DON'T LOSE IT.

There are one hundred and one ways to loose your money if it is not put in a bank. It might be stolen, lost, burned up, misplaced or misspent. But when placed in a bank none of these can happen to it. Furthermore, you have a written record of where it came from and where it was spent. Your deposit book shows just when every dollar was deposited and your cancelled checks show just when and how it was expended. You will find it a decided advantage to handle all your funds this way. We open an account for any amount, large or small alike have the same careful attention.

CENTRAL AWARDS SCHOLARSHIP.

Lewis, Son of Mr. Morgan R. Akins Wins Prize Scholarship to Athens School.

Herewith we reproduce a letter from Mr. W. A. Winburn vice president of The Central of Georgia Railway addressed to Mr. Lewis Akins of this county awarding him the free scholarship to the State Agricultural College at Athens. The letter follows, and speaks for itself.

Savannah, Ga. Dec. 27th, 1912.
Mr. Lewis Akins, R. F. D. No 1 Statesboro, Georgia.

Dear Sir:

I am advised that you are the winner of the prize offered by the Central of Georgia Railway for the Boys Corn Club contest in your county and have chosen the scholarship for the short course at the State Agricultural College, January 2-14, 1913. We have, therefore, arranged to deliver to you, through Mr. J. Phil Campbell, State Organizer of Boys Corn Clubs, on your arrival at Athens, $25.00, which will cover your railroad fare to and from Athens and your board and lodging at Athens for the twelve days during the short course. If you happen to live near Athens so that the railroad fare will be less, there will be some spending money left over for you.

In order to make your winning crop of corn, you had to learn considerable about the best methods of corn cultivation, and I am glad to note that it has inspired in you the desire to learn more about up-to-date farming methods generally, and I am sure you will profit by the instructions gained at the State College of Agriculture.

Wishing you a Happy New Year and a pleasant time at Athens, I am,

Yours truly,
W. A. Winburn.
Vice-President.

T. A. Waters Passes to Beyond.

On Friday night just as the clock struck the hour of twelve, the spirit of Mr. T. A. Waters, commonly known as "Uncle Aleck" passed to its maker. Mr. Waters suffered an attack of what was at first thought to be acute indigestion a few days ago, a physician was called and an examination showed that he had a case of appendicitis together with locked bowels, an operation was made at the Sanitarium where he was taken for treatment, and the patient rallied, but on Friday morning his condition began to grow worse, and death ended his sufferings at mid night.

The deceased was one of Bulloch's most highly respected and honorable citizens, every body who knew him was his friend, he never lost an opportunity to assist his fellow man and was noted for his constant administration to the needs of those more unfortunate than him self.

He was a prominent Mason and his funeral which will occur Sunday morning at eleven o'clock will be attended with masonic honors. He has served as tyler of the Ogeechee Lodge of Statesboro for the past twenty seven years, and had only recently been elected to serve another year. Rev. T. J. Cobb will preach the funeral sermon at the cemetery tomorrow.

Change in preachig hours at Friendship and Oak Grove churches. Friendship 11 o'clock sun time. Oak Grove 3 o'clock sun time, both on first Sunday.

New Officers Take Charge.

The personnel of the county of ficials in the Court house has been changed somewhat. Mr. W. H.

One succeeding S. L. Moore in the Ordinary's office. T. J. Denmark

takes the reins in the Clerk's office which was laid down by A. E.

Temples, Sheriff Donaldson succeeds himself, as does Solicitor of the City Court F. T. Lanier; Judge

Strange's term does not expire for two years yet, and County School

Commissioner B. R. Olliff has only recently been inducted into office.

M. R. Akins succeeds C. W. Zett-erow as tax collector and J. C. Jones succeeds J. D. Bittch as

County Treasurer, and J. D. McEl-

even succeeds T. A. Wilson as Receiver of Tax Returns. G. M. Love-

ran for coroner without opposition

and Messrs W. H. Sharpe and J.

M. Hendricks takes the places of Messrs Z. T. DeLoach and C. M.

Davis on the Board of County

Commissioners. Col. R. Lee Moore

also steps into the shoes of Solicitor General Alf. Herrington, effective Jan. 1st.

The officers go in with the county affairs in good shape and will no doubt have no trouble in keeping them up to the high standard of management which has characterized them in the past. They will have the solid citizenry of the county back of their management of the county's affairs.

County Board Organizes.

At the called meeting of the Board of County Commissioners

held on Thursday, Mr. C. O. DeLoach

was elected chairman of the board and Dr. M. L. Lively was re-elected county physician. J. A. Brannen

was elected warden and A. L. De-

Loach was elected as deputy warden. A petition from the citizens in the vicinity of Metter asked that the county bear its proportionate share with Tattall county

in the construction of a bridge across the Canoochee river at what is known as Rocky Ford. A committee was appointed to investigate the matter.

Death of Mallie Bland.

On Sunday morning at his home

Hubert, in this county, Mr. M.

Mallie M. Bland passed peacefully away. He had had a complication of troubles, and had been in bad

health for some time, but his death

came unexpected to his family and friends. The funeral and interment was at Lane's church on Sunday afternoon. He leaves a family and many relatives and friends to mourn

his loss.

McCoy Succeeds Denmark

The friends of Mr. D. F. McCoy

will be pleased to learn of his appointment as state bank examiner,

to succeed T. J. Denmark, who resigned to take charge of the Clerk's office here the first of the year. Mr. McCoy is thoroughly equipped to discharge the duties

of the important and responsible position.

The Fire Alarm.

How would you like to be sick

and have to listen at our fire alarm?

It is an outrage on the people, and should be stopped.

If men cannot be brought to a fire by a bell, better let the prop-

WIFE EMPLOYS MAN TO MURDER HUSBAND.

Macon, Ga., Dec. 30.—James King

precipitated his own death by the discovery of intimate relations between his wife and Nick Wilburn,

is the opinion of Detective Moore

who worked up the case and arrested Mrs. King and Wilburn and received the later's confession.

Detective Moore stated this afternoon he ascertained that four days before the killing King communicated to a friend, John B.

Gordon, of Round Oak, that he

had learned of the intimacy between his wife and Nick Wilburn.

It is believed that the pair also know that he had found them out and that they then decided that he should die without further delay.

Mr. Gordon says that King asked him for advice, but that he declined to be drawn into the affair and merely told him to use his own judgement.

Mrs. Kate King and Nick Wilburn will not be tried for the murder of Mrs. King's husband until the regular term of the Jones superior court in April.

Because of the intense feeling in the case at Round Oak and all over Jones county, officials have abandoned the proposed idea to call a special session and the case

will take its regular course on the docket.

Mrs. King spent today in the

Jones county jail without any callers. It is understood that neither

she nor Wilburn have arranged for counsel.

The brother and sisters of Mrs.

King continued firm in their previously announced resolutions not to interfere with the course of the law in the prosecution of their sister. Following the announcement

Saturday that there would be no

defence on the part of the relatives

it was freely predicted they would soon weaken. However, at a conference yesterday afternoon, it is said vows to turn their backs on their sister were renewed by the members of her immediate family.

NEED EXERCISE NO HELP.

The conference Sunday was held at the home of Mrs. John King, near Round Oak. All three sisters and W. S. Simmons, Mrs. King's brother were present.

At this conference the sisters' declarations that Mrs. King should hang if guilty were reiterated.

"If hanging is the penalty for her crime, then she should hang,"

Mrs. King declared. "If

Katherine were not guilty we would spend every dollar we have in the hope of saving her, but we feel she has disgraced us and her children, and she needs not expect any assistance from us."

All Jones county is still dumb-

founded at the revelations concerning the death of the planter. Everywhere feeling appears to be growing more intense and it was for this reason that the proposed

special session of court was abandoned. There is little sympathy for either Mrs. King or Wilburn.

Sheriff Charles Roberts stated

today that he will keep Wilburn

in the Bibb county jail until the day of his trial.

The cell occupied by Mrs. King

in the Jones county jail is that next to the gallows. Her chief draw seems to be that she will die on the scaffold. "If they only wouldn't hang me, I would welcome

death," she has said.

Yesterday she told again of her relations with Nick Wilburn. "If

I had only slapped Nick Wilburn face the first time he squeezed my hand!" she sobbed.

The five youngest children of Mrs. King are at the home of her sister, Mrs. John King, at Agattesville, Jones county. Charles the little four year old boy who has never before been separated from his mother, cried for her for hours

at the time.

Sympathy through out the section is entirely for the children and Mrs. John King.

Wilburn in the Bibb county jail continues early and sultry, and refuses to see visitors. He declared

today that the newspapers are giving him a "raw deal" and that her

has been misrepresented.

Detective Moore, of the South

Coast Detective agency, who worked up the case against Mrs. King and Wilburn and arrested them and who received Wilburn's confession

states that he has ascertained

some additional facts in this affair.

He has ascertained that four

days before the killing King com-

municated to a friend, John B.

Gordon, of Round Oak, that he

had learned of the intimacy between his wife and Nick Wilburn.

RESPONSIVENESS.

THERE isn't a bigger word in the language than the word "responsiveness." In its complete sense, it does not merely mean quick comprehension, ready grasp of a given subject. It means more. It means to be in sympathy.

IT is just as true today as it ever was that "a house divided against itself shall fall." And this leads up to the thought that in just such measure as there is lack of harmony between the members of any organization, to that extent the organization is a loser.

SO LONG as men of varying temperaments and habits of thought are thrown together, there are bound to be cliques, clans, cheap ridicule, dissensions—discords. A recognition of this truth and an earnest effort on the part of each to be broader and more lenient in his views, will contribute a whole lot toward getting things done as they should be done. Petty jealousies and obstinacy are responsible for a good deal of lost motion and a certain degree of self-obliviousness is essential to the best interests of any well-organized body of men.

THE man who goes about with a chip on his shoulder in the constant attitude of "standing up for his rights," imaginary or otherwise, is not rendering the highest service he might, because he is thinking too much about himself to the detriment of the firm's interests. In the long run, he doesn't get the best he is capable of getting because he doesn't give it. The habit of looking for slights, of cherishing grudges, makes him irresponsive.

IT is a mighty hard thing to be patient and keep the peace when a dozen different things are going wrong, but you can sit down as a definite rule and depend upon it without exception that there is absolutely nothing in the habit of "getting mad." Anger pays no dividends, to put it more plainly, if the time that is sometimes spent scrapping and "knocking were concentrated upon setting discrepancies to right, a whole lot more would often be accomplished. We can't afford to be small and pitted, either in justice to the house, to our associates or to ourselves. None of us are infallible. Slip ups are bound to occur in any organization. The best we can do is to guard against them in every way possible, and when they do occur, deal with them deliberately and sanely.

WE ALL know that the first duty of a good soldier is to obey, but not all our citizens know that one of their chief duties lies in not giving orders that are unreasonable. Fortunately, there are executives whose influence is an inspiration and a positive benefit. They are far more rare, though, than they should be. Such men know exactly what they want. They make clear to others what they want. At the same time they leave plenty of leeway for initiative and individuality. Men of this calibre are above constant nagging and picking. They do more than expect responsiveness from their helpers. They are responsive to them. There is mutual sympathy—they work together, not at swords' point.

MUTUAL responsiveness is a remedy for many of those business ills that throw different departments out of balance. When misunderstandings and unpleasant relations arise between individuals, let us remember that we are not children who are not here to quarrel and vent our spleen on each other—but that we're here to ravel the problem out—to work together, just as a good team works—to get the thing done as it should be done, by being mutually responsive.

French Market Coffee Is the National Drink of the South

Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and the gallants of the old South were enthusiastic lovers of this rare old French coffee. Today the identical, historic French blend is perpetuated by a so great is the demand for French Market Coffee that it has become "The National Drink of the South."

The smooth, exhilarating quality of French Market Coffee is totally unlike ordinary coffees.

The French Market Mills have the great advantage of the first selection of the best of the Pan-American coffees. These fine coffees have never been exposed to the injurious effects of a cold northern climate. The berries are rich in everything that goes to make a perfect coffee.

In the South, especially, French Market Coffee is packed in airtight, hermetically-sealed tins and delivered anywhere in the world in all its freshness and delicious aroma.

Gentlemen: Please accept my thanks for the Empire Life Insurance Company's Check No. 18,473, for Three Thousand Three Hundred and Forty-five Dollars and Twelve Cents ($3,000) in full of my claim on policy No. 25561 in the Empire Life Insurance Company.

The above numbered policy for Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000) was issued to Mr. William Sankey Mattox, deceased, on January 2nd, 1911. He had paid only two premiums, amounting to Three Hundred and Forty Five Dollars and Twelve Cents ($345.12). According to the terms of the policy, the company agreed that in the event of Mr. Mattox's death before the policy matured they would refund all premiums paid. This is why they have paid $3,345.12 in settlement of the $3,000 policy.

I cheerfully recommend the Empire Life Insurance Company to any one who contemplates taking out any life insurance. Yours truly, LILLIE BELLE MATTOX, Temporary Administrator

WE'LL DO IT.

"My main trouble," said a farmer, "is in keeping track of what I take in and pay out." We presume this is true of a great many people, and we wish to offer this plan of overcoming the trouble. Deposit all your funds in the bank as fast as received, and make all expenditures by check. From the bank records you can always tell the source, amount and date of your income, and your checks show on their face the amount and reason for all expenditures. Your bank book is a record of all transactions, simple, complete and convenient. In other words, let the bank keep your books for you.

SAVANNAH TO REBUILD FIRE SWEEP SECTION

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 3.—Plans are already under way for the rebuilding of that section of the water front burned early Sunday morning. The Merchants and Miners' Transportation company, whose wharves were destroyed, has made arrangements for a temporary wharf and the Ocean Steamship company and Central railway which owned much of the destroyed property will at once begin its reconstruction.

It is expected the new wharves will be in many ways superior to those destroyed. A large number of insurance adjusters reached the city this morning to take up the question of losses for settlement. The question of losses for low the actual financial losses.

Many firemen are laid up today, suffering from various causes, as the result of their long tour of duty. Most of them complain of the effect upon their eyes of the heavy smoke, which was in some instances laden with fumes of acids stored in the burned warehouses.

Practically a half mile of the most valuable portion of Savannah's water front was raked by a fire at an early hour Sunday morning, that did probably a million and a half dollars' worth of damage and for several hours threatened the city with the most serious conflagration it has experienced in many years.

The magnificent wharves of the Merchant and Miners' Transportation company, with warehouses filled with freight just brought into port by steamers from Baltimore and Philadelphia, were quickly turned into a ruined mass by the flames.

Large storage warehouses filled with many articles of value were wiped out by the fire in a short time.

The heaviest losers are: The Ocean Steamship company, which owned the docks under lease to the Merchants and Miners' Transportation company; the American Steel and Wire company, which had an immense storage warehouse filled with its products intended for distribution to many points in the south; the Conklin Tin Plate company, which also had a distribution point here, and the Crane company, large dealers in plumbing supplies, whose warehouse had just been replenished for the early spring business.

The Atlantic Coast Line railway also had an office with valuable records in the ruins of the Planters' rice mill a few blocks from the center of the conflagration went up in smoke with the river front property.

The burned area extends from a point west of West Broad street to the Ogeechee canal, which divides the docks of the Ocean Steamship company from those of the Merchants and Miners'.

Because of the peculiar location of the fire, the fire department found it very hard to fight it. The river blanketed one side of the burning mass and the other was enclosed in massive warehouse walls, which were hard to get into and in which it was almost impossible to fight the flames because of the large freight accumulation.

A block away from the center of the fire lies Yamocraw, a densely populated section of the city, made up largely of small wooden houses, and it was realized that if the fire reached this section the loss would run much greater than it did. The efforts of the firemen were directed largely to saving this section and keeping the flames from spreading eastward toward the river front.

Overland $985
F.O.B. TOLEDO, O.

It's Worth More than it Costs You

OF COURSE you admit the value of the automobile for any one who has to go from one place to another—and wants to get there and back quickly. We all agree on that point.

The cost of the automobile is what is worrying you, maybe.

You wonder is it worth the money—to you.

Have you ever noticed that when a man buys an automobile, and, after using it, either in his business or for pleasure, or for both, sells it, always buys another one?

Yes? Well, that's the answer.

Buy an automobile, find out that its price is an investment rather than an expense, and you can't do without it. You wouldn't want to.

Because you will have found that the car is worth more to you than it cost you, that it has added to your capacity of doing business, that it made one hour do the work of three; that the store, the theatre, the folks ten miles away, have suddenly become your next-door neighbors, that it has given a store of health to you and your family.

Which automobile?

The Overland—because it is the best value that money can buy.

Whatever your notions are as to what an automobile should be to do justice to your requirements, whether you value power, speed, or impressive appearance, low cost of upkeep, or the kind of durability—

Overland durability makes the possession of a car, a source of down-right satisfaction, you can't afford to consider any automobile without first investigating the new Overland.

Just come and take a look at it. Compare it with others. Let us give you a ride in the big, fully equipped Overland; it involves no obligation on your part. Then draw your own conclusions.—That's all.

Herrington's LIVER PILLS For Georgia People.

A twenty-five thousand dollar company under the name of The Herrington Company has been organized in Waynesboro, Burke County, Ga., the home of Herrington Liver Pills for Georgia People, to put them on the market throughout the Southern States.

The Herrington Company is composed of E. E. Chance, Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, Vice-President Bank of Waynesboro and planter; Joe J. Reynolds, manager of Southern Cotton Oil Company, of Waynesboro, bank director, member city council and planter; W. M. Fulcher, president Peoples Saving Bank of Waynesboro, clerk superior court and planter, John L. Boyd, Vice-President of Peoples Saving Bank, of Waynesboro, member County Commissioners and planter; Wm. H. Davis, Judge City Court of Waynesboro, bank director, president Burke County Oil Mills, and planter, and G. P. Duncan, Advertising Salesman.

Herrington's LIVER PILLS For Georgia People

Clean out the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Bowels, thereby preventing and relieving Hemorrhagic, Bilious, Malaria, and all forms of fever. Headache, Neuralgia, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Backache, Pains in Side and Limbs. MAKES and KEEPS YOU WELL.

Statement from Dr. L. P. Herrington

Waynesboro, Ga., Jan. 1st, 1913—It is with pardonable pride that I hand over my pills to The Herrington Company, who will use them as I have tried to do to bless the world. This company will be able to reach thousands of suffering people whom I never could hope to see. In these pills is my life work of twenty-five years in the active practice of regular medicine. That they have already relieved homes and people without number is expressing the truth modestly. They were born during the worst epidemic of hemorrhagic fever this county ever saw in an effort to get some compound that would prevent that disease. These pills have prevented thousands from having malaria fevers and I believe that it is due to these pills that hemorrhagic fever has been largely eliminated from our county. Since their birth, twenty-five years ago, they have been my stand-by in treating all forms of malaria. I commend them to the public with the modest assurance that they will clean out the liver, kidneys, stomach and bowels and start them on a perfect highway to health.

L. P. HERRINGTON, M. D.

Foreword From The Company

Waynesboro, Burke County, Ga., Jan. 1st, 1913—In taking over Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People and forming this company to put them on the market, we believe they should be in every home everywhere.

Hundreds of families here in Waynesboro, Burke County, and adjoining counties in this section of Georgia, have been using them for years and now consider Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People their Standard Household Remedy. Dr. Herrington has been wonderfully successful with them in his practice during the past twenty-five years.

We propose by systematic, persistent work and advertising to let everyone know about the merits of this splendid remedy. We expect to see them become what they deserve to be—the Standard Household Remedy throughout the Southern States—when this announcement appears in YOUR COUNTY PAPER, you will find Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People on sale in your Local Drug and General Stores. Price Twenty-five cents per box.

MUST KNOW BRANDS

Inspector at Kansas City Is Kept Busy Watching Cattle.

Animals Sent to Market Not Bearing Copyright Mark of the Shipper Are Picked Out and Payment Stopped.

Kansas City.—Talk about hieroglyphics of the ancient Egyptians, you ought to see the different brands on cattle that come to the Kansas City market. W. L. Calahan, brand inspector for the cattle raisers' association of Texas, said:

"All I have to do is to be on the lookout for about 9,000 different brands and know whose brands they are, and when there are as many as 35,000 head of cattle under the stock yards in a single day things are going some in my department. Of course in the busy season I have assistance. Sometimes there are inspectors working here for the Texas association."

The Texas Cattle Raisers' association has about 3,000 members, and each of these members has an average of three different brands. The membership of the association includes cattle raisers of Old Mexico, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Arizona.

It has about 40 inspectors of brands in all the markets to which cattle from this territory are shipped as well as on the range. W. L. Calahan is in charge of what is known as the native division, with headquarters here. In Kansas City, Kansas, there is another inspector, who is in charge of the quarantine division.

"Our work is to look over all the cattle brought to the Kansas City market," Mr. Calahan said. "When we find cattle branded differently from the brand of the shipper, and he cannot give a satisfactory explanation, payment on these cattle is stopped. All we have to do is leave a filed-out form with the commission house handling the cattle and describe the brands of the cattle not belonging to the shipper."

"The commission commission holds out the money for the cattle and sends it to the secretary of the association, E. D. Spiller of Fort Worth, Tex. The association takes out 10 per cent. of the net proceeds of the cattle received by the inspectors and sends the balance to the rightful owners. This helps to keep up the association."

The extent to which inspectors from the southwest make mistakes in brands is shown in Mr. Calahan's books for the last three years. In 1910 he recovered 275 steers for members of his association. In 1911 he found 309 that had strayed from one range to another and were shipped to Kansas City by mistake and did not own them. Last year he took charge of more than 200. The total value of the cattle he has recovered in less than three years of his work has been the association's inspector here is $49,200.

"No effort is made here to prosecute the men who ship cattle with brands not their own," Mr. Calahan said. "That is done in the state from where the cattle are shipped."

"One of the greatest troubles we have is with cattle that are shipped out of Texas in the spring to be pastured in Oklahoma and Kansas. At that time they have shaggy coats that often hide the brands, and no matter how careful buyers are, they often get a steer with the wrong brand. By the time the spring has been fed for the market he has shed his long coat and often there is the wrong brand to state the buyer in the face. He is the loser."

Mr. Calahan, who is in charge of the native division here, was born and reared on a Texas ranch. He has been a cowboy and has been a brand inspector for the Texas association for 21 years, and knows the 9,000 brands of the members of the association about as well as he knows his A B C's.

SEES 'MOVIES,' KEEPS SOBER

Assorted Picture Shows Take Cornellians Away From Carousels in New York.

New York.—Moving pictures are helping to keep Cornell students sober, according to the report of Theodore Twiss, a professor at the university. Eyewitnesses are now spent at the "movies," he says, which formerly were more generally taken up by carousels. Mr. Twiss also reported that undergraduates were no longer allowed a false college spirit to overcome their good sense and realize that an intoxicated student is a disgrace to the university.

Chinaman Adopts Wife.

Los Angeles, Cal.—Marion Teeter, an American boy, two years old, is now the legal son of a Chinaman, a rich Chinese merchant, and Mrs. Jimmie, his Caucasian wife. The adoption of the American boy by the Chinaman was the legal result of a proceeding of his kind with successful culmination in the history of the state. When the child was only a day old it was found by Jimmie on the doorstep of a neighbor, where it had been abandoned. Jimmie's petition was filed several days ago and after a thorough investigation juvenile court officers submitted recommendations upon which

MAN'S SPIRIT A THIEF

Professor James Declared to Have Robbed a Guest.

Physical Research Leader Tells of Weird Cases of Wines Departed Thinks—Boy Medium Is Cut by Razor Blade.

New York.—William James, who was professor of philosophy at Harvard when he died August 26, 1910, and who, before his death, promised his friend, Dr. James H. Hyslop of the American Society for Psychical Research, that he would strive to send such messages from the spirit world as would demonstrate indubitably the truth of spiritualism, has been trying since more, according to Dr. Hyslop, to communicate with Hyslop and others.

James has been communicating lately through the medium of a fifteen-year-old boy, who, as Dr. Hyslop says, is the son of a clerkman known on both shores of the Atlantic, and who is apparently normal in every other way, except for the physical control under which he falls when the lights are turned off.

Dr. Hyslop began his experiments with the boy on November 20, 1911. There was violent table tipping and levitation, in which the table rose two feet from the floor. Then an attempt was made for the "translation of objects," that is, to see whether the spirits would move objects from one room to another.

"Doors were closed again and the lights turned out," Dr. Hyslop reported. "In a few moments something fell, sounding like two objects. Up went the lights, and within two feet of each other were two pairs of shoes, one of which was found in another room. The next were a nail cleaner and the boy's knife, both from the room upstairs. Then a drinking cup appeared. In a few moments a small stone and a book were hurled against the boy's head. At a similar seance later a man with Dr. Hyslop complained that his pocket had been picked."

A spirit had abstracted a two-bit piece. Dr. Hyslop asked Prof. James to give a distinct proof of his identity. James replied:

"I took you to paradise and you— (Pause) 'Hang it all, I took you to lots of places. I took you once into my study and we agreed on a sign. You remember?' Hyslop did not move. The boy, who had been looking at James, apparently vexed, answered excitedly:

"Hyslop, Hyslop! Your undivided attention, undivided! Hands off the table!"

The spirit continued rapidly: "Better summon friends to make an agreement and not follow my example looking up my papers on which all hangs. Now that I am dead I can not do anything but find out what you are doing. If you find the paper, on top you will find my sign, at the bottom a coat of arms of the duke of Fairfax with two swords crossed above a helmet, and an arm holding another like my sign, picture to the left myself, wife to right, mother in the middle. Remember!"

At the time of the death of Prof. James there was a story current to the effect that he had left with some member of his family or some friends a sealed message. The report was that Prof. James told the one with whom he had left this message that if he died and in passing a sealed message from the spirit land. When the envelope was opened and was found to contain the message as was sent by the dead professor it would forever establish the proof of the spiritualists' claim.

Throughout the various seances the spirit of Prof. James caused the boy to write or express a secret sign—the Greek letter omega—that had been arranged between James and Hyslop, and the spirit made other allusions, which, says Dr. Hyslop, could not possibly have been made by the boy medium.

SOME WEATHER CONTRASTS

New York Hears Odd Stories as It Waits for "Much Colder" Predicted.

New York.—"Cattle Freeze to Death in the West," "First Straw Hat Out in New Jersey," "Traffic Blocked by Snow in Chicago," "Tulips Budding in Florida." These are the headlines and contrasts coincident with an official forecast of "much colder" here. With the mercury near 70 it could be much colder, without alteration of the weather, the phenomenal mildness of the last few days.

For the last three days the records of forty-four years' standing have been repeatedly broken. It was just 102 years ago that Fulton established a Hudson river record by navigating the first icebreaker, the General, a free Baptist church believes that nagging by married women is one of the chief reasons for the domestic unhappiness of the world.

"The reason why so many men prefer to spend their evenings away from home is because of the nagging of their wives," declared Mrs. Hoy as Albany a record equal for the first time. There is not a particle of ice in the river. The loemen are reported "glum" and the consumers in the same mood.

"WHITE WAY" GRAFT

Huge Profits Made in Broadway's Glittering Restaurants.

Revelation of a New York Steward—Asserts Patrons Don't Believe They Are Getting the Best—Tells They Are Overcharged.

New York.—Walking up Broadway the other day, my companion pointed to one of the big gaudy restaurants on Long Acre square, wagged his head and said:

"I don't see how those restaurant fellows make any money. Take that place," pointing to the restaurant, "must be enormous, and think of what he must have to pay for the service, waiters, coat boys and that sort of thing. People say his prices are high, but you can get there not high enough to keep him out of deep water."

Foolish friend! His is the popular view of the restaurant business. As a matter of fact, the prices charged by the restaurant he designated are high enough to permit the proprietor to keep two motor cars, which travel related into dollars means that his income must be about $50,000 a year, says a writer. And it is to show how much incomes are possible, how the restaurants manipulate their scales in prices and service that I am writing this article. Were I to tell you my name it would mean nothing to you. Were I to tell you the restaurant whose steward I have been for years you would recognize it instantly.

Broadly, the first of the facts I have to present is that on every day the successful restaurant serves to the public a profit of from 75 to 300 per cent.

The second is that the item of service, the common excuse for his high prices, does not cost him one cent. Instead it is a source of revenue. But before I take up these two broad divisions let us see why it is that such restaurants are possible. An institution like this, a source of revenue throughout the country, which I believe to be one of the strongest reasons for its success financially.

"In nearly every village, town and city," they declared, "are men and women, especially women, who hope some day to go to New York and dine at the Waldorf. They will watch the crowd, its dress, its actions and manners."

Suppose that the dinner hour is at hand and you go to one of the lobster palaces. Imagine I am beside you dissecting the menu card item by item. Beginning at the top, we see the words hors d'oeuvre, and we learn that for 68 cents we may get a special individual portion.

"The hat and coat and wash room are another source of income. About the same time that the deal was made with the taxicab company a man came along with a proposition to pay us $3,000 a year for our coatroom and washroom privileges."

Two years later we found that the trust was collecting about $40,000 a year from tips received by its boys. The waiters, contrary to general opinion, do not cost us a penny. And there it is—the crowd. Listen to what my employer once told me:

"Certainly our prices are robbery," he grinned, when I wondered how he dared charge so. "I didn't charge heavily I wouldn't get the crowd. They'd think I was falling and cutting prices to save myself. They'd quit this place as rats leave a sinking ship."

Robbers Enter Wardrobe Car on Train and Break Open Ten Trunks With Axes.

New York.—The wardrobe car of Gaby Deslys, which reached the city from Albany over the New York Central, was broken open and ten trunks rifled.

Miss Deslys figured that she had been robbed of jewelry and other valuables, but the railroad officials, while admitting that the trunks had been smashed and the contents tossed about, were non-committal as to the value of gems stolen.

Miss Deslys said that among her jewels were three strings of pearls, a large butterfly worked in diamonds, several rings and other gems. "I was to be her loss, she declared, provided all her jewels were stolen. The King Manuel of Portugal, she said, was to be her loss, she declared, provided all her jewels were stolen."

Railroad detectives and the police are working on the case. They found that the thieves had used an axe and after prying open the locks or breaking in the backs of the trunks had distributed the contents all over the car.

On the floor of the car was found one loose pearl of large size and a pearl ring. Both these jewels were claimed by Miss Deslys.

The spirit continued rapidly: "Better summon friends to make an agreement and not follow my example looking up my papers on which all hangs. Now that I am dead I can not do anything but find out what you are doing. URGES KINDNESS TO COWS

Wisconsin Man Writes a Series of Injunctions to Dairymen and to Milkmen.

Madison, Wis.—"Speak to a cow as you would to a lady,"—the motto of an early Wisconsin dairyman—is also the message of Melville H. Gardner of Delavan, Wis., superintendent of the Advanced Registry Holstein-Friesian Association of America, who is one of the speakers at the annual meetings of Wisconsin live stock breeders' associations here.

"If a person desires to install a milkmaid in his stable," runs the Gardner philosophy, "it may be that it will work all right, but the less of singing, whistling and loud talking there is the better it will be. Instead of all kinds except the low spoken, soothing words of the milkmaid to the cow, should be prohibited. No man who takes milking and dialling cows can make any great success; there must be sympathy between the cow and the milkmaid. Motherhood and milk production go together. Treat the cow like a mother, the kind; it will pay, and pay big."

The "personal equation," according to Mr. Gardner, represented by the milkmaid who has for her attendant, gives hand milking an advantage over the machine. There is usually a vast difference in results, he says, between the milkmaid who gets the cow into position by pushing the leg of the stool into her flank and then kicks her on the shin to make her step back and the man who gains the same end with patience and gentleness.

"Who can blame the cow for wanting to kick the first man?" he says.

"If a person desires to install a milkmaid in his stable," runs the Gardner philosophy, "it may be that it will work all right, but the less of singing, whistling and loud talking there is the better it will be. Instead of all kinds except the low spoken, soothing words of the milkmaid to the cow, should be prohibited. No man who takes milking and dialling cows can make any great success; there must be sympathy between the cow and the milkmaid. Motherhood and milk production go together. Treat the cow like a mother, the kind; it will pay, and pay big."

The "personal equation," according to Mr. Gardner, represented by the milkmaid who has for her attendant, gives hand milking an advantage over the machine. There is usually a vast difference in results, he says, between the milkmaid who gets the cow into position by pushing the leg of the stool into her flank and then kicks her on the shin to make her step back and the man who gains the same end with patience and gentleness.

"Who can blame the cow for wanting to kick the first man?" he says.

GABY DESLYS' GEMS STOLEN

Robbers Enter Wardrobe Car on Train and Break Open Ten Trunks With Axes.

New York.—The wardrobe car of Gaby Deslys, which reached the city from Albany over the New York Central, was broken open and ten trunks rifled.

Miss Deslys figured that she had been robbed of jewelry and other valuables, but the railroad officials, while admitting that the trunks had been smashed and the contents tossed about, were non-committal as to the value of gems stolen.

Miss Deslys said that among her jewels were three strings of pearls, a large butterfly worked in diamonds, several rings and other gems. "I was to be her loss, she declared, provided all her jewels were stolen. The King Manuel of Portugal, she said, was to be her loss, she declared, provided all her jewels were stolen."

Railroad detectives and the police are working on the case. They found that the thieves had used an axe and after prying open the locks or breaking in the backs of the trunks had distributed the contents all over the car.

On the floor of the car was found one loose pearl of large size and a pearl ring. Both these jewels were claimed by Miss Deslys.

The spirit continued rapidly: "Better summon friends to make an agreement and not follow my example looking up my papers on which all hangs. Now that I am dead I can not do anything but find out what you are doing. If you find the paper, on top you will find my sign, at the bottom a coat of arms of the duke of Fairfax with two swords crossed above a helmet, and an arm holding another like my sign, picture to the left myself, wife to right, mother in the middle. Remember!"

At the time of the death of Prof. James there was a story current to the effect that he had left with some member of his family or some friends a sealed message. The report was that Prof. James told the one with whom he had left this message that if he died and in passing a sealed message from the spirit land. When the envelope was opened and was found to contain the message as was sent by the dead professor it would forever establish the proof of the spiritualists' claim.

Throughout the various seances the spirit of Prof. James caused the boy to write or express a secret sign—the Greek letter omega—that had been arranged between James and Hyslop, and the spirit made other allusions, which, says Dr. Hyslop, could not possibly have been made by the boy medium.

New York.—"Cattle Freeze to Death in the West," "First Straw Hat Out in New Jersey," "Traffic Blocked by Snow in Chicago," "Tulips Budding in Florida." These are the headlines and contrasts coincident with an official forecast of "much colder" here. With the mercury near 70 it could be much colder, without alteration of the weather, the phenomenal mildness of the last few days.

For the last three days the records of forty-four years' standing have been repeatedly broken. It was just 102 years ago that Fulton established a Hudson river record by navigating the first icebreaker, the General, a free Baptist church believes that nagging by married women is one of the chief reasons for the domestic unhappiness of the world.

Brooklyn Minister, Also Married Woman, Warns Other Against the Habit.

Brooklyn, Mass.—Rev. Mr. Myra C. Hoy, pastor of the Water Avenue Free Baptist church believes that nagging by married women is one of the chief reasons for the domestic unhappiness of the world.

"The reason why so many men prefer to spend their evenings away from home is because of the nagging of their wives," declared Mrs. Hoy as Albany a record equal for the first time. There is not a particle of ice in the river. The loemen are reported "glum" and the consumers in the same mood.

URGES KINDNESS TO COWS

Wisconsin Man Writes a Series of Injunctions to Dairymen and to Milkmen.

Madison, Wis.—"Speak to a cow as you would to a lady,"—the motto of an early Wisconsin dairyman—is also the message of Melville H. Gardner of Delavan, Wis., superintendent of the Advanced Registry Holstein-Friesian Association of America, who is one of the speakers at the annual meetings of Wisconsin live stock breeders' associations here.

"If a person desires to install a milkmaid in his stable," runs the Gardner philosophy, "it may be that it will work all right, but the less of singing, whistling and loud talking there is the better it will be. Instead of all kinds

GRAND AUCTION SALES!

DENMARK, GA. - - Thursday Feb. 13, 10 a. m.
BROOKLET, GA. - - Friday Feb. 14, 10 a. m.

New residence property, containing from forty to sixty lots, in the above towns have been consigned to us to sell at public auction, let the owner make or loose. Each lot faces a broad street or avenue, and if you are thinking of building a home this is the time to buy a lot at your own price.

If you are looking for an investment do you know of anything better than land to put your money in? It is the one thing that wont burn up or blow away—it is the one thing that has helped to make the richest men in the world what they are to-day.

Trace the records in the archives of history back to the days of Adam and Eve, you will find that the population is steadily increasing, but there isn't any more land being made; that which we have is simply bound to steadily increase in value.

At each of these sales you will see our famous Double Barrel Auctioneering force talking in the same tone of voice, selling the same lot at the same time and one a minute. Music by Richard's Ragtime Band and Male Quartet.

At each of these sales we give away FREE LOT -- BAG OF SILVER and GOLD.

You, your wife and children will have an equal chance. You don't have to buy, just be with us on the day of sale and while the BAND IS PLAYING "HOME SWEET HOME" WE'LL SELL THE LOTS and GIVE the PRIZES AWAY

EMPIRE LIFE INSURANCE
Reidsville, Ga., April 24, 1912.
Fred C. Wallis Agency, Savannah, Ga.
Gentlemen: Please accept my thanks for the Empire Life Insurance Company's Check No. 18,473, for Three Thousand Three Hundred and Forty-five Dollars and Twelve Cents ($3,000) in full of my claim on policy No. 25561 in the Empire Life Insurance Company.
The above numbered policy for Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000) was issued to Mr. William Sanky Mattox, deceased, on January 2nd, 1911. He had paid only two premiums, amounting to Three Hundred and Forty-five Dollars and Twelve Cents ($345.12). According to the terms of the policy the company agreed that in event of Mr. Mattox's death, before the policy matured they would refund all premiums paid. This is why they have paid $3,345.12 in settlement of the $3,000 policy.
I cheerfully recommend the Empire Life Insurance Company to any one who contemplates taking out any life insurance. Yours respectfully, EUGENE M. MATTOX, Temporary Administrator

FOLEY'S HONEY-TAR COMPOUND

MESSIAH'S GLORY IS DRAWING NIGH
The Stones Announce the Signs of His Presence.
Pastor Russell at Washington Temple.
The Beginning of His Pastorate.
Texts For Three Discourses Found on the Front of the Union Depot.
The Message of the Hour—Not the Rolling Away of the Curse and the Uplift of Humanity Will Result From Messiah's Kingdom.
Washington, D.C., Jan. 6.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn last week accepted a call from the Washington Temple Congregation, New York Avenue and Thirtieth Street. After some appropriate remarks re Washington as the only center of influence superior to Brooklyn and on an equality with London, he took for his text one of the three Bible quotations found over the portals of our temple: "Thou hast put all things under him."
Pastor Russell declared this text especially appropriate for a great public building reared in the dawning of the glorious Age of Messiah's Kingdom. Although optimistic respecting the grand outcome of the Creator's Plan, Pastor Russell fully believed the Bible to teach that, preceding the sunrise of the New Age, there would be a dark hour of awful trouble, which is almost upon us.
He reminded his hearers that the old view now gradually fading from us is that Messiah, instead of coming as a son of David and setting up His Kingdom, delegated authority to His followers, one of whom should be spiritual king of the world and entitled Pope. Under this mistaken notion, well-meaning men have declared that if the Hierarchy of Christ were authorized to reign, it should use the secular arm of power to compel all to acknowledge the papal throne as God's Throne, on earth. It is still claimed that each Pope in turn is Christ's vicegerent.
Napoleon broke this spell when he took the Pope a prisoner to France. The world since then has doubted the vicegerency and has been that if the Pope's Kingdom were an earth, Divine Power would have upheld it, and no dissonance of ignominy would have been permitted.
The Bible Much Neglected.
The creeds have been revered, while the Bible has been neglected under the supposition that the creeds presented the Bible teaching in a pleier form. The rejection of the creeds has meant also the rejection of the Bible. The colleges of Christendom are turning out unbelievers. The horrible consequences will soon be manifest in the overwhelming of our social structure in anarchy. Thank God, that will be the opportune moment when Messiah will take the reins of government, to bless, to uplift.
Man a Little Lower Than Angels.
The Psalmist, considering the heavy sin God's unbelief, was amazed that He should promise to deliver fallen man. He recites the glory and honor in which Adam was created—the head of all earthly things, in the likeness of God, "a little lower than the angels."
St. Paul quoted the prophecy and applied it to Hebrews 1:3-4. The Logos was made flesh like the first Adam, "that He by the grace of God might taste death for every man." The work of delivering the world from the now of sin and death had not followed more quickly the work of Calvary because, in the Divine Program, Christ must first lead forth an "elect" number of sons to glory. With the completion of their number will come the glorious time when the curse shall be rolled away and blessings come instantaneously to all.
The Sanctifier and the Sanctified.
The word sanctified, the Pastor explained, carries the thought of being set apart to some special service. As the Lord Jesus sanctified His every earthly interest to do the Father's will, so must all who would sit with Him in His Throne. St. Paul declares that the Sanctifier and the sanctified one are all one—He the Head and they the Body members.
Then the Divine Program will carry blessings to all the families of the earth, redeemed with the precious blood of Jesus. These will partake of flesh and blood, therefore the Redeemer became partaker of the same, that He might not only redeem them, but destroy death and the destroyer. He will liberate the slaves of sin and death, roll away the Curse, and open the prison-house of the tomb. Thus all will have fullest opportunity of returning to the image of God, Divine fellowship and life everlasting.
All Things Put Under Him.
The world will be officially turned over to Messiah at His Second Advent. "Ask of Me, and I will give Thee the heathen for Thine inheritance, and the uttermost parts of the earth for Thy possession." By the exercise of Divine Power Satan will be restrained and ultimately destroyed. Then the perfect earth will be delivered over to God, as St. Paul points out in I Corinthians xv, 25-28.
Impersonates Parent is Arrested.
Lexington, Ky.—Henry B. Stewart and Nannie B. Wells, fourteen years old, were married here and a few hours later Stewart and his sister, Mrs. Thomas, were arrested charged with impersonating another for the purpose of unlawfully securing a marriage license. It is said Mrs. Thomas went with her brother to get the license and passed herself off as "Nannie B. Wells."

Mr. Newton K. Lee came over this week and spent one day in town. Mr. Lee is one of the veteran cotton buyers of this section of Georgia, and is considered somewhat of an authority on cotton. He says that the ordinary grades of Sea Island cotton will sell for fifteen cents when the market opens up, and that the poor grades will go as low as eight cents, some specially fine grades may go as high as twenty cents, but this will not be the rule.

Mr. C. M. Rushing was over from Claxton on Wednesday. Mr. Rushing is a cotton buyer of many years experience, he says that there is absolutely no encouragement in the present sea island cotton outlook. He doesn't look for over fifteen cents for the ordinary grades of sea island cotton.

FOREIGNERS ARE FLEEING FROM MEXICO CITY.

Shells From Cannon of Federals and Rebels Plow Through Houses in Residence Section, Killing Many—No Zones of safety. Conditions the same

Among the buildings damaged was that of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, in the side of which a great hole was torn. Over the building during the battle, the British and American flags were flying. Most of the buildings suffering the greatest damage are owned by Mexicans, in many of which, however, Americans and other foreigners have offices.

Considerable damage was done to the National Theater, now under construction. It was at this point that the rebels dismounted, while others to the northwest suffered a similar fate. This evidence of expert marksmanship on the part of the gunners in the rebel ranks was further demonstrated in the sweeping shrapnel fire over the higher buildings in the center of the city. These operations were intended to free the district from troublesome riflemen and machine guns. One section of these were in the tower of the sixth police station; a few blocks further east the Gore office building was used for the same purpose, while other structures within the same area harbored little quick fliers.

In some streets the overhead wires dangle from posts, the fire from one side or the other having sheared off many of the supports. In Alameda, the great wooded park in the center of the city, the trees were mowed down by the vicious fire; small twigs and limbs cover the ground in places, evidences of the heaviness of the small arm fire.

The last two days to do anything but seek places of safety. Business houses, banks and restaurants are closed, and not even a railway ticket is to be bought in the up-town offices.

The offices of the cable company have been kept open throughout the fighting, however, and this morning, when the shrapnel was beating in on all sides, and once a shell tore a gasping hole in the iron shutters over the windows, the force of Mexican operations continued without interruption of their work, receiving and sending at tables not five feet away.

Residents of Gore Court evacuated only after two shells had bored their way into the big apartment house. Dozens of buildings show great jagged holes, broken cornices and torn off corners, while hundreds bear more insignificant marks of what has been the most terrible bombardment any city in North America has ever known. Hundreds of thousands of bullets into the roofs, effectively clearing for a time at least these buildings of the picketed men from the federal troops.

Some of the rebel shells and not a few rifle bullets reached the National Palace, but none did serious damage, but it is not believed that Diaz seriously contemplates at the present time an attack on Madero's headquarters. Madero has promised to make a combined assault.

TREES MOWN DOWN.

Stories of occasional robbery and looting by small mobs were reported during the day, but for the most part the criminal as well as the law-abiding element were too terrified by the incidents of his courage was great, his confidence remarkable.

Over at the arsenal Gen. Diaz calmly directed the operations. He characterized them as solely defense. He, too, was optimistic.

The number of dead and wounded cannot even be estimated, but it is large.

For two hours during the forenoon the rebel gunners rained shot and shell at the lofty structures of the city, from the roofs of which federal sharpshooters and machine gun men had attempted to take the insurgents in the trenches and behind the barricades of the arsenal.

Shells from the heavy guns were well timed, the explosions again today by shot and shell. It was not until nine o'clock to Gen. Felix Diaz. In command of the rebel forces, fortified and entrenched in and around the arsenal, had held his ground against the federals. He had done more than this. He had subjected the city to a more terrible bombardment than that of yesterday.

He had enlarged his zone of action and had sent forces against the National Palace.

But to-night Madero was fortunate. Throughout the bombardment and the almost continuous rattle of machine guns and rifles, the President went about his work in the place apparently unperturbed.

He took counsel frequently with the Finance Minister, Ernesto Madero. From time to time he was in conversation with Gen. Huerta, the commander-in-chief, regarding plans of attack.

TO STOP SLAUGHTER

Audubon Societies Want Tariff
Will to Bar Out Aligrettes.

National Association Demands Action
on Part of Ways and Means Committee—Seeks to End Destruction of Beautiful Herons.

New York—Backed by farmers, sportsmen and women's clubs in every section of the country, officers of the National Association of Audubon Societies have demanded of the ways and means committee of congress an opportunity to urge a prohibitive tariff on aligrette feathers at the hearing on schedule N, which will be held before the end of this month.

Opposing the moneyed interests of the millinery wholesalers, whose inroads on the valuable bird life of New York, Louisiana, Missouri, New Jersey, Oregon and California have already forced these states to pass laws making contraband the sales of these plumes, the national Audubon delegation will ask that they be excluded from the whole country in the interest of everyone dependent upon its agricultural prosperity.

The Federation of Women's Clubs
and organizations of farmers up almost every state, as well as the Campbell club, the New York Zoological society, the Long Island Sportsmen's association, the American Game Protective association and other bodies of sportsmen, have pledged their support to this movement.

Data, compiled from scientific observation of a flock of the few herons
that still survive the wholesale butchery of professional game hunters in an Audubon breeding colony in Florida, are being prepared to demonstrate to congress that these rare birds are a considerable factor in the destruction of field mice, gophers, grasshoppers
and other agricultural pests.

While in some instances they have been found to devour an occasional trout, their regular diet is proved to consist principally of minnows, sunfish and other small fish, as well as water snakes, that are known to destroy great quantities of trout eggs and valuable young fish. Other proof of the natural need of farmers and fishermen for the beautiful birds that the milliners have almost driven to extinction will be presented by representatives of these interests.

Following the recent introduction
by Senator Root of a resolution empowering the president of the United States to call an international congress on bird protection, representatives of the world powers actively engaged in saving the rare species that are being massacred for their aligrette plumes are now expressing to the Audubon organization their support of this movement.

While the whole globe is at present scoured for these trophies, taken from butchered mother birds for market here, a tariff has been proposed to ward saving the beautiful heron from world-wide destruction, it is asserted.

"With the people of the United States of almost every class united to bar from our country the aligrettes of the unfortunate heron, we expect to meet the big millinery interests in sole opposition before the congressional committee," said T. G. Gilbert, Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at its headquarters, 174 Broadway.

"The slaughter of these useful and beautiful birds is a commercial matter
only to the men who sell their scalps
in those states where this shameful
traffic is not already forbidden by law.
Congress should certainly recognize the sentiment and interests of the whole people, who ask it to end the importation as a matter of course, as well as economic and agricultural benefit."

MAIL FAST; BLOCKS SUICIDE

Friends, Informed by Letters, Halt
West Norritown (Pa.) Man's Death Plans.

Norritown, Pa.—The United States
mail was too fast for Robert Mullinger, sixty-five years old, a wealthy business man of West Norritown, township, and to this he owes the fact that he is alive. Mullinger planned to commit suicide and he wrote letters to a local undertaker and a local banker
about his burial and his last wishes.

They received the letters so promptly that they found Mullinger lying in his bedroom with a tube connected with the gas fixture in his mouth. He was revived and demanded to know why
they had saved his life.

Mullinger lost money recently in investments and he got the idea that he was going to the poorhouse. He preferred death to that fate.

Revolver.

Trenton—Dr. Paul Wendell, proprietor of a drug store here and formerly the local weather observer, was called from his bed early in the morning by a stranger who said he wanted to have a prescription filled. The druggist dressed and went to the door and was met by a revolver and a demand for his money. Wendell gave up $56 and was then ordered to go inside and lock the door.

The doctor telephoned to the police, but they have failed to get the

PLACED HIS BAN ON EVILS

Intelligence in Smoking and Liquor Means Forfeit by Heirs of Share
in Rich Estate.

Bloomington, Ill.—Before Mora and Leita Murdock, and their brother Max, children of the late J. T. Murdock of La Salle county, can benefit under their father's will, they must appear before the probate court and take a solemn oath that they have not smoked or chewed tobacco nor partaken of intoxicating liquors for two years previously.

The last will and testament of the dead millionaire is unique in the annals of the courts of central Illinois. The testator was known to be a total abstainer himself, he was never intolerant in his reference to others who might drink or smoke, and the will just placed on record by the administrator was a great surprise to his family and friends.

To guard against a false affidavit,
Mr. Murdock provided that in the event such a deed was resorted to,
that a protest made by any person acquainted with the facts must be given consideration by the court. Should the accusation be substantiated, the person who made the false affidavit
must forfeit all share in the estate.

The heirs are given five interest in the property, and the will provides that the anti-tobacco and anti-liquor signature be also signed upon their children and grandchildren.

The will bequeaths the personal property to the widow and divides the estate equally between the two daughters and sons. All three children are grown and prominent in society circles. The trio say that there will be no danger of any forfeit of share in the estate, as all are opposed to the use of tobacco and intoxicants.

The clause of the will relating to tobacco and liquor reads as follows:
"It has been my aim and ambition
during the whole time I have been engaged in saving the property herein, to leave the same for the improvement of the minds and not for the debauchment of the bodies of those who may come into its possession. It is my will, and I do hereby especially provide, that no one who uses tobacco,
by smoking or chewing, or shall be in the habit of using intoxicating liquor
as a beverage, shall have any share in the property or income thereof devised by me. Before anyone shall take any benefit or any property bequeathed or devised by me such person will execute and file in the court where this will may be admitted to probate, his or her affidavit, and such other additional proof as may be required to convince the court of the truth of such affidavit, that he or she has not used tobacco, for smoking or chewing, nor has been in the habit of getting intoxicated or of using intoxicating liquors as a beverage during the full period of the two years immediately prior to the time such affidavit shall be filed."

"KING" OF SWAN'S ISLE DEAD

Picture-Sketcher of Alonzo Adams, Yankee Skipper, Ended in Boston Hospital.

Boston, Mass.—Alonzo Adams, one-time Yankee skipper, later "king" of Swan's island in the Caribbean sea,
and for the last few years a city congressman, died at the Massachusetts general hospital in this city at the age of 78.

Mr. Adams, or "the king," as he was known, was born in Ellsworth, Me., of seafaring parents.
About twenty-three years ago a vessel
of which he was captain was chartered by the United States navy for a commercial expedition to certain Caribbean islands. The venture failed and Adams accepted for his pay the rights to Swan's island, and the group of islands which the company had acquired possession. The Yankee skipper established a small kingdom, taking the title of king and introducing royal customs. He developed his kingdom commercially, and within a few years had amassed a small fortune.

Three years ago he accepted an offer from a development company and sold his kingdom, returned to "the states" and settled down on a farm at Easthampton, Conn.

moving picture show here when one of the film dramas was suddenly inter-

The message was a burglar alarm.
A sixteen-year-old daughter had been attacked by a burglar at the Browers home, a mile distant, and her grandparents, who had found her unconscious and bleeding from a wound in the head, had telephoned to the theater, where the unusual burglar alarm started the alarm.

MEXICANS REVOLT AND ATTACK PALACE

AIDED BY SUPPOSEDLY LOYAL TROOPS, INSURGENTS SEIZE ARSENAL.

MANY PERSONS ARE DEAD

Over 250 Killed in the Street Fighting
General Reyes Is Shot Dead
In Assault on Palace.

Mexico City—Gen. Felix Diaz, chief of the military school at the capitol of Mexico.

In several bloody encounters at recent and his supporters succeeded in defending themselves against the rebels, but the troops in large numbers are in a state of revolt which carried all before them.

It is believed that not less than 200
people were killed in the fighting.
Among the number was General Bernardo Reyes, a strong adherent of Porfirio Diaz, and ex-secretary of war.
The mutinous troops were led by students of the military school at Tlat-pam, a suburb. They marched to the palace, where they were met by refined, was in command, but gave way to Generals Diaz and Reyes.

The first encounter with loyal troops occurred in front of the national palace, and General Reyes, whose long record as an army officer
was broken little more than a year ago by a farcical revolt, was instantly killed by a bullet through the head.

Many fell in this engagement, and among the scores of bodies which strewn the streets were those of minor officers, women and boys of the lower classes and members of the great crowd of spectators which had gathered at the firing of the first shot.

A halt of the mutinous forces was made when General Villal, appearing at the door of the palace, raised his hand and challenged them. His ever was an order on the part of the rebels to begin firing.

Quickly the invading forces assumed positions around the square which soon was clouded with smoke from their rifles. Immediately from the palace came an answering fire. The defenders were using rifles and machine guns.

The revolt in its unexpectedness
was such as to stupefy the populace,
the lower elements apparently not knowing for whom to cheer.

San Salvador.—Manuel Araujo, the president of the republic of Salvador, who was wounded by the bullets of an assassin, is dead. Don Carlos Melendez will succeed to the office of chief executive. President Araujo was attacked and shot by several men, one of whom, a Guatemalan named Vir-

Anti-Jug Bill Is Passed

Washington.—Intoxicating liquors
will be made subject to state laws
even when moving in interstate commerce, if the Webb bill, which was passed by the house by a vote of 249
and was agreed to by the senate, is passed. The bill prohibits the interstate shipment of liquor into dry states for purposes of sale "or in any manner used" in violation of the state liquor laws. This is the most far-reaching victory for the prohibition workers they have won in years.

Four Drowned When Steamer Sinks

Clifton, Tenn.—The river steamer
City of Florence, owned by the St.
Louis and Tennessee River, was sunk by a collision with a barge in the Tennessee river near Clifton and sank. Ruth Tarbett, 11 years old, daughter of a Baldwin, Tenn., planter,
and four negro deck hands were drowned. All the other passengers and members of the crew swam to the shore and were rescued by other boats. The City of Florence was valued at $12,500, and the cargo aboard represented about $10,000.

Reidsville, Ga., April 24, 1912.

Fred C. Wallis Agency,
Savannah, Ga.

Gentlemen:

Please accept my thanks for the Empire Life Insurance Company's Check No. 18,473, for Three Thousand Three Hundred and Forty-five Dollars and Twenty Cents ($3,475.12) in full of my claim on policy No. 25561 in the Empire Life Insurance Company.

The above numbered policy for Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000) was issued to Mr. William Sankey Mattox, deceased, on January 2nd, 1911. He had paid only two premiums amounting to Three Hundred and Forty-five Dollars and Twenty Cents ($345.12). According to the terms of the policy the company agreed that in event of Mr. Mattox's death, before the policy matured they would refund all premiums paid. This is why they have paid $3,475.12 in settlement of the $3,000 policy.

I cheerfully recommend the Empire Life Insurance Company to any one who contemplates taking out any life insurance. Yours respectfully,

EUGENE M. MATTOX,
Temporary Administrator

CAPTAIN SCOTT SCOTT PERISHES IN THE ANTARCTIC

BRITISH EXPLORER AND PARTY
OVERWHELMED BY BLIZZARD AT SOUTH POLE.

THE BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Who Was Killed While Leading a Revolt in Mexico City.

News of the Death of the Explorer is Brought to Civilization by the Captain of Terra Nova.

London, England.—At the Royal Geographical Society announcement made of the disaster which has overtaken Capt. Robert F. Scott's an-tartic expedition, resulting in the death of Captain Scott, Dr. E. A. Wilson, Lieut. H. Bowers, Capt. L. E. G.
Oates and petty officer, E. Evans.

Captain Scott's party were found in Capt. Roald Amundsen's hut and remains at the south pole. On the return trip, about March 19, 1912, 11 miles from One-Ton depot, a blizzard overwhelmed them. They had suffered greatly from hunger and exposure,
and the death of Scott, Bowers and Wilson was virtually due to that. They died soon after the blizzard swept down on the party.

Oates died from exposure a few days later. The death of Evans resulted from a fall. The other members of the expedition are reported to be in good health. A searching party discovered the bodies of the victims and records.

Captain Scott and companions had reached their goal on January 15, 1912, about a month after Captain Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian, had planted the flag of his country there.
Then they turned back toward the base, they had formed on their outward journey, but were overtaken, overwhelmed and destroyed by a blizard.

News of the death of the explorers was brought to civilization by the captain of the Terra Nova, the ship which had taken Scott's expedition to the south and which had come again to bring them back after the accomplishment of their task.

The Terra Nova sailed on June 1, 1912, for New Zealand and the south pole. It was joined by Capt. Robert F. Scott a few days later at Cardiff.
The expedition consisted of twenty-eight officers and scientists in addition to a crew of twenty-three.

STOCK EXCHANGE CHANGES

DRASTIC RULE IS MADE TO PRE-VENT ANY "WASH SALES."

Wall Street Starts to Reform an Effort to Control It Are Introduced at Albany.

New York.—The New York stock exchange adopted a stringent resolution against "wash sales." This action followed closely the introduction
in the state legislature of the bills recommending stock exchange reforms as outlined in the governor's recent message.

The board of governors of the exchange adopted the following resolution:

"No members of the stock exchange
or anybody connected with a stock exchange firm shall give or withhold knowledge or execute orders for the purchase or sale of securities which involve no change in ownership.

Punishment for this offense is already set forth in the constitution of the exchange, under the head of "federal transgressions." Any member of the rule makes a member liable to suspension for a period not exceeding one year.

The rule as now adopted is broader,
in that it applies not only to a member of the exchange, but to any one connected with a stock exchange firm.

DESERTED SHIP IS FOUND

No Soul on Board, Bark Is Wandering
on the High Seas.

Newport News, Va.—With sails
staggered, the bark, the Da Vinci,
the sailing ship, was found by the provision and water, but without a vestige of human life aboard,
the Norwegian bark Da Vinci, Rio Grande to Liverpool, was picked up January 19 in mid-ocean by the British steam Roumanian, according to Captain Chidgey, of the latter vessel, who arrived here.

The strange disappearance of the Remittent's crew recalls the famous schooner Mary Celeste, mysteriously found in the middle of the sea which puzzled the maritime world for many months.

The bark sailed from Rio Grande
October 25, 1911, for Liverpool. It was found by the Roumanian, a captain Chidgey refused to hazard a guess as to the possible whereabouts of the Remittent's crew.

$1,500,000 Will Be Spent.

Washington.—Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, has discussed at length with Representative William Smith Howard the department's plans for the enlargement and further development of Fort Pershon, Ga. These plans contemplate the expenditure of $1,500,000 for new land, buildings for barracks and quartermasters' stores, sewers, lighting,

Negro Lynched in Mississippi.

Stonington, Miss.—Andrew Williams,
35, negro, was lynched by a mob here.
Williams was suspected of having murdered Mrs. John C. Williams, wife of the deputy chancery clerk of this county, who was found dead in her home here. Her body was found in an abandoned pit under the house.

Bacon to Rap Jamestown Gavel.

Washington.—Another interesting chapter will be added to the history of the Jamestown gavel, now owned by the Atlanta chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution when Senator Bacon uses it at the joint session of the two houses to announce the election of Woodrow Wilson as president. In reply to a letter from Mrs. Sam D. Jones, Senator Bacon said he would use the gavel when
the two houses met in joint session.
This gavel is the wood of a tree that grew beside Patrick Henry's grave.

Horses Dash into Women's Parlor.

Chicago.—"Well, the nerve of some people's horses!" exclaimed Mrs. John McCaron, when she rushed from her kitchen to investigate a crash in the front part of her home and found a team of draught horses tramping on the parlor carpet. The team had run away and the front of the frame dwelling of the McCarons had offered but slight resistance to their maddened impact. All that kept the horses from continuing through the place was the beer wagon to which they were attached.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

After Operation Failed to Help, Cardui Worked Like a Charm.

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly troubles," writes Mrs. J. S. Cardui, in a letter from this place, "and at times I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cauter."

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pain.

Cardui worked like a charm."

There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for womanly troubles, for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it for your troubles.

Overland 285

F.O.B. TOLEDO, O.

It's Worth More than it Costs You

OF COURSE you admit the value of the automobile for any one who has to go from one place to another—and wants to get there and back quickly. We all agree on that point.

The cost of the automobile is what is worrying you, maybe.

You wonder it is worth the money—to you.

Have you ever noticed that when a man buys an automobile, and, after using it, either in his business or for pleasure, or for both, sells it, always buys another one?

Yes? Well, that's the answer.

Buy an automobile, find out that its price is an investment rather than an expense, and you can't do without it. You wouldn't want to.

Because you will have found that the car is worth more to you than it cost you, that it has added to your capacity of doing business, that it made one hour do the work of three, that the store, the theatre, the folks ten miles away, have suddenly become your next-door neighbors, that it has given a store of health to you and your family.

Which automobile?

The Overland—because it is the best value that money can buy.

Whatever your notions are as to what an automobile should be to do just what you require, whether you value power, speed, or impressive appearance, low cost of upkeep, or the kind of durability—Overland durability—makes the possession of a car, a source of down-right satisfaction, you can't afford to consider any automobile without first investigating the new Overland.

St. Paul, Minn.—Snatching a revolver from beneath his pillow, Dr. E. Ernst Munne crept stealthily down the stairs at his home determined to battle in the darkness with a burglar. A short silence was followed by a heavy thud.

"I've got him, dear! Call the police!" shouted Munne to his wife. The police found Munne holding his victim with a half-nelson.

The "burglar" snored aloud and when awakened and arrested on a charge of intoxication, he explained that he had wandered into the wrong house.

PASTOR TO BE UNDERTAKER NEW EXPLOSIVE IS TESTED

Dr. Leavitt of San Francisco Says He Will Try to Dispel Some of the Gloom of Death.

San Francisco, Cal.—Rev. Dr. Bradford Leavitt, one of the best known clergymen of San Francisco, has resigned his pastorate of the First Unitarian church of this city to become an undertaker. Doctor Leavitt made this announcement, saying he had been compelled to abandon the ministry on account of weakness of the eyes, and that he was entering the undertaking profession in the hope of "dispelling its atmosphere of superstition and gloom, which we have inherited from the heartless and sometimes heathen methods and ideas of the past."

In a letter addressed to his congregation he explained in detail his reasons for the change.

"There is something barbaric in our methods of dealing with death," said Doctor Leavitt. "The Chinese are far more civilized in this. I am averse to the darkening of houses, the pulling down of blinds and the general morbid atmosphere that is affected in a house stricken by death. We know there is no cause for mourning. There is a glory in death that we cloud by abhorrent formalities, which may be easily avoided without diminishing the dignity and the solemnity of funeral rites. And above all, it is something that can be altered by very little effort."

The "powellite" projectiles penetrated eight inches into the target, as against five inches for the cordite. Fired into said boxes, "powellite" forced its way 15 inches, and cordite only ten. After testing its force on a sunken ship in Thayer bay, the officer in charge reported that three pounds of "powellite" was equal to ten pounds of dynamite.

The Sydney invention looks like cotton and burns with a harmless puff of flame when a match is applied. Revolver shots may be fired into it at short range without danger of explosion, and it is further claimed that it is unaffected by heat, cold, moisture or age. Exclusive use of "powellite" by the British government has been offered by the inventor, and will probably be accepted.

VINTAGE OF 1912 ABUNDANT

Year Just Ended to Rank High in Red Letter Annals of the Trade in France and Algeria.

Paris.—The vintage of 1912 in France and Algeria, according to reports just issued, was superior to that of 1911, both in quantity and quality. The wine of 1912 was very inferior, due to the lack of warmth during the late summer and autumn. The beginning of the present season wine growers predicted an excellent crop of grapes, and their predictions seem to have been well founded.

The vintage of 1912 amounted to 56,539,035 hectoliters. Algeria produced 6,871,181 hectoliters. Adding the stock left over from 1911 in both France and Algeria, a total of 67,670,644 hectoliters is reached. The 1911 vintage was only 55,127,730 hectoliters.

In the 49 departments of France there are only nine in which there are no vineyards. They are the Calvados, Cotes du Nord, Finistere, Manche, Nord, Orne, Pas de Calais, Seine Inferieure and the Somme. Several others, it is true, had but small crops. The department which leads all the others is the Herault, in the Midi, producing 1,044,907 hectoliters. The Aude, a neighboring department, comes next, with 526,562 hectoliters.

Thus 1912 like 1910 or 1909, is likely to become one of the red-letter years for wine.

MAN BARKS FOR 27 YEARS

Nervous Affliction Results From His Being Hit by Bat at Ball Game.

Philadelphia.—Frederick Saunders of Shamokin, Pa., was brought to the Medico-Chirurgical hospital, where he died of a nervous trouble that for twenty-seven years has caused him to bark and yelp like a dog and paw the ground with his feet. He otherwise is sane.

Saunders was stricken when seven years old. Like most boys he had a mania for baseball. One day when "Jack" Sivetti, once a famous pitcher with the Boston Nationals, was playing in a game at Ashland, Pa., the ball struck him in the head. It struck Saunders on the left eye, knocking him unconscious. When he revived several minutes later he started to bark and yelp like a dog and speak with convulsive movements and never has recovered.

Saunders talks in soft tones. Suddenly, however, his voice will break into a series of barks and yelps, his feet pawing the ground. When the attacks, which occur every few minutes, are over he continues his conversation where it was broken off.

To My Friends and Customers

Avoiding myself of this opportunity to say a word to the hundreds of good loyal friends and citizens of Bulloch county, with whom I have done business for the past thirty years or more, I want to say, that it has become necessary for me to buy out the interest of my partners in the Statesboro Mercantile Co., and in so doing I have in mind the many warm friends and customers that we have had the pleasure of doing business with in the past. And it is for their interest as well as that of the business that I take it over and add to its capital stock a sufficient reserve to assure them of its ability to take care of them in the future. In doing this, I will of course have to have the cooperation of those who have been with us, still have to have settlements of the obligations due to them as I have to meet the obligations of the firm to other parties.

Come forward men, and pay us all you can, and make arrangements to be carried over for the balance until next fall, by giving us paper that we can use. It has never been my policy to enter suits against my customers, and carry them into the courts and put them to extra cost, but there comes a time in the affairs of men and of business firms when something is compelled to be done, and that time came with me and my firm. I have met the obligations and in order that I may sustain myself and give to the people that they will need in order to make another crop I will have to see each and every customer who owes the firm money, and these things have got to be arranged. We can do these things and come through all right, but you must come forward and meet me and make arrangements, so that it will be unnecessary to incur cost on your obligations.

Messrs Dean Anderson and Frank Grimes will be with me and a number of the other members of the force in the business, who will be pleased to meet you and take care of your needs.

These are plain words, and I hope that I will have that response to them that a business man may expect from his friends and customers of long years standing.

Resp. R. Simmons.

Party Will Attend Inauguration.

Mr. E. M. Anderson has arranged with the Central of Georgia Ry. Co. for a special coach from Statesboro to Washington, D. C. going through without change at the inauguration of President Woodrow Wilson on March 4th. The train will leave here at 8:05 a. m. on the morning of the 3rd of March, arriving at Washington at 6 a. m. on the morning of March 4th. The fare for the round trip is $13.55 plus for party of 25 traveling on one ticket.

In order to take advantage of these rates you must make application to Mr. Anderson not later than Feb. 25th. Or call on O. W. Horn agent of the Central Railway at Statesboro for detailed information. This is the greatest opportunity that has ever been offered to visit the National Capitol, and to see the greatest inauguration ever held.

These tickets will be good to return any time up to and including March the 12th, which will give an opportunity to take in any reasonable side trip and see the city.

TWO TURKISH SHIPS SUNK

TURKS LOSE 3,000 MORE AT CHERKEZI—MOSLEM BATTLESHIP LOST.

Two Troop Ships Filled With Asiatic Troops Reported Sunk in the Black Sea.

Athens, Greece.—Two Turkish troop ships, filled with Asiatic troops, are reported to have been sunk by Bulgarian artillery off the port of Koston, on the Sea of Marmora. The ships were preparing to disembark the Turkish soldiers when a hidden Bulgarian battery opened fire. A Sofia dispatch, sent in the general interchange of war notices among the governments of the Balkan league, stated that 3,000 Turks were killed in the attack at Cherkezi upon Turkish transports by the Bulgarians. The Bulgarians have taken up positions at every port on the Sea of Marmora to prevent the landing of Asiatic Turkish troops.

The Turkish battleship Assarwetik went aground in the Black Sea and a late wireless report indicated that she was irretrievably lost. The Turkish government immediately ordered to cruiser Mesoudiyik and two torpedo boats to the scene.

Crown Prince Constantine, who is with the Greek army besieging Jani, has telegraphed that some of the Turkish officers are trying to prevent their fanatic Mohammedan troops from carrying out the injunctions of the priests to turn the struggle into a holy war of extermination.

Major Hall, one of the best known Turkish officers in Epirus, was shot to death, after being court-martialed for allowing his troops to massacre Christians.

BILL VETOED BY PRESIDENT

Reveals Reasons for Veto to the Senate in Special Message.

Washington.—President Taft vetoed the Dillingham-Burnett immigration bill, which would revolutionize the immigration policy of the United States by imposing a literacy test upon all foreigners seeking a home in America.

In a short message to the senate, in his own handwriting, the president announced his disapproval of the measure solely because of the provision which would lock the doors of the United States against the alien who could not read some language.

The veto message was accompanied by a letter to the president from Secretary Nagel denouncing the literacy test as a radical provision, "based upon a fallacy in undertaking to apply a test which is not calculated to reach the truth and to find relief from a danger which really does not exist."

Bathub Trust Found Guilty. Detroit, Mich.—The so-called bath tub trust was found guilty of criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade by a jury in the United States district court.

The act as charged is a misapprehension and the penalty of imprisonment not exceeding one year or a fine of $5,000 or both. Last November the so-called trust was dissolved by the supreme court in a civil suit instituted at Baltimore. The criminal case was a retrial, the first having resulted in a disagreement.

Standard Bales Wanted. Savannah, Ga.—At a meeting of cotton exporters and others held here, a campaign to eliminate complaints of improper baling of cotton at interior points was decided upon. The exporters assert that because of the lack of a standard bale the staple cannot be compressed sufficiently to come with in the recommended 22 1/2-pound density to the cubic foot. They are penalized 10 cents a bale in consequence. They want a standard size bale can be had only through the changing of the box gurns used in baling in the country.

GOTHAM TO GIVE UP NAVY

Cost of Maintaining Training Ship for Merchant Marine Proves Too Expensive for Results Obtained.

New York.—The navy of New York will be put out of commission within the year, unless something unexpected comes up to rescind the order which has just been issued, and the flag of New York will be seen no more on the high seas or in the ports of the Mediterranean and the north Atlantic.

Ever since 1874 New York has maintained a naval school for the training of officers for the American merchant marine. The fact that there was no American merchant marine to speak of did not at all prevent a great many boys from attending the school and refusing six and eight months at a time, partly at the expense of the school, partly of the city and partly of the nation.

In accordance with a long-established policy, the United States navy has furnished a vessel and a commanding officer for each of the naval schools of the coast states. During the winter the ship lay at a pier in the East river, comfortably housed over and furnishing a convenient and cozy schoolhouse for the boys, numbering from 250 to 350, who were students. The board of education of New York city has had charge of the school since the organization of Greater New York, and it has granted occasional leave because of the cost of maintaining the schoolship. A few years ago the St. Mary was recalled and the gunboat Newport, unlike her predecessor, has engines and she has proved to be a mighty cool eater at a time when coal is costly. Also, the board considered the schoolship as a sort of reformatory, get rid of them for half a year in hands that were capable of handling them without gloves, if it was necessary. Accordingly, the board has applied for a change in the city charter abolishing the naval school altogether.

TWO WOMEN SEEK POSITION

Miss Julia C. Lathrop Will Be Opposed for Children's Bureau Head by Mrs. L. W. Wickliffe.

Washington.—Miss Julia C. Lathrop, chief of the children's bureau of the department of commerce and labor, will be opposed in her candidacy for reappointment under the Democratic administration by Mrs. Lydia W. Wickliffe.

Miss Lathrop is the first woman to be chief of a United States government bureau. She was appointed last summer by President Taft to be the head of the new bureau created by congress, at a salary of $5,000 a year.

EDUCATIONAL VALUE IN BOYS' CORN CLUBS

Superintendent of Education M. L. Brittain Talks of Their Far-Reaching Effect.

Atlanta, Ga.—(Special).—State Superintendent of Schools, M. L. Brittain, sees great value to Georgia in the Boys' Corn Club movement and its crystallization in the annual Georgia Corn Show, not only from an agricultural, but from an educational standpoint, and expresses confidence that the results will soon be abundantly reflected in improvement in the country schools wherever the corn club movement is active.

"There is to my mind, few movements which have done more for Georgia in the last quarter century than these Boys' Corn Clubs," Superintendent Brittain said.

"Agriculturally they have been of great help to the state, stimulating agricultural energy, leading to the adoption of new and approved methods and increasing production beyond what was even hoped for a few years ago. Naturally, I look, too, for the educational value in movements of this kind, and I feel confident that from this standpoint, the movement is going to be of no small value and import to the state."

"I made a special study of the Georgia Corn Show held in the capital last December under the direction of Mr. H. G. Hastings, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, and I was much gratified over the showing made. Mr. Hastings has done much for the state in the active and effective interest he has shown in this work—a work that must command the widest commendation."

Two Troop Ships Filled With Asiatic Troops Reported Sunk in the Black Sea.

Athens, Greece.—Two Turkish troop ships, filled with Asiatic troops, are reported to have been sunk by Bulgarian artillery off the port of Koston, on the Sea of Marmora. The ships were preparing to disembark the Turkish soldiers when a hidden Bulgarian battery opened fire. A Sofia dispatch, sent in the general interchange of war notices among the governments of the Balkan league, stated that 3,000 Turks were killed in the attack at Cherkezi upon Turkish transports by the Bulgarians. The Bulgarians have taken up positions at every port on the Sea of Marmora to prevent the landing of Asiatic Turkish troops.

The Turkish battleship Assarwetik went aground in the Black Sea and a late wireless report indicated that she was irretrievably lost. The Turkish government immediately ordered to cruiser Mesoudiyik and two torpedo boats to the scene.

Reveals Reasons for Veto to the Senate in Special Message.

Washington.—President Taft vetoed the Dillingham-Burnett immigration bill, which would revolutionize the immigration policy of the United States by imposing a literacy test upon all foreigners seeking a home in America.

In a short message to the senate, in his own handwriting, the president announced his disapproval of the measure solely because of the provision which would lock the doors of the United States against the alien who could not read some language.

The veto message was accompanied by a letter to the president from Secretary Nagel denouncing the literacy test as a radical provision, "based upon a fallacy in undertaking to apply a test which is not calculated to reach the truth and to find relief from a danger which really does not exist."

Bathub Trust Found Guilty. Detroit, Mich.—The so-called bath tub trust was found guilty of criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade by a jury in the United States district court.

The act as charged is a misapprehension and the penalty of imprisonment not exceeding one year or a fine of $5,000 or both. Last November the so-called trust was dissolved by the supreme court in a civil suit instituted at Baltimore. The criminal case was a retrial, the first having resulted in a disagreement.

Standard Bales Wanted. Savannah, Ga.—At a meeting of cotton exporters and others held here, a campaign to eliminate complaints of improper baling of cotton at interior points was decided upon. The exporters assert that because of the lack of a standard bale the staple cannot be compressed sufficiently to come with in the recommended 22 1/2-pound density to the cubic foot. They are penalized 10 cents a bale in consequence. They want a standard size bale can be had only through the changing of the box gurns used in baling in the country.

French Market Coffee Has Never Been Successfully Imitated It Cannot Be

COFFEE roasted the ordinary way is only partially roasted, according to French ideals. The French Market Coffee was the scientific way, producing a perfect roast. Slowly—carefully—the roasting goes on until exactly the right moment arrives.

The slow roast reduces about 10 per cent more weight than the ordinary roast. All excess of oil vanishes. Yet the delicate flavor and aroma is there, intensified and enhanced.

Chilled, Ground and Hermetically Sealed

DIRECT from the roasters, the coffee is chilled in a cold-air-blast machine. This chilling closes the pores of the bean, thus preventing a single breath of the entrancing aroma to escape in the vapors.

Before you Buy your Fertilizers Consider These Vital Facts.

Every farmer knows the need of fertilizer; that each crop takes a certain amount of Nitrogen Phosphoric Acid and Potash out of your soil.

If these plant foods are not replaced, the soil becomes worn-out, and crops diminish to almost nothing. There must be enough of each element.

An abundance of one plant food and the lack of another never brings big yields. For one plant food cannot take the place of another.

To supply these three elements in forms that will feed the crops every day is the one important point.

And farmers prefer the chemically mixed fertilizer to fertilizers that are dry-mixed or home-mixed.

For in dry mixing the crude materials are only mixed together. No chemical action takes place. The goods are often sticky, unreliable, and less available than the chemically mixed goods.

Many of the materials sold for home-mixing are not suitable. Mixing flour and salt and water does not make bread. So it is with fertilizers.

Chemically mixed fertilizers are as superior to dry-mixed or shovel-mixed goods as bread is to wheat.

So in every material we improved where improvement was possible. We used better than the old, but we accepted none until after competitive tests they were proven worthless.

After years of improvement, we believe that these fertilizers come pretty close to fertilizer perfection.

From analysis other brands may seem the same, but analysis only shows the number of pounds of plant foods. It does not show the forms in which those plant foods exist.

It is in the fields that the value of our precautions and improvements are most plainly shown. If you are among those who have never tried "AA" brand fertilizers—resolve to try these fertilizers this year. Write our nearest sales office for full information and the name of our nearest dealer.

We improved where improvement was possible. We employed these elements in forms that would keep "AA" fertilizers from being acid—that would sour the land.

The real difference is never shown only in the real test—the field test.

Quickly—by automatic machinery—this freshly roasted, freshly ground, freshly chilled, delicious coffee is placed in tin cans, and hermetically sealed.

So it comes to your table as perfect as when it left the roasters—untouched by human hands.

Famous for Over a Hundred Years

EVEN when French Market Coffee could be had only in the old French Market at New Orleans, over a hundred years ago, it was celebrated all over the South.

Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and other famous men of olden times visited the French Market to enjoy the rarely delicious beverage. But now you all may serve it daily on your own table.

For the rare old French blend has been perpetuated by the French Market Mills, and the hermetically-sealed process places genuine French Market Coffee within the reach of all.

Redsville, Ga., April 24, 1912.

Fred C. Wallis Agency, Savannah, Ga.

Gentlemen:

I am except my thanks for the Empire Life Insurance Company's check No. 18,473, for Three Thousand Three Hundred and Forty-five Dollars and Twelve Cents ($3,000) in full of my claim on policy No. 25561 in the Empire Life Insurance Company.

The above is a correct policy for Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000) was issued to Mr. William Sankey Mattox, deceased, on January 2nd, 1911. He had paid only two premiums, amounting to Three Hundred and Forty-five Dollars and Twelve Cents ($345.12). According to the terms of the policy the company agreed that in event of Mr. Mattox's death, before the policy matured they would return all premiums paid. This is why they have paid $3,345.12 in settlement of the $3,000 policy.

I cheerfully recommend the Empire Life Insurance Company to any one who contemplates taking out any life insurance. Yours respectfully, EUGENE M. MATTOX, Temporary Administrator.

Post Office Building in Bad Way.

The latest information from Washington indicates that the bill which includes as an item an appropriation of fifty thousand dollars for a post office building at Statesboro is going to have a rather rough passage through the senate.
Congressman Edwards wired here
from Washington that it is rumored that there was opposition to the bill and advised that the people get busy. A gentleman just from Washington gave some news that was anything else but encouraging.
The bill is being fought on the ground of the immense sums it carries for different towns all over the country. It is characterized as graft and as having been pushed through the House by the combination of congressmen who pooled
their interest in order to railroad pet schemes through in order to boost themselves politically in their various districts.

With all these facts before us
and with the fate of a $50,000.00
public building hanging in the balance an effort was made to hold a mass meeting. That resolutions might be sent on to our senators asking them to look after the interest in the bill. The city was canvassed for two hours or more,
and the telephone was used freely,
but at the appointed hour only a handful of men were present. Many of whom were begged and teased into going. Many heavy real estate holders completely ignored
the meeting, and the expressions
from some of them showed they felt no interest at all. One large property owner and a director in one of the banks, refused to attend stating that he did not care whether we had any post office building at all or not. Another man who makes his living out of the community attended the meeting as an onlooker stated when told of the meeting that he thought that a $30,000.00
wooden building would be better,
that he was afraid that box rent
would be too high in a $50,000.00
building. There were other expressions of a like public spirited nature. In fact the news of the splendid efforts on our congressmen has been received here as a rain in cold blooded indifference.

They organized after a number of the leading lights had escaped through the front door. They sent up a ringing set of resolutions just like an overflow meeting had been held.

The latest from Washington is to the effect that the senate committee has reported the bill favorably and that it still retains the Statesboro item.

There are those here who take the position that they don't want any building here, the street corners are filled with groups of that class, they say it would be graft of the rankest sort, and in this we thoroughly agree with them. We deeply deplore any efforts on the part of either our congressmen or senators to take things away from the "dear ven-uees." It is wotun waste to be extending Federal money down south when there is still so much to be done up north. Why it would be better to use this fifty thousand in dredging out some creek either up in New York state, or out in Minnesota. And there are still many pos office buildings and post roads to be improved among those
"dear ones" the other side of Mason and Dixon's line, and still the old soldiers up there are still to be cared for and pensioned, they did valiant service fifty years ago by shooting southern men and we do so much dislike to learn of any effort on the part of our heartless

representatives in either branch of congress to rob those "dear people"
of anything and allow it to be
"grafted" by bringing it down
south for any purpose whatever.

We believe that our representatives up there ought to be memorialized about this line, and stop this foolishness trying to bring things this way when there is still
so much to be done for the people in the north and west. It has only been about a half century that they have had things coming their way, and we believe that it ought to last at least that much longer.
There is no need in cutting them off in such short order and taking from them anything that they may be able to use to advantage themselves. Why there is no telling, they may need funds to pay the expenses of The Grand Army of The Republic to attend the inauguration at Washington, and this fifty thousand appropriation may interfere with "the boys in blue"
and hamper them and render them unable to compete with the Underwood brethren both north and south in the grand change in the direction of the pie counter.

Now the truth of the matter is no one in Statesboro would dislike to see this handsome building erected, but there are those here who don't want anything if it comes at the hands of Charlie Edwards, they have been against him
from the jump and the next time
he hears from them they will be fighting him still. Added to this army of "undesirables" is a lot of free recruits who are sore on the post master ship endorsement, this list includes a whole cow pen full of disappointed applicants and the friends of applicants. There are at least a half a hundred men in this community who had rather be postmaster installed in a wooden shanty than to see the other fellow handing out mail through a brown stone front. If Congressman Edwards were to erect a building in Statesboro the dome piercing the clouds, it would make a particle of difference here, they are going out after his political scalp. They want nothing at his hands and everything he does for them along that line will be received by them
as "graft."

Speaking of unnecessary expenditures carries our mind in the direction of the proposed court house annex. There it is proposed to lay out an expenditure of some fifteen or twenty thousand of the tax money of Bulloch county for improvements that will not be needed until the next generation.
If there is a single officer in that building who is cramped for space
we don't know who he is.

The New County Move.

Georgia now has one hundred and forty seven counties. Some of them are small affairs, while a few like Bulloch are good size counties. A few years ago Bul-loch lost part of its territory to Jenkins county, and the people who were cut off into the new county, wish to day that they were back in old Bulloch. The trouble about the new county business is, that it does not benefit any body except a few people who own land around the new county
site where the court house is to be

"It is a fact that the tax rate for many years will be much higher in the new county, than it was in the old, and besides all of the records remain in the old county, and the people who are cut off into the new county, for many years are compelled to go to the old county court house. Many people are injured to help the new county business because they think it easier to get a public office. Suppose a new county is created, not for men in ten years will hold any public office.

The argument that a man will be nearer the court house in the new county will not help him as a juror or witness, because he usually has to stay at the county site any way the argument that he will have better roads is very doubtful.

Is it not better to be a citizen of a big county, with a large population, than it is to be a citizen of a small county.

If you were going to move would you move to Glascock county with only a hundred square miles, and a handful of people, with only a high tax rate, or would you go to a large, prominent county with a small tax rate. Better go slow, before you sign a petition to go into a new county. Remember when you get there you are going into a county with the corners of other counties, and among strangers.

When you leave the old county,
you part to a certain extent with old friends and associations. Talk to the people who were cut off into Jenkins, before you decide to give up the grand old county. Most of you will then be in the corner and edge of the new county. If you are now twenty miles from States-boro, will you better off to be twelve miles from some other county site, with more water between you? Stay with us we want you. We want one good, large county and we want that to be Bulloch county. Your children will be proud of it.

Free Flower Seed For Readers of This Newspaper

We want to get in closer touch with you personally and with the people of this county. We want you to know what the great southern seed house, H. G. Hastings & Co., of Atlanta, is doing for the whole south
in scientific plant growing and agriculture.

With this idea in view, we have decided to offer to each reader of this newspaper a magnificent collection of flower seed, sent absolutely free to our customers. Write at once for our big free illustrated catalogue, being sent to mention the name of this newspaper. We pay the postage. The catalogue will tell you all about the way to take advantage of the free flower seed offer.

You should have flowers about your home. Our wives and daughters take natural pleasure in them. This offer is made especially for them because we know it will interest them. But the catalogue tells, too, about our big big cash prize offered for the Corn Club boys. It tells about our big yielding varieties of corn and cotton—the kinds we grow on our own 3,000 acre farm. It's a catalogue that ought to be in every southern home. Write today and let us send it to you.

Boy Accidentally Shot.

Carl Harmon a negro boy about fourteen years of age was accidentally shot on last Saturday while hunting with another negro boy.
The negro boy who was walking in front of him with a loaded gun on his shoulder, struck the hammer against something the gun was discharged and the load entered Harmon's body who was walking behind. The boy died Sunday.

Death of P E Phillips

On yesterday afternoon in the Grand Jury Foreman.

L. H. Kingery of Pulaski was made foreman of the United States grand jury that was organized by Judge Emory Spaw on yesterday.

After listening to the Judge's charge the jurors retired and entered upon their duties. The district atorney's office will have enough criminal business to keep the grand jurors busy about four days.
Most of the cases to be presented are for alleged violation of postal laws. There are some for postoffice robberies, illicit distilling, etc. The grand jury was late getting down
to work because some of the members were delayed in reaching court on account of a wreck on the Central.

MAY HAVE TROUBLE ABOUT STEEL BRIDGES

Bridge Company Finds Estimates as to Length too Short and Calls For Funds.

What may terminate in a legal battle between the county and parties to the contract for the construction of a two steel bridges across the Ogeechee river, one at Rocky Ford and the other at Dover. The trouble right now seems to be that the estimate as to length of bridge at Rocky Ford, is entirely too short to span the stream, the steel structure and the concrete approach to include it, but automobiles and ox carts will have to make a desperate leap of some twenty feet or more in order to reach the Southern or Bulloch County bank of the river, as the contract seems to terminate amid stream. It is said that there is a long rocky strip which will have to be filled in on the Bulloch
County side approaching the bridge.
Screven having very little of this work
to do as the bridge approaches pretty near the main stream on the Screven side.

There is an impression at Dover that there is something going wrong with their bridge, inasmuch as no efforts have been made to begin work on it as yet. It is said in on the Bulloch County authorities are not overenthusi-astic on the construction of either of these bridges, and they may take advantage of any hitch in order to cancel their part of the contract. The present commissioner who succeeded Chairman
Lee was known to have been opposed to the bridge, and he is now in charge.

ARRESTED FOR HORSE STEALING.

Sid Davis Brought In By Sheriff Donaldson, Wife Follows With Baby In Arms

On Tuesday Sheriff Donaldson
brought in Sid Taylor and lodged him
in jail on a charge of horse stealing.
Davis was arrested at Belleville in Tattall County, where he had come after he took the horse, an indictment was returned against him by the grand jury of Bulloch County on the complaint of W. D. Deloach. It is said that Davis is a native of Georgia, and that he was employed by the late Mr. Lee as a driver.

One of the sad features of the case
was the fact that the wife of the prisoner followed him along with a small baby in her arms, stating that she stayed all day, carrying the baby in one arm and a large hawkeye hatchet
in the other, she inquired for a family
she thought to be living here whom she thought were her friends, but they could not be located.

A number of people rendered assistance to her to aid her in getting to her father's home in Emanuel County.

Our new line of Ladies Spring
Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Laces,
Trimnings etc. have arrived. Call

The friends of Rev. W. O. Darvey will regret to learn that his condition is no better. He has been confined to his room in The Statesboro Sanitarium for the past two or three weeks and only intimate members of his family are admitted to the sick room.
His friends hold out very little hope for his recovery.

The work of surveying, the water

FARMERS TO HOLD COTTON MEETING.

Movement on Foot to Curtail Sea Island Acreage. Mass Meeting to be Held First Monday in March.

At the suggestion of Mr. R. Simmons, while in attendance on the court house improvement meeting, Tuesday afternoon, a mass meeting was called for Bulloch County farmers to assemble in the court house in Statesboro
on the first Monday in March, at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of discussing the sea island cotton situation. Mr.
Simmons made a short talk giving in detail the reasons why such a meeting should be held at this time. Those present seemed to be in hearty accord with him and the resolution to hold a mass meeting was unanimously adopted.

A committee composed of Messrs.
D. A. Brannen, B. B. Rogers, J. W.
Williams, S. L. Nevils and W. H.
Sharpe were selected as a committee
to lead the call for the meeting.

Mr. Simmons stated that the commission men of Savannah were unwilling to advance money to buyers
and growers to grow sea island cotton, that they without exception, advised the planting of short cotton,
and there was no hope held out whatever that the sea island cotton would sell for a living price. He wants the people to come together and resolve to cut it out and live up to their resolutions.

germ first—that tells how to prevent disease
and save the hogs.

You know that when in the choler, when you simply can't eat and don't sleep for any other form of treatment.

You know that if you can keep your hogs healthy as shoats, you can keep them free from germs and cholera. How to get the this book will tell you all you need to know. How to get the and healthy and able to resist disease.

Keep the hog on full feed throughout the dry feed stage,
and as you know, that when the cholera gets in its work, it's up to you. You can't hold any one else responsible for disease in your hogs.

PAINT NOW

If your property needs it, don't wait.

There are two parts of a job: the paint and the work. The work is more than the paint; and it never comes down.

The cost of paint is about two fifths; the work three fifths.
Paint won't come down in a hur-

they don't know it; they think they are waiting for $20 or $25.
Why don't men use their heads?

Before you Buy your Fertilizers Consider These Vital Facts.

Every farmer knows the need of fertilizer; that each crop takes a certain amount of Nitrogen Phosphoric Acid and Potash out of your soil.

If these plant foods are not replaced, the soil becomes worn-out, and crops decline to almost nothing.

There must be enough of each element. An abundance of one plant food and the lack of another brings big yields. For one plant food cannot take the place of another.

To supply these three elements in form that will feed the crops every day is the one important point.

And farmers prefer the chemically mixed fertilizer to fertilizers that are dry-mixed or home-mixed.

For in dry mixing the crude materials are only mixed together. No chemical action takes place. The goods are often sticky, undrillable, and less available than the chemically mixed goods.

Many of the materials sold for home-mixing are not suitable. Mixing flour and salt and water does not make bread. So it is with fertilizers.

Chemically mixed fertilizers are as superior to dry-mixed or shov-el-mixed goods as bread is to wheat.

So in every material we improved where improvement was possible. We used new materials where they were better than the old, and we accepted none until after competitive tests they were proven worth while.

After years of improvement, we believe that these fertilizers come pretty close to fertilizer perfection.

From analysis other brands may seem the same, but analysis only shows the number of pounds of plant food. It does not show the forms in which those plant foods exist.

It is in the fields that the value of our precautions and improvements are most plainly shown. If you are among those who have never tried "AA" brand fertilizers, resolve to try these fertilizers this year. Write our nearest sales office for full information and the name of our nearest dealer.

We improved our improvement was possible. We employed these elements in forms that we did keep "AA" brand fertilizers from being so, that would not sour the land.

There is a big difference that is never shown only in the real test—the field test.

Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relief from the itching, burning, and stinging of the skin, unless the patient uses the D.D.D. remedy."

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist writes: "I am convinced that the D.D.D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria."

URGES BLUE DRESS SUITS

Italian Nobleman Says Conventional Dress is Sign of Artistic Decadence Here.

Boston.—Duke Pompeo Litta of Milan, Italy, who is in this city as guest of the Twentieth Century Club, believes that the conventional dress of the day is a sign of artistic decadence.

"The art of being magnificent is entirely lost in America," he declared in an interview. "The only thing of color in American life is the color of the hats of ladies. They are wonderful. Where do they come from? Even in Paris I have never seen such hats."

"But the men, I pity them. Always somberly clothed, they seem to understand life so sadly. I can understand why, perhaps, they wear black and grays and browns to wear. But even for evening wear they choose black."

"I do not believe in this. Why cannot the American gentlemen, when they are best dressed, I should suggest a dress suit of perhaps pale blue or gray or with a fine stripe, in the future."

NEWPORT IN ATHLETIC FAD

Society Takes Up Swedish Training Adopted for the Army and Navy.

Newport, R. I.—Society women, including the army and navy, are at Newport, who have been watching the petty officers of the naval training station being taught the new Swedish system of physical training adopted for the navy, are to form a class themselves.

Mrs. William M. Hughes, the athletic wife of Paymaster Hughes, of the training station, has started the fad, having tried it herself. Perfect symmetry of form is said to be guaranteed. Lieut. Joseph R. Morrison has volunteered instruction twice a week. In addition, the "pupils" will diet through Lent and walk an hour each morning, and wear blue and white rather short skirts of the same material, white canvas shoes and blue athletic stockings, with wide white silk hose.

pose to key the Conference this year to sane Evangelism, which must incorporate a most thorough line of Bible teaching. So far as I am able to direct the Conference in this line, I am constraining it to instruction and inspiration. "We have been fortunate this year in being able to secure the strongest platform that we have ever been able to offer; included in this list will be Dr. G. Campbell Morgan, of London, who will arrive in Atlanta with me a few minutes for the opening, and speaking twice daily throughout the Conference. Other speakers will be heard from me to the hour daily with James M. Gray, of Chicago; Rev. J. Vance, D. D., of Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. W. R. Wedderspoon, Washington, D. C.; Dr. John R. Sargent, of Louisville, the Baptist Secretary; Dr. E. Y. Pierce, of Chicago.

Chicago, Ill.—This year's grainage may pass into history as the year of the "year of the sneeze," taking rank with the "year of the big wind."

Precisely at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning there broke out a chorus of sneezes on the second floor of the wholesale drughouse of Peter von Schnack and Sons Company, which has its headquarters here. The wave of sneezes spread over the second floor where presently 125 employees, ker-chooling explained the outbreak of the trouble.

The explanation of the outbreak was found in the fact that 225 bags of sulphur were on fire in the basement.

"The sulphur was lit by the men," the engines rushed to the scene, but retired sneezing. The fumes spread to adjoining buildings and filled the street with red, red-nosed, red-eyed and sneezing.

Firmen rushed into the basement, dragging twelve of their number who had been overcome by the fumes.

So pungent were the fumes that the water from the hydrants could be applied to the fire.

Hastings Prolific
Corn Yields 214
Bushels On Acre

If you are going to plant corn this year, either in the north or the Southern States, it is well worth your while to plant to fill your own corn-crib, the corn to plant is Hastings' Prolific.

Official United States government records show that this corn has no other corn produced in the Southern States. Hastings Prolific won the Georgia record with 214 bushels to one acre. Hastings' Prolific won the Florida record with 214 bushels to one acre; the Arkansas record with 172 3/4; the Florida record, 129 1/4. Hastings' Prolific has won 16 State corn club prizes in Georgia. It has made records in every Southern state.

This corn is not only immensely prolific, but produces a grain and ear of the finest quality. It is not merely a prize-winning corn. It is the corn that it will give you best to plant on your own acre for sale and for your own use.

crop takes a certain amount of Nitrogen, Phosphoric Acid and Potash out of your soil.

If these plant foods are not replaced, the soil becomes worn-out, and crops dwindle to almost nothing.

There must be enough of each element for every crop.

An abundance of one plant food and a deficiency of another never brings big yields. For one element cannot take the place of another.

To supply these three elements in form of a fertilizer for the crops every day is the one important thing.

During the present season, sea island producers have not gotten a low price for their crop, but have actually found that the price of this small cotton is the lowest of any cotton in the world. It is very slow of sale, because it is not in any surplus over and above the Egyptian crop which has no very large outlet into consumption. The price of Egyptian cotton are well maintained with prices obtained for the same quality of Egyptian cotton in the U. S. and the latest information indicates that they will increase their acreage this spring. The market cotton, which is the principal competitor of sea islands, is not producing more than 100 bushels per acre, and to seed, and is also said to be earlier than any other grown in Egyptian cotton. Your Soil Is Alive

 O all intents and purposes, soil is alive. It breathes, works, rests; it drinks, and, most important of all, it feeds. It responds to good or bad treatment. It pays its debts with interest many times compounded. Being alive, to work it must be fed. During the non-growing seasons certain chemical changes take place which make the fertility in the soil available for next season's crop. In this process adds no plant food to the soil. Unless plant food is added to soil on which crops are grown, in time it starves. There is one best way to feed your soil. Stable manures, which contain all the essentials of plant life, should be spread evenly and in the proper quantity with an

I H C Manure Spreader

I H C manure spreaders are made in all styles and sizes. There are low machines which are not too low, but can be used in mud and deep snow, or in sloppy barnyards. They are made with either endless or reverse aprons. Frames are made of steel, brass, or tressed like a steel bridge. Sizes run from small, narrow machines to machines of large capacity. The rear axle is placed well under the box, where it carries over 70 per cent of the load, leaving plenty of leverage power. Bearings are of large diameter, tractive, not wearing. The teeth are square and to prevent clogging. The apron drive controls the speed, insuring even spreading whether the machine is working up or down hill, or on the level. I H C procedures have a remarkable efficiency, enabling them to spread evenly when turning corners.

what brand you will use has not been simple.

For analysis while helpful is not safe as an exclusive guide in buying fertilizers

The value of fertilizer depends upon the form in which the plant foods exist as well as the amount of pounds of plants.

Two fertilizers with the same analysis may differ greatly in value.

For one may be made of materials so quickly available that they may reach away, or so slowly available to be of little value.

Therein lies a big difference that analysis alone never shows.

The real difference is never shown only in the real test—the field test.

therefore, undertaking to compete with those who can produce more cotton, earlier cotton and cotton which is as equally as good or better than sea island, and which can be produced at a much cheaper price. If the attempts to increase his yield and lower his price, the Egyptian planters will simply underdate him.

The exports from Egypt to the United States figuring in 400-pound bales, up to January 17th, were 129,000 sea island this year, against 53,622 last year.

As sea island land is well adapted for the production of upland cotton, it would seem the prairie wisdom for the sea islands producer to plant the ordinary upland cotton, rather than to continue planting sea island cotton which the spinners have demonstrated by their action this season, is not required as long as they can secure Egyptian cotton. If there was a good demand for sea island cotton at a reasonable price, the farmer could figure whether it was more profitable for him to produce sea island cotton at that price than to produce upland cotton at current quotations, but there seems at the present time to be little or no demand for sea island cotton if the producers of this section continue planting something which is not wanted and in competition with a growth which can easily swamp them, their policy would be little short of suicidal. STILLMORE GETTING BUSY

If there is anybody who does not believe there is a genuine movement on for the creation of Stonewall County, with Stillmore as its County Seat, a short visit to that section will convince them that there is such a move on foot.

The people of Stillmore and surrounding country are making a determined fight for a new County, and it looks like they are going to succeed.

There has been a clamor for a new County in that section for several years. Certain insurgent elements of the old counties have been petitioning for a County Seat at various places, until they have brought the people to believe that they ought to be cut off into a new County, but in doing so they believe that the County Seat should be located at a point where it will serve the public interest to the best advantage. Therefore, with Stillmore's magnificent railroad facilities, with three railroads crossing there, running out in six different directions, leaves no argument as to where the County Seat should be located.

Our friends at Metter have been wanting a new County for several years, and they now have one coming to them. They have grown tired of riding the railroad trains for twenty miles to attend Court and they are now to be rewarded by having this distance to their County Seat cut just half in two. It is only ten miles up to Stillmore, and with a double daily passenger train service, there is no reason why the County of Stonewall, with Stillmore as the County Seat, should not fill a long-felt want.

Messrs. M. R. and Morgan Atkins, J. M. and J. J. Thompson, and P. H. Preston constituted the Bulloch County board of the great crowd that attended the inauguration of President Wilson, in Washington this week.

Miss Mattie Coleman of Moultrie is spending some time with the family of her brother, Mr. G. C. Coleman.

Robert H. H. to be district attorney for South Georgia.

All of these gentlemen were good Wilson men and good Hoke Smith men in the primaries.

In making up the list of Georgia postmaster nominees, moreover, the signs all point to a distribution along those same lines, all the way down the line.
Senator Bacon does not seem to be profoundly interested in the patronage question. He is deeply concerned with the nation's foreign affairs and with his prospective duties as president pro tem of the Senate. Besides, Mr. Bacon was but recently named for another full term of six years in the Senate, and there appears to him, no doubt, no immediate necessity for bothering with his fences or undertaking the organization of a machine.

In short, the impression is gaining ground all the time that the right of senatorial veto of O. K. in Georgia affairs has been brought largely if not altogether in the hands of Senator Smith.

To Make Favors Countable.

There is, of course, no question as to the fact that Mr. Bacon is a candidate to succeed himself in the Senate, and his partisanship here fail to express the slightest surprise or disapproval that he should elect to put his friends on guard in Georgia. His unique status in the Senate and his nearness to the new president make it reasonably sure that he can deliver the goods where he pleases, as a rule. And that he is determined to deliver the same where it will be known that he did the work can hardly be doubted by one who uses his eyes and ears about this national capital and cares primarily to get at the truth of what is going on, with an intent to state it in unbiased form.

Those who came here from Atlanta, Georgia and vicinity and there were thousands who did—unitedly in saying that Tuesday's big inauguration festivities, with the climax of joy that the night brought, was the biggest thing of the kind they ever saw. The parade was a wonder, and Georgia was very conspicuous in it. There was no military from any section that made a finer impression than the Georgia boys did, and when they passed the big reviewing stand in front of the white house, they were cheered to the echo, time and again. In the grandstand, just off Lafayette park, immediately in front of the white house, 10,000 people watched the passing troops. Georgia was cheered more, perhaps, than any others, unless it was the great West Point cadet display.

Notwithstanding the fact that the big inauguration show is all over and Washington, theoretically, has settled down to humdrum things, the Georgia visitors are slow in getting away. In the grand rush for trains last night and today the Dixie land visitors have been conspicuous by their absence.

Disie Folks Linger.

While many of them came, and saw and all have had a good time, they still seem disposed to linger on and see what may happen, as this thing of a Democratic administration in Washington is a novelty, anyway, and one never can tell. Most of the sojourners will leave eventually, clad in political rags and tags, and few in velvet gowns; but that thought has not yet sunk as deep into some minds as finally it must.

Despite the protests and denials of the faithful, the rumor persists that the new president has not yet brought himself quite to believe that he should let bygones be bygones in Georgia, and withhold all feeling against the State in that it went for another in the primaries. Mr. Wilson had his heart set on carrying Georgia in the primaries, and thought he surely would do so. If he had, Georgia likely would have a cabinet place to its credit today. As was, the only man in the State who might have landed one of those berths, had he so elected, is Senator Hoke Smith. It is an open secret that President Wilson practically offered him the attorney generalship, but he declined. It may have been that Georgia would have landed a cabinet assignment, anyway, had the congressional delegation been able to get together on either Barrett or James R. Gray. But this seemed impossible, and so Georgia will have no place about the official family table of the new president.

Drummer's Key to Situation.

Washington already begins to look like a banquet hall deserted. Every outgoing train is packed and jammed with tired and surfeited visitors and another 24 hours should see practically normal conditions restored.

Three brass bands, marching up Pennsylvania avenue this morning within 100 yards or so of one another, served to point a moral and adorn a tale for one observant person along the way. The first band was from Massachusetts, and the observant person remarked that the bass drummer was carrying his own drum and beating it all by himself. The next band was from Maryland and the observant person remarked that the bass drummer of that band had a man carrying the drum in front while he carried it behind him and did the beating. The third band was from Georgia and the observant person remarked that the bass drummer of that band had a colored brother hitched in front of the drum and another hitched on behind, while he did nothing more than beat the drum, make a big noise and have an easy time of it.

"That's the way things are to be in this country," said the observant person. "Dixie is in the saddle and riding to glory."

BUILDING BILL NOW A LAW.

It is a source of general satisfaction to our people to know that the public buildings bill escaped the veto of President Taft—which came before him a short time before the end of his term. The fact that our appropriation of $50,000 is still in the bill, and the prospects are fine for the erection of the building, is good news. Fifty thousand dollars will put up a nice building, which will add materially to that section of the City. Just when steps will be taken to begin the advertising for bidders remains to be seen.

CLAXTON AND GLENNVILLE DISAGREE.

The efforts to come to an agreement between the two proposed counties, with Glennville and Claxton as their County seats, have fallen through, and there will probably be war to the finish between these two intended stars to be added to Georgia's crown.

The committee appointed in the meeting at Claxton on Friday afternoon went over to Glennville on Saturday and made an effort to get an agreement on a dividing line, but the reports from this conference are anything but encouraging. Glennville proposes to run her line within four miles of Claxton and about the same distance from Reidsville. After some unexplained delay the Claxton delegation were admitted to the Glennville meeting for conference, but we are informed that a delegation from Reidsville, headed by the ordinary, were refused admittance.

The Glennville people feel that they have elected the representative and are in a position to dictate terms to the "outsiders." A report from Liberty County is to the effect that a big kick is coming from them. They assert that Glennville is taking too much of her white population. As the matter now stands it leaves the Claxton proposition well nigh stranded.

PROF. USHER FOUND NOT GUILTY.

The jury trying the case of assault and battery against Professor G. E. Usher in the City Court yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty.

Prof. Usher is superintendent of the schools in Statesboro and a few weeks ago had occasion to whip the son of Mr. O. C. Alderman. Mr. Alderman swore out a warrant against him and the case was tried yesterday in the City Court. The trial consumed the entire day.

Prof. Usher was represented by Messrs. G. S. Johnston and Hinton Booth, and the prosecution by Solicitor Fred S. Lanier and Mr. A. M. Deal.

The jury was out only five minutes and returned the verdict stated above, with the word NOT heavily underscored.

The new County of Stonewall takes the fifteen mile creek as its Eastern boundary line and eliminates that large and increasing number of farmers East of the creek who are not clamoring for a new County. In other words, it takes practically everybody who wants a new County, and leaves out practically everybody who does not want a new County.

This is regarded as a splendid settlement of the new County question, as far as it touches that particular section.

WILL ORGANIZE FAIR.

Success of Last Fall Fair Commends It to the People Again.

It is now a practical certainty that we will have another Fair this fall. The one last fall proved quite a success, being the first attempt and gotten together in such a short time.

A stock company is being organized and buildings and grounds will be constructed and the Fair will be made permanent.

This is the outlook now, but it all depends on the reception given the movement by our business men.

If we hold a Fair this fall, the people are going to expect a bigger one and a better one than we had last year, and in order to do this, we will all have to pull together.

A BOARD OF TRADE TO BE ORGANIZED.

We understand that there is a movement on foot to organize a Board of Trade in Statesboro. There is no question but what this is the one crying need of the city. Almost any other town in this entire section has a Board of Trade, yet Statesboro has no such organization.

We understand, however, that a meeting will be called in the next few days and a Board of Trade organized here. There are a number of questions that mean much to this city now that cannot be handled any other way than through a good, live Board of Trade.

THE SUPERINTENDENT'S CORNER.

The Bulloch County Teachers' Association met on the first Saturday in March at the Statesboro High School building, with quite a good attendance, although the day was very unfavorable, it being rainy in the morning of the day.

Mr. Dennis conducted the Devotional Exercises, then the teachers began their program, which was made interesting by those who took part.

The following program was arranged for the next meeting of the Association, which will meet again on the fifth day of next April:

Devotional Exercises, conducted by the Rev. J. F. Singleton.

"Evils of Cigarette Smoking"—Dr. A. J. Mooney.

Debate, "Resolved, That a Compulsory Education Law for the State of Georgia Would be Beneficial for the Schools of Bulloch County." Affirmative, Prof. S. D. Alderman, Miss Juanita Gardener, Prof. H. R. Kimbrough, Negative, Prof. B. H. Ramsey, Miss Zulienne Lane, Prof. John Ross. Speeches limited to ten minutes.

Round table discussion continued. Session from 10:30 to 1:00 o'clock. Teachers are urged to be there on time.

So far, the most of the schools of Bulloch County have had easy sailing, as there has been but a few cases of contagious disease to keep down the attendance.

Very few schools that are near the danger line for dismissal for lack of the required attendance. The result of good attendance on the part of the pupils will be very beneficial to the school children throughout the whole County.

Teachers will take special notice of the following list of books, which they are expected to get and read during this spring:

Manual for Georgia Teachers—County Superintendent's price, Free.

Hodges' Nature Study and Life—Ginn & Co., Commerce Hall, Atlanta, Georgia—postpaid, $1.00.

Mr. H. K. Hulst has moved his Novelty Works and Repair Shop to the concrete building formerly occupied by C. H. Hamilton where he will be glad to serve his friends.

Colgrove's "The Teacher and the School," Charles Scribner's Sons, Temple Court Building, Atlanta, Ga., post paid, $1.00.

"Everyday Problems for Country Teachers," by W. V. O'Shea, $1.25.

If you expect to renew your first grade license, get these books and get prepared, or if you expect to stand this summer's examination, you will have to have the above-named books. Do not overlook this notice.

The next and the last special examination for those who have no license will be given some time the latter part of March. Watch for the notice and be ready to come in and take it.

One of our teachers married the day before she left her home to come to Bulloch to teach, and she found after two months time spent teaching up here in Bulloch that she could no longer live apart from her better half, so last Friday she gave up her school to return to her husband. She was Miss Ethel Bowles. Do not know whom she married. Her home is in Fitzgerald, Ga.

Mr. M. L. Tinley has sold his interest in the firm of the Blitch Parish Company. Mr. Adam Jones and Miss Georgia Hagins taking over a large part of his stock in the Company. Mr. Tinley has not decided yet what he will engage in.

FARMING LAND FOR SALE.

I will sell that fine farm located about two and one-half miles west of Statesboro. There is plenty of land cleared for a good two-horse farm, and in a good state of cultivation; also one farm six miles from Statesboro, containing fifty-two acres. And one lot at the end on South Main street in Statesboro. Also one automobile, Cole "30," will make reasonable terms to parties wanting to buy any of the above property. PRESIDENT WILSON FOR JUSTICE ONLY

His Inaugural Address Calls on All Honest Men to Aid in His Task.

WILL RESTORE, NOT DESTROY

New Chief Executive Says Change of Government Means the Nation is Using Democratic Policy for Large and Definite Purpose.

Washington, March 4.—Looking upon the victory of the Democratic party as the mandate of the nation to correct the evils that have been allowed to grow up in our national life, President Wilson, in his inaugural address today called on all honest men to assist him in carrying out the will of the people. Following is his address:

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the house of representatives became Democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. The senate about to assemble will also be Democratic. The officers of the government will be Democratic. What does the change mean? That is the question that is uppermost in our minds today. That is the question I am going to try to answer, in order, if I may, to interpret the occasion.

New Insight Into Our Life.

It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the Democratic party. It seeks to use it to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. Some old things and which we had grown familiar, and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives, have altered their aspect as we have later looked critically upon them, with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister. Some new things, as we look frankly upon them, willing to comprehend their real character, have come to assume the aspect of things long believed in and familiar, stuff of our own convictions. We have been refreshed by a new insight into our own life.

We see that in many things that life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects, in its body of wealth, in its diversity and sweep of its energy, in the industries which have been conceived and built up by the genius of individual men. It is great, also, very great, in its moral force. Nowhere else in the world have noble men and women exhibited in more striking form the beauty and energy of sympathy and helpfulness and counsel in their efforts to rectify wrong, alleviate suffering, and set the weak in the way of strength and hope. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through long ages as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident. Our life contains every great thing, and contains it in rich abundance.

Human Cost Not Counted.

But the evil has come with the good, and much fine gold has been corroded. With riches has come inexcusable waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used, and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature, without which our genius for enterprise would have been worthless and unproductive, according to the shames of prodigality as well as admirably efficient. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly the years through. The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and factories and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat. With the great government went many deep secret things which we too long delayed to look into and scrutinize with candid, fearless eyes. The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to cleanse, to reconsider, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in our haste to succeed and be great. Our thought has been "let every man look out for himself," let every man look out for

GREAT PARADE IN HONOR OF WILSON

Federal and State Troops, Men From Navy, Veterans and Civilians March.

GEN. WOOD IS GRAND MARSHAL

Indiana, Hunt Clubs and College Students Are in Line—Enthusiastic Spectators Continuously Enter the Inaugural Procession.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

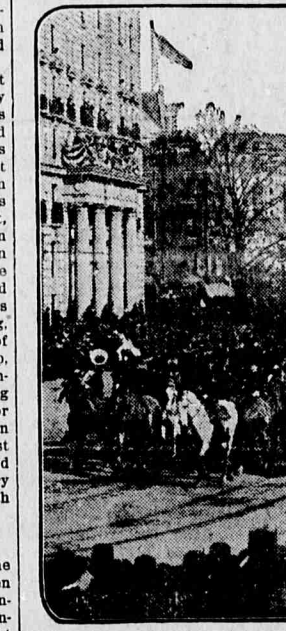

Washington, March 4.—The "Jeffersonian simplicity" which Woodrow Wilson requested should be observed in every detail of his inauguration as president did not apply to the inaugural parade, for it was as elaborate as such an affair usually is. The people waited it so, and they showed their appreciation of the spectacle by turning out by the hundred thousand and cheering wildly as the marchers passed with hands playing loudly and flags waving bravely.

The newly inaugurated president reviewed the procession and smiled his approval as he returned the salutes of the commanding officers, for all the glittering show had been arranged in his honor. Pennsylvania avenue, from the capitol to the White House, was full of color, music and movement.

People Enjoy the Sight.

The inhibition of the inaugural ball and of the planned public reception at the capitol had no effect as a bar to the attendance at this ceremony of cheering presidents. Masses were here to see, and other masses were here to cheer. There was a greater demonstration while the procession was passing than there was four years ago. Victory had come to a party which had known nothing like victory for a good many years. The joy of possession found expression in steady and abundantly noisy acclaim.

President Taft and President-elect Wilson were escorted down the avenue by the National Guard troop of cavalry of Essex county, New Jersey. The carriage in which rode Vice-President-elect Marshall and President pro tempore Bacon of the United States senate was surrounded by the Culver Military academy of Indiana.

Scene on Pennsylvania Avenue During the Progress of a Typical Inauguration Parade.

ana. This is the first time in the history of inaugural ceremonies that a guard of honor has escorted a vice president to the scene of his oath taking.

Formation of Parade.

The military and the civil parade, a huge affair which stretched its length for miles along the Washington streets, formed on the avenue radiating from the capitol. After President-elect Wilson had become President-elect Wilson and Vice-President-elect Marshall, they went straightway from the capitol to the White House and thence shortly to the reviewing stand in the park at the mansion's front.

The parade, with Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, United States army, as its grand marshal, and the high hats of the signal corps, moved along the avenue to the White House, where it was to pass in review. The trumpet sound of the marching parade was taken by the people as a signal for the parade to pass in review. The trumpet sound of the marching parade was taken by the people as a signal for the parade to pass in review.

The procession was in division, with General Wood as the grand marshal of the whole affair and having a place at its head. The display, in the words invariably used on like occasions, was "impressive and brilliant."

Veterans Leads Regulars. The regulars of the country's two armed services naturally had the right of way. Maj. Gen. W. W. Voth, United States army, was in command of the first division, in which marched the soldiers and sailors and marines from the ports and navy yards within a day's ride of Washington. The West Point cadets and the midshipmen from the naval academy at Annapolis, competent beyond other corps in manual and in evolution, the future generals and admirals of the army, had place in the first division.

All branches of the army service were represented in the body of regulars—engineers, artillery, cavalry, infantry and signal corps. The sailors and marines from half a dozen battle-ships rolled along smartly in the wake of their landward brethren.

The National Guard division followed the division of regulars. It was commanded by Brig. Gen. Albert L. Mills, United States army, who wore the medal of honor given him for conspicuous personal gallantry at the battle of San Juan hill. General Mills is the chief of the militia division of the United States war department.

The entire National Guard of New Jersey was in line, and Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maryland, Virginia, Georgia, Maine and North Carolina were represented by bodies of civilian soldiers. Cadets from many of the private and state military schools of the country had a place in the militia division.

The third division of the parade was composed of Grand Army of the Republic veterans, members of the Union Veteran league and of the Spanish war organizations. Gen. James E. Stuart of Chicago, a veteran of both the Civil and the Spanish wars, was in command.

Thousands of Civilians. Robert N. Harp, chief marshal of the civic forces, commanded the fourth division. Under his charge were political organizations from all parts of the country, among them being Tammany, represented by 2,000 of its braves, and Democratic clubs from Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities.

They put the American Indians into the civilian division. The fact that they were in war paint and feathers helped out in picturesque and did nothing to disturb the peace. Members of the United Hunt Clubs of

POOL ROOMS DOING RUSHING BUSINESS.

It seems that the billiard table is the most prosperous and best patronized business in Statesboro.

The one that has been running here for several months proved to be such a fine investment until it has recently changed hands at a profit of something like fifty per cent on the investment, and now we have the second one preparing to open business.

This is indeed encouraging to our people. It is a consoling thought that our city has such a number of real "blooms" in it. It shows that this is by no means a slow town. Why, a visit to one of these places of amusement and recreation will show you that there is something doing. Things may appear rather dull in most any other line, but it is on a boom in the pool room business here.

This is a source of great satisfaction to our folks. It shows the parents where to find the boys. No mother need worry as to "where is my wandering boy to-night?" She can console herself that he is in the pool room. The pool room is an excellent place to raise our young men. It is there they learn so much that is good and helpful to them and fits them for the responsibilities of life. We can think of no better place to keep the boy than in a pool room, a bowling alley, or at a baseball game, unless we had the pleasure of having a few near-beer saloons to tone them up in.

The pool handles may stand idle for the want of willing hands to steer them, and the bell line may lose its pull over the back of a mule, but the billiard cue is busily engaged. Yes, by all means, let's have a few more pool rooms, they are great town builders.

Cheering Is Continuous. All along Pennsylvania avenue, from the capitol to a point four blocks beyond the White House, the spectators were massed in lines ten deep. Many of them wore orange and black sweaters and they were somewhat noisy though perfectly proper. Students from seventeen other colleges and universities were among the marchers.

There were 1,000 Princeton students in the civic section of the parade. Many of them wore orange and black sweaters and they were somewhat noisy though perfectly proper. Students from seventeen other colleges and universities were among the marchers.

WILSON INDUCTED INTO HIGH OFFICE

Inauguration of Twenty-Seventh President Is Witnessed by Great Crowds.

MARSHALL SWORN IN FIRST

Simple Ceremony in Senate Chamber Followed by More Impressive Affair on East Portico of the Capitol.

By GEORGE CLINTON.

Washington, March 4.—In the presence of a vast throng of his fellow citizens, Woodrow Wilson today stood in front of the east portico of the capitol and took the oath of president of the United States. Thomas R. Marshall already had been sworn in as vice president, and with the completion of the ceremony the ship of state was manned by the Democratic party, which had been in the saddle for sixteen years.

As the new chief executive of the nation stood with bare head, Edward Douglas White, chief justice of the supreme court, held before him the Bible always used in the ceremony. Mr. Wilson placed his hands upon the book and in a voice strong, though somewhat affected by emotion, swore to support the Constitution and the laws of the country and to perform the duties of his high office to the best of his ability.

Thomas Riley Marshall swore fealty to the Constitution and to the people in the senate chamber, where for four years it will be his duty to preside over the deliberations of the members of the upper house of congress.

Severely Simple Ceremonies.

Both of the ceremonies proper were conducted in a severely simple but most impressive manner. The surroundings of the scene of the president's induction into office, however, were not so simple, for it was an outdoor event and the great gathering of military, naval and unofficial civil help out in picturesque and did nothing to disturb the peace. Members of the United Hunt Clubs of Procession to the Platform.

Immediately after the simple ceremonies a procession was formed to march to the platform of the east portico of the capitol, where Woodrow Wilson was to take the oath. The procession included the president and the president-elect, members of the supreme court, both houses of congress, all of the foreign ambassadors, all of the heads of the executive departments, many governors of states and territories, Admiral Dewey of the navy and several high officers of the sea service, the chief of staff of the army and many distinguished persons from civil life. They were followed by the members of the press and by those persons who had succeeded in securing seats in the senate galleries to witness the day's proceedings.

When President Taft and the president-elect emerged from the capitol on to the portico they saw in front of them, reaching far back into the park to the east, an immense concourse of citizens. In the narrow line between the colonnades and the platform on which Mr. Wilson was to take the oath, were drawn up the cadets of the two greatest government schools, West Point and Annapolis, and flanking them were bodies of regulars and of national guardsmen. The whole scene was charged with color and with life.

On reaching the platform the president and president-elect took the seats reserved for them, seats which were flanked by many rows of benches rising tier on tier for the accommodation of the friends and families of the officers of the government and of the press.

Oath Administered to Wilson. The instant that Mr. Taft and Mr. Wilson came within sight of the crowd there was a great outburst of applause, and the military bands struck up the national anthem. The president-elect took the oath first, and then the president.

At the conclusion of the speech the bands played once more, and William Howard Taft, now president of the United States, entered the capitol and delivered his inaugural address. His first speech to his fellow countrymen in the capacity of their chief executive.

Scrapped. On the floor of the chamber were many former members of the senate who, because of the fact that they once held membership in that body, were given the privilege of the floor. After the hall was filled and all the minor officials of government and those privileged to witness the ceremonies were seated, William H. Taft and Woodrow Wilson, preceded by the sergeant-at-arms and the committee of arrangements, entered the senate chamber. They were followed immediately by Vice-President-elect Thomas R. Marshall, leaning upon the arm of the president, and the committee of arrangements, entered the senate chamber. They were followed immediately by Vice-President-elect Thomas R. The president and the president-elect sat in the first row of seats directly in front and almost under the desk of the presiding officer. In the same row, but to their left, were the vice-president-elect and two former vice-presidents of the United States, Levi P. Morton of New York and Adlai A. Stevenson of Illinois.

A FINE OPPORTUNITY TO SHOW THE TRUE SPIRIT.

[Stillmore News]

We understand that our friends at Metter are beginning to draw in their eastern boundary line somewhat, and that they now expected that the line will cross the Central Railroad between Pulaski and Parish, leaving Pulaski in Bulloch and embracing the bustling young city of Parish, and numbering it among "the outlying trade centers" of Candler.

Now we submit that our neighbors are beginning to strike out on the right line, only they haven't as yet gone far enough in this drawing in business. If they will examine the map that we submit in this issue for their consideration, they will find that by dropping a few more stitches we can all get together, and the proposed new county to be cut in this section will go through like a flash. Just drop up about two and one half miles closer and you have the natural boundary, viz: the waters of the Fifteen Mile Creek.

By doing this, and by joining in with Stillmore and the balance of the folks in the territory affected, submitting to the inevitable proposition that Stillmore is the logical place for the new county seat, it would be a fine exhibition of that spirit which we are sure friends at Metter are thoroughly imbued with; that they are out for the general good of the entire territory to be embraced. Their action along this line would forever stamp as a bald face fabrication any charge or insinuation that may be hereafter laid at their door, to the effect that it was a sort of town lot boosting scheme, that a few large land owners around Metter would reap rich rewards at the expense of the over taxed and bond ridden many who happen to live in the outskirts of the proposed new county of Candler as at first planned. It would show conclusively that the people at Metter did not want to take unto themselves benefits and perquisites not allowed to others on whom fortune had not smiled so graciously. It would show that our friends at Metter were willing to take their place along side of such other progressive towns as Cobbtown and Aline. It would show to Cobbtown that a new county was a real good thing regardless of whether there were any capitol city town lots for sale or not, and that the entire section would receive a proportionate share of the benefits and emoluments incidental to the creation of the new county, this would no doubt wake up our mutual sister, down The Wadley Southern to a realization of her plain duty. Action along this line on the part of Metter would cause our friends at Aline to see their own selfishness in trying to get a new county taking in only themselves, and would warm them up to a full appreciation of the scope of the general movement, having for its purpose the greatest good to the greatest number. The expected action that Metter would take in this way would show to Arlin Jones and hundreds of others like him who have been persuaded that there was a yearning, burning desire to contribute to their financial welfare and general edification, that is to be no lamb shearing when the county is created, by the floating of bond issues and extravagant tax levies to pay for the building of court house, jail and bridges which would boost the value of a few nearby town lots. It would show him and others like him that the folks at Metter were in dead earnest when they ask him to join them, as we expect them to do, in locating the county seat not only at a point where the folks appreciate it enough to furnish the court house and jail free to the people. Admitting in so doing that they would then be nearer the court by ten miles than they are now and be ten times better off than the people they show so much interest in now.

By cutting the line to the waters of the Fifteen Mile Creek as eventually it must come, then our Metter friends will be relieved of the embarrassment of having entire communities traveling in earl land sections to Atlanta, as they always do when Metter undertakes to annex them. Those fellows below the Fifteen Mile Creek seem to be unable to grasp the good things in store for them at Metter and have a habit of hiking to Atlanta every time Metter starts out to "help folks," and render life a burden by their presence in the capitol. Cutting the line at the Fifteen Mile Creek as Stillmore proposes, eliminates the people opposed to coming in, and leaves those who came in all of one accord.

We are sure that our Metter friends will catch the point, seize the opportunity, hastening to render active and patriotic service in locating the capitol of the new county or its logical center, where the court house and jail will come free to the people, avoiding the necessity of either stupendous bond issues or gigantic tax levies.

With railroads piercing the county, running in six directions from the county seat, with court house and jail furnished the people free, with 66 miles of railroads to assess taxes taxes from, insuring a lighter tax rate than that enjoyed in the old counties, it seems to us that there ought to be a sort of a general getting together.

With Metter and Stillmore bound together as twin sister, in inseparable love, "two souls with but a single thought two hearts that beat as one."

Fight For Metter Post Office.

Congressman Edwards was confronted on Tuesday by a large delegation of Metter citizens who expressed to him a willingness to "go serve the dear people," as postmaster at Metter, there being a half dozen or more in the party that called on him.

The death of Mr. Jonathan Mills leaves a vacancy in the office, and the revenue of the office is reaching that point to where the job is a desirable position. While ex-President Taft placed all third and 4th class post offices under the civil service. This does not necessarily mean that political pull has lost its cunning. Civil service as applied to offices of this kind is looked upon as a splendid blind to dodge behind when the applicant happens not to be slated.

The fight for the Metter post office will in all probability be warm

Use of Fertilizer

The flying ants have come and given notice that no further freezing need be feared. So corn plantings are near at hand, and up springs the fertilizer question.

Dr. Soule says farmers lose much by not using fertilizer intelligently. The causes of these losses lie in the unavailability of plant food, especially in the "ammoniated," or material carrying nitrogen in its varied forms. The growers must learn how these materials act, to which soil material is best suited, and which of the materials are the most congenial to the particular crop which it is to grow. Study soils should not be treated like strong clay soils.

The materials should be well balanced to get the best results, and be mixed in proportions as to give a constant supply of nitrogen in available form—either an excess of nitrates to lead to the growth of a starving plant before the organic nitrates are ready. Feeding starvation are no more heinous than to plants than to animals. Hence the scientist advises against putting down all fertilizers at one time before planting, out to divide them and feed the plants as they grow.

But fertilizers cannot take the place of proper preparation and rapid cultivation. The reports sent in by the "boys," who have raised 100 bushels and over per acre, all say that they applied part of the fertilizer to the growing crop and that deep breaking was followed by shallow and rapid cultivation.

THIS LADY'S GOOD APPETITE

Mrs. Hansen, in a letter from Mobile, Ala., tells how she gained it.

Mobile, Ala.—"I suffered for seven years, with womanly troubles," writes Mrs. Sigurd Hansen in a letter from this city. "I felt weak and always had a headache and was always going to the doctor. At last I was operated on, and felt better, but soon I had the same trouble. My husband asked me to try Cardul. I felt better after the first bottle, and now, I have a good appetite and sleep well. I feel fine, and the doctor tells me I am looking better than he ever saw me."

If you are sick and miserable, and suffer from any of the pains due to womanly trouble—try Cardul. Cardul is successful because it is composed of ingredients that have been found to act curatively on the womanly constitution.

For more than fifty years, it has been used by women of all ages, with great success. Try it. Your druggist sells it. N. B.—Write for Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chatterbox Medicine Co., Chatterbox, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment of Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

What About The Men?

(Macon News) A minimum wage for girls and women has been proposed and may be established in Illinois, but nothing has been said about the men in this regard.

What about those men, married men, too, with families, who work for less than eight dollars per week the minimum suggested for women? In fixing a minimum wage, these men should not be omitted. They need better pay more than many of the women; for it is undoubtedly true that more people are dependent, in the aggregate, on men who receive pittances for their weekly labor than on the women who work at the same scale.

Give the men better pay and then, perhaps, fewer wives will have to work and more girls will have the privilege to stay at home. It is often the small earnings of the father that obliges the daughters to obtain employment and sometimes forces the wives, who are or should be mothers, to the work-shops.

ASSETS $4,000,000 OVER ITS LIABILITIES—THE CREDITORS MEET FRIDAY.

Believed Plan Will Be Devised for Continuing Business.

With assets exceeding its liabilities by $4,000,000, the American Naval Stores Company announced yesterday that it had suspended business. The statement given out by the secretary states that the fight the government has made upon the company and its officers practically destroyed its credit and made it wise to discontinue operations. A meeting of the creditors has been called for next Friday at the Savannah Hotel. The creditors are mostly bankers, and among them are eight Savannah banks, the loans by which are secured by ample collateral. No single bank is carrying an excessive amount of paper. Banks in all are interested.

Probably Continue Business. It is believed by leading creditors that a plan will be devised by which the business of the company will be carried on with the loss of not more than a few days. The convertible assets being so large and the interests involved having financial backing that is so great, the belief is expressed that the funds needed will be promptly forthcoming and the situation relieved. The meeting of the creditors has been called for the purpose of devising means for speedily protecting all of the interests involved. A plan is made for conservation in the handling of the situation, which is one of enormous proportions. If this is done, assurance is given that a reaction will set in and unnecessary losses and sacrifices will be averted.

The news that the company had suspended was received without foreboding. The information had not been an indication in the trade that such a course was impending. The first news naturally came as a shock, as its full import was not understood. In the confusion of the early reports, the impression prevailed that the company had failed because of insolvency. Later reports were reassuring, however, as the company had prepared copies of its formal statement and distributed them among the banks and others directly concerned.

What Company Has Done. The statement is made that this is not an abnormal situation, and no embarrassment would have resulted, but for the attitude of the government and its subsidiary corporations. Members of the banks which have heretofore extended practically unlimited credit to the company shied at the attitude of the government and made it more difficult to secure the capital it requires. Sixty Banks Interested. There are approximately 60 banks interested. Many of these will be represented at the creditors' meeting. It is understood to be the intention of the creditors to have the American Naval Stores Company continued while the enormous stocks involved are marketed. Bankruptcy proceedings will be avoided, on the ground that the best interests of all concerned would be best served by liquidating the business outside of the courts.

In Savannah alone there are more than one hundred persons employed by the company. The company has many branch offices in the various cities, and the number of employees there is large. An officer of one of the Savannah banks interested said he believed, and that the belief is shared by the other bankers to whom he has talked, that the statement given out by the American Naval Stores Company represents with substantial correctness the condition of its affairs, and that the assets very largely exceed the liabilities.

Savannah Banks Secured.

A meeting of the Savannah banks interested in the affairs of the company was held in the afternoon. They carefully canvassed the situation and authorized the statement that all of their loans are fully secured, as explained in the statement issued by Secretary C. J. DeLoach of the American Naval Stores Company.

The company's assets consist largely of immense stocks of naval stores at various points in this country and abroad. The company engages exclusively in selling and exporting naval stores. For quite a while, it has been buying heavily. Meanwhile the market has been sagging. With the enormous stock on hand, the company has required a great deal of money.

The statement is made that this is not an abnormal situation, and no embarrassment would have resulted, but for the attitude of the government and its subsidiary corporations. Members of the banks which have heretofore extended practically unlimited credit to the company shied at the attitude of the gov-

Land Value Almost Doubled

WHEN a Lee county, Illinois, farmer bought a run down 400-acre farm, his neighbors thought he had made a bad bargain. After three years of treatment by scientific methods, he raised more than eighty bushels of corn to the acre on land that produced less than thirty bushels the first year he farmed it. It is no longer unusual for us to get reports from farmers who have been using manure spreaders consistently for periods ranging from three to five years, to the effect that their land is regularly raising so much more produce that the value of the land is almost doubled.

I H C Manure Spreaders

are made in various styles and sizes to meet all conditions. The low machines are not too low to be hauled, loaded, through deep mud or snow. I H C spreaders are made with trussed steel frames in wide, medium and narrow styles, all of guaranteed capacity. There are both return and endless aprons. In short, there is as I H C spreader built to meet your conditions and made to spread manure, straw, lime or ashes as required.

I H C spreaders will spread manure evenly on the level, going up hill, or down. The wheel rims are wide and equipped with Z-shaped lugs, which provide ample tractive power. The rear axle is geared well under the body and carries most of the load. The apron moves on large rollers. The beater drive is positive, but the chain wears only one side. The I H C dealer will show you the most effective machine for your work. You can get catalogues from him, or, if you prefer, write International Harvester Company of America Atlanta Ga.

Before you Buy your Fertilizers Consider These Vital Facts.

Every farmer knows the need of fertilizer; that each crop takes a certain amount of Nitrogen Phosphoric Acid and Potash out of your soil. If these plant foods are not replaced, the soil becomes worn-out and crops dwindle to almost nothing. There must be enough of each element. An abundance of one plant food and the lack of another never brings big yields. For one plant food cannot take the place of another. To supply these three elements in forms that will feed the crops every day is the one important point.

"AA" QUALITY FERTILIZERS

To decide by analysis guarantees what brand you will use has not been simple. For analysis while helpful is not safe as an exclusive guide in buying fertilizers.

The value of fertilizer depends upon the form in which the plant foods exist as well as the number of pounds of plants. Two fertilizers with the same analysis may differ greatly in value. For one may be made of materials so quickly available that they may leach away, or so slowly available to be of little value.

There is a big difference that analysis alone never shows. The real difference is never shown only in the real test—the field test.

So in every material we improved where improvement was possible. We employed new materials where they were better than the old, and we accepted on mixing fertilizers that would supply the need of every crop on every were proven worthier. After years of improvement, we believe that these fertilizers come prettier than the old, but analysis only shows the number of pounds of plant foods. It does not show the forms in which those plant foods exist. It is in the fields that the value of our precautions and improvements are most plainly shown. If you are among those who have never tried "AA" brand fertilizers—resolve to try these fertilizers in forms that would keep "AA" fertilizers from being said—that would save office for full information and the name of our nearest dealer.

Claxton Will Let Name To The Highest Bidder.

(Stillmore News)

At a meeting called for the purpose of selecting a name for "the baby," to be born over in the neighborhood of Claxton last Friday the question of a fit and proper name with which to christen this newest of all little stars on Georgia's banner, it was decided to choose a name from one of the leading families in that section, viz: DeLoach or Brewton. The DeLoachs and the Brewtons are large and influential families who have lived in the section out of which the county is to be carved for the past century. It was decided that the name would be selected from the family that came across with the most sinews of war and the date to pass on same has been fixed for next Friday week. There it said to be considerable rivalry between the two families and a good round sum will be contributed by the family whose name will be honored with the new county which is hoped to be made with Claxton as the county seat.

Another provision of the bill states that "it shall be unlawful to display or wear any outer garment trimmed or combined with lace, insertion or any kind of embroidery mesh or net through which the color or texture of the skin may be distinguished without having the lace or other transparent material backed with opaque material." Members of the proposed commission, according to the bill, would have to be between 30 and 50 years of age. Two of them would have to be married men and of good moral character. One would be a minister, one a parent of not less than three children, and the third a social settlement worker. The commission would be authorized "to prescribe rules and regulations for the designing and manufacture of women's clothing and to prohibit such styles and patterns of garments as the commission after hearing shall deem to be detrimental to virtue and chastity." The bill goes so far as to prohibit departments stores from displaying undraped artificial figures. The bill makes violation of the act punishable by a fine of not less than $25.

Before you Buy your Fertilizers Consider These Vital Facts.

Every farmer knows the need of fertilizer; that each crop takes a certain amount of Nitrogen Phosphoric Acid and Potash out of your soil. If these plant foods are not replaced, the soil becomes worn-out and crops dwindle to almost nothing. There must be enough of each element. An abundance of one plant food and the lack of another never brings big yields. For one plant food cannot take the place of another. To supply these three elements in forms that will feed the crops every day is the one important point.

Pembroke After The Bay District.

We are informed that a petition has been circulated in the 134th district of this county, asking that a part of that district be cut off and added to Bryan county. It is claimed that everybody signed it in the territory affected with the exception of one old lady who had some superstitions about getting out of Bulloch into Bryan, when the petition was presented to her she is reported as having said, "No I don't care to live in Bryan county. I have always heard that it was sorer sickly down there".

The report is that over three hundred names have been attached to the petition. It was intended to file the same with the Ordinary of this county, and then go before grand jury at the approaching term, but it was found that the filing with the Ordinary was too late for this term inasmuch as the law requires ninety days before the term of the superior court when they carry their case before the grand jury, we understand that this will be done during the early summer and the grand jury will be asked at the fall term to pass on the matter.

It is expected if success crowns their efforts in annexing the new strip, to call an election for county house removal and make an attempt to move the county seat from Clyde to Pembroke. It is believed that with the vote added which will be secured from this county there would be no trouble in moving the Bryan county court house from Clyde to Pembroke.

Thus it looks like the knife is being sharpened up for Bulloch, with Stillmore, Metter, Claxton and Pembroke all asking for a slice, and with Metter preparing to practically disembowel the county, it looks as if we were going to be cut some.

The Story of the Yearling.

Our good friends who seem to be so anxious to leave the old county and run off in a new county that proposes to tax them for court house and jail building purposes, when forty dollar per thousand and bond issues strike them they remind us of Snollygoster Ham's story about driving up the obsequies yearling, it runs this way: "A youngster who went out to drive up the yearlings had a stray bull join in the bunch, in parting the bull away, one of the yearlings ran off after him, an attempt to head off the yearling and drive him back resulted in a race, when the boy had run until his tongue was hanging out on hill and down hill he paused long enough to see the yearling's tail hoisted high going off over the next hill. He muttered something like this: "Go it if you think there is no hereafter, darn you I reckon you will find out the difference when sucking time comes". Yes these fellows will find the difference when the high tax rate hits them.

The Plain Duty of Bulloch's Friends

With three new county propositions asking for slices from this county and with the fourth asking for territory out of which to enlarge a neighboring county, it behooves the loyal citizens of Bulloch to sit up and take notice.

It would seem that a number of the claims made on the mother county for territory carried with them some weight and are entitled to consideration, in fact all of them will have to be considered and their claims met one way or the other.

While it is true that Bulloch is a large county, being unable to give the people of the outlying districts as well as other sections of the county the amount of work on her public roads as is expected and demanded yet our people are slow to believe that our own folks can better themselves by going elsewhere, but maybe some of them can.

It is practically sure that with a persistent demand year in and year out that sometime either down the distant future on in the more immediate future there will be a new county created either at Metter or Stillmore, it is equally certain that the enterprising town of Claxton will from time to time seek to draw from our territory with which to create a county with its seat of government at Claxton. It is equally evident that the demand made on us at various and sundry times in the past for a slice from the Bay district to be added to Pembroke, that she can make certain the fight for a court house removal will continue to rise up and strike us in the face.

These conditions confront us and it is the part of good judgment that these issues be met now and our territory shaped up that the most people can be best served. Bulloch can afford to give up territory for three of these demands and still be a large and respectable size, but she cannot stand for the knife to sink in as deep as is proposed by one and then give up the other territory and maintain her place among the large and influential counties of the state.

Bulloch county could give to Stillmore that twenty six square miles of territory carrying with it as it does a people who seem to be absolutely united in their repeated efforts to leave the parental roof as it were, coming to the natural boundary viz: the Fifteen mile Creek, and still have nine hundred and four square miles left, she could also contribute to Claxton from another section one hundred square miles and have eight hundred and four square miles left, in contributing the latter slice of county would be dependant on the united demand of the people in the territory affected. Bulloch could do these two things and still retain a point and go far enough to give our friends at Pembroke that section of Bulloch below the Bulloch Bay, about fifty square miles in area as we understand it and still have a large and well shaped county left. Another far reaching consideration in doing all three of these things would be then that matter of new county agitation would cease forever and eternally, we would have contributed to the desires and well being of so many of our neighboring communities that the county line business would seem to be settled permanently. In doing this however we will have to listen to the demand of the people in the territory affected. It would be without precedent and ill advised for the people of this county to attempt to run off any part of her citizenship over their protest.

The next horn of the dilemma that sticks its piercing prongs in to us for consideration, eager and grasping as it seems the demand from our friends at Metter that we contribute a large section of the county to them for the proposed new county of Candler. This demand comes with a regularity that is fast becoming burdensome and embarrassing in the extreme, it is like "banco's ghost" it just won't down, and it is ever at the door knocking for admission and recognition. This persistent demand as we are confronted with from time to time carries many embarrassments chief among which is the fact that it comes down in to the very heart of our territory, carrying with it a large section of loyal citizens who over their repeated and continued protest do not want to leave the old county and who make no effort to conceal this fact. The Metter proposition, is unfortunate in that particular and unfortunate in many others but it is here and we are faced to face with its demands and their ultimate outcome.

If we are to stand idly by and see the splendid section carried away below the Fifteen Mile Creek, carrying with it as it will so many of our people who are so much opposed to going, will even such a sacrifice as that satisfy the other demands made on us for territory: it will shut Stillmore's mouth, but we will still have Claxton and Pembroke after us for their slice. Losing as we will a large proportion of our up territory we will find ourselves with the county seat located in the western portion of the county, we will be top light and bottom heavy with ten miles to the western boundary and thirty two miles to the eastern line, you can see at a glance that the next demand to be made on us would be to cut the county seat in the center of the county, which would be at Brooklet, with the voting population to the east of us so largely predominating it would be hard to say what the outcome would be.

In our opinion it behooves us to sit up as stated in the foregoing and look around and see what is to be done, in doing this if we were to decide to shape up by allowing Stillmore, Claxton and Pembroke to take each a small slice it would settle all complications in the future, and leave a united people making up the old county, in doing this as stated above, the sentiment in the territory to be given in each instance would have to be consulted. The people of the old county, cannot and will not drive from her borders good and loyal citizens who desire to remain, no matter what the demands are made on us by ambitious towns on our borders, it would be as unnatural as it would be for a mother to drive her children from under her own roof. But as stated before it behooves the people of this county to look this situation square in the face and do the sensible practical thing about it.

Statement About Candler County

Parrish, Ga., March 17, 1913.
Mr. J. R. Miller,
Editor Statesboro News:

Sir: In your paper a few weeks ago there appeared an article relative to the new county move at Metter, and in that article you said that to cut the county of Bulloch at the fifteen mile creek would take in all the people who wanted to be in a new county. Now Mr. Miller, I am unable to see how you can say this when you are so well acquainted with the facts as you are. It does not appear to me that you could know misrepresent the situation, therefore I am asking space in your paper to correct the statement. You know that Parrish and all the section around here is below the fifteen mile creek, and if there is a man in all this section opposed to the creation of Candler county we would like to know where to go to find him. He is not here.

Again, you know that Pulaski is seven miles east of Metter, and that they were once opposed to the new county with Metter the county seat, and now you know that all the people in and around there want the new county. Yes they want to be in Candler county. Out of the great number of people in the proposed territory ask for from Bulloch to form Candler you could not find with a spy glass a dozen people opposed to the move. They know that the county is needed and are working hard for it. Nearly every name name is now on the list asking the legislature to create Candler county.

Now you can just canvass the section of Bulloch that Stillmore is asking for and if you find one man in it that wants to be in Stillmore's new county you can get well paid for your trouble. You evidently know that he cannot be found.

Now I ask that you give this space that the statement may be corrected as I am sure you do not desire to misrepresent any one. And just bear in mind all along that we people below the fifteen mile creek want to be in Candler county with Metter the county seat. Give us justice brother Miller, and we of course will look for that all the time.

Yours very truly,
R. K. Hartley,
Parrish, Ga.

IN REPLY TO MR. HARTLEY.

We take pleasure in placing before our readers in this issue a card signed by one of our good citizens living at Parrish, and an ardent advocate of the new county of Candler which proposes to divorce him and a great many others from the old county and take them into newer and greener pastures, down by running waters and through broad acres of clover, and into the land where milk and honey flows. In the outset we desire to make it plain that it is a source of genuine regret that we look upon the anticipated departure of one of Bulloch's noblest sons. While it would be a source of great pleasure on our part to see such a good citizen as Mr. Hartley accommodated, and to shake his hand and congratulate him, on the fact that his heart's desire has been met, and that his cup will be full to overflowing as we are sure it will be when the new county is created, it indeed this is ever to be, yet we are mindful of others. We note the claim made by Mr. Hartley to the effect that all of the people below the creek in his section are anxious to go into the new county, we will answer that by reminding him of the old story. "Go away from home to leave the new county, now we are sure that Mr. Hartley believes that his neighbors are all looking through the same glasses that he is viewing, the promised land from afar, we will venture the assertion if he will look around near him he will find a large per-

Perhaps The Percentage Ought To Be Scaled.

Through the columns of The Metter Advertiser, the statement is made to the effect that ninety-five per cent of the people of the old county were in favor of the new county with its seat of government at Metter.

Now our good friend editor Sills, has the reputation of being a very conservative citizen and his estimates are entitled to earnest consideration, but in the instance referred to we are fearful that a point has been strained.

If instead of ninety-five per cent the estimate had been ninety-four and seven eighths it would have been one eighth nearer the mark than ninety-five per cent.

Brother Sills is perhaps half correct, that part of his article that says that ninety-five per cent of the people of Statesboro are in favor of a new county in the section round Metter, is correct, only the percentage would run greater on a careful canvass, but the fact that there is anybody at all who favors the Candler county proposition in its present form if such be the case is unknown to any body here.

If the people of that section will confine their lives taking in people only who want to go there will be no objections on the part of the people of Statesboro. They are wifing of course that all people who want to leave should go in peace, but it would be asking a great deal of us to ask us to be a party to the driving from us of good loyal citizens who desire to remain with us, and that section below the fifteen mile creek is full of just such people as this. While it is a matter of deep regret that we cannot accede to all the demands made on us by brother Sills, yet we are sure he will appreciate it if we meet him half way and give to him just such as are in accord with him, and cutting the boundary at the point where the sentiment for the new county begins and where public sentiment does not balk at its creation.

KICKING ON CLAXTON COUNTY.

Mr. J. E. Anderson and other citizens of the 4th district have been in town during the week, and have called on the News and asks that a correction be made in a statement made some time ago to the effect that all the people below the old Dublin road were in favor of the new county at Claxton. Mr. Anderson states that neither himself or a number of his neighbors want to leave Bulloch' this same sentiment was brought in here some time ago by Mr. J. M. Strickland of the same section.

Now the News has no interest in this matter except first of course to publish the facts as we find them, second to serve the people to their best interest as we see it.

We find in the section referred to, and in the section to be cut such loyal friends as Eb Anderson, Brooks Anderson, Shelton Anderson, J. M. Strickland, and others who believe that the old county is good enough for them, this of course is a source of genuine gratification, that all public spirited citizens must recognize, glad to know that the old county is still a good place to live in, and that the affairs have been administered in a manner that gives confidence to her people to the end that they refuse to be cut away from the old county.

On the other hand we find such citizens as Mitch Green, Dan Beasley, Eld. Ben Wilkinson, Millidge Rushing, the DeLoaches, and others who want to go with the new county. Now this gets our brains all spun in a regular whirlwind, and we confess that we do not know, which way to turn in the service of our friends. The News will await this Claxton movement and watch for further evidences of sentiment that the ends viz: The greatest good to the greatest number shall be served in the premises.

The Smart Little Wities

It is a great pity that everybody has the smartest little boy in the world, and the best, and most truthful little fellow. So good and nice, and manly, and with the promise of such great things. He is a courageous little fellow and wants to do as he pleases. And does as he pleases at home and mamma and papa smile at his misbehavior and allow him to go on and have his own way, when by the time he starts to school he is already ruined.

What is the result? The school teachers have to thrash the smart little fellows in order to have some system and order in the schools, and then daddies and mammae, raise Cain with the teachers and swear that their smart little boys shall not be thrashed. It is all right to whip the other fellow's bad children, but he must not whip mine. Do you know where that kind of conduct is leading your boy? Right straight to the chain gang or penitentiary, and you can just bet that he will be controlled and whipped there alright. It is getting so that children run things around some people's houses and what is the result? Disobedience at home, disobedience abroad, disobedience at school, disobedience on the streets and elsewhere. It leads to outlawry. The best thing parents can do is to control their own children with the rod if necessary and learn them obedience to authority and to law and order. If they fail to do this, they are storing away trouble for the teachers, the public and the courts. Now remember, please, that your boy is no better than any body else's boy that there is the same old Adam in him that other people have; and besides you do not know your own boy as well as other people know him. You are biased in his favor. He keeps his meanness from you, but other people see it.

Obedience to authority is the duty of every grown citizen, let alone children. Without authority and control, this country would soon be a mob.

Aline Will Make Determined Fight.

(Stillmore News)
We understand that there is a determined effort on the part of the citizens of Aline to go, not after a new county, the name of which is to be Wilson, named in honor of the President of the United States.

The proposition has been financed, and we are informed that Judge James K. Hines is to make the fight for them.

Aline has one advantage and that is she is located in the very center of the territory now suffering from being so far removed from their county seats. Aline has a splendid railroad running through her town, giving railroad facilities in two different directions, along this line she has the same advantages to offer that Metter has, but of course does not compete with Stillmore who has railroads running in six different directions. Aline is equally as well located as Metter, and it would be no worse for the people of Metter to come up on the night train and remain over in Stillmore enroute to court at Aline than it would be for Aline people to come over via Stillmore and remain over to catch a train to attend court at Metter, they are both one and the same along that line, and it is doubtful if Stillmore has any favorites as between these folks, she can entertain either crowd and help them along to court next day.

Aline hasn't raised fifteen thousand dollars for a campaign fund we understand, on the contrary she is contending with a much smaller sum, in this case she will probably rely more on the virtue of her claims than she will on her big roll of the long green.

Of course it would be much better for both these neighbors to do the sensible and sane thing and that is all get back of Stillmore, and they could meet here on the half way ground and attend court and look after their other business, it will probably drift to something like this before the end is reached.

Stonewall an Appropriate Name.

(Stillmore News)
That the name of the greatest general and most fearless warrior, Christian gentleman and patriot should be preserved and honored in history and emblazoned on the escutcheon of the empire state of the south, and one of the states who sent her noblest sons to the front to battle for southern rights and southern liberty, is not disputable even among the most biased and iron hearted of our citizenry.

That the name of this the south's greatest of leaders who fell at the hands of a bullet from one of his own men, should be given to one of Georgia's new counties seems to be appropriate and well timed.

Stonewall county as she will be when the Georgia legislature puts its seal of approval to the earnest and patriotic appeal that the citizens of the vast territory, far removed as it is from the advantages of county government, and when the voters of grand old Georgia have an opportunity to pass on it at the polls as we believe they will, they will send back a verdict that will thrill the heart of this southland from the Potomac to the Gulf of Mexico.

When Georgia names for this greatest of her fallen leaders, the name of Stonewall Jackson, by naming for him one of her fairest and best counties, then the old state will have done herself proud. This within itself perhaps would not justify the slicing of any of present counties, but there is other reasons why it should be done.

A section of Georgia, containing the most fertile of its farms, and no better or more loyal people not living in any section of this state are entitled to the common privileges of all other citizens. It is recognized in this section, it is confidently expected that one will be created, and we are relying upon the wisdom of the Georgia legislature to create that county, and make its county seat where the greatest number will be most benefited, we are also relying upon their patriotism to see that the name "Stonewall" is given to the splendid new county which we are sure will be created here. The lawmakers of this state have no higher duty to perform than to serve their constituents in a fair and honorable manner, and in doing this they will make this county and its seat of government where the people will be the best served. They will take into consideration the means of transportation the means the people have of attending courts and other business at their county seat, they will also take under consideration the spirit of liberality of the land holders around the county seat who will benefit by the locating of the new county seat, and will also be careful that no set of people will be driven into a new county and subjected to all the burdens of taxation that a few town lots may be sold at exorbitant figures and the people who reap these benefits in turn lay down on the back bone and sinew of the county to be created, viz: the men who live in different parts of the territory affected.

With this standard to be put to the Georgia legislature Stillmore enters the fight with every hope that success will crown her efforts.

The time for the census enumeration will soon be on us. It is expected that we will have quite an increase in population of those in the school age. Quite a number of families have moved into our county from the counties in middle Georgia and from other states. The sheets for the enumeration will soon be prepared by the state Department of Education and active canvassing will begin a little in the spring and summer.

There is one community of Croatan Indians in Bulloch county that operates a school for their children. They are farming for Eld. Benjamin Wilkinson in the lower part of the county. They do not associate with any other race. They live to themselves as they did many generations ago.

Many patrons fail to furnish their children with books and other much needed school supplies. You are willing to do without your children's work at home and will send them to school, pay their tuition, and yet you will not buy them books. You are making a serious mistake not to buy all the books your children need. It means a big investment. Why neglect so important a matter? I often find children in the schools not supplied with the books needed in third grades, not to mention supplementary readers which the children must have to make the necessary progress they need to make.

Some teachers fail to give daily writing periods. The writing period should not be neglected, as it is too important. Do not fail to give the children daily drills of 20 minutes. To be able to write well is an important part in one's education.

Teachers should subscribe for and read two or three educational journals. Might do well to read your county papers too. You can better keep posted by keeping in line with current events.

Do not forget the special examination the 29th of March. All who have no license will be required to take this examination.

Every school house in the county that is not ready called and painted should be. It is expected that they do be before much longer. And too, many houses are not properly equipped in the way of desks, boards, charts, etc. Every community should begin to plan for the improving of its school house. The school is usually the standard of the community. Are you satisfied with your school house as it is now? If not begin to plan for its betterment.

Teachers, if you have had a picture of your school and the school building, please send me a copy of the work. I want a picture of every school and school house in Bulloch county. Want two. Would be willing to pay for two copies of every school in operation this year. Would be glad if each teacher would paste a small photo of themselves in the picture, besides the one of them in the school group. Wish every teacher who finds that their schools made would drop me a postal and state how many copies you would be able to sell in the event a photographer should come out and make the pictures for you.

Slaton Tramps the Damp Crosssties.
Atlanta, Ga., March 15.—Governor-elect John M. Slaton reached Atlanta Saturday night after tramping the crosssties in the downpour of rain and crossing an improvised bridge of swinging planks. The train that he was aboard was stopped by a washout at Manchester, Ga., and he and other passengers had to walk some distance in the rain to another train waiting on the other side of the swollen creek. From sixty to eighty people had to make this trip in the rain, he said, in order to continue their journey to Atlanta.

UNDERWOOD SAYS HE IS WELL SATISFIED—THE PRESIDENT'S CALL IS BRIEF.

Apparently Tariff Will Control the Session.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—The extra session of Congress called by President Wilson, today to assemble April 7th, will begin with nothing but the tariff revision before it. This fact was made clear in a statement today by Representative Underwood, chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means. Until tariff legislation is well under way in the House no general committees will be named, and no other legislative subjects will be taken up.

The President specified no subject for the special session in his proclamation, but it is fully understood that his message to Congress at the opening of the session will be on the need of tariff revision. If currency, Philippine independence, Alaskan affairs, woman suffrage or other pressing questions are finally forced upon the attention of Congress, it will be only after the Democratic leaders of the two houses and the President are convinced that the success of tariff revision is assured.

The date fixed for the tariff session was accepted by congressional leaders with satisfaction. Senate committees are organized for work and will take up the preliminary stages of much general legislation early in April. A general agreement exists, however, to keep general subjects out of active discussion while tariff legislation is under way.

House Leaders Ready.

House leaders will be ready to go ahead with tariff revision as soon as the session convenes. "The date fixed by President Wilson is satisfactory to us," said Representative Underwood. "The tariff legislation will be ready for presentation to the House by that time and we should be at work upon it in the House within three or four days after the House convenes."

"Of course, before work is begun it will be necessary to organize the House. The Ways and Means Committee, acting as the committee on committees, will prepare a slate of committee appointments to be presented to the caucus. The plan is to organize only the committees necessary to conduct the organization business of the House: rules, accounts, mileage and enrolled bills.

"I will confer later with Chairman Fitzgerald of the Appropriations Committee as to the necessity of reorganizing his committee to handle the appropriation bills which fall at the last session. These will be the only committees organized prior to the beginning of the tariff work. The others will go over until later in the session."

The tariff legislation now being completed by the Ways and Means Committee will be submitted to the Democratic caucus before the session opens.

Call Was Very Short.

The President's pronouncement today was brief and followed form closely. It stated merely that "Whereas public interest requires," Congress would be convened in extra session by order of the executive.

Originally, Mr. Wilson had fixed upon April 1 as the date. Representative Underwood, having informed him that the tariff bills to which it was agreed Congress should give immediate attention, would be ready on that date. Mr. Underwood found that the Ways and Means Committee would need another week to draft the tariff schedules, and today's proclamation is in deference to the wishes of Mr. Underwood.

The absence of any specific reason for the calling of the extra session is explained by the fact that Mr. Wilson's statement immediately after his election, declared he would call an extra session to revise the tariff. President Wilson plans to point out specifically his reasons for the extra session in his first message in preparation. This is known from the conferences the President has had with members of Congress, will outline the administration's idea of how the tariff should be revised, and just what schedules should be taken up. The belief is general that the entire message will be taken up with a discussion of the tariff with the exception of the last paragraph.

Cupid and Uncle Sam at War in Manila

Washington, D. C., March 17.—No more can the American fighting man in Manila walk hand in hand in the moonlight with his brown-skinned starry-eyed sweetheart, for the war department today that Colonel George K. Hunter, of the Seventh cavalry, has issued orders prohibiting the men of the Manila garrison appearing in public with the native women. The order was immediately posted and read: "Members of this command are hereby forbidden to be seen in public in the company with native women, except those men who are married to such women."

No explanation of reasons governing the order accompanied by the report. It is understood that the prohibition will not prevent the men who have lost their hearts to the brown-skinned girls from courting them in the privacy of their homes.

ISSUED BY PRESIDENT HUERTA

Mexican Situation Is Graver Than Admitted.

Mexico City, March 16.—There is a wide variance between official and unofficial reports received in the capital regarding the magnitude of Mexico's last revolution.

Information from sources heretofore reliable makes it appear that Carranza's revolt is far more formidable than the government reports would indicate.

According to the government, the rebel governor of Coahuila holds no towns, commands not more than 400 men, and is chiefly occupied in running away from the government troops.

Private advice, say he holds Lampasas and Basmiento, in the state of Nuevo Leon, and Ciudad Perifro Diaz, in the state of Coahuila, and that he has at least 4,000 men, many of whom are state troops, under his command. Furthermore, it is reported on the same authority, that Carranza practically is in control of the Mexican International Railway and is operating portions of it, and has so damaged the National Railway between Monterey and Laredo that to repair it will require a considerable time, even when the management is given an opportunity to do so.

The public press of Mexico City, anxious for peace, have been optimistic, but are now beginning to receive with doubts the reports of dwindling revolutionary movements, especially in the North. Accurate information is difficult to obtain, and there is reason to believe that even the government has been badly informed in many cases.

Pascual Orozco, Jr., appears to be as optimistic as the government and professes to believe that Felipe Casares, the emissary he sent to Inez Salazar, will be able to obtain his alliance to President Huerta.

No Message from Diaz.

New York, March 16.—Gen. Fernando Gonzales, for several years one of the principal aides to ex-President Diaz of Mexico, who went to Europe in 1911 on the same ship with the exiled President, arrived here today on the steamer Kaiserin Augusta Victoria on his way to Mexico City.

Gen. Gonzales denied that he was the bearer of dispatches from Porfirio Diaz to the new Mexican government, but said he would visit President Huerta.

"I assure you," Gen. Gonzales said, "that my trip to Mexico has no political significance. I am simply returning to attend to private business. I do not know the ex-President's views on the present situation. I left him a few days before the revolt which ended in the downfall of Madero, broke out."

Hookworm Disease Being Stamped Out.

Atlanta, March 17.—Dr. A. G. Fort, hookworm specialist of the Georgia State Board of Health, states that since John D. Rockefeller set aside a million dollars to fight the hookworm three years ago 28,811 Georgians have been treated for the disease and cures have been effected in practically every case.

The campaign however, has not been limited to those who have been suffering from the disease, but has included also educational features looking to a plan of sanitation which will result in the eradication of the disease. Splendid work in this direction has been done in every county where the treatment has been given.

Part of Georgia's Peach Crop Lost.

Atlanta, March 17.—Report received from all of the fruit belts of Georgia state that with the exception of sections around Rome and Lawrenceville, absolutely no damage was done to the fruit crop or vegetables. The peach crop at Lawrenceville was badly damaged, if not a total loss. The fruit in the vicinity of Rome was also damaged but not entirely killed. Reports from Dalton, Cartersville, Mount Airy and Cornelia say that the crop is safe. There will be no damage in Middle Georgia, while South Georgia had neither freeze nor frost.

Reidsville, Ga., April 24, 1912.

Fred C. Wallis Agency, Savannah, Ga.
Gentlemen: Please accept my thanks for the Empire Life Insurance Company's Check No. 278 for Two Thousand Two Hundred and Thirty Dollars and Eight Cents ($2,230.08) in full settlement of my claim on policy No. 2502 in the Empire Life Insurance Co.

The above numbered policy for $2,000 was issued to my brother, Mr. William Sankey Mattox, deceased, on January 2, 1911. He had paid only two premiums, amounting to $20.00. According to the terms of the policy, the company agreed that in the event of Mr. Mattox's death before the policy matured they would refund all premiums paid. This is why they have paid $2,230.08 in settlement of the $2,000 policy.

I cheerfully recommend the Empire Life Insurance Company to any one who contemplates taking out any life insurance. Yours truly,

Before you Buy your Fertilizers Consider These Vital Facts.

Every farmer knows the need of fertilizer; that each crop takes a certain amount of Nitrogen Phosphoric Acid and Potash out of your soil.

If these plant foods are not replaced, the soil becomes worn-out, and crops dwindle of each element.

There must be enough of each element and the lack of any one never brings big yields. For one plant food cannot take the place of another.

To supply these three elements in forms that will feed the crops every day is the one important point.

"AA" QUALITY FERTILIZERS

To decide by analysis guarantees what brand you will use has not been simple.

For analysis while helpful is not safe as an exclusive guide in buying fertilizers.

The value of fertilizer depends upon the form in which the plant foods exist as well as the number of pounds of plants.

Two fertilizers with the same analysis may differ greatly in value.

For one may be made of materials so quickly available that they may leach away, or so slowly available to be of little value.

Therein lies a big difference that analysis alone never shows.

The real difference is never shown only in the real test—the field test.

So we secured those men who know most about crop need, we employed various men, experts on different crops. They focused their attention upon mixing fertilizers that would supply the need of every crop on every kind of soil.

They realized that the benefits of Nitrogen (the most costly of plant foods) had heretofore been wasting. Because it is very unstable—easily washed out of your soil.

Nitrogen that would become available at different times was one of our improvements. A source of Nitrogen that could not be washed out of your soil, was one of our adaptations.

We improved where improvement was possible. We employed these elements in forms that would keep fertilizers from being acid—that would not sour the land.

PREPARE TO COUNT UNCLE SAM'S COIN

Washington, D. C. March 23.—The greatest count of money and securities in the history of the world will begin at the Treasury Department on April 1st, when John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, takes the oath of office as treasurer of the United States, succeeding Carmi A. Thompson.

To safeguard the nation's wealth, Uncle Sam requires that the retiring treasurer's record of the transfer of funds be verified by a count of the notes, coin and securities in the treasury.

Secretary McAdoo will appoint a committee to take charge of the vaults and each vault and safe will be sealed on April 1 in preparation for the count. Only enough money to keep the wheels of the government revolving will be laid aside for daily use while the counting is in progress.

It generally takes from three to five months to make the count. A government mathematician has figured out that it would take one person 300 years to verify Mr. Thompson's records.

Ordinarily every note, bond and other securities are counted. Unless a shortage or error is discovered the gold and silver stored in bags containing $1,000 each, usually is weighed, a test bag being balanced against all others for verification.

Armed guards stand over the counters and workmen to protect them from interference.

Losses seldom have ever been found in these counts. When the treasurer was changed some years ago, $600 was stolen during the official count. A laborer engaged to lift the heavy bags of coin substituted leaden disks for silver dollars in several bags, necessitating a five months count of every dollar of the $115,000,000 in big silver vault. The laborer was convicted of the theft and the retiring treasurer relieved by congress of the responsibility for the loss.

When Carmi Thompson succeeded Lee McClung as treasurer he received over $1,400,000,000. He must account for every cent of that amount, plus the millions he has since received, minus expenditures.

While the treasurer of the United States handles no money personally, he is the only bonded official in his office. His $150,000 bond covers every subordinate and for many years treasurers have urged Congress to order the bonding of the employees who actually handle the $6,000,000,000 which pass through the treasurer's office annually.

HUNDREDS DEAD FROM RESULTS OF APPALLING OMAHA TORNADO.

Omaha, chief city of Nebraska, storm wrecked and fire swept, was so effectually cut off from the remainder of the world this forenoon that only meagre estimates of the death list and damage could be obtained. Brief dispatches forced through by devious routes, indicated that between 100 and 300 persons perished and hundreds of others were injured. Special trains and troops are rushing to the scene.

LEFT RUIN IN PATH. Early last evening a series of equinoctial gales of varying intensity began sweeping through the Missouri Valley and middle west, leaving ruin in their path. At least six states sustained heavy damage. Terre Haute, Indiana, reports a death list in that vicinity that may reach fifty. Towns in Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri were effected.

BY ROUNDABOUT ROUTES. Wire communications with Omaha was broken shortly after six o'clock last evening and since that time only a few dispatches could be sent over roundabout routes. That the city and suburbs sustained great damage is certain. One of the dispatches received via the Lincoln described the path of the tornado as being "eight miles long and from four to six blocks wide". United States troops, from Fort Omaha were immediately called out it is said, and the stricken zone put under practical martial law.

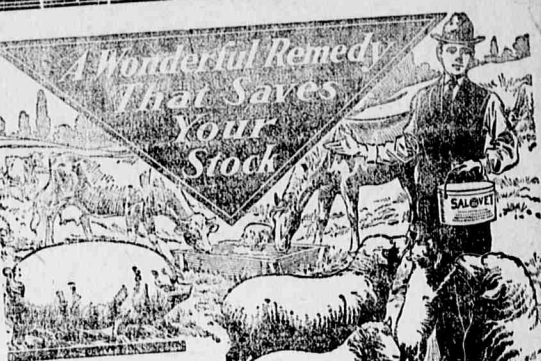

HYSTERICAL ACCOUNTS. The National Red Cross has volunteered its services for the injured and Gov. Morehead, of Nebraska, left Lincoln early today personally to aid in the relief work. Railroad bridges are down, and train schedule is demoralized. Hysterical passengers arriving at Lincoln from Omaha were unable to give any connected account of the disaster except that the residential section suffered most.

Lincoln, Neb.—Hundreds are dead many more are injured, some fatally, by a tornado which devastated Omaha and its environs early last night. It demoralized telegraph and telephone service and cut Omaha off from communication with the outside world.

French Market Coffee Has Never Been Successfully Imitated It Cannot Be

COFFEE roasted the ordinary way is only partially roasted, according to French ideals. The French Market Coffee was the scientific way, producing a perfect roast. Slowly—carefully—the roasting goes on until exactly the right moment arrives.

The slow roast reduces about 10 per cent more weight than the ordinary roast.

All excess of oil vanishes. Yet the delicate flavor and aroma is there, intensified and enhanced.

Chilled, Ground and Hermetically Sealed

DIRECT from the roasters, the coffee is chilled in a cold-air blast machine. This chilling closes the pores of the bean, thus preventing a single breath of the entrancing aroma to escape in the vapors.

Quickly—by automatic machinery—this freshly roasted, freshly ground, freshly chilled, delicious coffee is placed in tin cans, and hermetically sealed.

So it comes to your table as perfect as when it left the roasters—untouched by human hands.

Famous for Over a Hundred Years

EVEN when French Market Coffee could be had only in the old French Market at New Orleans, over a hundred years ago, it was celebrated all over the South.

Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and other famous men of olden times visited the French Market to enjoy the rarely delicious beverage.

But now you all may serve it daily on your own table.

For the rare old French blend has been perpetuated by the French Market Mills, a hermetically-sealed process places French Market Coffee within the reach of all.

For Sale at Your Grocer. Try it once and you'll agree it's the real old French Market flavor. The coffee with a history.

Celebrated 76th Birthday.

On last Tuesday Feb. 26th, the relatives and friends assembled at the home of Mr. H. L. Conley and celebrated the seventy-sixth anniversary of Mrs. Conley. Known better as "Aunt Mollie". She was overjoyed with beautiful presents and the beautiful table which was filled to its utmost capacity.

Aunt Mollie has been an invalid of Rheumatism nine or ten years and almost helpless, and says that if every day could be as merry as that one she would almost forget her misery.

These present were: L. L. Conley and family, Jim Stubbs and family, Mrs. J. M. Gilliff, Carter Smith and family, J. G. Conner and wife, Mrs. B. Swinson, and Miss Verdie Collins.

All retired to their homes leaving Aunt Mollie in high spirits.

45 Near Beer Dealers

Arrested in Savannah.

Savannah, March 25.—Wilkie Brown, a special officer representing the governor of Georgia, threw consternation into the ranks of the near-beer dealers of Savannah last night by swearing out warrants for the arrest of forty-five of them.

They are charged with conducting their business without paying the state license of $300. The warrants were sworn out before the judge of the city court.

The office of the sheriff of that court has been filled all day with defendants giving bond. Some of the near-beer dealers have gone so long without paying a tax they rather defied the authority of the state to collect one.

Governor Brown some months ago appointed Mr. Brown as his special officer and the delinquents have been warned several times that they must pay up. They have defied the officer repeatedly. Last week Mr. Brown went to Atlanta to see the governor and he came home prepared to take definite action.

"I am going to make these retailers pay the state what is justly due them," says Mr. Brown, "and I am also going to make the whole-salers pay their license of $1,000 each to the state. The sooner everybody finds I mean business the better off they will be."

That Debate at Snap.

According to an announcement, a large crowd gathered at the appointed hour, and the debate opened with Jack Murphy as chairman to keep order. There were three judges to decide as to which side won the coveted honor, two of whom were from Snap. During the debate the chairman called down one of the Snap speakers for departing from the subject and indulging in personalities, but he continued for awhile longer, sticking more closely to the subject. When the speaking was over the judges retired and after due deliberation they appeared and rendered a decision in favor of the affirmative (Eureka) and the contest was considered closed; but one of the judges hastily consulted one of the outsiders, and he, the judge, stepped back and told the crowd that he had changed his mind and would now render his decision in favor of the negative. This he did without consulting the other two judges. This was real amusing to the crowd of spectators, but it failed to change their minds, for it was conceded by all that the Eureka boys won the victory. One man who was present, and knows something about debates, says that the Eureka boys made twice as many points as the Snap boys. One man was heard to say that Eureka fairly beat the toe nails on the Snap boys. Eureka is willing to try it over if Snap will tote fair.

Convicting the Innocent.

The recent release of a man from the Pennsylvania penitentiary, when his innocence was established, brings up the old proposition of the unreliability of eyewitnesses. It also raises the question, "What preparation can and should, the state make to the unjustly convicted?"

Here is a man deprived of his liberty and his life stunted for more than a generation, who is dismissed from prison, old, penniless and incapacitated to earn a decent living, all because the state erred in convicting him. In this particular instance Andrew Carnegie has endowed the poor man with a pension, but 'tis not very similar sufferer that will be likewise taken care of. Others are and have been in worse condition than they were in the penitentiary to an occurrence often will differ in their versions. Sometimes their testimony is in direct conflict, even when they had equal opportunities for observation. In illustrating the diversity of opinion as to the battle of Waterloo, Thomas E. Watson cites the incident in English history, where Sir Walter Raleigh and his castlekeeper's wife both viewed a fight that took place between the castlekeeper and another man, and all four afterwards differed materially as to what actually happened.

Human fallibility will always make contrariety of honest opinion a certainty, and in consequence innocent men will continue to suffer, though not to any alarming extent, for the misconduct of others. This being true, it is only proper that every state should provide, as it is already done in several foreign countries, for some compensation for those who unjustly spend time behind prison bars. Liver Sufferers Rejoice

The Famous Pills of Dr. L. F. Herrington Have Been Placed on General Sale.

The citizens of Waynesboro, Georgia, and the adjacent districts have long been free from the ills and suffering attendant upon liver and stomach disorders. Their well known physician and surgeon, Dr. L. F. Herrington, dispensed among his patients and fellow townsmen a pill which worked positive wonders in all cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, jaundice, biliousness, malarial, bilious and other fevers. These pills came to be known as Doctor Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People and have long enjoyed a large sale throughout the home town and surrounding territory.

So great has the demand for these pills grown in recent years that a company has been formed to have the pills made by a large scale on a large scale so that the men, women and children of all sections of the South may enjoy the health bestowing benefits of these marvelous little pellets. The pills will be prepared under the close direction of Dr. Herrington and will be exactly the same as those put up by him in his private laboratory. They are pure, harmless, scientific and prompt and sure in action. They bring immediate relief and a speedy cure.

Waynesboro, Ga., Jan. 1st, 1912.—I heartily recommend Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People. I believe every home should have them in their medicine chest. C. W. SKINNER, President Bank of Waynesboro, Merchants and Cotton Buyers.

What Three Bushels More to the Acre Means

EIGHT years ago the farmers in a central state averaged crops that ran three bushels less to the acre than they now get. Suppose each acre of farm land in the country were so tended that it produced an increase equal to that of this state. How much more money would you have with which to buy the luxuries of life that you earn and deserve? Your share in this prosperity depends entirely upon yourself. The first step is to fertilize your land properly with manure spread by an

The spreader that does its work as it should must have many excellent mechanical features. The apron should move without jerking; the beater should meet the load at exactly the right point to pulverize the manure without too greatly increasing the draft of the machine; the speed changes of the apron should be positive. All these features are provided for in the construction of I H C spreaders.

I H C spreaders are made in low styles which are not too low for use in deep mud or snow, narrow and wide, with both reverse and endless aprons, for use under all conditions. The rear axle is located well under the box, instead of at the rear. Placed in that position (under the box) it carries over 70 per cent of the load and insures ample tractive power.

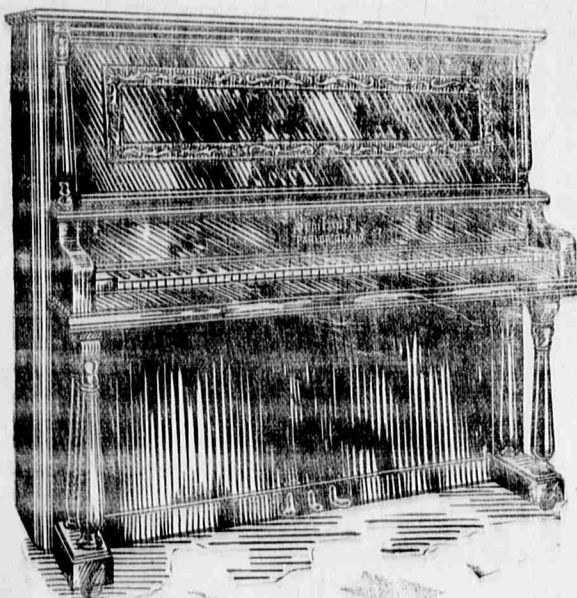

See the I H C local dealers for catalogues and full information, or write International Harvester Company of America (Incorporated) Atlanta, Ga.

Flood And Fire Ravage The Middle West

Greatest Calamity Known in Modern Times,
Johnstown Flood and San Francisco Earthquake Took Less Toll of Life and Property.

Situation Growing Better and Entire Country Responding to Calls for Assistance. Train Loads of Provisions and Clothing
Being Rushed to Scene.

Below we give partial detailed account of what is perhaps the most disastrous calamity known in this country in modern times, not excepting the Johnstown and San Francisco horrors. The flood situation in Ohio and Indiana is reported as improved, the waters are receding and the list of the dead will perhaps be known definitely.

Chicago, March 25.—Floods almost unprecedented in area, following the tornadoes and rains of the last three days, to-day swept four states of the Mississippi Valley causing a loss of life that may reach into the hundreds and damage to property amounting to many millions of dollars. Ohio and Indiana and in a lesser degree Illinois and Missouri felt the brunt of disaster.

At Dayton more than 60 persons are reported drowned, following the breaking of the Miami river levee and the Laramie reservoir, fifty miles above the city. When the Associated Press correspondents lost of life was set at rest, although there was great difficulty in obtaining details. Marooned in office buildings in the center of the town, hundreds of persons were vainly awaiting rescue. Streets heretofore considered miles from danger line are now running 8 feet of water, the torrential force of which precludes rescue in boats.

Millions of dollars in property damage has already been incurred and the flood is still on the increase. From Indianapolis came reports of 100,000 homeless throughout Indiana as a property loss reaching the enormous figure of $20,000,000 in cities, towns and villages alone. This does not include the losses to farmers. The loss of life, while not so great in Ohio, has not yet been estimated.

Dayton, Ohio, March 26.—11:30 p. m. That a fierce fire which appeared to be sweeping through the half submerged business district of Dayton late to-night had destroyed the Beckel House, where there were supposed to be more than 200 flood refugees, was the consensus of opinion of scores of watchers on top of the National Cash Register building, nearly two miles from the scene of the flames.

At midnight residents of Dayton watching the course of the flames started this afternoon in the store of Patterson Tool & Company on 3rd street just east of Jefferson. Thence it ate its way west apparently aided by escaping gas and exploding chemicals in a wholesale drug establishment.

FIRE GAINS NEW FORCE

Fire which started in the flood-bound district of the city late this afternoon gained renewed headway at 11:30 o'clock tonight. It is impossible to designate accurately what buildings are burning as rushing torrents of water down the principle streets preclude approach nearer than a mile and a half of the fire center.

Investigation of the fire at close range was an utter impossibility. More than a mile of flood water intervened between the point where staunchest boats dared to venture and the area of flames.

Traced by aid of maps, it appeared that the Beckel House was destroyed at sometime after 10 o'clock. Whether the scores of refugees supposed to have been there had tried to escape was only a matter of conjecture.

The city has been placed under martial law. Dayton, O., March 26.—Flames that destroyed eight buildings in Dayton's submerged business section to-night cast a red, weird glow over the flood-stricken city that added to the fears of thousands of refugees and marooned persons, and led to apprehension that there may have been many of the water's prisoners in the burned buildings. Soon after notice was posted in headquarters of the emergency committee announcing that the city was under "martial law" and several companies of soldiers arrived from neighboring Ohio cities.

The soldiers were employed to patrol the edges of the submerged district and prevent further looting of homes freed from the flood's grasp.

Up to a late hour tonight there had been no material disorder. Rescue squads worked frantically today to throw back the veil that hides the true story of the Dayton disaster—the number of dead.

MOTORBOATS ON THE SCENE

Late tonight the arrival of motorboats gave the hope that by to-morrow the northern section of the city, now cut off by the Big Miami impassable barrier, may be penetrated, and then may be learned the fate of hundreds of imprisoned by the torrent that poured down from the broken Tarleton reservoir.

The list of six known dead was added to this afternoon by the death of a refugee.

It was reported late tonight that a number of dead had been found in houses at Fifth and Eagle streets, but when rescuers worked their way into the partially submerged dwellings they found a number the prisoners were weak from fright and hunger. A deadly overburdened victims of the water's wrath were compelled to suffer again today in a cold smarting rain. Fire that appeared to threaten the business section tonight was confined to the block bounded by Second and Third streets and Jefferson and St. Clair streets.

BUSINESS BLOCK ON FIRE

In the block are the Fourth National bank, Evans Wholesale Drug Company and several commission houses. It was impossible to get within two miles of the fire, and from that distance what appeared to be explosions, probably of drugs, made the fire seem of larger proportions than it was. It appeared to have about burned itself out and it was not believed it would spread to other blocks.

It was impossible to ascertain, even approximately, the number of persons who might have been marooned in this section and who died after being trapped by flood and fire.

Nevertheless rescue work went steadily on and about 3,000 persons were housed in places of refuge tonight—the majority of them in buildings of National cash register Company. At least 65,000 persons are imprisoned in homes and in business buildings. It is feared their two days' imprisonment with accompanying hunger and fright, has caused tremendous suffering.

What

a great improvement would be made in the condition of horses and other animals if just the proper remedy were used when they became ill or injured. If your horse could talk he would tell you not to use an external remedy containing alcohol because it stings and burns his flesh terribly. Some liniments have alcohol and other very ingredients which only inflame the skin and tissue and does not strike down where the pain lies. Beware of such liniments. The great humane, quick action remedy is Mexican Mustang Liniment. Made of oils, without a drop of alcohol or other torturing element, it soaks straight to the bone and muscle. It soothes the wounded parts and is comforting while the healing work is progressing. Mexican Mustang Liniment is what you want because it

your work lighter, saves your livestock from suffering and keeps them in trim for work. For all forms of Lameness, Strains, Bruises, Cuts, Burns, Galls and harness sores in animals, it is safe and prompt and does not promise what it cannot perform. Mustang Liniment has been doing its wonderful healing work for 65 years. The amount of money it has saved livestock owners is incalculable. One man writes that he was about to kill his valuable horse because badly injured but Mustang Liniment made him well again. A Veterinarian tells us he has used Mustang Liniment fifteen years and found it best liniment for cuts, strains, etc. And many others are enthusiastic friends of this tried and true remedy. RICHMOND VIRGINIA

ERVANT A LITTLE TOO FAMIL-IAR WITH ROYAL HEIR.

Required for Obsequiousness, Man lived in the Opposite Direction—Lucky for Him Haughty Emperor Did Not Overhear.

In her book of reminiscences of the German royal family Mrs. Hugh Fraser tells the following story of the crown prince and a too obsequious servant.

His royal highness had just taken into his service a new manservant,
but the overdone obsequiousness of the man jarred on his master. At last the crown prince became so irritated that the servant received an intimation to the effect that his highness would prefer to be treated with more simplicity.

The day after having given this warning the crown prince was seated at his table writing, when he suddenly felt himself tapped on the shoulder.
Thinking it was his wife, he turned quickly, smiling, only to behold the hitherto obsequious servant standing beside him and regarding him with a most friendly smile. Before the astonished heir to the German throne could find suitable words in which to rebuke the servant's presumption, the latter jerked his thumb in the direction of the door, and announced:

"Papechen has come to see you."
Now, the crown prince was expecting a call from his father, the emperor, and as "Papechen" literally means "Little Papa," his astonishment increased.

"Papechen?" he gasped, as soon as he could articulate. Then thinking that the servant must have been drinking to speak of the emperor in such a way, he muttered to himself,
while his eyes were fixed on the man
in amazed inquiry: "Is he drunk?"

The servant apparently thought the whispered remark was a confidential request for information as to the prospective visitor's condition, for after scrutinizing him in some re-plexity, he leaned closer to the crown prince and whispered softly: "Drunk? Well, I think not; I didn't notice anything."

Were in the Minority.
Three or four years ago they had in a small English town some revival meetings. A man walking around the road walked into one of these meetings without knowing in the least what it was. He saw a man preaching on the platform, sat down; not liking the people on either side of him,
he went to sleep. While he was asleep
the preacher wound up his sermon,
saying:

"Those who are going to leave their wicked ways and come with me in the paths of righteousness, put up their hands."

All the audience put up their hands.
"And those who are going to remain
to their wicked ways and go to damna-tion, put up their hands."

The noise woke up the sleeper, and seeing a man with his hands up on the platform, so that he shouldn't be lonely he put up his hand, too, and said:

"Lor, Guvner, I dunno what we're yoting for, but we've lost it."

Ostrich a Short-Lived Bird.
In proportion to their size, ostriches
are not long-lived birds, and even under the most favorable conditions it is claimed that individuals reach the age of from thirty to forty years, an age
frequently exceeded by crows, cranes, parrots, and birds of prey. The source of weakness in their constitutions appears to be the digestive system. The proverbial phrase "digestion of an ostrich" is a popular misinterpretation of the observation that these birds, like many others, pick up stones, coins,
keys and other miscellaneous hard objects, which are retained in the giz-ard and no doubt assist in the tritura-tion of food.

Deceased by Mild Winter.
The weather in these parts will have to do something much further out of the common than anything it has yet shown the people of northern Ohio to beat certain early records.
When Cleveland was about five years old three winters in succession were so strangely mild, from start to finish,
that the settlers from New England
were led to cherish unfounded hopes of the climate of the region to which they had migrated—Cleveland Leader.

Best She Could Do.
"Why don't you want to let me hold your hand?"

"It would make me glad and give me courage, perhaps, to—to say something that I—that I—say."

"Then, please hold both of my hands."

Secret.
"May I make a confidant of you, old man?"

"Why, certainly. What is it?"
"Well, to tell you the honest truth,
I'm dreadfully hard up and want fifty dollars."

"You can trust me. I am as silent as the grave. I have heard nothing!"

Fortunate.
"Kitty—lan! It's a most fortunate thing!"

"What?"
"Kitty—That people can't read the kisses that have been printed upon a girl's lips.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

ONE TRAMPLED INTO PUDDLES

Economical, Though Somewhat Primitive Methods Used at Many Mills Throughout Mexico.

It was at Pachuca, Mexico, that the patio system of separating silver had its origin. This system is still followed extensively at the silver mines throughout Mexico. The ore is crushed and worked down to a state of puddle. It is then spread out to a depth of two or three feet over the paved floor of the courtyard, or patio. To this mass sulphate of copper is added
in powder, about fifteen pounds of sulphate to three thousand pounds of puddle. This is trodden into the puddle by horses. Several gangs of old worn-out horses or mules, about twelve
in a gang, are seen in various parts of the patio, being driven round in circles to tread in the sulphate.

On the next day six per cent.
of common salt is added and in two more days one hundred per cent. of pure quicksilver, or as much as the assay of the ore shows is required. This mass is then trodden up by horses for fifteen days. It is then wheeled to a large tank through which passes a rapid stream of water. This washes away the clay, leaving the silver and quicksilver. This residuum is poured into cone-shaped canvas bags through which most of the quicksilver runs out, and what remains with the silver is passed off with the vapor by means of heated retorts. None of the quick-silver is lost, and even the vapor is brought by cold water to its original state and used again and again. The quicksilver soon rots the hoofs of the horses and the mules, but the Mexicans themselves do not seem to be troubled by the vapor for it even though they wade around in the puddle for days at a time—Harper's Weekly.

Can't Beat the Smokers.
Local tailors are receiving orders
from their customers that at least one asbestos pocket be placed in every suit and every overcoat. They make,
as a result of the new "no smoking"
rule of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company.

A widely known Walnut street tailor placed a large order for asbestos today, and when asked if he had been employed to make an asbestos suit
he explained the reason.

"Why, some of my customers are bringing back their overcoats to have the asbestos pocket fixed. They want the pocket as a saving in clear bills.
"There is no danger to the clothes,
as there is a little flap on the asbestos pocket that makes it partially airtight, and the clear, without air, goes out almost as soon as it is placed in the pocket. It smokes very little, and there is no danger that the conductor will attempt to put off the passenger with the asbestos pocket."

The tailor said he got the idea of the asbestos pocket from a wealthy business man who pays 50 cents apiece for his cigars, and objects to throwing away 45 cents' worth of borrowed traction company gas by smoking—Philadelphia Correspondence
New York Tribune.

Apple Tree Holds Record.
An apple tree in the Walla Walla Valley, Washington, holds the fruitful record. It produced nearly 200 bushels of apples last season, thus breaking its own record of 125 bushels in 1907, the highest production, they are assured, from a single tree known anywhere in the world. This tree bore 70 boxes in 1906, 42 boxes in 1908 and 45 boxes in 1909. More than 500 barrels of fruit have been picked from it since it came into bearing in the spring of 1871.

The tree was grown without irrigation from a seedling planted in 1866.
It is forty-two feet in height, and its branches spread fifty-seven feet from tip to tip. The trunk is seven feet in circumference at the base and measures six feet six inches below the first limb, which is four feet from the ground and measures four feet seven inches. The tree is sound and healthy despite the fact that it has produced fruit every season for nearly forty years—New York Press.

Letters of Two Kings Found.
It is said that a most curious discovery has been made at Apple house, Hyde Park Corner, the town house of the Dukes of Wellington.
In the cellar there has been found
all the private and state correspondence of George III and George IV.
These documents, covering a whole period of over 60 years, must include Napoleonic references of great interest.

The letters, etc., have been removed to Windsor, and are now being sorted by the king's librarian.
According to one of these documents the Iron Duke's name was never Wellesley. The family name was Colley, and his grandfather was adopted by an Irishman named Wellesley.

Sure of a Job.
It was a new kind of recommendation for a servant, but very effective.
The old employer said nothing about her accomplishments as cook, waitress, laundress or chambermaid. What she wrote was:

"She is as strong as a man and twice as brave. Three times while in our employ she captured burglars singlehanded, and held them until the police arrived, and saved hundreds of dollars' worth of silver and jewelry."

All the manager's employment agency had to do when that girl needed
a situation was to read that letter
out loud and there ensued a wild scramble among his customers for the strongest maid.

Just the Time.
Husband (casually)—I see they are
embalming pet dogs—now.

Wife (interestedly)—Oh, isn't that lovely! That's what I'll have done to me!

Hubby (enthusiastically)—Just the thing! Give him to me and I'll have it done today.

EVER READY FOR FIRES

ELABORATE PRECAUTIONS TAK-EN AT GOVERNMENT POSTS.

Uncle Sam Furnishes an Excellent Example to the Country in This Respect—Few Losses by Conflagrations in the Army.

Perhaps the low percentage of fires
in the army is directly due to the fact that guard duty is never suspended.

In daylight and dark, during peace
or in time of war, armed sentries walk their posts scattered everywhere over the garrisons. Falling asleep while on guard is a serious offence. Therefore the guards are always alert. Never is a sentry mounted on a post without a caution to look out for fires.

One of the first charges in a guard's general orders is one in which he is cautioned to keep a sharp watch for fire. His first duty, in case a building is occupied by humanity, is to turn the occupants out. Next he turns in a general alarm. And when fire call is blown by the trumpeter at the main guard house every man made drunk
the garrison, except the guard, is compelled to hurry to the scene of the fire, no matter where he is, and no matter how he is dressed.

It is not necessary that a man should be in regulation uniform to respond to a fire call. Military fires do not wait for antagonists in full dress parade costumes, any more than city fires procrastinate while the members of the department make careful toilettes.

Once a week, sometimes oftener, in every military garrison, large or small, throughout the country, and there are several hundred at home and in our possessions, a fire drill is held. Not a soul save the commanding officer is advised of what hour of the day or night or on what day of the week a fire call will be blown.
As fires do not give warning of their coming, writes Monroe Woolley in Insurance Engineering, it is obviously advantageous that a fire drill should be as uncertain.

When the fire call goes, either for drill or for a fight for life and property, the soldiers rush out of their quarters, leave their posts in the company kitchens, and on the drill grounds, picking up fire buckets and fire axes as they go in the race for the fire station. Some may be hatless, some coatless and others shirtless.
But it is an honor to be among the first to take hold of the fire equipment.

All the officers dash for the fire house, too, and the highest ranking officer present assumes the duties of fire chief. A run is made with chemical engines and hand drawn hose carts and hook and ladder trucks for a building designated as the scene of the fire. When the equipment is out a fire drill the men take advantage of the occasion and play water on the windows of buildings, giving them a good cleaning.

The amount of fire fighting apparatus furnished the posts by the government for their protection is regulated, of course, entirely by the size
and needs of each post.

Confirmed for Rheumatism.
Rev. Joshua Kimber, in his "Reminiscences," tells the following anecdote of the late Bishop Horatio Potter.

He had been journeying up the east bank of the Hudson river, stopping for confirmation each day at adjoining parishes. When he reached Poughkeepsie
he saw a woman at the rail waiting for confirmation whose face he knew. He recognized her as one of what familiar with. He was also certain that she had been confirmed within the week at another place. The woman whispered to him to remain
after service, and said:

"My dear madam, what do you mean
by coming for confirmation? I am sure I confirmed you on Monday at such a place. Did I not?"

She said: "You certainly did! I have been following you up the river
and have been confirmed every day
this week."

He, astonished, said: "Why do you do that?"

Whereupon she replied: "Because I heard it was good for rheumatism."

Prussian War Centennial.
The year 1913 marks a notable passage in the history of Prussia. A hundred years ago Prussia rose against Napoleon, who was already weakened
by the help of Austria, and also a very large body of Russians, they managed to drive the French army over the border, after defeating it in the tremendous two days struggle at Leipzig.

Many are the centennial celebrations that are arranged for this year,
and, as a conclusion, it is hoped that the czar will visit the battlefield of Leipzig at the end of the year in company with the kaiser. The Russian cooperation at Leipzig, it should be explained, was particularly strong, and at least 25,000 Russian troops were killed in the fight.

"PROVERB" THAT MADE A HIT

Peck Smith's Gem of Wisdom a Source of Pure Delight to His Relatives.

A New England schoolman obtained a situation out in Arkansas, and became so successful that she determined to give an exhibition of her pupils' progress, and invited all their parents to be present on Friday evening. The entertainment proved satisfactory to all concerned.

"Now," said the teacher, toward the close, "I want every boy to repeat some proverb that he has heard. This is entirely impromptu," the teacher explained to the parents, "but I feel sure that the boys will do themselves credit, although they did not know in advance that they were to be called upon. Now, Johnnie, can you give an example of some old saying that you have found helpful?"

"All is not gold that glitters," replied Johnnie.

"Very good. Very good indeed."

"The virtuous and you'll be happy," said Johnnie.

"That's splendid. Why, boys, remind me so much of a school I once taught in Boston," responded the teacher.

"The germ of ambition is the chrysalis of wisdom," said Johnnie.

And so passed the class hour, until she got to Peck Smith. He wasn't very bright, and she intended to skip him, but he seemed anxious to say something, and she asked him if he knew any old proverb. He did.

"A stumped-yaller dog is the best for coon," announced Peck.

The joy of his relatives reached such a pitch that his father paid a year's tuition in advance before he left the schoolhouse—Philadelphia Ledger.

AFTER LINCOLN'S OWN HEART

Man Who Could Beat War President at Telling Stories Got Appointment He Was Seeking.

At least one man got ahead of Lincoln in a story-telling contest. That was Anthony J. Bleecker, who went to Washington to apply for a position. He was asked to read his vouchers. Soon the president stopped him, saying he was like the man who killed the dog. He had kept on with the killing after the animal was good and dead.

The applicant agreed that it was possible at times to do too much, and told the story of the converted Indian who found it hard to learn to pray for his enemies. The bible was quoted to him: "If thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head."

The convert thereupon began to pray most earnestly and at great length. He asked that his foes might have pleasant hunting grounds, many swarms of locusts, and so on. The president stopped him. He had done enough. Said the Indian: "Let me pray. I want to burn him down to the stump."

It is said that Mr. Bleecker got the job.

Machine Catches Burglar. A French inventor has recently designed a burglar alarm which is a very close mechanical substitute for a human watchman.

The device is so arranged that it is ready to operate before the slightest injury has been inflicted upon a safe by a burglar. In fact, it has no material contact with its surroundings. It includes the mechanical equivalent of an eye which will detect the faint light from a candle lantern or even a match, hence making it a good fire alarm as well as a burglar alarm.

The "mechanical eye" is a selenium cell, such as used in picture telegraph apparatus, for the reason that the electrical conductivity of selenium varies approximately with the amount of light that falls on it. The mechanical eye consists of a cylindrical box four inches in diameter and about an inch thick, containing a band of selenium wound up in a coil. There is one of these boxes for each room that is to be protected, but they all communicate their sensations of light by electricity to a common receiver.

Quickly Answered.

Pat and Mike, who were neighbors in the "Old Country," happened to retire from public gaze about the same time. Pat had stolen a watch from a blind man, while Mike had stolen a cow for his own and sold it. As luck would have it, they were drafted to the same prison, and at church parade on Sunday morning they had a chance for a moment's forbidden conversation.

"Said Mike: 'Top up the mornin' to you, Pat, an' phawt might the time be? Sure an' 'tis you that knows all about watches.'"

But Pat was not to be done. "Mike, 'twas I," he replied, "begorra, an' 'tis about minkin' time."

Only Abraham She Knew.

A small girl whose education in American history far surpassed her Biblical knowledge went to Sunday school for the first time not long ago and was much surprised to hear the teacher refer familiarly to Abraham and his nephew, Lot. The clergyman, noticing she was a new pupil, inquired:

"Ada, what was your Sunday school lesson about this mornin'?" Her reply surprised him:

"Well, really, Mr. Wilson, we didn't have any Bible lesson this mornin'. The teacher took up all the time talking about Mr. Lincoln and his nephew, 'Ab' Le'."

PROVED END OF THE ROMANCE

Contemplation of Work That Really Was Work Took Much From His Weary Willie.

"Oh, yes, we have romance in our lives," said the tramp, "but there is always something to spoil 'em. I had my last one last fall. I was pegging along a Rhode Island highway, thinking more of good feed than romance, when a couple of weasels ahead of me turned into a farmhouse. I turned in as well when I came along up and I walked into the kitchen just as they had locked a girl up in a closet and were about to go through the house. They invited me to take a hand in the game, but I took two in my own. They made it interesting for me for three or four minutes, but the average wild swings instead of straight punches. I had 'em both down when the farmer came up from the field and the girl was released and the fellow went off to jail."

"Well, current jam, big red apples and mince pies were none too good for me for a while."

I think the teacher was right. The daughter was a school marm about twenty years of age and I had won her romantic heart over three days and nights. I thought I was in for it, but she didn't take me right. On the fourth day of my stay he took me out and gathered apples or hunked corn, but when it came to plowing among boulders as big as barrels romance fled, and I followed close at her heels."

"That night I left the house by way of a window and daylight found me seven miles away. I would have helped gather apples or hunked corn, but when it came to plowing among boulders as big as barrels romance fled, and I followed close at her heels."

SCRAPBOOKS THAT WILL WEAR

For Children, Brown Holland is the Best and Most Lasting Material That Can Be Employed.

Scrapbooks for children are best made of brown holland. The holland should be of the right width, and when folded lengthwise with the selvages each will make two leaves. For a book take six yards of double width brown holland and cut into half-yard lengths. Buttonhole over the edges with flourishing thread, or if liked, with a contrasting color. Fold all the corners and sew with a ribbon through to hold the stitches. Stretch the front page in a frame before fastening together, and then insert the initials of the child or else work the word "Scrap."

These books are practically untearable, and if made in a dark color, will not show the dirt very quickly. Paste in anything likely to interest the child, or else teach her to make the pictures out of other pictures is a most fascinating game for the little ones.

Big brown books made of paper are practical and useful for the housewife. How often we hear people complain that there are so many delightful recipes published in the papers, but that it is a bother to cut them out, that they always disappear when wanted. A medium-sized book, however, pasted and bound in a neat way, will only take a few minutes to do, but the recipe is captured for all time.

SOME FACTS ABOUT SEAWEED

Greatest Variety of Use Found for It in Various Parts of the World.

Some interesting facts about seaweeds which are used as food or for producing vegetable gelatins or glues are brought out by Messrs. Perrot and Gatin in the French Oceanographic Institute. Seaweeds are not much used in Europe except for algalines or iodine preparation. In the north coast regions of France the seaweed is used by the peasants as a manure upon the fields. Medical uses can be mentioned, and the variety called Iceland moss is collected in Brittany to a considerable extent, this reaching twenty tons of dry seaweed in 1904. One variety of seaweed is a very good vermifuge, and is extensively used for this purpose in Corsica. On account of the iodine which they contain some seaweeds are remedies against goitre and scrofula. As to food uses, this seems to be limited to the Brittany region, and only the poorer population consumes it. Although limited in Europe, the use of seaweeds as food is widespread in the extreme Orient. In Japan edible seaweed is prepared in a number of ways, and it is much cultivated. Iodine is not manufactured in that country at present. One use is for preparing agar-agar, gelose and vegetable glue. Seeing that the gelatins from this source are scarcely nutritious, the authors explain the extensive use by the manner of living, and as the populations consume great quantities of fish and rice it is thought that the gelatinous substances aid in digestion and in the intestinal functions. It is valuable for all-mentation and export.—Scientific American.

SHE HAD A GOOD REASON

Maiden Lady Explains Why She Intends to Visit a Chiropodist.

She was a dear, old-fashioned, modest, simple maiden lady. So that, when she announced the fact that she thought of paying a chiropodist a visit, her great friend was duly astonished.

"I didn't know you suffered from corns," remarked the latter, when the news was first broken to her.

"I don't," remarked the old lady, mildly, albeit, firmly; "neither am I afflicted with bunions, chilblains, nor any other pains in the feet."

Her friend gazed at her with growing consternation.

"Then, my dear," she remonstrated gently, "what on earth do you want to visit a chiropodist for?"

The little lady's cheeks blushed a delicate pink as she leant forward, laid one mitted hand on her interrogator's arm, and whispered:

"It's this way, my dear. I do so want to be able to boast that at least once in my life I had a man at my feet!"

To Clean a Piano Case.

Use a bottle of olive oil, a bottle of alcohol, some new or perfectly clean Canton flannel, a perfectly clean chamol leather and a basin of water.

1. Wet a small piece of the flannel and drop on it a few drops of oil.

2. Rub with the wet flannel, a small section of the case at a time, and immediately rub it thoroughly with a dry piece of the flannel, before proceeding to a fresh section.

3. Polish finally with the chamol or a fresh piece of the flannel. Rub with the grain of the wood, and breathe on it occasionally to help remove any oiliness that may remain. A very little flour rubbed with the grain of the wood will also help to remove oiliness, but its use should not be necessary.

4. Wash the piano keys with a corner of the flannel wet with alcohol. Be careful, however, to avoid touching the wood with the alcohol, as it will ruin the finish.

Nature Fake?

Cats are not usually fond of wet feet, but there is a big yellow one in the town of Winthrop who is more fond of frog's legs than he is afraid of the water. At that time in the season when the frogs begin to announce that spring is here, Buster may be seen wading his way to the frog pond back of the house in search of his favorite dainties. A convenient board acting as a raft, he has been seen some distance from the shore waiting for the unsuspecting froggie. In case no raft is at hand he will dive in bodily rather than lose his dinner. He often brings his victim to the house, coming in dripping wet from his plunge. He has never been taught to do this, but took it up of his own free will. Perhaps Buster is the incarnation of some dead and gone aristocrat. Who knows?—Lewiston Journal.

Waiting for an Answer.

We asked some months ago whether paper collars are still worn. No one vouchsafed to answer. It is our impression that the celluloid drove out the paper. We well remember the paper collar and the paper dicky. "Ooo! Burgess used to sing of Hildebrand Montrose!"

He parts his hair with extreme care and chalks his paper collars.

But the paper collar once worn was an accomplished fact, something to be forgotten; while the celluloid, like the enameled steel collar of the Civil war period, can be cleaned. The steel collar was at regular intervals reinforced by use of a tooth brush.—Boston Herald.

ORIGIN OF CLUB SANDWICH

Like Many Excellent Things It Was Born of Accident and Necessity.

It will not surprise any who know how frequently most excellent things are born of necessity, to know that the club sandwich, favorite bit that it is, originated through accident and necessity. A man, we are told, arrived at his home one night after the family and maids had retired, and being hungry, sought the pantry and the ice chest in search of something to eat. There were remnants of many things in the source of supplies, but no one thing that seemed to be present in sufficient abundance to satisfy his appetite. The man wanted anyway, some toast. So he toasted a couple of slices of bread. Then he looked for butter, and incidentally something to accompany the toast as a relish.

Besides the butter he found mayonnaise, two or three slices of cold broiled bacon, and some bits of cold chicken. These he put together on a slice of the toast, and found in a tomato a complement for all the ingredients at hand. Then he capped his composition with the second slice of toast, ate and was happy. And his success was too good to keep. So he told his family, the cook and all his friends, and since then the club sandwich has had as honored place with those who have once tried it.

The name "club" was given to it through the adoption by a club of which the originator was a member. To his friends, also members of the club, he spoke of the sandwich, and they had one made, then and there, at the club, as an experiment, and referred to it afterward as the "club sandwich." As such its name went out to other clubs, restaurants and individuals, and as such it has remained. At least, this is the story as it is generally told.

RESTORE OLD PARIS CONVENT

Historic Institution of the Bernardines May Be Reconstructed in Part.

There is some question of restoring part of the historic Parisian convent of the Bernardines, which is situated in the Rue de Poissy, on the left bank, a short distance beyond Notre Dame. The remains of the ancient convent were patched up a century ago and used as a barracks for firemen.

Archaeologists have been visiting the barracks. They discovered that the partitions which divided the interior are very flimsy, and that the famous old refectory hall of the monks, which was at one time the largest in France, is practically intact. All that is necessary is to demolish the partitions and to remove the deal floor which has been concealing the bases of the columns.

The convent of the Bernardines in Paris is said to have been founded in 1244, and, according to some writers, it owed its origin to Stephen Langton, Archbishop of Canterbury.

Unnecessary Worry.

"Study of human nature in the fashionable barber shops leads me to think that self-respect is declining," said a Newark philosopher. "At the Astor hotel the other day I had my hair trimmed by a barber who seemed to be an exceptionally fine specimen of manhood. He discussed the tariff as intelligently as a man of affairs might have done. He talked brilliantly about plays and analyzed the political situation in words that would reflect credit upon a college professor. Evidently he was a man of honor, and I hesitated to offend his self-respect by offering him a tip. But the tippish custom is chronic now, so I held a dime, and my splendid specimen of self-respecting manhood accepted it without batting an eye."—Newark News.

Northumberland Surnames.

For quaint surnames one should search the records of Northumberland. Mr. A. G. Bradley has made a collection of some of these Northumberland patronymics. He is writing of the times of the border raids, and there was a Robert Unthank in those days. Among others, too, we find the name of Adam Aydrunken, who "upset his boat in the Tyne, and accidentally drowned his wife, Beatrice." Cecilia, the wife of John Unkuthman (unpouthman), "cut her throat with a razor." The incident requires no explanation. "Another unfortunate person figures as Adam-with-the-nose."—London Chronicle.

Positive Proof.

Two advanced maidens were exchanging confidences one afternoon as they stipped their tea.

Their conversation turned to the ever-interesting subject—men.

"He didn't tell me he loved me," said the younger of the two, with a happy, reminiscent smile, as she playfully toyed with her spoon, "but he kissed me."

"Well," replied the other, "he must love you if he kissed you."

Long-Felt Wants.

"Young Wheels has made his fortune. He's invented stiffs 300 feet high that a man can walk on."

"Heavens! What are they for? To keep a man from being run over by automobiles?"

"No, for folks living in those skyscraper apartment houses. Saves taking an elevator and going clear out of their way when they only want to step across the street."

PUBLIC INTEREST IN SPORTS

It is the Spectacular in Athletics Which Makes Games Popular With the People.

If interest in athletics were confined to athletes, the value of athletics would be lessened about 99 per cent. The only way to rouse public interest in athletic sports is by their spectacular character.

The value of football lies in the ten thousand prairie organizations which train a hundred thousand boys in nerve and team work each year. But these prairie teams would not exist if the great college teams did not give thrilling spectacles each fall. These great matches keep up that keen public interest without which football would be forgotten.

The same is true of baseball. Every lad swarming balls in a vacant lot models his play on that of some big league hero and dreams of himself in that hero's place on the diamond.

A sport which is only a spectacle would not be worth much. But a sport which has no exhibition value never gets beyond a small circle. If America ever finds a winter game to take the place which baseball holds in summer and football in autumn, it will be a game which rivals these great sports in thrilling spectacular appeal.

GETS WOMEN'S LAW CASES

Modesty Keeps Some From Going to Men, Says New Zealand Practitioner.

A woman who practices as a lawyer in New Zealand has been induced, in connection with the bar's disapproval of the admission of women to the Inns of Courts, to narrate her experiences of forensic life.

"My clients," she says, "are principally women, but my services are sought by some men. Matrimonial and separation cases have, in the main, claimed my attention." Mrs. De Costa is convinced that without her services many a case would never have been dealt with.

"The woman, in many instances, prefers to suffer in silence rather than unfold her story to a man solicitor, however sympathetic he may be," she says.

Does this not support the contention that, if women were allowed to practice at the bar in England they would be engaged principally in the delicate cases in which their appearance would place their men opponents, as well as judges and juries, under a feeling of restraint which would interfere with the proper administration of the law?

Where Fashion is Individual

The fashion in Kiangsu province, China, is whatever one wants. Every man wears what is right in his own eyes. A panama goes jauntily down the street followed by a fur covered brim cap. Felt hats of scarlet and verdigris green follow along with grays and browns that really do the amateur hatters credit. Eskimo top capes, a few derby hats and the smart military uniforms give the streets a piquancy that was missed formerly in the monotonous China blue crowds. Of all the notices posted on the city gate the one that attracts the most attention is the fashion plate that has been exhibited for weeks. It displays two or three of the typical "western" suits. There are the "swallow tailed" and the low "spoon" frock for evening functions. There one finds the plaid skirts recommended for the women. The silk or "stovepipe" hat has its corner with the other felts.

"Tramp's" Advice on Care of Feet.

A "tramp" writes: "Bathe your feet as often as you can. Before retiring give them a good soak in hot water, with salt in it. For untoughened feet, use a boot not too tight, with a thick sole, a low heel, and wear two pairs of stockings. Each day, before starting—and during the day if needful—apply vaseline or tallow very freely to any parts that chafe. Little pads of cotton carrying vaseline, tucked between troublesome toes or plastered on the surface of the foot anywhere that there is trouble, simply work wonders. Starting with soft muscles and tender feet, the writer has walked hundreds of rough miles without a particle of distress in the feet—simply because they were given good care."

Surgery and Crime.

Surgical treatment to turn a confirmed criminal into a useful citizen received a bad setback in a case where a great apparent change after such an operation led to the pardon of the remade man. His release was followed by a series of burglaries which necessitated his return to durance ville. Perhaps one of the reforms to come will be the better protection of society from theory and experiment connected with the criminal classes. So far, the experiments made to prove that morality is merely a matter of physiology have not been brilliantly successful.—Baltimore American.

His Elaborate Dinner.

It was in the grillroom of a local cafe, and two visitors took seats at a table in the corner. "I am as hungry as a bear, and I am going to order an elaborate dinner," one of them was heard to remark. Everybody listened to hear just what his dinner consisted of, having visions of terrapin, pate de foie gras, and, maybe, fresh strawberries. After carefully scanning the menu and looking at the price list, he said something to the waiter in a low voice, who answered, "Eiam and eggs, sah? Certainly, sah."—Indianapolis News.

At a meeting of the new county

BROOKLET AFTER NEW COUNTY

Movement Launched For New County That Takes Five Militia Districts From Bulloch.

At a meeting of the citizens of Brooklet held Wednesday night a campaign was launched for a new county with Brooklet as the county seat. There is said to have been a good attendance at the meeting, and committees were appointed to start the ball to rolling.
Dr. John I. Lane was chairman of the meeting, and the plans were made to put on a genuine new county fight.

The territory to be taken from Bulloch will be that below the Burkhalter road, running about 4 miles below Statesboro. It is alleged that the people in the territory affected are anxious for the new county, which will take from Bulloch five out of her twelve militia districts.

Our information is that the Brooklet proposition is one that the people will have to reckon
with, the disposition on the part of Statesboro people has been to laugh it to scorn, but we are convinced to believe that it will be a problem to be faced when the legislature meets. The Editor of this paper has talked with at least thirty or forty representatives and senators and absolutely without exception, where an expression
has been made they are all committed to new counties, where the public interest will be observed.

If Brooklet were to get back of her the people in the territory to be embraced, she would present
quite a formidable new county proposition, the town of Brooklet is one of the best of its size in the state, includes among its population some of the most enterprising citizens of Bulloch, who are game and who mean business when they go after anything.

If Brooklet and Metter both were to be favored, the old county would practically be confined to the court house district and would of course be one of the best little counties in the state, but her lines would be drawn rather close on both sides
on the other hand if Stillmore and Brooklet were to receive favor it would leave Bulloch in better shape.

If the county is created with Brooklet as the Capitol city, it will furnish the map of Georgia
one of her best new counties, and the county seat will grow and flourish like a green bay tree. It will add to the number of substantial towns and progressive new counties in Georgia. Just what they expect to name the new born baby
has not been ascertained as yet.

Negro Woman

Found in Well.
The body of Effie Collin, a negro woman was found in a gin
house well on the premises of Mr.
C. B. Aaron on last Saturday afternoon. The body was in a decomposed condition and showed that it had been in the well several days. A coronor's jury was empaneled and the verdict rendered that the deceased was murdered by Lawrence Bennet, who had been her paramour, it was known that the dead woman and Bennet had quarreled several times preceding the tragedy. A warrant was sworn out for Bennet but so far he has not been apprehended.

City court adjourned Saturday
after a very busy session of four days, during this time a number of old cases have been cleared from the docket.

PARENTS ACCUSED OF BABY'S MURDER

W. C. Lanier Of Waycross
Already Locked Up.

Waycross, April 6.—Details of a revolting murder that has already caused the arrest of W. C. Lanier, a well known young man of Waycross, and will cause the arrest of his wife as soon as her condition will permit her removal, became known here today. A coroners inquest held early tonight returned a verdict charging Mr. and Mrs.
Lanier with murder. The victim is a baby boy, and the body which was disinterred today by Sheriff
D. W. Pittman, shows signs of violence. The marks on the throat indicate strangulation and from the battered condition of the baby's head it appears that the head was hit against something to make sure of death.

Testimony at the inquest tonight indicates that the body had been buried twice and that it was dis-interred the first time at the instance of Lanier's father, who said
it should be brought back and given a decent burial, when it was interred the first time is not known.

Lanier was first arrested early last night by Chief of Police John Colley and held on a charge of violating the city ordinance with respect to removing bodies without a permit. Health officer D. M.
Bradley investigated the matter
last night and today the county authorities took action that landed Lanier in jail. A warrant has been taken out for Mrs. Lanier, but her connection with the death
of the infant is unknown tonight.
Dr. J. H. Lattimer attended Mrs.
Lanier, the baby being born at the woman's room at No. 52 Tebeau street, Saturday afternoon about two o'clock. He returned at five o'clock and was informed that the baby had died and its body had been removed.

BABY APPEARED HEALTHY

The healthy condition of the baby at its birth and absolute lack of any infant illness aroused Dr.
Lattimer's suspicions and he told Mrs. Lanier the affair would have to be reported to the health officer.
No information as to the whereabouts of the body was obtained
but it was ascertained today that Lanier hired a buggy from a livery stable and went away at four o'clock
taking with him what witnesses called a package.

Lanier gave another name in ordering the team, but the liveryman recognized him as Lanier and told him he could not fool him. R. D.
Oberly helped bury the body today
at Ben Jones church cemetery in Pierce County. He made a coffin which was delivered to his father's home, just north of Waycross.
From appearances the body was buried yesterday in a sand dune
in a sand bank near the Seale river, which disinterred its mouth
and ears were full of sand. Mrs.
Lanier had a conversation with Dr.
Lattimer yesterday afternoon, the details of which are unknown here.
No reply to the question of where Harry M. Wilson tonight was or not she was implicated in the death of the infant he replied, she was, in his opinion.

On the strength of this the jury declared both the father and mother guilty of the infant's death.

tive. Neither she nor her husband affair since warrants were issued.

RIVAL OF THE GREAT BARD

Stratford-on-Avon's Claims to Distinction Not Alone Due to Shakespeare.

Famous men whose names lend distinction to the places of their birth must look to their laurels. At any moment these may be snatched from them by contemporary heroes. A letter found among the papers of Mary Russell Mitford tells of a case in point.

The writer had just made a visit to Stratford-on-Avon. While visiting at an inn there he fell into conversation with a farm-hand about Shakespeare.

"E wasn't born in Henley street," said the native.

"Where then?" said the visitor.

"By the river."

"Who told you that?"

"Why, John Cooper."

After a pause, the man remarked, in a tone of grave conviction, "Ah, sur, there's another wonderful fellow!"

"Who?"

"Why, John Cooper, I tell 'ee."

The visitor inquired, what great deeds John Cooper had done.

"Done?" said the farmer, sitting back and slapping his knee. "Done?" he repeated, in a voice of thunder.

"Why, sur, I'll tell 'ee."

He leaned forward impressively, and looked straight into the stranger's eyes.

"I'll tell 'ee; 'e's lived 'ere in this town for ninety year as man and boy, and 'e's never had the toothache, and never lost wan!"—Youth's Companion.

LIVES UP TO REPUTATION

Mary Knew How to Work, Wasn't Afraid to Work, but Was Independent.

Mary's written references were excellent and the employment agent filled up praises. She knew how to work, and she wasn't afraid to work. But she was independent, she wouldn't take that. Every bit of work that fell to her legitimately was performed thoroughly, but not one hand's turn would she do to help a fellow-servant along; the mistress must take that into consideration. The mistress did. She said that that was no objection.

On the first day in her new home Mary lived up to her reputation. Also, she lived up to it later in the evening. She was requested to wind a big hall clock. It was a fourteen-day clock, and it took twenty-eight turns of the key to wind it. Mary turned the key fourteen times.

"That's not enough," said her mistress. "Why don't you finish?"

"Because there may be another girl on this job next week," said Mary, "and I'm not going to do her work for her."

Physicians Often Blamable.

"It is a most unfortunate thing," says the North American Journal of Homeopathy, "that the moral degeneration to which every drug habitue almost inevitably comes is a sin that almost always lies at the door of some medical adviser. Few patients live so far from the doctor as to warrant him leaving a supply of morphine tablets for them to take if an attack comes on. The practice of medicine seems to be summed up in the prescription of opiates in the case of some physicians. It is better to wear out the medicine case and let the hypodermic rust out than vice versa. Of course, we know that the hypodermic should not rust and that the medicine case cannot; but our readers are bright enough to read between the lines."

Shrewd Patient.

A doctor who had been attending an old farmer for a fortnight or so pronounced the patient so much improved that it would be unnecessary for him to call again professionally.

Next day the medico was not a little astonished to find the ex-patient in the surgery with a half-consumed bottle of medicine in his hand.

"I thought, doctor, as you said that I was all right again, that I needn't finish the bottle, so I've brought it back, as it'll happen come in handy for some other badly (sick) body that's got some complaint as I had. And you'll likely knock something off my bill, seeing that I've only supped half of it." Thus showing a shrewd, saving turn on the covetousness's part.

Youthful Definitions.

In order to give his scholars a firm grip of original composition, a schoolmaster believes in the value of what he calls "an exercise in framing definitions." After illustrating what was wanted, he set the little boys to write one-sentence definitions of "boy" and "girl." Here are a few of the ideas evoked: "A boy is made of a lot of bones with flesh put round them." "A girl is nearly the same, but we do not cut her hair." "A boy is born a baby." "A girl is only ribs out of a man's body." "A girl is a woman's body." "A boy is a ordinary creature made out of dust, and so is a girl."

Against His Grain.

The man whose corn had just been trod upon hopped about on one foot, nursing the other in his palms.

"What's the matter?" queried an innocent bystander. "Some one walk on your foot?"

"No, you clatterfoot," replied the suffering one, frowning a gaze by which utterance scorn upon his questioner. "A 500-pound hog, with an insatiable appetite for corn, trod on my foot in passing."

And he restored his aching foot to the pavement and went limping on his way.

MADE LIFE A TRAGEDY

WOMAN'S SUFFERING WHEN SHE HAS TO ADOPT GLASSES.

Everything Seems Changed for Her When, and Her Consolations Are Few—Sly Scrutiny a Thing of the Past.

I wear glasses! It's positively tragic, I look so wise and owl-like. It was bad enough to have an intellectual nose, but with intellectual eyes as well I am hopeless. Nose but insignificant men like wise-looking women. Be capable, but look incapable if you want to be a success. These little windows to my soul reveal what I for so long have attempted to conceal. How shall I ever adjust myself to this reorientation is a problem.

With a coy upward glance at my next to best young man, who is tall, I meet the top of my glasses instead of two fond eyes and feel foolish; with a coquettish side glance I strike a wide reflection and feel awkward. I will have to get a short man so I can look straight ahead; but I don't like short men.

A sly scrutiny of my neighbor's gown is no longer possible. I must turn and boldly stare or remain absolutely ignorant whether the embroidery is hand or machine made. Never, never more will I see with my shoulders. My head will bob up and down, to the right and to the left, but goodbye to the sly-sneaky glance with which one takes in a roomful and yet remains poised and unconscious.

The week under belladonna, when all was dim and blurred, brought with it a realization of what actual blindness must be and a resolution to read to those unfortunate creatures so afflicted when my own sight was restored.

How my letters piled up during that week! Mother kindly offered to read them to me, but I didn't think it nice to have other people's letters read. Just fancy Mother reading aloud, "Sweetheart, what magic spell have you cast about me? I live in a dream and I tread on air," or "Madam, kindly send us your check for $35 for the gown purchased two months ago," and you had only owned up to fifty! No, it certainly is not the proper thing to have letters read to you.

The one consolation for that belladonna week was that I had all the mending and darning done without a murmur. The family thought it strange that I could find all those rents and holes in my garments with such poor sight, but I said my sense of touch was becoming accentuated.

For a few days I thought I was getting good looking. My complexion took on a soft, velvety appearance and I was beginning to beam like a beauty and have an aggravatingly self-satisfied air; but when I put on my glasses, which magnify about five times, I rushed to mother and asked her if she was sure I hadn't the smallpox, everything looked so big and people seemed so coarse with large hands and feet. I wouldn't take some lovely shoes I had ordered because they made my foot look so large; but while I was looking down at them my glasses fell off and the foot returned to its normal size, so I consented to accept them. Now in purchasing pearls, diamonds and such I always remove my glasses.—Exchange.

Rescue From Electric Shock.

In dealing with persons suffering from electrical shock, if the victim remains in contact with the circuit his body must not be touched by the rescuer, but the latter may pull him out of contact by hauling on the clothing, or he may take off his own coat, insert his hand in the sleeve and then handle the victim with little or no risk.

Almost any article of clothing or material may be used, provided it is dry and of moderate thickness. Dr. Morton points out that death from electrical shock is only an apparent death at first, and that there is practically always a time during which it is possible to resuscitate the victim by artificial respiration.—The Lancet.

Indians to Build Model Village.

When the Indians of the Queen Charlotte Islands have already a national reputation for enterprise, the Skidegate, whose village lies at the south end of Graham Island, have in view the most ambitious undertaking they will install an electrical system furnishing power to their industrial enterprises.

They will put in a modern sewer system, water works and also fire-fighting apparatus.

The Skidegates are chiefly famous for their baidas, which has the reputation of being the best in the band in either Canada or the United States.—Vancouver Sun.

Power of Small.

If, when you went to school as a child, you carried a tin lunch box which often contained, let us say, some gingerbread and sandwiches and a small apple, it is worth while to take a sniff at such a box again, now it is surprising how this simple experiment may recall the pater of long-forgotten feet and the memory of childish voices that startle over the long lapse of years.

These flashes of memory, aided by smell are wonderful. Through smell we achieve a sense of the past; the secret members of the mind are aroused to life and memory. What a pity that we waste this talent!

PUBLIC INTEREST IN SPORTS

It is the Spectacular in Athletics Which Makes Games Popular With the People.

If interest in athletics were confined to athletes, the value of athletics would be lessened about 99 per cent. The only way to rouse public interest in athletic sports is by their spectacular character.

The value of football lies in the ten thousand prairie organizations which train a hundred thousand boys in nerve and team work each year. But these prairie teams would not exist if the great college teams did not give thrilling spectacles each fall. These great matches keep up that keen public interest without which football would be forgotten.

The same is true of baseball. Every lad swatting balls in a vacant lot models his play on that of some big league hero and dreams of himself in that hero's place on the diamond.

A sport which is only a spectacle would not be worth much. But a sport which has no exhibition value never gets beyond a small circle. If America ever finds a winter game to take the place which baseball holds in summer and football in autumn, it will be a game which rivals these great sports in thrilling spectacular appeal.

GETS WOMEN'S LAW CASES

Modesty Keeps Some From Going to Men, Says New Zealand Practitioner.

A woman who practices as a lawyer in New Zealand has been induced, in connection with the bar's disapproval of the admission of women to the Inns of Courts, to narrate her experiences of forensic life.

"My clients," she says, "are principally women, but my services are sought by some men. Matrimonial and separation cases have, in the main, claimed my attention." Mrs. De Costa is convinced that without her services many a case would never have been dealt with.

"The woman, in many instances, prefers to suffer in silence rather than unfold her story to a man solicitor, however sympathetic he may be," she says.

Does this not support the contention that, if women were allowed to practice at the bar in England they would be engaged principally in the delicate cases in which their appearance would place their men opponents, as well as judges and juries, under a feeling of restraint which would interfere with the proper administration of the law?

Where Fashion is Individual.

The fashion in Kiangsu province, China, is whatever one wants. Every man wears what is right in his own eyes. A panama goes jauntily down the street followed by a fur covered brim cap. Belt hats of scarlet and verdigris green follow, along with grays and browns that really do the amateur haters credit. Makimo top caps, a few derby hats and the smart military uniforms give the streets a piquancy that was missed formerly in the monotonous China blue crowds. Of all the notices posted on the city gate the one that attracts the most attention is the fashion plate that has been exhibited for weeks. It displays two or three of the typical "western" suits. There are the "swallow tailed" and the low front frock for evening functions. There one finds the plaited skirts recommended for the women. The silk or "stovepipe" hat has its corner with the other fella.

"Tramp's" Advice on Care of Feet.

A "tramp" writes: "Bathe your feet as often as you can. Before retiring give them a good soak in hot water, with salt in it. For untoughened feet, use a boot not too tight, with a thick sole, a low heel, and wear two pairs of stockings. Each day, before starting—and during the day if needful—apply vasoline or tallow very freely to any parts that chafe. Little pads of cotton carrying vasoline, tucked between troublesome toes or plastered on the surface of the foot anywhere that there is trouble, simply work wonders. Starting with soft muscles and tender feet, the writer has walked hundreds of rough miles without a particle of distress in the feet—simply because they were given good care."

Surgery and Crime.

Surgical treatment to turn a criminal (criminal into a useful citizen) received a bad setback in a case where a great apparent change after such an operation led to the pardon of the remade man. His release was followed by a series of burglaries which necessitated his return to gaol.

His Elaborate Dinner.

It was in the grillroom of a local cafe, and two visitors took seats at a table in the corner. "I am as hungry as a bear, and am going to order an elaborate dinner," one of them was heard to remark. Everybody listened to hear just what his dinner consisted of, having visions of terrapin, pate de foie gras, and maybe, fresh strawberries. After carefully scanning the menu and looking in the price list he said something to the waiter in a low voice, who answered, "Ham and eggs, huh? Certainly, huh."—Indianapolis News.

CHANGE IN CONTEST PREMIUM

Owing to the fact that a great many of our contestants who are working for the prize piano to be awarded in the Great popularity voting contest, expressed preference for regular piano we have changed the premium and will be on display at Barrett's Ice Cream parlor on Saturday a magnificent Doll & Sons Piano, one of the best manufactured by this great piano factory. The retail price of which is four hundred dollars.

Having some doubt as to the value of the player piano that was to have been shipped here by the Contest concern that contracted to carry on this contest, we have turned them down and have taken hold of the contest ourselves, the delay in the arrival of the instrument was a violation of the contract, together with other reasons caused us to wire the contract off and now we have a magnificent instrument, which will be on display not later than Saturday of this week, and will be awarded to the young lady receiving the largest number of votes there will be no change in the rules governing the contest except we expect place this instrument in the hands of three disinterested parties, who will take charge of the votes and superintend all the details of its management, and award the instrument to the lady who has the most votes to her credit when the contest comes to a close, the time will be extended to June the 15th, in order that all may have an even start, and the votes already in will be accredited to the contest just as those that will come in hereafter.

We expect to use every precaution to show the people that no favoritism shall be shown any contestant over her rivals, it is our desire that the lady who gets the most votes shall have the piano and in order that there will be no doubt about that we will announce the committee who will have charge of its disposal in our next issue, in selecting this committee we will endeavor to find people who have no interest in either of the contestants and whose names insure the people that the fair and square thing will be done by every one.

There has already been a keen interest manifested in the contest and the subscriptions are beginning to come in right along a large number of contestants in different sections of the county are preparing to get busy and we expect to see a keen rivalry for the magnificent prize that is fit to adorn the parlor of the fairest of Bulloch's daughter.

As stated above the action of the contest company were not in keeping with that which looked best to us, and in order that the contest should go forward and carried on in a perfectly fair and impartial manner we have taken charge of it ourselves, placing before the contestant the instrument that they are to work for, place it where they can see it before hand and know exactly what they may expect. We are also surrounding the contest with every safe guard in our power to insure the contestants the clean thing will be done in the disposition of the prize.

Any one desiring information as to the rules governing the contest will get instruction by applying to this office.

Sleep and Altitude.

Some Swiss doctors maintain that the amount of sleep should be regulated by altitude. Too much sleep, they say, is as harmful as too much food or drink. In low lying places seven hours of sleep may be considered sufficient, but in the mountains five hours is enough.

Ten Dollar Umbrella to be Given Away.

As an additional bonus in our great popularity contest we will award to the lady who has the largest number of votes to her credit up to and including Thursday April 24th one magnificent gold handle umbrella, same now being on display in the show window of Mr. D. R. Dekle, there are three styles in the window and the winner can take her choice of the three. This is done that the contestant may get busy and begin work at once. Remember this prize has nothing to do, whatever, with the grand prize that is being offered as the result of the final contest. Call at Mr. Dekle's jewelry store and see the handsome umbrella that will be yours if you are the winner. The winner's name will be announced in next Friday's paper.

High School Contest to Meet Here.

The meeting of the Accredited High School Contest for the First Congressional district including again the counties of Toombs and Tift and Emanuel in this district will meet in Statesboro on Saturday April 26th Arrangements are being made to entertain the visitors in a manner befitting the occasion. It is expected that there will be a large crowd of people from all over the district.

They are Advertising For Bids.

The announcement comes from Washington that the Government is now advertising for bids for the construction of the new fifty thousand dollar post office building in Statesboro. This is news to the people of Statesboro. The bill appropriating the money has already passed and is now a law. If they are now going ahead advertising for bids it begins to look like the building is soon to be a reality.

We have a nice line of Rugs and Window Shades at very low prices, adv The Racket Store

Half the pleasure in giving Libbey Cut Glass is in the fact that the one that receives it always knows that a finer Cut Glass does not exist.

This is the Libbey store D. R. Dekle "JEWELER" Statesboro, Georgia

Messrs D. A. Braanen and Keibler Harville were in town during the week coming over from East Bulloch to shake hands with their old friends in the old county. The gentlemen referred to were long good and loyal citizens of the old county, and we regretted very much to lose them, but they will take their place among the membership of the new county, known as East Bulloch and make valuable citizens. They will likely pay us a visit from time to time however.

lor and look at the beautiful piano
that will be awarded to the winner in the News popularity contest. If you would like to have this magnificent instrument adorn your home get busy and start out early in the contest.

The handsome piano that is to be awarded to most popular young lady in Bulloch can be seen at Barretts Ice Cream Parlor Saturday.
It is a beauty, and will be appreciated by the winner.

Its easy to win a fine piano, a strictly high class instrument by doing a little work asking the people to subscribe for The Statesboro
News Call at Barrett's Ice Cream
Parlor and decide whether you want it or not.

The Dog Catcher is abroad in Statesboro now, a recent ordinance requiring all dogs be muzzled from April to October. It is believed that the ordinance is invalid inasmuch as it didn't specify whether it applied to two or four legged dogs.

SMOKING IN PUBLIC PLACES

Laws will have to be passed to prevent men from smoking cigarettes and in public places like dining rooms. It has about reached the point that a gentleman or lady can hardly find a place to eat in the cities, except in places where you will find men smoking.

Even the new hotel in Savannah allows this bad practice. All hotels should be required to have places where gentlemen and ladies could eat a meal without having to be bothered by the deadly fumes of cigarettes. We have reached the point in which there is no such thing as civility and good manners on the part of the men and most of them are here, and just so they can satisfy their base habits they don't care a cent about other people. Twenty years ago
a man would not have thought about smoking before ladies in a dining room, but the aping South-erner has seen the Yankees do it, and he has to follow suit. Shame on the Southern man.

Look to Truth for Progress.
Progress by precedent is like a sailor steering his boat today by his course yesterday, or like a lost hunter guiding himself by his own footsteps; the result being in both cases,
waste, the result being in both cases,
the only progress is in a circle.
The past has its use, which is mostly for warning. To get on humanity must not look to the past, not to the present, not to the future, but to truth,
which is "the same yesterday, today and forever."

Slippery.
"The 'Banana Baby' is the latest."
"What's the banana baby?" "An eastern physician has treated a marvelous child on a diet of bananas." "Marvelous in what way?" "In mentality.
Why, the little fellow can answer an almost incredible number of difficult questions." "Wonderful, indeed! One would naturally suppose that a banana baby would be apt to slip up once in a while."

Dirty, Low-Down Trick.
Stealing of servants is a social crime that warrants the most severe condemnation. It is really discouraging to spend three or four years teaching a new girl to wait on the table only to have the guest of a previous evening notice her away. A servant in the household is a trust, and the stealing of her is a crime, not to be condoned. — Charleston
News and Courier.

Explains Why the Family is Large.
A Wichita woman was commenting on the fact that a certain man, who at one time had worked for her and her husband on a farm, was one of a family of twenty-three, and that this man had a family of thirteen. A listener remarked that large families evidently were a family trait. "Well, you know,"
the Wichita woman replied, "they are Belgians." — Kansas City Star.

What Will The Result Be?

What at first seemed a huge joke to many of our citizens has now developed into a stern reality. That the people of Brooklet and vicinity are in dead earnest over their fight for a new county is no longer doubted by any who have run up against the situation.

We understand that there will be a meeting of citizens called in a few days when a permanent organization will be perfected.

The matter has been thoroughly discussed by the people in all parts of the county and especially so in Statesboro, the fact that the line is to be run within four miles of Statesboro has caused the people here to sit up and take notice, and there are almost as many different opinions about the outcome as there are people here, some say the whole proposition is preposterous, that the Georgia Legislature would never consent to have this great and glorious old county slashed in any such manner, that it is a recognized fact that Statesboro has stood by this people of the entire county and if the line was run so close here it would result in a complete tearing away of all trade and, se-ling relations, etc., etc. There are others who say, that there is no telling what the Georgia Legislature will do on questions of this kind, that in their way of thinking the state lawmakers may largely lose sight of the commercial and social importance of the present county seat town, that it is a recognized fact that there is a widespread sentiment throughout the state to put the knife deep into our very vitals as it were, that out of nine hundred and thirty square miles of territory looks like the state is a member of the legislature hailing from one of the little vest pocket counties in north Georgia. There are those here who say that the people had the question of county division before them last year, that they turned down a man, who had spent twenty of the best years of his life fighting to keep the old county in tact and public sentiment throughout the county joined hands with Metter whose hopes had been blasted time and again, and rolled the majority up so high that there was no mistaking of public sentiment on new counties. And now the people who are in charge of the local affairs can take care of it, and in other words it is their baby and they ought to be made to suckle it, straight from the breast and no cold bottle treatment should be tolerated, and that in the end the devil will catch the hindmost. Still there are those who say that the county is too big, that Statesboro is losing her prestige in the old county, her inability to give to the people that road service demanded has retired some of her best and most trusted men from the directorship of county affairs, that in the last election
no member of the county board was elected who lived in twelve miles of Statesboro, that public sentiment is rampant in county affairs notwithstanding the fact that the court house district pays one third of the taxes of the county she has no say in the management of local county government except that which has been delegated and loaned to it by the people in the territory in the entire district.

There are many men and many minds, but looking back of it all is the keen blade knife that is going deep into this territory, that the county is going to be subjected to a cut in one or more places the most optimistic will not dispute, the only question is how deep is it going?
Will it sink down deep into us in the territory above, taking in Pulaski and practically all that section between Pulaski and Register, out into and including the Laston district, after having absorbed the Metter and Club House districts bodily, or will it stop at the Fifteen Mile creek saving to Bulloch hundreds of true and loyal citizens who are anxious to remain in the old county, echo answers which territory below the Dublin road be annexed to a new county at Claxton and carry away from us that splendid number and balance of the county, taking only those below the Dublin road and leaving us
the balance of the county to the south and east of us, or will the cut run deeper and continue the line of the Burkhalter road, running within a distance of four miles of Statesboro and carrying away all that section east and south of us, which will it be? Echo answers which.

The capital city of Bulloch is powerless as a baby to protect herself or her neighbors in anything that may come up, time and time again repeated efforts have failed here to organize a chamber of commerce or board of trade and keep it going, in other words the old town is asleep and the watchman on the walls calls out that the invading army is approaching, she is disorganized with no generals to rally the army to a stand for either offense or defense, her resources have been scattered and wasted and distributed among those who have no interest in her welfare, she has secretly lay down on her own and joined in the celebration of their defeat until today she finds herself scattered to the four winds of creation, and helpless as an infant in the hands of those who will use her as they deem best.

Back to the real question, Brooklet has on her fighting clothes they claim that inasmuch as it is a recognized fact that the old county is to be subjected to a process of dismemberment, that it will be better to keep the folks all together, not give them away to other counties but divide up into two counties, calling one West Bulloch and one East Bulloch, they say in doing this there will be no change of relationship that the same soil will remain as before, and the same relations maintained among the people, they say that while Brooklet may be at the top end of East Bulloch that there should be no kick coming inasmuch as in the lower section of the county will be drawn nine miles closer to their county seat than now. They say that Brooklet is the recognized trade center of that section which will be embraced in the new county, and that it will hurt no one and will still be a great convenience to a greater section of the county, that they are further willing to get a bill through creating the county and then submit the question of a location of the county seat to the voters afterwards.

The people at Metter are making the hardest fight of their lives, they regard this as a sort of life and death struggle and every nerve and every source of ammunition is being strained to the very last ditch. At one time they had the people East of the Fifteen Mile creek largely with them, but time has worn their enthusiasm somewhat, and they are retreating to the old fold, and expressing their selves as being anxious to remain in the old county, they say they are not "benefits coming to them, but on the contrary many burdens rolling down on them, but Metter is making a game fight, she is expending money with a lavish hand, one that makes the average citizen during these hard times, and just what effect their fight is going to have on the re-arranging of the map of Georgia is a matter we shall see.

Statesboro is making a game fight for a new county, toping us at the Fifteen Mile creek carrying away twenty six square miles, embracing the enterprising city of Metter and filling a long felt want, giving the people at Metter a new county with their county seat ten miles nearer than in the case now, but as far as can be learned Stillmore like many other sections of this old Commonwealth just at this time is not afflicted with a great bulging new county treasury, she has no fifteen thousand dollar slush fund with which to march on to Atlanta depending largely on the merits of her case, giving her people that which they have been clamoring for, a new county with all the facilities for reaching their county seat without inconvenience of any kind, taking no body with them except those who have been spoiling for a new county so far back that the memory of man comprehends it not. But just what the results of her efforts will be no one can tell. Claxton and Pembroke both are cleaning up their teeth and getting ready to take a bite or two off of us, and again we hear rumors and rumblings from the direction of Aaron, and last but not least we understand that Portal is threatening to annex the Lockhart district and make a militia district in their town, her demands being more modest than that of her sister towns it is suppose that success will at least crown her efforts.

Problems That Settle Themselves.
Subordinates are often impatient of delays "higher up." They make a suggestion or a request which no doubt to them has the appearance of urgency, and if the response is not immediate they shake their heads over official inactivity and waste their time complaining of the procrastination of others. It may be that nothing is done at all and in the end they are surprised to find that nothing was necessary. An extraordinary number of problems settle themselves.—Exchange.

Glory of Life.
I look on these sentiments which make the glory of the human being love, humility, faith, as being also the intimacy of divinity in the atom; and that as soon as the man is right, assurances and provisions emanate from the interior of his body and his mind; as, when flowers reach their ripeness, incense exhalates from them,
and as a beautiful atmosphere is generated from the planet by the averaged emanations from all its rocks and soils.—Emerson.

Opportunities.
"There is a tide in the affairs of men," admits a wise writer, "but there is no gulf stream setting forever in one direction." The man who grows careless and self-content because of success will soon find that no current of prosperity will take the place of thought and effort, and no one need think "luck" is so persistently against him that he is destined to failure
whatever he does. There are opportunities and there are misfortunes, but there is no gulf stream of luck, good or bad.

Her One Great Desire.
Actress (who had returned from an extended tour, to cook): "You have really kept house very well, Mary.
What do you wish as a reward?" Cook (who is a member of an amateur dramatic society):—"Oh, nothing
at all—only show me how to cast up the eyes as you recently did it in the role of Gretchen. If you could teach me that!"—Filespende Blatter.

Refers to Somebody Else's Child.
At a teachers' meeting in the public library one of the addresses was on the subject, "How to Train a Scatterbrained Imp or Mischievous 'Serious Student'." The address, of course, is not intended to apply to your own sweet, angel-faced cherub.—Kansas

WHY Walk Overs?

Not because the quantity sold is the largest of any named shoe—though it is.

Not because they are called for by name
in all civilized countries—though they are.

Not because the manufacturers are "Leaders of the World" in shoe making—though they are;

But—because of the wonderful character of the styles and splendid fitting qualities of the models and the conscientious workmanship that have made "Walk Over" Shoes what they are.

"The Walk Over People"

STATESBORO, - - GEORGIA.

The name of Arden conjures before us a vision of peace, happiness and sunshine. An ever shining sun whose brilliant rays fell on every one who came in contact with his little angelic life.
He was never seen by anyone that he did not leave a pleasing impression, or the remembrance of some unusually bright remark.

He was born in Statesboro December 28th, 1905, and lived there five years, then his parents moved to the farm and remained there two years. They then came back to Statesboro where Arden was
with them only two months.

From the first he was thought to be wonderful in mind, although delicate in body. When he was about two months old he suffered for some time with bronchitis, of which he never fully recovered.
It was in these anxious days that his little life began to wrap itself
so closely about the roots of his mother's heart.

From his infancy he grew passionately fond of music. He took great notice of it before he could sit alone. It was no uncommon thing for him to lie for hours and listen to sister play the piano. And after he was able to sit alone, he thought that the place for him
was to sit on the corner of the old grand piano while some one played.
He never heard a key struck that he did not go at once to the piano.

As soon as he was large enough to think on the subject of taking lessons, he wanted to begin. He very often slipped in while his sister was giving a lesson to some child. He soon learned the names of pieces and he never let down while his sister played, that he did not say, "sister please play Passe Me Not". This she never refused him.

He was of a very lovable disposition, therefore he craved love.
The very thought of not being loved by everyone caused his little heart to ache. He often went off and cried if he should happen to be slighted in any way. Often times while busily at play, with his little sister and brother, Nona
and Reppard, he would think of his mother and how he loved her,
and at once stopped to go to her and say, "Mama, stoop down, I want to love you", and say while patting her on the cheek, "my sweet mama". Then she in return said, "my sweet boy", which made his little heart glad.

Since he was not strong enough to run and play as did the other children, he spent most of his time with his mother. He became her greatest joy and comfort, he was continually talking to her, sometimes telling her things that she hadn't thought of, which often astonished her. His memory was something wonderful.

At the age of five we all thought that his health was improving and that he was going to develop into a strong healthy child, but at six
he began to decline, although it was a gradual decline.

The last few weeks of his life he began to talk strange about his birthday. He wanted every member of the family with him on that day. He longed so much for his sisters to come home from school to be with him. He thought that if they should come home he would get well. Just the day before he died he said, "mama, I wish my sister was standing out there so she could smile at me."

Just twenty days before his birthday, the death angel came silently to and laid his little spirit to God. His mother wants the pure with him. It was on Nov. 25th, 1912
that he peacefully took his flight.
On the m. before his death he expressed a desire for a little white wooly dog or a pretty doll. So his father started out at once in search of a dog, and when he found one and had started home with it, the awful news was broken to him.

Now there is a vacancy in our home over east by a dark shadow.
A vacancy which cannot be filled.
That tender, loving, sympathetic little being was too pure and good to remain with us on this earth. And now may we submit our wills to God's, for he is the al-wise, the allpowerful Being who doeth all things well. He never made a mistake, and why should we not console ourselves with that thought?

We should be thankful that he is free from sin, and that he is resting in the arms of the Saviour.

The People at Metter promise a big time to all those who attend
their big Candler county barba-cane and picnic on Saturday May 10th. They are expecting between five and seven thousand people with them on that day. It is likely that several hundreds of people from in and around Statesboro will go and enjoy the day with their Metter neighbors.

Encourage Kindness in Children.
Kindness is one of the habits that is latent in every normal child. It must be encouraged, and you may be sure that the child that is kind to animals and birds will be considerate
in his treatment of persons. There is always something interesting in animals. Children love anything with life, and if taught to care for birds, fish or animals there will be a certain strength of responsibility that makes for good character.

Paris "One Hundred" Club.
The newly formed "One Hundred club" in Paris accepts only persons who, in addition to having traveled at least 100 miles by motor car, are well-known gourmets. One of the conditions of membership is that every candidate, in order to pay homage to the noble art of cooking, is obliged to reveal to his fellow members the name of the most humble tavern in which he has received an enjoyable repast.

MAN MUCH SOUGHT FOR

BULLY HAYES AN OUTLAW IN ALMOST EVERY CIVILIZED PORT.

Deeds of Daring and Sharpness Made Him a Notorious Character Throughout the Whole Pacific—Australia Most Angry.

Bully Hayes, the South Pacific pirate, as he was called, was a frequent visitor of San Francisco harbor and became the most notorious character in the whole Pacific, says a writer in the London Weekly. Over six feet three inches in height; he was possessed of immense physical strength and of this he was extremely proud. He was also a handsome man, with bright blue eyes, a strong nose, well cut mouth, large mustache and long clustering hair. The most marked feature in his character was temper, which, when once aroused, passed entirely out of his control. In these moments of ungovernable rage he became little short of a madman. His smiling face would assume the look of a demon, his eyes became almost black, and his face flushed to a deep purple. At such times he would do deeds of the greatest cruelty, not scrupling to take the life of those who offended him. Possessed of considerable culture, speaking German, French and Spanish fluently, his scandalous performances had made him an outlaw in almost every civilized port.

Sharp lookout was kept for him at Melbourne in consequence of an unscrupulous fraud he played there on the occasion of a previous visit. He had shipped 300 Chinese at Hongkong for Melbourne. At that time a poll tax of $50 each was paid by every Chinese landing at that port. Before going on board the Chinese had each paid Hayes $50, as well as the charges for the voyage, but the knavish captain had no thought or intention of paying over to the Australian government the large amount he had received as poll tax, amounting in all to something like $15,000.

When the port was within sight he contrived, with the assistance of his carpenter, to almost scuttle the vessel by making a large hole in the side. In an apparently waterlogged and sinking condition the vessel slowly entered the harbor. Hayes then had a flag of distress hoisted. Immediately the pilot and a number of tugboats put out to their assistance. When they came alongside the captain shouted, telling them of his sinking and hopeless condition. "For mercy's sake," said he, "don't stop to tow us to the shore, but save these hundreds of poor distracted creatures by getting them on shore at once in your boats. I care nothing about my own life, if you will only save these poor fellows. Then, when they are on shore, come immediately for us. In the meantime we will work away at the pumps and try to keep the ship afloat."

Accordingly, the 300 Chinese were transhipped into the tugboats and conveyed to the nearest landing place, which was several miles away. While this was being done all hands were put to work at the pumps. Then when the last of the Chinese had been taken off, the bow of the vessel was turned seaward and away went the ship with Captain Hayes and his crew. He had managed to land 300 Chinese and yet kept the $15,000 poll tax for himself. It was a cruel business for the pilot company, who were to pay the poll tax themselves, and were nearly ruined thereby.

Farmer's Bulletin for Housekeepers. A wise housewife takes advantage of every facility offered for the better and more scientific management of her home, and there are many available helps of which perhaps the average housekeeper is ignorant.

One of the most reliable sources of information is our department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., which maintains experiment stations, where digestion tests and other nutrition investigations are conducted, and the results reported in farmers' bulletins. These reports are offered free of charge on application, and discuss every food subject and many food processes, such as preserving, canning, bread making, etc.

A penny post card sent to a member of congress or to the secretary of agriculture will bring you a list of all the bulletins now available for distribution, or you can request a particular one directly.

"It didn't work."
"Doctor, what is the remedy for snoring?" asked Walters.
"You breathe through your mouth when you sleep," said the physician.
"Then if I wake up and find my mouth open, then—"
"Get up and close it," interrupted the man of medicine.
A few nights later Walters tried it on his mother-in-law, repeating softly, "Do not be afraid; I am not a burglar!"

DECIDE TO GO TO DALLAS

APRIL 28-MAY 1

Dallas will do honor to the cotton growers of the entire South, April 28 to May 1. This is to be a record-breaking convention that will emphasize to the world the fact that the movement for 15c cotton is the development of an economic principle that will be reckoned with. Aside from contact with prominent people concerned in the cotton growing industry of the Southland, the trip will be worth the time and money of any man. Decide to see Dallas, the bustling, thriving city of the Southwest, with its mammoth commercial and manufacturing concerns, its mammoth dollar hotels, magnificent "sky-scraper," miles of macadamized streets, and more than a hundred thousand people waiting to give you a welcome, April 28 to May 1.

Fifteen-cent cotton and freedom! The world recognizes that there is a principle that must be reckoned with in the future. It realizes that the movement inaugurated by the South—its patriotic cotton growers having for its object a stable price for cotton, means a dependable market system for the future. The South will show her world her patriotism in a mammoth rally, Dallas, April 28 to May 1.

Ask your railroad agent today about the low rates to Dallas, account the big Cotton Growers' rally to be held April 28 to May 1.

The Cotton Convention, at Dallas, April 28 to May 1, will not only launch the campaign for 15 cent cotton with renewed vigor for the coming season, but will place before the world a plan worked out to maintain a dependable basis for our product that will largely relieve it of the element of guesswork in marketing. This convention will be held at Fair Park coliseum four days, commencing April 28, and promises to have a record-breaking attendance. Low rates on railroads.

All Texas will do honor to the Cotton Growers of the South at the Cotton Growers' rally, Dallas, April 28 to May 1. This convention will doubtless establish a new standard in the cotton growing industry, and should be attended by every man who is concerned in the best interests of the South.

A world-demanded utility is entitled to a stable valuation. Fifteen cents for your cotton. Attend the Cotton Growers' convention, Dallas, April 28 to May 1, and help make it a reality.

Free Flower Seed For Readers of This Newspaper

We want to get in closer touch with you personally and with the people of this country. We want you to know what the great southern seed house, H. O. Hastings & Co., of Atlanta, is doing for the whole south in scientific plant-growing and agriculture.

French Market Coffee

Has Never Been Successfully Imitated It Cannot Be

COFFEE roasted the ordinary way is only partially roasted, according to French ideals. The French Market Coffee way is the scientific way, producing a perfect roast.

Slowly—carefully—the roasting goes on until exactly the right moment arrives. The slow roast reduces about 10 per cent more weight than the ordinary roast. All excess of oil vanishes. Yet the delicate flavor and aroma is there, intensified and enhanced.

Chilled, Ground and Hermetically Sealed

DIRECT from the roasters, the coffee is chilled in a cold-air-blast machine. This chilling closes the pores of the bean, thus preventing a single breath of the entrancing aroma to escape in the vapors.

Quickly—by automatic machinery—this freshly roasted, freshly ground, freshly chilled, delicious coffee is placed in tin cans, and hermetically sealed.

So it comes to your table as perfect as when it left the roasters—untouched by human hands.

Famous for Over a Hundred Years

EVEN when French Market Coffee could be had only in the old French Market at New Orleans, over a hundred years ago, it was celebrated all over the South.

Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay and other famous men of olden times visited the French Market to enjoy the rarely delicious beverage.

But now you all may serve it daily on your own table.

For the rare old French blend has been perpetuated by the French Market Mills, and the hermetically-sealed process places genuine French Market Coffee within the reach of all.

For Sale at Your Grocer's

In Reference To The Dead.

Our attention has been attracted by the beautiful funeral oration appearing in the columns of the last issue of the Metter Advertiser. The production referred to was dedicated to "a certain dead palit cian" and was both timely and pathetic.

If there is one subject that Editor Sills appears to advantage in delivering funeral orations, the fact that there is an after end to his deliberations long that line that carries with it something more substituted than the tears shed by the sorrowing relatives of the deceased lends a rosate view to the situation having at one time been engaged in the undertaking business ourselves we can appreciate the feelings of a man who has a business, that of preaching funerals and selling tombstones both of which are kindred and in sympathy with each other. There is no question but what the first stage of the proceedings lends hope of a more business like transaction to follow. This being true we are not surprised that Editor Sills grew eloquent in description of the approaching death of Stillmore and the said "dead politician" whom he claims as his foster mother with two deaths in one family with a stillborn infant thrown in for good measure is a sufficient cause to move the average "entle being in the tombstone business" to sit up and look around much less a few.

Speaking of the dead reminds us of other subjects deceased and decomposed it carries our mind back wandering in the distant past when a stillborn infant was carted out of Atlanta after five thousand dollars had been expended for nourishment etc. It reminds us of the short lived existence of men and measures, why the man who was charged with the smothering this infant is said to be dead and totally harmless. It shows us that life is only a fleeting show, that we are alive today and dead tomorrow.

Again referring to the dead and near unto death recalls visions of a noted march on the Emanuel county Grand Jury made last week when a pathetic appeal was made for nourishment for another sickly infant whose very life hung on a brittle thread floundering as between life and death itself.

Again referring to subjects gone before both dead and decomposed, reminds us that there is still reason to believe that even in this advanced age of civilization and enlightenment that spirits of the departed continue to walk up and down through the earth and visit and trail down the wicked until they can see a ghost every time they close their eyes. Now there being no question about the subject of the described funeral oration being dead, (for we have the word of the Minister that it is so), yet the fact he is able to arouse two progressive towns like Stillmore and Brooklet to action that in the latter a thousand dollars was raised in twenty minutes all by the efforts of this "dead politician" shows us though dead and having already passed into the beyond, so to speak, he still has power to come back and aggravate the wicked element who has survived his going. Teasing the dead in this case may terminate like the case of twisting the sleeping lion's tail who was not so fast asleep as at first thought. It may be that the deceased referred to in the foregoing may not be so dead as he first believed he may take up his bed and walk again. He may be able to superintend the going of other defunct schemes as he has done in the past, he may still live to the discomfort and undoing of those who prematurely ascribe words of a funeral oration to his memory. He may remain on this side of the great divide to witness the beginning of this Biblical promise that the Jews will some day return to their native heath, he may see in wanton waste of fifteen thousand dollars raised as a slush fund the indignation of an outraged people who will turn loose their wrath to the extent that at least one Hebrew will be kicked so hard and so high until he will not be able to light this side of Palestine. The said "dead politician" may live to see many things yet, he has already lived to see the unusual spectacle of a Jew holding up his hands in holy horror at the suggestion of a man taking money for his services. This is one of the Seven Wonders of the world and he may yet live to see the enactment of the other six in this case it may be that the Candler county proposition is a reality, nothing else would justify it.

Claxton Waxing Cold on New County Movement

The news comes to us through the columns of the Tattall Advertiser published at Claxton that the new county sentiment once so rampant there is now waxing cold. It being impossible to get a representative gathering present at two meetings called this week, and the treasury of the Board of Trade that is backing the new county movement is depleted.

The things about a new condition of affairs. It may be that the people of Claxton will attempt to revive their failing spirits. It seems that they might profit by setting a few dots from Metter who is engaged in a similar task. It might be a good idea to get up a barbecue, you know that times are tight and square meals are going at a premium, it may be that if Claxton would follow Metter's example and stuff 'em full. They would get enthused again or may be that if they had some follow over there who would take the job to claim the earth and the fullness thereof, for sixty dollars per month things might brighten up. At any rate we commend our friends at Claxton to our resourceful friends at Metter for a remedy for the disease that now so sorely afflicts them.

EMANUEL COUNTY PUTS SEAL OF CONDEMNATION ON NEW COUNTY SCHEME

What was considered the last hope of the Candler proposition fell flat last week when the Emanuel county Grand Jury turned a deaf ear to the earnest and pathetic appeals of the Metter contingent and refused to recognize it even in the most remote manner. A delegation appeared before the Grand Jury but there was nothing doing. Outside of a little idle jest at the expense of the Metter crowd it was not considered at all. With the failure to get a recommendation at Swainsboro it is doubtful as to what the future of the movement may be. That the failure at Swainsboro had a most disastrous and withering effect on the hopes of the Candler county advocates is not disputed.

We understand that no effort was made last week at Reidsville to get a recommendation from the Tattall county Grand Jury then in session. Inasmuch as it is known that the Candler county proposition has practically no support on the Tattall county side of the Cannochee river. Had they at tempted at Reidsville what they did at Swainsboro they would at least found three hundred indignant and outraged citizens from the Cobbtown district alone swarming on their trail like so many stinging hornets. No, they knew better than to tackle it at Reidsville, and they know better now than tackle the job again at Swainsboro. Just whether they will put their case before the Bulloch Grand Jury next week remains to be seen.

Where Money Goes

Our money not only goes for liquor and tobacco and such things but the people of Georgia have more than twenty millions of dollars invested in automobiles. If this money was divided among the banks, it would give to each county in the state, a bank with a capital stock of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. In the United States billions of dollars are invested in automobiles. John D. Rockefeller sports an automobile and so does John Doe, who holds a small clerkship job. It is fashionable you know to ride in one of the things. The poor old horse and buggy is too slow, and as for the old horse cart it is thousand years behind.

Young America demands fast riding, and the automobile is the latest, next to the airship. No doubt aeroplanes will soon be carrying the folks.

We understand that no effort was made last week at Reidsville to get a recommendation from the Tattall county Grand Jury then in session. Inasmuch as it is known

The Hard Working Man

We hear lots about working men. Did you ever know a man to work himself to death? Did you ever hire a man and have him to fall dead in your yard or store or shop from hard work? How many men and boys are working themselves even ordinarily? A man don't have to work but two or three days in the week in this country in order to live, and mighty few are doing more than that much work. The man who is working six days in the week, and saving a part of his money is getting rich. You cannot hold the real working man down. He will come out and get ahead in the world.

The man who gives attention to his work and business every day in the year is bound to succeed. All things come to him who works and waits.

The Baseball Season

The base ball season is now on and young America is having a big time.

If men must throw away their time and money baseball is about as innocent sport as they can engage in. As a general thing however it only affords the spendthrift one more way of getting rid of his money. What he don't spend for liquor, segars, cigarettes, cocaine, fine clothes, tan shoes, excursions, joy rides in automobiles, the pictures, the circus, the two headed snake, moonshine, ginger, beer, cider etc, he can spend for fun and cold lemonade while he is harrahing at the base ball game.

It is real nice to see thousands of young men all with cigarettes in their mouths, and thousands of young women with long neck short dresses and no sleeves all assembled in the grand stand to see Hooly Dick Jim Ty Ty, Kid Snooks, and the boys run around the base and get caught out. It is a great game.

Had 21 out of 23 Yet Could't Win

The statement made in the current issue of the Metter Advertiser to the effect that on a poll of the Emanuel county Grand Jury last week that there were 21 out of 23 of that august body friendly to the Candler County proposition. Inasmuch as a desperate effort to secure a recommendation along this line fell flat, it is quite a bit of interesting of news.

It is certainly refreshing to read such statements as those following such circumstances, in that it shows us that the limit of man's vocabulary has not yet been reached.

It is encouraging to read and reflect over such assertions as the e, coupled together with other facts varying so widely with them, inasmuch as it teaches us that the old rule of "If at first you do not succeed try try again" still lives and has its place in the hearts of men. It shows further the extent of the endurance of mankind and prescribes in a feeble manner, the extent to which he will travel in holding stiff upper lip carrying the flag as it were even in the hour of defeat and disappointment. It shows us that there is the real nerve and metal back of the Candler County movement which asserts itself under the most adverse and trying circumstances and rises up and refuses to accept the word plain NO for an answer we are told, however that these 21 out of 23 simply intended to say that inasmuch as Metter took the least territory from Emanuel, they would prefer her to the other regarding all cuts of her territory as an evil movement they preferred the less of three, and that was the extent which the comfort and solace ran out to meet eloquent and pathetic appeals for the recommendation clause in the General Presentment never come that made itself conspicuous by its absence.

Even with the burning desire to accept the least cut of territory or feeling "the state of Emanuel!"

with three horns of the dilemma comforting them, with the knowledge that in all possibility the approaching session of the legislature will almost certainly create a new county in the section around Metter, Aline and Stillmore, even the spirit of selfishness running through the souls of the 21 out of 23 members of the Emanuel county Grand Jury in their desire to save territory was not sufficient to over balance the better judgment, and then feeling that under this oath they were committed to act for the best interest of their fellowmen, they refused to commit any portion of their people to a proposition that means their ruin and practical bankruptcy, to the small property owners in the outlying districts of the proposed new county where gigantic tax levies and bond issues must follow to the end that a few large land owners near the county seat would be benefited at the expense of the many. They refused to kick out that splendid section of farming country over towards Summit and Graymont with the G & F Rail Road running through it giving the people a close and direct communication with Stillmore and tie them to Metter, a station on a railroad that gives them no connection whatever, except that via Stillmore, the proposed county seat of the proposed new county of Stone wall. They refused to kick the people of the Aline neighborhood overboard with a millstone tied around their necks committing them to a wide place in the road, located across the Cannochee river to them while they had a splendid double daily schedule on the Wadley Southern railroad to Stillmore and return.

Not even in their desperation and burning desire to save territory for the old county of Emanuel would these 21 out of 23 make themselves a party to a deed which meant in effect the outrage of a splendid portion of their own people and a proposition that was neither just nor fair.

Death of Mrs. Nesmith.

On yesterday morning Mrs. Rachel Nesmith, widow of the late Sovereign J. Nesmith, passed peacefully over the river after a long illness at her home at Guyton. The funeral and interment will be held at Upper Back Creek church Saturday afternoon.

The revival services at the Baptist church which has been in progress all the week will come to a close on Sunday the meeting has been interesting and well attended.

The people at Metter this year have set in this year in hard earnest to have Candler county created and it now looks like they will succeed. They have been after it for nine years.

Go to Mrs. J. E. Bowen's to get your Spring Millinery. Everything going at reduced prices produce taken in exchange for millinery.

The Banks of the city will close tomorrow on account of legal holiday.

Mr and Mrs S H Lichensten spent several days in Statesboro during the week.

It is reliably stated that between 150 and 200 cattle, hogs, sheep and goats will be slain for the Candler county barbecue at Metter Saturday May 10th. Also about 2,500 loaves of bread and a car load of ice will be ordered. This put with the baskets which will be carried by two or three hundred ladies will make some dinner; 10,000 people should be well fed on all this. You should go.

Mr and Mrs Dell Anderson attended the reunion of the Sharpe family at Seardron yesterday.

Millinery Bargains at reduced prices

Bring your chickens eggs or any other produce you have to spare and exchange for Millinery at Mrs. J. E. Bowen's.

The Central of Georgia on the morning of May 10th will carry about four or five extra coaches from Dublin to Metter on the train reaching there at 7:20. Also the same number of coaches will be used on the train from Dover reaching Metter at 10:30 a. m. to accommodate those going up. People from Bulloch, Emanuel, Tattnall, Toombs, Screven, Bryan and adjoining counties will be there in great numbers, and Metter will show them the time of their life.

New Counties

There is strong sentiment throughout the state, and especially in South Georgia in favor of the creation of new counties and the next legislature will have no less than thirteen petitions before them from different sections of the state asking to be set apart as new counties.

People are becoming more and more opposed to having to go 25 or 30 miles to reach their county seat. The time has been when people thought nothing of having to camp out one night on the way to court but it is different now and there is no reason for it.

There are yet at least a dozen counties in Georgia big enough for two if they were divided notably Burke, Jefferson, Washington, Laurens, Emanuel, and Coffee and the sooner this is done the better. Small counties with county seats easily accessible. Will do a great deal toward building up the remote rural sections of this country. Give the country more centers, Legal Social, Religious and Educational centers, easily accessible to the surrounding territory and you have solved the rural problem. Among all the localities now asking

Zone of Silence

Covered in silence such as that discovered in the Alps have been known to scientists for a long time. Some years ago a committee conducted a series of experiments in the English channel with the loudest and most overpowering sirens, whistles and horns they could procure. It was found that sometimes on the clearest and quietest day a sound was unaccountably inaudible at a short distance. This demonstrated conclusively the existence of soundless zones and incidentally suggested an explanation of certain oceanic disasters.

After Material.

Editor:—Why do you persist in coming here? I tell you I don't buy fiction. Author—"Oh, I don't wish to see any of my stories. I am writing a serial, entitled 'The Light Man on Earth,' and came in merely to obtain local color."

First Satanite Imp—"Who's the latest arrival? He's making quite a hit." Second Satanite Imp—"Traveling salesman, I guess. Old Nababiah 'Cease, ye calves' and let me hear John Cabela, a precursor to the king of Spain!"

For new county seats.

Stillmore seems to have the most reasonable claim. Being on the extreme lower edge of Emanuel and the line of two other large counties the territory proposed to take from each of them would leave the county seat of each of them nearer in the center of the county. Then Stillmore has railroads leading out in six different directions with double daily passenger service on each making it an ideal location for a county. If they fail it will not be because they are not ideally located.

Washington County News

Two or three of Georgia's well known orators will speak at the Candler county barbecue at Metter Saturday May 10th. You should hear them, and also enjoy the barbecue.

If you will attend the Candler county barbecue at Metter on Saturday May 10th the Metter people will convince you that the people throughout southeast Georgia want Candler county with Metter as the county seat created. They need this new county and will likely get it this year.

Choir Invisible Has a Recruit.

A Kansas man who has lately been abroad reports that this invisible choir actually appears on an old tombstone in a cemetery at Saragossa, Spain: "Here lies John Cabela, precursor of the king of Spain. When he is admitted to the choir of angels, whose society he will embellish, and where he will distinguish himself by his powers of song, God shall say to his angels: 'Cease, ye calves' and let me hear John Cabela, a precursor to the king of Spain!"

Liver Sufferers Rejoice

The Famous Pills of Dr. L. P. Herrington Have Been Placed on General Sale.

The citizens of Waynesboro, Georgia, and the adjacent districts have long been free from the liver and stomach diseases and disorders. Their well known physician and surgeon, Dr. L. P. Herrington, dispensed among his patients and fellow townsmen a pill which worked positive wonders in all cases of biliousness, headache, neuralgia, indigestion, dyspepsia, malarial, bilious and other fevers. These pills came to be known as Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People and have long enjoyed a large sale throughout the home town and surrounding territory.

So great has the demand for these pills grown in recent years that a company has been formed and their preparation will be undertaken on a large scale so that the men, women and children of all sections of the South may enjoy the health restoring benefits of these marvelous little pills. The pills will be prepared under the close direction of Dr. Herrington and will be exactly the same as those put up by him in his private laboratory. They are pure, harmless, scientific and prompt and sure in action. They bring immediate relief and a speedy cure.

Waynesboro, Ga., Jan. 1st, 1913.—I heartily recommend Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People. I believe every home should have them in their medicine chest. C. W. SKINNER, President Bank of Waynesboro, Merchant and Cotton Buyer.

Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People are 25¢ a box everywhere. Your dealer cannot supply you they will be sent direct, at once, upon receipt of the regular retail price, by the Herrington Company, Waynesboro, Ga.

Free Flower Seed For Readers of This Newspaper

We want to get in closer touch with you personally and with the people of this country. We want you to know what the great southern seed house, H. G. Hastings & Co. of Atlanta, is doing for the whole south in scientific plant growing and agriculture.

With this idea in view, we have decided to offer to each reader of this newspaper a magnificent collection of flower seed, sent absolutely free to our customers. Write at once for our big free illustrated catalogue, being sure to mention the name of this newspaper. We pay the postage. The catalogue will tell you all about the way to take advantage of this free flower seed offer.

You should have flowers about your home. Our wives and daughters take naturally to flowers. This offer is made especially for them because we know it will interest them. But the catalogue tells, too, about our big cash prize offer for the Corn Club. It tells about our big yielding varieties of corn and cotton—their seeds grow on our own 3,000 acre farm. It's a catalogue that ought to be in every southern home. Write today and we will send it to you.

Like the Coffee of Paris You Can Drink It at Midnight

Try French Market Coffee on your own table—just once. Note its delicious aroma and flavor—its smoothness, its exhilaration. Drink several cups at midnight—compare it with other coffees.

The Original French Blend

FRENCH Market Coffee is the identical old French blend, brought to New Orleans by immigrants from Paris over a hundred years ago. Tourists and travelers know it. They rarely fail to visit the old French Market, when in New Orleans, to drink cup after cup of the marvelous coffee that has made the French Market world-famous.

Until the establishment of the French Market Mills and the perfecting of the new, air-tight, hermetically-sealed package, genuine French Market Coffee could be had nowhere else. But now we are able to place this historic blend—this delicious French coffee, in your grocer's hands ready for your instant call.

Unlike Ordinary Coffees

WE import direct in original bags the famous Pan-American coffees, including the famous Blue Mountain Coffee of Jamaica, the choice of Guatemala, Caracas and Bogota. This comes in ships, through warm summer seas. No cold climates affect, injuriously, the delicate coffee.

Try it once and you'll agree "There is only one real old French Market flavor."

MURRAY HAS PLAN

Controller of the Currency Is After Dishonest Bankers.

He Would Have Duplicate Reports Made to Him Once—Some of the "Tricks of the Trade" and How They Are Worked.

Washington.—The federal government has not yet found a way to prevent dishonest men from stealing from national banks, though it has worked at this problem for several years. L. O. Murray, controller of the currency, has, with the hope of aiding bank officials to detect dishonest employees, called attention to some of the latter day methods of "beating the banks."

Henry M. Dearing, cashier of the Albany National bank at Albany, Mich., is serving a term in prison. A search of the cashier's desk, after the closing of the bank, disclosed leaves reeking with the odor of whisky. The cashier had been carrying on a secret account with a savings depositor's ledger carrying credit balances aggregating $185,317.41, which, of course, represented a large sum of money.

This method of "covering" had been in vogue since the bank began business. The cashier told the examiner that he found no difficulty at all in deceiving the directors. The bills receivable were added by him on the cash on the first Tuesday in May 1913. The cashier had been carrying on a secret account with a savings depositor's ledger carrying credit balances aggregating $185,317.41, which, of course, represented a large sum of money.

Earl Stannard, bookkeeper of a national bank at Pomona, Cal., is under arrest on a charge of embezzling $100,000 of the bank's money. One of his methods was that of extracting the earnings items from the morning mail, and making a list of the items, and then destroying all items in favor of an oil company in which he was interested.

The cashier never saw the contents of the clearing house, and posted the totals of the letters in the cash book. The general ledger and general cash book were kept by the cashier. Within five years Coleman looted the bank of more than $200,000, and is now serving a long term in prison. The directors noticed the reduction of the deposits in the bank and attributed it to competition. The defalcation was not discovered until the books were examined by the auditors of the Harvard Trust company, to which concern the directors had agreed to sell out.

All such unfortunate occurrences as these and many that have preceded them may be avoided in the future, in the opinion of Controller Murray, if the national banks will co-operate with his office in a plan which he has just suggested to them. This is nothing more than the simple device of sending to his office a carbon copy of the semi-annual report made by the examining committee of the board of directors of each bank—the report which says in black and white what the directors think of their own bank.

PRODUCTION OF GOLD SHOWS BIG INCREASE

The report of George E. Roberts, director of the mint, just issued, gives an extensive review of the production and distribution of gold during the past several years beginning with 1890 and ending with 1910.

The gold production is shown to mount steadily upward, save for the interruption caused by the Boer war from $113,000,000 in 1890 to $154,000,000 in 1910. The review then undertakes to trace these new supplies of gold into use, showing the estimated consumption of the industrial arts, the absorption of Asia, the amounts taken by new and developing countries, and finally the amounts that have entered into the bank reserves of the important commercial countries.

The twenty-one years are divided into two periods, the first ten years, 1890-1899, and the second of eleven years, 1900-1910. The production in the first period is estimated at $1,960,000,000.

During the second period of eleven years production amounted to $1,937,000,000.

The industrial consumption has

FEEDING HENS WHEAT ALONE

Grain Does Not Contain Egg-Making Materials in Proper Proportion—Corn is Even Worse.

Some years ago Prof. James Dryden delivered an address before the Utah Farmers' Institute, from which this extract is worthy of reproduction: "A short study of the composition of wheat and of eggs will explain why a profitable egg yield cannot be expected from wheat alone. Supposing you feed a hen which weighs 3.5 pounds 2.25 ounces of wheat a day. Of course, a hen of that weight would not long consume the weight of wheat alone. Supposing, further, then the hen uses 2.75 ounces of that for the maintenance of the body; that leaves half an ounce to be converted into eggs, assuming that all food is digested, which, of course, is not the case. In half an ounce of wheat there is about .08 of an ounce of protein. So that assuming that the hen consumes and digests 2.25 ounces of wheat per day; and that she uses 2.75 ounces of that for maintenance of her body, there is available each day just one-fourth enough egg protein for an egg.

"In other words, it will take four days to get the necessary amount of protein for one egg. But the egg of other constituents; so that wheat, the half ounce of wheat contains about one and one-half times as much carbohydrate and fat as one egg contains. The hen fed on wheat alone has a surplus of one material. In other words, she has enough carbohydrate and fat to make an egg and a half day, but she has only protein enough to make one egg in six days. You place the hen in an awkward position by feeding her wheat alone.

"Wheat does not contain the egg-making materials in proper proportion. Corn is even worse than wheat in this respect."

BOYS SWAT 21,450 FLIES.

Layton H. Burdette of the Industrial Home school, winner of the first prize in a "swat-the-fly" contest last summer, now leads the competitors in the Washington anti-fly campaign for this season. His score is 11,600 flies killed during May.

William Steiner of 1320 N. street northwest, with a total of 9,850 flies destroyed, is second in the race. Health officials are gratified at the high scores being made by the leaders in the race. Burdette and Steiner together have destroyed more than 20,000 flies. The enormous size of the fly population ultimately to be developed in Washington this season practically is incalculable, they say.

Dr. Murray, supervisor of the campaign, estimates that on a conservative basis, 5,000,000 descendants will spring from one female fly between now and the end of the season. On the assumption that half of the 20,000 insects destroyed by Burdette and Steiner are females, the number of flies prevented from coming into existence, as a result of their slaughter, Dr. Murray estimates, approximates one hundred million.

With the activity of Burdette and Steiner already causing Washington to be being swarmed by fewer flies than in the summer of 1912, the health officials are gratified at the results. The fly which strikes a deadly blow at the fly when he contends against unfavorable conditions for existence, the health officials of the city say, will make the national capital free of the pest by fall when it comes here, and the health officials are confident it will extend over into next season.

HOW BIG FORTUNES MELT.

The flight of heavy dollars by speed of the late estate of the late Thomas B. Walsh of Washington, D. C., and Denver, was glided to the ground by a "color" in mining men. "The doctors' bills," he said, "may be correctly correct as I do not mean to criticize them. B. Walsh was a very rich man, but even the biggest fortunes melt under systematic application of improper management. His estate was not properly managed. It was wrecked by the 'color' base of a few more baubles like the Rose diamond, for which young McLean and his wife, who was Mrs. Walsh, are said to have paid $180,000, and which was worn by Mrs. McLean for the first time at a brilliant reception given by her last winter. But before the young man could wear the stone as her own she and her husband were sued for it in the District of Columbia and great trouble and inconvenience were caused them."

"Movie" Men Balked.

There is one place on earth, anyhow, where moving picture men can't get, and that is in the White House grounds. A moving picture concern dressed up a rube farmer, and undertook to engineer him upon the White House grounds, so that a policeman might nab him off the steps, to show a crank trying to make his way into the White House. The policeman was on the right, and they nabbed the pseudo crank, but the moving picture machine "never got no picture." They begged and implored to have it all done over again with the real White House policeman, but that is not what the bluecoats want at the White House are paid for.

Plan for Revaccination.

American Medicine makes a strong plea in behalf of revaccination. It says that the "perfect protective power of revaccination does not seem to be as widely known as it should be, and there is urgent need of more publicity of the facts, now that there is a recrudescence of the anti-vaccination delusion." And, adds this standard American medical journal, "a primary vaccination causes only an evanescent immunity in many cases, and it is this fact which has been used so effectively by the anti-vaccinationists to convince the unreasoning that there is no immunity at all."

Would Have to Wait.

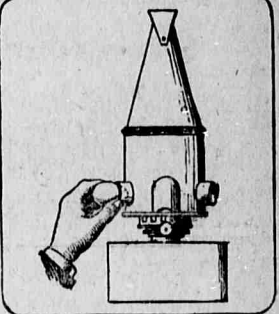

Mr. Marks was discussing the advisability of erecting a tomb for the several generations of the immediate family. Little Elizabeth listened impatiently. Finally she said with flashing eyes: "No, sir, I shall never go into a tomb with my grandmother. When the resurrection day comes, she'll keep hanging on to me and saying: 'Wait, Elizabeth; you must let the others go first, and I'll never be resurrected.'"

Uncle Sam's Big Family.

The total population now living under the American flag is 101,000,000, according to corrected figures announced by the census bureau the other day.

Regime Store Court.

While a street piano played outside, Judge De Lancey suspended juvenile court in Washington the other day to teach six prisoners how to play "run-sheep-run."

Light Deflected Downward.

tures, with collars projecting from some of them. Around other of the apertures are shields for deflecting the light toward the bottom of the device. If you are in doubt about the vintage of an egg, or a basket of eggs, insert them in the collars, turn on the light and look through them. The light will act like an x-ray and show whether the contents of the shell are fresh or stale. At the top of the cone is an opening for the heat to escape.

POULTRY NOTES

Set no eggs from hens that are not thrifty. Decapitation is the best remedy for ailing chicks. Strong parents breed strong and vigorous chicks.

Before you blame the incubator see if you have done your part. Keep sawdust out of the hen house. They carry in mites and lice.

A leaky pail set in a pan makes a good fountain for chickens. Scald the drinking vessels often so they will not harbor disease germs.

When chicken keeping doesn't pay it isn't always the fault of the chickens. Cressel compounds stirred up in water makes a good disinfectant for houses and coops. Eggs intended for storage will keep better if exposed are not allowed with the layers. Spoiled eggs are not fit for their food value but to supply fresh, succulent green food.

"BUY IT AT HOME"

EX-CONVICT BANKER IS HOME IN LIFE HEALTH

Despite the countless reports from Europe that Charles Wyman Morse was near death, he is now in perfect health and is in a striking contrast to his condition when pardoned by President Taft, the former ice king and convicted banker the other day returned from England looking better and stronger than he ever did.

Mrs. Morse was with him and both discovered that their presence aboard the ship was known. Their names on the passenger list were given as Mr. Morris, Mrs. Morris.

To watch Morse's eye and to hear him talk no one could have suspected that he had been so ill in Atlanta Prison that only his release would have saved his life. When he sailed from here four months ago he was taken on board secretly at night and would see no one. It was implied that he was going to die. He said at that time that he did not expect to live long.

While the steamer was proceeding up the North River, Mr. Morse announced that he would be pleased to see newspaper men. During the interview he held his hat, and at times when he hesitated in answering a question his grip tightened on the rim. He was asked whether it was true that he had cost him $250,000 to obtain his release from prison and whether he had paid $100,000 to an attorney in Atlanta toward this end.

"You had better consult the attorney on that matter," he replied. Soon after his arrival Mr. Morse was seen in Wall Street, where he visited several of his old business friends and acquaintances. He looked the picture of health and walked with a springy step, as in the days when he was one of the powers in the angle. A single root running the length of the building and set out two feet from the north wall, may be made to serve the purpose.

A root shield for cold weather can be made of a frame the length of the roots and two feet wide, to be set out two feet from the north wall, and place this frame six inches above the birds' heads and let the burp hang free. This frame should be drawn up out of the way each morning.

If nests are placed low enough not many hens will lay on the floor and it is often considered better still to place them right on the floor. A screen made of burp so it will almost hide the nests makes them more attractive to the hens and helps to prevent egg-eating.

"No," he answered cheerfully, "and I wouldn't tell you what they were if I had. There is nothing to say. When I arrived I met the newspaper men on the ship and let them ask all the questions they wanted. I have not anything to add to my answers to them and I won't have. There is not a chance for the newspaper men getting exclusive stories from me, because there is nothing I want to talk about."

Young Mrs. "Jack" Geraghty is making baby clothes in the honey-suckle cottage in Everett street and what is more significant Mrs. Amos Truck French, her French cousin, and Mrs. Elsie French Vanderhill, her aunt, are contributing to the baby layette as well.

When Julia French married Jack Geraghty, the Newport tchauffeur, four Aug. 6 of last year, her parents refused to see her again. Mrs. Elsie French Vanderhill, who has always regarded Miss Julia as her favorite niece, was not quite so unyielding. It was reported at that time, but nevertheless she was not reconciled to the marriage. The upshot of it was that the bride was told to take her choice of returning to her family without her chauffeur husband or of clinging to him and being ignored by her relatives.

The girl clung to her husband and devoted herself to housekeeping and the duties of any wife in ordinary circumstances. But now the stork may serve as a messenger of family peace and reconciliation.

FARM POULTRY

GOOD HOUSE FOR THE FOWLS

Should Have Southern Front and Yards May Be Laid Off for Individual Pens if Desired.

A good poultry house may be built after plans shown in the drawing. Such a house may be made any length desired and partitioned into six-foot breeding pens, 15 feet deep, which would give 7-13 square feet per bird for one male and 12 females. The house should have a cement or board floor and can be so built as to make it rain, wind and rain proof. I prefer a floor of cement, writes William Scott of Abilene, Kan., in the Farmers Mail and Breeder.

The house should front south and yards may be laid off for the use of individual pens if desired. This kind of house is also suitable for raising early hatched chicks.

The upper windows are hinged so they may be swung open at any desired angle or to be hooked up as the weather demands. The lower front is covered with one-inch mesh wire and a drop canvas or window may be used. The window should be hung so as to swing in at any desired angle. Roosts are placed along the north wall. A single root running the length of the building and set out two feet from the north wall, may be made to serve the purpose.

WOMAN AS A WHALER

ACCOMPANIED HER FATHER SINCE FOUR YEARS OLD.

Norwegian Girl Gives Up the Sea to Take Up Duties of a Wife—Grieves Because She Never Shot a Whale.

Miss Hjorle Ingebrigtsen, the daughter of a Norwegian whaling captain and the only woman in the whaling fleet, not long ago was married in Brooklyn to John Ramberg, an architect of Regina, Canada. The bride had just returned from a trip to Seattle, where she went with Capt. Otto Sverdrup of North Pole fame, and his daughter, Miss Andhild Sverdrup.

On the way back she visited Norway and met her childhood friend, John Ramberg. When the two became engaged to be married the whaling master's daughter decided that she did not want to go home and hem table cloths and embroider linens for a year or two, according to the custom of Norwegian maidens about to be married, so the two were married quietly at the home of the bridegroom's brother, Ole Ramberg, in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Ramberg has accompanied her father on his whaling voyages since she was four years old, and declares she cannot breathe in a city. She thinks American women paint and powder too much and care too much for dress. Her own fresh cheeks owe their color to the hot sun and salt when he whaled and her eyes have caught the sparkle of the waves.

Captain Ingebrigtsen was one of the first to try whaling in southern waters, which he brought North to Seattle in the last decade. His daughter was with him on his last trip to Angola, Portuguese South Africa, with headquarters at the whaling station, Port Alexander. She lived for ten months on board the little 90-foot vessel, and in all that time did not see a whale. Her father's grief is that she must abandon whaling without having shot a whale.

"Father did promise that I should shoot," she said, "and the men were always begging me to do it, because I had promised them double shares if I got a whale. But whenever there was one in sight we were all so excited, and there are such enormous values involved—a whale may be worth as much as $25,000—that I was afraid I should have been so dreadful if I shot a whale and missed."

"It is the most glorious thing you can imagine to go out at dawn and see the sun coming up and the whales jumping clean out of the water. The newly-mated whales are the easiest to get. The male usually lies on one side and looks at the female and waves his tail. He shoots the female first, and then it is easy to get the male, for he never leaves her. Usually two or three other males, besides the family, will come to see what the matter is, so in that way we get four or five at a time. I used to think it was terrible at first to see them suffer, but I had to learn to think of it as a part of the day's work."

Mrs. Ramberg has accompanied her father on his trips since she was four years old.—New York Herald.

One That Didn't Count.

Mayor Blankenbush, at a dinner in Philadelphia, praised the Quaker City ardently.

"I must even praise," he said with a smile, "our exclusiveness—we carry it so far, you know. Birth is not enough with us; residence is equally important. And they who live above Market street are doomed. Here, surely, is exclusiveness with a vengeance."

"Tell me a story about a dinner in Rittenhouse square. At this dinner, as the fish course began, one woman whispered to another:

"Dear me, there are thirteen at table!"

"But the other woman smiled and answered, calmly:

"Compose yourself, my dear Mrs. Cadibbidee Waddle. Mrs. North-Brook is not really one of us. She lives uptown, you know."

FILIPINOS PROGRESSING SAYS GOVERNOR FORBES

The effect of the Payne tariff law has been most striking, and in the last three years under the stimulus of free trade with the United States business and industry in the islands have taken a real start," he said. "The anticipated falling off in revenues did not follow, and the islands have continued to pay all expenses of administration from revenue without any assistance from United States funds. There is a better understanding than formerly between merchants and the government and between Americans and Filipinos."

"It must not be inferred, however, that the islands have reached a condition of great prosperity, but only that the upward movement has begun. Steady progress is being made in the administration of justice, extension and improvements of railroad facilities and public health. In the latter instance conditions have so improved that the islands can now be declared a healthy country and Manila a healthy city."

INDIAN LAW GRADUATE TO AID HIS TRIBESMEN

With the close of the year of the Dickinson School of Law at Carlisle, Pa., Albert E. Esch, a Delaware Indian from Oklahoma, will end his work at the institution and will practice law in the West.

Esch is a model of what the Indian is accomplishing in the West. He is a member of the Oklahoma, Kiowa, and Shaw tribes, and he has achieved a national football reputation, being considered one of the great ends in the country.

He was captain of the 1905 team and was an All-American selection. While attending the Dickinson School of Law he has been coach of the eleven at Oberlin University, in Ohio. In this manner working his way through the law school. He probably will practice in Oklahoma.

REASON FOR HORSE RADISH
At Least, This Is Theory of the Drummer, and Presumably He Is an Authority.

"Why do you eat it anyway?" asked the Drummer, who, having put too much on his raw oysters, was making a wry face.

"It is called horseradish, but horses won't eat it," said the Botanist. "It isn't a radish at all. It's a sort of scurvy grass that grows of its own accord, where the average farmer does not want it. So he digs it up, makes his women folks grate it and puts it up in bottles to sell to the unsuspecting public."

"I've been told players of wind instruments such as the cornet cannot eat it," said the Statistician, "because it has the effect of weakening the lip muscles. Boston is the greatest market for it. There are, I forget how many thousands pounds sold there each year."

"That's it!" exclaimed the Drummer exultantly. "I never knew the reason for it before. Did you fellows ever kiss a Boston girl? They all pleaded non vult, so he went on to explain. 'If you had you would know,' he asserted. 'Horseradish has the effect of weakening the lip muscles; Boston is the largest market. If you had ever kissed a Boston girl you'd know. That's the answer.'"

Sabbath and Sunday.
The observance of the Sabbath by the Jewish people is first mentioned after the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt, but no direct evidence of its having been kept in patriarchal times is to be found in the pentateuch, although the formula "Remember," with which the Fourth Commandment begins, might seem to imply that the observance of the day was familiar to the Israelites, but had fallen into neglect. In the later history of the Jews after the captivity the Sabbath was kept with great strictness. T. T. early Christians observed the first day of the week in commemoration of the "Resurrection of Jesus Christ," and this gradually took the place of the Jewish Sabbath.

POULTRY

FEEDING OF BROILERS

Interesting Experiment Made at Cornell Station.

Wet-Mash Powdered Milk Ration Gave the Best Result With Chicks In Weight, Rapid Growth and Their Development.

Seven flocks of 110 chicks each, were made the subject of a feeding experiment lasting six weeks, by the Cornell station. The purpose was to ascertain what feed produced the best gain at the least cost. The feeds were as follows:

Cracked Grain, Bran—Wheat three parts (by weight), corn two, hulled oats one (finely cracked), kept before chicks at all times; bran fed in dish with cracked grain for first few days, afterward in separate dish; beef-scrap unmixd with other feeds given from first feeding time.

Cracked Grain—Wheat three, corn two, hulled oats one (finely cracked), kept before chicks at all times; bran fed in dish with cracked grain for first few days, afterward in separate dish; cracked grain in litter; beef-scrap unmixd with other feeds given from first feeding time.

Dry Mash—Wheat three, corn two, hulled oats one (finely ground), bran two, kept before chicks at all times; beef-scrap unmixd with other feeds given from first feeding time.

Wet Mash, Powdered-Milk Solution.—Wheat three, corn two, hulled oats one (finely ground), bran two, the mixture moistened slightly with powdered-milk solution; solution being water for first week, afterward the proportion of the powder increased somewhat; moist mash fed in such quantity as was readily eaten, five times a day during the first week, decreasing the number of feeds as seemed best; beef-scrap unmixd with other feeds given from first feeding time.

Wet Mash, Skimmed Milk—Wheat three, corn two, hulled oats one (finely ground), bran two, this mash unmixd with other feeds, with skimmed milk fed in such quantity as was readily eaten, five times daily for the first week, decreasing feeds as seemed best; beef-scrap unmixd with other foods given from first feeding time.

The following facts were found: The young chicks that received the wet-mash feed better than the dry feed. The chicks seemed to require both cracked and ground food, and they craved a variety of all feeds. The chicks fed wet mash were the largest and plumpest, but those on the variety ration were the most active. These latter had no mortality up to six weeks. Next to these the lowest in mortality was the wet-mash milk.

Chicks reared on skimmed milk made a most rapid growth, for the first three weeks. The chicks reared on powdered-milk mash made the greatest growth in six weeks. Chicks having the variety ration fared best, during the fifth week, the greatest weekly gain of the experiment. Chicks having the wet mash and the variety ration made better growth than those having dry mash or cracked grain.

Chicks having dry mash made the least gain in weight per chick, at greatest cost per pound. The wet mash and the variety ration flocks ate less per pound weight.

Feeding Trough for Mash.
and at less cost per pound weight than the flock having the dry mash. Dry feeding cost less for labor per 100 chicks than the wet mash. The variety ration cost more for labor per 100 chicks for the first three weeks, but cost less than the wet mash for six weeks.

Considering the number of chicks reared, the vigor of the chicks and the continued palatability of the ration, the variety ration gave the best results for the first six weeks.

In total weight of flock average weight of chicks, rapid growth and development, cost per pound gain and cost per pound weight of wet-mash powdered-milk ration gave the best results.

Too Much for the Englishman.

A professor from Iowa went to England last summer and was introduced to a professor from one of the English universities. He welcomed the American and said: "I met one of your colleagues last summer. We had another professor from Ohio here to visit us. 'But I am from Iowa,' 'Iowa, indeed! How very interesting. I am sure the other gentleman called it Ohio.'—Lippincott's.

Woman in New Sphere.

Opening the only city in Portugal that can boast of having a feminine health inspector, a woman having been appointed by the government to a sub-inspectorship in the department of public health. Another striking appointment by the government comes with the selection of a well-known woman scholar in a professorship in ordinary at the University of Coimbra and Lisbon. The lady professor in question has been appointed to fill the chair in Germanic philology.

Valuable Find Came Too Late.

The irony of fate was exemplified at Manhattan, Cal., recently. After working for some time in the gold mines, a man named Huber was killed by a cave of rocks and debris, estimated to be worth $100,000. The same fall of earth that crushed out his life uncovered the very ore body he had been seeking for some time. The discovery is some of the richest ever discovered in the district.

Cut Wood With a Paper Saw.

Real novelty being so extreme a rarity one is not surprised to learn that the circular saw made of paper that can cut through wood does not represent an entirely new discovery. Paper has for years been used in the construction of articles in which strength and durability are essential, as railway carriage wheels, for instance.

Roses From Italy.

The rose, so long considered the floral emblem of England, was not known in that country until the early part of the fifteenth century. Rose trees were then brought from Italy and planted in the royal gardens. They were sent as presents from the holy father and highly esteemed by royalty. It became the custom to carve them over the doors of the professional as holy flowers, hence the term sub rosa (under the rose) used to mean "with secrecy"—Ave Maria.

Feminine Ambition Reduced.

The instinctive, masculine attitude toward feminine ambition is sometimes manifest in early years. Three-year-old Richard was observed in the nursery one day, playing with soldiers attention the movements of a hen who was trying to roost. Finally he inquired of his mother, "Why did she get up there?" "In any other case, it is a matter of life or death."

Modern Russia.

Russia has been described as "the land of idealism, of a high morality, the land of variety," and it is also "the land of melodrama." It is other things too. The land is a land of the land of dancing and laughter, the land of tyranny, and the land of liberty undreamed of by the shackled west. The shades alleged to be those of convention.

Guy de Maupassant as a Clerk.

Guy de Maupassant's manner of life as a junior clerk in the French education office is the subject of an interesting article by one of his old friends. We gather that he spent himself from his duties on the ground of illness on an average about three days a week, and that he had a variety of other leisurely compositions. None the less he was very anxious to retain his clerkship until his literary prospects were secure.—Westminster Gazette.

Zero in Vacuum.

A scientific wonder recently succeeded in exhausting a vessel to a pressure of two ten millions of a millimeter of mercury (four one thousandths of an atmosphere), which is the highest vacuum ever attained experimentally. At this pressure one cubic millimeter of gas would still contain about eight and a half-millionth molecules—a number equal to nearly twice the population of New York City.

Cancer and Cockroaches.

Two medical investigators, one in England and the other in Copenhagen, have come to the conclusion that cancer is due to cancerous germs, possibly through some alliterative process of reasoning. Hence—swat that cockroach. We are not without hope that if we will kill all the cancerous animals, we may yet prolong our lives.

Flowers on Wrong Grave.

After periodical pilgrimages extending over 15 years to the cemetery at Beeston, J. Daniels of Nottingham was informed by the local urban council, under whose control it is, that during all this time he has been visiting and placing flowers on the wrong grave. The sexton, they said, was due to a former beaudeant, the results of the graves mixed and entering them in his book.—London Chronicle.

Camel's Speed Considerable.

A camel with an average load will travel 25 miles a day, and a fast camel will travel 30 miles a day sometimes.

"BUY IT AT HOME"

What

a great improvement would be made in the condition of horses and animals if just the proper remedy were used when they become ill or injured. If your horse could talk he would tell you not to use an external remedy containing alcohol because it stings and burns his flesh terribly. Some liniments have alcohol and other fiery ingredients which only inflame the skin and tissue and does not strike down where the pain lies. Beware of such liniments. The great humane, quick-acting remedy is Mexican Mustang Liniment. Made of oils, without a drop of alcohol or other torturing element, it soaks straight to the bone and muscle. It soothes the wounded parts and is comforting while the healing work is progressing. Mexican Mustang Liniment is what you want because it

Calloway's Interview

In Sunday's daily papers, there appeared an interview from the Honorable N. Calloway, who has returned from a trip through the Sea Island cotton sections of Egypt.

Mr. Calloway had been tendered the position of commissioner of Indian affairs under the Wilson administration, but owing to the fact that his time is taken up with the administration of the affairs of a number of cotton mills of which he is president forced him to decline the honor.

Mr. Calloway gives out some interesting data on the Sea Island situation. He takes the position that there now is a shortage, and will always be in the supply of our Sea Island cotton. He says that Egypt cannot compete with the southern states of America in the production of the long staple cotton. Mr. Calloway's assertions that Egypt cannot compete with us reminds us of the advice a certain lawyer gave his client who was in jail, after hearing his story
of injured innocence, the attorney advised, "Why they can't put you in jail on that," but the client answered, "I am already in jail,
yes, the pauper labor of Egypt is already supplying the mills of this country with raw cotton in competition to American grown toe.

Of course, Mr. Calloway being in the cotton manufacturing business is anxious to buy raw cotton as cheap as he can and he cares little whether it comes from Egypt or America. It all spins alike to him and his interview given out at this time savors of an effort to influence legislation against the sea
island cotton planter of Georgia,
South Carolina and Florida. He is evidently trying to knock out a protective tariff on Egyptian cotton.

Palaski Wants New County.

Mr. Chas. L. Nevil was in from Palaski today, and brings the information that the citizens living in Palaski and vicinity are awakening to a movement on foot to locate a new county, with Palaski as its county seat. He states the plan is to ask for only a small slice of Bulloch, embracing that section between Lot's Creek on east and Fifteen Mile Creek on the west, to the Canoochee river
on the south.

Just what steps will be taken to launch the new county boom at Palaski Mr. Nevil says has not yet been determined. When a barbecue was suggested he thought that perhaps a fish fry would be better.

After the Pool Rooms

We are informed that the Grand Jury have been taking a peep into the workings of the pool room business in Statesboro. Just whether an indictment is coming against any of them cannot be said now,
but they have been on the griddle
during the week.

LATER

An indictment was found against Gex Condon for allowing minors
to play.

Why He Quit Working.

Woman (lecturing tramp)—"You should work, if only to set a good example to others." Tramp—"I did that once, mum, an' the poor fellow wet took the example worked so hard
he died of nervous prostration."

White Wood Work.

Inside painted woodwork can be made to look like new by rubbing it
well with a rag dipped in whiting.
After the whiting dries it should be thoroughly rubbed with a soft cloth.
The paint is not injured, as it usually is by the application of soap and water, and the process is easy.

People Oppose Candler County.

Coming into Statesboro this week from the section below the Fifteen Mile Creek in that splendid section of Bulloch that is sought to be annexed to the Candler county scheme, in which it has been asserted that 99 per cent.
of the people favor the new county,
we find a very large per centage
of the people unalterably opposed to the new county scheme. Citizens from Palaski and that section are emphatic in their opposition to Candler county. One of the largest property owners there,
who has been quoted as favoring Candler county, stated: "The more I think of it the more disgusted I get with it. I figure that for a citizen of my section to favor
it would be like moving out of home and building anew—that it brings no benefits and invites untoiled hardships and exorbitant taxes." Another, perhaps the heaviest tax payer to be taken in the section below the Creek, stopped on the street and stated: "We want the movement fought to the finish. They sent over to me this week for six goats and a beef and other things for the barbecue, but if they have no barbecue until they cook my goats they will go hungry. I had rather pay the expenses of somebody to go to Atlanta to fight them." Another stated that he would "pay a hundred dollars to finance the fight to defeat Metter and win for Still-more, for the reason that Stillmore didn't take him in, stopping at the Fifteen Mile Creek, and took those who wanted a new county." Still another stated that two-thirds of those who at one time expressed themselves as favoring it now oppose it. This of course applied to the territory below the Fifteen Mile Creek. One man living a few miles above Palaski expressed himself as favoring the new county. With that exception absolutely every one we have discus-ed it with from the section referred to opposed it.

Brooklet May Change Line.

It is said that the promoters of the new county with Brooklet as its county seat will probably change its western boundary line running to Burkhalter road from Sharp's bridge to Middleground church, then the public road via Emmitt and the sink hole bridge.
While it is not certain that this will be done, it has been under consideration. A number of Brooklet county boosters was in town attending court this week.

Large Crowd Expected At Barbecue

It has been given out that at least five hundred are expected
up from Statesboro to the barbecue to be fed and enthused. Now there is no doubt but what there are five hundred folks here who would go a long ways to be fed free, but if that class had the price of a railroad ticket to Metter and return they would go to a grocery store and buy a sack of flour or a half bushel of meal.
They would remain at home and back in the sunlight of their own household. It is really interesting to know how many people here
are so hard up for a little beef and bread that they will pay their way to Metter to be fed as well as misinstructed.

Scusky Boots.

Often when one has purchased a pair of boots, one doesn't know till they are home that they squeak. However, the disagreeable noise may be stopped by taking them back to the shoemaker and asking him to spring
them on each side and insert between the soles a teaspoonful of French chalk. This process costs only a trifle and answers admirably.

To Make Plants Grow.

Plants will grow more quickly if a few drops of ammonia is added once a week. The water should be lukewarm, not colder than the atmosphere, when you water your plants.

Inference Obvious.
Reggie (over on a visit)—"Do you know, old chap, I think that vulgar fellow over there insulted me?" Answer—Friend—"You think so? What did he say?" Reggie—"Why, he suggested in a very rude manner that when I die I bequeath my head to a collar-button factory."

Must Have Wealth.

"Is he rich?" "I didn't think so, but he must be." "Why?" "I heard him say the other night that he lets his wife have all the money she wants."

Decoy Duck.

After a girl has tried every other way to get a proposal and failed she takes to standing at the side door with her sleeves rolled up and an apron on.—Exchange.

Cleaning Windows.

If windows are cleaned with vinegar and water they will be brighter and stay clean longer than if cleaned with water alone. Polish in the usual way with soft linen cloth.

Voter's Qualifications.

In parts of New England during the seventeenth century voters had to reside in a "stone house of the dimensions of 20 feet by 15, with one or more brick chimney or chimneys."

Be Honest.

Being honest is the greater part of achievement. When you know that you're doing the best within you, you can't be downed. Self-respect is an eternal life preserver—no matter how often circumstance wrecks you, you're bound to float back to solid ground again. When men strive for posts of trust, they must be somewhat post-
like themselves and stand steady.— Herbert Kaufman.

Oil Drilling by Hand.

Oil exists in great quantities in Siam, but the methods of securing it are exceedingly crude. The wells are not more than sixty feet deep and are dug by hand. The oil seeps up from the bottom of the well by means of bamboo. The oil is sold to the natives who live within calling distance of the wells.

Quick Mustard Plaster.

A trained nurse says that if one forgets the exact proportion for making a mustard plaster one can be quickly made by cutting a thick slice of bread, dipping it for just a second in hot water, then spreading with white of egg, and sprinkling thickly with mustard. The egg will prevent blistering.

Lucky in Love.

The optimist had lost heavily. "Oh, well," he remarked, as he rose from the gaming table, "unlucky at cards, lucky in love." "Is that true in your case?" sneered the pessimist. "Sure," replied the optimist. "At any rate, I have never been married."—Philadelphia Record.

Novelist Plays Safe.

Dickens and Balzac, living before novelists walked in fear of libel actions, took the name of their characters from above the shop doors of London and Paris. Mr. Frankfort
Morse confesses to an equally easy, but safer method. He draws the names from tombstones. Dead men read no tales.

Need Care of Home.

A Philadelphia physician who enjoys a handsome practice and excellent hospital connections told me an interesting although terrible thing.
About 90 per cent. out of every 100 babies that are sent to hospitals for bringing up die. The death rate among such unfortunate is seven times as great as with infants who have the immediate care of mothers.
Truly there is something needed in child's life besides food, shelter and clothing.—Philadelphia Record.

Upper Burma Home of Ruby.

While certain qualities of rubies are widely distributed and found in Burma,
Siam, Ceylon, Afghanistan, India, Brazil,
Australia and the United States,
the countries of Burma, Siam and Ceylon are beyond question commercially
the more important. Just as this is true there rests but little if any doubt that Upper Burma, the Mogok section, furnishes the finest and largest supply.

Worth It.

"Prisoner at the bar," said the judge, "is there anything you wish to say before sentence is passed upon you?" "No, my lord, there is nothing
I care to say, but if you'll clear away
the tables and chairs for me to thrash
my lawyer, you can give me a year or two extra."—Tribune.

Compressed Sponges.

A compressed sponge is a bit of toiletted daintiness intended especially for travelers, though it appears as well to the stay-at-home who is an ultra-hygienist. The sponge is of compressed absorbent cotton about the size of a two-dime cent piece, and half an inch in thickness. Dropped into water it becomes saturated and expands to the size of a small face cloth, large enough to wipe the face
free from dust and grime.

Er-Yes, He Had.

"Pardon me, Mr. Peever," said the chance acquaintance as the two helped up the cake bar, "but have you ever had a serious accident?"
"Yes," replied Mr. Peever, "I met my wife by accident."

Oat Crop Ruined

The oat crop in this section is practically a failure. The heavy dew and the wet weather combined have about ruined the crop. The warm winter has also been disastrous to the oat crops. As a result sod acreage had been planted and it was hoped that the oat crop would come in to help the shortage
in the feed supply.

Farmers Hard Hit

The farmers in this section are having a hard time getting their crops up. The dry weather has rendered plowing impractical dering the past two weeks, and the young crops up before that time has been badly damaged by the cold winds. Poor stands of both corn and cotton are reported not only from all sections of this county but from adjoining counties as well.

OBITUARY.

In loving remembrance of Mrs.
J. B. Donaldson.

On the evening of April 25, 1913, the death angel came and bore away our dear friend, Mrs.
Donaldson. She had many friends,
it was so sad and heartbreaking
for her loved ones to stand by and realize that she was dying. We know it was hard to give her up,
but she is gone never to return.
She has fought the battle here
on earth and trod through life's rugged road, and we feel that she has won the prize that we all hope to win. We trust to meet her in that heavenly home. Lord help each and every one of us to bear
our troubles.

Her loving voice is stilled,
A place in her home is vacant
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled
The boon His love had given,
And though the body slumbers
here,
The soul is safe in heaven
Lonely the home and sad the hour
But a brighter home than ours
In heaven is now her own.

God bless you, we hope to meet
you on that bright and happy shore.

Maggie Smith.

Stonewall County

When you consider that Bulloch
Emmanuel and Tattnall are three of the largest counties in the State and that they all border on each other at a point far removed from their respective county seats it will be apparent to you that a new county should be created out of these remote corners with either Still-more, Aline or Metter as the county seat.

Each of these places is asking for a new county and three fourths of the territory included in either of them is common to the other two.
It might be said that all three embrace practically the same territory.

Stonewall county takes in practically all of the five Militia Districts, viz: Stillmore, Cobbtown, Oak Park, Metter and 59th. Of these five the greatest majority of the voters in the Stillmore, Cobbtown, Oak Park, and 59th
Dist. are strongly in favor of Stonewall county. Why? Because of the nearness to county seat and easy railroad and public highway facilities. Stonewall county also taken a part of the 1502nd and the 1560th dist. The people living in the 1502nd Dist. who are to be affected by our new county lines are strongly in favor of Stonewall county for the above stated reasons.

Those in the 1560th Dist. however remains neutral in the matter.
Every man in the Stillmore Dist.
with the exception of fifty or a hundred living in and around Aline, are unanimously in favor of Stonewall county. It will thus be seen that about three fourths of the people in all of the proposed new territory are backing the Stonewall county movement.

If Stonewall county is created Metter will be within nine miles of the county seat with double daily passenger service to and from Stillmore. Likewise, Aline will be within seven miles of Still-more with a good paved highway and convenient schedules.

If Stonewall county is created Stillmore and vicinity promises to finish a courthouse and jail without any cost to the people. We believe the Legislature will in this matter as in all others, be guided by the wish of the greatest number of people, and at the proper time
we will be in position to show you how the greatest number stands in reference to this matter.

Did you know that only the people living in and around Metter are working for Candler county? One of Bulloch's representatives in the Metter District, and he and all of the people living in his section are strenuously opposed to Metter's movement.

We invite investigations as to the truthfulness of the above facts.

Liver Sufferers Rejoice

The Famous Pills of Dr. L. P. Herrington Have Been Placed on General Sale.

The citizens of Waynesboro, Georgia, and the adjacent districts have long been free from the ills and suffering attending upon liver and stomach diseases and disorders. Their well known physician and surgeon, Dr. L. P. Herrington, happened among his patients and fellow townsmen a pill which worked positive wonders in all cases of biliousness, headache, indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, bilious and other fevers. These pills came to be known as Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills For Georgia People and have long enjoyed a large sale throughout the home town and surrounding territory.

So great has the demand for these pills grown in recent years that a company has been formed and their preparation will be undertaken on a large scale so that the men, women and children of all sections of the South may enjoy the health bestowing benefits of these marvelous little pellets. The pills will be prepared under the close direction of Dr. Herrington and will be exactly the same as those put up by him in his private laboratory. They are pure, harmless, scientific and prompt and safe in action. They bring immediate relief and a speedy cure.

Waynesboro, Ga., Jan. 1st, 1913—
I heartily recommend Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills For Georgia People. I believe every home should have them as their medicine chest. C. W. SUMNER, President Bank of Waynesboro, Merchant and Cotton Buyer.

Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills For Georgia People are 25c a box everywhere. If your dealer cannot supply you they will be sent direct at once, upon receipt of the regular retail price, by the Herrington Company, Waynesboro, Ga.

Free Flower Seed For Readers of This Newspaper

We want to get in closer touch with you personally and with the people of this county. We want you to know what the great southern seed house, H. G. Hastings & Co., of Atlanta, is doing for the whole south in scientific plant-growing and agriculture.

With this idea in view, we have decided to offer to each reader of this newspaper a magnificent collection of flower seed, sent absolutely free to our customers. Write at once for our big free illustrated catalogue, being sure to mention the name of this newspaper. We pay the postage. The catalogue will tell you all about the way to take advantage of the free flower seed offer.

You should have flowers about your home. Our wives and daughters take naturally to flowers. This offer is made especially for them because we know it will interest them. But the catalogue tells, too, about our big cash prize offer for the Corn Club variety of corn and cotton—the kinds we grow on our own 3,000 acre farm. It's a catalogue that ought to be in every southern home. Write today and let us send it to you.

Free Flower Seed For Readers of This Newspaper

We want to get in closer touch with you personally and with the people of this county. We want you to know what the great southern seed house, H. G. Hastings & Co., of Atlanta, is doing for the whole south in scientific plant-growing and agriculture.

With this idea in view, we have decided to offer to each reader of this newspaper a magnificent collection of flower seed, sent absolutely free to our customers. Write at once for our big free illustrated catalogue, being sure to mention the name of this newspaper. We pay the postage. The catalogue will tell you all about the way to take advantage of the free flower seed offer.

You should have flowers about your home. Our wives and daughters take naturally to flowers. This offer is made especially for them because we know it will interest them. But the catalogue tells, too, about our big cash prize offer for the Corn Club variety of corn and cotton—the kinds we grow on our own 3,000 acre farm. It's a catalogue that ought to be in every southern home. Write today and let us send it to you.

POULTRY

POULTRY FOR THE BOY

Desirable to Manage Them Separately From Other Fowls.

Plan Given for the Construction of Suitable House to Accommodate Ten Hens and Male-Coop May Be Enlarged.

(By KATHERINE ARTHURTON, DUBLIN.)

The boy who has fowls of his own will want to manage them so as to keep them separate from the other poultry on the farm. The following plan, which is arranged to accommodate ten or twelve hens and a male, has been found very satisfactory. It may be enlarged for a greater number, always remembering that each additional fowl must have five to eight square feet more of floor space.

The coop in question is five feet wide and twelve feet long, giving a floor space of sixty square feet—five or six square feet per hen. It is six feet high at the front, and four feet at the back, and is built from cheap lumber, and covered with tarred roofing. On most farms there are odds and ends of boards enough to put up much a coop, except for the roofing. As no glass is used, the coop is covered with wire netting, having a curtain of muslin on the inside for use in cold weather. The upper half of the remaining part of the front is also left open and covered with netting with inside muslin curtain.

In warm weather these curtains are kept rolled up, but in cold weather they are let down over the openings. They should be large enough to cover them well, and have weights at the bottom to hold them in place. If a hen is run in, and a rather heavy slat thrust through the casing thus formed, they will stay in place very well.

The only other openings in the coop are four little square doorways, each by ten inches in size. If the hens are very large, these may be made somewhat larger each way. One of these little doors should be in each end, and one in each lower corner of the back wall. They are closed with a sliding panel, set in a little frame, which can be raised or lowered by a wire or stout cord. Only one is, of course, to be used at a time.

In the center of the back wall, two feet above the floor, a frame carrying two roosting poles. This frame should be hinged to the wall so it can be raised out of the way when desired. Under it, a foot from the floor, make a little platform of boards to catch the droppings. Do not fasten this anywhere, as you will want to take it up to clean it. On the front corners of the roosting frame put legs a foot long, which should rest on this dropping board when the roost is lowered in place. Have both roosting poles the same height, not set so the frame will slant.

On the ceiling, directly above the roost, nail strips of inch boards so as to make a frame the same size, or a trifle larger, than the roost itself. To this rack strips of burlap sucking long enough to reach the floor, and wide enough to completely surround the coop when they are arranged in place. At the lower edges put slats to keep them in place, as on the other curtains. On cold nights this makes a snug, and yet not stuffy, sleeping place for the fowls. In the warmer parts of the country this inside curtain will not be needed, but in the colder climates it will give much protection through the winter. It should be rolled up during the day.

The nest boxes—two are plenty—should be placed in the darkest part of the coop. This will be against the front wall, in the corner farthest from the outer door. A box three feet long and a foot deep, with partition in the middle, and doors cut in the ends, makes a good nest when turned bottom side up over a nice deep bed of clean straw.

Metter to Have Big Barbecue

The enterprising Citizens of Metter are moving heaven and earth with a slice of Bulloch, Tattnall and Emanuel counties thrown in for good measure in their efforts to show the people that a new county with Metter as its county seat would be a good thing for the folks in that particular section. It was announced sometime ago in box car size headlines that this task had already been accomplished, but it is said that the proposition began to waver at both ends and sag in the middle and the barbecue has been selected as the proper thing to brace it up with.

Just what relation the new county barbecue will have to the old time political barbecue cannot be stated. In the olden days when enthusiasm began to waver in the fortunes of a political faction or party, the barbecue was the haven to which the desperate politicians flew in order to save the day.

The barbecue was worked to a great success in carolling the negroes and sorry element of white folks into the fold, it was a great vote catcher and was intended solely for the turpentine and saw mill negroes and the weak minded white people.

Just what relation the new county barbecue will bear to the old time political rump up is awaited with unabated interest. It may be that the new county barbecue is intended to feed and refresh the brain of the highly intelligent and broaden the views of the best folks and large property owners or it may be that it is intended to stuff with beef and bread will see things in clearer vision than before. It may be that at this particular season when the times are rather tight and square meals going some what at a premium that the barbecue will do the work.

It may be that when those Cobb town bulies are brought over and fed well, they will forget about those long deep sand hills which would have to be plowed through coming to court at Metter. It may be that when the Tattnall county boys get their bellies full of barbecue beef and lots of lightbread there will be less danger in fording the seven runs of the Big Cana river when their hides are tightened with moonshine bread they will float across and there will appear no need of bonds for bridges.

It may be when the Emanuel county crowd who are said to be clamoring to come in will be further enthused when they eat barbecue beef and lightbread and last not least those crackers below the Fifteen Mile creek will lubbe the enthusiasm when they fill up.

Why, when we come to think over it it looks as if the barbecue was going to be a great success, it will no doubt draw to Metter on that day all the hungry legions who want to be fed and instructed as to how to vote and otherwise conduct themselves.

It is believed that the barbecue will be a wonderful success, there is no reason why it should not be, it worked well in the old days.

It is said that the nearest way to a man's heart is through his stomach, and our friends at Metter recognizing this fact have seized old rather than by both heres, not depending upon any chance and are going to feed and instruct the weak and wavering on the occasion of their mammoth new county barbecue.

What Are We Coming To Boys?

Mr. Editor:

Last May during the Confederate Veterans' Reunion at Macon, Ga., the veterans of the North sent us an invitation to join them in a reunion at Gettysburg next July. The invitation was refused at first, but next day some of the old boys reconsidered the matter and accepted the invitation. Now this reunion is to be held at Gettysburg, where our army was defeated to some extent. Now, if the Yankee vets want to meet the southern vets in reunion, why don't they propose to meet at Manassas or Chancellorsville, or some other battlefield where our men defeated them, when they had two to our one? No, they don't want to meet us where they got whipped. As for myself, I don't want to meet them anywhere in that capacity, especially where they can exult over us in rehearsing the incidents of the battle which resulted in our defeat. Let the northern veterans have their own reunion and we have ours, but let us not humiliate ourselves. Let us retain our southern manhood and southern patriotism; but sometimes I fear southern patriotism is dying to some extent.

Sometimes this is shown in politics. Some few years ago at a political convention the southern delegation helped to nominate a western Yankee for president, while the band played "Marching Through Georgia," in commemoration of Sherman and his hostile gang, who pillaged and burned the homes of helpless women and children, whose husbands, brothers and sons were at the front fighting with an endeavor to save their homes from the ravages of a relentless foe. And when the president Taft comes south some of our southern people pay him greater homage than they would Jesus Christ were He to appear in the flesh, while he laughs in his sleeves to how simple they are.

One of the most distinguishing things I have ever read of was the great demonstrations some of our southern people made some few years ago at the gathering to celebrate the birth day of Lincoln, the arch enemy of the south and of southern rights. Eulogies have been written and spoken in his behalf, and he has been held up before our southern youth as a perfect model, to be admired, etc. Yes, he has been held up as one having "compassion for humanity in general." But we old folks know that he waged a cruel war against the southern people, who were fighting for what they knew to be right. He endorsed every action of his armies in laying waste the homes of helpless women and children, and while prisoners on both sides were languishing in prison, he refused to exchange because he had the world to recruit from, while the south had only her brave sons to do her fighting. Not much comparison shown here.

Some time ago I picked up a child's U. S. history in which Lincoln's life and character were held up as perfect models, while Jeff Davis, the great southern patriot, was mentioned only incidentally. Southern people should never allow such stuff to enter their schools or their homes. The good Lord knows that I hold no malice against any man or set of men, either dead or living, but I maintain that we should foster southern pride and manhood. I am fearful that it won't be very long before our old soldiers will be forgotten as rebels or traitors and their monuments hipped at.

B. W. Darsey.

If you have been opposing Metter's move for a new county just out it and attend the barbecue there on Saturday, May 10th. With all of our opposition they are going to win out, so let us lay down the fight and help them get it. Candler county will sound good anyway, and the move will not hurt anybody.—ad

LEGISLATURE MUST PASS ON COUNTIES STILLMORE-MITTER FIGHT

Atlanta, April 26.—The new county movement is rapidly taking shape and application will be made to the legislature this summer for the creation of something like half dozen new counties.

These movements are all being worked up well in advance of the legislative session. Headquarters have been organized, committees appointed and hard work is being done at every possible point to create sentiment in favor of these new divisions.

One of the movements which has assumed definite shape and has behind it some of the strongest influences is that which proposes to create the new county of Stillmore out of portions of Emanuel and Tattnall, with Stillmore as the county site.

Stillmore is one of the most progressive towns in Southeast Georgia, and its people have long desired that it should be a county seat. It is a town of about 1,000 people, with a fine school, a church, and a number of other public buildings.

Several mass meetings have been held in Stillmore and rural districts to be affected by the proposed new county. Contributions of all amounts, from five cents up, are being received from nearly every section of the new territory to aid in defraying the expenses of advertising. Stillmore is situated practically in the center of the proposed new county territory, has three railroads, each of which has a double daily passenger service, and is well equipped for a new county site.

But Stillmore is going to have the fight of her life with the equally enterprising town of Metter, located in the western portion of Bulloch county. The people Metter are trying to create the new county of Candler, to be named in honor of the late Gov. Allen D. Candler, and to be composed of portions of Bulloch, Tattnall and Emanuel counties. It is understood that they have an equally strong organization, and the fight is on between these two as to which shall be the site of the new county, to be formed in this section.

The Metter movement is backed by some of the strongest politicians in the state, who are determined to see it go through successfully, if there is a possibility of getting any new counties at the coming session of the legislature. The fight is already on, though quietly, and an immense amount of work is being done to secure favorable sentiment among the members of the legislature.

Stillmore and Metter are only about twelve miles apart, and of course only one of them can hope to secure the site of a new county. This is the only section of the state where the same territory is being fought for by conflicting interests, and this probably will be the most interesting new county fight before the legislature this summer.

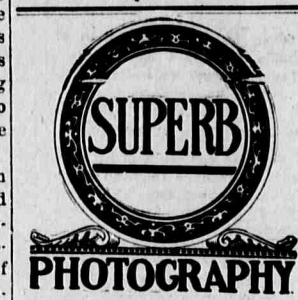

The presentments will appear in full in our next issue.

The Central of Georgia will put on several extra coaches to carry the people to the Candler county barbecue at Metter, Saturday, May 10th. Get yourself ready and enjoy the day with your neighbors at Metter, for they will soon be citizens of Candler county. They are sure to win out this year for they way things look now.—ad

CONTEST CLOSES ON JUNE FIRST

We have decided to shorten up the date of the closing of our piano popularity voting contest and close it June 1st, when the piano will be awarded.

In order to give more than one a prize, we have added a second prize, in the shape of a fifty dollar diamond ring, same is now on exhibition at the jewelry store of Mr. D. R. Dekle. This is a handsome prize and will be awarded to the young lady receiving the second largest number of votes.

The award of the prize to be given Saturday of this week will be announced at The Moving Picture Show Saturday night and Mr. Horn will present it to the lady who is entitled to receive it.

GRAND JURY USES PRUNING KNIFE

The General Presentments of the Grand Jury returned this afternoon goes after the scalp of the City Court Stenographer and the County School Superintendent. It recommends that the salary of $600 per month now paid the city court stenographer be discontinued. It also recommends that the salary of the Superintendent of Schools of Bulloch County be reduced from $1400.00 to $1000.00 per annum and his traveling expense account be reduced from $400.00 to $200.00 per year. It also takes away from him the $100.00 allowed for clerk hire.

The presentments will appear in full in our next issue.

A CARD OF THANKS

Mr. Editor: At a meeting of the executive committee of the first district high school association on April 20th motion was made and unanimously passed that the secretary of the association, through the press, thank the mayor, council, board of education and the people of Statesboro, and the community in general for the very generous hospitality shown the visiting schools and for the royal manner in which the visitors were entertained while in Statesboro. The committee feels exceedingly grateful for this courtesy and help, and it realizes the fact that the success of the gathering is due to the effort of the people of Statesboro.

Very respectfully,
G. E. Usher, Sec.

Camel's Speed Considerable.

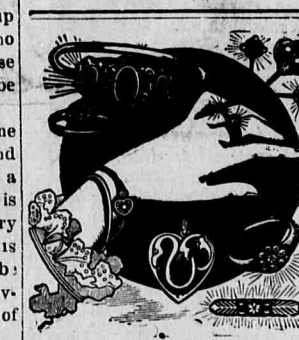

A camel with an average load will travel twenty-five miles a day, and when unencumbered it will reach thirty miles a day sometimes.

Metter has fought many losing battles for her new county, but it now looks like they are fighting their last one, for everything points to the creation of Candler county, with Metter the county site. Go to their barbecue on Saturday, May 10th, and let them prove this to you.—ad a great improvement would be made in the condition of horses and other animals if just the proper remedy were used when they became ill or injured. If your horse could talk he would tell you not to use an external remedy containing alcohol because it stings and burns his flesh terribly. Some liniments have alcohol and other fiery ingredients which only inflame the skin and tissue and does not strike down where the pain lies. Beware of such liniments. The great humane, quick-action remedy is Mexican Mustang Liniment. Made of oils, without a drop of alcohol or other torturing element, it speaks straight to the bone and muscle. It soothes the wounded parts and is comforting while the healing work is progressing. Mexican Mustang Liniment is what you want because it

What

your work lighter, saves your livestock from suffering and keeps them in trim for work. For all forms of Lameness, Strains, Bruises, Cuts, Burns, Galls and harness sores in animals, it is safe and prompt and does not promise what it cannot perform. Mustang Liniment has been doing its wonderful healing work for 65 years. The amount of money it has saved livestock owners is incalculable. One man writes that he was about to kill his valuable horse because badly injured but Mustang Liniment made him well again. A Veterinary tells us he has used Mustang Liniment fifteen years and found it best liniment for cuts, strains, etc. And many others are enthusiastic friends of this tried and true remedy. Now you know just what makes

FILIPINOS PROGRESSING SAYS GOVERNOR FORBES

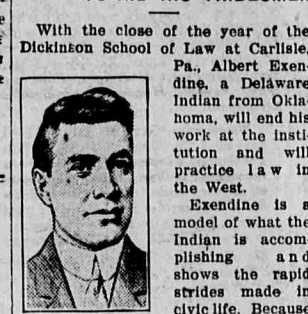

W. Cameron Forbes, Governor General of the Philippine Islands, who had not been away from Manila in nearly four years, arrived in this country the other day on board the Louisiana. Governor Forbes will be on a tour of absence until September, when he will return to his post. He was enthusiastic in discussing conditions in the Philippines.

"The effect of the Payne tariff law has been most striking and in the last three years under the stimulus of free trade with the United States business and industry in the islands have taken a real start," he said. "The anticipated falling off in revenues did not follow, and the islands have continued to pay all expenses of administration from revenue without any assistance from the United States. There is a better understanding than formerly between merchants and the government and between Americans and Filipinos."

"It must not be inferred, however, that the islands have reached a condition of great prosperity, but only that the upward movement has begun. Steady progress is being made in the administration of justice, extension and improvements of railroad facilities and public health. In the latter instance conditions have so improved that the islands can now be declared a healthful country and Manila a healthful city."

INDIAN LAW GRADUATE TO AID HIS TRIBESMEN

With the close of the year of the Dickinson School of Law at Carlisle, Pa., Albert Exendine, a Delaware Indian from Okla., will end his work at the institution and will practice law in the West.

Exendine is a model of what the Indian is accomplishing and shows the rapid strides made in civic life. Because of the advantages that have been taken of the Red Man by unscrupulous white lawyers, land cases in the West, Exendine has held the opinion that his people should be represented by their own kind, and with this point in view he is nearing the fulfillment of his ambition.

Born at Anadarko, Okla., Exendine, before he was out of his teens attended a Presbyterian mission school on the reservation. From there he came to the Carlisle School and has achieved a national football reputation, being considered one of the greatest ends in the country.

He was captain of the 1906 team and was an All-American selection. While attending the Dickinson School of Law he has been coach of the eleven at Otterbein University, in Ohio, in this manner working his way through the law school. He probably will practice in Oklahoma.

REASON FOR HORSEERADISH

At Least, This is Theory of the Drummer, and Presumably He is an Authority.

"Why do you eat it anyway?" asked the Drummer, who having put too much on his raw oysters, was making a wry face.

"It is called horse-radish, but horses won't eat it," said the Botanist. "It isn't a radish at all; it's a sort of scurvy grass that grows of its own accord, where the average farmer does not want it. So he digs it up, makes his women folks grate it and puts it up in bottles to sell to the unsuspecting public."

"I've been told players of wind instruments such as the cornet cannot eat it," said the Statistician, "because it has the effect of weakening the lip muscle. Boston is the greatest market for it. There are, I forget how many, thousand pounds sold there each year."

"That's it!" exclaimed the Drummer exultantly. "I never knew the reason for it before. Did you fellows ever like a Boston girl? They all pleaded, 'no, no, no' so we went on to explain. 'If you had you would know,' he asserted. 'Horse-radish has the effect of weakening the lip muscles; Boston is the largest market. If you had ever kissed a Boston girl you'd know. That's the answer.'"

Sabbath and Sunday.

The observance of the Sabbath by the Jewish people is first mentioned after the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt, but no direct evidence of its having been kept in patriarchal times is to be found in the pentateuch, although the formal "Remember" with which the Fourth Commandment begins, might seem to imply that the observance of the day was familiar to the Israelites, but it later fell into neglect. In the latter history of the Jews after the captivity the Sabbath was kept with great strictness. The early Christians observed the first day of the week in commemoration of the "Resurrection of Jesus Christ," and this gradually took the place of the Jewish Sabbath.

"Do you think the office ought to seek the man?" "Yes," replied the willing parrot; "although of course it may be necessary for the man to leave his address with the head of a department."

CURE FOR BROODINESS

Two Methods Given for Breaking Up Setting Hens.

Strenuous Measures Must Be Adopted to Dissuade Poultry from Her Purpose. Laying Eggs Are Most Popular for Eggs.

(By PROF. JOHN WILLARD BOLTE.)
Contrary to general impression, broodiness in hens is not a fever and we have no evidence to show that it is contagious. The ailment, if we may term it this, appears without warning. The fowl may have been laying steadily and acting in a perfectly normal fashion, when suddenly she becomes imbued with a great distaste for active pursuits. She betrays a very crabbed disposition, rushing at her erstwhile friends and pecking them violently whenever they approach her. Her plumage sticks out at right angles, making her appear about twice as large as usual. With her drawn down, her hackles feathers and wings and body taking up as much space as possible, she mounts guard over her chosen nest and defies all comers.

Excellent Egg Type.

sets when the time comes just the same, and she will keep on setting until you break her up or let her hatch out a brood of chicks.

This pertinacity would not be so important if it were not for the fact that she quits laying and stays quiet. She has decided upon a vacation and she refuses to work during this period. The loss of a couple of months of a hen's time is not to be thought of any period, and especially during the spring, which is the natural time for setting and heaviest egg production as well.

If we do not wish to set the hen on eggs we will have to adopt strenuous means to dissuade her from her purpose and start her to laying again. There are a number of successful ways of doing this, and conditions will indicate the most favorable. The main thing is to act promptly and be thorough.

Remove the broody hens from the nests each night, as they are most easily detected then. They stick to the nest instead of going to roost. Dust them thoroughly with insect powder and confine them in an open sack or cage in a cool, light location. Keep water before them and give nothing to eat except a little whole wheat and green stuff once a day. This will not hurt the hen and about three days of this "water cure" will convince her of the error of her ways.

With her drawn down, her hackles feathers and wings and body taking up as much space as possible, she mounts guard over her chosen nest and defies all comers.

The hen becomes broody because nature prompts her with a sudden desire for a brood of chicks. She probably does not know why she does it, as she will take to potatoes or dog knobs as kindly as to eggs, but she Waynesboro, Ga., Jan. 1st, 1911.—I have used Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People for many years in Waynesboro and the adjacent districts are now being prepared on a large scale, and may be obtained by men, women and children in every section of the South.

Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills For Georgia People are not a box of capsules, but are prepared from his original formula under his close supervision. They are absolutely pure and harmless, and may be depended upon absolutely for prompt and relief in all cases of Biliousness, Liver, Kidney and Stomach Disorders, Neuralgia, Pain in the Side, Fevers, Headache, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Easy and pleasant to take.

Waynesboro, Ga., Jan. 1st, 1911.—I have used Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills for Georgia People and take pleasure in recommending them. I think they should be in every home. I am glad to know that a company has been organized right here in Waynesboro for that purpose.

Dr. Herrington's Liver Pills For Georgia People are not a box of capsules, but are prepared from his original formula under his close supervision. They are absolutely pure and harmless, and may be depended upon absolutely for prompt and relief in all cases of Biliousness, Liver, Kidney and Stomach Disorders, Neuralgia, Pain in the Side, Fevers, Headache, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Easy and pleasant to take.

And Employ Them All.
When I get home after midnight, "Tippleton"—Neither does mine; she has hundreds of words more effective than that.

Remove the broody hens from the nests each night, as they are most easily detected then. They stick to the nest instead of going to roost. Dust them thoroughly with insect powder and confine them in an open sack or cage in a cool, light location. Keep water before them and give nothing to eat except a little whole wheat and green stuff once a day. This will not hurt the hen and about three days of this "water cure" will convince her of the error of her ways.

Another good way is to have a separate pen with absolutely bare floor and walls, and no possible place to nest, and place all of the broody hens in it, in the company of two or three vigorous male birds. This scheme is frequently used on large poultry farms.

The heavier breeds are especially addicted to broodiness, the Asiatic breeds being the worst offenders and the Plymouth Rocks and R. I. Reds leading in the American class. Leghorns and Minorcas and Hamburgs set so rarely that they cannot be depended on to raise their young. For this reason the Leghorns are the most popular breed for large egg farms, as they waste no time setting and the young are easily raised artificially.

FARMING LAND FOR SALE.

I will sell that fine farm located about two and one-half miles west of Statesboro. There is plenty of land cleared for a good two-horse farm, and in a good state of cultivation; also one farm six miles from Statesboro, containing fifty-two acres. And one lot at the end on South Main street in Statesboro. Also one automobile, Cole "30"; will make reasonable terms to parties wanting to buy any of the above property. For further particulars, call on or write ROGER J. HOLLAND, Statesboro, Ga.

No. Six-Sixty-Six

This is a prescription prepared especially for MALARIA or CHILLS & FEVER. Five or six doses will break any case, and if taken then as a tonic the Fever will not return. It acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not irritate or sicken.

French Market Coffee

Has Never Been Successfully Imitated
It Cannot Be

COFFEE roasted the ordinary way is only partially roasted, according to French methods. The French Market Coffee is roasted scientifically, producing a perfect roast. Slowly—carefully—the roasting goes on until exactly the right moment arrives. The slow roast reduces about 10 per cent more weight than the ordinary roast. All excess of oil vanishes. Yet the delicate flavor and aroma is there, intensified and enhanced.

Chilled, Ground and Hermetically Sealed

DIRECT from the roasters, the coffee is chilled in a cold-air-blast machine. This chilling closes the pores of the bean, thus preventing a single breath of the entrancing aroma to escape in the vapors.

For the rare old French blend has been prepared by the French Market Mills, and the hermetically-sealed process places genuine French Market Coffee within the reach of all.

Try it once and you'll agree "There is only one real old French Market Coffee." The coffee with a history.

Grand Jury Presentments

Much Business Transacted and a Large Number of Recommendations Made

The Grand Jury selected to serve at the April term 1911 of the Bulloch Superior Court, beg to submit the following report:

The committee appointed to examine the various books and records of the Justices of the Peace and Notaries Public of the several districts of the county find such books and records practically correct with the following exceptions:

In the 48th dist. J. P. Criminal dock at 11 to record the date of trial was issued.

In the 48th dist. N. P. fails to record date of trial and date of trial also fails to index cases and charge 40 cents for setting before judgment.

In the 48th dist. The criminal dock at 11 to show who issued warrants and who made arrests.

In the 48th dist. J. P. charged too much in some cases and fails to extend court in other cases also in case No. 11 on criminal dock the J. P. has detained prisoner over to justice court instead of city court.

Sentiment Strong Against New County

That the sentiment of the people in that strip of territory in the proposed new county of Candler east of the fifteen mile creek is very strong against the new county there is no doubt. At one time the people in that section signed up very largely for the new county, but when high tax levies and bond issues began to confront them, they were waxing not only cold on Metter but they are getting warm against them. We are reliably informed that at a fish fry given at lake bridge this week where there were 150 people composed entirely of people below the creek and in the territory embraced in the new county only one man spoke up for the Metter proposition.

The failure of Metter to guarantee anything in the way of a fund for a court house and jail building assures them that an extremely high tax rate for a number of years confronts them, that they will get no benefits and be subjected to many burdens is sufficiently clear to make them back on the new county proposition and they will be heard from in no uncertain terms a little later. This is the section where it was once claimed that 99 per cent were for the new county. The figures are all right if placed in the right column and that reads against it.

OBITUARY.

In Loving Remembrance of Willie S. Prentiss, Jr.

On the evening of November 7, 1913, the death angel came and bore away one of our dear ones—Bubber—age, seventeen years, six months and eleven days.

He was kind and loved by every one that knew him. He leaves relatives and friends to mourn his loss. 'Tis so hard to give him up, but he is gone never to return. Grieve not for me, dear loved ones, for I am waiting in glory for thee.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled; The ward His love had given, And the body slumbers here, The soul is safe in heaven.

The Stillmore News

PUBLISHED WEEKLY.
STILLMORE, GA.

PICTURE IS A BLESSING.
Dr. John Hubbard, an Englishman, has entered a defense of the Chinese man's picture. He says the picture was taken at a Chinese festival. According to his authority, the effect of the picture is a more active circulation of the blood, which benefits the brain. He writes: "The observation we hear now and then that Chinese without pictures show less intelligence strikes me as not altogether unreasonable, as an active circulation of the blood will not fail to influence the nourishment and development of the brain." He states that the head of a newly born baby is shaved, and no hair, cap or soft pillow is allowed to interfere with the circulation of the scalp. When the child grows bigger, the hair is tied together in bunches, so as to expose the skin to the air, and thus promote perspiration. Later the hair is grown so as to form a pigtail, and superfluous hair is shaved away. The effect is a high and smooth forehead and a face free from wrinkles, and hence even old Chinese have smooth faces and a juvenile appearance. When rolled up on top of the head, the pigtail acts as a substitute for a cap and protects the head from the glare of the sun and the cold of winter. It is also a neckcloth and a pillow. It is likewise ever at hand to check hemorrhage should a cord be needed for that purpose.

A dispatch from Paris says that a movement has been started in the city to substitute the Chinese for the French in the popular salutation, "How do you do?" In the first place, the French idiom of greeting is not considered as being in the English language. "How do you do?" is translated as "How do you carry yourself?" "How do you do?" is not in itself, but graciously suggests regard for one's friend by making it the first consideration to obtain assurance that he is in good health. This is the foundation idea of forms of greeting in all parts of the world, including such special inquiries as that of "How's your liver?" which prevails among the English in the tropics of India. The probability is that even the mercenary French would not be likely to yield readily to an invitation to change in a day a custom of centuries. But Paris correspondents believe there is a serious chance of altering the old salutation, and this is a fact.

The benefits derived by our farmers from the pleasure of the motor car can hardly be estimated. It is a means of equal to the happiness given by the car to people in other walks of life, says Leslie. It can also be claimed that in the purchase of the automobile by our country friends there is an economic future. It enables a daughter or son of a farmer living several miles from the village to market poultry, eggs, butter, and similar products, do the buying, and return home in two or three hours. In the old times this would require the loss of the services of a man and a team. Of course, it cannot be claimed from this standpoint alone that the automobile is commensurate with the cost of the motor car and the upkeep. Another factor is of more value. The general use of cars by the farmers has given great popularity to this method.

Harvard is now going in for psychic research. It Harvard keeps on, after training loving pigeons, and thinking anglovers, and knocking ghosts, it may get a useful thing or two in its curriculum in the course of time.

Those who prophesied that the automobile would make the horse as extinct as the dodo should revise their ideas by a glance at the report showing that the average value of horses is $1.83 more this year than last.

An archaeologist has discovered that it was the practice of Egyptian wives in the old time to tickle the soles of their husbands' feet. Evidence in an Egyptian tomb for pulling husbands' feet.

Later dispatches from the neighborhood of Abyssinia say nothing of the death of Menelik. Not that it makes any great difference, but it would like to know how many lives he had.

Massachusetts has joined the fight against the deadly habit, and it is now a law in that state that the pins must have their points covered. Women who realize the possible harm of these sharp, projecting weapons will aid the crusade without waiting for laws and fines to be forced to do so.

CALIFORNIA PASSES THE ANTI-ALIEN BILL

SENATE REFUSES TO PASS RESOLUTION DEFERRING TO PRESIDENT'S WISHES.

OBJECTIONAL PART CUT OUT Amendment Adopted Permitting Ineligible Aliens to Lease Lands for Not Exceeding Three Years

▲▲▲▲▲ Measure Passed by 36 Votes to 2. ▲▲▲▲▲
The administration anti-alien bill, drawn by Attorney General Webb, passed the senate by a vote of 36 to 2, after nearly two hours of debate. The only negative votes were cast by Senator Cartwright, Democrat, and Senator Wright, Republican. Governor Johnson will sign the alien bill as soon as it comes to him from the legislature to protests. "I have assured Mr. Bryan," he said, "that when the bill comes to me from the legislature I will wait a reasonable time for his protests. I cannot say how long."

Sacramento, Cal.—The California senate showed a resolute determination to put aside the recommendations of President Wilson and his envoy, Secretary Bryan, and pass an act prohibiting Japanese and other aliens ineligible to citizenship from holding land by purchase or by lease for more than three years. In phrasing the bill as redrafted by Attorney General Webb after many conferences with Governor Johnson and the administration, the senate omitted the words "ineligible to citizenship" which are offensive to Japan, but those in charge of the bill repeatedly admitted in debate that the end sought was the same.

Democratic opposition was purely tactical. The minority confessed its sympathy with the bill, but it was too drastic, but as too weak. The majority differed was in its judgment of the means to be employed. This attitude found its expression in a resolution offered by Senator Curtis and defeated by a vote of 19 to 25. The administration majority for the bill was solid with a single exception. An opposition were eight out of ten Democrats, one progressive and Senator Wright, San Diego, the lone Republican in the chamber.

RESCUE STEAMER SINKS

Two Whites and Eleven Negroes Lose Lives When Boat Sinks.
Natchez, Miss.—The steamer Concordia, of Natchez, which was engaged in rescue work in the flooded section of Tennessee and Concordia parishes, struck the iron railroad bridge at Clayton, La., and sank. Eleven Negro refugees who were aboard the steamer were drowned when the boat went down. The Concordia probably will be a total loss, as she was badly wrecked by the collision with the bridge and sank in about 25 feet of water in the Tennessee river. The steamer had about 130 Negroes on board when she went down.

The Concordia was bringing to Natchez flood refugees rescued from houseboats and second stories of buildings just above Clayton, where there were fine farms and prosperous villages.

Four-Year-Old Child Sets Barn Afire.
Elberton, Ga.—The four-year-old child of G. L. Wallace, Bowman, in this county, crawled into a barn next to the warehouse in Elberton, set fire in some of the building and was cremated. Until his crisp body was found it was not known the child was in the barn.

Bandit Raids Train.
Robbery of the Joplin mail train was the primary object of the bandit who held up a Kansas City Southern passenger train in the Kansas City suburbs. According to the police theory, the bandit, who was with Mr. Short in the Pullman, the robber left the train wounded, carrying $1,000 of Short's money. The mine owner was left dying in his berth with three bullets in his body. Physicians say Short will recover. The total amount obtained was $1,100 in money and a diamond.

Auto Slayer Is Given 14 Years.
Chicago—Lawrence C. McDonald, a chauffeur who in 1910 ran over and killed Joseph Wiese, was found guilty of murder and sentenced to fourteen years' imprisonment. The evidence showed he was driving about 35 miles an hour when the car struck Wiese. In instructing the jury Judge Cooper said it had been shown that Lindholm was driving his machine in such a manner as to endanger human life they should find him guilty whether the killing was accidental or intentional.

PRESIDENT IN REFORM FIGHT

PROTESTS AGAINST THE REVISION BILL ARE COMING FROM SPECIAL INTERESTS.
Fight on in New Jersey for "Jury Reform and Equal Justice" Bill.

Jersey City, N. J.—President Wilson interpreted the fight in New Jersey for jury reform and constitutional revision as a part of the struggle to change the American people to obtain through the Democratic party equal justice to all and special privileges to none. Though he made no mention of the special interests pending in Washington, the president indicated that the people being voted against the tariff "Some of my fellow citizens and some of their colleagues in Washington," he said, "now think that they are hearing the voice of the people of the United States when they are only hearing the part that has become vocal by moving down to Washington and insisting upon its special interests."

HE WANTS TO FIGHT JAPAN

Washington, D. C.—A "war speech" in support of the proposed California anti-alien law was given at the house by Representative Sisson of Mississippi. "If we must have war or submit to this indignity, I am for war," cried Mr. Sisson. "I am with the people of California in their efforts to prevent these aliens from acquiring land." "I believe," said Mr. Sisson, "that no non-resident alien should be allowed to hold a single foot of land in the territory of the United States."

Wilson Open on Canal Controversy.
Washington.—President Wilson told callers he had no objection to the United States Great Britain over the exemption of American coastwise shipping from payment of tolls through the Panama canal. The president gave no intimation as to what his previous view had been, but Democratic senators who talked with him had the idea that he opposed the exemption and favored the Root amendment to repeal it. When Mr. Wilson discussed the question he said he felt he should keep his mind open.

Meat Eating Pansies Bend Knees.
Pittsburgh.—After being urged to eat little meat and plenty of peas, beans and eggs, sixty meat-eating ministers took off their coats and tried to tug fingers to the floor without bending the knees. Few succeeded, but progress was noted by a lecturer who came here to teach Pittsburgh preachers "how to go to hell and stay there." The food laws in covered with heads worked in leaves, fourteen coils of heads being used. The pocketbook was taken by the lecturer and presented to Mrs. Cobb before they left this county more than 100 years ago.

NATIONAL BANKS TO PAY INTEREST

ALL DEPOSITORIES, BEGINNING JUNE 1, MUST PAY 2 PER CENT PER ANNUM.

WILL INCREASE CIRCULATION
McAdoo Says With Banks Paying Interest Government Deposits Will Be Increased

Washington.—The fiscal system of the United States government deposits of federal funds in national banks was revolutionized by Secretary McAdoo, of the treasury department, with an announcement that all government depositories, whether active or inactive, would be required to pay interest at the rate of 2 per cent per annum beginning June 1 upon deposits of the government. Simultaneously with this action the secretary announced an immediate increase of $10,000,000 in government deposits in the national banks, making the total $22,419,844, from which the federal treasury will earn, under the new interest order, $1,053,000 annually. There are indications that Secretary McAdoo intends to release still more surplus money from the treasury vaults and place it in general circulation to increase deposits with the national banks. In a statement Secretary McAdoo said: "The banks paying interest on government deposits the secretary may be justified in keeping larger balances in the national banks, thereby increasing the volume of money in circulation and to that extent reducing the amount locked up in the treasury."

LAND SUIT WON BY U. S.

LANDS WORTH MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WON BY THE GOVERNMENT.
Southern Pacific Ordered to Return Property Valued at $60,000,000 to United States.

Portland, Ore.—Land stipulated to be worth $300,000,000 and estimated by experts to have a value of $190,000,000, a new brand of money circulation and to that extent reducing the amount locked up in the treasury. Mr. McAdoo also announced a radical change in the character of securities which the treasury department would accept for government deposits. The case was submitted without argument after an agreement of counsel out of court.

Cotton Convention Closed.
Dallas, Tex.—The three days' cotton convention called by the Southern States Cotton corporation here closed with the prediction that by September 1, 15 cent cotton is a possibility. The corporation proposed to try to secure this price generally by a system of holding cotton back from the market and keeping in motion to the market the cotton which they may be able to reach and maintained. About 100 persons attended the convention, most of them from Texas and Oklahoma.

Father of 50 Children.
Walmart, Ark.—A table of "Uncle Tom's" Ellison's progeny, recast after the birth of a child to one of his granddaughters, showed a surprising record. Ellison, 33 years old, has been married three times. The table showed that he was the father of fifty children; grandfather of 125 children; great-grandfather of 67 children; great-great-grandfather of 29 children.

Man Injured by Angry Elephant.
Oakland, Cal.—An elephant reached with his trunk beneath a circus tent grasped G. J. Gardiner, of Jacksonville, Fla., a circus employee, dragged him into the tent and hurled him through the canvas walls. Gardiner's wrist was broken, a number of ribs fractured and he was otherwise seriously injured.

Americans Forced to Pay Ransom.
Washington.—Mexican coast guards have forced Americans there to pay ransoms of 18,000 Mexican dollars and have confiscated their property. Official reports from Mazatlan say great unrest prevails among American residents there, as the Hureta forces are said to be looting the stores of the American merchants in Piedras Negras, alarmed over a proclamation by Governor Carranza, chief of the revolution, authorizing an interior debt of 5,000,000 pesos.

TO HANDLE LARGE CROWDS

Railroad Entering Chattanooga Complete Arrangements for Handling Reunion Visitors.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Officials of the Southern railway Company and the Queen and Crescent Route expect to handle the great crowds that will visit Chattanooga for the reunion of the United Confederate Veterans, May 27-29, with the same dispatch that the normal travel through the Chattanooga Terminal station. It is handled as the result of arrangements made at a conference of transportation, mechanical and passenger representatives of these lines at which it was decided to form for this occasion a special organization similar to that which accomplished such splendid results for the Southern railway at Macdon during the reunion of 1912.

Experienced ticket sellers and baggage checkers will be brought from other points special temporary facilities, and ample police protection will be provided, and a large number of expert passenger men will be on hand to assist the veterans and their friends in making arrangements for side and return trips, while special operating and mechanical forces will be detailed to meet the prompt movement of trains.

Special attention has been given to the arrangements for furnishing suits for the great part of the United States, and will bring to the service of reunion visitors the full benefit of the experience gained in handling the crowds on other similar occasions.

DUKE OF MONTPENSIER NOW A KING

The new king chosen by the people of Albania, to whom the Balkan war has given freedom, is the Duke of Montpensier, a young man of twenty-two, who has won fame both as a soldier and an explorer. He is the only brother and heir of the Duke of Orleans, the duke of France, who has been chosen to the throne of France, and is immensely wealthy. Being an exile from France, on account of the pretension of the Duke of Orleans to the throne of France, he has been doing service in the French army; but he has made up for this by explorations in the interior of China and Cochinchina. He also served with distinction under the Spanish flag against the Moors.

PROMINENT PEOPLE

DIDN'T KNOW HOUSTON WAS POLITICIAN
Former Gov. David R. Francis of Missouri is telling a story at his own expense illustrating the practical operation of Woodrow Wilson's silent system of selecting a cabinet.

President Wilson, so Governor Francis has now learned, on the last day of February invited the governor's fellowtownsman of St. Louis, Prof. David P. Houston, to be secretary of agriculture. With the offer of the office came also a peremptory injunction to secrecy and a summons to Washington.

Professor Houston packed his traveling bag—he had no time for a trunk—and boarded the national limited. This was on March 1, three days before the inauguration.

Comfortably encoined in a Pullman, Professor Houston had just folded his newspaper and lighted his cigar when former Governor Francis, "Gumbo Bill" Stone's co-warrior in Missouri politics, dropped into the seat in front of him, as the train pulled out of St. Louis.

DISEASE OF POTATOES

Dry-Rot Fungus Causes Blight and Wilt of Crop.
History of Fusarium as Field Trouble is of Conspicuously Recent Period—Preliminary Symptoms Are Green Color.

(By T. F. MANNING)
The dry rot of potatoes has long been known as a storage trouble. At intervals since 1824 there has been found associated with this rot by different investigators a fungus of the genus Fusarium, which has been variously designated, but the history of the disease as a field trouble is of comparatively recent record.

On badly infected soils the disease is characterized as follows: The plants are stunted, the leaves are yellow, and the roots are missing. The early growth is somewhat slow. When the plants reach a height of 10 to 14 inches, there is an apparent cessation of growth. The first indication of the disease is usually conspicuous as the plants are growing. The preliminary symptoms are a light green color of the foliage, particularly the lower leaves; this is accompanied by the breaking of the day by a partial wilting and an upward rolling of the upper leaves. The color gradually changes to a sticky yellow, which slowly and evenly covers the affected vines. The wilting and rolling of the leaves extends to all parts of the affected plants. As the disease progresses the field takes on a mottled yellow to light green color. The growth of the foliage is greatly restricted, the plants become more pronounced and there is associated much tip-burn owing to the failure of the leaflets to expand. The farmers are beginning to harvest their cotton. The cotton in the field is reported fair, but the dry weather has about ruined those sown in the spring.

Joice Arrested for Forgery

Eldred Joice, a "business nigger" who has been working the negroes here in behalf of a sick benefit insurance concern in Atlanta, was placed under arrest this week charged with forgery.

Joice had forged the name of practically every physician in town to health certificates, which were sent in large numbers.

Stonewall County

To those not familiar with the territory out of which it is being sought to create the counties of Stonewall, Candler and Wilson it would probably seem upon first reflection that Metter is the logical location for the county site, because of its distance from Statesboro, to wit twenty one miles by rail and sixteen by direct course.

This is the main argument now being used by the Metter people, but with what degree of success we are at this time unable to surmise.

It is true that Metter is situated near one corner of Bulloch county, however, they are still within easy access of Statesboro by reason of the double-daily passenger service and convenient schedules which they enjoy. They can reach Statesboro by rail at 8 o'clock each morning, and at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. To illustrate, a person living in Metter can make two trips to Statesboro during the day time having from two to three hours stay at either place between trains.

But not so with Stillmore. Still more is removed from Statesboro by fourteen miles and those who would reach that point by rail would reach that point by rail during the daytime, have but one mixed train which arrives at Swainsboro at 12:30 P. M. Those who would attend court at Swainsboro have either to go the night before arriving there at 10:30 P. M. or cover the distance by private conveyance. So much for the two towns of Stillmore and Metter.

Now in creating new counties as in all other efforts at wise legislation, so much does not depend upon the peculiar wishes of any one small town or locality, as upon the wishes of the whole or the greater number of people to be affected. Laws are, or ought to be passed not for a favored few but for the masses.

We venture the assertion with out of successful contradiction that only the people living within a radius of five miles of Metter are supporters of the Candler county movement. Apparently she has more endorsement than that but the money that Messrs. Trappnell, Kennedy Byrd and others living in Metter are spending in the cause, has so discolored everything as to slightly obscure the real truth of the situation.

The fact should not be overlooked that the people living in the Oak Park, Cobbtown and 1502 Districts are more inconveniently situated than Metter by reason of their distance from Swainsboro and Reidsville. Especially are they handicapped in going to Swainsboro by reason of poor railroad connections and schedules. Those districts like the 58th in which Stillmore is situated, are as large as the Metter District and the people living in them should rightfully have a voice in the new county matter. More especially is this true since, if Stillmore is

HIS TROUBLE NOT OF HEART

Real Facts in Regard To F. R. Huffman's illness. Relief Obtained by Curing His Stomach Ailments.

Waynesville, N.C.—Mr. F. R. Huffman, of this city, says: "I suffered dreadfully with what I thought was heart trouble, and tried various medicines in vain.

After other remedies had failed, Theodore's Black-Draught restored me to health. I would not feel safe without Black-Draught in the house. I consider it worth its weight in gold.

It cured my indigestion, and by this means I was restored to health. I can not express my gratitude for this medicine.

Good health depends on the condition of your digestion. Poor digestion and good health do not go together.

Theodore's Black-Draught will thoroughly cleanse and set in order your digestive system.

It has done this for others, during the past 70 years, and is today the most popular vegetable liver remedy on the market. Try it.

made the county-site Metter will then be within nine miles of the county site with double-daily passenger service and convenient scheduled lines to and from Stillmore.

The best way to determine that the majority of the people stand with reference to this matter, is to leave it to a vote of the people.

When the fight for the new counties first began we offered to give up with Metter to secure the new county and then submit to the people the question of the location of county-site. This offer however was promptly declined by the Metter people.

One of their representative workers frankly admitted that we would outvote them on that question. The conclusion therefore is to be deduced from their own admissions is that the majority of the people throughout the new county territory are in favor of the Stone wall county movement. And despite the fact that Metter is spending twenty-five dollars to our one and despite the fact also that Metter is more hospitable than us in spreading beautiful barbecues for the entertainment and hilarious enjoyment of the people we are nevertheless less confident of victory. The people are on our side and the legislature represents the people.

Two Small Fires

The Fire Department has been called out to two small fires during the week. On Wednesday a small blaze in the kitchen of Mr. G. B. Johnson on College St. brought out the fire along with a large crowd of citizens the house was extinguished without serious damage.

Yesterday about three o'clock an alarm was sent in telling that there was a fire near the court house square. It was found in the small overgrown front building owned by Mr. W. R. Woodcock on North Main. The blaze caught in between the roof and the overhead ceiling but was soon put out without serious damage. The building is occupied by a laundry and shoe shop, and pressing cloth and several other kind of nature. There has been some talk of condemning this building, and the fire may revive this sentiment.

SAVANNAH WOMAN KILLS DOCTOR IN HIS OFFICE

Savannah, June 16.—Dr. Guy O. Brinkley, a prominent young physician of this city, was killed this afternoon by Mrs. Eugene H. Whisnant, formerly Miss Katie Kittles, who then turned her weapon, a 32 Colt automatic revolver, on herself, falling dead across the dead body of Dr. Brinkley with a bullet in her brain.

The young woman, who was a widow, went to the office of Dr. Brinkley accompanied by a woman companion, whose name has not been ascertained. Mrs. Whisnant and the doctor went into the private office and the other woman remained in the outer office, leaving hastily when the shooting began. A few minutes after Dr. Brinkley and Mrs. Whisnant entered the office the firing began and the door opened and Dr. Brinkley rushed out, followed by Mrs. Whisnant, who was steadily firing upon him.

Dr. Brinkley called to a maid servant to get the police and the woman ran for help. Meanwhile Mrs. Whisnant pursued the doctor to the porch and back into the office, firing upon him all the time. Her sixth shot entered the physician's heart, causing death. Without a moment's delay the woman turned the weapon upon herself and fired a bullet into her temple, causing instant death.

Jim Carothers farm occasionally, if a City Court is good to sit in different sections of the Canoochee why the luxury should be accorded the boys below the fifteen mile creek as well. It would be a good idea to place the Candler County City Court on wheels and carry it around to the amusement and edification of the people.

We would suggest that between the matter of the turnpike between the two capitals of Candler that an Aeroplane route be established, this would be quicker transit and more economical in the long run. Machines could be equipped with strong boxes with which to transport the new county funds from Metter to the Cobbtown Bank. Now with all this done for Cobbtown we are going to get mad unless some concessions are made to the very rich men of that day. Morris unlike a great many other money kings had a great big patriotic soul in his breast.

It was when the fortunes of the Colonies were failing, when there were no money or means to buy ammunition and supplies for the struggling barefooted soldiers, Morris placed his entire fortune at the command of the American Government, every dollar was needed and used and the battle for freedom was won. Morris died in poverty and as far as known the Government has never reimbursed him for a penny. While it is a late day yet it is a very appropriate thing to do in the event there is a new county created at Brooklet that it be named after this seemingly forgotten hero.

Death of Judge Norwood.

The Bulloch county friends of Judge Thomas M. Norwood will learn with regret of his death, which occurred at his home near Savannah on Thursday night. Judge Norwood had lived to be a ripe old age. The deceased was a prominent figure in state and national politics. He served the state in the United States senate and in congress. He was one of the ablest men Georgia had when he was in the full possession of his faculties. His death is a distinct loss to the state.

Death of Mrs. Robertson.

Mrs. C. E. Robertson died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. Frank Hagan, near Hubert, on Monday after a long illness. The funeral was conducted by Revs. E. D. Horton, D. D., Mitchell and L. A. McLaughlin. The interment was at Hubert on Tuesday.

W. E. Dekle severs his connection with the Raines Hardware Co. July 1st to go with E. M. Anderson & Son. Mr. Dekle and wife will spend a fifteen days outing with friends and relatives in Florida before entering into new position. Mr. Anderson planned to have his son in law come with him the first of the year. However, on account of the business outlook it was postponed.

Miss Ada Wood has returned to her home at Adabelle, after a visit to Louisville this week to reside in the City Court for Judge Phillips.

the proposed new county of Candler will be a commonwealth in itself is based on the positive assertion of Editor Sills, who repeatedly asserts that 99 per cent of the people in the territory embraced are for the new county. Inasmuch as the current issue of the Stillmore News shows a sworn affidavit with 134 names of white voters from the Cobbtown district causes us to do some estimating. Suppose these 134 in the Cobbtown district composed all those who are against the Candler county scheme, and they made up the other one per cent, then the new county would have 13,340 white voters. Add to this the percentage of five to each head of family and you would have a population of 66,700 white population in the new county of Candler.

Add to this say fifty per cent colored population, then you have a county with 100,000 population. Suppose now, the same conditions shall exist in the other six militia districts then the new county of Candler, on the 99 per cent basis, would have a population of 700,000. The truth of the matter is only a very small percentage of the people outside of Metter are in favor of the new at all, and the man who asserts that 99 per cent are with it is telling a lie and everybody knows he is.

Negro Killed at Metter.

On Saturday night C. C. Hutchison, a negro, was fatally shot by Ben Wilkinson, a local constable at Metter. The negro died from the wounds on Monday morning. The time he shot the negro until he died on Monday, then he left and has not been heard of since, though it is thought he will be arrested in a few days.

There are several different statements about the cause of the killing, but from the best we can get it is said that the negro owed Mr. Ben Williams $2.50 and Mr. Wilkinson told him that he would give him fifty cents to collect it, and when he went to see the negro about getting it was when he killed him. What passed between them before the shooting could not be learned.

Hutchison was regarded as a good, law abiding negro in Metter. Some few years ago he ran a shop here, and from what we can learn he was a good negro.

Turner Introduces Metter's Bill.

The first new county bill to be introduced in the Georgia legislature is the one authorizing the creation of Candler county with Metter as the county site. The bill was introduced by Mr. A. A. Turner, one of the representatives from Bulloch. It was placed before the house on the first roll call made by the house, under which bills could be introduced. Bulloch coming well towards the head of the list Mr. Turner was given the opportunity to put the Metter bill in early.

In view of the fact that Mr. Turner published a signed statement in both the Bulloch county newspapers just before the election pledging himself to oppose this bill should it come up, makes it problematical as to what his attitude will be towards the bill when it comes up for passage. He would hardly vote for it under his signed statement as set out in the foregoing.

The legislature is flooded with new county bills. It is said that 23 have shown up. There seems to be a well defined movement on foot looking to the killing of all new county legislation. Many believe this will be the outcome of the new county fight now before the legislature.

Beware of using lemon on your vacation, as you may get in trouble. Esther James, colored, was vaccinated, and she had heard that lemon would kill it, so she goes around the corner and applies it. She was carried before Mayor Crouch Monday afternoon and he sentenced her to 20 days in the calaboose and ordered her carried to the city physician and given another dose.

J. D. Hagins was arrested on Tuesday charged with obstructing legal process. He was to have been given a preliminary on Wednesday afternoon, but waived it. He was bound over to the city court under $100 bond. He was also charged and bound over on a charge of cheating and swindling.

Mrs. Mollie Moore and daughter have returned to their home in Halseydale after spending a few days in Statesboro. She has been at the bedside of her daughter, Mrs. Juddie Wood, who is in the sanitarium.

S. & S. Excursion a Success

The best Sunday school picnic that was ever held from here was the one run by the S. & S. Railway. The crowd was not as large as was at first expected, but there was a good crowd. The trip was enjoyed by everybody that went. The service that the S. & S. gave the people was excellent. They left here on a special train and only made two stops between here and Savannah, arriving there on schedule time.

Upon arrival at Savannah the crowd boarded the steamer "Pilot Boy" and went to Daufuski Island, where a shop was made for dinner. After dinner the steamer was again boarded for the return trip on the way back. They went around the island and nine miles in the ocean, coming in by Tybee. While in the ocean the boat rocked a little and made some of them sea sick.

This was the first trip on a boat for a majority of the people, and everybody is well pleased and hope they will run it again before the end of the season. Best of all, this is the first excursion to Savannah and back where nobody got drunk. There was the best of order throughout the whole trip.

Brooklet Have Delegates in Atlanta.

Brooklet has a strong delegation in Atlanta working for the creation of Morris county, with Brooklet as the county site. The bill was introduced by Mr. N. L. Nevils, one of the representatives from Bulloch. Claxton and Stillmore have large delegations in Atlanta working for the new county movement.

Since the above was put in type the News has received the following telegram, which explains the situation:

Atlanta, Ga., June 27, 1913.

News, Statesboro, Ga.

Brooklet committee have quit fight and gone home. Both representatives turned them down. Fight on to kill all new counties seems to be going favorable, with prospects of success. Nineteen senators are said to be lined up against all. Two new counties may be made—one at Winder and one in the Metter and Stillmore territory, cutting line at Fifteen Mile Creek, in Bulloch, and Wat Creek in Tattnall, with selection of county seat left for Metter and Stillmore to fight over. Metter is certainly whipped on her straight proposition.

The many friends of Mr. J. S. Brown will regret to learn that he is confined to his bed from cancer. He has been suffering for some time, but it has grown worse.

Cols. A. M. Deal, J. E. Anderson and Editor J. B. Miller are in Atlanta taking a hand in things in the legislature.

Prof. E. J. O. Dickens has been in Atlanta during the week assisting Hon. J. Randolph Anderson in his fight for the presidency of the senate. He gave Mr. Anderson some valuable assistance in the race that brought him victory.

Meeting Postponed.

Owing to existing conditions in our town it was thought best to postpone the call for a woman's meeting at the school building announced in last week's paper. The idea of organizing a civic improvement association for Statesboro is meeting with great encouragement. Our women generally are very enthusiastic and anxiously awaiting to begin a long-expected work. At the present time there are few progressive towns which have not organizations of this kind working in harmony with the town officers for the uplift of humanity. Their workward is "service." They work for all that raises the standard of the community in cleanliness, beauty, intellectual growth, and general benevolence. In other words they strive to make life the more like living.

The time for a meeting to organize will be announced later.

Editor Sills Writes Threatening Letter.

One of Bulloch county's citizens received a very warm epistle from Editor F. H. Sills, of the Metter Advertiser, on Monday, and while the letter referred to could not be style either to be a kukin note or a black hand letter, yet it was a warm document.

It seems that a serious mistake
had been made by a lot of States-boro citizens in holding a meeting in the court house Saturday night without first having obtained the permission of Editor Sills to assemble.

We have not been permitted the pleasure of reading the famous document referred to, but from what they tell us of it it will probably go down in history as one of the famous state papers.

Mr. Sills has been spared the expense of employing a set of Burns detectives at a cost of $500 to seek and ferret out the names of those who assembled on this momentous occasion, as we are informed that the man to whom the letter was addressed
furnished the desired information
very promptly having the list with his own name.

Just what punishment Editor
Sills will deal out to the offenders
in this case cannot now be stated.
In fact we understand he has not yet fixed his mind on the exact mode of punishment.

It is hard to say whether they will be shot, guillotined, electrocuted or that they be hanged by the neck until dead. It all depends on what particular method of punishment that the new county of Candler will adopt in dealing with its criminal and insurgent elements, both within and without. It may be that Editor Sills
will put these offenders in stocks;
the method employed in the middle ages. He may string them up in rows for others to look at and take warning lest his wrath descend upon their heads also.

We are sure these fellows will never be guilty of holding a meeting again without first obtaining a permit from Editor Sills. Negotiations are now on looking to the obtaining of the first offense, and it is hoped this matter can be mediated
in some manner.

In the meantime everybody is walking on tip toes for fear the worst may come.

The Vidalia Advance will move
the capital to Macon as soon as it can stand the expense.

Crops are most promising. The farmers have grown piles of
"give at home" stuff. Close times has their blessings.

will have better results," suggests the Waycross Herald.

BLEASE SNUBED.

Columbia, S. C., June 24.—
Adj. Gen. W. W. Moore, of South Carolina, today received a telegram from Gen. A. L. Mills, chief of the division of militia affairs, United States army, informing him that no further federal assistance, either in personnel or equipment, will be afforded the organized militia of this state because of the attitude of Gov. Cole Blease toward the enforcement of federal militia law as expressed in letters recently written by the state executive to Adj. Gen.
Moore and the Secretary of war.
The telegram from Gen. Mills to the adjutant general was as follows:

"In accordance with action of war department this date taken in consequence of attitude of Governor of your state toward enforcement of federal militia law
as expressed in his letters of May 5 and 27 to you, and of June 11
to Secretary of War, no further federal assistance, either in personnel or equipment, will be afforded the organized militia of your state, nor will further expenditure of federal funds in hands of disbursing officer be used by Secretary of War except to cover such obligations as may have been already incurred and approved by Secretary of War.

"Requisition for property now on hand in militia division is approved and no further requisition will be honored. This information is telephoned to you in connection with plans for encampment of South Carolina organized militia this summer in order that you may be guided by such telegram and act accordingly. Disbursement officer has been informed of action by War Department.

Now, children," said "Hans Across The Sea." "I'll be teacher, listen to me.
Here's a sum to do,"—and he gaily smiled,
"Add one cup of RONA to each small child!"
Then a squeal of glee and a whoop of joy
Went up from every girl and boy;
And they shouted loudly, "Hooray! Hooray!
RONA forever! It's come to stay!"

LET YOUR LABOR DO
THE WORK

APPLICATION OF OLD IDEA.
For a long time we have had nurseries, where women leave their children while they go out to earn a living. Heretofore these nurseries have been patronized chiefly by mothers doing the more laborious and ill-paid kinds of work, but obviously the idea was capable of indefinite expansion, and so it is not surprising to find New York proposing to expand it so as to benefit the professional woman. It is the plan to establish a "baby garden," where teachers, writers and artists may leave their youngsters to be reared according to the most scientific notions of child culture, thus we shall see how Plato's idea, modified to the extent that the child will return to its home at night, works out in a small scale in ideal surroundings. The home may include the ideal place for the child, assuming always that it is the right home, but there is no use blinking the fact that many children can no longer be reared exclusively in homes, says the Chicago Record-Herald. The best substitute has to be found. Many unmarried women, as everybody knows, possess the true maternal instinct, while in many married women the maternal instinct is none too strong. Society is interested in fitting people into the niches where they belong, and this is as true of women as of men.

An English manufacturer has brought out a model motor car, which can be driven for miles through water four or five feet deep, in order to meet the rigid requirements of the tropical colonies in respect to motor cars which can be taken anywhere and everywhere. All electrical conduits, magnets and batteries are protected by special insulations, and extra lengths of pipe are attached to the exhaust pipe and to the intake manifold. When a car of this type is driven through five feet of water only the tip of the radiator and the seats show above the surface.

Congratulations to the young woman who has just learned that she has a longshore brother and that she is to share a $200,000 estate with him. Naturally she feels happy, and it is to her eternal credit that she puts the emphasis on the brother. She counts it as the first of her blessings that she is to see him. There are persons of a different type, who would be willing to share the estate without hurrying to meet the brother. There are others who would put the brother down to profit and loss at the net figure of $200,000.

If a man's thermometer registers a couple of degrees lower than the one owned by his neighbor, that convinces him that it is reliable, remarks the Philadelphia Ledger. Rather more than that is wanted by most men. The thermometer must register two degrees lower in cold weather and two degrees higher in hot. Which calls for more versatility on the part of the thermometer.

A Frenchman has invented an aeroplane which can be worked with leg power and thinks that when it is perfected it will enable a man to fly for half an hour with no more exertion than would be required in operating a bicycle. The device should be popular with aviators who would not permit them to mount as high as the present price of gasoline.

Ancient mythology is authority for the statement that the month of May gets its name from the mother of Mercury. Mercury seems to have remembered the fact this year, and to have felt warranted in getting high, but there have been other years in which the case was different.

At that, there is considerable logic in the argument of those easterners who are demanding that postmasters be elected, not appointed. True that the people should have something to say as to who shall send their postal cards.

In New Jersey a coal man was sent to jail. This is too late in the season, however, for hopeful excitement. If he had been an ice man there might have been cause for joy.

Chicago woman suing for divorce says she married on a bet. Don't see how she could call it a bet. To make a bet both sides must have a chance to lose.

A cat in a Connecticut town took her sick kitten to a veterinarian's office, left it there for treatment, called later and took it home. Why should all ungrateful feline animals show the inventive powers of the newfangled?

Boston minister advises girls of that city to arm themselves with canes in these mashing days. For those with hobbies the plan would doubtless prove doubly effective.

CLEVELAND.—The aura's the thing! Such is the latest verdict of seers.

If business associates get on each other's nerves and fail to get along, it is because of the aura, say the seers. If husbands and wives find domestic life becoming difficult, if young men find themselves in hot water with their fiancées, if the husband finds himself upset by the obnoxious personalities of certain pupils, it is all on account of the aura.

The individual is not to blame. The whole trouble is due to the antagonistic forces of the aura. The aura is the supreme and consummate trouble-maker of the world today. It is the subtlest mischief-maker known, because it has hitherto been unseen, except to the clairvoyant. It is the subtlest mischief-maker known, because it has hitherto been unseen, except to the clairvoyant. It is the subtlest mischief-maker known, because it has hitherto been unseen, except to the clairvoyant.

On the other hand, the aura is the invisible cause of many misadventures, fortunate business associations and enduring friendships. When two men go into business partnership, a peculiar aura surrounds them, and takes place which makes them both a power. Each finds himself subtly reinforced with a strength which was totally foreign to him before the partnership took place. What caused it? The aura.

A short time ago there came to Cleveland a man named Forest Cheney. He is variously designated as a concert violinist, voice teacher, inventor and deep student of occultism. He has invented a phonograph which has taken the musical world by the ears. Two years ago he had never given a thought to invention. Today he is declared by high authorities to have put together a voice reproducing contrivance which gives an absolutely perfect reproduction of the musical tone, with all its original overtones and its subtlest shading and quality. And Forest Cheney attributes his success to invention to an intelligent use of his aura.

The aura is described as the vibratory radiance of personal magnetism. To a few the aura is visible, in the form of vague, colored mist hovering about the head and body. Anna Beant, Madame Blavatsky and other occultists have claimed the ability to perceive the aura of any person they beheld. To most eyes, the magnetic aura is invisible, just as certain musical notes are either above or beneath the range of the auditory nerves, and as certain colors are beyond the sense of sight.

"There has just been invented in Paris," declares Cheney, "a device by means of which the human aura may be photographically reproduced upon a screen, rendering it visible to any eye. This step in advance will undoubtedly mean the entire transformation of human relations. It will eliminate the dangers of those elemental antagonisms, and will enable people to plan their business associations and marriages with scientific accuracy. Unseen, unconscious antagonisms between people find their sources in conflicting auras, and these may be absolutely avoided, once we are able to see the aura of each other. The quality of each other's aura. Relationship which must inevitably lead to disaster may be practically eliminated once we can see and know our own auras and those of others."

"The screen for picturing the aura will be of inestimable value in connection with criminology. Criminals and criminologists are already of the opinion that crimes are due to a large extent to physical and mental defects, to bad character, and will be going a big step farther along the same line of reasoning, if a jury can have a direct and obvious before it the aura of a criminal, and the aura's vitality. In many cases it may be definitely proved that when two auras come together, a deadly explosion occurred because of the severe antagonism of the magnetic radiations of the persons involved. There are cases in which no jury is justified in sending a murderer to the electric chair—if all the evidence were perceptible."

"On the other hand, there are cases of love at first sight. These cases would be readily explicable if we could see the aura of the two lovers. Magnetic radiations of such powerful action upon each other that they instantly united into one."

Here is a tip for a strictly scientific method of ascertaining the possibilities of mating people at a distance. If the headquarters of the agency could provide itself with "aura pictures," in addition to the usual photographs, if magnetic specifications could be added to physical and mental, not to say financial specifications, the business man, the premonition of the psychic, and the frequent safeguarding from harm which is so astounding to the uninitiated. Forest Cheney says that his aura is nothing but materialized mental consciousness, and invention is therefore an absurdly simple proposition when applied to the aura. He says that he is to develop and harness your aura, and that he can make you invisible and let it bring the facts you are searching for.

DANBURY'S CHOICE

Set All His Savings on a Rank Outsider With the Usual Result.

By CLIFTON HALLIDAY.

Danbury saw that the man was lying in the middle of the road, in imminent danger of being run down by the whirling automobiles that streamed each other in a never-ending stream to the Associate Reformed Presbyterian. There is not a congregation in my synod that is more loyal to our distinctive principles than Broad Street.

My first visit to the church was in the winter of 1860, and I never shall forget a thing that took place on the road to Lexington one very cold, frosty morning. My hostess, a Mrs. Lackey, was very much afraid that my host, Mr. Lackey, was a very cold, frosty fellow. She told me that she had never seen him before, and that she was very much afraid that he was a very cold, frosty fellow. She told me that she had never seen him before, and that she was very much afraid that he was a very cold, frosty fellow.

He munched the sandwiches greedily, and presently seemed so far removed from the world as to be almost unconscious. He stared at his reciter.

"Have they run the Victoria stakes yet?" he inquired.

"Not, I believe, till three o'clock," Danbury answered.

"Then help me to the course," he said. "I am a matter of thousands." He looked at Mr. Lackey.

MISTAKES MADE IN LIVES
Many Humorous Incidents Are Told About Persons Applying for Books.

The man who asked the bookkeeper for Professor Drummond's "Nux Vomica" when his mistress had sent him for "Faz Volucum," must have been a sort of mental cousin to the errand boy who asked for the bookkeeper's house counter for "The Little Monster," by the author of "The Widow's Thumbs." The man behind the counter knew his mistress sufficiently well to give him "The Little Monster." It was probably either a suitor or a house of common policeman who inquired for "The Sweetest to Conquer" from Goldsmith's masterpiece under a somewhat similar title was required, and it is, at least, as probable that the man who asked for "The History of the Uninhabited Islands of the Pacific, by One of the Natives," was returning from a missionary meeting.

"That horse is yours," ejaculated Danbury.

"My very kind of him. And now I'm going to make your fortune," he replied. "Listen!"

"Ten years ago Silver King was a Derby winner. He was a horse of his name was then. He was mine, and I won ninety thousand pounds on him. It went in wine, women and song. He was a horse of his name was then. He was mine, and I won ninety thousand pounds on him. It went in wine, women and song."

"Day by day I raced him until his limbs had grown supple again. He knew me from the first; we loved each other. He was a horse of his name was then. He was mine, and I won ninety thousand pounds on him. It went in wine, women and song."

"What was his first career?" asked a Harvard carman.

"He was a horse of his name was then. He was mine, and I won ninety thousand pounds on him. It went in wine, women and song."

PROFIT FROM PECANS

Cultivation on Commercial Scale is of Recent Date.

Method of Close Planting Has Been Found to Give Largest Crop With Certainty of Bearing Each Year.

One of the great sources of wealth in the pecan grove. Roughly estimated, these groves produce every year something like four thousand tons of marketable nuts, which, when brought to shipping points, sell for an average of ten cents a pound.

The purpose of this inventor is to provide a new and improved corn planter, arranged to plant or drill a plurality of rows at one time, to properly prepare the ground for the reception of the seeds and to subsequently cover the seeds to insure ready germination thereof. Four rows can be planted at once and the seed-containing vessels can be readily removed and refilled when necessary.

Danger of Poor Ventilation.
If you want your sheep to die, shut them up in a tight pen where they cannot move about much and stuff them at the right time in the garden corners for more than it does anywhere else on the farm, since garden crops will not grow where they are so very serviceable, and saving of hand labor, are a planter and marker, says the Farmers' Mail and Breeder. Both are homemade affairs, the drawings herewith showing the plan of constructing them. Use the planter and marker as shown, and your crops will be sown and harrowed, just as if by machinery.

TREATMENT FOR LUMPY JAWS
Most Satisfactory Way is to Remove the Growth With Knife When in the Tissues Only.

(By G. G. GRAHAM.)

The most satisfactory way of treating lumpy jaws is to remove the growth with the knife when in the tissues only. The animal is then held in a favorable position, the skin is cut over the growth, and the growth is removed by cutting around it in the healthy tissues. If hemorrhage is large the vessel may be tied or taken up with a forceps. The wound is then closed with a needle and thread. The animal is then held in a favorable position, the skin is cut over the growth, and the growth is removed by cutting around it in the healthy tissues.

St. Vitus a Turkey Trotter?
If Gerald du Maurier is to be believed, the "one-step" and "two-step" and the other ragtime dances are only variations of the oldest dance in the world, that named after St. Vitus. We do not care to endorse this assertion, but it is quite possible that the future historian will regard the contemporary man for ragtime from which the turkey trot was made as we look on the Tarantula or dancing mania of the middle ages.

According to European figures the fatalities now attending aviation hardly exceed one death for each 100,000 miles flown, as compared with one for each one thousand miles three years ago.

St. Vitus a Turkey Trotter?
If Gerald du Maurier is to be believed, the "one-step" and "two-step" and the other ragtime dances are only variations of the oldest dance in the world, that named after St. Vitus. We do not care to endorse this assertion, but it is quite possible that the future historian will regard the contemporary man for ragtime from which the turkey trot was made as we look on the Tarantula or dancing mania of the middle ages.

Unique Sultana.
A safe was used by a man named Jacob Rabinowitz, fifty-four years old, of Philadelphia, Penn., to commit suicide, a few days ago. First he jammed up an 800 pound safe with a block of wood. Placing the safe in the water, he jumped on it as tightly as he could around his neck. Then he knocked the block from under the safe and the heavy, four-wheeled safe sank. He was found by his wife, but died before a physician arrived. He had been despondent for several weeks because he lost a lawsuit.

Catching Flies Pays Well.
Catching flies is a profitable and independent living. He sells them to the city board of health. His name is Bartsch, and his net revenue from the fly industry for the first two days of recent week was $24.00. From the fly board he had offered premiums for the flies, dead or alive. Bartsch purchased about 100 flies and placed them in fly-ridden sections of the city. Then he began making inroads on the health board's exchequer, and was soon making a profit. The market price down from 50 cents to 20 cents a quart, for it is by that measure that the board purchases them. Bartsch was working, and he was a winner. He was to work as long as the treasury holds out. He finds fly catching pays.

Mr. Turner Explains His Vote

In the last issue of a local paper appeared a card last week signed by the Hon. A. A. Turner, in which the gentleman who occupies one of the seats accredited to Bulloch county in the Georgia Legislature, attempts to justify before the eyes of an outraged constituency his recent face-about and explains in some manner why it was that he went back on his published promise to the people.

Mr. Turner admits that he was under promise to the people to vote against the new county at Metter, but says that he stood for the majority rule, and he was convinced by talking to the people before he left, and by letters from "influential people," that the people had changed their minds until 75 per cent of the people of the county wanted a division made of the old county. Now this is interesting news to the folks at home.

In his first race, Mr. Turner did not make a direct statement as to his position on the new county question, and he won by the narrow margin of one vote. He got that after his opponent had been outraged at several precincts and extreme partiality shown, when the polls had been held open thirty-six minutes longer than the law allowed at Metter, and practically a solid vote being polled there made the folks suspicious of him. In the second race, he needed votes sufficiently bad to make it necessary to apparently change his front and put a signed statement in both county papers declaring himself against the new county. In that race he beat his opponent 311 votes, or just 310 more after he declared against the new county than he did before. In other words, the written statement that he ignored secured for him 310 more after he declared against the new county than he did before.

This looked like new county sentiment, didn't it. The truth of the matter is Mr. Turner was at heart in favor of Metter at the time he published his card in the two newspapers, and the card was put in to fool the people with. The folks at Metter seemed to have been put wise and gave him even a more solid vote than before, while a lot of blockheads all over the county said, "Ab Turner was a man of his word," and they voted for him believing he would stick by what he said.

Now, Mr. Turner, if publishing a card before the election that you were against the new county at Metter secured for you 310 votes additional, then tell us what is it that happened after the election that caused the people to change to the extent of 75 per cent? Can you name a single man who is for Metter now who was not for it when you received those 310 additional votes by declaring against it?

The truth of the matter is Mr. Turner received most of his store of information from a man named Sills, who has proven himself the biggest liar since creation's dawn. Mr. Turner no doubt believed the story of 170 pledged representatives that turned out to be 33. Mr. Turner is the first man who ever represented Bulloch county in the Georgia Legislature who openly violated his solemnly signed and published pledge to the people. It is a distinction to which he enjoys the full credit, and one that is anything but a creditable one.

He made a solemn pledge to the people. They took him at his word and trusted him. He violated that trust, and it is he who will be held responsible for its violation. His pledge was definite and he stood bound by it until the people by some definite action relieved him. This they never did, and his effort to justify it by an opinion that the people had changed is placing a rather low estimate on the people who sent him to Atlanta.

If Mr. Turner was so sure that 75 per cent of the people of the county favored the Metter cut it would be interesting to know why it was that he turned down Senator Parish's proposition to submit the question to the voters of the old county. On this proposition Mr. Turner is quoted as replying that he would oppose for the reason that Metter would never get a majority of the votes of Bulloch county to give it to her. Yet Mr. Turner feels that 75 per cent are in favor of it to the extent of justifying him to change his written, signed and published position.

Our friends at Metter can now figure out just what the profit and loss is on a deal where a weak man is expected to render assistance to carry out a secret promise in direct antagonism of a written, signed and published pledge. They took encouragement over the election of Mr. Turner, not withstanding the fact that he was publicly pledged against them. Immediately following his election they began to organize and expend large sums of money on the fight, pinning their faith on the ability of a man to deliver who was without legislative experience or acquaintance with public men and public measures. Coupled with these disabilities was the certainty of his pledge to the contrary meeting him face to face—the same being in black and white, signed and published. That this would not be expensive to the cause could not have been disputed by any sane set of men.

They also pinned their faith to the coat tail of a man who claimed that he had been able to fix the Georgia legislature to the extent that he had 170 votes out of a possible 184 pledged. They also swallowed his story about the lack of influence of the opposition and his ability to "publish the record of a certain dead politician and run him out of Atlanta."

Yes, all these fairy stories were swallowed like a child takes warm candy, but they can now see more clearly, as before they were looking through a glass darkly. They have seen their hard earned dollars gulped up by a set of lobbyists gone solo employment for ten years has been to fasten unfair legislation on the common people of the state.

Yes, they reaped as above by the folly of following men one of whom being pledged against them, and the other one whose stock in trade was hot air.

Sheriff's Race Will Be Warm

Judging from present indications the race for sheriff will be the chief contest of the next county primary. Sheriff Donaldson will have served his second term on the record round, having served two terms several years ago, and come back for two more, making him eight years of service. It is not believed he will be an aspirant for another term at this time. In fact it was a protest against the long term idea that featured his campaign three years ago, but there are a number of others who are expressing a willingness to serve the dear people as arresting and levying officer. Among those mentioned are: W. H. DeLoach, the popular and obliging conductor on the S. & S. Ry. Mr. DeLoach made the statement a few days ago that it was his intention to make the race. He is a good man and will make a good race.

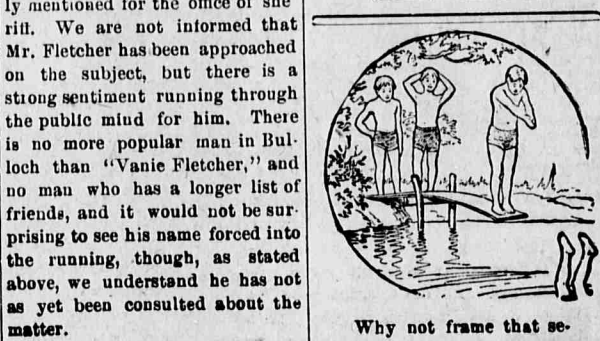

Next in order of running is Mr. B. T. Mallard, one of the prominent farmers of the upper part of the county. Mr. Mallard served as deputy sheriff for quite a while, and possesses all the qualifications for an efficient officer.

as when let run at large. Second—Our range is so depleted that we can't raise stock, even if let run at large, without feeding them.

Third—Our timber for fencing is about exhausted, and there is nothing to fence with but bought wire, which cost too much.

Fourth—Our stock will be much better when raised in pastures than when allowed to run at large. I have this year one acre that I made rich in February, planted in rape. After the rape was pastured as long as it could be used for that purpose, I let the same acre grow up in crab grass. I have about twenty head of hogs that has lived on this acre all the while, except four weeks, and they are now good pork, and the acre has plenty to feed them until probably Sept. 15th, at which time I can give them another pasture until 1 can re-sow this acre in rape or wheat for my winter pasture.

Wilson Favors No Fence Law

Mr. Editor: While the legislature is now in session, and we hear of quite a lot of new laws that are being enacted. Still there are very few of these laws that appear to be of any benefit to the farmer. As far as we are concerned, we would be about as well off if they were not made laws.

I think that the proper thing for us to do would be for the farmers to either meet together and discuss different things that if enacted into laws would be of a general benefit to them; or if they cannot meet together for this purpose, then let them exchange their ideas on the papers of our county.

I feel sure that the papers would be glad to give each man space enough to express his ideas on different subjects, whether for or against any proposition that might be advanced, and doing so, let us do this with the clear and distinct understanding that the farmer who may advance an idea, or propose any subject, is not trying to make, or compel any one else to agree with him, but merely advances the subject to get the ideas of his different fellow farmers, and to see what their wishes would be on the subject that he has in mind. It might be that, after hearing the objections of others, that the one who advanced the proposition to be made into local law would himself be opposed to it.

So, now, with this understanding, I am going to suggest that we take up the matter of a no fence law for Bulloch county, and will ask as many as will do so to let us have just a short card from each one who is interested, and give his views on the subject. Whether it will be to the interest of the farmer or not, it strikes me now that it will be to our interest to fence our stock and leave our fields open. I will give you my reasons for thinking so.

First—In 1911 I had a man on my farm who penned his hogs in a small pen in the head of a branch. Did not allow the hogs to run out at all, and he raised and had on hand in August at least $200 worth of hogs, while those around him who let hogs run out did not have half that many. The hog that is penned will not eat half as much as the one allowed to run at large, and the expense is not as much to raise the hog when penned as when let run at large. Second—Our range is so depleted that we can't raise stock, even if let run at large, without feeding them. Third—Our timber for fencing is about exhausted, and there is nothing to fence with but bought wire, which cost too much. Fourth—Our stock will be much better when raised in pastures than when allowed to run at large. I have this year one acre that I made rich in February, planted in rape. Wilson Favors No Fence Law

Mr. Editor: While the legislature is now in session, and we hear of quite a lot of new laws that are being enacted. Still there are very few of these laws that appear to be of any benefit to the farmer. As far as we are concerned, we would be about as well off if they were not made laws.

I think that the proper thing for us to do would be for the farmers to either meet together and discuss different things that if enacted into laws would be of a general benefit to them; or if they cannot meet together for this purpose, then let them exchange their ideas on the papers of our county.

I feel sure that the papers would be glad to give each man space enough to express his ideas on different subjects, whether for or against any proposition that might be advanced, and doing so, let us do this with the clear and distinct understanding that the farmer who may advance an idea, or propose any subject, is not trying to make, or compel any one else to agree with him, but merely advances the subject to get the ideas of his different fellow farmers, and to see what their wishes would be on the subject that he has in mind. It might be that, after hearing the objections of others, that the one who advanced the proposition to be made into local law would himself be opposed to it.

So, now, with this understanding, I am going to suggest that we take up the matter of a no fence law for Bulloch county, and will ask as many as will do so to let us have just a short card from each one who is interested, and give his views on the subject. Whether it will be to the interest of the farmer or not, it strikes me now that it will be to our interest to fence our stock and leave our fields open. I will give you my reasons for thinking so.

First—In 1911 I had a man on my farm who penned his hogs in a small pen in the head of a branch. Did not allow the hogs to run out at all, and he raised and had on hand in August at least $200 worth of hogs, while those around him who let hogs run out did not have half that many. The hog that is penned will not eat half as much as the one allowed to run at large, and the expense is not as much to raise the hog when penned as when let run at large. Second—Our range is so depleted that we can't raise stock, even if let run at large, without feeding them. Third—Our timber for fencing is about exhausted, and there is nothing to fence with but bought wire, which cost too much. Fourth—Our stock will be much better when raised in pastures than when allowed to run at large. I have this year one acre that I made rich in February, planted in rape. After the rape was pastured as long as it could be used for that purpose, I let the same acre grow up in crab grass. I have about twenty head of hogs that has lived on this acre all the while, except four weeks, and they are now good pork, and the acre has plenty to feed them until probably Sept. 15th, at which time I can give them another pasture until 1 can re-sow this acre in rape or wheat for my winter pasture.

Let us hear from you on the no fence question. PLANTER.

At Statesboro, Ga., by The Statesboro News Publishing Company.

To the Patrons:

I desire to announce that school will begin on Monday, September 1st. It is hoped that all pupils will be ready to enter on the first day. This is a very important day for the children of this city. Every child in Statesboro within the school age should be in school. Catalogues may be had from Mr. W. B. Johnson, City Recorder. A catalogue should be preserved in every home in Statesboro. Get one and read it, and take an interest in the school whether you have children to enter or not. The school is your property.

On the first Friday in August there will be examinations given at the school building for all pupils who are behind in their work and have not received their promotion card. A year may be gained by studying and getting ready for this examination. Another examination will be given during the first week in September, but if you take this one in August you will still have the chance to take the examination in August.

Very truly yours,
C. E. Usher, Supt.

NEW SEABOARD EQUIPMENT.

Modern in Every Respect and Equipped with the Very Best

The Seaboard Air Line has placed in service on all through trains the handsomest diners ever built. The cars are conducive to cool traveling as well as to safety. Paddle fans really cool the passengers without buzzing. The tile floor is cool, sanitary and does not contain odors as carpets do. The sunken electric lights give sufficient light without being glaring, and the ventilation of these modern cars removes the stinging of summer. The service is a la carte, offering the best the market affords.

In addition to this they have also put in service new steel coaches, elaborately finished, which makes them the pioneers in solid steel trains operating in the south.

For full information relative to Seaboard schedules, etc., write C. W. Small, D. P. A., Savannah, Ga.

We would like for the public to see what fine shape our ginnery is in for the coming ginning season. Mr. J. C. Winder, our superintendent, would like to show you through the mill.

SCHOLARSHIPS FREE.

The Bulloch County Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy has several scholarships that are to be given to worthy boys that are lineal descendants of a Confederate veteran.

All applications for these scholarships must be at least 17 years of age, must be able to pass the entrance examination for the college for which they apply; must specify the scholarship applied for; must be well recommended by your last teacher and two Confederate veterans.

We regret very much that we are behind in advertising our scholarships, but hope to award every one. They are from the following colleges:

Agnes Scott, Decatur, $75.00
Wesleyan Female, Macon, 70.00
Brenau, Gainesville, 80.00
2-Cox, College Park, each, 80.00
Georgia Military, Milledgeville, 50.00
Miss Woodberry's School, Atlanta, 150.00
Donald Fraser School for boys, Decatur, 112.00
Osborne's Business College, 14.00
regular tuition in the commercial department.

Several other schools and colleges write us that they will be delighted to co-operate with us, but as we do not know now just how much they are going to give, will not add the names to the list until next week.

Remember that you must be a lineal descendant of such man as served honorably in the Confederate army, navy or civil service, or of those men, wait for active duty, who legally gave aid to the cause.

DOUBLE KILLING AT MILLEN

Divorced Wife Awaits Coming of Former Husband and Wife at Postoffice and Shoots Both to Death.

Millen, Ga., August 18, 1913.

Judge Walter S. Godbee and wife were shot to death in the postoffice at this place this morning at nine o'clock by Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee, the divorced wife of Judge Godbee.

The judge and his young wife, a woman of twenty-five years of age, were accustomed to coming to the postoffice together after their mail after the arrival of the morning train from Savannah.

They were boarding at the Hotel Estelle, in the same building where the postoffice is located.

They were living there in retirement, the judge having an "income" that made it unnecessary for him to engage in active business.

Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee had taken her position in the postoffice when the judge and his young wife came in and got their mail, passing by the other woman as they started to leave the building.

As they passed, she drew a .32 calibre Smith & Wesson pistol and fired two shots into the back of the young woman.

The judge hearing the shots, looked back over his shoulder, and seeing his young wife start to fall, threw his arm around her waist as if to protect her from the fusillade of bullets.

This enraged the woman who was doing the shooting, who sent three bullets into her divorced husband, killing him instantly, both husband and wife falling through the door onto the sidewalk.

Mrs. Edna Perkins Godbee walked past them, apparently stepping over their prostrate forms, and emptied the last bullet in her pistol into the form of the young woman, who was then lying motionless on the street towards her home.

She was met by a man—a long friend of the family—who exclaimed: "My God, Mrs. Godbee, what have you done?"—the man rushing on to where the dying couple lay.

Sheriff Johnson, of Jenkins county, was standing a short distance away, talking to some ladies, when his attention was called by the reports from the pistol.

He looked across the street and saw what had happened. He followed the woman who had done the shooting up the street, and overtaking her, told her: "Mrs. Godbee, I will have to take charge of you."

She turned and walked towards him, handing him the smoking pistol that had done the deadly work.

She was locked up in the county jail and has retained counsel. She refuses to talk for the newspapers.

Judge Godbee died almost instantly, but his young wife lived several hours, and died during the night on Monday.

Public sentiment seems to be divided on the matter, both sides having strong

Cotton Is Pouring In

The cotton market has opened up in full blast for the season of 1913-14, about thirty bales being received here last Saturday, and a few bales each day during the week.

The absence of farmers in town during the week indicates that they are busy gathering the field staple.

Loaded wagons with cotton pickers going out early every morning and returning at nightfall is also an indication that there is something doing in the fields. Prices are ranging at eleven cents and above.

Death of Morgan Deal.

The friends of Col. and Mrs. A. M. Deal will regret to learn of the death of their one-year-old son, Ewel Morgan, on last Sunday afternoon, at their home near here.

The little fellow had been a sufferer from fever for the past two or three weeks. The funeral was from the Presbyterian church on Monday morning.

The services were conducted by Rev. L. A. McLaurin, the pastor, and the interment was in the family lot in East Side cemetery.

No Fence Question Being Agitated.

Judging from current comment one of the early issues that will be brought before the people of Bulloch county will be the question of fence or no fence.

A prominent farmer living a few miles from town was in the city one day during the week looking up the law on the question of fencing.

He was asked the question of fencing and he answered: "I don't know."

Notice

To Our Customers and Friends:

THE STATESBORO MERCANTILE COMPANY believes that the time is at hand when they should impress upon their customers the financial conditions existing at present.

Times have never before been so straitened in our section as they are now, and the demand for caution on every hand was never so great.

The obligation rests on the individual as well as the business man to exercise every precaution until this condition is overcome, and the people of the country are once again on their feet.

Our country is just beginning to emerge from this condition which has oppressed every citizen almost without exception. It is with the view of assisting, as far as we are able, in the solution of this condition that we have thought best to adopt the following plan:

Beginning the first of September we have decided to conduct our business through the fall on a strictly cash basis. We deem this step best for our customers and our own interest, as unlimited credit has been the bane of our country. Debts have been contracted in prosperous times that have been a burden hard for us to bear.

Our friends are realizing this now, and we are also realizing it with them. The longer this is allowed to continue the harder will be the burden on them and us.

Now, if our friends will consider this matter in the right light they will realize that our decision will be for their mutual benefit. The natural result of this is that we will be able to sell our goods at closer margins, which will mean money saved to our customers and also benefit to us.

We appreciate the generous business which has been accorded us in the past, and we have endeavored to show our appreciation by careful and courteous attention to every detail of our business. We do not wish to lose a single one of our customers, whose patronage we deeply appreciate, and we do not believe that one of them will fail to see the correctness of our stated intention in conducting our business during the coming fall.

We shall be in better shape than ever to serve the public, and respectfully solicit the continuance of past favors. Yours truly, STATESBORO MERCANTILE CO.

The Millen Tragedy.

The unfortunate double killing at Millen on Monday morning has stirred the state from one end to the other. It was one of those occurrences that is liable to happen in any community, and is not peculiar to the peaceful little city in which it was enacted.

The fact that the woman who did the horrible act still keeps her lips sealed,—keeps the public guessing as to the reasons for the commission of the deed. Judging from newspaper reports and from accounts furnished by people familiar with the circumstances leading up to the killing of Judge Godbee, Walter S. Godbee and his young wife at the hands of his former wife, who had been divorced, we glean about the following:

Judge Godbee, a young man practically without means, married Miss Edna Perkins, then a young woman possessing considerable property; this being thirty years ago. Judge Godbee used his wife's money, and succeeded in accumulating a snug little fortune by his judicial management, the proceeds being invested in property made in his own name.

Time wore on, and an altercation occurred between the judge and his wife's brother. The result was the killing of the brother-in-law at the hands of Judge Godbee. This brought estrangement between himself and wife, the sister of the man he had killed.

Children had been born to the pair and they were the means of reconciliation, but after a few years another separation occurred and a suit for alimony, followed by a suit for the property which was the accumulation of her property was won by Judge Godbee.

After this, Mrs. Edna Godbee again sought reconciliation, but her overtures were turned down by the judge. Her letters were returned to her unopened. Following this, her divorced husband went North and married a handsome young woman at Williamsport, Pa. He brought her to Millen, and lived with her in splendor, boarding at the leading hotel, while his divorced wife was in financial straits, living in a cottage a short distance away in the same town. The divorced wife saw before her every day her divorced husband lavishing on a young wife the income which her own property had earned, while she was in want. This was more than she could bear, and, taking the law into her own hands, she stood on Monday morning at the little postoffice, where she knew they would come together for their mail, and when they turned to walk away she put three steel bullets in each of them, snuffing out their lives, and she is now confined in the county jail, awaiting trial for a double murder.

That the act was premeditated cannot be disputed, but there are extenuating circumstances, no doubt, and we understand that public sentiment is divided. No doubt, the circumstances were trying to the deceased woman, but they did not justify murder. It is unfortunate, especially, that the innocent young woman should have been made to pay the penalty of the wrongdoings of her husband if indeed there had been such.

The woman, who is now in jail, has sent two souls out of the full enjoyment of life into eternity without a moment's warning, and she has wrecked her own life. Even if a jury should acquit her tomorrow, she has paid an awful price for her insane jealousy,—she has secured revenge, but at such an awful cost as to rob it of any sweetness that there may be in it. The public will await the result of the trial with deep interest.

Farmers Talking Fair.

That the farmers of Bulloch county are in dead earnest and intend to have a big fair this fall is evidenced by the expressions of those who have been coming in here for the past week. Among them are Mr. W. H. H. Rushing, who says the Sink Hole District is going to show the boys of the balance of the county a few points by showing some of the finest specimens of farm products ever shown at a fair.

Mr. Rushing says he has six different varieties of corn, some with ears fifteen inches long, and that one of his neighbors says he will show the mammoth sweet potato of Bulloch.

Mr. George W. Bowen, of the same neighborhood, says he has fifteen acres of fine prolific corn with several ears on the stalk, and eight ears of the mammoth ears of the Shaw's improved variety. He will have samples of his corn at the fair.

Mr. W. J. Tankersley was also in town and said he was going to make a one farm display at the fair. He was enthused and predicts a fine fair, and thinks all the farmers ought to take a hand.

Mr. W. C. Thomas states that he has a lot of fine stock growing which he intends to exhibit—has big ears of corn, fine stalks of cotton, big pumpkins and other good things galore.

Mr. Herbert Franklin, the live stock man, states that he will have equalities good if not a better display of live stock, poultry and farm products than he had last year.

Mr. H. I. Waters says he is going after some of them with the finest yield of short cotton. He will also exhibit at the fair and show the boys what can be done on just one acre of good Bulloch county soil.

Col. A. M. Deal is growing mammoth pumpkins and other things in proportion.

Mr. F. E. Fields is growing some good stuff, and so are a hundred others. The fair this fall will be a hummer.

Overstreet Laying Plans.

Hon. J. W. Overstreet, of Sylva, was in Statesboro last Saturday for a short while. Mr. Overstreet came over for the purpose of examining into the affairs of the first district agricultural school, he having recently been appointed a trustee, representing Screven county on the board. He stated to a News reporter that he found things in the top shape at the school, and was highly pleased with its work.

When asked if the report to the effect that he would make the race for congress in this district was true, he answered that he had engaged in making his plans to that end. Both he and Congressman Edwards have long lists of friends in Bulloch, and the fight for this county would be close.

Bridge Committee Calls on Commissioners.

On Tuesday a large delegation of citizens interested in the completion of the crossway leading to the new steel bridge at Dover called on the board of county commissioners, it being their regular meeting day. In addition to the Bulloch county contingent there was a large delegation from the Screven side of the river. They asked that the road forces now finishing the work on the approaches to the new steel bridge at Rocky Ford be moved to the Dover bridge and make for us at that point as good a crossing as they have made at Rocky Ford.

Some questions were raised as to what Screven was going to do about fixing the crossing on the other side of the river. The board were assured by the Screven people present that they had the promise of their commissioner to do this work in a short time, and that in the meantime the citizens of Dover would build the crossways in passable condition. The committee were given the promise that the gang would be moved to that point as soon as the work at Rocky Ford was finished.

Oglesby-Fordham.

On the evening of the 14th inst., Mr. Ben J. Fordham and Miss Sarah Floy Oglesby were united in the holy state of matrimony by Rev. Jere Howard, at his home.

The couple were the recipient of many pleasant compliments from their friends, and a pleasant home for the present tendered them by the big-hearted family of G. W. Howard.

IMPEACHMENT PROCEEDINGS AGAINST JUDGE SPEER

Federal Judge After Thirty Years' Service to Be Tried for Misconduct in Office.

Dispatches from Washington state that impeachment proceedings have been preferred against Judge Emory Speer, of the Southern District of Georgia. The proceedings were brought by the department of justice, which sent special agents to Georgia to look into the record and conduct of the Judge. Serious charges are preferred, which if sustained, will remove him from the bench. Among other things charged is his mismanagement of the power lodged in him as touching certain bankruptcy cases which have gone through his court, among them being the famous W. A. Huff case in Macon. This has gained considerable notoriety throughout the country, an estate of seventy thousand dollars being put up practically indefinitely, until the expense will practically destroy it. Judge Speer is charged with presiding in cases where his own law is an attorney on a contingent fee. He is charged with general arrogance and with being a cocaine user. The news from Washington caused no surprise in Georgia, as it was known that the government had out special agents investigating his conduct.

Gunners Organize.

On last Thursday all the gunners of the county met at Statesboro for the purpose of fixing a price to gin for cash. The meeting opened as follows: P. R. McElveen, chairman; L. A. Warnock, secretary. After discussing every part thoroughly Mr. J. M. Hendrix made a motion that all the gunners gin for 35c per 100. This was met with a second and carried.

It was also agreed that all have cash only for their work, no charging at all. The date for next meeting first Monday in September.

The following gunners signed their name to the above: The Blitch Ellis Mfg Co., Statesboro, Ga.; Brooklet Ginnery, Brooklet, Ga.; J. M. Hendrix, Aaron, Ga.; W. H. Sharpe, Haleyondale, Ga.; C. C. DeLoach, Brooklet, R. 1; Nierz Hagan, Statesboro, R. 4; L. A. Brannan, Pulaski, Ga.; J. S. Riggs, Register, Ga.; Z. Lewis, Eldon, Bryan Co.; J. S. Edwards, Blitchton, Bryan county.

D. W. Jones, Statesboro, R. 6; W. A. Akins, Statesboro, R. 1; DeWitte Boyd, Statesboro, R. 1; A. K. DeLoach, Metter, R. 1; J. A. Edenfield Gin Co., Statesboro, R. 2; John A. Lanier, Metter, R. 1; F. F. Smith, Brooklet, Ga.; Oak Grove Gin Co., Haleyondale.

H. A. Edenfield, Haleyondale; Jasper Davis, Metter, R. 1; M. S. Reising & Son, Statesboro; P. R. McElveen, Arcola; D. M. Beasley, Silston.

We understand the gunners have not been collecting and are losing money. Some are carrying over half their profit—say $1,000 or more.

Superintendent's Corner

Patrons of the local school districts get busy and make your tax levy before the last of August. The time for such levy to be made will be the last of August.

The Mill Creek school came to close on last Friday with appropriate exercises. Prof. F. E. Turner and Miss Mary E. Ebnitt were teachers for the term. This was the first term ever taught in the new Mill Creek school.

Col. Hartwell, of Statesboro, made an address in the morning and in the evening appropriate exercises were rendered by the pupils of the school.

Prof. Turner has been employed to teach the school again next year.

We have only two schools in operation for whites in the county at this time. They will probably operate the summer through.

There are more than fifty petitions out getting the approval of the voters to have the ordinary call an election for county tax for school purposes. Think the matter over and be ready to render your approval when the opportunity comes. This is an important matter, and it is hoped that it will meet with the approval of all concerned.

If the patrons of the schools that have not re-elected trustees to succeed those whose terms expired June 30, 1913, do not elect new men soon the board will appoint the one year men for a term of three years and mail them commissions. Please attend to this matter the next time you have a school meeting.

The Beaver Pond school closed on August 8th, after a very successful term, taught under Prof. B. H. Ramsey, who formerly taught the Register high school. The patrons of the community are well pleased with the work done. At the noon hour a dinner was spread by the ladies of the community sufficient to have fed two such crowds. In the afternoon an address by Col. Hartwell entertained the patrons and citizens of that section. Also a talk by Prof. Ramsey was an enjoyable occasion.

Prof. Ramsey has decided to leave Bulloch county and cast his lot with our sister county, Screven. He will be principal of Newington high school for nine months.

HARRY K. THAW ESCAPES

Slayer of Stanford White Dashes by Guards at Mattewan Prison

Escape in Powerful Automobile—Is Captured in Canada.

Harry K. Thaw, perhaps the most noted criminal in the United States, made good his escape from Mattewan asylum for the criminal insane in New York state on Monday morning. Thaw had been given liberties accorded a trusty and was lurking in the asylum yard when the guard opened the gate to allow a milk man to drive in. Thaw dashed by the guard, leaped into a powerful automobile that was awaiting him and dashed off for the Connecticut line at the rate of seventy miles an hour. Pursuit was made, but to no avail. Thaw was later captured in Canada and will be deported as an undesirable citizen under the immigration laws of Canada.

A big legal battle will follow, and the millions of the Thaw family will be used to prevent his return to the Mattewan asylum. He was acquitted of the murder of Stanford White about seven years ago on the ground of insanity, and was committed to the state asylum for the criminal insane on this charge. Repeated efforts have been made, and large sums of money expended in efforts to free him from this prison, but until his dash by the guards and milkman this week he has never been able to get out.

There is considerable doubt as to whether the mere charge of insanity will justify extradition papers or not, and if the Canadian government should land Thaw in New York state there is doubt as to whether they can bring him across the state line or not.

U. D. C. Scholarships.

I desire to urge those that want to secure a free scholarship to make a strenuous effort during the coming week to get their applications in.

There are many indigent descendants of Confederate veterans who are seeking an education and find it just beyond them. The need of these scholarships is imperative. Education is one of our objects. In the fulfillment we have never faltered nor failed. Remember this work is not for ourselves, but for others. So don't have the erroneous impression that you must support the U. D. C. in any way. But for every scholarship that we award, the state division gives us credit for the amount of the scholarship, and by managing in this way, we have more finance left to help the needy veterans. So we are anxious to dispose of all our scholarships, and to do this we will be glad to give them to any descendant of a veteran, if they are worthy in every way.

In conclusion, I wish to inform you that if we award as many as four scholarships, this chapter will give to the boy or girl making the highest average a gold medal. Your report cards will first be sent to the chairman of our scholarship committee.

BARREL OF WHISKEY STOLEN

Two Negroes Arrested for Stealing a Barrel of Booze from S. & S.
Railway Freight Car.

As a consequence of a rather unusual amount of glorification going on among the colored population, both male and female,
down on what is known as "The Sling," officers got wise to the fact that there was something dead
up the branch.

A search revealed the remnants of a barrel of booze which contained 275 half pints, which had been stolen from a through car on the Savannah and Statesboro Railway, en route from Savannah to Augusta.

Son Day and Walter Stewart
were placed under arrest charged with breaking a car and taking from it a barrel of whiskey.

It seems that the two negroes,
after stealing the whiskey, employed a negro drayman to carry it off for them. The contract was that the drayman was to haul a trunk, but a barrel was placed on the dray instead of a trunk.

On account of the back trail passage directed by the two negroes, the boy driving the dray became suspicious and dumped the barrel of booze.

This necessitated a strenuous

Hon. J. R. Anderson

Operated On.

Savannah, Dec. 9.—Hon. J. Randolph Anderson, who has been ill
at the Savannah hospital since Saturday, was today, at 12 o'clock,
operated on for appendicitis.

This afternoon it was stated that the operation was entirely successful and that Mr. Anderson was doing well.

It was only yesterday that it was found necessary to operate.

Car Load of Mules.

We have just received another carload of fine farm mules, which we are offering at reasonable prices. You will find us at the Outland stables, where we will be glad to show you our stock.
Respectfully, OLLIE & ARNOLD.

People judge you by the paper you use. Use our first quality writing papers. You can then be sure that it is right in color, quality and finish. Our inks are also first quality. So is everything we carry in the stationery line. We are always on the move and keep everything a first-class drug store should carry.

More About the Fence Law.

Editor of the Statesboro News:
Please allow me space in your paper to reply to some one who wrote on the fence law. That will do all right for the landlord who has got his own land and gets all he makes and half the poor renter makes, for the renter has got to plant all his crop in cotton.
He can't keep hogs up on corn at $1.35 per bushel. The landlord will hardly let him have enough for a garden and potato patch,
much less one acre to keep his hogs on.

And if that law is passed, the renter will be forced to sell his hogs and buy his bacon from the landlord. And if you pass that law, please add some more to it.
Force the landlord to give him
one acre to put his hogs on, and let the renter have his crop. If he plants fifty acres, let him put half in corn, so the renter's child can eat meat the same as yours.
You say wire is high. It is no higher than meat, my friend. We have been here about fifty years,
and this no fence law has just come up. You will never pass that law, my friend, till you disfranchise the renter. Think over these things now, and think if the renter isn't having a tough time
as it is.

Hughes-Giddens.

The marriage of Miss Stella
Hughes, of Brooklet, and Mr.
Frank Giddens, of Atlanta, took place Wednesday morning, at 7:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. K. Tnayer, at Brook-
let. Mr. and Mrs. Giddens left immediately after the ceremony for Savannah and Tybee. From there they will go to Atlanta, where they will make their future home.
The bride is the daughter of Mr. J. M. Hughes, of Brooklet, and is greatly admired for her excellent traits of character. Mr. Giddens, formerly of Dalton, has been in the employ of the Southern Express Co. for the past two years and has many friends in Atlanta.

Proctor Family Reunion.

The annual reunion celebrating the passing of the 75th mile post in the life of Mr. George W. Proctor, at Stilwell, was held on yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Aaron Mc-friends and relatives present to partake of the sumptuous spread. There are five brothers and sisters in the family, the youngest of which is 72 and the oldest 90. So they were all present.

Death of Levy Newton.

On last Saturday, at his home near Macedonia church, Mr. S. L.
Newton breathed his last, after an illness of two weeks with fever.
The deceased leaves a wife and a large family to mourn his loss.
He was a good citizen and had many friends who will learn of his passing with genuine regret.
The funeral was at Macedonia church on Sunday morning, and was conducted with Masonic honors. One of the largest congregations ever seen in the church at a funeral was present. The interment was made in the cemetery
at that place.

Death of Mrs. Akins

On Saturday afternoon the spirit of Mrs. Akins, wife of Mr. Akins, passed to its maker at their home at Colfax, about five miles from Statesboro. The young couple had been married only a few months, and their death was due to a complication of diseases. The funeral was held at Statesboro on Sunday, after services conducted by the services in the presence of a large crowd of mourning friends and relatives.

Mr. Jasper Mallard, of the Rocky Ford neighborhood, was in town last Saturday, and sold his cattle crop of short corn at 10 cents a pound. Mr. Mallard says that it may bring more, but he can sell ten pounds for a dollar he feels like he is playing safe.

Mr. W. Horace Waters brought in a couple of snakes of new sugar cane. They are maddened and eat. Mr. Waters has a new patch of cane on his farm near here.

Arrested for Hog Stealing.

Henry Barnes and Wesley Waters, two well known white men of the Pulaski section, were arrested during the week, charged with stealing hogs from Messrs. J.
Austin Brannen and Harvey Alderman. It is alleged that nine head of hogs were stolen at night and sold to Mr. Abe Ellis, who is said to have paid $25 for the batch.

Miss Annie Olliff entertained on Thursday morning in honor of her friend, Miss Gladys Cook, of Atlanta. About thirty of the young ladies of Statesboro were present.

Mr. J. D. Blitch and family will leave in the next week or ten days for Roswell, N. M., where they will remain during the fall and winter months. Mr. Blitch has lost some flesh since he has been on his farm near here, but attributes it to an attack of rheumatism.
He is in good spirits now and is steadily gaining in health.

Death of Mr. Hogan.

The news of the death of Mr. James Hogan, which occurred at the home of his son-in-law at Peachtree, reached here today. The funeral and interment will be at Macedonia church on Monday. Rev. J. J. Cobb will conduct the services. The deceased was a resident of Bulloch county for many years.

This Is Vital to Every Owner OF A Maxwell-Briscoe Motor Car

Made at Tarrytown, N. Y. and
New Castle, Ind., 1905 to 1913

Also to all Owners of Stoddard-Dayton, 1905 to 1914;
Columbia Gasoline and Electric, 1906 to 1914;
Everett Cars of Any Model; Brush,
Sampson and Courier Cars

THERE ARE THREE GOOD REASONS why
you should have your car
overhauled now and worn parts replaced.

FIRST: The garage man
can give you better service
—and you can spare the car
better now than later.
No matter whether you are going to keep the car, or sell or trade it in on a new one—it will pay you well
to have it thoroughly overhauled, worn parts replaced
by new ones and body repainted.

SECOND: We are able to furnish replacement parts
for all models of the above
makes of cars within 48 hours from receipt of order. Have concentrated this branch of the business at Newcastle, Ind. (center of population of the U. S.).
Here we have a $1,750,000
investment in plant and stock, 45,000 separate bins
of parts.

THIRD: And perhaps the best reason why you should secure your requirements
now—we must increase prices 20% January 1st,
when the new parts price
lists will be off the presses.

NOW NOTE THIS—Never
before in the history of this industry has a new concern,
having bought the plants
and assets of a bankrupt
one, taken upon itself
the obligation of furnishing replacement parts for the cars it never made.

best out of your car, and
how to avoid the common

DIVERSIFICATION ON SOUTHERN FARMS

Corn Crop Peculiarly Adapted to Soils in the South.

IMPORTANT CROP IN SOUTH

No Such Risks From Frosts as Menace
Farmers of So-Called Corn Belt—
Only Necessary to Pulverize Soil to Absorb Moisture.

(By G. H. ALFORD.)

The long seasons of the south make it peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of the corn crop, since there is never any risk from early frosts catching corn as there is in a large part of what is now termed the corn belt. The rainfall is sufficient to produce maximum crops and it is only necessary to pulverize the soil and mix it full of vegetable matter and plant food for from 5 to 15 inches deep so that it will absorb the rain and conserve the soil water by frequent and shallow cultivation.

Fertile soil and good seed are essential to success in corn growing.
The soil before the seed is planted must be in a condition to give the seed the best start. The farmer in the central west gives their lands a can, by reason of climatic conditions
and natural fitness for the crop, easily beat them in a question of mere application of so much fertilizer per acre.

The results of the experiment stations seem to indicate that the usual prices of corn and commercial fertilizers, the profitable production of corn upon commercial fertilizers is almost a complete impossibility, unless the corn crop is grown in a systematic rotation
with nitrogen-gathering crops.

The Georgia station says: "That at present prices of commercial fertilizers they cannot be used with profit." The Virginia station states: "In no case has the increase in the crop been sufficient to pay for the cost of fertilizers." The Ohio station says: "In no instance did the nitrogen application give a gain
equal to its cost."

An application of a medium amount of the fertilizer on average land will usually pay a profit. Barnyard manure is a valuable fertilizer. It increases the amount of available nitrogen in the soil, adds humus to the soil
and improves the mechanical conditions.

The average yield of corn in the south is about 15 bushels. It is an easy crop to improve in yield and in quality. The yield to an acre can easily be doubled with very little increase in labor or expense by planting better and more prolific seed in addition to increasing the fertility of the soil and by better methods of preparation and cultivation.

The variety should be adapted to the conditions of the soil and climate in which it is grown. The corn crop grown that is so much influenced by being transferred from north to south of the section where the corn is to be grown. Therefore, we should avoid sending north or south of our latitude for seed, but should take it from the best corn country nearest to the place where it is to be grown. It has been long known in our latitude and through careful selection, year after year, bred up.

The average corn grower grows plants and cultivates one-fourth to one-third of his corn acreage without receiving anything for his labor. This is a serious condition.

start in the row. Where such this planting is necessary, it is generally preferable to plant soy beans, peanuts, or some other crop between the corn rows.

The cultivation of the corn crop
should always be level and shallow, except in low, undrained lands, where
it may be necessary to plant in ridges and to keep the middle clear to assist in drainage. The first cultivation should be made before the corn comes out of the ground, and the best implement to use is the harrow to break
the crust and allow the corn to come up evenly and uniformly. Then follow
with a harrow or weeder, going both
ways, and after the corn gets six
or eight inches tall, the two-horse
cultivator, which enables the operator
to cultivate both sides of a row at
once, is the best implement to use.

It is always much easier and more
satisfactory to prevent the growth of weeds or destroy them soon after the
corn has come up, than it is to attempt
their destruction after they have attained a firm, fast hold. The sectional

A certain class of shopkeepers try to force their wares upon passers-by.
A traveler determined to teach one of these a lesson. The offender was a clothing dealer, and had a way of almost dragging people into his place.
One day the traveler stopped for a moment to use the harrow to break
the crust and allow the corn to come
up evenly and uniformly. Then follow
with a harrow or weeder, going both
ways, and after the corn gets six
or eight inches tall, the two-horse
cultivator, which enables the operator
to cultivate both sides of a row at
once, is the best implement to use.

It is always much easier and more
satisfactory to prevent the growth of
weeds or destroy them soon after the
corn has come up, than it is to attempt
their destruction after they have attained a firm, fast hold. The sectional

Backache Warns You
Backache is one of Nature's warnings
of kidney weakness. Kidney disease kills thousands every year.

Don't neglect it. If your back aches—if it hurts to stoop or lift—if there is irregularity of the secretions—
if you suffer from aching limbs, headaches, dizziness and are tired, nervous and worn-out, you have further proof that your kidneys are failing. A fine remedy for bad backs and weak kidneys.

A Maine Case
Mrs. J. H. Bennett, of Portland, Me., writes: "I have been suffering from backache for some time. I have tried many remedies, but nothing has helped me. I have been told that Backache is one of Nature's warnings
of kidney weakness. I have been told

Olliff-Thigpen.

An event of much interest took place at the beautiful home of Mrs. Maggie Olliff Wednesday afternoon, when her accomplished and popular daughter, Miss Marie Olliff, was given in marriage to Mr. Frederick Bruce Thigpen.

The home was effectively and artistically decorated with Southern smilax, ferns, pot plants and autumn leaves. A color scheme of white and green prevailed in the parlors, and pink and green in the reception hall and dining room.

Mr. J. R. Everett and Miss Maud Olliff assisted Mrs. Olliff in receiving the guests. Mrs. Olliff wore a black charmeuse with tunic effect, edged with lace. Mrs. Everett was becomingly gowned in a blue broadcloth silk, trimmed in shadow lace. Miss Collins was gowned in a Nile green messaline and wore a handsome string of rose beads around her neck.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. J. B. Brewton in a very beautiful and impressive manner. Preceding the bride and bridegroom came the maid-of-honor, Miss Maggie Olliff, sister of the bride, and one bride's maid, Miss Janie Brunson, both gowned becomingly in hand-painted chiffons over blue crepe medias, and carrying bouquets of pink carnations. Miss Olliff came in first with the best man, Mr. John Bowen, and next Miss Brunson with Mr. Bartow Groover.

Then the bride and bridegroom entered. The attractive young bride wore a handsome traveling suit of blue chiffon broadcloth, with hat to match. At her throat she wore a handsome diamond brooch, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and orchids. Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered by Miss Mary Beth Smith. Truemanir was softly played during the ceremony.

Miss Smith wore a gown of blue broadcloth satin, and wore a bouquet of carnations.

After the ceremony, elaborate refreshment were served in the spacious dining room. Misses Minnie Reid Beasley and Miss Powers served. Miss Beasley was gowned in chiffon over pink charmeuse and wore a bouquet of La France roses. Miss Powers was gowned in a red broadcloth satin and wore a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Misses Marion and Louise Foy served punch in the hall, and looked charming in their dresses of white silk. They received many handsome presents.

Mr. and Mrs. Thigpen left at 6 o'clock on the S. A. L. Ry. for Chattanooga, Lookout Mountain, and other points of interest. Before returning home, they will visit Mr. Thigpen's relatives in Atlanta, Macon and Forsyth. They will be at home to their friends in Statesboro after Dec. 23d.

Steel Lined Speed Shells for Fast Birds

BIRDS have a right of course, to flush up where they please and fly off at any unexpected angle! What you want is the nearest thing to point-blank aim—the shortest possible lead.

Shoot the speed shells—Remington-UMC Steel Lined Arrow and Nitro Club. They get your lead to the bird quicker than any other shell known to the shooting fraternity. Their steel lining grips the explosive, giving your shot charge the full lining grip of the powder force.

It's a Remington-UMC idea—that steel lining—so if you want speed you must see that you get Remington-UMC Arrow or Nitro Club.

You will find full assortment in the store of the most alert dealer of this section. Identify them by the Red Ball mark on the box.

Cotton Warehouse at Metter Was Destroyed

On Monday morning, at daylight, flames were discovered issuing from the roof of the Farmers' Union cotton warehouse, at Metter. The flames had gained so much headway when discovered until it was impossible to save anything in the building. It is evident that a slow fire had been under way for several hours, which spread rapidly as soon as the roof gave in. There were about two hundred and fifty bales of cotton in the warehouse at the time, which was fully covered by insurance.

Postoffice Robbed at Register Sunday Night

On Sunday night, a little after midnight, the little town of Register was awakened by an explosion which wrecked the iron safe in the store of Mr. C. C. Daughtry, being the building in which the postoffice is located. About $600 was taken from the safe, $400 of which belonged to the postoffice.

Bacot to Leave the Savannah & Statesboro

It is given out on good authority that Mr. D. N. Bacot, general superintendent of the Savannah and Statesboro Railway, will leave the Savannah and Statesboro in a short time.

It is reported that Mr. Bacot will take the position of trainmaster on the Alabama division of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, with headquarters at Americus.

Mr. Bacot has been instrumental in the upbuilding of the property of the Savannah and Statesboro railway. He took hold of it when it was nothing more than a small branch line, but today the Savannah and Statesboro is an important link between Savannah and Augusta.

A committee of friends and employees will tender to the retiring superintendent a banquet at the Jackson Hotel at some date prior to his leaving, which will be about the first of January.

BEGINNING FRIDAY, DECEMBER 5,

We will sell our entire stock of

Hotel and Three

Dwellings Burned

Pembroke, Ga., Dec. 10.—The Sims hotel burned early yesterday morning. The fire was discovered in the roof and burned so rapidly that occupants of the hotel had barely time to escape with their lives.

Little Casper Sims, grandson of Proprietor C. C. Sims, was taken from the building while some parts were falling, both leaving without shoes or scarcely any clothing.

The fire spread to the water house, or pump house, and cut off the water supply, making it almost impossible to check the fire. Only a few wells and hand pumps were available after the destruction of the pump house with the engine and a lot of telephone equipment, the property of W. S. Williams.

The fire then spread to the property of R. S. Burgess, destroying a small storehouse and his dwelling. It then caught a small dwelling belonging to Mrs. H. R. Olive, occupied by L. S. Bowen, this being so near the other house owned and occupied by Mr. Olive, that it caught and burned also, making three dwellings besides the hotel destroyed.

Other buildings were threatened, but the citizens kept watch for the sparks and wherever they ignited they were quickly extinguished.

Pembroke is now 23 years old and has had fires, but this is the most costly. There was very little insurance. R. S. Burgess was about the heaviest loser, having lost his home and storehouse and cotton seed and farming implements. His loss is about $3,000, with no insurance. C. C. Sims' loss is $2,550, with $1,350 insurance. U. S. Williams' loss is $1,000, with no insurance. Mrs. S. B. Olive's loss is about $1,150 with insurance.

The fire burned out one block except the brick store of R. S. Burgess. Had this building been of wood, no doubt the fire would have continued its course and have burned the entire northern section of the town.

Dramatic Club

Plays at Swainsboro

On Friday evening of this week the Statesboro Dramatic Club gave an exhibition entitled "Too Much Brown" in the auditorium at Swainsboro.

A large number of friends of the participants went up in automobiles to wish them well and witness the performance. A large and appreciative audience of Swainsboro people greeted the company, which is composed entirely of Statesboro talent.

Those who went report a $60 house, which is considered very satisfactory, considering the fact that the play was not advertised. They state that the people of Swainsboro seemed to understand the play better than the home folks who witnessed it here last week. They will appear before a Million audience next Friday night.

Sad Death of Mr.

Pridgen Beasley

On Sunday, at the residence of his son, Mr. D. O. Beasley, in the Forty-fourth district, Mr. Pridgen Beasley quietly breathed out his life. Had Mr. Beasley lived until the last day of February coming, he would have been 102 years old, being the oldest citizen of Bulloch or adjoining counties.

The deceased had been in ill health for the past few years, and his death had been daily expected for a long time. The cause of his death is said to have been old age.

It has been a custom of the family and friends of this aged citizen to gather around the home every year and mark the passing of each mile stone for the past ten years or more. On account of his greatly advanced age, the deceased has occupied a position of great interest before the public throughout the state. His photograph has been used, together with stories of his long and useful life, in all the daily papers of the state.

The funeral was held on Tuesday at Ephesus church, near his home, where the interment was made. A large number of friends and relatives gathered to attend the funeral and assist in placing in the tomb the remains of this Bulloch's oldest citizen. His wife and several sons and daughters survive him.

Stockholders' Meeting

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Statesboro will be held at its banking house on Wednesday, Dec. 31st, 1913, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing directors and transacting such other business as may come before said meeting.

$1.00 PER YEAR

Must Pave Streets and Number Houses to Get Free Delivery.

The inspectors sent here in September to investigate the propriety of putting on a city free mail delivery for Statesboro have rendered their report to the post office department at Washington, recommending that this service be withheld from us until the city of Statesboro places numbers on its houses and improves its sidewalks.

While the department does not specify what grade of walks shall be constructed, yet they make it plain that some improvements will have to be made in order that the carriers can traverse the city practically cry shod. The report also specifies street crossings to be had. It is therefore up to the city of Statesboro to do some paving work before we can secure the benefits of free mail delivery for which we have been looking so long.

Postmaster Anderson is sure that the government will not require a specified kind of sidewalk, provided the city will promise to keep making improvements in the future. He thinks that it would be a small job to number the houses and name the streets, an ordinance to that effect having already been passed. He believes that the free delivery can be had if the city authorities will get busy for it.

Car Load of Mules.

We have just received another carload of fine farm mules, which we are offering at reasonable prices. You will find us at the Outland stables, where we will be glad to show you our stock.

Respectfully, OLLIVER & AKINS.

Box Rent to be Higher

Postmaster Anderson has received notice from the post office department at Washington to the effect that prices of post office box rentals will be materially advanced after January 1st. The increase being in the neighborhood of fifty per cent. Boxes that now rent for seventy-five cents per quarter will be one dollar after January. Forty-cent boxes will be sixty cents. The reason advanced for this raise is that the office is becoming more important, or that it is handling more business and the rentals should advance with the dignity of the office.

That the people who rent boxes will be given any better service is not promised.

Half Sheet Next Week.

Following our usual custom, the STATESBORO NEWS will issue only a half sheet during next week, taking a partial holiday as is the custom with the weekly papers of the state. Were it not for the fact that two or three legalads are running we would omit next week's issue altogether. On account of carrying them we will have to get out some kind of a paper.

The NEWS will be with you with the opening of the new year bright and breezy, it being our intention to give you a better paper than ever before.

Extending to you all our best wishes for a merry Christmas and happy New Year we bid you adieu until 1914.

Notice.

One December 23d, 1913, I will sell to the highest bidder, at the late residence of A. J. Wilson, the following property belonging to the estate of A. J. Wilson, deceased:

The Jefferson County Horror

The brutal murder of Mrs. Leby, at her home on last Sunday afternoon, by three negro brutes, was the most horrible crime committed in this section since the Hodges tragedy in 1904.

The negroes went to the home where Mrs. Leby and two small daughters were alone, called her out on a pretext of asking about the collection for a half bushel of potatoes, beat her head to a mummy with an axe, all three giving her a lick so that each would be equally guilty. Then all three in turn outraged her body in the presence of the two girls.

They have been arrested, confessed their crime, and were carried to the Augusta jail under military escort, from whence they have been moved to the Fulton county jail, to escape the vengeance of an outraged and excited people. They will probably be carried to Louisville under military protection, as a lynching would certainly take place if the people could put their hands on them.

The governor is performing his sworn duty when he takes due precaution to see that the law takes its course in all cases, but it strikes us that it is a rather unfortunate expenditure of the people's money to pay the expenses of a military company to tramp around the state shielding three brutes of this kind from the swift and certain punishment that they would certainly meet.

It is doubtful if there is any punishment known to man, even in the barbaric ages, that would be severe enough in this case. It would be unfortunate to let them die at the end of a rope, and allow them to die with so short a duration of pain, were it not for the fact that the jaws of hell will be waiting to receive them the minute they drop into eternity.

Committed for Stealing Booze.

Son Day and Walter Stewart, the two negroes arrested in Savannah charged with the stealing of the barrel of whiskey from the Savannah & Statesboro freight car last week, were given a preliminary hearing before Judge Holland yesterday morning with the result that Walter Stewart was bound over to the superior court on a charge of burglary, and Day was released for want of evidence.

Lanier-Peacock.

On Sunday afternoon, December 14th, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Lanier, near Aaron, Mr. C. A. Peacock and Miss Bessie Lanier were united in marriage. Rev. E. C. J. Dickens performing the ceremony.

Mr. Peacock was, for some time, connected with the Agricultural school, and is well known here. The young couple have a large circle of friends who join in congratulations and best wishes.

Lee-Wilson.

On Thursday afternoon, at the home of the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Lee, Miss Lillian Lee and Mr. Hudson Wilson were united in marriage. Rev. W. K. Dennis officiating.

There were a large number of admiring friends of the contracting parties present to witness the marriage ceremony.

The bride is one of Bulloch's most popular and accomplished young ladies and the groom is a well-to-do young farmer. They have many friends who extend to them their best wishes.

Rushing-Stafford.

A beautiful wedding occurred Thursday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Rushing, in Sink Hole district.

The contracting parties were Mr. John Stafford and Miss Hester Rushing. A large company of friends and admirers joined relatives to witness the event. Numerous and valuable presents were received by the bride from her friends.

The sweet strains of music, the wedding march, was played by Miss Dora Rushing, while in choice sentences Prof. E. C. J. Dickens performed the ceremony which made them one.

Miss Rushing is the accomplished daughter of M. J. Rushing. She was educated at the Agricultural school. Mr. Stafford is a popular and hustling citizen of Liberty county. After the ceremony the couple left for Savannah, and from there to their home at Willie, Ga.

Widows' Pension Act, in Operation in New Jersey, Declared to Be Great Success.

KEEPS THE HOME TOGETHER

Under the Law Widows Are Enabled to Clothe, Feed and Educate Their Children—Will Do Away With Public Institutions, Which Cannot Take the Place of Mothers—Mrs. Yess is Investigating With a View to the Adoption of the System.

NEWARK, N. J.—She stands in the door of the shanty she calls home on the outskirts of the city. A child clings to each hand and another clings tightly to the folds of her pink calico dress. There inside the door stands two new brass cribs. Across the gloomy aspect of broken kitchen chairs and patched table beyond are looms in the brick chimney on which hang children's garments with the bright stamp of newness on them. There is coal in the scuttle by the range, with its crackling fire. This is the home of the first widow in Jersey to be pensioned for being what she is—just a poverty-stricken mother. The crib, the coal, the clothes, the food are results of that first pension check.

Homes Are Proof of Worth. To the outside world perhaps the Widow's Pension act passed in Jersey last July is a happy reality, the real significance of which is hardly appreciated. It is only when one can peer into a home where the pension has come, or perhaps more aptly has peered in to it before and after the coming—that it dwells on one what this pensioning of widowed women who have children dependent upon them really means.

Briefly the widows' pension was the dream of Isaac T. Nichols, senator from Cumberland county, who plainly stated that in his opinion a woman who brought children into the world was entitled to a pension for her work when her husband, or support, was taken from her by death. That was the beginning. Senator Nichols was for pensioning every mother of a child under sixteen years old, but there were those who objected. Such a broad act, they said, would allow unmarried women with children, women with husbands still living and others to share in the reward intended really for the widowed mother. The bill was amended, and became a law July 22.

First Pension on July 22. By July 22 the first hearing to determine the granting of pension had been held, and the first pension was granted. It is only a matter of time when every state will have its pensioned mothers, Senator Nichols said.

There are 34 widowed mothers drawing pension in New Jersey, and the number is steadily increasing. There are pensioned mothers in every one of the state's 21 counties save one. The one exception from which no request has been made is Ocean county, in the southern part of the state. Why no mother from a needy mother has been heard from there is a mystery to the state board of children's guardians which has the supervision of the pensioned and pensioners in hand. The process a widowed mother must employ to gain a pension is simple. First, she must write to the state board of children's guardians for application blanks. She will receive three blanks, all identical. She must fill in each, one for the state board, one for the overseer of the poor in her district and one for the judge of the county court, where her case eventually will be heard.

County Fights the Bill. On receipt of her application the state board sends investigators to determine her condition. Then a date is set for her hearing and she goes into court and tells her story. The investigators of the state board is offered in evidence, and the judge passes on whether or not she is eligible for a pension. If she becomes a pensioner, the checks are sent her out of the funds of the county in which she lives. The amount of the pension, which is really intended for the support of her children, is fixed by law. It is $5 a month for one child, $14 a month for two children and $18 for three children, and for each child thereafter $4 a month. The state board's investigators have supervisory charge of the disbursement of the pension and of the conduct of the mother. At the arrival of a child at the age of sixteen, or before, at the discretion of the board, the pension for that child can be discontinued. This, briefly, is what New Jersey has done for its widowed mothers. How has the plan worked out?

The woman with the three children in a shanty on the edge of Newark smiled when she was asked. It was a shanty home, but there was no trace of unhappiness in it. "How does it work?" she answered, and her voice was full with emotion. "Fine!" She paused to smooth with a thin hand the hair of a five-year-old who clung to her dress. The other children, a girl of eight and a boy of seven, looked up at her as children can only look at those they trust. "It pays the rent," she went on, "and buys the coal and it gives me a chance to clothe them as they ought to be clothed. Before the first check from the county came we didn't have any clothes that you might call clothes. I didn't mind for myself, but the little ones were without warm things except what I could make for them between the days' work, and even in July the winter isn't far off, for the poor at least, and this house is cold. I hated to look ahead and think of them shivering all day, and the coal most gone, and then it was a puzzle as to whether to spend our one dollar for food or warmth for them. "But now," she smiled again, "it's different. It pays the rent, and it buys the coal, and we can eat three times every day."

New York Investigating. New York has been the very law of New Jersey now for the first few years. The most charity and philanthropic students in New York city ardently idolize it. Every club in the city Federation and all those throughout the state have given it their unqualified approval. The state of New York has taken a step in the direction of widowed mothers' pensions. Last year the governor appointed a commission to investigate the workings of the law in several states, including New Jersey. This committee will report upon the advisability of enacting similar legislation. One of the members of the commission is Mrs. William Stein, president of the Widowed Mothers' Fund, who for many years has been the heart and soul of the now great movement. According to her, there really is but one side to the question.

"It is not a bit of doubt," she declared, "that the state owes to the children. I speak adversely of the children instead of the mothers. However difficult and pathetic may be the condition of a widowed mother, who is unable to support her children and who must bring them in a state of utter loneliness or neglect, the state owes to the children the best of all that it can give."

Eighteen States Give Relief. "The influences of their early years are the influences of a lifetime, and they make or mar them. And certainly it is obligatory upon the administration to see that all possible be done to make those influences of the best. Mother love and home surroundings are of inestimable value, and since the state can preserve those to the children, it should do so. "Since I have been interested in this problem, 13 states have adopted a system of relief for widowed mothers, and in every one of them it is working beautifully. It can't help but be a lasting success. The argument that the state will be spending too much money is not worth consideration. The only difference is that the money will go directly into the needy homes instead of into institutions. It will do more good in those homes than in institutions."

"And, what is just as important, we wish to do away entirely with public charity. That accomplishes very little. It is only a temporary relief and doesn't for a moment get at the big principle. The amount of the pension is really intended for the support of her children, is fixed by law. It is $5 a month for one child, $14 a month for two children and $18 for three children, and for each child thereafter $4 a month. The state board's investigators have supervisory charge of the disbursement of the pension and of the conduct of the mother. At the arrival of a child at the age of sixteen, or before, at the discretion of the board, the pension for that child can be discontinued. This, briefly, is what New Jersey has done for its widowed mothers. How has the plan worked out?"

HARVESTER WAS BOY'S IDEA

Suggested to Father Plan of Putting Large Scissors, Instead of Sickles, on Reaping Machine.

In 1830 Obed Hussey of Ohio was inventing a reaping machine, the first ever designed in this country. His chief difficulty was the cutting device, which was three large sickles, set in a frame and revolved so as to cut into the grain. It would not work satisfactorily. A young son, watching the experiments, asked his father why he did not use a lot of big scissors, with one handle fastened to one bar and the other handle to a sliding bar, thus opening and closing them. Hussey instantly adopted the idea, substituting for scissors the two saw-toothed blades which are in common use today on harvesters, the cutting action being quite similar to that of scissors.

From the boy's suggestion he perfected in one week a machine on which he had in vain exercised all his ingenuity for the preceding two years. The principle of that cutting device is the principle of all of the great harvesting machines, and its benefit to the farming industry of the entire world has been unmeasured by any other invention for use on the farm—George F. Stratton, in St. Nicholas.

MUCH FUN TO SHOVEL SNOW

Junior of Kansas City Public School Creates Apparatus to Make Small Boy's Pastime Useful.

The yard of the Yaeger school at Nineteenth street and Indiana avenue is large and the walks extend nearly around the block, says the Kansas City Star. When covered with snow, to clean them off is a difficult job. All of the clubs of the city federation, as well as of the state, have in the past few years been doing to bring about such a state of affairs, and there is any one thing in the city that is more difficult to do than to clean them off. The boy's idea was to make a small shovel that would be useful to the boy, and it is his duty to accept its obligation. I think it is the mother who should look after the children, take care of them, and no one else, and the mother should be given the opportunity to do so.

State Owes It to Mothers. "I am very much in favor of it," she declared. "I think it is a fine, wonderful thing. Only those who know of the tragedies of a home in which the bread winner is gone can appreciate what such a thing will mean. The state owes something to the mothers, and it is its duty to accept its obligation. I think it is the mother who should look after the children, take care of them, and no one else, and the mother should be given the opportunity to do so."

It Would make better men and women," she declared. "There is no influence that can compare with that of a mother and with that of a home, and a child deprived of these is handicapped for life. It has not the advantage of these influences that make for fine manhood and womanhood. "Love, affection, care—these are the necessary things. Nothing is so important. No state institution can give them, and a child in such a place is inevitably hardened, and its finer instincts never expand and develop as they would in an atmosphere of love and home. The chance of maternal fulfillment is a duty owed by the state both to the mother and the child."

Mrs. Brown a Supporter. Mrs. William Grant Brown, a leading clubwoman, who but recently returned from a trip abroad, where she went as a delegate to several conventions, speaks in similar fashion. "I am so much interested in this movement," she said, "that I have given up a considerable amount of my time to the work. All those who know the conditions in the homes of the poor agree that relief for widowed mothers is a much needed bit of legislation, and almost all charity workers feel relief directly in the home. "It will be not only an economic saving in the long run, and perhaps even in the short run, but it also will be a blessing so great that it is hardly conceivable. Only the mother, who will be able to retain her first-born, and the little girl who need no longer fear the strange faces of some state institution can truly appreciate all it means."

Miss Frances Day is general agent of the New Jersey state board. She is a woman of broad comprehension and human sympathy. Many of the cases which she has investigated herself, and she knows what the granting of these pensions mean to many a poor mother. "You really ought to do it, you really ought to do it," she said finally. "It's according to scripture."

"No mark-the-perfect-man" chestnuts on me if you please," warned the humorist of our own authority. "Fifty chapter of Matthew, verse the forty-third," said Mr. Warner, readily. It reads like this: "And whoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him, Twain."

Needless to say, Twain went with Dudley for that walk.

Washington's Death. George Washington died the last hours of the day, the last day of the war, of the last month of the year, of the last year of the eighteenth century.

The Judge remarking dry that "people do not necessarily get out of condition by being old," was promptly replied, "They do, my lord, if buried in the ground."

In Dark Ways. Why are fixed stars like wicked old men? Because they sin till late (scientifically).

Why is wit like a Chinese lady's foot? Because brevity is the soul of it.

What is it that no one wishes to have, yet no one wishes to lose? A bald head.

Why is it like a Chinese lady's foot? Because brevity is the soul of it.

Why is it like a Chinese lady's foot? Because brevity is the soul of it.

QUITE AMUSING GAME

"Detective's Note Book" Is Not Hard to Arrange.

Pastime is Intended to Test One's Skill in Identification of Profiles of Villains for Whom Reward is Offered.

Now that the fall and winter is coming on, the boys and girls will be looking for something in the way of indoor games to amuse their guests at their evening parties, and the boy or girl that can get up something new is always in demand. A very good game which can be arranged without much trouble is called the detective's note book, and is supposed to test the skill in recognizing villains for whom a big reward is offered. If you have nothing to go by but a picture. The apparatus required is a smooth board, some sheets of which paper, a sheet and a candle. The board is hung upon the wall with a chair in front of it, but not too close. About ten feet away hang a lighted candle, the other lights being put out. Ask a boy to sit in the chair, which should have a back high enough to hold his head steady so that the shadow of his profile falls upon a sheet of paper tacked to the board.

Run around the outline of this profile quickly with a soft pencil. Put a number on it, and the boy's name. Ask another boy to take the chair while your assistant cuts out the profile you have just made. In a few minutes you will have half a dozen and you may stick in one or two fake profiles to add to the fun.

Now hang your sheet where the folding doors go, between two rooms if possible, and set your candle on a table near it, while the boys must take their places in the other. Each person should have a slip of paper to write down opposite the number you let the number follow their bent along certain lines rather than to antagonize them by insisting too strongly on a course which they were bound to oppose. The more glaringly heathenish traits were eradicated, and those which remained were purged of their more objectionable features and infused with a new spirit.

Christmas was not observed at all, so far as we can find any record, for 200 or 300 years after the birth of Christ, and as the event had occurred in such a humble fashion men were quite unable to determine its date when they began to interfere with the calendar. The first record of the celebration of the nativity. One thing is certain, and that is that it could not have occurred on the 25th of December, as this date is the height of the rainy season in Judea, and in California, and it is quite unlikely that the shepherds could have been watching their flocks by night under those conditions.

The first attempt to record any date for the nativity was made in Egypt about 200 A. D., when May 29 was the date mentioned. From that time forward the date has varied for various dates. Justly for this one day, 25 being the most in favor up to the time of Chrysostom in the fourth century, when the latter gained the preference.

This date was not chosen entirely without reason. The celebration of the winter solstice was one of the chief feasts of Rome, and among the Celts and Germans it was regarded with even greater significance. The sun, as the giver of light and heat, and consequently of life, has been an object of worship and adoration from the remotest times down to the present day; therefore the period of the winter solstice, which marks the renewal of the power of the sun, was a fitting time for a manifestation of one of their duties. The 12 days between December 25 and January 6 were regarded as extremely important by the Teutonic races, who believed that at that time the influence of the gods was more powerfully directed toward the earth than at any other. Nothing could be more natural, therefore, than that these people, on turning to Christianity, should fix the commemoration of the appearance of the Saviour on the earth at the same time, and thus give to the celebration of the nativity a significance of the physical world and the other deliverance of the human race from the powers of evil.

It has been pointed out that in the early period of the church it was considered wise to allow the people to retain some of the old customs. The observance of Christmas was therefore encouraged as a substitute for the pagan festivals, in particular for the Roman saturnalia, which occurred in December and which was so popular that it was originally lasted for one day (the 17th), it was first extended to three days and later, under the Emperor Claudius, to seven. The festival was opened by public sacrifice before the temple of Saturn, followed by a great public banquet, in which all classes participated. From this time all the people seemed to go mad; the commonest making. Crowds swarmed through the streets shouting "To Saturnalia," a form of greeting similar to the modern "Merry Christmas." It was a holiday of the widest sense; schools and law courts were closed and the senate adjourned; no criminal was executed and no war was proclaimed. The slaves enjoyed an equality with their masters, and even served them at the table. The people occupied themselves in calling on one another, in exchanging presents and attending to the duties of the day. The custom of decorating with evergreens at Christmas has the tradition of age back of it. As far back as history goes people have been in the habit of using flowers and greens in all sorts of festivals. The use of the mistletoe, however, is a survival from the ancient Celtic and Scandinavian, to which it grew on a tree. When found growing on this tree the Druids cut it with solemn ceremonies and used it in their sacrificial rites. It was believed to possess magic qualities of potent power. It is still potent, but only in the matter of conferring privileges.

The first historic mention of a Christmas tree was made in Strasbourg in 1665, but the Danes go farther back than that. They have a story of a legend relating to the time when Augustus first preached Christianity to his people, wherein it is told how the Lord sent his three messengers, Faith, Hope and Charity, to help light the first Christmas tree. They sought for one that should be as high as hope and love, and that bore the sign of the cross on every bough and every leaf. They found it in the balsam tree, which has been cherished for ages generally die hard, and the Christians, realizing this, introduced other practices into the old customs which survived from paganism. Such were the miracle plays and dramatic representations of early events in Christ's life, which received great attention during the middle ages and of which the Christmas carols may be considered an offshoot. These enjoyed great popularity throughout all Europe, but particularly in England, where in many villages today it is customary for groups of men and boys, called the wights, to go from door to door singing carols for several nights before Christmas. Similarly in some of the country districts of France the children make the rounds of the village, carrying a little lantern, and singing carols, and singing carols for pennies.

Santa Claus is not as fanciful as the children of France. The children make the rounds of the village, carrying a little lantern, and singing carols, and singing carols for pennies.

A FAMOUS SCHOLAR

Emerson Noted as a Transcendentalist and Philosopher.

Came Naturally by His Learning, for He Had an Ancestry of Seven or Eight Generations of Preachers.

Boston—Ralph Waldo Emerson was the most famous of the transcendentalists and in his day America's greatest philosopher, and he came naturally by his learning, for he had an ancestry of seven or eight generations of preachers. The father, a scholarly man, was settled over a Boston parish when Ralph was born, and although the child was sent almost at once to a dame's school his father deplored that, at three, he could not read very well! The little fellow was extremely gentle, and we may imagine that he was inculcated with high moral standards.

Ralph was but eight when his father died, and he always remembered with pride the story of the funeral, at which the Ancient and Honorable Artillery escorted the body of their late chaplain to the grave; and the child had other memories too, and these were of poverty and self-denial—of sharing his brother's overcoat, so that in winter he could go to school only on alternate days; or how sometimes when the children were hungry the mother entertained them with traditions of their heroic ancestors.

When Ralph was eleven Dr. Ezra Ripley, pastor over the church at Concord, took his stepson's widow and children to live with him there in the "Old Manse." It was in this home that Ralph's grandfather, the militant preacher, had lived, and it was Ralph who wrote later the poem read at the anniversary of the fight. This poem is really almost as famous as the story.

But it is very far from being all. The customs which seem such an integral part of the festival are inextricably tangled up with Roman, Scandinavian, German and Celtic ceremonies, in which very many of them have their origin. Our Christmas, when we investigate it, is found to be a melting pot of pagan traditions and practices without number, purged of their old significance and adapted to the higher faith.

The observance of the Christmas of the countless variety of customs associated with Christmas in all lands, both in the past and the present day. To describe them all would fill a good sized book, so we can only refer briefly here to some of the most prominent of them.

The early fathers of the church have desired to banish all pagan practices from the exercises of religion, were performed obliged to allow their converts to retain part of the old usages. It was an impossibility to put an end to them, so they wisely decided that it was better to let the people follow their bent along certain lines rather than to antagonize them by insisting too strongly on a course which they were bound to oppose. The more glaringly heathenish traits were eradicated, and those which remained were purged of their more objectionable features and infused with a new spirit.

Christmas was not observed at all, so far as we can find any record, for 200 or 300 years after the birth of Christ, and as the event had occurred in such a humble fashion men were quite unable to determine its date when they began to interfere with the calendar. The first record of the celebration of the nativity. One thing is certain, and that is that it could not have occurred on the 25th of December, as this date is the height of the rainy season in Judea, and in California, and it is quite unlikely that the shepherds could have been watching their flocks by night under those conditions.

The first attempt to record any date for the nativity was made in Egypt about 200 A. D., when May 29 was the date mentioned. From that time forward the date has varied for various dates. Justly for this one day, 25 being the most in favor up to the time of Chrysostom in the fourth century, when the latter gained the preference.

This date was not chosen entirely without reason. The celebration of the winter solstice was one of the chief feasts of Rome, and among the Celts and Germans it was regarded with even greater significance. The sun, as the giver of light and heat, and consequently of life, has been an object of worship and adoration from the remotest times down to the present day; therefore the period of the winter solstice, which marks the renewal of the power of the sun, was a fitting time for a manifestation of one of their duties. The 12 days between December 25 and January 6 were regarded as extremely important by the Teutonic races, who believed that at that time the influence of the gods was more powerfully directed toward the earth than at any other. Nothing could be more natural, therefore, than that these people, on turning to Christianity, should fix the commemoration of the appearance of the Saviour on the earth at the same time, and thus give to the celebration of the nativity a significance of the physical world and the other deliverance of the human race from the powers of evil.

It has been pointed out that in the early period of the church it was considered wise to allow the people to retain some of the old customs. The observance of Christmas was therefore encouraged as a substitute for the pagan festivals, in particular for the Roman saturnalia, which occurred in December and which was so popular that it was originally lasted for one day (the 17th), it was first extended to three days and later, under the Emperor Claudius, to seven. The festival was opened by public sacrifice before the temple of Saturn, followed by a great public banquet, in which all classes participated. From this time all the people seemed to go mad; the commonest making. Crowds swarmed through the streets shouting "To Saturnalia," a form of greeting similar to the modern "Merry Christmas." It was a holiday of the widest sense; schools and law courts were closed and the senate adjourned; no criminal was executed and no war was proclaimed. The slaves enjoyed an equality with their masters, and even served them at the table. The people occupied themselves in calling on one another, in exchanging presents and attending to the duties of the day. The custom of decorating with evergreens at Christmas has the tradition of age back of it. As far back as history goes people have been in the habit of using flowers and greens in all sorts of festivals. The use of the mistletoe, however, is a survival from the ancient Celtic and Scandinavian, to which it grew on a tree. When found growing on this tree the Druids cut it with solemn ceremonies and used it in their sacrificial rites. It was believed to possess magic qualities of potent power. It is still potent, but only in the matter of conferring privileges.

The first historic mention of a Christmas tree was made in Strasbourg in 1665, but the Danes go farther back than that. They have a story of a legend relating to the time when Augustus first preached Christianity to his people, wherein it is told how the Lord sent his three messengers, Faith, Hope and Charity, to help light the first Christmas tree. They sought for one that should be as high as hope and love, and that bore the sign of the cross on every bough and every leaf. They found it in the balsam tree, which has been cherished for ages generally die hard, and the Christians, realizing this, introduced other practices into the old customs which survived from paganism. Such were the miracle plays and dramatic representations of early events in Christ's life, which received great attention during the middle ages and of which the Christmas carols may be considered an offshoot. These enjoyed great popularity throughout all Europe, but particularly in England, where in many villages today it is customary for groups of men and boys, called the wights, to go from door to door singing carols for several nights before Christmas. Similarly in some of the country districts of France the children make the rounds of the village, carrying a little lantern, and singing carols, and singing carols for pennies.

THE STATESBORO NEWS.

$1.00 PER YEAR

STATESBORO, GEORGIA., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1913

VOL. 13 NO. 87

In Memoriam.

On Dec. 6th, for some reason mysterious to us, and sufficient in the supreme estimation of Jehovah to justify it, the angel of death was commissioned to visit the home of Mr. M. M. Mixon, near Dulaski, and claim his spirit unto Him that gave it.

His unexpected death was a great shock to his relatives and numerous friends. He had only been here 34 years, and for the latter third of his short life he was engaged in farming, ranking in his noble calling second to none in this county.

For the past few years he made an honorable showing in the pursuit and introduction of model and scientific farming, the establishment of which is so urgently needed in our midst for the relief of burdened humanity.

We trust his career has been observed close enough by those who knew him best to be of material interest and benefit to the present and coming generations. Considering the disadvantages one has to face in striving to improve conditions in the important industry of agriculture, we may well say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Though he had not reached the height of his ambition as a citizen and agriculturist, all we know of his spiritual condition is that he showed evidence of being a God-fearing citizen.

The remains were interred at the Lake church cemetery, the funeral being conducted by Elders Sills and Brown.

Mr. Mixon leaves a father, brother, two sisters, a wife and five children to mourn his departure from this land.

How sad to part with loved ones while dwelling where peace seldom comes; if left to mortals here below. We would cling to this world and miss the final blessing Thou dost bestow. But Thou dost know best. And has prepared a place of perfect rest. From whence the pure in heart Shall never, never depart.

Then why should we complain, If on earth our will proves in vain? His former place on earth he will never regain. But a more elevated place, we trust, he will obtain.

—By T. L. ARLES.

POPULARITY OF PARCELS POST

Special Arrangements Being Made for Sending of Xmas Presents.

Another point has been stretched by the United States government in its campaign to make the parcel post service of the postoffice department Uncle Sam's most popular institution.

And the new order has been put into immediate effect for the benefit of the army of people who will use the parcel post service in sending their Christmas gifts. It will mean a much more secure way of sending parcels through the mail.

Parcels may now be sent in boxes, the covers of which are screwed or nailed down, provided the postal authorities are able, with the aid of a screw driver or nail puller to open the boxes and examine the contents, if the occasion arises. Articles may also be sewed in a bag and sent, if the dispatching postmaster indorses the claim that only fourth class matter is contained therein.

It is believed that the latest order of the postmaster general on the handling of parcel post matter will prove very popular. It will probably be the means of attracting many who will send Christmas presents away, and at the same time the cheapest form of dispatching packages in the history of the country.

The insurance feature that the government is offering senders of parcel post packages is proving very popular, and a large percentage of the parcels that are being dispatched through the parcel post office are insured.

Grimshaw to Succeed Bacot.

It is given out on good authority that Mr. Seaborn Grimshaw has been named as general superintendent of the Savannah & Statesboro Railway to succeed Mr. D. N. Bacot, who resigns to accept a position as trainmaster of the Alabama division of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, with headquarters at Americus.

Mr. Grimshaw reached Statesboro Wednesday and was accorded a warm reception by the business men here.

He was met at the depot by a delegation of Statesboro people and given a splendid reception. Mr. and Mrs. Grimshaw will live at the Statesboro hotel.

Congressional Matters.

Some time ago, in the early part of October, to be exact, Hon. J. W. Overstreet, of Screven, in making his first announcement for congress declared himself very strongly in favor of federal aid for public roads. This indeed was the chief plank in his platform. If it might so be called, Mr. Overstreet has some decided opinions along this line and he does not mind expressing them. He felt, and still feels, that instead of making so many worthless appropriations for little creeks and rivers all over the land, many of these appropriations being only food for the grafters, and really doing the people no good, that the federal government could make better use of this money by expending it upon improvement in the public highways, which is a matter of fact, belong to the government anyhow.

While this idea had been talked in other states, Mr. Overstreet was the pioneer, and its justice and reasonableness made it at once popular. Since that time it has been growing rapidly in favor with public men, who are quick to catch the rumbly of a popular movement and our present congressman, who, at the time Mr. Overstreet declared himself so forcibly along this line was busy on the proposed appropriation for a military highway from Savannah to Tybee, has recently got on the band wagon too.

The federal government ought to appropriate money for the improvement of the public highways in the rural districts of the state. The farmers seek this country going, they feed it and clothe it, and without them things would quickly come to a standstill. They are entitled to have good highways on which to travel and haul their products to and from the markets, and if the people of the First congressional district of Georgia take it into their heads to send Hon. J. W. Overstreet to the next congress to represent their interests, there will be one man up there who can vouch for who will fight for it. It is not a recent convert, but is the first man in this section who came out publicly for government aid to country roads.—Sylvanus Telephone.

Sanest Christmas in Years.

The people certainly have cause to feel good over the outcome of the Christmas just gone by reason of the fact that it was the sanest celebration of this great event we have ever known. The reports from all over the country carry very few accounts of accidents, crimes, etc., incidental to the celebration of the Christmas holidays. There was a noticeable dropping off in the number of common drunks in this section. Whether this was caused by the onslaught on the Savannah liquor houses by the Law and Order League of that city we cannot say, inasmuch as it seemed the usual amount of whiskey was received here.

Let us hope that this is the beginning of a more sane celebration of the great day that marks another mile stone against the birth of the Saviour of the World.

DIVERSIFICATION ON SOUTHERN FARMS

Cotton Belt to Raise Live Stock Must Have Pastures.

PASTURES FOR FARM ANIMALS

Very Few Farmers Have Compared Benefit to Be Derived From Acre of Cotton and Acre of Bermuda Grass, Legume and Clover.

(By G. H. ALPHELD.)

If the cotton belt is to raise hogs, mules, horses, cattle, sheep and so successfully under present land and labor conditions, it must resort to pastures and cheap hay. It is to produce the necessary quantity and quality of all kinds of live stock it must devote more and better land to pastures and meadows.

Many farmers in the south prize wheat, corn, oats, cotton, rice and cane as crops because their growth has become a habit. Very few farmers have compared the profit derived from an acre of cotton and an acre of Bermuda grass, lespedeza and some winter clover. On many farms the growing of cotton represents a loss instead of a profit. On many farms in the south the growing of leguminous crops for two or three years until the worn-out cotton lands will grow good grass and the sowing of the land in Bermuda grass grazing of pure bred hogs, sheep, cattle and goats, horses and mules will result in big profits instead of the loss sustained by the growing of cotton on the same land year after year.

Next in importance to the divine profession of water, light and air—these three physical facts which render existence possible—may be recorded the universal beneficence of grass. It is the farmer in a thousand fields who appreciates the full value of a good, permanent pasture. The most prosperous counties in England owe their prosperous agriculture to the magnificent pastures.

The blue grass regions of Kentucky has done much to cause our farmers to appreciate grass to some extent. There are sections of Tennessee and Virginia where the successful growing of fine stock has helped Kentucky to gain friends for grass.

We firmly believe that we are telling the truth when we say that the main cause of the lack of prosperity of southern farms is the absence of good, permanent pastures. We have turned out a worn, galled cotton field, stretched two or three barbed wires around it and called it our pasture. Not a furrow was turned, not a seed was sown. No wonder that our pastures are often referred to as "a place where grass does not grow."

A good pasture made by thoroughly preparing very fertile and good seed to the right kind of mixed grasses, so that every square foot of it is well covered with nutritious grasses and leguminous crops, and weeds. The large majority of us have never had a good, permanent pasture and therefore base our conclusions on the value of a permanent pasture on our experience with a pasture where grass does not grow. We have never valued a thoroughly good, permanent pasture high enough.

There are, of course, pastures without grass, such as pastures of cow peas, soy beans, velvet beans, and so forth, but there are temporary pastures and last for only a short time. Of course, we must have such temporary pastures in order to succeed in the live stock business, but the subject before us just at present is a good, permanent pasture full of nutritious grasses and clover. We are talking about taking land and thoroughly preparing it and fertilizing it with acid-phosphate and planting it in

"CASCARETS" FOR LIVER, BOWELS

No sick headache, biliousness, bad taste or constipation by morning.

Get a 10-cent box. Are you keeping your bowels, liver, and stomach clean, pure and fresh with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with Salts, Cathartic Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters?

Stop having a bowel wash-day. Let Cascarets thoroughly cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour and fermenting food and foul gases, and become a background, which enhances the beauty of the latter.

Three handsome bags are pictured here. They are easy to make and effective.

Must Wait a Bit. The little group at the side of the road waited until Stately Stiggins returned from the nearby farmhouse. "Poor pickings," he muttered as he threw down a scrawny beef bone and a half loaf of bread.

"Where's dat improvement in hand out you promised?" demanded Muggsy Jones. Happy Higgins shook his head reproachfully.

"You gotter wait," he said, "til de public adjusters take de new tariff."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

For stock. We can mix lespedeza, white, crimson, burr clovers and the vetches with Bermuda and they will grow well together. We can also mix orchard grass, tall grass and the red top with Bermuda. But putting lespedeza on the Bermuda and to assist in furnishing summer pasture and winter clover, or a vetch on it to furnish some winter and early spring grazing. We can supply continuous grazing for our stock and at the same time enrich our land.

Sow lespedeza seed on Bermuda soil in February or early March; sow the winter clover or vetch seed in September and October. When the seed is sown on a good, permanent pasture, the farmer should dig it in order to insure germination of the seed at an early date.

Medicine may be propagated both from seed and root cuttings. The seed method is not recommended except where it is very difficult to secure pieces of seed. Sow the land with disk and harrow until it is fine. Lay off rows about two feet apart and four inches deep with shovels. Drop small pieces of the seed every two feet in the furrows and cover with a narrow "A" drag or roller will put the finishing touches on the seed. The sowing of the land may be done at any time during the year.

When we have made our hill land fertile by sowing lespedeza, the addition of commercial fertilizers and the growing of leguminous crops, and have thoroughly sodded them in Bermuda grass and summer and winter clover, we can cut out some of our unprofitable labor, substituting good hogs, brood mares, cattle and furnish the hands, labor-saving implements and strong teams to till the more level acres on the farm.

The pasture lands should not only be fertile, thoroughly prepared and properly fertilized before sowing it in grass, but the briars, brush and weeds must be kept down and the grasses fertilized and cultivated every two or three years. Where lespedeza or some winter clover, or both, grow on Bermuda soil it will not be necessary to apply nitrogen except to the poorer spots.

NEW BROCADES ADD BRILLIANCE TO SHOPPING BAG

THE new metallic brocade, and other brocade in ribbon, excepting bits of splendor in bags. A great advantage lies in the fact that plain ribbons are used in conjunction with the brocade patterns and the heavy texture of the brocade (especially those having metal threads) gives body as well as brilliance to this season's bags.

These brocade bags are in the medium and narrow widths. They combine to advantage with plain soft satin ribbons for many reasons. The plain ribbon is chosen in the color which is predominant in the brocade ribbon, and becomes a background, which enhances the beauty of the latter.

STOP THAT BACKACHE

There's nothing more discouraging than a constant backache. You are lame when you awake. Pains pierce you when you bend or lift. It's hard to rest and next day it's the same old story.

Pain in the back is nature's warning of a weak back. Neglect may make the way to dropsy, gravel, or other serious kidney sickness.

Don't delay—begin using Doan's Kidney Pills—the remedy that has been curing backache and kidney trouble for over fifty years.

THE bottom of the bag is made of a dish of cardboard covered with the figured ribbon. It is five inches in diameter. The length of ribbon made of three strips (two plain and one figured) runs around the bag, and the edge of one strip is gathered to the covered dish. At the top of the bag a two-inch hem, with parallel rows of stitching, to form a casing, accommodates a small length of round elastic. This forms the mouth of the bag.

Heavy satin ribbon an inch wide, in the same shade as that of the plain satin ribbon in the bag, is used for the hangers or handles. Narrower satin ribbon in the same color and shade, provides the roses at the side. This is a lovely opera bag, suitable, too, to be worn with a visiting gown. It is less expensive than bags in which broad ribbon is used, for the figured ribbon may be either a printed or "woven-in" design.

The third bag is a splendid bit of finery in which plain gold-colored satin ribbon and a narrow gold brocade (showing a surface almost entirely of metal threads) are combined to make an opera bag. The cord is of gold-colored satin-covered cable cord, and might be effectively replaced with the regular metal cords which are shown for this and similar purposes.

The narrow brocade ribbon is cut in the required lengths (enough for both sides of the bag), and joined by plaiting of the plain gold-colored satin. A bottom for the bag is made by covering an oblong piece of cardboard with the plain ribbon. A mirror inserted here adds to the attractiveness of the bag.

Both top and bottom of the bag are bound with the brocade ribbon, machine stitched to place. Machine stitching is a factor in the shapeliness of these bags. The covered bottom is finally sewed in and the cord hangers sewed to position.

This is one of the most fascinating of the new designs, any one of which will make a beautiful gift for Christmas time.

Using Old Tablecloths and Napkins. Old tablecloths of fine linen may be used for napkins, but napkins made of these have never been good looking nor pleasant to use, but an old table cloth made of heavy linen in fair condition will make beautiful covers for these bags. The covered bottom is finally sewed in and the cord hangers sewed to position.

Congressional Matters.

Some time ago, in the early part of October, to be exact, Hon. J. W. Overstreet, of Scriven, in making his first announcement for congress declared himself very strongly in favor of federal aid for public roads. This indeed was the chief plank in his platform. If it might be so called. Mr. Overstreet has some decided opinions along this line and he does not mind expressing them. He felt, and still feels, that instead of making so many worthless appropriations for little creeks and rivers all over the land, many of these appropriations being only food for the grafters, and really doing the people no good, that the federal government could make better use of this money by expending it upon improvement in the public highways, which is a matter of fact, belong to the government anyhow.

While this idea had been talked in other states, Mr. Overstreet was the pioneer, as it were, of the movement here, and its justice and reasonableness made it at once popular. Since that time it has been growing rapidly in favor with public men, who are quick to catch the rumbling of a popular movement and our present congressman, who, at the time Mr. Overstreet declared himself so forcibly along this line was busy on the proposed appropriation for a military highway from Savannah to Tybee, has recently got on the band wagon too.

The federal government ought to appropriate money for the improvement of the public highways in the rural districts of the state. The farmers keep this country going; they feed it and clothe it, and without them things would quickly come to a standstill. They are entitled to have good highways on which to travel and haul their products to and from the markets, and if the people of the First congressional district of Georgia take it into their heads to send Hon. J. W. Overstreet to the next congress to represent their interests, there will be one man up there we can vouch for who will fight for it. He is not a recent convert, but is the first man in this section who came out publicly for government aid to country roads.—Sylvania Telephos.

Mr. E. B. Davis came in from Atlanta to spend Christmas.

Sanest Christmas in Years.

The people certainly have cause to feel good over the outcome of the Christmas just gone by reason of the fact that it was the sanest celebration of this great event we have ever known. The reports from all over the country carry very few accounts of accidents, crimes, etc., incidental to the celebration of the Christmas holidays. There was a noticeable dropping off in the number of common drunks in this section. Whether this was caused by the onslaught on the Savannah liquor houses by the Law and Order League of that city we cannot say, inasmuch as it seemed the usual amount of whiskey was received here.

Let us hope that this is the beginning of a more sane celebration of the great day that marks another mile stone against the birth of the Saviour of the World.

Death of Mrs. Robinson.

On Wednesday night, in the Statesboro Sanitarium, where she had been confined with a severe case of illness for the past two or three weeks, Mrs. J. T. Robinson breathed her last. The funeral and interment was on Thursday at the family burial ground. The deceased was Miss Nellie Jenkins before her marriage to Mr. Robinson; a daughter of Mr. J. M. Jenkins.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brannen left last Monday to spend the holidays in Florida, visiting Jacksonville, Tampa, Dade City and other points. They will be away about ten days.

The friends of Mr. W. H. Canoles will sympathize with him in news of the death of his son, William Edgar, twenty-two years of age, which occurred in Baltimore one day last week. He was holding a position as electrical engineer with the Westinghouse people and in his work came in contact with a live wire, six to ten thousand volts passing through his body, killing him instantly. His funeral was conducted by the Junior Order United American Mechanics, the burial being in Baltimore.
