Today is Food Day!

Food Day of No Impact Week focuses on sustainable food choices. Did you know that the typical American meal travels 1,500 miles from farm to plate? Cut those 'food miles' and associated fossil fuel costs by shopping at our Campus Farmers Market Food Fest today - 4-6:30pm at the Williams Center Plaza (between Williams Center and Herty)

Remember: free No Impact Week t-shirts will be available to the first 40+ registered participants at each event while supplies last! Encourage your friends and family to register and participate as well. Click here for the full schedule of events.

Plan ahead to:

-BIKE TO CAMPUS on Friday for Transportation Day, and cycle on a leisurely Community Bike Ride to favorite bike paths in the area - meet at the rotunda at 1pm

Don't miss today's events!

Today's activities are as follows:
