AVON PLAYERS GIVE "HAMLET"

SHAKESPEAREAN PLAY WAS ONE OF THE LYCEUM AT-TRACTIONS OF THE COLLEGE.

The Avon Players, presenting "Hamlet" under the direction of Joseph Selman, played to seven hundred people in the auditorium Tuesday evening.

The Shakespearean play was given as a part of the regular lyceum attractions given to the students of the college each year, though practically every school in this section of the state had students in the audience. The entire English classes of Metter and Brooklet high schools were on hand, and many from other schools in this community. Statesboro High School had a section filled with students.

The play was one of best seen here in a long time, being the first Shakespearean play given in Statesboro in many years. Mr. Selman, who played the part of Hamlet is a nationally known Shakespearean player and did some splendid work in that role. The complete cast included: Claudius, King of Denmark, Leslie Willis; Hamlet, Joseph Selman; Polonius, Harold Selman; Horatio, friend of Hamlet,

DR. A. L. SUHRIE VISITS CAMPUS

Dr. Ambrose L. Suhrie, of New York University, who is making a tour of the state visiting all state institutions of higher learning, spoke to the students and faculty here Thursday afternoon.

Dr. Suhrie, professor of education at N. Y. U., praised the teacher-training institutions and stated that there is no other institution in which citizens get every dollar invested in return as in teacher-training schools. He talked of the service rendered by the teachers and pleaded with the young men to stay in the profession. He stated that these institutions are charged with industry and friendliness. Dr. Suhrie gave two definitions that will long be remembered on the campus here. One was his definition of a good school in which he said, "A good school is a place where young people—of any age—come together

PROF. BARRON RETURNS FROM GRADUATE STUDY

Prof. D. N. Barron, who has been in Chapel Hill, N. C., for the fall, is back on the campus to resume his classes. He has been completing work on his doctor's degree at the University of North Carolina.

Prof. Barron is teaching classes in sociology and economics.

Readers don't have to guess who this person is, though there might be some little uncertainty as to what emotions were controlling at the exact instant Artist John Mooney caught this pose. There are plainly the characteristics of an unusual person written on the face—the open lips denote eloquence; the upraised fist denotes vehemence; the flowing locks denote a love of music and poetry; the flowers on the vest are not unused fragments of egg, but indicate a love of flowers and plant life—the beautiful of nature. What, then, controlled GUY WELLS, president of the South Georgia Teachers College, when the artist saw him? Standing knee-deep in the waters of beautiful Lake Wells, where he had recently planted four million small fishes, he had discovered on this summer morning that the fish were tadpoles and that they had shed their tails and hopped away. He is only half angry. If the other fist had been raised, you would know that he was completely upset.

Frosh Beat Faculty In Soccer Struggle

The freshman girls challenged the ladies of the faculty to a soccer game at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, on South Georgia Teachers College soccer field.

At four o'clock a crowd of students gathered near the soccer field to see the teachers and freshmen on equal terms for once.

The freshmen looked trim and neat in their blue gym suits, while the teachers gave a more colorful scene.

Miss Trussell, dressed in woodland green, opened the game by kicking the ball into the freshmen territory. Quickly the freshmen captured the ball and took it down the field. Addie B. Parker stopped their advance by merely getting in front of the ball. Mrs. Carruth gave a mighty kick,

Collegeboro Damsels Enter Beauty Contest

The fact that T. C. has beautiful girls was well demonstrated at the recent beauty contest held at the State Theatre to select "Miss Statesboro."

Had Garbo, Dietrich, Crawford, or Shearer been there they would have had to look to their laurels.

Sixteen of the college girls were selected by local merchants to represent them in the contest and while none of them won the title, four of them were among the six called back from which to select "Miss Statesboro."

These four were: Sadie Fulcher, Daisy Vining, Ruth Rebecca Franklin and Emily Brooks.

Sadie, selected by the A&P Tea Co. to represent them, was dressed in

TEACHERS DEFEAT MARINES FRIDAY

TEAM CONTINUES UNDEFEATED SEASON BY OVERWHELMING THE MARINES 67-37.

At the dedication of the new basketball gymnasium in Brooklet Friday night, the Teachers trounced the the Paris Island Marines to the tune of 67-37.

The game was slow for the first few minutes, but the Teachers began to "click" and it was soon evident that the Marines were outclassed in every phase of the game. The Marines handled the ball well individually, but did not show much teamwork.

Near the end of the half the Teachers had established a safe lead over the Marines and when the half ended the score was 57-21.

In the last half the varsity started, but Coach Smith soon began to run in substitutes almost continuously and before the final whistle blew practically five teams were seen in action.

The Teachers played the Marines Saturday night, but we were unable to report the score as this paper was printed before the game was played.

The basketballers of S. G. T. C. have

FIVE-ACRE LAKE IS BEING BUILT

The newest addition to the campus is another lake which will cover five acres. The lake will be situated just below Lake Wells and will be connected to it. The present lake has proven too small to accommodate the large number of fish that has been put into it.

After the new lake has been finished the fish from the smaller lake will be turned in the larger one. The smaller lake will be used as a breeding place for the fish and the larger for feeding grounds.

The dams are now under construction and are expected to be finished in a few days. However, the water will not be turned in for a few weeks in order to let the dams settle.

A year ago this section of the campus was merely a swamp that served as an excellent breeding place for mosquitoes. Now it is being transformed into one of the most attractive parts of the campus.

TYPHOID PUNCTURES TO BE GIVEN FRIDAY

Dr. Whiteside will give typhoid punctures and smallpox vaccinations next Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in room 3 of the administration building.

The physical education department urges all students who have not had the punctures or vaccinations, to get them Friday.

RESOLUTIONS

Fifteen days of the new year have been spent. We wonder how many of the new year resolutions have been kept. A great many of us make resolutions and then do not have the "stickability" to make the resolves a reality. Some do not make them at all—giving the excuse, "It's no use." If a person does not make resolutions, he should at least take stock of himself frequently and try to decide what inhibitions and standards need to be rebuilt and strengthened. Any piece of machinery needs to be overhauled from time to time—so we need an occasional "overhauling."

THE BAND

During the football season of 1932 there was a new spirit manifested and many gave the band the credit. Surely they did good work at all football games, and their efforts were greatly appreciated by the students, faculty and alumni. The George-Anne in the fall praised the band for the fine manner in which they performed.

Inside a gymnasium a band has an even better chance to impress the public, but not when only part of the band plays. Those who have come out for the basketball games so far this season have done their best and their music has been good, but how much better could it be made if all band members would come out for the games.

The advertisers of the George-Anne use this paper as a medium for creating good-will between themselves and the students. Support them by your patronage and make them feel that they are making worthwhile gains by advertising in the George-Anne.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Any college in which the students are not continually banding together and having many activities is failing in its teaching.

By activities the teaching is judged, and unless they are stimulated and developed it has been a failure. Students desire to put the ideas and knowledge gained in class to a practical use if they are learning as they should. They are enthusiastic, and as they discuss problems and come up against baffling points, desire to gain a better foundation. This, they realize, can be gained only from books, and they wish, of their own accord, to study and improve their knowledge of the subject in which they are especially interested. This study becomes something to be desired rather than avoided. If properly taught, a student should be led to spontaneously give his time to the further development of a subject and to devote his leisure hours to an activity, the foundation for which he gained in class. He should be taught to recognize the possibilities of this activity and to be interested enough in its development to give his time to the promotion of it. If the fundamental points were properly presented, he would do this, and if learning properly should gain from books an incentive for all sorts of outside activities. Thus a college should be able to judge its faculty and to find in the quality and number of activities the measure of its good learning.

MORE SHAKESPEARE

Should we have more or less Shakespeare for the rest of this year? Do we want more Shakespeare? Is it not the most worthwhile and enjoyable of all the lyceum attractions of the past year?

In the senior English class a discussion followed the Amon Players' presentation of "Hamlet" and there was prevalent the opinion that another play by the same players would be enjoyed more than the first. As this class is to study Shakespeare in the spring term they are unanimously in favor of another play. Many students who did not study Shakespeare have expressed the opinion that another of his plays would suit their pleasure.

The Avon Players will be making return engagements in the coming spring. It would be a good thing if the student body would have the opportunity to see another Avon Players' performance. It might be "Othello," "Romeo and Juliet," or "The Merchant of Venice." Why not?

IT'S A POOR JOKE—

When someone blushes with embarrassment.

When someone's feelings are hurt.

When something sacred is made to appear commonplace.

When it is directed against someone's infirmity.

When it is uttered in a bitter spirit.

When everyone cannot join in the laughter. —Menthology.

"YE ORATORS"

(By JOSEPHINE MURPHY)

Demosthenes placed pebbles in his mouth and went down to the seashore on stormy nights and talked above the sounding of the waves. He climbed the steep hills reciting as he went. As a result of these efforts he became the prince of ancient orators. The intelligent of all ages assign to him the highest place in oratory.

T. C. oral English students place one hand over their diaphragm, the other on the chest and pant like a dog. This improves the breathing. They go around reciting such sentences as these: "She sells sea shells, shall Susan sell sea shells;" "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers," and "Should such shapely sashes shabby stitches show."

These sentences are sometimes recited with astounding results. You wouldn't recognize them.

Such words as ah, aw, oh, and ya, ye, yi, yo, yu are pronounced with infinite care, and don't think it is simple. One tone has to come deep from the chest, while another has to come from the head.

If you see students standing before the mirror, chests back and hands by their sides, apparently talking to themselves, don't make the mistake of assuming that they are glorying in the sound of their voices or telling themselves how good looking they are. They simply seek to improve themselves along the lines of public speaking.

It is sometimes amusing to watch the students as they stand before the class and listen to what they have to say. The student you expect to be least frightened is usually worse than the others. Howell Cobb Cone has St. Vitus's dance every time he gets up; and later fervently declares that he doesn't know a word he uttered while before the class.

Marie Vandiver evidently forgot one day that she was making a talk to the oral English class and started in doing her daily dozen. It was probably an ankle reducing exercise, for she rotated her ankles as if they had ball-bearings in them. It was almost a physical impossibility to stand while doing this; and surely almost a mental impossibility to keep her mind on the task at the same time.

Some of the talks have rather abrupt endings. Henry Bussey's favorite method of closing is "and er."

On the day that the class had to make up announcements and give them from the stage, some humorous and very imaginative ones were given.

Gordon Mays calmly announced, with a nonchalant air, that a spelling contest was being held in Washington and that Mr. Wells would gladly pay the expenses of any student that wished to go there and participate in this contest. He also announced that Washington was in D. C.

Maurice Grahl, with that air of "savoir faire," smilingly announced that chapel would be held only three times a week and that juniors and

A SWEET DISPOSITION

There goes Miss Mae, an old maid forever on this earth,
A secretary to wrath and clouded brows unknown,
The god of cleanliness frowned not on her humble birth;
And "sweetness" marked her for its own.

Large is her heart, and her soul sincere,
And friendliness does a recompense as largely send.
She gives to all effort, all she has, a tear
She gains from a sweet disposition (all she wants) a friend.

No farther seek her eccentricities to disclose,
Or draw her old maidish habits from their abode.
They will forever remain in that same repose
Until students at T. C. organize a paper brigade—her method!

ONE WAY TO LOOK AT THE DEPRESSION

When the rich of the world become wasteful and free,
When the poor gain the power and pelf—
It will do me no good, for I'm certain to be
On a lone desert isle by myself.

And though everything comes to the person who waits,
Though all's well that ends well, 'tis said,
When the times comes at last that I'm blessed by the fates
I've no doubt they'll discover me dead.

So I'll live like a king, though I'm as poor as a slave,
And I will eat when I can, as I've fasted,
Then think from the depth of my grave
What a fine time I had while it lasted.

A RESPONSE

To "A Poetic Attempt" published in the George-Anne, December 12th.

Do we ever hear the call,
"Girls, a man is in the hall."
Come what may or come what will,
We must pay our pressing bill.
Meet me, girls, right after lunch,
What's about we have a hunch.
Sunday you may have a date
Only until half-past eight.
Ev'ry night we hear the yell,
Quiet now—the study bell.
Sara or Lorene's on hand
If we sit or if we stand;
They remind us of a pup
As they bark, "Just checking up."
Half-past eleven the lights are out;
Girls around and girls about,
Marie, see if you can tell
Who it is that's raising —.
Sleep we must and sleep we will,
But, my cow, the fire drill!
Down the fire escape we creep,
When all the time we're needing sleep.
Miss Veazey may be getting thin—
So am I, just like a pin.
This ain't all I want to say—
Just wait until another day.

MISS PO-TREE.

seniors would not be compelled to attend.

While it is true that things do become funny at times, earnest effort is being put forth in this class, and under the direction and leadership of Miss Clay much progress has been made.

And who knows but that some day out of this very class may come forth another Demosthenes!

CLUBS

MATH CLUB

The Math Club will initiate its new members at the regular meeting time tonight.

An invitation in keeping with the study of mathematics has been planned. The "pledges" will have to solve some fundamental mathematics problems to prove that they are worthy to become members of the Math Club.

The club has been doing some good work since its organization three years ago. Last year it had the best attendance of any club on the campus. Its members as a whole have the highest scholastic rating of any club. In order to become a member a persons must have a rating of B or above in his work in math in the college.

Bids were given to William Bennett, George Boswell, Jessie Boykin, Jim Cherry, Mayo Cody, Douglas Durden, Eugene Fontaine, John Gaissert, James Hinton, Julius Hodges, Joe Lambright, Flemming McDaniel, Pauline Mincey, Reba Moore, Woodrow Powell, Robert Shell, Delmas Tyre, Marvin Reddick, Flemming Roach, Martha Robertson, Donovan Smith, William Stuart, W. G. Talley and Blakeley Thornton. Most of these have accepted the bid and will be initiated tonight.

EPICUREAN CLUB ENTERTAINS

The Epicurean club entertained their boy friends with a dance at the "Merri-Gold" Saturday night. At 8:30 o'clock the girls and their dates arrived to find the "Merri-Gold" artistically decorated in the club's colors, black and white. Each boy had the first dance with his date. During the dance the hostesses presented their escorts an attractive program.

Coach and Mrs. B. L. ("Crook") Smith were honor guests of the occasion. The following members were present: Edna Harris, president; Kay Lovett, treasurer; Vivian George, secretary; Marie Vandiver, Ruby Herrington, Reta Lee, Carolyn Mundy, Mary Woolff and Sadie Fulcher. The club regretted the absence of one of their members, Miss Mary Hawes.

to educate themselves and each other with the help of inspiring teachers." His other definition he quoted, and that concerned co-operation. "Co-operation," he said, "means to conduct yourself so that others may be able to work with you."

Dr. Suhrie was at one time connected with the G. S. C. W. in Milledgeville, and following the death of President Park was offered the presidency of that school. He stated Thursday that by May of this year he will have visited every teacher-training school in the United States.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The Dramatic Club met in the auditorium last Wednesday night. The club discussed joining a national dramatic fraternity, the question was left open until next meeting.

When the business had been finished the following program was given:

Song, "Sweet and Low"—Corinne Lanier.

Duet, "Sleep, Kentucky Babe"—Henrietta Doster and Sara Kate Scarboro.

Song, "Love's Old Sweet Song"—Miriam Earnest.

While these numbers were sung they were cleverly acted on the stage.

Kathryn Lovett gave an interesting talk on, "Some Principles of Play Production."

POPULAR SCIENCE CLUB

The Popular Science Club was entertained as well as instructed by a most interesting program Thursday night, January 12, in the science lecture room. The topics for discussion were chosen from those subjects most discussed by the American Association for the advancement of science, which met in Jersey City, N. J., recently.

A discussion of some of the newest wonders of science which were revealed at this great scientific meeting was brought to the members of the club. Leonard Kent gave a very interesting report concerning some of the things that scientists have said about "Technocracy," that subject which at the present is attracting so much attention. "Scientist Urges Electric Dollar" was discussed by Eloise Preetorius. "The Ignorance Curve," charted at the scientists meeting was reported by Leland Cox.

Charles Shaffe was elected vice-president to fill the vacancy made by Cliff Hale, who was recently made president of the club.

Miss Jessie Harris Honored at Luncheon

The home economics department of South Georgia Teachers College entertained at a luncheon Saturday in honor of Miss Jessie Harris, who is making a survey of the home economics departments throughout the state.

The luncheon was held in the home economics dining room. The guests included Miss Harris, Mrs. Guy H. Wells, Mrs. Z. S. Henderson, Miss Mae Michael and Miss Marion Shuptrine.

Miss Harris was appointed by Dr. Works, of the University of Chicago, to assist in the survey of Georgia schools. She is at present director of the home economics department of the University of Tennessee, at Knoxville.

Miss Harris is author of the book, "Supervised Home Projects," and co-author of "Everyday Foods," by Harris and Lacy.

Calm and temperament enjoyment is the utmost that is allotted to man. —Blair.

THE SPOTLIGHT

No. 1

Spotlight No. 1 flickers about a bit trying to find its first victim. At length it fall on him as he makes a short cut across the campus to the administration building. As he hurries along at a half trot one gets a brief impression of severity which dies with one of his particularly spicy retorts or a flash of his brown eyes. Thanks to him we students of education have come to learn that education is a science and though he is one of the most intellectual persons on the campus he is never guilty of being pedantic. His hobby is talking and many times his enthusiasm carries him through the bells but because he is so very popular with the student body as a whole we forgive him.

In short, we know, bad points or not, we have a bromidic personality in our midst!

We cannot watch him longer now because at last he has gained the side door and has disappeared into his office at the foot of the stars.

MEMBER OF JOURNALISM CLASS.

Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A. HOLD JOINT MEET

The Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s held a joint meeting in the auditorium last Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The following program was given:

Song, America.

Devotional—Charles Shafe.

Special song—Newelle DeLoach.

Reports on the inter-racial conference held in Atlanta during Christmas—Beulah Davis and Charles Shafe.

Especially were the reports of interest to those who attended the joint exercises. The purpose of the conference, as outlined by the reporters, was "Building the South of Tomorrow on a more Educational, Religious and Economical Basis." There were several nationalities represented at the conference from numerous Southern colleges. Jews, Negroes, Japanese, Chinese and Whites took an active part in promoting the programs. Many addresses encouraging the reconstruction of the South were given by nationally known educators.

The next Y. M. and Y. W. conference will be held at Georgia Tech in February. Following this in the Spring will be the state meet at Camp Wilkins in Athens.

missed the ball and fell backwards. Time out was called for the teachers. Then it was the freshmen's time to throw the ball in.

The freshmen took the ball down the field and missed a goal only because of Wilma New's successful blocking. The faculty recovered the ball and Mrs. Carruth made a spectacular run of 15 yards.

Half way the first quarter Edna Fay Jackson scored against the teachers' goal.

Miss Trussell kicked off and again the freshmen captured the ball. They almost made a goal but failed because of the goal keeper's blocking.

The game was played in a leisurely fashion until just before the half when action speeded up a little.

Between the halves the teachers "flopped" upon the ground in various exhausted attitudes. When the self-appointed water boys, Gerdine and Lindsey, appeared on the field with their pans of water, the faculty team cheered and drank noisily.

The freshmen seemed determined to make a goal in the first few minutes of the second half. The ball was kicked back and forward in front of the goal, but finally went out of bounds.

Wood got away for a long dribble. The freshmen were slow in regaining possession of the ball. They did not keep it long, however, because Mrs. Carruth made a spectacular kick sending the ball far over the opponents heads. Miss Campbell, who had been playing in brown kid gloves up until this point, removed the gloves and followed up Carruth's kick.

Yarbrough made a long kick for the freshmen, but it was effectively blocked by Ray of the faculty. The freshmen were kicking the ball back and forth in front of the faculty goal at the end of the third quarter.

At the beginning of the last period the freshmen sent in three new girls, but the teachers had no substitutes and showed signs of fatigue, however, Wood broke away for a 35-yard dribble in the first few minutes. The freshmen recovered the ball and swept it down the field. A goal seemed sure, but Parker served as another timely obstacle.

The freshmen took the ball down for another goal. After the kick-off the freshmen tried to rush the goal for another score but the teachers defense held and the ball went out of bounds. The game ended there with the score 2-0 in favor of the freshmen.

Each year at the end of the soccer season, the faculty plays the winner of the inter-class tournament. They showed some excellent players this time and it is rumored that they will have new material for the big game.

of Denmark, Eugenia DuBois; Ophelia, Daughter of Polonius, Martha Kytte; Ghost of Hamlet's Father, Robert Selman; Osric, Hal Scott.

Six acts of the play were given with eight scenes being presented.

.. College Notes ..

Alice Gray spent the week end with Reta Lee.

Elizabeth Fletcher visited her parents Sunday.

Maude Iler visited her home in Claxton Thursday.

Isabel Banks visited her family in Glennville last week end.

Eloise Preetorius spent Tuesday with her aunt, Mrs. Franklin.

Mrs. Davis of Brooklet visited her daughter, Beulah, last Thursday.

Dorothy Mae Barron spent Sunday with her aunt, Mrs. J. L. Edwards.

Eunice Pearl Hendricks visited Mary Alice McDougald last week end.

Emily Brooks visited Rebecca Franklin in Statesboro last week end.

Willie C. Proctor visited her parents in Graymont-Summit last week end.

Newelle DeLoach spent last Sunday with Corinne Lanier in Statesboro.

We regret that Ollie Lanier has been removed to her home on account of illness.

Marie Vandiver and Mary Wolff spent least week end with Miss Lillian Vandiver.

Miss Vera McElveen, who is teaching at West Side, visited on the campus last week.

Adeline McGauley, Dorothy Bacon and Beulah Davis have been confined to the infirmary.

R. A. Lovett and Miss Elizabeth Lovett, of Sylvania, were visitors on the campus last week end.

Carolyn Brack and Christine Langford accompanied Dr. Taylor to Savannah Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Wells and Dean Henderson accompanied Dr. Shurie to several schools over the state Friday and Saturday.

Vivian George, Kay Lovett, Sadie Fulcher, Sara Pippin, Carolyn Mundy and Ruby Herrington visited friends in Statesboro last week end.

COLLEGEBO RO DAMSELS ENTER BEAUTY CONTEST

Daisy, picked by Jake Fine Co., was attractively dressed in black velvet. It would be no surprise to us to some day see her name and picture in the newspaper under this caption, "Local Girl Makes Good in Hollywood."

Ruth Rebecca, petit and demure in black velvet which offset her blonde beauty, represented McClellans Store. Surely she proves the statement that gentlemen prefer blondes.

Emily Brooks, selected by Hodges-Atwell Bakery to represent them, was dressed in white with touches of scarlet. She was one of the most striking figures on the stage. Spectators sat forward on the edge of the seat and looked twice when she passed across.

The remaining T. C. girls gowned in lovely evening dresses of pastel shades presented a beautiful appearance. T. C. did, indeed, shine that night!

Louise Quantock, selected by the student body as the most beautiful girl, was representative for Averitt Brothers Auto Company. She was dressed in pink satin. We know that as a result of Louise's advertising, Averitt Bros. sales records will more than double, which only goes to prove that good advertising pays.

Carolyn Mundy, gowned in pink net, was selected by Sims Store. She certainly satisfied. You know that slogan: "Sims Saves, Serves and Satisfies."

Olivia Purvis, picked by the Woco-Pep for their contestant, was in white with a red sash. They could have picked no better entrant, for Olivia fairly radiated pep.

Evelyn Mathews, in a white evening gown, was representative for Mrs. Boyd, beauty specialist. Mrs. Boyd will probably have to hire some more assistants in order to meet the demands of the girls to make them look like Evelyn.

Hazel Thompson, contestant for Ideal Shoe Shop, was striking in black. Just put a blonde in a black dress and let her walk across the stage and she leaves them literally pop-eyed.

Corrine Lanier, with pink on, was contestant for the Gulf Refining Co. We would readily fill our cars with that Good Gulf Gasoline and ride hundreds of miles to see Corrine in another beauty contest.

Henrietta Moore, entrant for L. J. Shuman's grocery store, was dressed in white with red sash and slippers. Henrietta may be small, but "les petites enfants" are dangerous!

Bernice Thomas, gowned in pale blue taffeta, represented In-and-Out Filling Station. Although Bernice is new on the campus the students weren't long in recognizing her beauty.

Cecile Brannen, chosen by S. W. Lewis Motor Co. for their representative, was dressed in yellow with the bodice ornamented with sequins. She literally shone forth. You just simply can't down a red-headed woman!

Carrie Edna Flanders, in pink trimmed with white fur, entered for Statesboro Dry Cleaning Co. Who can resist Carrie Edna dressed in pink?

Sara Pippin, selected by Thackston's, dry cleaners, as their contestant, was beautiful in periwinkle flat crepe. Sara has and always will be a good bet in a beauty contest.

Charlotte Taylor, last but not least, represented Aldred Brothers. She was dressed in pink. While she can't be classified as a Georgia peach, she was as beautiful as one of those pictures you see of those famous Virginia belles of her native state.

The theatre was packed with col-

Inspiring Program Is Given Sunday Night

The Y. W. C. A. presented an interesting and inspiring program of hymns at the vesper service Sunday night. The stories of some of the best known and most sung hymns were told. The students should have a deeper appreciation for these songs since having heard this presentation. The following program was given:

Piano prelude—Elizabeth Edenfield.
Song, "Nearer My God"—Assembly.
Prayer—Mr. Carruth.

Story and song, "Abide With Me"—Katherine Enecks, Hazel Thompson, Helen Enecks, Torrence Brady.

Scripture—Mr. Carruth.
Song, "Jesus Lover of My Soul"—Assembly

Story of "Hymn of Love"—Mr. Carruth.

Song, "Hymn of Love"—Assembly.

Story and song, "Son of My Soul"—Katherine Enecks, Hazel Thompson and Helen Enecks.

Story of "I Love to Steal Awhile"—Corinne Lanier.

Doxology—Assembly.

TEACHERS DEFEAT MARINES FRIDAY

started the 1932-33 season off with a series of well deserved victories. The season opened in Savannah, December 13th, against the Jewish Alliance. Despite the handicap of a small court the Teachers won out 26 to 18. On the 19th of December Norman Park come to play the Teachers at the local gymnasium. They were overwhelmed 47 to 26. On January 6th and 7th the Tigers of South Georgia State College invaded the local quintet for a two-game series. They departed with the memory of two defeats against them, one to the tune of 47 to 34 and the other 57 to 39.

The Teachers have played a good lege students and all of the girls were greeted with thunders of applause as they came forth. T. C. is indeed proud of these girls. They have helped to establish the college's reputation for the appreciation of beauty, one of the fourteen points of the ideals of the college.

brand of ball all season. Four of last year's regulars are now on the squad. In addition several of the subs of last year are back and some good material is available in the newcomers to Collegeboro. The players who have borne the brunt of the work so far are: Hagin, J. E. Smith, Spears, Williams, Pafford, Joe Wrinkle, Jim Wrinkle and Yoemans.

On Friday and Saturday of this week the Teachers will meet the North Georgia College from Dahlonga here in a two-game series.

Dahlonga will bring a team to Statesboro for the first time in many years. Last year they entered the conference tournament but at the last minute withdrew. North Georgia College has always played good basketball and this year's team is reported to be above the average.

The week following the Dahlonga games the Teachers will leave the campus for the first road trip which carries them into Florida. On Wednesday they open the trip with a game with the Atwater-Kent team in Jacksonville. Friday and Saturday, February 3rd and 4th, they meet Middle Georgia College, of Cochran, here and on Tuesday, February 7th, the Jewish Alliance here. Friday, February 10th, a game is scheduled with Brewton-Parker in Mt. Vernon and on Wednesday, February 15th, the Alabama All-Stars come to Statesboro. On Saturday, February 18, the Tidesman start out again and on that evening meet Middle Georgia College at Cochran.

Good preliminaries have been arranged for all the home games between the leading high school teams of this section.
