Stuff the Bus Benefits Local Community

November 19, 2014

STATESBORO, Ga. –First Transit, Georgia Southern University’s bus transit system, is teaming up with the University Police Department (UPD) and the Statesboro Mall for the annual “Stuff the Bus” program on Saturday, Nov. 22. Santa Clause will be among the list of guests to attend the event.

The Stuff the Bus program supports local families in need through donated items ranging from school supplies, clothing materials, and toys. Donated toys will benefit Toys for Tots, a program designed to help less fortunate families and children in the local community have a joyful holiday.

Sponsored by Chick-fil- A, the Noerr Programs, First Transit, and Georgia Southern University, the event is expected to raise awareness of those who are less fortunate and provide support to the families who need it most.

Community members that would like to donate should bring their items to the check-in table located in the Statesboro Mall starting at 11 a.m. Santa will also arrive at 11 a.m. to help with the Stuff the Bus program and for families and children who would like a photograph.

For more information and for a listing of the hours of operation for the Statesboro Mall, please visit www.statesboromall.com.
