George-Anne Attends College Press Meet

NOTED PRESS MEN WERE ON PROGRAM

DEAN L. L. HENDREN, DR. J. T. WHEELER, O. B. KEELER AND OTHERS AS SPEAKERS.

Five students, members of the George-Anne staff, and a faculty member attended the sessions of the Georgia Collegiate Press Association meeting at the Henry W. Grady School of Journalism, University of Georgia, in Athens on May 4th.

The morning session of the association met with the high school division in the journalism building. The address of welcome was given by Dean L. L. Hendren of the University. Dr. John T. Wheeler, head of the education department at the University, spoke on "Meeting Dad." His speech was very timely, being concerned with the problems that confront the youth of today as he leaves high school and college.

Two noted journalists, Ralph T. Jones, music and dramatic critic of the Atlanta Constitution, and O. B.

Bachelors to Stage Rousing Comedy

"Object: Matrimony" is the play chosen for presentation by the Bachelors Club for their annual appearance before the fairer sex. It is to be presented Friday, May 17, during the regular chapel hour.

Since "Beware of Women" is their motto, the cast will be an all-male one. The feminine roles will be cautiously and carefully portrayed by the lean and lithe figures of James Hall, Chauncey Brinson and other masculine "elites." No woman will spoil the manly atmosphere.

This is a one-act play dealing with the feminine characteristics of searching for a mate. J. D. Purvis will play the part of Morris, the owner of the marriage bureau. Other members of the cast are:

His daughter, Mizzy — Leonard Kent.

His secretaries, Joe and Lena — James Townsend and Charles Wolff.

Postman — Julius Hodges.

Negro servant — Howell Martin.

Hank, a country rube — Foots Edwards.

Petrolus, the typical old maid — Alton Ellis.

COLLEGE SECURES EDUCATION FUND

The General Education Board has appropriated $10,000 each year for two years for the purpose of extending the service of teacher training under the supervision of the South Georgia Teachers College.

According to the present plan, there will be one supervisor in charge of eight or ten students each term who will do the supervised teaching required for a normal diploma or a degree from this college. These students will take the place of teachers in schools adjacent to the college who have been employed, but who desire to have further college training. They will come into the college and take regular courses for one term. While in the college they will receive the salary according to their contract with the local board and will pay their expenses at Statesboro. While here they will have courses particularly dealing with rural education. Everything will be done to make these in-service teachers have a rich experience in order that they make real contributions in the life of the community where they have been employed on their return to the schools.

The student teachers who go out to take the places of these in-service will be supervised by the college and some definite community program will be started before the employed teachers return to their jobs. The in-service teachers will have constant contact with what is being done

Science Club to Award Scholarship

The Popular Science Club has announced its annual award for the school year 1934-35. This award pays the science fee of the winner for one year, which is equivalent to $15. This year, in addition, an honorary membership in the Science Club is offered.

To the Student Body:

Because of a desire to promote an interest in science and to give recognition to one who has proved his ability to pursue this field of study, the Popular Science Club is offering as a scholarship the science fee for 1934-35. The student must be one who has already had courses or is now pursuing courses in science at this college. Anyone who wishes to apply for the scholarship should submit his name to Martha Smith, secretary of the club some time this week.

A committee from the club, the sponsors and Dean Henderson will constitute the committee to select the worthy person.

FACULTY LADIES GO OLD-FASHIONED

The students were transported back the "good ole days," when ladies were gentle and men were chivalrous, in chapel recently when the ladies of the faculty entertained the student body with a unique program.

Gone were the brisk and efficient instructors and in their places were shy, sweet and demure young maidens. Beautifully dressed in full-flowing dresses from beneath which only the toes of their slippers peeped—they presented a living picture of what we "moderns" have sometimes heard of and read about, but never before witnessed. After all of our "Hot cha" and "Hey Nonny, Nonny," it was somewhat refreshing.

The blaseosity of the modern girl

W. A. A. Stunt Night Proves Successful

The Woman's Athletic Association sponsored a very enjoyable program last Saturday night. The first part of the entertainment consisted of "stunts" planned by members of the athletic council and put on by members of the student body under their direction. After the stunts there was dancing in the gym.

Some of these stunts were very original and the girls should be highly praised. Some of the best features were a reading by Russell Tuten and a fashion show by Louise Rozier. The fashion show, bringing the dress of women from Eve to 1950, was a revelation—especially with boys as models.

The rest of the program consisting of short skits, readings and music was very enjoyable.

The idea of this new type of entertainment was very successful, both from the point of view of the student body and from a financial standpoint. Every student had a good time and the association cleared $18.

OFFICERS CHOSEN FOR COMING YEAR

STUDENT GOVERNMENT, Y. M. Y. W. AND HOUSE COUNCIL OFFICERS ELECTED TO SERVE FOR 1934-35.

The major officers on the campus have been selected for the year 1934-35 in a series of elections by the students. The most fiercely contested election was that of the officers of the Student Council who were elected on mixed tickets.

J. D. Cherry went in by a big majority as president of the Student Council for the forthcoming year. Corinne Lanier was chosen as vice-president and Louise Quantock was unanimously elected secretary. Under a new ruling adopted by the Student Council, its vice-president is to act as an advisory counsel for the Freshmen Commission each year. The vice-president-elect has already made plans to make the Freshmen Commission a more representative body next year.

The Y. W. C. A. has selected as its leaders for next year: Hassie Maude McElveen, president; Bee Shafe, vice-president, and Edna Bennett, secretary.

The officers for the Y. M. C. A. will be: J. D. Purvis, president; Alton Ellis, vice-president, and Julius Hodges, secretary.

"Heathers at Home" Presented Wednesday

"The Heathers at Home," a three-act comedy, will be presented by the Dramatic Club on Wednesday evening under the direction of Miss Corinne Lanier. This will be the last major presentation of the club for this year.

The story deals with a father who dominates his family to such an extent that their very marriages and other affairs are arranged by him. However, as his wife says, "When the cat's away, the mice will play," and when "papa" goes on a trip everyone enjoys themselves until his unexpected return. The play is full of humorous situations and should provide a full evening of entertainment.

The cast is composed almost entirely of new performers, and there are some surprises in store for the audience. Just a hint—watch "Rowdy" Chapman dominate his family in the role of "Papa."

The cast follows:

Bessie—Carmen Brown.

Bertie—Lawrence Shippy.

Mack—Bill Stewart.

Elsie—Polly Mincey.

Mama—Mrs. Hazlett.

Lotty—Eloise Graham.

Fred—Billy Gwyn.

Papa—James Chapman.

Oscar—Doris Raulerson.

Mike Heaton—Bobby McLemore.

Dr. Groves—Howell Martin.

A COUPLE OF QUESTIONS

It is both amusing and distressing to observe the activities of the animal, man. Described as the most intelligent piece of mechanism known, and possessing "superiority complex" that sticks out continually, he would naturally be a kind of permeating and self-assertive influence in his environment. Yet the question of "What can I do about it?" always hobnobs with "What is the use?" The person who is content to remain a creature of circumstances and let nature take its course, should be described as a spineless species minus intelligence and superiority.

So we come to the annual question that pops out about this time every year on college and university campuses the land over—"After college, what?" To follow the line of least resistance and to save a lot of words and useless discussion of the "times," the simplest answer would be "nothing." In a great many cases this answer would be absolutely correct. Of the sixteen and one-half million people on the relief administration for March, approximately twelve and one-half per cent were college graduates. Of course, no one would be so pessimistic as to say that any of the graduates of 1934 would join these two million unemployed. However, it is better to face the facts and try to do something about it than to walk into the water with your shoes on.

And back to "What can I do about it?" Here is a chance to use the superior and masterlike qualities. The most assuring but not comfortable reply is "don't wait; find something to do and do it better than anybody else." Make a place for you and your abilities. Education is a flop if it has failed to teach one how to get the most out of his environment.

It is evident that many ambitious graduates and many students with persisting efforts will be confronted with difficult obstacles. Don't give up the ship. "Nothing succeeds like success."

A feeling of "What's the use" is bound to creep in. Everybody gets in that fix and the only cure is to pat yourself on the back and say that everybody else is not like me. Remember that a selfish motive is better than none at all. Too many people today who think

SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT

No college activity has shown greater strides of progress and improvement than the programs presented during assembly period for this term. There has been a keener interest manifested, more time put on rehearsals and more worthwhile topics discussed than ever before. It would be safe to say, if the good work continues, that we are well on the road to more and better chapel periods. Any way that part of the day should not be looked forward to with contempt and boredom.

The improvements in the programs for the term might be attributed to the way they have been planned. For the first time, a committee from the Student Council has served with the faculty committee and helped work out the programs. Congratulations to the students for instigating a few new ideas! When the chapel hour is made an hour of interest as well as "speech making," students will forget to gripe about compulsory attendance.

The program presented by the women of the faculty deserves mention here as the kind to be looked forward to. They showed the students that they do have some wit (although not ultra-modern) and have a human side as well as the "other" side. It's time for the men to do their stuff. Probably "Buttercup" could induce the "dignified Profs" to stage a pantomime of his "World in 2001."

COME CLEAN WITH IT!

There has been frequent comment—more or less unfavorable—among students lately regarding the trend classroom work has taken in certain courses. High school methods versus college methods has been the theme of these comments. "Since we're in college," students say, "the course of procedure should be different than in our high school days."

It is generally understood that there is, or should be, a big difference in the two methods of teaching. The scope of study is enlarged when students get well-rounded information or a well-formulated idea. This is quite unlikely to happen if Johnny is marked absent for not being in a certain seat; or if he is pinned down to THE cause the instructor may have in mind for some historical or social occurrence.

Classes where one student is given this part to read aloud and another is given that part are not so interesting. It is done in the eighth grade quite fittingly; classes where the teacher himself sees fit to read from thirty minutes to an hour are as fascinating as playing William Tremble Toe.

Teachers who lack information usually rely upon such methods. We believe our teachers, a great majority if not all, have background to do their work well. So instead of merely telling each other about little faults we find, which rarely do good, let's be out in the open.

they have an education have been injected with the false belief that the world owes them a living. If there were just a few in the same boat, there might be something to this statement. All of us strive for goals that we can not see and live by ideals that are wholly abstract and conventional. Every man doing his bit with existing standards is assured of reaping a golden harvest.

Philosophical Seniors

What of these high and mighty Seniors that are just about to procure their sheep-skins? With what philosophy and ambition are they about to go out in life? Let's see.

Here's one boy who says, "Life is just a bunch of golden dreams that seldom come true. When they do come true they are not as good as you thought they would be. I want to be a dreamer of golden dreams and then have those dreams come true." He's just a dreamer, but "aren't we all?"

"Life is the most beautiful art given us by the Divine Father," says this girl, "And my ambition is to live so that if I lose, I will still have something to gain." Surely, a beautiful philosophy!

Some one has said that poets are the best philosophers. This boy embodied his philosophy in a poem entitled, "Prayer of Life."

"Oh! Let me live that in the end,
I'll know each man as my friend,
With conscience free and simple grace,
Meet my Maker face to face.

"The world, a better place to live,
Because to me, life was give,
And my existence justify,
To one who rules, the Most High.

"Joyful of heart, calm and serene,
Let me hear my last requiem,
Not fearful of an endless night,
When my Lord withdraws His light;

"But happy in a work well done,
At the setting of my sun;
Each task complete, each barrier past,
Breath, a restful sigh, the last."

"Life is like a poem; the most important thing about it is not that it should be long, but that it should be beautiful and interesting and inspiring. I want to follow a vision—an ideal. I shall not compromise with life, take the detour, or barter my vision for cheap tinsel and whoopee. I hope that there are four things in which I can believe through all confusion: Believe in myself, in my fellowman, in life and in God." This is the philosophy of a feminine member of the Senior Class.

"My philosophy of life," asserts this young man, "is to give to life all that you have and the best will come back to you. And my ambition is to attain the highest level in whatever I set out to do." This seems to have been the philosophy of a number of the Seniors and certainly a worthy one. With this outlook on life success is practically assured for them.

"If you can't do what you would like to do, then like what you have to do," is the philosophy of some sage member. No wild rebelling against fate or circumstances for him. Accept things that are and make the best of them.

All of the Seniors did not submit their philosophy; perhaps they don't have one. But it is interesting to know what some of the Seniors think at the conclusion of their college life. And no doubt it will be even more interesting to hear what they think of life ten years from now.

Anyway, we wish for them an interesting, beautiful and successful life. May they ever be happy!

B.-P. P. DEFEATS TIDE TRACK TEAM

TEACHERS SCORE 40 POINTS;
60 FOR BREWTON-PARKER;
McKNEELY HIGH POINT MAN.

The track team of South Georgia Teachers College in its first, last and only track meet this year went down in defeat at the hands (and flying feet) of the B.-P. I. tracksters at Mount Vernon last Monday. The points stood at 60-40 in favor of B.-P. I.

The Teachers team had had only one or two days of practice. In fact, there had been nothing said about it before the previous Thursday. When the team departed for Mount Vernon, no one knew just what events he was to enter. Each man just entered anything and everything he wanted to. Harold McKneely was the high man for the meet, winning three first places, scoring 15 points.

The meet ended up as a dual affair since Norman and Douglas failed to show up. The meet turned out to be five records being broken.

100-yard dash—First, McKneely, Teachers; second, Patrick, B.-P. I.; third, Hines, Teachers. Time, 9.9 (new record).

220-yard dash—First, McKneely, Teachers; second, Ledford, B.-P. I.; third, Hines, Teachers. Time, 23 flat (new record).

440-yard dash—First, Anderson, B.-P. I.; second, Clements, Teachers; third, Alsup, Teachers. Time, 58.9.

880-yard dash—First, James, B.-P. I.; second, Iler, B.-P. I.; third, Smith, B. P. I. Time, 1.17.

120 low hurdles—First Mathews, B.-P. I.; second, Deal, Teachers; third, Floyd, B.-P. I. Time, 14 flat (new record).

220 low hurdles—First, Mathews, B.-P. I.; second, Deal, Teachers; third, Bedingfield, Teachers. Time, 30.2.

Half-mile relay—First, B.-P. I.; second, Teachers; third, B.-P. I.

Pole vault—First, Ledford, B.-P. I.; second, tie between Smith and Anderson, Teachers. Height, 10 feet, 11 inches (new record).

High jump—First, McKneely, Teachers; second, Howard, B.-P. I.; third, tie between Smith and Anderson, Teachers. Height, 5 feet, 7 3/4 inches.

Broad jump—First, Hicks, B.-P. I.; second, Anderson, Teachers; third, Patrick, B.-P. I. Distance, 22 feet, 2 1/2 inches.

Discus—First, Patrick, B.-P. I.; second, Anderson, Teachers; third, Quattlebaum, Teachers. Distance, 107 feet, 2 1/2 inches.

Netmen Win From B.-P. I. Second Time

T. C.'s "racqueteers" defeated those of B.-P. I. 5-0 here Thursday afternoon.

Charlie Munch, playing as No. 1 man, defeated Collins, the Brewton-Parker coach, 6-2, 6-2. Wolff and

Teachers Lose Four Straights On Road

The Blue Tide lost all four games on a road trip last week—two games in Gordon and two in Cochran.

The Teachers out-hit their opponents three afternoons, but errors, faulty base-running, failure to play smart, heads-up baseball caused their downfall.

The pitching staff performed nobly, but was not supported as it should have been.

Wilkins Smith, second baseman, hurt his hand in the last game, and is lost for the season.

It was the last road trip of the season and proved to be disastrous to the Teachers. Until these four games were lost, the Teachers had a mathematical chance to win the title, but that is gone now. There is still a possibility of taking second place.

Profs Lose One In Double-Header

The Teachers split a double-header with Douglas here last Saturday winning the first game 8-1, and losing the last game 9-6.

Son Thomas, the "mighty" little man from Patterson, held the opposing sluggers to six hits and one run. Everyone in the Teachers line-up hit safely, even the aforementioned Thomas getting his second hit in three years. Spears led with three hits, and half of his team-mates followed with two. It was a fast well-played game.

In the second game, Griffin was the starting pitcher, but due to errors and loose fielding was removed in favor of Ratley. But still Douglas won out 9-6. McKneely got a home-run, Spears got two more hits and DuBose also made two.

Tennis Team Defeats Douglas and B.-P. I.

Despite the fact that over half of their talent was off on baseball trips, the Teachers netmen defeated Douglas 3 to 2 last week. The team was composed of Kimball, Hodges, Roberts, Wolff and Munch.

Munch and Wolff won their doubles match and their single matches to win the only matches for the "Profs" in the 3-2 victory.

Last Friday the team journeyed to B.-P. I. and defeated the B.-P. I. netmen 4 to 1. The same men made the trip and the only match lost to B.-P. I. was by Wolff and Munch in the doubles. Kimball, Wolff, Munch won single matches and Hodges and Kimball won their doubles match.

Smith easily won their single matches.

In the double, Munch and Smith defeated Collins and Connors, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2. Hodges and Wolff took their doubles match with an easy margin.

Happenings in the Training School

The warm weather and the opening of the pool have brought much joy to the children of the Training School. During college assembly hour and at the noon hour the children of the campus are having a great sport in the pool. More than half of the group don bathing suits, others working hard on sore tonsils in order to have the same privilege. This advantage is greatly appreciated by supervisors of the Training School. There is no sport in which the children may engage that develops greater confidence in one's ability to take care of himself than does swimming.

The last meeting of the Training School P.-T. A. was held Thursday afternoon, May 2nd, in the auditorium and recreation rooms of the Training School. The program was in the nature of a tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Wells. Mrs. Lester Martin, president of the P.-T. A., presented Mrs. Wells with a beautiful corsage of pansies. In presenting this to Mrs. Wells, Mrs. Martin expressed appreciation of Mrs. Wells' contribution to the work of the P.-T. A. in the state, district, county and local school. Mr. Downs presented to Mr. Wells from the children, patrons and teachers of the Training School a beautiful leather belt with sterling silver buckle and a tie clasp to match buckle. Mr. Wells responded with an expression of deep appreciation to all who had contributed to the development of the campus school.

After the conclusion of the program all were invited into the recreation room for a social hour. Under the direction of Mr. James Wiggins, orchestral music was furnished by several college students. Refreshments were served by a number of the young lady student teachers.

Many of the short spring term students are taking advantage of the Training School in observing the different rooms. Special demonstration lessons are taught for their benefit. The various units being worked up by the groups of student teachers in their regular teaching assignments and in the courses of methods are open for their inspection. It is hoped that every one who is interested will carefully investigate these activities. All the work

In the selection of these teachers, consideration will be given to the following: (1) In-service teachers must have a contract with a school board for the year 1934-35. (2) They must have promise of community leadership. (3) The school with which the in-service teacher has a contract must be within a reasonable distance from the institution here. (Schools located at a great distance from this institution make supervision impossible.) (4) The county superintendent and the county board of education of the system in which the school is a member must give full support to the plan.

Keeler, Atlanta Journal sports writer, also appeared on the program and told of their early experiences in the field of journalism.

At noon the college journalists were entertained with a luncheon at the Holman Hotel.

The afternoon was given over to a round table discussion of current problems of the college newspaper. The discussion was led by Boifeuillet Jones, of Emory University. Topics mentioned included "Censorship," "The Gossip Column," "Paid Editors and Business Managers," "National Affairs" and "A College Newspaper." Officers for the coming year were selected and Wesleyan College, Macon, was selected for the 1935 association meeting.

The T. C. delegation was composed of Claire Hilks, Mayo Cody, George Carter, James Chapman, Alton Ellis, and Mr. T. A. Witcher.

Bachelor's Club Elects Officers for Next Year

At the regular meeting of the Bachelor's Club, which was held at Miss Wood's apartment on South Main street, last Wednesday night, officers for the year 1934-35 were elected. They are:

President—Leonard Kent.
Vice-President—Bill Stewart.
Secretary—Cliff Hooten.
Treasurer—J. D. Purvis.

Plans for the banquet were discussed. This year the annual affair will be held in the college dining hall on May 19. After the business meeting Miss Wood served the club refreshments.

Two brothers, aged 4 and 24 respectively, both attend Western Reserve University. The older boy brings his brother to school with him so that he can attend the University's nursery school.—The Reflector.

Marie Wood made the trip. One of the largest boats of the Ocean Steamship Company had docked early that morning and the group was able to see much of interest on board. Many had never been on board a ship before. In the afternoon a second trip was made to the docks to view the leaving of a ship for New York. The tugboat in its assistance was greatly enjoyed. The ships were of the greatest importance and interest; but other places were visited. The sugar refinery, although not in operation, was seen and parts of it explained to the group by a competent guide. The time spent in the Telfair Academy of Arts was very profitable.
