Ken Wood: Argonauts

Ken Wood combines complex color relations with bold, sweeping gestures to explore the unfolding relations of space, shape, and color. This exhibition features prints from the Argonauts Quarto, a new series that integrates Wood's long-standing interest in iterations of color and shape with various types of temporal and conceptual constraint—a combination that lends the work a powerful urgency.

Kench Lott: Mindful Escapism Reception: Nov. 30, 5 PM

Working intuitively with such basic materials as hollow steel piping and solid steel rods, Kench Lott creates visual paradoxes in order to generate a mindful form of escapism. Lott's intent with these works is to divert the viewer's attention away from the distractions of society by challenging their understanding of space and depth.
