On Monday, Dec. 1, the University Newsroom will be updated with a Faculty News page, a designated area for faculty members to display their achievements, individual news and media recognition stories.

To ensure news is relevant to external audiences, a news category must be designated in your college's WordPress site to be used for this purpose.

To create a new category, login to your website and go to News-->Categories. The category slug should be "faculty-highlights" so there's no confusion about which RSS feed to use. Once you've created the category, remember to select it when posting faculty news, achievements, journal publications, etc., so it will appear in the Newsroom. This will not affect how news displays on your college site. For more information or web support, contact University Web Team Manager Rebekah Hickey by emailing RHickey@georgiasouthern.edu.
