Data Science at Georgia Southern

June 16, 2015

The Department of Information Technology at Georgia Southern University has created a new program to prepare students for the role of data scientist. The B.S. in Information Technology with a Concentration in Data Science offers an innovative, hands-on curriculum with coursework in data mining, data analytics, visualization, data management, programming and a capstone experience in big data. The new program was developed by Dr. Cheryl Aasheim, Professor of Information Technology. The program will admit students beginning fall of 2016.
