Research Symposium

October 4, 2022

Valesia Davis, a fourth-year student in the Mechanical Engineering program, has been selected to present their research at the Gulf Coast Undergraduate Research Symposium to be held at Rice University on October 8th, 2022. Valesia is conducting research on field-deployable High-Performance Liquid Chromatography (HPLC) designs under the supervision of Dr. Sevki Cesmecci. Valesia participated in the McNair Scholar Program over the summer and received an undergraduate research assistantship from the Office of Research.
