OUR COLLEGE

NEWS ... VIEWS

THE EASTER EGG HUNT and dance co-sponsored by the two literary societies proved to be a delightful affair.

ALTHOUGH MUCH WORK yet remains to be done on the new Science Hall, the students of biology are glad to discard their "ping pong" tables and resume their work in the new building.

A GROUP OF STUDENTS from the college went to Nevils Thursday night and entertained the patrons of the school with a mixed comical and musical program. Those taking part in the program were: Miss Sara Kate Scarboro, Miss Torrence Brady and Bob Harris. They were accompanied by Talmadge Roberts.

SHOULD THOSE OCCUPANTS of West Dormitory be awakened some morning by some peculiar sound, it is probable that it is some member of Dr. DeLoach's ornithology class attempting to imitate their bird friends. The class arose early last Wednesday and made their first observation.

EACH AFTERNOON AS ONE watches the large number of students who are using the boats on the lakes, we cannot help but feel that our president must be pleased at the response being made in regard to the use of the boats.

THE STUDENT APARTMENTS being built down by the white cottages are nearing completion and should be ready for the Spring short term.

THE SENIOR CLASS entertained the faculty and students in the gymnasium Saturday night.

They're Here! Spring Holidays

Class bells won't mean a thing, seven-thirty breakfasts will be of the forgotten past, and class room naps will have lost absolutely all their appeal by the end of this week.

Holidays is the key-word and "Home, Sweet Home" the tune. For three days T. C. will be a listless suburb, characterized by its inactivity. Students will become conspicuous by their absence—and by their presence. Home with the folks, the old friends and sweethearts—surrounded by familiar sights.

It's Wednesday we leave, and Monday we come back—but forget the coming back. Wednesday we leave! Thursday, Friday and Saturday we're there!

Ah, a fit subject for a king!

Who's Who Results Show The Campus Superlatives

STUDENTS VOTE FOR 13 PLACES

CONTEST SPONSORED BY THE GEORGE-ANNE CREATES MUCH FOR STUDENT BODY IN PICKING THE FAVORITES

Now we know Who's Who at T. C., or at least who we think is who. Although there were very few campaign speeches made in chapel, more interest was shown later, and over half of the student body cast votes for superlatives.

The results of the Superlative election sponsored by the George-Anne last week are given below in the order in which they rated.

Boys:

Handsome—Winston Wilkins, Elliot Battle, and Ancelon Powell.

Most Popular — Jake Smith, Cliff Hale.

Best All Round—Cliff Hale; Jake Smith and Jim Wrinkle tying for second.

Wittiest—Wilkins Smith, Bob Harris, Bill Stewart.

Most Talented — James Wiggins, Shelby Monroe.

Most Intellectual — Leonard Kent, Bill Stewart, with Jim Wrinkle and

MAY DAY QUEEN CHOSEN TOMORROW

Tomorrow the May Queen for 1934 will be elected at the chapel period by the student body. The election each year creates much interest, and the one Tuesday should be especially interesting since, due to the character of the celebration, there was no queen last year.

Only juniors and seniors who have a C average and a good health record are eligible. Mary Wolf, Sadie Fulcher, Louise Quantock, Helen Olliff, Carolyn Mundy, Margaret Owens and several others will probably make the race. Here is another opportunity for the students to support their candidates. Those who run but are not lucky enough to be chosen queen will compose the queen's court.

Miss Mary Small is in charge of the costume designing and the affair promises to be very colorful.

The program performed before the May Queen will consist of entertainment by people from many lands who, clad in their bright-colored national costumes, will execute folk dances. Both European and Oriental countries will be represented.

At the conclusion of the folk dances the May festival will close with the traditional winding of the May poles.

MISS LANE ATTENDS NEW ORLEANS MEET

Under the New Deal of the present day there is no other branch of education which has as great an opportunity of helping revise our social order as that of the physical education department, according to a statement made by Dr. Carmichael, president of Alabama College for Women, at the southern division of the American Education Association held in New Orleans March 28th through the 31st.

For the past seven years the colleges of the south have sent representatives to the association with the purpose of discussing physical education. Miss Caro Lane, head of the physical education department for women, attended as a delegate from Teachers College.

This year special stress was laid on the promotion and extension of women's athletics. Exemption from so many required courses and the addition of more electives was advised. It was also recommended that students be required to take some form of athletics as long as they attend school. The present system was criticized as being too competitive instead of cooperative.

Dancing, swimming, and tennis are the three most needed and most popular forms of physical education, according to student opinion, practice, and preference.

CAN'T YOU KEEP A PROMISE?

How well do you see what you read—or, rather, do you think about what you are asked to read? Listen to this clipped from a daily newspaper a few days ago:

"Five hundred University students have pledged themselves to cut off their haads—

"A petition was circulated on the campus to learn how many under-graduates read what they signed. The five hundred didn't. At the bottom of a request for an extra holiday was:

"We are resolved to spend the day in merry-making and leisure, at which time each one will decapitate himself with extreme joy."

Probably if some of these people who signed away what they haven't got—meaning brains, were forced to carry out this suicidal cutting spree, what happened to the rest would not matter. At any rate, this could be a living example to these people on this and other campuses afflicted with the "petition mania." Know what you are signing, understand your point in the undertaking, before you sign away what little of you, you really have.

Extracting another moral from this all to typical bit of impetuous college nature, it might help to incite some perturbation on the side of the proverbial bull-shooter if ever he were called upon to carry out his "blood-thirsty reformations." If we stopped to think, possibly two-thirds of our windy and white-heated nature could be calmed down.

No student has ever lost a thing by stopping, thinking and listening.

"WE ARE NOTHING, IF NOT CRITICAL."

If Kigy's reputation continues to grow by leaps and bounds—and mostly bounds—that all too famous character will have to be classed as just another "Forlorn Farena" who "had her day" on the dirt thirsty college campus. However, it is all too evident that Kigy has done her part even though she says "The New Deal is just another hand to me." We have to admit that her fan mail is the largest of the entire staff, her column is the most widely read, and she must have a place in the hearts of all!

Not "horses and numbers," but "chewing gum and cows" come invariably to one's mind when one of those gum-popping prodigals come around. Can't we pop our gum behind the doors of our room? It is a psychological fact that the brain works faster when not taxed with jaw movement, and certainly the instructor can do his or her best when the students refrain from entering class with chewing gum in their mouths. Students, let's build a sentiment of "you can't have your gum and pop it unless you're in your room."

We are not raising objections to the kind of music played during the dinner or supper hour. Do not misunderstand our motive because the boarding students are indebted to those people who make the delightful music during the meal times. But is it proper to swing from "Sweet Sue" right into the Alma Mater in the midst of a meal, especially while some of the men have "their feet in the trough" (to use the expression of one of our promising co-ed journalists)?

Realizing the beauty of our school, and knowing too that there are usually a few detracting things in every spot of beauty, the George-Anne wishes to call attention to the broken outdoor swings on the campus. Those swings are not only a nuisance in their broken condition, but are in the way. Students who sit in them do it at their own risk. The staff feel that calling attention to the matter will be sufficient.

LONG LOUD LAUGHS

"Laughter is the result of an expectation, which, of a sudden ends in nothing."—Immanuel Kant.

"Laughter arises from the consciousness of our superiority."—Boris Sidis.

"Perhaps I know best why man is the only animal that laughs. He alone suffers so excruciatingly that he was compelled to invent laughter."—Friederich Nietzsche.

Herewith follows a collection of "laughs" which are guaranteed to make the most unchuckle:

F. W. Robertson has said, "It is a bad man who has not within him the power of a hearty laugh."

It is reported of Will Rogers that while tending a corn crop in Texas, a neighbor said, "Will, your corn looks yellow." "Yes," said Will, "I planted the yellow kind."

Paderewski was giving a private concert at the home of a young matron who had recently acquired great wealth, but whose knowledge of music was not equal to her money. "May I ask, Mr. Paderewski," said the young woman, "who is the composer of that selection you played last? It is, indeed, wonderful." "Beethoven, Madam," answered the pianist. "Ah, yes," she replied. "Wonderful. Is he composing now?" "No, Madam," replied Paderewski, gravely, "He is decomposing."

Bernard Shaw is a vegetarian and seriously objects to appearing at dinners and luncheons. Lady Randolph Churchill was ignorant of this fact and asked him to luncheon to meet a distinguished guest. Shaw wired back to her, "Certainly not. Why should I break my well known habits?" Lady Churchill swiftly retorted by wire, "Know nothing about your habits, but trust they are not as bad as your manners."

When Dr. S. B. Harding was teaching in the history department of Indiana University, he was seen perambulating across the campus one bright Saturday morning pushing a baby carriage "Out airing your son, Dr. Harding?" inquired a senior. "No," said the professor with a barely perceptible pause, "No. I'm out sunning my heir."

"Loafing Through the Pacific"

(By Seth K. Humphrey)

Seth K. Humphrey, unlike many another traveler, seems to have plenty of time and money so he leisurely takes a year to travel through the Pacific Island. Learning and levity travel hand in hand in the pages as he gives an interesting and vivid account of his travels. Descriptions of different places combined with romantic tales of the natives abound. He composes his travel notes with the adroitness of fiction.

Readers of this book will find themselves surveying the Hawaiian Islands through different eyes. He pictures the natives as lazy, easy going people, the ways of white men having but little effect on them.

From Hawaii he takes us to American and the British Samoas. He takes us to the kingdom of Tonga, Fiji Islands, Australia, China and Japan.

Most of these natives have accepted our religion, but are loath to give up their old customs and languages.

Let Mr. Humphrey take you through the Pacific.

ANNIE LOUISE BOSWELL.

MY DREAM

My favorite dream of joys never to be,
Is the dream of an island set off in some sea.

With only a dog, some books, and me
I'd be so happy, alone by the sea.

From worry and care I'd always be free,

With no disturbance except the sea.

I'd love, I'd live, I'd laugh and sing
With no worry about a single thing.

My ideal would then come to life
And in dreams I'd be his wedded wife.

But this is a dream of joys never to be
When I would be happy, alone by the sea.

HAPPENINGS IN THE TRAINING SCHOOL

as any of the content courses. Even with limited means a definite program of music is in progress throughout all grades. Besides regular daily periods of music there are several special music activities under way. The first, second, third and fourth grades are learning music for the operetta, Hansel and Gretel. A junior chorus has been organized from elementary grades. The boys and girls of the seventh and eighth grades have a glee club. Now they are learning English, Irish and Scotch songs and will soon have a recognition contest. There are some possibilities of a harmonica club among the boys. The most enthusiastic group in music is composed of a number of elementary boys and girls who are taking class piano lessons. This program is reaching the children of the Training School in a very definite way but only a limited number of the student teachers have a part in this program.

SPORTS

TIDE BREAKS EVEN IN B.-P. I. SERIES

The Teachers opened the 1934 baseball season by first tying and then defeating Brewton-Parker here last week. Each time the locals put on a last-inning rally to stave off defeat.

In the first game, Griffin, the starting pitcher, was knocked out rather quickly, three runs being scored off him. Thomas went in to relieve him, and pitched good ball, except for one home-run he allowed, which accounted for three more runs. The Teachers got two runs early in the game, and added one later. In the last of the seventh (which was to be the last inning) the Blue Tide came to bat facing a three-runs deficit. Wilkins Smith came to bat with the winning run on third, and two outs; but he failed to deliver a hit, leaving the game tied 6-6. Another inning failed to break the deadlock, so the game was called. The final score was 6-6.

McKneely and Hines led the Teachers' hitting.

College Golfers Win Tri-City Match

The Statesboro golf team easily defeated Jesup in a match played on the Jesup course Thursday.

The match was to be a tri-city match, but Glennville failed to send a team.

Mr. Witcher, leader of the Statesboro team, won the cup which was offered for the low medal score. He shot 38-40, for an 18 round total of 78.

The Statesboro team finished with a 35-stroke lead over the Jesup players.

Members of the Statesboro team and their scores for 18 holes are as follows: Jim Wrinkle, 83; Fred Mathis, 86; Sidney Stapleton, 100; Mr. Russell, 106, and M. Y. Hendrix, 107.

None of the Jesup golfers carded a score under 95.

As soon as the local course gets into a little better shape, then a return match with Jesup will be held here.

In the interim, matches are being sought with Waynesboro, Millen and other towns in this section.

Anyone who is interested may try out for this team.

Two professors at Valepin College in Spain, says the Fern College Cauldron, were locked in a room and kept there until they promised to pass the whole class of fifty.—Davidsonian.

Among the strange and unexpected subjects taught in American colleges will be found the following: Ping Pong (University of Iowa), nut culture (Oklahoma A. and M. College), broadcasting (Oglethorpe University), horseshoeing (Michigan State College), charm (Rollins College), sleeping (University of Texas).—Colonade.

TENNIS MATCHES END THIS WEEK

Play is progressing rather rapidly in the men's singles tennis tournament now that rain and cold weather no longer hinder.

In the matches played up to date, Hugh Kimball is the only player to reach the third round. He got there by virtue of a default by Settles in the first round, and by beating Purvis rather decisively in the second round. Kimball led Settles 8-6, 3-0, when Settles was forced to quit, thus giving Kimball the match by default.

In the other first round matches, Wilkins Smith, winner of last year's tournament, beat Carl Hodges rather easily, but was extended slightly in the last set.

Joe Purvis defeated Jim Wrinkle with little trouble 6-2, 8-6. It was a slow match.

Harold Dean Roberts defeated Will Alsop in another first round match. This match went to three sets, and was the hardest fought of any. Roberts showed a good brand of tennis in winning.

Charles Wolff went into the second round when Carruth defaulted. Carruth has withdrawn from school.

The only second round match that has been played was Kimball's victory over Purvis. Scores were 6-2, 7-5. In the second set of this match Purvis led at one time five love, but Kimball rallied to take seven straight games.

Several good matches are to be expected in the next few days. The Shippey-Munch battle should be very interesting, as should also be the Wilkes-Pitchford struggle. All four of these boys are fast, experienced players. Some excellent tennis should be exhibited.

Several of the players are members of the baseball team, and their absence due to the trip is slowing the tournament considerably. But when they get back, the tournament will be quickly finished.

A few more spectators might enliven the spirit some. It has been arranged to announce the matches in the dining hall, so let's all turn out for these contests.

Mr. Singley Surpasses Previous Golf Record

The first hole-in-one to be registered on the new golf course was made by Mr. A. A. Singley, professor of education, when he aced number three, a par three 175 yard hole.

Not only was it the course's first ace, but Singley's as well. "Henceforth three will be par for me on that hole," laughingly stated the professor.

Some Criticism Recently Heard About the G.-A.

Below are the most frequently occurring remarks directed from students to the uplifting as well as the improvement of the college paper:

PRO

CON

1. "Isn't Sally Snooper's advice to the lovelorn the silliest thing you've ever read?"
2. "Why in the world don't they leave Kigy out of the George-Anne? I hate it. There's just about 12 people on the campus who always make Kigy."
3. "The George-Anne gets worse and worse."
4. "If we don't have a paper better than the last two issues, we might as well not have one."
5. "The George-Anne always tells us something we already know."
6. "I couldn't find anything to read this time." (This remark and the following one were made about the issue in which Kigy was omitted.)
7. "My! Aren't we getting literary? It's all beyond me."
8. "What'll the George-Anne do now for a front page story? Robin Hood has already been presented."
9. "The staff won't publish anything when you hand it in. I went to Savannah Thursday and I told 2 or 3 members of the staff and then it was not in the paper."
10. "Why didn't the George-Anne have an article in it to tell us what to wear to the dance instead of announcing it in the dining hall?"

Inter-Society Debate Subject is Announced

The subject for the quarterly debates between the Stephens and Oglethorpe societies has been announced. It is, "Resolved, That the present policy of the United States government in guaranteeing bank deposits up to $2,500 should be made permanent." The students to represent the two societies have not been selected.

This is a subject of vital importance both to local and national groups. It is of special interest to those who have followed President Roosevelt's policy as it will give them an opportunity to weigh and to secure information which they have not known. It is an opportunity for students to do some valuable research work in the subject so as to make greater or abolish all doubts as to the wisdom of Roosevelt's program.

One way for a woman to prove she's crazy to get married is to become the blushing bride of a man who has already lost four wives.

CWA Workers Given Barbecue by Mr. Wells

Following the completion of the C. W. A. work on the Teachers College building project last week, President Wells was host to 75 of the civil employees at a barbecue dinner.

Tables were placed down at the lakes and plates were laden with food as the guests went by.

Mrs. Fletcher, Bulloch county administrator, was present for the occasion.

In addition to the barbecue, coffee, Brunswick stew, sandwiches, fruit, soft drinks, pickles and slaw were served.

A remarkable collection of old whiskey bottles is now on exhibition in the East Campus Library of Duke University. The Duke Chronicle says that the bottles should be especially interesting to a generation that has always seen its whiskey in ordinary fruit jars or flasks. The bottles have on them varied designs, including busts of George Washington and Jenny Lind.—Emory Wheel.

ALUMNI NEWS

As a teacher training institution it might be well to see what kind of work this school is doing in placing teachers and administrators in the various schools in the state of Georgia. In recent days I have compiled a list of former students from South Georgia Teachers College who have held principals, superintendents of county and school superintendent positions in various schools in Georgia. This may not be complete, but it does show the list of students holding administrative positions as far as I can learn.

H. M. Hodges—County school superintendent, Long county.

H. P. Womack—County school superintendent, Bulloch county.

J. W. Fowler—County school superintendent, Treutlen county.

Ernest Gnann — Superintendent, Egypt.

E. K. Bell—Superintendent, Gillis Springs.

Happenings in the Training School

Much attention is given this term to the activity program in all the grades. Many of the student teachers are working up their units very successfully. Emphasis upon meeting the needs of the child can be recognized throughout the entire program. It is very evident that the children are more interested in the work and the teachers acknowledge that their experiences are more meaningful. Every effort is made to make the activities practical and possible even in remote rural schools. The student teacher will be encouraged to find her activity and the material for its development in the local situation. The development of an activity here gives an understanding and a skill in the method.

In the future a more careful check will be made upon the record of students who apply for teaching assignments in the Training School. Gradually the administration expects to set up definite standards for selecting those who come to the Training School for supervised teaching. One standard has been set up that will go into effect for the fall term. A student must make an average of "C" or above in college courses to have the opportunity of doing supervised teaching.

An understanding of and an appreciation of music enriches the background of the teacher, especially of elementary grades. Gradually, music is getting its place in the public school program. It is hoped that in the near future music will be emphasized in the preparation of teachers as much
