Department of Literature News

Georgia Southern University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/literature-news-online

This article is brought to you for free and open access by the Literature, Department of, Publications at Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. It has been accepted for inclusion in Literature News by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@georgiasouthern.edu.
#FacultyFridays: Q & A with Dr. Olivia Carr Edenfield

March 27, 2020

We’ll be bringing #FacultyFridays Q & A to you once a month this semester. We think our professors are pretty great, and we want to share them with you all. But, this isn’t your typical interview or Q & A session. We want to shed a little insight into some of their quirks or deepest desires (like, what’s their most coveted superpower?)

Today’s guest is Dr. Olivia Carr Edenfield!

During the zombie apocalypse, what’s one book, poem, movie, play, or short story we would be surprised you’re taking with you?

Charlotte’s Web: for a well-told story about the importance of friendship.

If you could have dinner and a drink with any author, thinker, or critic, what are you having for dinner? What are you drinking? And why this person?

I would have oysters and beer with Andre Dubus. I have some questions I would like to ask him...

What profession other than yours would you like to attempt?

Cemetery Caretaker

What’s your superpower: invisibility, flying, or reading people’s minds? Why?

Babel Fish Brain: the handy ability to understand every language.

We hope you enjoyed today’s Q&A!

Posted in Department of Literature Blog