Biographical/Historical Note Continued

Henry Ludlow Ashmore was born July 4th 1920 and raised in Slopchoppy, FL. He was married to Clarice Langston in 1946. They had two children, Randon and Jerri. Dr. Ashmore received all of his degrees from the University of Florida, ending with a Doctorate in Education in 1950. Between 1950 and 1953 Dr.

Ashmore was Coordinator of Student Teaching at Georgia Southern College in Statesboro, GA. Dr. Ashmore became President of Pensacola Junior College in 1954 and remained in that position until he joined the faculty of Armstrong College of Savannah as President in 1964. Active in many professional associations, Dr. Ashmore was the Secretary of the Executive Council and College Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) and chairman of numerous committees of SACS to accredit colleges. Dr. Ashmore was a member of many civic groups in Savannah including the Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts, Candler Hospital, G.E.A. and Y.M.C.A. After he retired from the College in 1982, Dr. Ashmore was associate and interim director of SAC's Commission on Colleges until 1991. Dr. Ashmore died on Oct. 13 1995 in Athens GA.

Henry Ashmore's administration oversaw Armstrong's transformation from a 2 year to 4 year college and the necessary expansion of the its physical facilities and educational programs. The period saw the construction of a new campus, four additional buildings and several renovations of existing buildings. The number of degrees, majors and courses offered increased greatly in the health professions, liberal arts and education. Dr. Ashmore summed up the College's expansion in a farewell article in The Inkwell. "It has been my pleasure to see the college develop these new programs, to provide leadership in the University System of Georgia,...to see the faculty grow from approximately 15-16 to 160 and to see the student body grow from approximately 500 to 3,000." (May 28, 1982, p. 3)

During this period the College confronted the desegregation of higher education in the South, particularly court ordered mandates administered through the U.S. Dept of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). Desegregation mandates influenced the Joint Graduate Program (1971-1978), prompted a HEW duplication committee (1973-1975) and culminated in the exchange of programs between Savannah State University and Armstrong in 1979. Throughout Ashmore's tenure and after, the merger of Armstrong State and Savannah State was discussed in meetings and public hearings.

Scope and Content Note:

The records fully document Dr. Ashmore's administration of the College, his work with educational organizations, civic groups and his personal correspondence. Dr. Ashmore's correspondence with Armstrong administrators, faculty, Chancellor George Simpson, and other university system officials form the bulk of the record. The record group documents the College's and University System's responses to directives from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to desegregate the University System of Georgia which began circa 1971 and lasted through Ashmore's administration.

While the bulk dates of the records are 1962-1982, the Ashmore Papers contain records dated from 1920-1989. Some records are from earlier periods in the College's history. Series 1/3 under "faculty" includes President Forman Hawes' correspondence with faculty members. Series 1/3, "Alumni Association" includes minutes and correspondence of the Alumni Association from 1942. Annual reports, Student Publications, publicity materials and newspaper clippings from the earlier history of the College are found in Series Three.

Henry Ashmore left his files intact in the President's Office when he retired in 1982. The files were moved to storage on campus. The boxes were labeled and sealed and some work on their arrangement had been done. Eventually Dr. Janet Stone, a professor in Armstrong's History Department, rescued the records from storage in order to use them in writing a history of the University. With no place on campus to work on them, the records were housed at the Georgia Historical Society for a time. There, the records were organized (they were in some disarray) by Dr. Stone and her assistant. Each box was given a number and box listings were created. The box numbers and container lists have been maintained and incorporated into the present arrangement. The boxes were stored in Janet Stone's office until being moved into the Lane Library in 1999 and accessioned into the University Archives. Several more boxes of Ashmore records were relocated from storage to the University Archives in 1999. All of Henry Ashmore's Armstrong records are now housed the University Archives, arranged and described in this finding aid.

Organization and Arrangement:Administrative Records of Henry Ashmore. (1920-1989, bulk 1965-1982) 48 linear feet.

Correspondence, memos, reports, publications of the College, newspaper clippings, speeches and minutes of meetings of Henry Ashmore, President of the College from 1964-1982. Includes correspondence of Foreman Hawes, President, 1943-1964, and records of Robert Burnett, during his Vice Presidency, 1980-1982. The records are arranged into three series:

Series One: Correspondence

Series Two: Minutes of Meetings

Series Three: Miscellaneous

Notes:

Dyches and other court cases files, formerly confidential added to finding aid 2024, p. 18 below.

Ashmore's files about desegregation are described in "Discovering Desegregation at Armstrong" a topical finding aid to material from various record groups in the University Archives. Desegregation records from Ashmore's administrative files are in Boxes 40-42 also described below.

Administrative records of the Assistant to the President and Director of Development, 1970-1982 (5 linear ft.) are described at the end of Ashmore's finding aid.

Series One: Correspondence. (1920-1989, bulk 1965-1982) 35 linear feet. Correspondence with administrators of ASC, other colleges, University System Officials and Professional Associations form the bulk of this series. Ashmore's correspondence with faculty and students and his personal correspondence are also significant. Series includes President Hawes' correspondence with faculty hired during Hawes' administration and still employed during Ashmore's. Reports, speeches, policy documents, photographs and minutes of meetings are also found here. All aspects of the College are documented: construction of the new campus, desegregation, and development of new programs. A significant set of records documents the actions taken in response to the Department of Health Education and Welfare's directive (starting in 1973) to desegregate the University System of Georgia, including the Joint Graduate Program with Savannah State, the HEW Duplication Committee and merger talks. Desegregation issues are found throughout Ashmore's correspondence, but see especially series 1/3 under "Desegregation" and "Graduate Programs, Joint." Also of interest is Ashmore's correspondence with researcher David Reisman about the role of the college president. The College's censure by the American Association of University Professors, which began in 1972 over the Dyches case, is documented. The series is divided into the four sub-series:

1/1 General Correspondence

1/2 Departmental, Administrator and Committee, by date

1/3 Departmental and Topical, alphabetically

1/4 University System

1/1 General Correspondence: General correspondence, subject files of correspondence and personal correspondence are found here. Also Ashmore's correspondence with professional associations and Georgia Southern University.
