Working Writer Lecture Series: Chat with a writer from the CDC on November 7

October 25, 2018

The Working Writer Lecture Series, the Department of Writing & Linguistics' new lecture series, is pleased to host Dr. Lourdes Martinez of the Centers for Disease Control. Dr. Martinez will be presenting via WebEx on 7 p.m. on Wednesday, November 7, and will be in Carroll 2260 on the Statesboro Campus.

Students and faculty are encouraged to prepare questions to ask of Dr. Martinez, who works as a Health Communications Specialist. Dr. Martinez will speak more about her experience making a living as a writer as well as answer queries from the audience.

For more information about Dr. Martinez's visit, please contact Dr. Joanna Schreiber. If you are interested in learning more about the Working Writer Lecture Series, please contact Prof. Christina Olson.

The College of Arts and Humanities, the University's College of the Creative Mind, prepares students to achieve academic excellence, develop their analytical skills, enhance their creativity, and embrace their responsibilities as citizens of their communities, their nations, and the world.
