11-8-2016

CHHS News

College of Health and Human Sciences, Georgia Southern University

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/chhs-news

Part of the Higher Education Commons

Recommended Citation

https://digitalcommons.georgiasouthern.edu/chhs-news/59

This article is brought to you for free and open access by the Health Professions, Waters College of - Publications at Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. It has been accepted for inclusion in CHHS-College of Health and Human Sciences News by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons@Georgia Southern. For more information, please contact digitalcommons@georgiasouthern.edu.
Nursing Students Help Evacuate Patients

November 8, 2016

When FEMA/CEMA called a mandatory evacuation from the Savannah area due to the potential impact of Hurricane Matthew, Peggy Mossholder, MSN, CHPN, assistant professor with Georgia Southern’s School of Nursing, was asked to coordinate the care of 12 patients from Hospice Savannah who urgently needed to be evacuated to Candler Hospital in Metter, Georgia.

With only three nurses to manage the hospice home care patient triage and care for 12 evacuated patients, Mossholder made the call for volunteer nurses. Seven Junior II and three Senior II nursing students from the School of Nursing responded to the call and assisted the hospice patients and staff of Hospice Savannah.

“Without the help of the nursing students, we would not have managed as well as we did during the emergency evacuation period,” said Mossholder. “As a member of the nursing faculty, I was pleased to have 10 students come to our aid and I have never been as proud of our students as I was during this adventure.”

Posted in School of Nursing