GEECHEE

"IF I KNEW BACK THEN
ALL THE THINGS I KNOW
TODAY"

"I WOULD NOT HAVE CHANGED ONE HOUR

BECAUSE I LEARNED SO MUCH FROM MY MISTAKES"

“THIS IS THE TIME
THIS IS THE MOMENT
WE’VE WAITED SO LONG
JUST TO BE STANDING HERE”

"WE HAD A DREAM
WE MADE IT HAPPEN"

"NOBODY BELIEVED THAT WE COULD GET THIS FAR AND NOW, I KNOW THAT THIS IS OUR TIME"

“STAYING TOGETHER, IT
AIN'T EASY

IN A WORLD THAT CHANGES SO FAST”

"BUT TAKE A LOOK AROUND,
OUR FEET ARE SQUARELY ON THE GROUND"

“AND IT SEEMS SO CLEAR
I KNOW THIS IS GOING TO BE OUR YEAR”

“WE’LL FORGET ABOUT THE PAIN AND SORROW

AND WE’LL FORGET ABOUT THE TIMES WE FAILED”

“THIS IS THE TIME
THIS IS THE MOMENT
WE’VE WAITED SO LONG
JUST TO BE STANDING HERE”

"WE HAD A DREAM
WE MADE IT HAPPEN
NOBODY BELIEVED THAT WE COULD GET THIS FAR

AND NOW I KNOW THAT . . .
THIS IS OUR TIME"

Cars were made from various light weight materials since speed and distance was the goal. The object of the competition was to construct a small car that would climb a prepared ramp the quickest and to the greatest distance. This event delighted both those ASC students who participated in the competition and those students who cheered the young inventors on.

GEECHEE

Many a long night were spent up in the Geechee room this year trying to make one deadline after another. At times it became very frustrating. Ideas sometimes ran short, many layouts did not come together as planned and fatigue ran rampant. The sometimes dedicated staffers worked to make sure this annual would be the best you ever owned. But times weren't all bad. Some of the best times of the year were spent up in the Geechee office. Some of those memories came in the form of quotes that became everyday occurrences, such as . . . "Lee, do we have a meeting today?" "Ok girls, deadline parties all next week!" "No, Lydia, we can't take a major road trip." "Class? SKIP, SKIP, SKIP!" "Any ideas for the Geechee picture?" "Hey, Rob, how 'bout a bite of your flounder?" "Kelly and Jules, control your instincts!" "So what

JEFF JUSTICE

Splitting of the magic hanky!

In April, Jeff Justice was one of many comedy acts that the college Union Board presented in its Spring Programming. Jeff, considered to be one of the better comics in the business kept the crowd rolling with his original humor and hilarious antics with his "pet" raccoon Rocky. Even through technical difficulties he was able to keep the students in a roar. Jeffs' performance was just one of many entertaining events presented by CUB to break the monotony of college life.

Jeff and Rocky prepare for a dangerous stunt.

The SHADY GROVE BAND

Throughout the spring, students and faculty were entertained with a little humor and a bit of culture. On March 15th, students were somewhat prepared for the long St. Patrick's Day weekend with music from the bluegrass band Shady Grove. April 20th saw the arrival of the "We Can Make You Laugh" team. Some students succeeded in earning a few bucks by being able to stifle a laugh — or a smile.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

ASC!!!

Serving of the birthday cake.

"I be double-parked outside in the yellow zone."

"Two is better than one."

Everyone loves a birthday celebration and celebrating Armstrongs' Birthday was no exception. To help celebrate the 52nd birthday, CUB brought in Pinsky and Gray. P.G., as they were affectionately known, is one of the best comedy teams on the college/nightclub circuit. P.G. showed the students that they truly earned to be called one of the best. With P.G. doing comic skits of a frenchman in a southern cafe and of a redneck on Broadway as well as other humorous antics it was a very successful Birthday Celebration.

Pinsky and Gray show why they are one of the best.

GENE COTTON

In May the soft sounds of Gene Cotton gave Armstrong students a chance to relax from the doldrums of classes. Genes' excellent guitar and piano playing rang through MCCs' patio with a professional grace. Gene, a national recording artist with such hits as "Shine On", "Like A Sunday", and "Eighties State of Mind", entertained a crowd that in the end truly enjoyed the afternoon. And though there was a threat of rain looming overhead, Gene and the ASC students felt the show was a success.

ASC-GSC LEADERSHIP RETREAT

Future Leaders in Action

Yea Babe!

Leadership. Teamwork. Comradie. Cooperation. These qualities were all highlighted during the Armstrong State College-Georgia Southern College Leadership Retreat held September 26 and 27 at the Epworth Methodist retreat on St. Simon's Island. Student leaders representing different organizations from the two colleges met to improve on their leadership skills and to show goodwill among the two schools.

When the ASC-GSC contingents arrived, they quickly went through a series of "get acquainted" exercises, to ease the tension in the air that always arises when people meet for the first time. After the acquaintance exercises, the students divided up into four separate groups. Each group then went through a strenuous obstacle course composed of delimmias designed to make the teams work together as a unit and to cooperate with each other under stress. But the weekend wasn't all fun and games: several "classroom" sessions were held in which the students learned to deal with stress and criticism as well as how to develop strong leadership characteristics and improve on the weaker ones. Students were then given situational leadership problems in which they were to solve by role playing.

After the final classroom sessions, the students heard ASC's Vice-President of Student Affairs, Dr. Joe Buck, give them some final tips on the handling of leadership roles. The effectiveness of the weekend goes without saying: the information gathered, the teamwork and cooperation experienced will prove useful in the future endeavors of the students.

No, I DON't know why I'm here!

Teamwork.

Leadership.

Comradie.

LET THE GAMES BEGIN

The second annual ArmstrongFest was indeed a festival. The two day event offered a variety of entertainment suitable for all ages. The choices of things to do and see ranged from sporting events to carnival games to dancing and gymnastics exhibitions.

This year's festival served a dual purpose in that it raised money for the ASC Alumni Association and the American Cancer Society. A 1984 Mercury Lynx was given away by raffle, and all profits from ticket sales were donated to the fight against cancer.

Some of the sponsors contributing to the event included Arby's, Coca-Cola, S.E.P.C.O., Dominos Pizza, and Banker's First.

Some came to get their face painted, some came for the activities.

Some came for the glory, while others just came along for the ride.

IT'S SHOOTING TIME!

Many ASC students "Got Shot" back in October. The shy and the not-so-shy all seemed to show up at noon to "Get Shot" for the year-book. All though there were no fatalities reported in the shootings there were a few blinding moments when the flashes exploded. The photography, courtesy of Windsong turned out to be a record success with a number of students showing up to get "Blown Away."

FOR BLACK TIE

Tuxedos and togas, bunnies and the band — October 2nd brought out these and much more. Held at the Elk's Lodge, the ASC First Annual Creative Black Tie Event proved to be a success in raising money for the American Cancer Society.

The whole idea of the evening was to wear anything (that's right, anything) as long as a black tie was worn. A 1984 Ford Lynx was raffled off to one lucky person and numerous door prizes were given. All in all, everyone had an eventful night, jammin' down to "FM" with songs such as "Louie, Louie", "Mony, Mony", and many others. Sadly, the stroke of midnight called, but everyone continued to party long after the dance had ended.

This year's pageant was divided into four divisions: talent, evening gown, swimsuit, and personal interview. This year's talent competition was tough as Armstrong has seemingly never possessed such a gifted group of contestants. While Traci McKengree took home the swimsuit trophy, Kinsey Smith won the talent competition with a self-choreographed ballet routine to Ray Lynch's "Celestial Sodapop."

Michelle Jenkins charms the audience with "Let Us Rejoice."

The graceful dancing of Kinsey Smith captivates the crowd.

The second runner-up was Lisa Hamilton. This pretty blonde fresh man sang a tune she first heard on "Moonlighting." The first runner-up was Alicia Coleman, who was no stranger to the Miss ASC pageant. The energetic sophomore performed a baton-twirling exhibition in a tribute to America. The ASC Fine Arts Center was the sight of a brilliant laser light and music extravaganza on November 14. Students and non-students alike from all over Coastal Empire came out in droves as both shows were sold out. The rock faithful were captivated for 45 minutes as songs from such bands as Genesis, The Police, and Led Zepelin came to life through flashes of lasers that pranced and pulsed through the darkened auditorium. # SALVADOR DALI

Between the weeks of November 3 and 27 the Armstrong State College Fine Arts Gallery proudly displayed the Etchings and Lithographs of famous painter, Salvador Dali. Mr. Dali was born in Spain in 1904 and has left his mark upon the world of art with his paintings, illustrations and costume designs. Many of the famous artist's works were shown off during the exhibit and Dali's fans got the unique chance to view some of his best pieces. Those who did not know of Salvador Dali before the exhibit surely knew of him after. This show was just one of the many exhibits brought to the Fine Arts Gallery for the public's viewing pleasure this year.

Everyone who viewed the exhibit seemed to be fascinated by Dali's works.

The ASC Fine Arts Center is home for many interesting exhibits at least for awhile.

Wiener Leben ("Viennese Life")

Armstrong and the surrounding Savannah community received a special treat when the world-famous Vienna Choir boys performed in the ASC Fine Arts Auditorium compliments of the College Union Board. The night of January 23 was filled with the sounds of classical music from such composers as Franz Schubert, Giovanni de Palestrina, and Robert Schumann. The choir also performed the operetta Weiner Leben ("Viennese Life") by Johann Strauss. The costuming and acting was excellent considering the fact that the average pre-pubescent boy wouldn't think of wearing a wig or dress. As an encore the chorus surprised the locals with their rendition of "Dixie". All-in-all it was a very special evening for Armstrong.

ALEX COLE

TIM SETTIMI

LAUGH YOUR ASC OFF!

If you heard someone choking on a chicken leg or spitting up a can of Coke last January 11, it was elicited by one of the nation's top campus comedians. Not since the Alex Cole show back in the winter of '87 has the student body of ASC laughed so hard. Well Alex Cole did it again when he paid a return visit to the MCC on the 11th made possible by CUB. Cole captivated the packed cafeteria with jokes on everything from mother nature to fast-food joints.

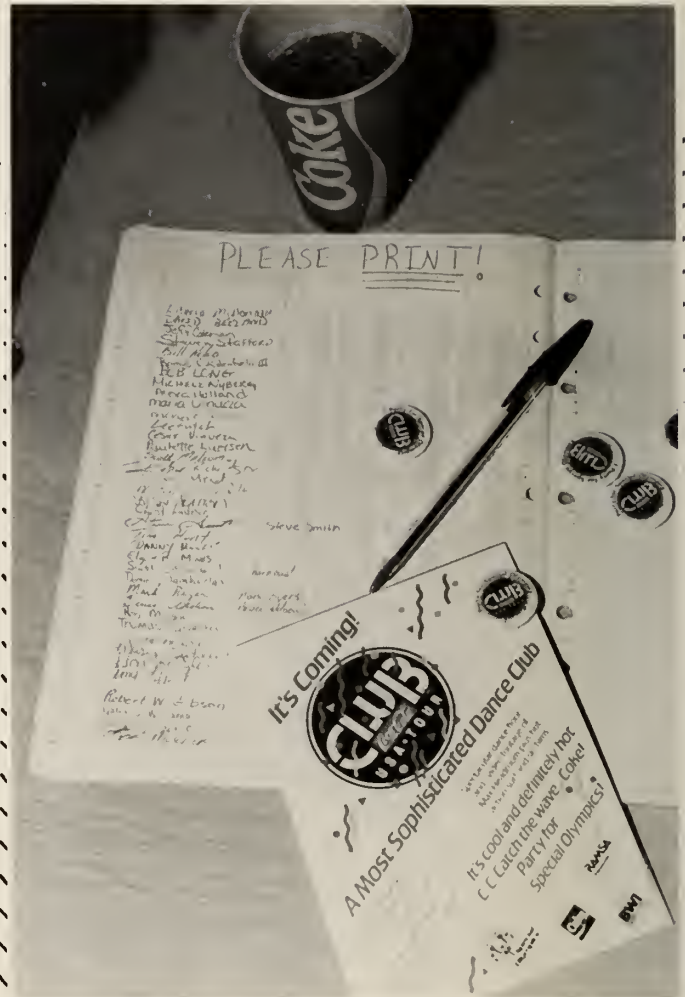

On February 16 comedian and mime extraordinaire, Tim Settmi wowed another packed house. From his roller skating stunts to his child imitation to his singing nose, Tim kept ASC students rocking with laughter. His renditions of popular songs of time (e.g. "I'm Scared of Sex" and "Thank Heavens for Seven Eleven") left the crowd with no other choice but to bust a gut.

Following the basketball game on January 30, the College Union Board sponsored the Club Cola Video dance. The event was a fundraiser for the Special Olympics, so for each ASC student attending CUB donated $5 to the olympics. The event was loads of fun with a large screen and two t.v.s for the videos, smoke effect, and fun v.j.s.

Homecoming 1988

"You guys dont really live together, do you?"

The Roommate Game hosted by Bob Longbanks was a crowd pleaser during Homecoming. Three ASC roommate couples competed against each other in this spin off of the Newly Wedd Game. Such questions as "who would your roommate most like to go out with" or "what animal does your roommate remind you of in the morning" were asked the contestants. Dan Hixon and Mike Mitchner became this year's champs thus claiming numerous goods for their dorm room.

GUILTY CHILDREN

The improvisational comedians Guitly children performed near the end of Homecoming '88. The ASC students who viewed this group of actor-comedians were either amazed at their talent or did not know what to think of it. One could say many things about this group but predictable is not one.

HOMECOMING GAME

RIGHT: The Pirates kept it close all night.

The Pirates performed royally against the Columbus Cougars at the game, but the result was a one point loss. However, the fans couldn't have been disappointed since the Pirates played their hearts out and led until an opponent sunk a three-pointer. Even Greg Johnson's three point shot at the buzzer didn't save the outcome.

PEP RALLY/BONFIRE

Saturday brought all the glory of Homecoming. Though the weather had been lousy, CUB still held the bonfire. Weak attendance forced an early hosing-down, but spirits weren't doused with the fire.

Though the Homecoming Court announcements were delayed until the end of the game, the crowds waited patiently. The results were Homecoming Queen Kristy Graham from Alpha Gamma Delta, Davita Capers of the Ebony Coalition as First Runner Up, and Michelle Ruiz of the Engineering Society, who held a close Second Runner Up.

Following the game was the Homecoming Dance featuring the Chapparelles. Turnout was fabulous and the band controlled the dancing from the stage to the walls. Everyone stayed long and partied hard — there's nothing like a Homecoming dance.

Dr. John Suchower is a professor of English and Drama and has been producing and directing Masquer plays at Armstrong for more than nineteen years. He has also been involved with over 500 plays during his career. Speaking on the Masquers, Dr. Suchower describes the organization as "the college's dramatic producing organization that provides a wide range of theatrical experiences from world drama for the cultural enrichment of the college community and the community at large." The Masquers is made up of a variety of persons including students, faculty and the community. The only requirements are to show up at auditions and be willing to perform and have a good time.

MORE STATELY MANSIONS

Right: Robert Powers and Brian DeBolt.

This play is a dark dramatic contest between idealism and the drive for material success. It has electrifying roles for two women who alternately hate, love, and misunderstand each other in the battle over the man who is the son of one and the husband of the other. More Stately Mansions was left unfinished after the author's Eugene O'Neill's, death. In 1967, the play was produced on Broadway — reconstructed from notes left behind but still unfinished. O'Neill set out to explore the "battle" within man's being between idealism and the drive for material success.

P ERIOD OF ADJUSTMENT

In Period of Adjustment, Mr. Tennessee Williams is telling the story of two marriages at points of acute crisis. One couple has just broken up after five years together. The other has not been able to come to terms in one day of wedlock. Both couples are living through a period of adjustment. The phrase is tinged with irony. The play examines the sources of the crises. Ralph Bates, a former war hero, has in-law trouble. George Haverstick, a war buddy who unexpectedly visits him on Christmas Eve with his bride of a day, has the shakes; his difficulty seems to be a fear of impotence. The end is happy, as comedy requires. The four go to bed — in the right combinations. In calling his play a "serious comedy", Mr. Williams puts his finger on its most unique aspect, for this is a work which combines a humorous viewpoint with deep-seated concern for a very real, human situation.

THIS IS OUR TIME FOR . . .

INTRAMURALS

FLAG FOOTBALL

One of the most popular intramural sports made a roaring comeback in the fall of '87. Suffering through a low level of participation of 1986, flag football was revived with a large turnout of talented, athletic young men and women striving to become weekend warriors for an hour or two.

Some of these guys will go on to sign with the NFL.

Vicki Aeger displays the true meaning of "Juke ya outta ya socks!"

"What's the play?" "GO LONG!!!"

"Is that Pam Walker or Anthony Carter of the Minnesota Vikings?"

SOCCER

Though only two teams competed in this years Intra-mural outdoor soccer competition the level of play was quite competitive and rough. Every Sunday the International Club and the Engineering Society went at it as if there were no tomorrow. Each team consisted of nine to ten players who gave it their all for three consecutive weeks as a best of three tournament was set between the two clubs.

Phillip Harvey shows his skill as a seasoned goalie.

I didn't know that ASC acquired Pele'.

Competition was tough during those weeks in the winter.

Some guys just liked to show off their fancy footwork.

PILLO POLO

Pillo Polo — the finger-breaking, knee-scraping, earth-quaking intramural event of winter quarter . . . and no one wanted to play! Although this "hockey on the gym floor with rubber padded sticks" is a barrel of fun there were so few teams this year that no goals were scored. C'mon girls, this is the opportunity to play like Wayne Gretsky in Reeboks and perhaps get a T-shirt for it! Let's make next year THE year for Pillo Polo . . . but let's not lose any teeth this time!

Karen Showalter is Pillo Polo goal bound.

"But wait Karen, there's defense in dem dar hills."

WEIGHT LIFTING

Weight lifting brings out the beast in all of us not to mention the sweat and tears. In March ASC students got the chance to prove that they could lift more than their share of weight in the annual Intramural Weight Lifting competition. As always, grunts and strains went out and a few backs too. Everyone, however, seemed to enjoy the sport and competition as spirits were UP LIFT-ING!

Lift! Lift! Pain! Pain!

Come on Chris, you can do it! It's only 20 lbs.

BASKETBALL

Intramural basketball is always a favorite pastime for many ASC students. This year was no different. Afternoons or evenings, one could find teams battling it out in the gym for pride and, most of all, bragging rights. Though some of the teams only played with a limited amount of players and never with the same team twice, competition was fierce, and spirits were high. Those who participated learned the value of teamwork, friendship, and even how to win and lose.

The Pirates better lookout for these guys.

Ex-Pirate basketball player William Buckley shows that he still possesses hot hands for the sport.

SPORTS

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR
JOHN G. BREWER

Sports reflect in many of us various dimensions, from the most serious to the childish. We exhibit our values for the world to see through our participation in this arena. The intercollegiate program at Armstrong State is designed to be a combination of fun and seriousness, of work and play, as it seeks to fulfill a desire and struggle to achieve it. Sports shape our values and lead us to the basic questions of moral choice, thus challenging us to courageous commitment to a fundamental allegiance between self, team, college, and humanity. The lessons learned in the Armstrong State intercollegiate program will number among the most precious of a lifetime.

After a year's absence the Lady Pirates varsity basketball team returned to ASC in time for the 1988 season. The program had been canned a year earlier along with the varsity soccer program because certain parties believed that the programs were not very beneficial to the college. The 1988 squad is young, talented and hopefully the roots of a fresh new program that will see a great deal of success. At the moment the team is in a growing and rebuilding stage and if these girls can stick it out through what will definitely be a long and hard season then they can become a title chaser in the very near future.

BACK!

The 1987-88 basketball season was the beginning of a whole new era of hardcourt action at ASC. Gone were the days of Renny Bryner; gone were the days of Division I competition; gone were the games at the Savannah Civic Center. Instead, the Pirates competed as a Division II team with a whole new look. They had a new coaching staff, a new squad of fresh, young talented players and a new crowd to support them. The Pirates were led by Clint Lander, a forward who was the only returnee from the 1986-87 team. Lander was also the lone senior on a team composed of seven freshmen and two juniors. In reality, though, according to new head coach Doug Riley, they were all freshmen, for they weren't used to playing his brand of ball. Riley, whose main emphasis was to mold the players into well-rounded academically and socially outstanding young men, anticipated an even brighter future. With assistant coaches Jay Bowen and Kenny Roth and the fine young talent of the team, Riley should be able to form the players into a cohesive unit that will serve as a force to be reckoned with in the future.

SPIKE SQUAD

Who said volleyball is all work and no play.

Does this look like a double-take of the girls basketball team? Well, almost, but not quite. Many girls on the volleyball team do play basketball, but the two sports seem not to raise conflicting responsibilities. These girls practice hard throughout the year on a sport that many students aren't well-aware of. Most ASC students see volleyball as a summer beach sport — open to anyone wishing to play. But for many girls on the team volleyball season is a juggling act for classes, work, campus activities, practice and competing. This year the team played Savannah State, Georgia Southern, Jacksonville, and Augusta, with half their games being at home. Volleyball season is short, but games are played within days of each other and always at different locations.

The ASC spike squad sets up to SPIKE AGAIN!

AND THROUGH THE WOODS . . .

The 1988 Armstrong State College Cross Country Team returned to NCAA Division II after spending the 1987 season in Division I. Returning for ASC were Keith Barrs, Captain Brad Wallace, and Pirate veteran Otis Zeigler. Competing in Division I absorbed most of the funds that the cross country team was allowed. Therefore, no women's cross country represented ASC for the '87-88 season but Theresa Porzio remained on the team and ran a very consistent season. However, some fresh blood was injected into the team this year by Dean Barton and Dan Vascilus. Also added to the roster was new head coach Jay Bowen who did an outstanding job and provided much needed support.

This year's team of young, aggressive players fit right into the winning tradition. Coach Mike Lariscy returned as after absence of six years. JOIN THE CROWD! The 1989 Yearbook is looking for a few good people who love to work and having fun while doing it. The only requirements are that you be an insomniac, a dedicated, fun, creative person, and most of all interested in the YEARBOOK!

No, you are not seeing Mr. Bill's 4-door sedan, but S.G.A. president Bill Kelso's new 1987 Toyota offer a mob of fun seeking students got a hold of it. It seems that while Mr. Kelso was representing Armstrong at a conference in November, his car was the target of a well-planned prank.

Mr. Kelso had left for a couple of days and on the night of his return, fellow students felt it appropriate that he have a hearty welcome back surprise. Several strong young men, at least 20, took the liberty of moving his car from the S.G.A. president's parking spot to the stairs leading into the MCC building. Afterwards, several more students decided it was only fitting to "giftwrap" his car. The prank was good for quite a few laughs.

We laughed then and admittedly we laugh now. While it could possibly have been a costly price to pay for a prank, it is good to know that the term "college life" still exists.

1987-88 BACK GLANCE

Why the theme of the yearbook! Every yearbook has a theme. Most themes are geared to touch a place in the heart of the students it represents. The theme most often deals with the moments shared by the students and seems to focus more towards the graduating senior. Armstrong's yearbook gives its audience a brief glance of the moments shared by the students. However, editor Lee Horrell chose a theme that would represent ALL students.

"THIS IS THE TIME" is a song written by Dennis DeYoung and it was chosen as a theme because of its broadness. For the underclassman it means that these moments are only a few of many to come. For the senior class it will stand for the keystone of what lies ahead. For we will look back and say to ourselves how we thought "THIS IS THE TIME".

For Lee Horrell, Robert Edenfield, Erin Shepard, Jared Campbell, and the other staffers, it will be a token of dedication to the school. The long hours of bringing this book together and the professional bonds and friendships that were established will last long.

However, "THIS IS THE TIME" goes out to those who have come and gone, and to those who will come. Every moment should be lived as "THIS IS THE TIME". And it is hoped by the 1988 Geechee staff that you will enjoy this yearbook and truly say "THIS IS THE TIME."

The clock on the dome of Savannah's City Hall was chosen as the cover photo because it is the symbol of how time goes from past to present and on into the future. You can only live the present, therefore, "THIS IS THE TIME".

Are you one of those students who is fed up with the outrageous overpriced merchandise offered by the campus bookstore? If so, don't fret. You may be able to find one of those much needed books at over one-half the cost! How you may ask? Simple. There's a book exchange set up in the cafeteria. This book exchange is sponsored by the Baptist Student Union and it is non-profitable. The goal of the exchange is to help students curve the cost of going to school. Students may not be able to find the book they need everytime, but at least it's good to know that there are people out among us who will try to help the best that they can. Thanks BSU!

During the Fall of the 1987-88 school year, Armstrong State College and the R.O.T.C. department got a much needed rappelling tower. The rappelling tower, which stands 50 feet tall, is located next to the intramural and community park fields. Since Armstrong's R.O.T.C. department offers Mountaineering and Rappelling classes, it was definitely a good idea to have the tower constructed. Before it's construction, ASC students had to commute out to Georgia Southern just to complete their training. Mountaineering and Rappelling is open to all students at Armstrong, and if you enroll, you will most definitely find yourself learning to make a 50 foot drop safely without a parachute or airbag to break the fall.

Savannah saw a brief encounter of what a real winter can be like. Down here we don't see much snow, not to mention ice. But for two days in January the Coastal Empire was caught in a cold front that gripped the East. Snow was reported as close as Augusta and Macon. Not here! Many Savannahians were without electricity for days. Maybe next time we will get snow instead to make it worth our while.

PARTING

"Yo, Yo, Yo, I got her phone number!"

"You don't believe me when I say that I'm tight with L.L. Cool J?"

With these Parting Shots we would like to say that though we came to learn we also found time to play.

Classes were rough and the teachers were tough but there were some that weren't tough enough.

Music was played and jokes were told summer was hot and boy was winter cold.

So the staffers dedicate this yearbook to the students and staff who gave it its look.

And whatever the cost or whatever the price this year's yearbook has just the right spice.

For it is the students and staff of Armstrong State that makes this 1988 Geechee look so great!

"Okay. You're the poptop and you're the piece of glass. Now the poptop goes to the parking lot and cuts back in and the piece of glass cuts up the middle then jukes right!"

DIRTY DEEDS

DONE DIRT FREE!

It was 9:14 p.m., January 14, 1988, a dark, brisk, lonely Thursday evening and Editor Lee Harrell and his staff worked diligently away on the 1988 Geechee. The hard sheets piled up, the proofs remained uncorrected and the broads had all headed home. The Jolt Cola was ice cold but going quick and the staff was anticipating a missed deadline. Not a very pleasant evening, and the amount of work to be done added to the effect. "We're almost out of food," hollered Robert Edenfield, comrade and assistant to Lee Harrell. So the bevy of periodical junkies were about to take a break and head out for some grub, probably the Krystal or some other swank and luxurious hot-spot like that. Then the phone rang.

"Hello, Geechee," answered Harrell.
"Harrell, ol' home boy. What's up cuz?" replied the raspy, frightening voice on the other end.

"Who is this?" inquired Harrell.
"Never mind, bro'. Lookee here, I got a tip for you. I think you're gonna like it," said the terrorist sounding male.

"What-what do you want?" asked Harrell, getting a little more nervous now, fearing that his Honda Prelude had been kidnapped or stripped of yet another gear. "Who are you?" he asked again. "Are you Satan? What do you want? Have you taken my sweet Stephanie?" Harrell asked, now in a panicked frenzy, alluding to his longtime sweetheart, Stephanie Norman. (It had been rumored earlier in the year that Harrell had a contract put out on Norman's head, but that ugliness was quelled when she treated him to a three game set of bowling in mid-December.)

"Somebody's sudsin' the fountain tonight, 2:07 a.m.; be there!" the stranger informed him. Then he hung up. Just as abruptly as he had entered into Harrell's life, the stranger had gone.

"Why, Lee! What's wrong? Yer as white as a ghost," declared a concerned Jared Campbell, another of Harrell's indentured servants.

Harrell said nothing. He was thinking of the car bombing that had taken place earlier in the day. Fortunately, no one was injured, except that a couple of cats were blown to hell and back and into a million or so pieces, but that didn't matter. Harrell could have prevented it, though; he had received a phone call from a similar person the night before, telling him that they were going to do such an act. A group calling itself the Preliminary Men of Sudsing, or P.M.S., had claimed responsibility for the bombing, and Harrell suspected that this same militant organization would be responsible for the atrocities that were going to take place later in the evening.

"What is it?" inquired a now frightened Campbell, awakening Harrell.
"They're gonna suds the fountain," said Harrell, his voice quivering and his skin pale and dry.

"What?!" exclaimed Edenfield. "Oh no, not the fountain. First they blast that car now they're gonna suds the fountain. What's next?"

"Dear Lord, just let this madness stop. Just let it stop," exclaimed a petrified Campbell.

The gang decided that something had to be done. So at 2:07 a.m. the staffers made their way to the fountain, armed only with their wits, convinced that they were going to salvage the purity of a perennial symbol of academia and excellence in the field thereof. But the P.M.S. arrived armed with bazookas, Uzies, hand grenades, and 17 cases of Cost Cutter dishwashing soap suds from Kroger Sav-On, which happened to be on sale for 33¢ a bottle through the 18th of January.

"Well, an't much we can do, fellas," Harrell informed his pilgrims when he noticed that the odds were slightly against him. "Somebody go get a photographer, but not one from SPS."

Campbell went and got Michael West, Editor of the Inkwell who was busy contemplating life and its extremities, or something gay like that. West whipped out his Kodak Disc Camera and photographed the sudsing in progress. Then they went back to the office, knowing that they did their best.

But the ugliness was far from over. They entered the Geechee office and were greeted with graffiti all over the walls. "What're we gonna do?" asked Campbell. "You want I should clean the walls, Masta Harrell?"

Harrell glanced at the ceiling, rubbed his Brillo pad hair and breathed a sigh of released anxiety, like one would after nearly being splattered across the pavement by a 1974 El Camino. "Naw," said Harrell, "It's Kinda art deco, don't you think? Let's go get tore up. Afterall, THIS IS OUR TIME!"

Further vandalism was found by unwary cafeteria ladies the next morning.

A WORD OR TWO FROM THE EDITOR

During the past year I have had the honor of serving as Editor of the 1988 Armstrong State College Geechee. Words cannot express all the effort and time that has gone into the making of this yearbook. However, through the sweat and toil the staff's pride shines. We take great pride in believing this year's book to be a fine, creative, quality annual, one that you will enjoy and treasure for years to come. There are, as with any major project, people who worked hard and without whose help the 1988 Geechee would not be possible. I would like to express my enduring gratitude to these people who freely gave of themselves for the benefit of the book. Let me begin by thanking three students who served the Geechee from beginning to end. Robert Edenfield should be commended for his work on the yearbook. Much of the copy was written by Robert and his creative talents are displayed throughout the book. He helped this yearbook project greatly and I am glad to call him a friend. Secondly, I will thank Jared Campbell who was always there and took great care in his work. He was a tremendous help and supporter to the Geechee. When the going got tough I could always count on Erin Sheppard. She was a diligent worker who took on significant tasks this year. She always knew how to go about completing a job and understood the importance of the duties before her. She will most definitely have a bright future here at Armstrong. These folks and the others on the staff were a pleasure to work with this year, they did a marvelous job and I will miss them all. I would also like to extend my thanks to Terri Liles and Dr. Joseph Buck for giving me technical and supportive advice this year and every year. On a personal note I would like to thank those persons who have helped me to complete my education during the past four years. Thanks to Lynn Benson, Mack Palmour, Al Harris, Ellen Shawe and Dawn Ford for providing and teaching me everything outside the classroom and for being good friends who were always there whenever I needed them. Thanks to Dr. Arens and Mr. Comasky for advising and teaching me History and for putting up with me (Thanks Guys). And finally, thanks to Armstrong State College for providing me an education which will take me wherever I need to go. In closing let me say that I have enjoyed every minute at Armstrong and would not change the last four years for anything. To all students who lead ASC into the future remember these two thoughts: first, there are three kinds of students — those who make things happen, those who watch things happen, and those who wondered what happened. Be a person who makes things happen at ASC! And secondly, "when it looks like all is up, keep a-goin!" (pg. 208).

Sincerely,
Lee Harrell, Geechee Editor 1988
