Dr. Allen C. Amason (FIN, 1984), professor of strategic management and chair of the Management Department, Terry College of Business, The University of Georgia, will become the fifth dean of the College of Business Administration in August.

Dean Amason received his BBA from Georgia Southern in 1984, his PhD in international strategic management from the University of South Carolina in 1995, and has been on the faculty at The University of Georgia since 1996. Dr. Amason’s teaching and consulting has focused on strategic management, strategic decision making, and top management processes. He is on the boards of Georgia Oak Partners, a private equity firm, and the Russian Foundation for Population Health & Partners. He is on the boards of The University of Georgia since 1996.

Amason’s research has focused on strategic decision making and top management team processes. He is the author of the book, Strategic Management: From Theory to Practice, and he has published more than two dozen articles and chapters in outlets such as the Academy of Management Journal, the Journal of Management, the Journal of Management Studies, and the Journal of Business Venturing. He is an associate editor of the Journal of Management Studies and was previously senior associate editor of Journal of Management. He has also served on the editorial boards of the Academy of Management Journal, the Journal of Management, and Entrepreneurship, Theory & Practice.

Dean Amason will follow the tenures of Founding Dean Paul LaGrone (1962-74), Ori James (1974-86), Carl Goodling (1986-2001), and Ron Shiffler (2002-2012), during which the college has grown substantially.

In the most recent decade, COBA’s upper division undergraduate enrollment increased 31.7 percent and undergraduate program offerings expanded, including programs in cyber security, information systems, and hospitality management, together with an enterprise resource planning certification program. The college’s regional economic impact, based upon share of students, doubled from approximately $63.1 million to $134 million.

In COBA’s graduate studies programs, enrollment grew a dramatic 76.5 percent while graduate student endowments expanded in the WebMBAg, master of science in applied economics, the executive MBA, and WebM Acc programs, along with the PhD in logistics and supply chain management, the first in Georgia Southern’s 107 year history.

Stephanie Thomas, whose program in logistics and supply chain management began in August 2010, became the first Georgia Southern student ever, to receive the doctorate of philosophy degree. Her program concluded with a successful defense of her dissertation, “Competitive Versus Collaborative: Exploring the Negotiation Strategy Impact on Relational Outcomes in Ongoing Buyer-Supplier Relationships.”

Welcome back to COBA, Dean Amason! Referencing your letter of application, Georgia is an emerging growth company with opportunities expanded in and, with South Georgia’s importance in trade and logistics, the next decade promises significant opportunities for business education, research, and outreach.

COBA’s Whitaker Named VP

Robert L. Whitaker, (MBA, 1993) has been named vice president for business and finance for Georgia Southern University. Rob began his new role in May replacing Dr. Ron Core who has retired.

Rob, as he was known to COBA, joins his alma mater from Georgia Highlands College in Rome, where he had served as vice president for finance and administration since 2008. There, he was responsible for leadership, planning and management of accounting, budget, campus safety, physical plant, procurement, and auxiliary functions for the multi-campus, two-year state college with more than 5,300 students. Previously, he was director of business services at Southern Polytechnic State University in Marietta, where he also served as interim controller.

Rob began his career in higher education as assistant budget director for the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia, then served as a budget analyst for the Legislative Budget Office and a health and financial analyst at the Georgia Department of Medical Assistance. As a complement to public work, Rob served as controller at PMGI.net, Atlanta, responsible for the accounting function including payroll, accounts receivable, and accounts payable. He also served as director of operations/financial analysis for Cleantech, Inc., in Branchburg, NJ.

“Rob’s role in higher education initiatives have fostered strong working relationships with University System of Georgia leaders and staff,” said Georgia Southern President Brooks Keel in making the announcement. “He brings a creative and entrepreneurial spirit that will be key to our success moving forward.”

Rob is a graduate of the University System of Georgia’s Executive Leadership Institute and is Six Sigma Green Belt certified. He earned a BBA in accounting from Morehead State University and an MBA from Georgia Southern.

“I am excited to join my alma mater and help Georgia Southern continue to grow as a national research university,” Whitaker concluded.

Rob and his wife, Angela (BS, 1999) have four children, Taylor (18), Zoey (5), and twins, Emma and Keller (2).
A Message from Dean Wells

The 2013-14 academic year will be remembered for milestones and changes for both the college and university. I have had the honor of serving as interim dean for the college while the COBA dean’s search committee has identified a new dean. I am pleased to welcome the Dean Allen Amason as our fifth dean.

As the university has reached record enrollment of nearly 21,000, growth continues in our traditional and online programs, both undergraduate and graduate. We launched our first class of the WebMAC in Spring 2013 offering online accounting education to working professionals seeking the CPA designation. With the addition of two new faculty this year, we have begun the third cohort of Georgia Southern’s first, and only, PhD program, the PhD in logistics. And, in May, we graduated the University’s first PhD student, Stephanie Thomas, a proud moment for COBAns everywhere.

COBA just completed its 20th Annual Golf Tournament at Forest Heights Country Club in early May. We had record participation with more than 160 golfers and 35 sponsors. Thank you to all who support us each year in this endeavor!

COBA is saying goodbye to a long serving member, Dr. William W. “Bill” McCartney, retiring in June after 16 years with COBA.

The annual COBA golf tournament was held at Forest Heights Country Club on Friday, May 17, 2013. Winning teams were Gross – Andy Parrish, Chris Wood, John Lee, and Luke Adams, and Net – Andy Stuckey, Lance Stuckey, Brian Stuckey, and Warren Stuckey. Special awards were Straightest Drive – Jamie DeLoach; Closest to the Pin – Irene Westenberry (#3); Brandon Long (#5); and Brian Phillips (#75), and Longest Drive – Susan Williams, ladies and Michael Jackson, men. Special thanks to corporate sponsors, Brodie International, Capstone Benefits Consulting, Citizens Bank of Bulloch County, Dalties, Hickman, Hill & Cannon, LLP, East Georgia Regional Medical Center, Frank Mulherin – Weinberger’s Furniture; Hal Roach, Jr., PC, F.T. Harris and Hande Clinic; Heritage Bank of the South; Lovett, Bennett – Attorney at Law; Lowcoor, Nesmith, Chevrolet – Marty Nesmith; Real Estate Asset Counseling, Inc.—Tom Cox, Realtor; Teach, Senator, Jack Hill; Statesboro Gastroenterology; Statesboro Golf Carts, LLC; Steven Powell Company; The University Store—Georgia Southern; Thigpen, Westerfield, Lanier and Dean; Advanced Valve & Instrument, Inc.; Center for Financial Services; Coca-Cola Bottling of Statesboro; Inter Technologies; Pineda Telephone Communication; Servpro of Statesboro; Subway; Wal-Mart Statesboro; and CH Robinson Worldwide, Inc.

Bill has served the college and university in many roles, including department chair and inaugural W.E. Carter Distinguished Chair of Business Leadership. In his career, Bill was instrumental in creating the COBA Student Leadership council, mentoring “Leadership Southeast Georgia,” publishing a monthly column entitled “Lessons in Leadership” for the Savannah Business Report and Journal, and delivering more than 100 training programs in leadership management in the region. He also served as editor of the Southern Business Review. Bill has earned a reputation as a faculty-leader, teacher-scholar, administrator, and a trusted colleague. On behalf of COBAns, we wish you and Kay well in your retirement!

If you haven’t been on campus recently, I encourage you to make plans to visit soon. You are always invited to COBA tailgates before and during home football games. This is a wonderful opportunity to connect with fellow COBA alumni and learn more about our accomplishments and dreams. While we are often separated by miles, we are all COBAns in our hearts.

Thank you for the opportunity to serve as your dean this past year!

Dr. Tim Pearson, is interested in improving accounting alumni records to enhance accreditation opportunities. Employers and larger firms place significant importance on placement data for interviewing on campus.

For six years during my career at Georgia Southern, I served as director of the Southeast Georgia Small Business Development Center. The primary problem new businesses always had was advertising. Now, when I get updates from alumni who have started new businesses, or are in sales with an established firm, and they write, “Do not put in the Eagle Executive,” I am always amazed they forego the free advertising. We mail 24,000 Eagle Executives, twice annually, across the country. But, for those who want to stay out of the spotlight, we honor that request. The updates are very important to COBA and the various departments. Professors are very interested in where their former students are employed. The information is kept in-house, not disseminated in any way, except through the Eagle Executive.

If you know of one of our COBA alumni who has done well, please let me know, and, please, do not assume the old guy has heard. And sometimes, I have to hear something at least two times before it sinks in... when you get older, you will understand!

A group of retired COBA faculty eat somewhere in the ‘Boro each Friday. So, if you are in town and see a table of older folk, stop by and say, “Hi, are you the ROMEO Group—Retired Old Men Eating Out?” We’d be glad to see you!

Greetings from Statesboro!

Dr. Ron Shiffler

From the Alumni Editor

I recently have a visit from alumni, Denise Jordan (MKT, 1984), now married to Chris Lane (MGT, 1984, baseball). What a delightful lady! She brought their second son, Bronson, to see the campus. Their older son, Braedon, is attending Covenant College, where he is playing baseball. Since she had not been back to the ‘Boro in a while, she was pleasantly surprised by all the new buildings, the buses, pedestrian walkway, etc. The lesson to be learned—Visit your alma mater with greater frequency!

The search for a new COBA dean brings reflection. Deans seem to stay longer in COBA than other colleges. My first year at Georgia Southern was 1970–71, and Dr. Paul LaGrone was chairman—not chair, or chairperson—of the Division of Business. In 1972–73, we became a School of Business and Dr. Orrie James became dean in 1974–75, tenure 12 years; followed by Dr. Carl Gooding, 1986–1987, tenure 28 years, and Dr. Ron Shiffler, 2002–2003, tenure 10 years, as dean of the College of Business Administration. For some, each dean was followed by Dr. Orgie James

The EAGLE EXECUTIVE is published twice a year as a service to Georgia Southern faculty, staff, students, and alumni by Georgia Southern University, College of Business Administration, Office of Publications & Faculty Research Services, Room 3356, P. Spring 2013
Finance & Economics

Chris Brunt attended the 11th Annual International Industrial Organization conference in Boston, MA. Dr. Brunt will attend the Academy Health 2013 Annual Research Meeting in Baltimore, MD, in June.

Rongrong Zhang, John Hatem, Yasen Alhaj Yaseen, and John Barkoulas attended the annual meeting of the Eastern Finance Association in St Petersburg, FL, in April. While there, Drs. Barkoulas and Yaseen presented a paper, “Price Discovery for Cross-Listed Firms with Foreign IPOs,” Dr. Hatem presented his paper, “Aggregation and Dollar-weighted Returns”, and Dr. Barkoulas also chaired the conference’s Alpha and Beta sessions. Dr. Zhang also attended the Center for the Economic Analysis of Risk conference at Georgia State University, Atlanta, in April.

Garfield Blake attended and presented a paper at the Southwestern Social Science Association conference, New Orleans, LA, in March.

Information Systems

The success of SAP@GSU Advantage has lead to Georgia Southern being selected as the first stop on the Share the Knowledge Round-the-World Bike Tour. SAP has partnered with the Interactive Design Foundation to sponsor the global tour and Georgia Southern students and faculty attending the May 22 event at the RAC received free interactive software and text support from the IDE Foundation.

Cheryl Aasheim has been elected secretary for the SEDSI professional organization.

Tom Case addressed a faculty development conference for the Perkins School of Business, Salisbury University, MD, in January. His presentation featured the HEC Montreal’s ERP Sim game and SAP University Alliance. Dr. Case also began serving as information systems education and curriculum track co-chair for the ICIS 2013 conference which will be held in Milan, Italy, and as conference co-chair for the AMCIS 2014 Conference that will take place in Savannah in August 2014.

Kevin Elder became the first Georgia Southern faculty member to make a presentation, “Using Business By Design to Teach SAP/ERP Concepts to Non-Technical Students” at SAP’s largest annual conference, the Sapphire. We say goodbye and best wishes to Dr. Elder, who is leaving Georgia Southern to accept a position at Georgia College and State University in Milledgeville.

Adrian Barkoulas successfully completed his year as president-elect, transitioning to the role of president, of the Southern Association for Information Systems (SAIS). He served as coordinator for the SAIS 2013 conference held in April in Savannah. Dr. Gardner also led a workshop at the SAP Academic Conference held in Milwaukee in March.

Mallory Mitchell (FIN, 2010), an SAP associate analyst for Newell Rubbermaid’s Catapult Business Analytics, returned to campus for the internship and summer job fair sponsored by Career Services in March. She spoke to several information systems classes and the SAP@GSU Advantage student group, highlighting SAP career opportunities at Newell Rubbermaid, the value of ASUG involvement, and the TERP10 SAP Academy.

Camille Rogers and Bob Szymanski had a busy spring leading SAP training sessions for Goldfruit Aerospace in Savannah and presenting workshops at the SAP Academic Conference. Dr. Rogers taught a TERP10 SAP Student Certification Academy for Central Michigan University and Dr. Szymanski led a TERP10 Student Certification Academy for HEC Montreal. Dr. Szymanski also began teaching an ERP course in Georgia State University’s professional masters program, while Dr. Rogers’ ABAP program for COBA students competed in the SAP University Alliances mobile application competition at which one team finished in the top five.

Management

A group of ten Georgia Southern students in Dr. Luke Pittaway’s applied small business management class have been promoting Bulloch County’s Habitat for Humanity ReStore, 20 East Cherry Street, downtown Statesboro, during spring semester. The students’ goal was to raise $5,000 in donations for ReStore, a secondhand shop that sells a wide variety of goods from children’s toys to furniture and building materials. The ReStore is Habitat’s largest fundraiser and proceeds go to build affordable homes for hard-working, low-income families. Habitat has built more than 36 homes in the area.

Dr. Misty Loughry has been awarded Georgia Southern’s Center for Teaching, Learning, & Scholarship’s Scholarship of Teaching and Learning Award for her research in creating practical, web-based teamwork tools for the classroom. The award, bestowed by peers at Georgia Southern, recognizes a research concept, known as the CATME SMARTER system, built around simple, reliable, and validated self- and peer-evaluation instruments developed from literature-reviewed conceptual and empirical studies.

Team-member behaviors measured by the new instruments were originally published in Educational & Psychological Measurement before the behavior-anchored rating scale, measuring five categories of team-member contribution, was published on-line under the name “Team-Maker.” The second tool allowed instructors to assign teams on criteria and weightings chosen, offered enhanced security features, and facilitated collection and interpretation of ratings and feedback.

In the past three years, the innovative team measure- ment research tools have been recognized by a 2009 Premier Award, 2010 publication in Advances in Engineering Education, and 2011 Best Symposium in Management Education and Development Award at the Academy of Management Conference. Most recently, in 2012, the Academy of Management Learning & Education published the behavior-anchored rating scale instrument, which along with related prior research, has been presented at more than ten academic conferences. Congratulations, Dr. Loughry, on receiving this award. ♦

Marketing & Logistics

Jessica Robinson, PhD student in logistics, has been nominated to participate in the “Future Faculty” program at the University of Tennessee. Future Faculty is outreach initiative of the UT Provost’s office to identify and recruit promising young scholars for prospective faculty positions. It involves visits to Knoxville, TN, presentations by UT senior academic officers, and an introduction to the University of Tennessee and Knoxville.

Jessica and Willis Mwanganga, accompanied by Dr. Rod Thomas, attended the 2013 doctoral symposium, hosted by the University of Arkansas. Jessica and Willis also had an opportunity to discuss their research with faculty from other universities and network with leading logistics scholars from top schools such as Michigan State, Ohio State, Tennessee, Arizona State, Arkansas, Iowa State, Maryland, and Penn State.

COBA’s Center for Sales & Sales Management was named a 2013 Top Sales Program by the Sales Education Foundation.

The Georgia Southern Logistics Association, under the guidance of Drs. Monique Murfield and Chris Boone hosted thirty recruiters for the Eagle Expo. More than 60 percent of COBA undergraduate logistics students participated in the event and 102 of the 264 COBA students attending the career fair were logistic majors.

School of Accountancy

Lowell Mooney was recently elected by the Georgia Society of CPAs as its American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) designated council representative. The board of directors acts as the executive committee for the governing AICPA Council, which determines Institute programs and establishes general policies. The AICPA Council is made up of elected and appointed members from each of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and Guam. The board oversees management and the various volunteer committees that report to it. Dr. Mooney’s term begins with the Council’s fall meeting in Los Angeles, CA.

Loughry Recognized for Teamwork Models

As part of the “Walk a Mile in Her Shoes” campaign, Gordon Smith, MBA director, donned a pair of red high heeled and marched along the pedestal from the University Union to COBA Walk a Mile in Her Shoes is an international event to raise awareness about gender relations and sexual violence.
Handlen — Fifth Freeman Lecturer

The fifth annual William A. Freeman Memorial Lecture was held Monday, April 8, at the Nessmith-Lane Assembly Hall. Dr. Luke Pittaway, William A. Freeman Distinguished Chair in Free Enterprise and director of the Center for Entrepreneurial Learning and Leadership, welcomed students and introduced the Freeman Memorial Lecture Series in honor of Mr. Freeman, a 1957 graduate of Georgia Southern, who was president, chief financial officer, and director of Watkins Associated Industries and managing general partner of Wilwat Properties, both of Atlanta. Mr. Freeman endowed the William A. Freeman Distinguished Chair of Free Enterprise, Freeman Business Scholars Program including full, four year scholarships in business, ten Freeman endowed the William A. Freeman Distinguished Chair of Free Enterprise, Freeman Business Scholars Program including full, four year scholarships in business, ten

David Handlen (MGT, 1971) presented the 2013 Freeman Lecture, “Turning a Venture Around.” David explained how he was in the Air Force for seven years taking night classes, literally all over the country because of relocations, yet, finally left the Air Force in 1969 to complete his degree at Georgia Southern. For the aspiring entrepreneurs in the audience, David advised “Georgia Southern has a good management school. I got into it, enjoyed it, and excelled.” Particularly challenging for David, at the time, were “Dr. Ric Stapleton’s case study classes that helped bring math, finance, human resources, accounting, and data processing together to understand how a business runs,” he said. While at Georgia Southern, David enjoyed one of his first entrepreneurial jobs, managing the theatre in downtown Statesboro. Following graduation, his first job in a Southeast Georgia local government office would leave him with few options. His career path rapidly changed to production management when he took a job at a Frito-Lay plant in North Carolina. Beginning as a line supervisor, David advanced to production manager. At the time, Frito-Lay was growing rapidly, building three-to-five new plants a year. David was part of that success. His career took off, pushing him up the corporate ladder, as his salary increased with each new job he took. Later in that career, he helped start two new plants in Wisconsin and New York. Entrepreneurship was in his blood!” From Frito-Lay, David moved to Laura Sauders, a snack food company in California. With 600 employees and failing production, David turned things around and the company was sold. Other turn-arounds included Azar Foods, Klein Brothers, and Winchester Meat, later a division of Standard Meat Company. Winchester, founded 1895 in Hutchinson, KS, had been idle for several years when Standard bought it for less than $50,000, turned it around, and sold it for several million. David agreed this was one his most satisfying “turn-around ventures.”

In closing remarks, David reminded entrepreneurs to do their homework, be prepared, and sell their ideas. The most important of all skills? “I’ve met a lot of young people who talk too much…” he said, “sharpen your listening skills.”

Retiring in 2010, David now enjoys consulting on business and entrepreneurial challenges from time to time and still finds time to substitute teach in his hometown of Fort Worth, TX. He enjoys gardening and racquetball.

The Center for Entrepreneurial Learning and Leadership is a focal point for students, alumni entrepreneurs, local small businesses, and faculty members interested in venture creation, business growth, and local economic development. It is designed to enable students to learn about entrepreneurship, help them start businesses, and work with entrepreneurs.

Logistics Team Presents in Jacksonville

The Georgia Southern Logistics team of Derek Prijatel, Erin Gianella, Nick Rosenweig, and Chris Mitchell competed in the IANA Logistics and Supply Chain Case Competition hosted by the University of North Florida, Jacksonville, FL, in April. Under the direction of coach and mentor Dr. Monique Murfield, assistant professor of logistics, they were challenged with a logistics case to analyze and present to logistics executives from CSX, CH Robinson, Seasing, Johnson & Johnson, Foremost Quality Logistics, CTL Intermodal Services, the JAXUSA Port Partnership, and McCormick & Company.
The Zeta Delta Chapter of Beta Alpha Psi and the Georgia Southern University Accounting Association sponsored the School of Accountancy’s 23rd Annual Accounting Day Awards Banquet on May 1. The evening began with a career fair for accounting majors. Twenty-two accounting firms and professional organizations with more than 50 industry representatives met with students to discuss full-time positions and internships. The evening ended with the annual awards banquet at which the School awarded scholarships to Kevin Thomas, Lisa Watkins-Cecen, Hannah Tatun, and Katie Smith.

Academic Achievement awards, jointly sponsored by the Educational Foundation of the Georgia Society of CPAs and area chapters, were presented to Tanesha Odom, Tara Dunn, Delaney Tuggle, Joshua Hinson, Leah Epperson, and Samantha Hairston by Ms. Cate Cassotta of Nichols Cauley & Associates from the Heart of Georgia Chapter of the Georgia Society of CPAs; to Trenton Dooley, Blake Waits, and Bradley Bernard by Mr. Tal Johnson of Dabbs Hickman Hill & Cannon, Savannah, from the Savannah Chapter of the Georgia Society of CPAs; and to Joshua Pollak, Kristy Hurst, and Gale Blackmore by Dr. Chuck Harter from the Southeast Chapter of the Georgia Society of CPAs.

Ms. Stephanie Todd presented the Savannah Chapter of the Institute of Management Accountants Academic Distinction Award to Grant Triplet, and Ms. Monica Woods presented the Coastal Georgia Chapter of the Institute of Internal Auditors Academic Distinction Award to Michelle Wise.

Joshua Pollak received the Educational Foundation of the Georgia Society of CPAs Academic Excellence Award for being the School of Accountancy’s top graduating senior. This award was presented by Dr. Lowell Mooney.

Dr. Timothy Pearson, director of the School of Accountancy, and Mr. Billy Hickman of Dabbs, Hickman, Hill & Cannon, Statesboro, a charter member of the Accounting Advisory Council, presented the Accounting Advisory Council award to Jessi Knight, Faiza Nawaz, and Qianting Yao.

Mr. Matthew Workman of Becker CPA Professional Education awarded Delaney Tuggle a full CPA review package and awarded half CPA review packages to Christopher Williamson, Mary Katherine Mason, and Travis Page.

The Southeast Georgia and Savannah Chapters of the Georgia Society of CPAs, jointly with the Georgia Society’s Educational Foundation, co-sponsored the Georgia Accountants’ Team Effort program. Presented by Dr. Robert Marley, this year’s recipients were Heather Potts, Joshua Claxton, Leah Epperson, Christopher Chernek, Lamaduice Holmes, Dan Michael Hester, and Brian Mayr.

Ms. Kim Hartstock of Warren Averitt + Gifford, Hillegass & Ingwersen, Atlanta, presented the Ronald A. Lundstrom Scholarship in Forensic Accounting to Nicole Griffin.

The first-time scholarship from Elliott Davis, PLLC; Greenville, SC, was presented to Tara Dunn by Mr. Bill Woodward. The Paul G. LaGrone Scholarships, established by former business Dean Dr. Paul G. LaGrone, were awarded to Daniel Schmit and Erik Gailes by Dr. Timothy Pearson.

Mr. Wayne Yesbick with Draffin and Tucker, Albany, presented scholarships to Christopher Cone and Thysamine Erikson. Mr. Alex Knight of Hahn, Argoeti & Wynne, Atlanta, presented scholarships to Weston Fort and Heather Gay. Mr. Brendan Adams of Mauldin & Jenkins, Albany, presented scholarships to Rogette Sands, Thomas DiCesare, and LaShai Joshua. Mr. Tim Sobon of Moore Stephens Tiller, Braunswick, presented scholarships to Samantha Hairton, Hannah Tatun, and Colton David; Ms. Cate Cassotta of Nichols Cauley and Associates, Dublin, presented scholarships to Charles-Robert Riebel and Rebecca Henderson. Mr. Phil Moore of Porter Keadele Moore, Atlanta, presented an award to Belinda Classens.

This year’s D. Greg Morgan Family Scholarship, sponsored by Greg and Ruth Morgan of Atlanta, was presented to Joshua Hinson by Ms. June Paschal of Mauldin & Jenkins.

Mr. Roy Austin of the Savannah CFO Council, presented awards to Ruth Brown and Aytok Tekay.

Two additional new scholarships were presented this year: the Michael W. Skinner Award presented to Emily Pestridge and the Gary Davis Accounting Award presented to Danielle Laduron.

Dr. Timothy Pearson presented faculty awards to Dr. Brit McKay for excellence in research and Dr. Leslie Fletcher for excellence in service.

Accounting Day is made possible through the generosity of many organizations that have supported Georgia Southern’s accounting program for several years. Many thanks go to the following corporate sponsors: Becker Professional Review; Cherry Bekaert LLP; Dabbs Hickman Hill and Cannon, LLP; Draffin and Tucker, LLP; Elliott Davis, PLLC; the Georgia Society of CPAs; Warren Averitt + Gifford Hillegass and Ingwersen, LLP; Hahn Argoeti and Wynne, LLP; Holland, Henry & Bromley, LLP; the Institute of Management Accountants; KPMG, LLP; Mauldin & Jenkins, LLC; Moore Stephens Tiller, LLC; Nichols Cauley & Associates, LLC; and Porter Keadele Moore, LLC.

The Carter Chair

Dr. Constance R. Campbell, professor of management, has been named the W. E. Carter Endowed Chair in Business Administration to advance the teaching of leadership in business. The distinguished chair was established in 1990 with a $500,000 gift from Mildred C. Jenkins in honor of her late father, W. E. Carter, Sr., and late brother, W. E. Carter, Jr. In 2000, the State of Georgia matched her gift, creating the $1 million endowment for the position.

Dr. Campbell, who succeeds retiring Chair William W. McCartney, brings a wealth of experience to the chair. She joined COBA in 1992 upon completion of her PhD in organizational behavior at Florida State University. Her research focus has been leadership, trust, and teacher leadership courses in the MBA program. Dr. Campbell is recipient of the Outstanding Professor Award in the Georgia WebMBA program, the Rutherford Award for Excellence in Teaching and Service in the MBA program, the W. A. and Emma Lou Crider Award for Excellence in Teaching, and the Martin NeSmith Faculty Award for Distinguished Service.

The Carter Lecture Series, created under the auspices of the W. E. Carter Endowed Chair, honors the benefactor’s nephew, Harry S. Carter, PhD, management science and information systems, The University of Georgia. Formerly vice president for academic affairs and president at Georgia Southern, Dr. Carter served as provost and dean of college at The Citadel, Charleston, SC, where he is currently professor of business administration.

This spring, the second annual Carter Lecture Series was hosted by Dr. Constance Campbell, newly named Carter Chair, who introduced featured speaker, Stephen F. Austin University Professor of Executive Communication and Leadership in the MBA program, Dr. Tim Clipson. The topic of Clipson’s address was “Cracker Jacks, Kangaroos, and Snake Hunting: Life Lessons for Today’s Leaders.” Dr. Clipson identified leaders as “unique,” represented by different prizes in each Cracker Jack box. He emphasized leaders must aim high in their goals and aspirations, maintaining the “kangaroo” lessons of excitement for each new day, and developing the “Snape Hunter’s” sensitivity to the needs of people. “Leadership is about people,” he said, “nobody cares what you can do, or what you know, until they understand whether you care.” He was treated to a rousing applause from students in attendance.
Spotlight on Graduate Studies

From the Directors

MAcc and WebMAcc

With spring semester in our rearview mirror and the first semester of the WebMAcc in the books, faculty members are excited about the quality of students in this first class. As the next crop of applicants are selected and get ready to start in the fall, we continue to receive constant inquiries about the program from across the country. It has become obvious this new degree program is a hot commodity in the current business environment.

This year, for the first time in many years, accounting has fallen from the top spot in the National Association of Colleges and Employers’ ranking of majors with the most job offers. Fortunately, it only fell to number two. With that in mind, several new firms joined us at our career fair prior to our Accounting Day Awards Banquet on May 1 (see related article on page 5) at which graduate students received more than $30,000 in scholarships while networking with professionals representing firms from Miami, FL, to Washington, DC—another example of the success of our program and the support we receive from the firms and organizations that recruit our students. Thanks to all who attended this annual event!

Our Forensic Accounting Program continues to grow as we receive applications from, literally, around the world. This unique program has few peers, as does the Fraud and Forensic Education Conference, held annually (see related article on page 12).

The faculty and staff in the School of Accountancy continue to work to get our name out beyond Georgia and the Southeast. We appreciate your support and welcome your comments. Go ‘em, Accounting Eagles!

GREETINGS FROM GEORGIA SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY

MBA

Greetings from the MBA office! We are pleased to announce two upcoming events in the Savannah area.

The first, Savannah’s Women in Business Expo, will be held on Saturday, June 1, from noon until 4:30 p.m. at the Hyatt Regency ballroom on River Street. Go to http://www.sav womeninbusinessexpo.com/index.html for more information.

The second, for which COBA’s graduate business programs are the principal sponsor, is a kick-off event to introduce Launch SAVANNAH, a new council of the Savannah Chamber of Commerce, which will occur on June 13, 5:30 – 7:30, at the Ships of the Sea Maritime Museum’s North Garden. The event will foster an environment that attracts and retains young talent and serve as a resource for emerging leaders, ages 22-40, by providing professional development, civic and cultural community involvement, and engaging networking opportunities. We hope to see you there!

Online Graduate Business and IT Programs Ranked Among the Nation’s Best

Georgia Southern’s graduate business and information technology programs have once again been recognized by U.S. News & World Report for giving students flexible and quality online options to earn their college degrees. The two programs have been ranked in the list of “2014 Best Online Programs” in which U.S. News evaluated nearly 860 online programs at colleges and universities across the country, including best online graduate computer information technology programs (#15) and best online graduate business programs (#34).

“The ranking is an indication of our commitment to the college’s online graduate programs and expanding options available to best serve our students, most of whom are already in the work force,” said Bill Wells, dean of the College of Business. “Our online programs allow these students to continue working and pursuing additional education.”

In the U.S News survey, only degree-granting programs offered 100 percent online were considered in the rankings. They were assigned an overall numerical rank based upon student engagement, faculty credentials and training, and student services and technology. Admissions selectivity also factored into the rankings for all online master degree programs, and academic peer reputation was included in the calculations for engineering and business program rankings. The complete listing of “Best Online Programs” is available at http://www.usnews.com/education/online-education.

Melinda Fischer

Melinda Catherine Fischer (IT, 1996) a native of Bermuda, came to Georgia in the early 1990s. She married Rolf Alfredo Fischer almost 23 years ago, and they have three children, Alana (14), and twins, Luciana and Sebastian (4).

Melinda’s career began in 1997 with Cerner Corporation, a healthcare software developer headquartered in Kansas City, MO. As a systems engineer, installing VAX and AXP systems software in hospitals and laboratories, she worked from an Atlanta office until 2003, then relocated back to Bermuda.

Back home, her second career in insurance began as an underwriter for IPC Re, the Bermudan reinsurance specialist. Melinda completed her associate in claims (AIC) certification and enjoys her work in insurance.

While life revolves around work and family, Melinda enjoys swimming and snorkeling, which does not get any better than in Bermuda.

Tim Daiss

In his new career, he worked with the Statesboro Herald, Effingham Herald, Connect Savannah, Savannah Magazine, and several Atlanta publications, writing on political, national, and international news. His second book, Rebels, Saints & Sinners: Savannah’s Rich History and Colorful Personalities, was published in 2002.

Tim moved to Manila, Philippines, in 2006 as a contributing writer for Shanghai’s Xinxin Weekly, covering Philippine President Gloria Arroyo’s business trips to China. Later, he covered the Asia Pacific region for British and American news agencies and is currently based in Taipei, Taiwan, reporting for U.S.- and UK-based publications, including The Independent, the fourth largest newspaper in the UK.

Garry Spinks

As an account executive at Aon Hewitt, Garry served a number of midsize and FORTUNE 500 employers, public and private universities, colleges, and college consortiums.

He is a board member for the Georgia Foundation of Independent Colleges, a member of College and University Professional Association for Human Resources’ Corporate Advisory Council, and former board member for National Association of College and University Business Officers’ Corporate Council.

“Garry is a leader who understands higher education clients’ distinct needs and offers innovative solutions unique to their challenges,” confirms Chris Michalak, Aon Hewitt’s global chief commercial officer.

Aon Hewitt’s parent company, Aon (NYSE: AON) is a global provider of risk management, insurance, human resources, and outsourcing services. Through more than 61,000 colleagues worldwide, Aon empowers clients in more than 120 countries. It has been repeatedly identified as one of the world’s best by industry sources.

Cedric Henry

Cedric Henry (MGT, 1984) is the chief operations officer of Millennium Corporation, Arlington, VA. He along with his business partner Kevin Jennings, established the company in 2004 with the vision of offering world class, integrated business solutions for government and commercial enterprises.

Millennium Corporation has been recognized in 2010, 2011 and 2012 by INC 500 as one of the fastest growing, privately held companies in the nation; in 2010 and 2011 by Washington Technology Fast 50 and Fantastic 50 Virginia Businesses; and most recently, as a 2013 “Top Business” by DiversityBusiness.com.

Prior to co-founding Millennium Corporation, Cedric served 20 years in the U.S. Navy, where he developed his skills in naval operations and Department of Defense acquisition programs. He has held numerous leadership assignments, including senior supply officer for the USS Vreeland and USS Stephen W. Groves.
2013 Awards

The 2013 Awards of Excellence for faculty and staff were presented at a banquet and ceremony held at Spring Hill Suites Hospitality on April 19, 2013.

The William A. Freeman Professor of the Year
Mark D. Hanna

Dr. Mark Hanna is a highly respected colleague and has been nominated for National Teacher of the Year. From first year experience courses to doctoral seminars, Dr. Hanna engages teaching at every program level. His ability to communicate is demonstrated by his strong instructor ratings among students and proven record of published textbooks and scholarly articles. Dr. Hanna is a conscientious, collegial, and culturally-adept teacher and scholar. He also provides strong service contributions to the institution through his membership on the Faculty Senate and three standing committees in COBA. Dr. Hanna’s wisdom and servant-leadership are reflected by Augustus Hare: “The intellect of the wise is like glass; it admits the light of heaven and reflects it.” COBA pays tribute to Mark Hanna’s intellect and wisdom with this award.

The M. Albert Burke Faculty Fellowship Award
Kevin L. Eastman

Dr. Kevin Eastman, professor of finance, received his undergraduate degree from Bucknell University and his MA and PhD from the University of Pennsylvania’s Wharton School of Business. He joined Georgia Southern in 2007 from Florida State University’s College of Business, where he served as the Robert L. Adams Memorial Professor of Risk Management. He has published more than 30 scholarly articles and received numerous teaching awards, including the prestigious University Undergraduate Teaching Award at Florida State University.

The M. Albert Burke Faculty Fellowship Award
Kevin L. Eastman

The W. A. & Emma Lou Crider Award for Excellence in Teaching
Rodney W. Thomas, II

Rod Thomas is truly deserving of this year’s Crider Teaching Award. He has the enviable ability to bring the “real” world into the classroom and to make such an impression on students that they carry their lessons into life. As one student put it “Dr. Thomas really cares about not only how we do in the class, but he is also concerned with making sure we can get jobs, and he is extremely helpful with job questions!” His students have also strongly commended him on his tremendous mentorship and guidance outside of the classroom, often times going above and beyond what his job calls for. In the words of an alumus, “I may have graduated Georgia Southern University, but I still attend life classes taught by Dr. Thomas.”

The Albert Burke Faculty Fellowship Award
Kevin L. Eastman

The T. J. Morris, Jr., Faculty Award for Excellence in Research
Xinfang Wang

Xinfang (Joelyn) Wang was selected for the COBA Research Award due to high quality publications in several leading academic journals. In particular, Dr. Wang’s publication in Management Science demonstrates her commitment to the highest standards of research excellence. Management Science is widely regarded as one of the premier journals that spans across all business disciplines.

The Rutherford Award for Excellence in Teaching and Service in the MBA
Jacqueline K. Eastman

Dr. Jackie Eastman consistently receives the department’s highest student teaching evaluations, and students consistently note her preparation, knowledge of subject matter, and willingness to help students. She has received two teaching awards in the WebMBA program and published six peer-reviewed journal articles in the last year. Her service is exemplary, including external reviewer for the Masters of Arts in English Literature program, member of the COBA Strategic Planning Committee, member of the Marketing and Logistics Promotion and Tenure Committees, and chair of the COBA Student Retention, Graduation, and Instructional Resources Committee.

The Charles R. Gibbs Faculty Award
Paige S. Rutner

Dr. Paige Rutner is well-liked, respected by students, and highly praised for her willingness to clarify complex concepts, be helpful outside of class, and care about students. She is a team player—always helping ensure alignment between the IS curriculum and employer needs—and willing to accept the challenge of new course preparation. Her research methods course for the PhD program exemplifies the caring and collegial attitude the IS Department cherishes and strives to maintain.

Dabbs, Hickman, Hill and Cannon Accounting Scholar Award
Charles I. Harter

Dr. Chuck Harter is an all around role model for faculty in teaching, research, and service. He is a great collaborator and is instrumental in CPA review preparation for students. Dr. Harter provided excellent help in the AICSB accreditation process.

The Bank of America Faculty Award
Joseph S. Ruhl

Dr. Joe Ruhl is an associate professor of finance. He received his BBA from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and his PhD in risk management and insurance from The University of Georgia. He has published in the Journal of Risk and Insurance, Journal of Insurance Regulation, and Journal of Insurance Issues in his research areas of interest of asymmetric information, political risk, and corporate governance. Prior to joining Georgia Southern, he was an employee benefits consultant for Hewitt Associates, AON Consulting.

The Bank of America Faculty Award
Joseph S. Ruhl

The Charles R. Gibbs Faculty Award
Paige S. Rutner

Dr. Britt McKay is an excellent contributor in service, teaching, and research who is always willing to help a student or colleague.

Dr. Eddie Metrejean serves as a leader of Beta Alpha Psi and leads auditing instruction. He has carried a heavy load teaching while being a very strong researcher. He does a wonderful job preparing students for success in public accounting.

Dr. Levon Wilson is an excellent teacher and a prolific researcher. He has led the College of Business and the School of Accountancy in creating a culture of learning and assessment.

Britton A. McKay

The Brown & Williamson Faculty Award

Feruzan Irani-Williams

Feruzan Irani-Williams established herself as a top teacher in COBA last year by winning the Crider Teaching Award. With Dr. Irani-Williams, it is not so much what she does, but how she does it. She is an encourager. Her students continue to describe her as friendly and helpful. She co-authors with many colleagues. She provides significant and meaningful service at every level of our academic organization, including advisor to the Society for Human Resource Management student group and member of COBA’s Scholarship Committee; COBA’s Student Retention, Graduation, and Instructional Resources Committee; Southern Association of Colleges and Universities Assessment Committee; three faculty search committees; and COBA Dean’s search committee.

The Tomlinson & Bond Families Staff Award for Excellence

Mandy M. Scott

Mandy Murray Scott, a 2008 Valdosta State University alumna, worked in a Pensacola, FL, law firm until moving to Statesboro in 2010. Joining COBA as part-time temporary employee, she quickly became the department’s administrative secretary, assuming an expanded role in Finance & Economics’ operation and extracurricular activities, including the annual tailgate, COBA golf tournament, and awards banquet. Mrs. Scott’s most notable characteristic is her genuine concern and desire to help others.

Eagle Executive Society Members
Jarett Decker, deputy director, chief trial counsel, Division of Enforcement and Investigations, Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (PCAOB), was the lead keynote speaker for the 7th Annual Fraud and Forensic Accounting Education Conference, held at the J.W. Marriott Hotel in Atlanta’s Buckhead District in May. The PCAOB is a nonprofit, investor-protection corporation established by Congress to oversee the audits of public companies and ensure informative, accurate, and independent audit reports. The PCAOB also oversees the audits of broker-dealers, including compliance reports filed pursuant to federal securities laws, to promote investor protection. Decker oversees the PCAOB litigation program.

Prior to joining the PCAOB in August 2006, Mr. Decker served in the Chicago office of the Securities and Exchange Commission as senior trial counsel in the Division of Enforcement. There, he prosecuted auditing, financial fraud, registration, and market manipulation cases. Mr. Decker has 14 years prior experience in private law practice, specializing in securities litigation and white-collar criminal defense. He earned a BA from the College of William & Mary and a JD from the University of Michigan Law School. He is an attorney licensed in Washington, DC, and a certified public accountant licensed in Illinois and Virginia.

The three day conference featured five keynote addresses, including Decker, Paul L. Howard, Jr., Fulton County district attorney; Guy Gebhardt, acting U.S trustee for Region 21, including Georgia, Florida, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands; Colonel Barry Hensley, retired, vice president, Counter Threat Unit, SecureWorks; and Victor Hartman, JD, CPA, CFE, chief division counsel, FBI, Atlanta.

More than 150 registrants and 37 speakers presented The Perils of E-Filing, Not-for-Profit/Charity Fraud, Evidential Discovery on Mobile Devices, Damage Assessment Models, Data Analytics as an Audit Tool, Intellectual Property Valuation, Money Laundering and Effective Prosecution, Real Estate Financing Fraud, Fraud Risks in Cloud Computing, and Standards of Professional Conduct, or Ethics.

Thirty-three breakout sessions and five keynote presentations were available to satisfy up to 20 hours of CPE to include two hours of ethics-based training. The meals, breaks, and social hours offered opportunities to interact with a wide scope of participants attending the conference. More information, including a complete agenda, may be found at http://www.pkm.com/fraudconference/information.php.

The annual event is sponsored by the accounting firm Porter Keadle Moore, LLC, and hosted by COBA’s Center for Forensic Studies in Accounting. Previously, the conference has been held in Statesboro, Savannah, Charleston, SC, and Atlanta. The Atlanta-based Porter Keadle Moore, founded as a community-bank accounting firm in 1977, now represents corporations nation-wide in financial, insurance, technology, biological sciences, and government service arenas. It has been ranked #1 among mid-sized firms in the country in Accounting Today magazine and the Best Companies Group’s Best Places of Employment in the Accounting Industry for 2012. H. Philip Moore, Jr. (ACCT, 1978), managing partner, is a COBA alumnus and longtime Georgia Southern supporter.

The School of Accountancy at Georgia Southern University is AACSB accredited. This accreditation supports the national distinction of the School’s quality higher education programs consisting of an interdisciplinary undergraduate level fraud examination minor as well as a graduate level forensic accounting concentration. The Journal of Forensic Studies in Accounting and Business, published by the School of Accountancy, has been accepted as a peer-reviewed journal by Cabell’s Directory of Publishing Opportunities. Conference features and presentations are eligible for submission to the editorial board for publishing consideration.

Cory Wilson

Cory Wilson (Student, KA) passed away on January 17, 2013. Cory was a junior majoring in management.

Virgil L. Hicks (MGT 1978), Statesboro, died January 6, 2013.

Ernestine “Teny” NeSmith Gibbs (BS, 1942), Evans, died on May 6, 2013.
In May, a retirement reception honoring Dr. William W. “Bill” McCartney, professor emeritus of management, celebrated his 16 years of service to COBA and Georgia Southern.

Dr. McCartney received a BIM from Auburn, an MBA from Sanford, and a PhD from Louisiana State University. He began his academic career at Western Kentucky and moved to University of Central Florida before coming to Georgia Southern as chair of the Management Department in August 1991. He left academia for executive positions in the health services industry for six years and, then, returned to COBA as the inaugural W. E. Carter Distinguished Chair of Business Leadership. During his tenure, Dr. McCartney was instrumental in creating the COBA Student Leadership council, serving as a board member and mentor for “Leadership Southeast Georgia,” publishing a monthly “Lessons in Leadership” column for the Savannah Business Report and Journal, and delivering more than 100 leadership and management development training programs in the region. He also served as editor of the Southern Business Review, the business journal that Georgia Southern has published continuously for 37 years.

Dr. McCartney has served as a consultant to Westinghouse Electric, Sears, the Institute for Financial Education, and the Florida Bankers Association. He and his wife, Kay, have two sons, Bill and Patrick. They reside in Savannah and enjoy summers in Blairsville, where the air is cooler, and they are less engaged.

7th Annual Community Bank Symposium

Georgia Southern’s Center for Excellence in Financial Services and the Georgia Bankers Association hosted the Seventh Annual Southeastern Community Bank Symposium at the Forest Heights Country Club on March 27. More than 100 banking professionals attended from 27 banks in Southeast Georgia, as well as Macon, Augusta, and Atlanta, including 32 CEOs and 27 CFOs. Speakers included Joe Brannen, president and CEO of the Georgia Bankers Association; Zeiger Tutterow, economist with Mercer University; Brad Washburn, mortgage compliance advisor with Steve H. Powell and Co.; Sal Inserra, partner with Crowe Horwath, LLP, strategic advisors; Jonathan High tower, partner with Bryan Cave, LLP, financial institutions lawyers; and an all-star keynote regulatory panel of Thomas Dujenski, southeastern regional director, FDIC; Robert Braswell, commissioner, Georgia Department of Banking and Finance; and Michael Johnson, senior vice president, Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta.

Under a joint marketing agreement between the Georgia Bankers Association and Center for Excellence in Financial Services, BANKSTAT, the subscription-based service offering regional and peer group comparative financial performance and risk profiles for community banks in Southeast Georgia, is being offered statewide. At the symposium, a special 2012 BANKSTAT Georgia Bankers Group Performance Comparison report was distributed to all attendees.

The annual symposium is organized and managed by Edward H. Sibbald, director of the Center for Excellence in Financial Services and BB&T Executive in Residence. He was capably assisted by student ambassadors Laura Cooper, MBA graduate assistant, and undergraduate finance and banking majors Katherine Harris, Jared Holley, and Zane El-Shami, Mark Donato. COBA’s new webmaster, provided technical support.

The Georgia Southern University City Campus, circa 2011, is located in Downtown Statesboro and committed to creating jobs in the region and helping area businesses grow through its economic research, policy analysis, mentorship programs, and course offerings. The University, along with the City of Statesboro and the Downtown Statesboro Development Authority, has entered into an agreement that will expand the City Campus facilities over the next three years.

The expansion will effectively combine the dynamic aspects of entrepreneurship and innovation with the sequential process of commercialization. In doing so, a university-based business incubator and Digital Fabrication Laboratory will be developed and housed in current and adjacent facilities. The incubator and fab lab will spur innovation, offer capital investment opportunity for venturors and investors, and help fuel the regional economy through creation of new business opportunity. By capitalizing on the intellectual assets of the College of Business and Georgia Southern, the incubator will build value through “proof of concept” centers that validate products and business ideas, greatly contributing to a firm’s ability to generate revenue and secure capital.

The “fab lab concept” is a work product of Dr. Neil Gershenfeld at MIT. It evolves as a way to bring fabrication to the masses. The goal is to develop a prototype manufacturing assistance center, similar to the MIT Fab Labs. The facility will contain state-of-the-art 3-D printers, plasma cutters, and other electronic finishing equipment. This project will be in conjunction with the Allen E. Paulson College of Engineering and Information Technology and is being funded in part by the City of Statesboro and several grants.

A recent project of City Campus, presented by the Bureau of Business Research and Economic Development (BBRED) is a new annual series, known as ProBld. The five-week educational series is aimed at assisting area businesses interested in competing for contracts with large private companies, as well as local, state, and federal governments. Building on previous successes of ProBld, monthly sessions will be held at City Campus, featuring a variety of procurement entities from the public and private sectors. Participants learn about the types of services managed and contracted by each agency, policies for doing business, certification and application requirements, bidding processes, and upcoming requests for proposal (RFPs) in the region. For more information about these or other City Campus programs, please contact Joy West at (912) 478-0872.

Looking forward, BBRED recently secured a three-year grant from the North American Development Bank which will fund community development research in Jeff Davis, Telfair, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Wilkes counties. The grant indenture specifically provides funding to start the Georgia’s Enterprise Network for Innovation (GENIE) project. GENIE will link City Campus and communities outside of Statesboro with a host of resources and services aimed at mentoring entrepreneurs who are starting a business and connecting business leaders who are interested in growing their business with new educational resources and training opportunities. These resources are open to regional business leaders in the five-county area and beyond. To see how your organization could benefit from GENIE, please check out the BBRED website at www.bbred.org.

In Memory of Cory Wilson, a KA Gentleman

In May, COBA was presented an automated external defibrillator by the family of Cory Wilson, junior management major who collapsed in class and died on January 17, the first week of spring semester. “We are here today because of a tragedy the Wilson family has turned into a positive. They are looking forward instead of backward. Their hope, and ours, is this defibrillator will help save a life in the future,” said COBA Dean Bill Wells.

Kenny and Lisa Wilson, Cory’s parents, Savannah, along with family members, made the donation in memory of their 21-year-old son to increase awareness of CPR training and the availability of defibrillators. Lisa, who is a school nurse, affirmed, “It is our hope that this defibrillator, placed here in Cory’s memory, will one day serve as a lifesaver for another student.”

The defibrillator is a portable electronic device that can be used by individuals without medical training in a cardiac emergency. It automatically diagnoses and provides electroshock, as needed, for potentially life-threatening cardiac arrhythmias, offering simple visual and audio commands for users. It was provided through the support of Mike Castleman and Rob Williams (FIN, 1996) of Cardiac Science and Janet Prince of School Health, who were on hand to present the device to COBA and University officials.

Dr. Brooks Keel, president of Georgia Southern was on hand for the ceremony and echoed Dean Wells’s remarks, “This represents the embodiment of Eagle Nation as a family. When tragedy strikes, a family comes together to support one another and raise awareness about issues that affect family. We come together today, in support of the Wilson family and to take action, hopefully, to prevent something like this from ever happening again.”
