TEACHERS AND COCHRAN ON TOP OF LIST FOR THE STATE CONFERENCE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Friday and Saturday nights should be the biggest basketball evenings of the present season with the Teachers meeting Cochran on both night, and Millen meeting Portal Friday, with Statesboro High and Benedictine as the preliminary Saturday.

Though the Teachers lost two games last week they are still on top in the Georgia State Conference with Cochran as their companions. Both the Teachers and Cochran are claiming the best team in the conference. Cochran has a clean sheet for the season, having lost no conference games. The Teachers have lost only one conference game and hold a two out of three series over the winner of that game.

In all probability the Teachers and Cochran will play three games before the tournament. Two of these games will be played in Statesboro and one in Cochran. Should Cochran win either one of the games here this week they will have a decided advantage over the Teachers when they go to Cochran for the third game of the series. The hope of Coach Smith's boys is to win both of the games here this week and fight for

Annual Staff Decides To Publish Reflector

Following a meeting last week the staff of the Reflector announce definitely that there will be a book published this year to come off the press late in May.

The staff will depart from the standard form of the college and will attempt to publish a book altogether different from any yet published by the college. The departure is for several reasons. It is the belief of many that the college annual has served its purpose and that the day of the elaborate college annual is passing. In many schools and colleges magazines, newspapers and illustrated booklets have taken the place of the annual. During a period of economic distress, such as we are now witnessing, there is another well founded reason for the passing up of a college annual. It is the purpose of the staff this year to publish an unusual book without one penny's cost to any student. Heretofore the students have paid handsomely for their pictures and space, but this year they will not be called upon for anything at all unless in some rare case where an individual picture may appear and then the student will only be asked to furnish a picture. Money

DEPUTATION TEAM WILL BEGIN TOUR

The faculty members and students of the college will be interested in the announcement made at the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening, that one of the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. deputation teams will be ready to fill its spring engagements beginning Sunday, February 12th.

These teams, as most of you know, visit churches in the district and put on programs, the purpose of which is three-fold: To show the people of the district that the college at Statesboro has organizations composed of students working unselfishly for spiritual advancement among their classmates; to give the students participating an opportunity to express themselves and develop poise, self-control and confidence in speaking before an audience, and last (but not least by any means), to render service in the churches and communities visited. The teams each year, and this team is to be no exception, put forth their best efforts to make the hour a profitable one in that it may be, not merely entertaining, but an inspiration to the membership of the church, both young and old.

With such a splendid membership this year and eager talent with which to work, it is to be regretted we are to be limited to the services of only the one team for the present, due to

FINDLEY PRESENTS NEW ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

BIRD SANCTUARY DEDICATED FRIDAY

The dedication of the Bird Haven at the home of Dr. R. J. H. DeLoach Friday afternoon was witnessed by a large number of students and faculty members of the college.

The exercises began at 4:30 p. m. in Dr. DeLoach's library, where the guests were introduced to Mr. William L. Finley. Dr. DeLoach made the opening speech in which he told of the purpose of the occasion and the benefit that he expected to derive from his efforts to provide a sanctuary for birds.

The dedicatory address was delivered by Mr. Finley. He related some of the various experiences that he had had in his studies of nature, and said that his life had been a holiday because of his contact with birds and animals.

After Mr. Finley's address the guests went out in the open and witnessed the erection of the bird nests. Dr. DeLoach took motion pictures of the guests as they left the library to see the variety of gourds that will

William L. Finley, nationally known naturalist, author and explorer, delighted the students Friday evening with his new thrilling motion picture story of "Alaskan Wild Life and the Kodiak Bear."

Mr. Finley, who is a personal friend of Dr. R. J. H. DeLoach, was brought to the college through the efforts of Dr. DeLoach. Mr. Finley has engagements in Atlanta, Dallas and other large Southern cities and through Dr. DeLoach was persuaded to stop off in Statesboro. Mr. Finley is known as the outstanding photographer of nature and is considered one of the highest priced lecturers on the American platform today.

The new illustrated lecture given by Mr. Finley was the result of several expeditions and two long cruises into British Columbia and Alaska.

Grade-Point Ratios

The grade-point averages, as worked out by the registrar, for students in attendance at the close of the fall term are given below.

A regulation of the college requires that a student earn as many quality points as hours of credit before being granted a diploma. This requirement became effective at the beginning of the fall term, 1932. A grade of A gives the student three quality points per term hour of credit, a grade of B gives two quality points, a grade of C gives one quality point, while all other grades represent no quality points.

There were 433 students in attendance at the close of the fall term. The grade-point average for each has been worked out by the registrar and the average for certain groups also computed. Interesting information is revealed in the following data:

RATIOS OF CLASSES

Classes	Men	Women	Total
Senior	1.49	1.52	1.50
Junior	1.10	1.61	1.31
Sophomore	1.11	1.47	1.34
Freshman95	1.12	1.03
Total	1.02	1.29	1.16
Dormitory	1.15	1.39	1.27
Non-Dormitory89	1.07	.98

The students working to pay part of their expense have a grade-point ratio of 1.33, the football team, .96, and the Math Club 1.68. If there are other group averages which you would like to compare with these, hand the list of the students making up that group to the registrar.

Dramatic Initiation Given Club Pledges

The old members of the Dramatic Club met in the auditorium Wednesday night for the purpose of giving the pledges a "dose of Dramatics." After being assessed a "buffalo" as fee, the following new members were initiated: Nina Dekle, Blaire Salter, Joe Purvis, Kathryn Lovett, Hazel Coleman, Henrietta Dekle, Ralph Gaskins, Bob Shell and Jewett Brown. After having been severely tortured, they were taken to the Home Economics room where refreshments were served for all. (By this time the hearts of the tyrants, that is, of the old members in sheep's clothing, were beginning to soften.)

One new member, namely, Kathryn Lovett, was more unfortunate than the rest, as she was forced to present a program in chapel the following morning. In this program it was discovered that Joe Purvis has been letting his "talents" lie idle and that he is losing money fast by remaining here on the campus. Those who had never seen anyone hypnotized began to sit up and take notice when, before their very eyes, Joe had Blair Salter picking flowers and performing a high-dive, Bob Shell doing a

THE ANNUAL

We are glad to note that the members of the annual staff have abandoned the idea of not publishing the Reflector this year. For, what blessed thing is memory! When time hangs heavy on our hands, when the way seems weary, how good it is to go back and claim again the joys and friendships that were once our own, and when memory grows dim, how vividly does a picture or sentence bring back to our minds the comrades of days gone by.

As we leave college, close contacts are broken, in many cases never to be formed again. We part from those with whom we have daily associated and go out into widely separated fields of work. The annual can serve to keep green the memory of our college days.

We hope that the student body will co-operate with the Reflector staff and help them carry out their plans for the 1932-33 yearbook.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

What is school spirit? It is one of those immaterial things that mean so much to college life. It flows beneath the surface, yet its effect can be felt on every campus — in every gathering of students. It is that something, almost indefinable, which changes the whole aspect of the students to the school; of the patrons to the school. It is that something which strangers feel and notice in the atmosphere on entering the campus.

For our purpose let us consider school spirit as expressed loyalty—expressed not alone in words, but more often in actions. It is your attitude toward your school, your instructors, your classes—every phase of college life.

Do you have school spirit? Do you co-operate in all the work that is carried on? Do you use your influence in making this a better place in which to live? Do you engage in the various activities? Do you attend athletic games? When you go, do you sit back and just look on, or do you share in winning the game by really putting your vim and vigor into yelling and encouraging the team to fight?

School spirit is displayed every day on the campus. Are you going to stand by and watch the others do every thing? You will be the loser—they will be the gainers.

COURTESY TO OUR VISITORS

For the benefit of the students the Athletic Association has scheduled practically all basketball games at home and out of nine games played this season only three have been played away. Six games remain on the schedule and only one of these will be played away.

In return the Athletic Association is asking for the co-operation of the students at these home games. The gate receipts for this season have been very small. The association is doing everything possible to get a crowd out for the games. It would be a fine thing if the students would be a little more considerate of those people who come out to the games from Statesboro and nearby towns. Many complaints have been made that students stand up in the balconies and obstruct the view. The Athletic Association believes that everybody will be able to see the games from any place in the balcony provided everyone remains seated during the game.

The association is also asking that students sit in the balconies and not around the court on benches provided for visiting teams, players, officials and others. When there is a preliminary game seats must be provided for about fifty players and coaches. In the past players from visiting teams have been forced to stand and we do not want this to happen again. Please let's help our crowds by being courteous to our visitors and co-operate with the association.

TRADITIONS

Are there any traditions of which the school has a right to be proud? There may be only a few because this school is young and has not had time to develop them, but if we attempt in the future to have any, we must start today, for the dreams of today are the actualities of tomorrow. One of these traditions of which we might be proud is that of the men wearing coats to vesper. It is a little thing in itself, but in the end it will prove more than it seems. We are judged by our appearances, and if, when we meet together in an activity so world-wide in its scope, we are not careful as to our appearances it will seem that we are small and little in our school and its activities. We, the men, can show by our smallest actions that we have a highest respect for co-eds by watching just such small things as this and in doing so we can establish a tradition of which in after years we can be justly proud.

"YE ATHLETES"

By JOSEPHINE MURPHY

Did you know that there is a course offered this term entitled, "The Athlete in the Making?" Well, there is!

When we say athletes whom do you think of? Spears, Shaw, Mobley, Riggs, Hagan, Williams, Smith or the Wrinkle brothers?

You're all wrong; on investigating it was found that this class was made up of such athletes as Elmo Biggers, "Big R." Marr, Bill Everett, Ralph Stephens, Guy Nicholson, Maurice Grahl, "Dud" Boykin, A. W. Bacon, Lancaster, etc. Sounds like a collection of "All Americans," doesn't it?

The only discordant figure in the whole class is the instructor-coach, Smith. The class feels that they need more of an athlete for a teacher, and think that Prof. Bob Donaldson would be ideal.

Elmo Biggers, one of the athletes in the making, says that his object in taking the course is to be prepared to enter Tulane this fall and make a name for himself of which even Don Zimmeran would be envious. So don't be surprised next fall if you see this headline in the sports section of the newspapers, "Biggers, famous Tulane half-back, dashes 20 yards down the field for a touchdown."

Bill Everett, who is well known on the campus for his participation in all forms of athletics, has refrained from smoking since signing up for the course. He says that his chest has expanded two and one-half inches and that his biceps resemble those of Earl Liderman. If you don't believe it, just go to Bill, he will show you.

Maurice Grahl, while perhaps not as well known for his record in athletics as Bill is, has established a reputation for himself on the side lines. Maurice has been on the "water wagon" since entering upon this course of study. Just notice how springy his step is, and the color in his cheeks. "Although I may fail in my aspiration for a position on the All-American," said Maurice, "perhaps this course will help me when I enter my career as a preacher; for when I preach on the vices of prohibition and the poor sportsmanship exhibited by 'booing' on the side lines, I am going to make some gestures so forceful that a good pair of muscles will come in handy."

Ralph Stephens' aim in taking the course is not to become an athlete, but to be a famous sports writer like Grantland Rice or Allan J. Gould. He says that by mingling with this group of athletes he learns all the sports jargon of the day.

"Big R." Marr, another of the athletes in the making, explains that his aim is not to enter anything so brutal as football—his size would handicap him there—but he intends to enter the field of golf, and equal Bobby Jones in prowess. We wondered why "Big R." has been affecting knickers so much lately.

"Dud" Boykin, one of our "three-letter men," says that after receiving his degree here in June, he has been

AN EPISTLE

Dear Editor:

I have something on my chest and if you will be so kind as to allow me enough space in the George-Anne, I would like to give some wholesome advice (or suggestions).

When one comes to think of it, the students at T. C. have, as a whole, failed to get into the real spirit of the college. The one big "key note" that we have missed is "co-operation." We have failed to co-operate with the work of the institution. Now here is my plea, fellow students, let's all co-operate with the group in every activity. Cut out the talking in chapel after the second bell and get ready for the program by giving attention. Try, for a few minutes to be quiet and not run your tongue to death. Stop and think, for the old saying is, "an empty wagon makes the most noise." Have a good time but please have enough pride and self-respect to stop talking and listen when someone has the floor.

Why not leave off the rush and roar at the dining hall? The food will wait and I think there will be enough for all.

And another thing—this "buzzing" and talking aloud in class. It is for your own good that you act like college students in the classroom. This is a college and not a high school, so don't use high school pranks. If you are going to classes to talk and annoy those around you, then you would be better off at home.

(Editor, I hope you will not think that I am "hard-boiled"—I only want to make the thoughtless students stop and think.)

The preliminary Friday should be a corker with Millen and Portal furnishing the opposition. Portal has picked up one hundred per cent since their first game, while Millen is boasting one of the best teams in years.

Saturday evening the gymnasium is expected to be packed to capacity when Statesboro High ties up with B. C. of Savannah in the preliminary. The preliminaries will begin at 7:30 o'clock with the main go to follow.

offered Wallace Wade's position as coach at Duke, but thinks seriously of going to Notre Dame to try and fill the void left by Knute Rockne.

Guy Nicholson boasts that when he goes out for football this fall that the current song hit, "All-American Girl," will have to be revised and this line added, "She has a full-back at ole T. C." The full-back being him, of course.

All of the class say that they expect to be presented with "letters" at the end of the term. (They all prefer A.) We look forward with pleasure to seeing the finished products at the end of the term come out of this course, "The Athlete in the Making."

CLUBS

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club met Monday night at 7:30 in the auditorium. The meeting was called to order by the president and the minutes of the last meeting were read. The president then called for a meeting of the club officers and program committee immediately after adjournment.

The following program was given: Song, "Love's Old Sweet Song"—The club.

Song, "Auld Lang Syne"—The club.

Piano solo—Sara Kate Scarboro.

Talk Talk, "An Abundant Color in Gardens"—Edna Bennett.

Reading, "Telling the Truth"—Julia Reese.

D. S. CLUB

The D. S. Club entertained with a scavenger hunt Tuesday night. The members and their guests assembled at the home of Earl and J. W. Riggs. From there the hunt began. After the hunt refreshments were served at the "Teapot Grill," after which dancing was enjoyed at the Riggs home.

Members present were M. A. Shaw, Gene Woods, Elliot Battle, Lehman Franklin, Gordon Mays, J. E. Smith, Fred Paige, Earl Riggs, Jake Riggs, Henry Bussey, James Sullivan, Tamadge Ramsey, Earl Lee and Claude Howard.

Invited guests were Menza Cumming, sponsor; Evalyn Simmons, Cecile Brannen, Edith Tyson, Frances Stenbridge, Daisy Vining, Olivia Purvis, Louise Addison, Charlotte Taylor, Henrietta Moore, Lena Josey, Sara Mooney and Reta Lee.

DUX DOMINA CLUB

The Dux Domina Club was organized just before Christmas. The following officers were elected: President, Corinne Lanier; vice-president, Newelle DeLoach; secretary, Bill Proctor; treasurer, Louise Christian.

There are sixteen members of the club with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Smith acting as sponsors. The club entertained Saturday night, January 21st, with a dance at the Merri-Gold. The hall was artistically decorated with a large Japanese lantern in the center with streamers of Spanish moss extending to each corner of the room. Gaily colored balloons and serpentine were hung from the moss. The music was furnished by the "Ramblers." Refreshments were served during the evening. The beautiful music and decorated room furnished an enjoyable evening.

Those present were: Emily Brooks, Skeet Hill, Bernice Thomas, Rebecca Franklin, Reba Moore, Joe Davis, Louise Quantock, Lucile Cannady, Arretha Holloway, Louise Christian, Alice Grey, Corinne Lanier, Frank Quattlebaum, Jake Riggs, Elliot Battle, James Sullivan, Stro Lewis, Charlie Munch, Jewett Brown, Coonie Riggs, H. H. Olliff, Newt Wall, John Dickens, Gene Woods.

SOCIETIES CHANGE MEETING PLACES

The Oglethorpe Literary Society will hold its next meeting in the old training school building and the Stephens Society will meet in the auditorium.

In previous years the societies have met in the auditorium and room nine of the administration building. But due to the increased student body this year, room nine is too small to accommodate all the members of the societies. It was decided that the Stephens society should meet in the old training school building for the first half of the school year and the Oglethorpe society the second half.

MATH CLUB

The Math Club will hold its regular meeting tonight in the auditorium at 7 o'clock. At the last meeting the club initiated fifteen new members into the organization. It is believed that they will be a real asset to the club as they are the outstanding Math students on the campus.

The following program will be presented at the meeting tonight:

Math Club Songs.

Some of the Best Puzzles I Have Ever Heard—Henry Taylor.

A Number Story of Long Ago—Rena Poppell.

A clever skit illustrating a movement at S. G. T. C. to make pi exactly 3 instead of 3.1416.

The book to be published will not only concern itself with the history of the college in 1932-33, but in other years also. The staff will attempt to weave some history of the state into the book and issue it as a bi-centennial issue of the Reflector. All student activities will be represented in the book and an elaborate view section will be carried.

She's tall, she's fair, and about as thin as a college boy's bill fold and, oh!—is she beautiful? A girl who carries herself like a princess and is distinctly individual looking with her mass of light hair perfectly waved and drawn back from her face and caught at the nape of her neck with bone pins.

When you see her on the campus or in the dormitory you know that she is all out of place. One could easily imagine her as a cloistered nun, with sorrowful eyes and a religious mien kneeling to plead for the souls of others. She would look equally well in a long grey sport roadster, or sitting daintily dressed in wide pink flounces and shaded by a small ruffled parasol, in a befringed carriage drawn by a pair of prancing horses.

She seems to be a dual personality, a combination of the restrained shyness of the girl of long ago and the unabashed frankness and abandon of the young modern of today.

LARGE NUMBER ENJOY PROGRAM

Twenty seasons of travel and adventure have produced over 200,000 feet of motion picture film and 25,000 still life negatives, the most remarkable record of American wild animal pictures ever made.

During this time the Finleys have written three books "American Birds," "Wild Animal Pets" and "Little Bird Blue." Nearly two hundred of their articles have appeared in leading magazines and newspapers of America and Europe. Twenty different seasons have taken Mr. Finley through nearly every state in the Union. Three large federal wild animal reservations and several state refuges stand as the record of his efforts in arousing popular interest to conserving our outdoor resources. The cruises were made during the summer of 1931. The pictures are spectacular and proved to be most interesting. Mr. Finley exhibited motion pictures of great blocks of ice, hundreds of tons in weight, breaking from the top of the Muir Glacier and plunging into the sea. The glacier itself from which these icebergs broke was a mile wide. One of the most spectacular pictures showed two whales jumping into the air in play and landing on their backs with tremendous smacks. This picture was the first time a whale had ever been pictured leaping from the water. Some interesting shots were taken at

Basketball Review

Out of nine games the Teachers have lost only two this season and both these defeats came last week on a road trip which carried Coach Smith and the boys into South Georgia and Florida.

For the first time this season the Blue Tide came off a basketball court beaten, though in both games last week they played jam-up basketball. At Douglas Wednesday evening the South Georgia College won from the Teachers 32-29, a three-point win, however the Teachers hold two games over Douglas and this defeat Wednesday will not affect the record in the Georgia State Conference. In Jacksonville Thursday night the Teachers lost to the strong Atwater-Kent team by two points 29-27. The Atwater-Kent team is said to be the best in the state and have been Florida state champions for the past three years.

In the nine games played this season the Teachers have scored 339 points to their opponents combined score of 254 points. With the exception of the two games last week the Teachers have won all their games by a safe margin and no games ended with the fans undecided about the outcome early in the game.

Though the Teachers record for the season is something to brag about they still have some strong teams to meet beginning here Friday and Saturday with Middle Georgia College. Then on Wednesday of next week the Jewish Alliance of Savannah will come to Statesboro for their second game. The J. E. A. has lost only one game this season and that to the Teachers in Savannah early in December. Since that time they have improved considerably and the Tide will be forced to put everything they have into the game next Wednesday if they hope to win. Two days after the J. E. A. game, Friday of next week, the Teachers will meet Gordon College on the local court. The following week, Wednesday, February 15th, the Teachers will play the Alabama All-Stars here and the following week will return the Middle Georgia College game, going to Cochran for one game. The Cochran game will probably be the last game for the season before the conference tournament, which will either be held here or in Douglas.

a distance of twenty-five feet showing bears rushing into a stream of water and catching salmon. Many pictures were shown of birds taken off the Alaskan coast.

For the past twenty-five years Mr. and Mrs. Finley have hunted with cameras and notebooks, packing through the wilder parts of the Cascades and Rocky Mountain ranges, and in many of the national parks. They have scaled the snow-capped peaks of Jefferson, Hood and Ranier. On various cruises they have explored many bird islands in the Gulf of Mexico, the picturesque coast line of British Columbia, the haunts of big game in Alaska, northern glaciers and volcanoes and the outpost islands of Bering Sea.

JOY OF BEING ON THE STAFF

Getting out this paper is no picnic. If we print jokes, people say we are too silly.

If we print them, the paper is fill-serious.

If we clip things from other papers, we are too lazy to write.

If we don't, we are stuck on our own stuff.

If we stick close to the job, we ought to be out hunting news.

If we go out and try to hustle, we ought to be on the job in the classroom.

If we fail to print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius.

If we print them, the paper is filled with undesirable material.

If we make a change in the other fellow's write-up, we are to critical.

If we don't, we are asleep.

What in the duce SHALL we do?

LEARNING AND LIVING IN COLLEGE

(By HARRY BONE, in Inter-Collegian)

It has become a truism that the educated person is not one possessed of factual knowledge, academic degrees, or specialized skill, but rather one who has achieved, or better, is progressively achieving, the knowledge, skills and attitudes necessary to effective, beautiful, ethical, religious living. In the light of this functional ideal the colleges are being severely criticised, and some consider them a positive hindrance to an education of this sort. Certainly some individuals are incapable of college work, and others, the erratic geniuses, might avoid having their style cramped by staying away. But for many, a college course represents the most productive way of spending four years of middle-adolescence, provided one is aware of the pitfalls.

The most subtle handicap is the tendency to assume that one is getting an education simply because one is in an educational institution. One pays his matriculation fee, introduces his plastic and inquiring soul into the marvelous machine, fills the assignments and passes the exams, and is automatically ground out after four years, with a diploma in his hand, "educated, b'gosh!" I have noted an unusual resourcefulness among slum boys and girls—they know that what they get they must get for themselves. The college students should know the same thing. No college can educate anyone. If you become an educated person, you must educate yourself—in college or out. The college merely offers certain facilities—together with certain hindrances.

be the future home of birds. He also took pictures of the activities of the placement of the nests.

After the nests were put into place, the spectators assembled again in the library where they were served refreshments.

Woman's Athletics

The Woman's Athletic Association has planned a program of extra-mural games for the girls at T. C. The women faculty members and the freshmen girls have already played one game of the series of soccer games that have been planned. The tournaments will continue with games between the societies and classes. Katherine Enecks is manager.

Since the holidays, the girls have displayed keen interest in basketball. Enough girls have reported for practice to compose three complete teams.

The girls are looking forward with anticipation to the game with B.-P. I., which is scheduled to be played on February 12th in Vidalia. Other competitive games have not been scheduled as yet.

In the competitive games of the past two seasons, the T. C. team has been very successful, having a record of no games lost. From comments made by several of the old members of the team, the association feels assured that this year's team will be equally successful.

The girls' basketball team started the season successfully in Savannah Saturday night, January 21st, by defeating the Savannah Business Women's Club by a score of 42-17.

No spectacular plays were made, but everyone co-operated with teamwork which made the victory possible. Johnnie B. Rewis, who starred as forward, had 27 of the points in her favor; while Edna Fay Jackson, star guard, allowed her forward to score only one field goal.

With a safe lead at the half substitutes were sent in and before the final whistle blew every member of the squad had played.

A return game will be played soon and a fight will be made to keep the record of no games lost, made two years ago by the girls, and with the aid of Miss Lane and assistant coaches, it is believed that this can be done.

Frosh: "What is the date please?"
Prof.: "Never mind the date. The examination is more important."

Frosh: "Well, I wanted to have something right on my paper."

Joint Retreat Enjoyed By Cabinet Members

Laden with baskets of hot dogs, dill pickles and the necessary loaves of bread, the members of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. cabinets set out last Monday afternoon for a retreat to Lover's Hill. As the destination suggests, it was quite a romantic undertaking as well as an opportunity to discuss the future programs of these two organizations.

Those going on the retreat were Almirita Lindsey, Sara Pippin, Hassie Maude McElveen, Wilma New, Hazel Thompson, Henrietta Doster, Charles Shafe, I. D. Nichols, Leonard Kent, Preston Sandifer, Jim Wrinkle and Eugene Kinney. Miss Lane and Mrs. Singley, sponsors of the Y. W. C. A., were also included in the party.

Miss Newton Returns From Duke University

Miss Hester Newton returned from Duke University Sunday.

Miss Newton, who is connected with the history department here, has been away since early fall working on her Ph. D. at Duke University.

In the summer of 1928 Miss Newton first came to South Georgia Teachers College. Since then she has taken an active part in all extra-curricular activities and was particularly interested in the Stephens Literary Society. She will resume her duties this morning.

We, as students, feel that Miss Newton is sincere in her work and we enjoy her classes. While she was gone we missed her, but now, above all, we are glad to see her back.
