GRAPHIC COMMUNICATIONS MANAGEMENT'S 2014 GRAPHICS SUMMER CAMP

Georgia Southern University's Betty Foy Sanders Department of Art offers Graphics Summer Camp - a weeklong residency for rising juniors, seniors and recent high school graduates to discover the possibilities of a career in graphic communications management (GCM), where marketing and information technology solve business problems through a graphic design medium.

Each day, students learn different printing and production processes through hands-on experiences taught by Georgia Southern professors. Evenings are fun-filled with movies, karaoke, and access to Georgia Southern University's Recreation Activities Center (RAC).

June 22 – 27, 2014

LEARN ABOUT Flexography, Digital Printing, Lithography, Digital Photography, Wide Format Inkjet Printing, Graphic Design, Direct Mail, Bindery, Finishing and Dye Sublimation Printing ending with a PLANT TOUR at the largest print facility in Georgia, Quad/Graphics.

$150 includes 5 nights room/board, all supplies, evening activities, recreational activities center and plant tour.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: FRIDAY, JUNE 15

Why a career in GCM?

Leaders in GCM are needed. "Printing and related occupations employ the third largest number of people in manufacturing in the United States." (U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics). The BFSDoArt provides a progressive environment and interdisciplinary curriculum including hands-on learning with industrial equipment, internships within the profession, scholarships and career placement for broad career placement.
