The Dean Machine has landed at GS

Kim Dean was named head coach for the Eagles in 2017, after her successful season as head coach at Armstrong State University in 2016 and 2017.

“Anytime you take over a program you encounter different obstacles,” Dean said about the switch from ASU to Georgia Southern.

In her time at Armstrong, Dean was able to help the Pirates finish third at the 2017 NCAA DII National Championships and finished the season with an impressive record of 38-14. Full Story

U.S. flags to be flown outside residence halls

A new initiative by Georgia Southern University will have U.S. flags flown on all eight residence halls on the Statesboro campus starting April 17.

According to the GS Housing website, the new initiative is being implemented to recognize the members of the United States military and military veterans in the University community.

A volunteer team consisting of military veterans from University Housing and ROTC students will carry the U.S Flag Code, which formalizes the act of flying the American flag and demonstrates respect and tradition. Full Story

Hatched in the Boro: From the University Plaza to Southeast Takeover (Reflector Magazine Feature)

There once was a young, ambitious transfer from UGA that walked the halls of COBA. Pursuing a degree in management information systems, he knew one thing: He wanted to be in business for himself, he just didn't know with what, exactly. After finding the love of his life, a slocal* named Elizabeth, and graduating from GS in 86', his life was about to take a drastic change. Full Story

Breaking Things Off is Hard, But Worth It (Reflector Magazine Feature)

We are taught from an early age that we have to do our best to understand others, to put aside our anger and disagreements and to love one another despite our differences. Learning to see all sides is an essential skill to life and is a healthy way to maintain relationships whether they are romantic or platonic.

That being said, sometimes it's healthy to acknowledge those differences and break things off with the people who disagree with you. Being open-minded and respectful of other people's opinions is always an important policy, but learning when to leave a situation for your own health can be worth it, even if it's very hard.
