Basketball Season Tickets are on Sale Now!

Hoops season is here. Both men's and women's basketball have made it to the court for their first practice of the season.

"I think we have a very balanced basketball team," said women's basketball head coach, Kip Drown. "More so than the first two years I was here. This is a hungry basketball team."

Women's basketball opens their season on the road against North Carolina A&T on November 10 and returns to Statesboro for their home opener on Monday, November 13 against Coastal Georgia.

As for the men's basketball team, the Eagles have been one of the youngest teams in the country the last two years, and for the second year in a row, Georgia Southern returns 93 percent of its scoring and all five starters. Last year, Georgia Southern went 18-15 and advanced to the postseason for the first time since 2006. Their home opener is scheduled for Monday, November 13 against Cal State Bakersfield. In addition, men's basketball showdown vs. Georgia State on Friday, February 16 has been selected to broadcast on ESPN2.

"Right now, we are trying to build habits, and a majority of our practice has been dedicated to defense and rebounding," said men's basketball coach Marc Byington. "I want our guys to have a solid base, so we're constantly on them about just doing the right thing all of the time and not worrying about the results. If we build good habits, it will be a major benefit for us later on."

Fans will have a chance to get a glance of the Eagles and meet the teams at Hoops Fan Fest on Wednesday, October 18 in Hanner Fieldhouse. Event details will be announced soon.

Join Eagle Basketball in Hanner with season tickets that include men's and women's basketball games. Tickets start at only $90 for the season! $300 Eagle Fund members and above who purchase season tickets will receive a reserved parking pass for men's basketball games and Bronze members and above with basketball season tickets will be invited to the 6th Man Club.
