My Guardian Angel Second Runner up at 2016 FastPitch

March 18, 2016

On March 4, two dozen entrepreneurs pitched their businesses to a panel of six judges and more than 100 audience members at the Creative Coast's Annual FastPitch event. Three Georgia Southern student teams pitched their ideas from 3 Day Startup (3DS). Once again, Layne Livingston delivered a flawless pitch for My Guardian Angel and fielded questions from the judges and audience members like a pro. Her performance landed the team second runner up overall.

Layne's team from 3DS joined her during networking hours to talk about how the My Guardian Angel child safety seat accessory works. Computer science major Thomas Carter even created a video demonstrating the device for the team's display. The team was very supportive and all members waited together in anticipation for the final scores.

Eric Degen, ChapterEase, and Chase Chalker, LFG, also participated in the student entrepreneur category. ChapterEase engaged event-goers by collecting business cards for a t-shirt drawing. ChapterEase plans to use those connections as mentors, reaching out for advice and guidance as they grow.
