the college. Students report he cares about their classroom success and future careers, while peers recognize his service to students distinguishes him as one of COBA’s top professors.

The CIT Award for Excellence in Teaching
Cheryl L. Aasheim

Cheryl Aasheim’s student evaluations reflect student’s perception of her as an excellent instructor across all the dimensions surveyed. Since joining the School of Information Technology in 2002, Dr. Aasheim has been actively involved in both the development of new curriculum and program development. Specifically, she was personally responsible for the development of the specialized area of information management in the IT program. She continues to play a leadership role in the ongoing development of this area as technology changes. In addition to her teaching and development of curriculum, Dr. Aasheim co-authored and presented a paper, “Establishing an Assessment Process for a Computing Program” that won “Best Paper of the Conference” at the 2006 Information Systems Education Conference.

The CIT Award for Distinguished Service
Bob Hoell

Since coming to Georgia Southern in 2000, Bob Hoell has been a sought-after instructor. His students remark that he is always well prepared, knowledgeable of the related subject matter, witty and humorous in his presentations, fair and objective, and shows genuine interest in his students’ success in the classroom and their careers. In addition to his service provided for students, Dr. Hoell has maintained a heavy load of external service to organizations within his the management profession as well as service to COBA. Most recently he has chaired COBA’s Governance Committee.

The W. A. & Emma Lou Crider Award for Excellence in Teaching
Feruzan Irani Williams

This year’s recipient of the Crider Teaching Award, Feruzan Irani Williams, was born to be in the classroom. Her students often remark in their evaluations that she is always well prepared and organized, as well as being extremely knowledgeable on the related subject matter. In addition to her knowledge and perpetration, students often state that she is both caring and helpful inside and outside the classroom, however, both her student and peers agree that Dr. Williams’s funny, witty, and happy personally is the greatest contributor to her success as a teacher.

The CIT Award for Outstanding Research
Aimao Zhang

Joining Georgia Southern University in 2001, Aimao Zhang was the first new faculty member hired for the College of Information Technology. Since that time, she has distinguished herself in the areas of teaching, service, and research. Over the last year, Dr. Zhang has added three journal articles to her extensive list of publications. One was published in a peer-reviewed journal, one was accepted for publication, and another is currently under review.

The CIT Award for Distinguished Service
T. J. Morris, Jr.

Since coming to Georgia Southern in 2000, Bob Hoell has been a sought-after instructor. His students remark that he is always well prepared, knowledgeable of the related subject matter, witty and humorous in his presentations, fair and objective, and shows genuine interest in his students’ success in the classroom and their careers. In addition to his service provided for students, Dr. Hoell has maintained a heavy load of external service to organizations within his the management profession as well as service to COBA. Most recently he has chaired COBA’s Governance Committee.

The Rutherford Award for Excellence in Teaching and Service in the MBA
Ednilson Bernardes

Ed Bernades has served on the COBA and University Graduate committees and will be chairing COBA’s GCPC next year. He frequently teaches MKNT 7410 management of operations for competitive advantage in Statesboro and Savannah. MBA students find his classes to be highly relevant. They especially appreciate that students and instructor engage in interesting discussions. Dr. Bernardes brings his high-quality supply chain management knowledge from in-depth research into graduate course that he teaches.

The Bank of America Faculty Award
Gregory Brock

Dr. Greg Brock received the Bank of America Faculty Development Award for his research. Specifically, his article on the use of economics education literature to self-evaluate his own teaching. The highest level of teaching evaluation is to assess and publish the outcomes of a teaching evaluation in a double-blind, peer-reviewed journal. In his article, “Student Attitudes and Knowledge Change in an Introductory College Economics Class,” Dr. Brock analyzed not only knowledge gained but attitudinal change in before/after assessment of all his regular 2009 classes.

The Charles R. Gibbs Faculty Award
Michael Thomas

The Morris Research Award has been awarded to Rod Thomas because of his excellent record of research and publication. Dr. Thomas’s ability to produce quality research is verified by the quality of the journals publishing his work. In addition to publishing eight journal articles in the past two years, he serves on the editorial review or advisory boards for five of the most respected journals in his field.
of Excellence

Faculty awards are based upon a variety of characteristics including research activities, teaching excellence, distinguished service, and development potential.

The M. Albert Burke Faculty Award

John Hatem
John Hatem has been an faculty at Georgia Southern since 1990. He teaches BBA and MBA students and is highly rated and liked by students. So much so that it is not uncommon for students to take a course with him more than once. He consistently serves Finance & Quantitative Analysis and COBA in various capacities and he is a two-time winner of Best Paper Award for the Academy of Financial Services. Dr. Hatem also mentored a team of students for the Chartered Financial Analysts competition this year.

The Brown & Williamson Faculty Award

Karen Hamilton
Since joining Georgia Southern in 2006, Dr. Karen Hamilton has taught a number of graduate and undergraduate finance courses. She has consistently been regarded by the students as an excellent teacher. Dr. Hamilton has also been an active researcher, presenting her research at various conferences and publishing peer-reviewed papers in the areas of retirement planning and economic development among others. In addition to her excellence in teaching and research, Dr. Hamilton serves in support and leadership roles on numerous COBA and departmental committees and is highly regarded by her fellow faculty members.

The Sonny Butler CIT Award of Excellence

Christopher A. Kadlec
Dr. Chris Kadlec is a student-centered professor who creates activities for students that most in academia would consider non-traditional. For example, he created and continues to lead an event called Telscan, an event where students transform two open networking labs twice a semester into gaming labs. Dr. Kadlec is also the faculty advisor for the student chapter of the Association of IT Professionals (AITP), is actively involved in Georgia Southern’s Techmo, and was an active leader in an event called Hackathon, which is part of “Geekend 2011.” At Hackathon, he organized and directed students in providing IT support for an event in which groups of software developers compete to build a new product in 24 hours. In addition to his service to students, Dr. Kadlec serves the faculty as a member of the University’s Graduate Curriculum Committee, CIT Technology and Instructional Resource Committee, departmental faculty and staff search committees, and as a volunteer in “Operation Mow-in.”

Ron and Barbara Shiffler Instructor Award

Gloria Stuart
As a member of the accounting faculty, Gloria Stuart has proven herself an excellent instructor by earning the respect of both her students and her peers. Her students remark that she cares about their success in the classroom and is extremely helpful. Her peers comment that Ms. Stuart is highly competent.

Eagle Executive Society Faculty Award

Linda Mullen
The winner of the Eagle Executive Society Faculty Award, Dr. Linda Mullen, is one of the most highly respected members of COBA. As one of our best classroom teachers, she also is a consistent researcher and author and has maintained a heavy service load while at Georgia Southern. While some students say her personality is hilarious, others may say it is unusual, however, all her students say that they love her class.

The CIT Staff Award for Excellence

Linda Carwell
As the “heart, soul, and brains of CIT,” Linda Carwell has proven herself an indispensable member of its staff. This fact is apparent by the countless phone messages and emails that are waiting for her when she is out of the office. While working for a number of bosses, Linda not only performs excellent at her job, she is also always willing and able to assist others with theirs too. Members of CIT staff know that not only will Mrs. Carwell assist them in getting their task completed, she will make sure that it is done right the first time. Therefore, it is fitting that such a beloved member of the CIT staff receives the Staff Award of Excellence for CIT.

The Tomlinson & Bond Families Staff Award for Excellence

Jeanette Hadden
As a member of the management, marketing, and logistics staff, Jeanette Hadden has proven herself to be a vital member of the department. Her dedication and work ethic to assist MM&L faculty and students has proven instrumental to their success. In addition to her dedication and work ethic, Ms. Hadden has proven her intelligence countless times when solving difficult problems within the department. Therefore, it is appropriate that such a vital team member of both the MM&L department and COBA receives the Tomlinson & Bond Families Staff Award for Excellence.

Retirements

As a Charles R. Gibbs Faculty Award winner, Mike Thomas is an excellent performer in all aspects of his field. As a teacher, Dr. Thomas is known for being demanding of his students, but also caring and helpful. With respect to scholarly performance, he is strong in research and writing and publishes consistently. In respect to his service, Dr. Thomas has continued to add responsibilities each year he has been with Georgia Southern.

Olivia Suggs Flanagan Fellowship for Outstanding Teaching or Service

Charles Harter
The first recipient of the Olivia Suggs Flanagan Fellowship for Outstanding Teaching or Service award, Charles Harter, is one of the best professors in the areas of teaching, research, and service. As a member of the accounting faculty, Dr. Harter is a dedicated and respected teacher, a consistent researcher and heavily involved in service to the college, service to the school, and service to the accounting profession.
The Colleges of Business Administration and Information Technology are grateful to alumni and friends, who, through their contributions, have demonstrated a commitment to excellence in education. Contributors who earmarked COBA, CIT, one of our programs, or scholarship funds

Margot Morris Dawkins

ECON, 1976 is president of the Atlanta Advertising Novelty Company (AANC). Founded in 1918 by Walter Richard, the company was purchased by Marc Morris, Margot’s father in 1961.

After graduating from Georgia Southern, Margot discovered her love for marketing by interning in Georgia Southern’s vice president of development’s office. After her internship, she began working at AANC and was promoted to president in 1990. In 1997, Margot purchased the company from her father.

Today, the promotional products distributor represents approximately 3,000 different manufacturers, including Hilton Hotels, The Coca-Cola Company, Orkin Pest Control, and the March of Dimes. In 2010, Margot received the Promotional Products Association International’s Pyramid Award for her work with Georgia Power’s Earth Day campaign design.

Margot has remained engaged with her alma mater. She served as president of the Georgia Southern Alumni Association in the early 1980’s and is currently an active alumni in the group. An inaugural member of the COBA Advisory Board, Margot has been a trustee of the Georgia Southern Foundation since 1992.

Dean’s Citations for Student Engagement

The Dean’s Citations spotlight faculty who engage students in exceptional activities, events, and projects beyond what is expected in a class.

Wei Wu
Service
Wei Wu has made quite an impact during his first year as a tenure-track construction management faculty member. His willingness to coach student competition teams, work as chair of the scholarship committee, and help in coordinating construction management faculty input on governance, are just a few of his numerous contributions this year. He is a person whom students, faculty, and industry representatives cite as a wonderful and talented addition to the department. We are happy he has joined our team!

Adrian Gardiner
Student Engagement
Adrian Gardiner spends countless hours working with students outside of class, from freshmen to Ph.D and all levels between. He is personally involved in the placement of students. Adrian’s unceasing attention to end-to-end, value-added, student engagement makes him a worthy recipient of a Dean’s Citation for Student Engagement.

Lindsay Larson
Teaching
In the short time Lindsay Larson has been at Georgia Southern, she has clearly demonstrated excellence in teaching. Her students praise her knowledge and presentation style, and say she is always able to engage them in the material—even when it is boring. She is a very worthy recipient for the Dean’s Citation for Excellence in Teaching.

Alan Mackelprag
Research
Alan Mackelprag recently joined us from South Carolina, but has already proven to be an excellent researcher with two publications in the top empirical journal in operations and supply chain management and another paper in a well-respected international journal of operations and supply chain management. This makes him a worthy recipient for the Dean’s Citation for Excellence in Research.

Timur Mirzaev
Education Outreach
Timur Mirzaev, for his efforts in encouraging fellow faculty to embrace VMware virtualization curriculum, resulting in more marketable students with greater skill and knowledge, is a worthy recipient for the Dean’s Citation in Education Outreach.

Adrian Greca
Teaching
Adrian Greca served in numerous levels of many committees at Georgia Southern in the past eleven years. His devotion and dedication in serving the department, the college, and the university is exemplary, making him a worthy recipient for the Dean’s Citation for Service.

Abbie Gail Parham
Student Engagement
Abbie Gail Parham is the chair of the School of Accountancy’s Student Retention Graduation and Instructional Resource Committee and is in charge of a number of student-centered events during the year. She works very hard to promote the accounting program and careers in accounting, making Abbie Gail a very deserving recipient of the Dean’s Citation for Student Engagement.

Yaseen Alhaj-Yaseen
Teaching
Yaseen Alhaj-Yaseen consistently scores almost perfect scores on student rating of teaching effectiveness. Students describe him as friendly, helpful, patient, available, organized, positive, and prepared. They often comment that while taking his class they can finally listen to the news and understand what is happening locally and internationally. For these reasons he deserves the Dean’s Citation for excellence in teaching.

Dennis L. Hudson (MGT 1984), Buford, died January 1, 2011.

In Memoriam — Ardian Greca

Dr. Ardian Greca, associate professor of computer science, died at age 43 on April 3, 2012, following a long and courageous battle with lung cancer. One of the brightest stars in the College of Information Technology, Dr. Greca grew up in Albania, earned a bachelor of science in electronic engineering from the Polytechnic University of Tirana, Albania, and worked for the Directory of Customs, Ministry of Finance, in his home country before leaving Europe to earn a Ph.D. in electrical and information engineering from the Yamagata University, Japan, in 2000. His doctoral work was in network survivability with ATM and optical emphasis. He later received a post-doctoral fellowship at NTT Network Innovation Laboratories, Japan, before returning to the United States. He later received a post-doctoral fellowship at NTT Network Innovation Laboratories, Japan, before returning to the United States. Dr. Greca joined the faculty at Georgia Southern in 2001 as the Yamacraw professor, immediately making a significant, positive impact on students. His prolific research output, publishing more than 30 refereed journal articles and conference proceedings, earned him a reviewer position for the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers publication board. Dr. Greca’s hobbies were soccer, basketball, and traveling the world. He very much loved his family, who survive him from as far away as Tirana, Albania, and Queens, NY, to as close as Brooklet. In CIT and COBA, he will be remembered for his eternally positive attitude and happy personality, even at the lowest points of his fight with cancer. May the spirit of Dr. Greca be with us, forever. ◆

The PKF Consulting Visit

COBA’s Hospitality Club and the Accounting Association joined forces in February to bring Robert Mandelbaum of PKF Consulting to campus. Pannell, Kerr, and Foster, CPA’s, began practice in 1912 and, until 1990, were primarily known as accountants and consultants, principally to the hotel and motel industries. In 1991, the firm became known as PKF Consulting, adding PKF Hospitality Research in 1998, specializing in data collection, analysis, forecasting, and benchmarking the industry. In 2007, PKF was purchased by First Service Corporation, an affiliate of Collier International, becoming the largest hotel-motel industry analyst in the world. Mr. Mandelbaum, from the Atlanta office of the U.S. consulting division headquartered in San Francisco, CA, was introduced to students with a reception before his presentation, “The State of the U.S. Hospitality Industry.” In his remarks, Mr. Mandelbaum presented trends and analysis from the PKF’s highly regarded forecasting model Hotel Horizons, which presents information from fifty major market cities, six major national chains, and six different location types. The report is produced from data provided by Smith Travel Research, Nashville, in collaboration with Moody Analytics’ forecasted economic outlook.

The outlook Mr. Mandelbaum shared for 2012 reflects continued recovery in the travel and hospitality industry, which began in 2010, with 5 to 7.5 percent growth expected in the economy and up-scale sectors, respectively, in revenue per available room. The report concludes lodging demand continues to outstrip supply; however, “the turnaround in industry performance has not occurred evenly across all sectors of the lodging industry.” At the conclusion of his presentation, Mr. Mandelbaum, answered questions and offered copies of the 75th Anniversary edition of “Trends in the Hotel Industry” to students in attendance. The report, considered the premier hotel-motel industry benchmark around the world, is in its tenth edition. (www.pkfe.com) ◆

Center for Excellence in Financial Services

COBA’s Center for Excellence in Financial Services had a busy spring. The Center and Georgia Bankers Association co-sponsored the 6th Annual Georgia Southeastern Region Community Bank Symposium held in March at Forest Heights Country Club with more than 110 in attendance. Speakers included Joe Brannen, president and CEO of the Georgia Bankers Association; Thomas Dujenski, southeastern regional director of the FDIC; Rob Braswell, commissioner of the Georgia Department of Banking and Finance; Allen Stanley, vice president of community bank supervision of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta; Roger Tutterow, economist with Mercer University; Steve Powell, Steve H. Powell and Co., compliance and loan review consultant; Jerry Blanchard, partner with Bryan Cave, LLP, financial institutions lawyers; Cal Evans, senior real estate appraiser, Synovus Financial Group; and Dr. Ted Moore, Georgia Southern provost and vice president of academic affairs.

Assisting Ed Sibbald, director, Center for Excellence in Financial Services, were Mark Donato, data programmer and analyst, Laura Cooper, graduate assistant, Ben Woods, undergraduate intern, and student volunteers, Patrick Wiggs, Robert Rayburn, and Nicholas Prichett.

The annual Financial Services Day brought together COBA students and representatives from the banking, insurance, and investment industries, including Kelly Herrington, Morris Bank; Joe Lanier, BB&T; Dana Potts, First Citizens Bank; Tracy Whitesides, Georgia Department of Banking and Finance; Jack Greene, Northwestern Mutual; Mason Heidt, Mass Mutual; Madie Martin, GEICO; Alex Steele, Progressive; Max Manack, Merrill Lynch; Molly Sisson, Synovus Trust Company; and Terry Wynn, Edward Jones.

A joint marketing agreement between the Georgia Bankers Association and Center for Excellence in Financial Services will expand BANKSTAT, the subscription-based service for community banks offering regional and peer group comparative financial performance and risk profiles. BANKSTAT, which has approximately 30 community bank subscribers in the Southeast, will be offered to community banks and credit unions statewide. ◆

Belk Partnership

COBA welcomed Belk, one of the leading retailers and major brands in the southeast, to campus in March. Dave Penrod, Belk Southern Division chair, led a delegation, including Nancy Pierce, HR director; Mark Sonesheim, regional manager; Mike Lucas, local store manager; Deidre Sutter, divisional merchandise coordinator; and Jean Marunskey and Amanda Varnadore, COBA alumnae and assistant HR managers. The Belk delegation breakfasted with several students, met with COBA internship coordinators, and toured campus. Belk will be offering 100 internships for Georgia Southern students this summer in more than 300 Belk stores and divisional offices. ◆
