ABOUT THE COLLECTION

Biographical History: Lamar Dodd (1909-1996) was a painter and educator born in Fairburn, Georgia and raised in LaGrange, Georgia. Dodd enrolled at the Art Students League in New York City, where his teachers were Boardman Robinson and Richard Lahey. He was equally influenced by the teachings of George Luks, an artist associated with the Ashcan School, as well as John Steuart Curry and Thomas Hart Benton, American Scene artists. Dodd joined the faculty at the University of Georgia in 1937. Within three years he had consolidated all teaching of the visual arts into one department and had even enrolled the first graduate students in a master's program. The department grew quickly and, thanks to his efforts, is today one of the largest, most comprehensive art schools in the United States. By the early sixties, his works had been exhibited in major museums throughout the world and are represented in many permanent collections including the prestigious Metropolitan Museum of Art (MOMA) and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). New Georgia Encyclopedia
