NEW DUTIES FOR Y. M. NEXT YEAR

MEN'S RECREATIONAL HALL, DEPUTATION WORK AND MORNING PRAYER SERVICES INCLUDED IN PROGRAM.

Those connected with the Young Men's Christian Association for next year have made plans for a more extensive service for that organization. Special emphasis will be given to co-operation with the administration during Orientation Week, according to announcements made at the "Y" meeting, and a definite program will be followed throughout the year. The association will establish a men's recreation hall and stock it with books and magazines and provision will be made for indoor games.

Some of the work which will be done by the "Y" is as follows: New students will be met at their train or bus and accommodated with transportation to the college and shown to their rooms. Members of the Y. W. and Y. M. will make regular visits there to see them properly situated. An information bureau will be established and the two organizations will entertain new students with a party during the first week.

Some form of morning watch services will be begun in the men's dormitory and held regularly throughout the term; prominent speakers will be brought to the college; the organization will do a somewhat different type of deputation work, and programs at negro schools.

Miss Sophie Johnson and Fielding Russell will join the advisory board, which is headed by R. L. Winburn. Installation of cabinet members and

EDITORS ELECTED FOR PUBLICATIONS

News staffs for the 1934-35 Reflector and George-Anne were chosen at student meetings last week. Leonard Kent will be editor-in-chief of the yearbook, with Helen Olliff as business manager, and Alton Ellis and Claire Hicks are to be co-editors of the college paper, with J. D. Purvis as business manager.

The annual staff was elected from next year's senior class. This book will be a senior edition with representatives on the staff from the various classes. A bigger and better annual is the aim of those connected with the publishing of the Reflector.

Members of the George-Anne staff are advanced according to seniority. Vacancies on the editorial force will be chosen next fall.

These two publications next year should be the best ever sponsored by the college. With the increased enrollment they should grow accordingly.

DR. W. A. TALIAFERRO,
Pastor, Bull Street Baptist Church, Savannah, who will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon.

RALPH NEWTON,
Superintendent of Waycross Public Schools, who will deliver the Literary Address.

ELABORATE PROGRAM FOR COMMENCEMENT PLANNED

AWARD DEGREES MONDAY MORNING

GRADUATING EXERCISES JUNE 4TH BRING TO CLOSE A MOST SUCCESSFUL COLLEGE YEAR.

The tenth annual commencement exercises of South Georgia Teachers College promise to be the most elaborate since the founding of the college. The literary and baccalaureate addresses will be given the week end of June 4th. The graduation program is as follows:

Dinner in honor of senior class, given by Mrs. J. E. Carruth, May 15. Reception given by Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. in the gymnasium, Saturday evening, May 26.

Baccalaureate sermon, given by Dr. W. A. Taliaferro, of Savannah, in the college auditorium, 11:00 a. m., June 3rd.

Literary address, given by Supt. Ralph Newton, of Waycross, June 4th, 11:00 a. m.

Dr. Taliaferro is pastor of the Bull Street Baptist church, Savannah. He is very widely known throughout the state and has been pastor of the Savannah church for a number of years. It is interesting to note that Mrs. Taliaferro was a teacher of Mr. Wells.

Supt. Ralph Newton was a member of the board of trustees of this school when the Board of Regents assumed charge of the University System in 1928. He is one of the most outstanding educators in all Georgia. At present he is superintendent of the Waycross public schools. He is also a member of the faculty of the University of Georgia summer school.

ALUMNI BANQUET TO BE HELD JUNE 4

The annual Alumni luncheon will be held in the Dining Hall Monday, June 4th, at 1 o'clock, immediately following the graduating exercises.

C. H. Hollingsworth, superintendent of Emanuel County Institute, at Graymont, who is president of S. G. T. C. Alumni Association, has arranged a very interesting program.

The program will consist of a message from the association president, responses from alumni, a message from President Guy H. Wells, greetings from the class of 1934 and the alumni address by Dean Z. S. Henderson.

Following the program the annual election of officers will be held. C. H. Hollingsworth will act as toastmaster and will also preside at the business session. A small fee will be charged for the luncheon and expenses of invitations and programs.

First Places Awarded In "Posture Contest"

Seven people won first places in the contest held during Posture Week. Those trying for first places for correct postures were: Girls, Sara Remington and Alice Grey; boys, "Tough" McCraney and Jim Wrinkle. Those having the best posture on the faculty were Mr. Witcher and Mrs. Russell. Miss Louise Yeomans was awarded first place for submitting the best poster on posture.

Posture Week was sponsored by the Woman's Athletic Association of the campus. Miss Jewel Greene was in charge.

FRIENDS TO HONOR PRESIDENT WELLS

STUDENTS AND CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GIVE FAREWELL DINNER AND PROGRAM ON LAKE WELLS.

Students, faculty members and citizens of Statesboro will join in a farewell dinner to be given Tuesday in honor of President Guy H. Wells.

The student body and the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce will be joint hosts for the occasion. Dinner will be served in plates on the campus fronting Lake Wells. Seats will be placed on the lawn for a program afterwards.

Statesboro's churches, schools, civic organizations and the Woman's Club will be represented by some of their leaders in making expressions to Mr. Wells, who assumes the presidency of Georgia State College for Women on July 1st. Leonard Kent will be spokesman for the student body of the Teachers College.

Three hundred guests are expected to be present for the occasion.

The program is tentatively arranged as follows:

- Music.
- Master of Ceremonies — Howell Cone.
- Expressions from Student Body—Leonard Kent.
- Expression from Faculty—Dean Z. S. Henderson.
- Expression from Board Members.
- Music, "Listen to the Mocking Bird"—Newelle DeLoach.
- Expression from Public Schools—Supt. R. M. Monts.
- Expression from Woman's Club—

SUMMER SCHOOL OPENS JUNE 11TH

With increased accommodations, additional class room space and a strong corps of teachers, the coming summer school opening June 11th promises to be the largest in the history of the school.

The new science hall will be completed in time to take care of all the science classes. The new apartment house just off the campus will be used for married couples who wish to do light house keeping. The West and East Dormitories will be given over for the women. Boys will occupy Anderson Hall.

Dr. M. S. Pittman, president-elect, will arrive about the middle of the summer school. He will conduct a class in rural sociology. In addition to this M. R. Little, state school supervisor, will teach in the education department. Coach Smith will conduct a coaching school.

Everyone is looking forward to the usual watermelon cuttings and annual Fourth of July barbecue.

A MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENT WELLS

The George-Anne has asked me to write a farewell message for the paper. It is with difficulty that I have been able to talk with the students and teachers about leaving this institution. I think everyone knows that I did not voluntarily seek to leave. The Regents and the Chancellor thought that it was best for some changes to be made and I accepted their decision and expect to make the most of it.

Mrs. Wells, little Ann and I shall leave on July 1st with the sweetest and most tender memories. Guy Jr., we hope, will be able to attend school here next year. The pleasantest eight years of my life have been spent with this school and among the good people of Statesboro and in this section of the state. It is not an exaggeration to say that Mrs. Wells and I love everybody and everything connected with South Georgia Teachers College. Every building, every shrub and flower brings us thoughts too deep for utterance. We have seen it grow from a small school to a larger one. Most of the teachers have come here since I was made president. There are, of course, larger faculty groups, but no greater in my estimation. There are many institutions with thousands of students, but in none will there be found students who are more loyal, ambitious and sympathetic.

I may not have always done my best, but I did what I thought was best for the school. I have never been a popular person with the students or faculty. I realize that I have many faults, and many teachers and students thought I was hard and unkind at times, but I was doing the best I knew. May my mistakes be overlooked and my faults forgotten as we mingle our smiles and tears in parting.

I have always been inspired by the rhyme which runs:

"For when the one great Scorer comes
To write against your name,
He writes not that you won or lost,
But how you played the game."

We have only sweet memories as we leave. We have even sweeter anticipations as we contemplate what the future has in store for each student and teacher of this institution. Dr. Pittman will make you a great president. I know you will love him and I feel that a kind Providence can hold only the best for such good people as compose the student body, faculty and patrons of the school.

A FAREWELL TO THEE

No doubt these last few days of the school year are ones of sadness to some while to others it is a time of vision for the future. It is always a time of intense feeling when we come to the close of the college year and bid our friends a farewell—to some for awhile and to many probably for years.

To those who are going out in the world on their own, we would say—make the most of every opportunity, live a life of usefulness and uphold the ideals and teachings of your college. To those who are to continue for another year, we would say—it is your's to carry on with augmented effort the morale of the school. Those who are graduating have already experienced the things that are in store for you and are leaving their contributions. Thus your responsibility is ever greater in that you must make a place for yourselves and later "reap the golden harvest."

The school can be no higher than the ideals and accomplishments of its graduates. When the seniors of 1934 take their places with the other sons and daughters of the Alma Mater, the George-Anne can wish them no greater achievement and success than that they fill their places in the world nobly and serviceably.

TO NEXT YEAR'S STAFF

Every staff which faces the closing of another year always wants to "pat itself on the back" for having survived another pursuit of journalistic endeavor. We, the staff of this year, are not taking this opportunity to praise ourselves—rather we are willing to admit our shortcomings and see in many places where we have failed to reach the goal.

However, far from apologetic are we in making these statements. The staff has accomplished some worthwhile objectives. Ever have we been mindful of the fact that the George-Anne is a student publication. Therefore, those objectives which we have missed are not entirely due to the staff—students and faculty members are to blame.

Although laboring under handicaps, the editorial force has succeeded in making the George-Anne a charter member of the Georgia Collegiate Press Association. The exchange department has built an exchange circulation with colleges and universities throughout the South. The business managers have been unusually successful in securing ads for their department, and the members of the staff as a whole feel that they have presented the student body with an entertaining, unbiased and interesting account of the year's happenings. The staff is to be congratulated on its fine spirit of co-operation.

Next year's editors should have a three-fold advantage. First, they have something to build from; second, they can profit from the mistakes of other editors, and third, they have an experienced staff with which to work. May you accomplish what we have failed to do and have a paper worthy of the Teachers College.

George-Anne Shows Growth Since 1928

The George-Anne as published today is by no means the same as the one published in 1928. Changes and improvements have been frequent. It has developed from a purely literary mimeographed sheet to a modern printed college paper.

The George-Anne published in 1928 was essentially a literary paper. The editor was Mae Cumming and the faculty advisor was Miss Clay. The paper was composed of themes and poems written by the students and a few jokes. There were also pictures of various scenes and buildings on the campus. The papers were not published at stated periods.

In 1929 the George-Anne was published weekly by the Freshman class. The editor was Virginia Lewis and the faculty advisor was Miss Clay. It was still a literary paper with an occasional news item added. One of the first news items to appear was in the May 15, 1929, issue, when the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce brought many prominent Georgians to the campus. At this period the paper was divided among the various departments of the college and under each division appeared the news of that department.

In the summer of 1929 the George-Anne was published by the summer school Journalism class. Mr. Robert Donaldson was the instructor in Journalism and also the faculty advisor. The George-Anne was now developing into a newspaper carrying news and advertisements.

In 1930 the George-Anne was practically the same as in 1929, being published by the Freshman class during regular term and by the Journalism class during the summer school. The summer editions were printed on various sheets of paper.

In 1928, 1929 and 1930 the George-Anne was mostly a mimeographed sheet with a few printed editions. In the fall of 1928 it was taken over and published weekly by the Journalism class. It was mimeographed on letter size paper and had three pages fastened together.

In the fall of 1933 a new set-up was organized. The staff was selected from the student body and the paper was then printed very much as today.

THE SUNRISE

The most beautiful part of every day
Is soon in the morning, when you can stay
Alone with God so kind and true, who gives
To us sunrises under which we live,
To love and waste our time; but at the break
Of every day just stop; and for His sake
Offer a silent thanks for His kindness
To send the sun and thus the people bless
With all the beauties of sunrises
That seem to brighten and enlighten lives.
I love to sit and watch the colors blend,
And think of all the joy it has to send
To everyone within reach of its rays
That make the most helpful of days.
Then watch the sun rising in such beauty—
To Him give thanks—for it is our duty.

SPORTS

T.C. Sportsmen Close A Successful Season

FEW LOSSES IN MAJOR SPORTS

WIN MAJORITY OF MATCHES IN FOOTBALL, BASEBALL, BASKETBALL, TENNIS AND GOLF.

The athletic teams representing the South Georgia Teachers College for the year 1933-34 have made, on the average, a more than fair reputation for themselves. The schedules encountered this year were a little harder than the ones of the previous season. Very little varsity material was returned from the championship teams of last year, except for the basketball team. Most of the other teams had to be built from the ground up.

Sports and physical education and recreational activities have had the best year they have ever enjoyed on the campus. The whole student body and faculty have become recreational minded. This is a good omen on any campus, and there is much hope that this interest be manifested increasingly as the years pass.

The football team, with only a few experienced players around which to build a team, had a successful season, even though it lost three games. The Blue Tide gained victories over Norman Park, Gordon, Brewton-Parker, Douglas and Georgia Military College. They were defeated by Rollins, Cochran and Newberry. Capable observers stated that not any of the teams that defeated the Blue Tide had a wide margin of superiority. The Teachers had a hard-driving, running attack that was stopped very few times. Four fast, shifty backs, following in the wake of the seven hard-charging linemen, usually produced enough scores to enable the Teachers to win handily. The players seeing most service were Hale, Riggs, Quattlebaum, J. D. Cherry, McCraney, Burgerson, Bussey, Griffin, Sullivan, Amerson, Smith, Munch, Martin, Hines, Fullford, Anderson, Spears, Wrinkle, Parks and McKneely. All these received "T" sweaters.

In basketball, Coach Smith had a veteran squad with which to work. The team had a most successful season, losing only two games, and getting revenge for one of those losses in a return game. The Blue Tide had two teams that were almost equally effective. The ones making up these two teams were about as follows: Hines, Spears, Jake Smith, Wrinkle, Pafford, Stewart, Purvis, Donaldson, DuBose, Beall, Anderson. High scoring honors for the season went to Jake Hines. He was closely followed by Smith, Wrinkle, Stewart and Spears, in that order.

In baseball, again Coach Smith

Coach Praises Athletic Teams

I am delighted with this privilege and opportunity to thank all those who have gone out for varsity sports during the school year 1933-34.

I am proud of the record that we made as a whole. I consider the football season a big success, the basketball season a great success and the baseball season as average. But probably the greatest success of all was the high type of sportsmanship and the great character qualities displayed by our participants under the heat and excitement of battle.

Athletics build moral strength as well as physical strength and I sincerely hope that our athletic seniors will carry into life the lessons taught upon the athletic field. Your success is assured if you will fight the same type of battle with the same high type of character qualities.

To those that graduate, I wish for you a life of pleasure, success and a life devoted to service for the advancement of your fellowman. To those who are not graduating, I wish for you a most profitable summer in your chosen field of endeavor. Take good care of you physical well-being, devote much energy to soliciting other athletics of our school and the splendid work we are doing and come back next September with an idea of making 1934-35 our greatest year.

had to build from the remnants of a championship team. Only Woods and Spears of last year's team returned. But from a wealth of material, he molded a team that was better than it appeared from the season's results. The Blue Tide ended the season with a record of ten losses and ten victories. Again it was the "road trip jinx" that ruined them. On two separate road trips, the Teachers lost

COLLEGE TO HAVE COACHING SCHOOL

Coach "Crook" Smith, of the South Georgia Teachers College, is to conduct a coaching school for the high school coaches, and for any college coaches who might desire to enter, during the summer session for this year. The subjects to be covered are football, basketball, track and perhaps, baseball.

Coach Smith will give information in the fundamentals, the scientific application of them, and then instruction in the finer points of the games and sports strategy. He is well fitted to conduct this school. No one in the state is capable of doing this assignment any better than Mr. Smith. His record as a player at Mercer shows him to be one of the great athletes that have attended that institution, and the records that the teams he has coached since then have amassed, show that he is able to impart his knowledge of the games to the boys under him.

The course will be divided into two periods, a lecture period and a demonstration period. All phases of the various sports will be discussed and explained, both verbally and physically.

In his trips about this part of the state with his college teams, Coach Smith has had many requests to conduct a coaching school of this kind here in the summer. As this is his first summer to be spent on the campus since this connection with the school, he is taking this opportunity to institute this coaching school. Its degree of success will determine the likelihood of its continuance as a permanent feature of the summer school.

Many coaches of high schools in this section of the country would profit by the advanced training and experience given in this course. It has long been needed in this section of the state, and for high school coaches. Coaching schools in the summer are a recent creation. Wallace Wade has held one for the past few years, and Knute Rockne conducted one for the last few years before his tragic death. But coaching schools for high school coaches have long been needed. And Coach Smith's announcement of the coaching school here this summer should be greeted with enthusiasm among the people of this part of the state.

This marks one more progressive step that the college here has taken

Oglethorpes Defeat Stephens in Debate

The Spring term debate held in the auditorium Friday evening, May 25, was won by the Oglethorpe Literary Society by a unanimous decision.

Mayo Cody and Alton Ellis, of the Oglethorpes, supported the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That the present policy of the federal government in guaranteeing bank deposits up to $2,500 should be made permanent." Grace Cromley and James Adams, of the Stephens Society, upheld the negative side.

This was the third debate of the year between the societies. The Stephens Society won the previous arguments this year and has possession of the debaters' cup, upon which will be engraved the debaters' names.

officials took place at the vesper service Sunday evening. Those installed were: J. D. Purvis, president; Alton Ellis, vice-president; Marvin McKneely, treasurer; Julius Hodges, secretary; Douglas Jackson, chaplain; Howell Martin, song leader; John Bridges, pianist; James Hall, chairman of the social committee; Rufus McDuffie, of the welfare committee; S. D. Duncan, of the publicity committee; Bill Stewart, of the attendance and membership committees; and George Carter, of the morning services.

Leonard Kent will direct a play during summer school for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A. and a representative will be sent to the national conference at Blue Ridge, N. C., for ideas which may improve its work.

OUR COLLEGE

NEWS ... VIEWS

AMID FREQUENT SHOWERS of rain the Math Club enjoyed a picnic given down at the Scout camp last Monday evening.

MRS. B. L. SMITH entertained the ladies of the faculty and also the wives of the faculty with a delightful luncheon given at the Tea Pot Grill Thursday noon.

JOHN HERRINGTON was carried to his home in Waynesboro Monday after his recent operation here. He is recuperating fast and is now up and walking about his home.

THE SCIENCE CLUB went a-strolling to that most coveted of all picnic spots, "Lovers' Hill," last Tuesday and encamped for a short while on their annual Spring picnic.

THE STUDENT BODY was given the privilege on last Thursday morning to hear Mrs. D. L. Deal, director of English in the Statesboro High School. Mrs. Deal's talk was "The Smaller Things That Mean So Much," and was enjoyed immensely by the entire student body.

"BOYS WILL BE BOYS." Proof of this fact was expressed Wednesday afternoon when the men Profs of the faculty put up a desperate battle against the "highly tooted" Bainbridge "Balonies." The Profs waged a desperate fight until the end, but were defeated slightly.

MRS. SARA LANDRUM HASSLET, in giving her graduation recital on Thursday night, May 24th, read "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," a drama in three acts by Rudolph Reiser. Her splendid interpretation of the drama was a delight to her audience. She was assisted in her program by her brother, Joe Landrum, and Miss Grace Cromley.

ON WEDNESDAY EVENING, May 23, Leland Cox gave his musical recital of the year. He played selections from such well known composers as Bach, Beethoven, Chopin and Liszt. The excellent ease with which he played these difficult selections was a delight and in truth, a treat to the classical music lovers.

APPROXIMATELY ONE HUNDRED boys and girls from the school at Gray, Ga., were guests of the students of South Georgia Teachers College Friday night. In their stay here they spent most of the time observing life on the campus and were aided in this by the students of the college.

STATESBORO'S WILL ROGERS, D. B. Turner, spoke for his ?? time on "Bossin' a Home" to the student body in chapel Tuesday morning. He rather humorously portrayed himself in a predicament that never did occur and he held the sympathy of his audience all through the ordeal. The college always looks forward to the coming of Mr. Turner as humorist of this section.

T. C. SPORTSMEN CLOSE A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

four games out of four played. At home they were almost invincible. At times the team played carelessly, or to be critical, played "dumb baseball." This cost quite a few of the defeats. Several times the Teachers out-hit their opponents, but lost the game by not taking advantage of the breaks. Hines led the hitting for the season, clouting, opposing and hurling for an average of .344. McKneely and Stein were the other players to hit better than a .300 clip. "Son" Thomas and Griffin were the most effective pitchers.

The Tennis team did not have any engagements till late in the season. Most of last year's team was out for baseball this year. But new material was used and really a strong team was developed. Douglas and B.-P. I. were defeated twice each, once here and once in foreign territory. Munch, Kimball and Hodges bore the brunt of the burden till Wilkins Smith returned to the team. He added materially to the strength of the group.

The golf course, which was opened this year, received quite a bit of attention from the students, even though no attempt to get up a varsity team was made. A group of players took part in a meet in Jesup. Mr. Witcher, leader of the T. C. boys, won the loving cup which was awarded for the low score. Others in the party were Russell, Stapleton, Hendrix, Wrinkle and Mathis.

The girls basketball team had only mediocre success, winning two and losing two. Not as much interest is manifested in competitive sports for girls as formerly.
