Administrative/Biographical History (2.7): Previously called University Relations, the Department of Marketing and Communications changed its name in 2009 as a new department head, Brenda Forbis, started. The department continues to be responsible for major campus publications, such as The Compass, recruiting tools, advertising and publicity for the University. During 2009 Marketing and Communications added responsibility for the design of the University’s website and did a major redesign of the website. Katherine Arntzen serves as photographer for the department, and as time allows, takes photographs on request for the larger campus community. Ms. Arntzen has served as University Photographer since 2005.
