I HEART SUMMER

Georgia Southern University is expanding its online education and giving Georgia and out-of-state college students more flexibility and options to help them earn their college degrees on time.

This summer, the University is offering more than 300 fully online classes to undergraduate and graduate students, a new record for us.

Whether students are planning to go home for the summer or working a full-time job, they can get ahead or take a class that they may not have been able to get during the regular school year.

If you are an alumnus and want to start your graduate degree or pursue another undergraduate degree, the summer is a great time to get started.

Georgia Southern Names New Men's Basketball Coach

This past week I had the privilege of joining Athletics Director Tom Kleinlein as Georgia Southern announced the hiring of Mark Byington as our new men's basketball coach. Coach Byington joins Georgia Southern from Virginia Tech where he served as an assistant coach this past season. No stranger to Georgia Southern, Mark spent nine seasons as an assistant coach at Southern Conference rival College of Charleston, including seven as Bobby Cremins' top assistant.

I'm excited to welcome Coach Byington to Georgia Southern.

Georgia Southern Launches Tuition Payment Plan

Georgia Southern University has announced that it will now provide its students and families with the option to pay for college through a unique payment plan – all with the goal of making college more affordable.

Georgia Southern is teaming with Nelnet Business Solutions to provide students with the ability to pay tuition and fees over time. Students and/or their parents are now able to enroll in the new program which offers easy online enrollment, flexible payment options and no interest.

So how does it work? Students enroll

Smalley is a clinical psychologist whose research interests include rural mental health, rural health disparities, risk-taking behavior and gender roles. He also has clinical experience in university counseling centers. A behavioral epidemiologist, Warren's research includes HIV prevention and use of the Internet and emerging technologies in study recruitment and intervention delivery.

Both have published numerous scientific articles on the impact of obesity on children and, in their text, Always the Fat Kid—described as a clarion call for parents—offer the message that being overweight in youth is not a disease, but the result of poor lifestyle choices. The two appeared on Tavis Smiley earlier this week. Watch Here

Band was invited to be part of opening night with the Atlanta Braves. The band marched onto Turner Field and performed this past Monday as the Braves defeated the Philadelphia Phillies to begin the 2013 season.

The band performed songs from various Southern Pride shows from this past season including some Motown selections as well as the Georgia Southern fight song. Then after playing, members of Southern Pride lined up and formed a tunnel that the Braves ran through and onto the field as the 2013 team was introduced.

This is just the latest high-profile performance for Southern Pride. Two weeks ago, four drummers joined Georgia Southern alumnae and singer Elizabeth Cook for her appearance on the Late Show with David Letterman.

in the program at a cost of $50 per semester. They then pay 60 percent of their bill upfront and then will have two additional months to pay the remaining 40 percent.

The payment plan will cover the cost of tuition, student fees, meal plans and on-campus housing for each semester/term. In addition to being able to enroll online, the plan also offers flexible payment options including automatic bank payments and credit and debit card payments including American Express, Discover and MasterCard.

Students or families may finance up to $5,500 per semester using Nelnet.

We are always looking for new ways to make college more affordable for both our in and out-of- state students. This new plan will offer students and/or their parents an additional option to spread their payments out to help make college more affordable.
