Roy F. Powell Creative Writing Awards submissions are open

February 12, 2016

Submissions are now being accepted for the Roy F. Powell Creative Writing Awards, which recognizes outstanding achievement in each of three genres (poetry, fiction and creative nonfiction). A prize of $100 will be awarded to one winner in each genre. All Georgia Southern University students are permitted to enter, and students may enter in more than one genre. For more information, please see the attached flier. For questions and submissions, contact Professor Jared Sexton.

Posted in Awards, Student News
Recent student news

February 12, 2016

The Department of Writing & Linguistics is pleased to announce recent student news and publications:

- Current Writing & Linguistics major Aleyna Rentz has an essay, “Things We Couldn’t Photograph,” forthcoming in an issue of 30 North.
- Current Writing & Linguistics majors Ben Baker, Kristen Flippo, Devan Pride and Aleyna Rentz have launched a literary magazine, Moonglasses Magazine.

Posted in Alumni and Majors, News, Student News