"Y" NOTES

Yesterday marked the initial appearance of the Teachers deputation team for the 1935 season when the group held services at First Christian church in Guyton. The speakers and musicians were singularly honored by the Guyton churches when services were suspended at all but the Christian church, where a union gathering was held. In the evening the team gave a program in Sylvania.

The appearance of this deputation group is a yearly affair in numerous cities and towns of South Georgia. The visits have been going on for a number of years as a regular part of the YM and YW activities.

This year Leonard Kent is speaking for his third consecutive year and Alton Ellis for his second. Barton Stephens, whose brother spoke on the team years ago, is the only new deputy. Delmas Wheeler, who has made many a party here more pleasant by his crooning, accompanies the team as a soloist. Grace Cromley, who was with the group last year, sings again this season. Sara Kate Scarboro plays the piano, and Torrence Brady, who has played the violin for three years on the team, again renders charms to the programs with her beautiful solos.

Life of tomorrow is the theme being followed by these students, and in addition to the opening address by R. L. Winburn, organizer of the group, talks are made on the following subjects:

Religion of Tomorrow — Barton Stephens.

Education of Tomorrow — Alton Ellis.

Life of Tomorrow—Leonard Kent. Musical renditions are worked into the program.

Next Sunday the team is scheduled to appear in Reidsville and Vidalia.

WELLS TO SPEAK

If present plans go through successfully, Dr. Guy H. Wells, esteemed former president of South Georgia Teachers College, will be the first speaker on the Religious Emphasis Week program here March 5, 6 and 7. Dr. Wells' acceptance of the invitation extended him is expected daily. But in the event he finds it impossible to be here March 5th, some other outstanding speaker will be obtained for the occasion by the YM and YWCA.

Other features of the week will be the appearance of a group of outstanding University of Georgia students for a program March 6th during the assembly hour. The following day the Y. W. C. A. is assuming the privilege of bringing some not-

PRESS INSTITUTE OPENS WEDNESDAY

J. D. Purvis, Eloise Graham, Nancy Young, Lofton Giddens, Barton Stephens, Elwyn Wilson, Hemans Oliver, Alton Ellis and Mr. Robert F. Donaldson will represent South Georgia Teachers College and the George-Anne at the Georgia Press Institute and the Collegiate Press Association which meets in Athens on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

Outstanding speakers who will appear on the institute program include Dorothy Dix, Paul Mallon, Robert L. (Believe-It-or-Not) Ripley and Walter Pitkin, author of "Life Begins at 40."

The College division of the association will meet for a round table discussion at the Journalism building on Friday afternoon with the president, Bill Maner, of Georgia Tech, presiding.

Other officers of the Georgia Collegiate Press Association include Amy Cleckler, Wesleyan, vice-president, and Tom A. Dozier, University of Georgia, secretary.

TWO DELEGATES NAMED BY I. R. C.

Kathryn Yoemans and Bill Stewart were elected last Monday by the International Relations Club to represent the South Georgia Teachers College at the Southeastern Conference of International Relations Clubs at Davidson College, Davidson, N. C. It is the first time in the history of the college that it has been represented at the conference and the club plans to make it an annual event. The delegates will leave Thursday with Dr. C. M. Destler and will return Sunday.

According to Dr. Destler, who is sponsoring the club, a splendid program extending over a period of three days has been planned for the delegates. On Friday the representatives will discuss such noted public leaders as Mr. A. A. McFadyen, missionary to China; Dr. Otto Nathan, of Princeton University, and Dr. C. B. Gosness, of Emory University, questions on the Far East, Powers of Central Europe and the Munitions industry.

GEORGIA EDITOR TALKS IN CHAPEL

MISS EMILY WOODWARD, FOUNDER OF GEORGIA PRESS INSTITUTE GAVE INSPIRING ADDRESS LAST MONDAY.

"The art of printing is one of the most powerful influences in our modern world," said Miss Emily Woodward, former editor of the Vienna News, past president of the Georgia Press Association and founder of the Georgia Press Institute, as she addressed the student body Monday, February 11, at the regular chapel period.

Miss Woodward, an outstanding figure in journalistic circles in Georgia, further said that the art of printing is the preserver of all arts. She traced the history of printing from the Rosetta Stone, the Chaldean Baked Clay, Papyrus, Parchment Scrolls and the Chinese Blocks of 50 B. C., to the invention of the printing press by Gutenberg.

The speaker declared, "The values of the newspaper are very great in moulding public opinion because of its economical, social and civic influences." She pointed out that a good newspaper editor is one who spreads his news throughout the columns of his paper with a firm regard for the truth.

Miss Woodward concluded her address by saying, "The task before the South today is not the building of roads, schools and machinery, but the building of better men and women. The New Deal depends on us, and this business of living is the most serious business in the world."

Untermeyer Will Lecture March 2

Louis Untermeyer, poet, critic and anthologist, will lecture here March 2nd as a lyceum attraction.

Mr. Untermeyer is the most widely read American poet abroad and at home is considered the most brilliant of his generation. The late Amy Lowell called him "the most versatile genius in America."

He is outstanding in that he is the one of the few poets in the history of the world who has combined business and art. For twenty years he was a jeweler and manufacturer of jewelry.

Among his best known works are "Challenge," "Roast Leviathan," "Parodies," "Burning Bush," and "Food and Drink."

His most recent lectures include "What Americans Read and Why," "Why We Write and How," "Poetry and the Average Man" and "New Frontiers in America." His literary lectures, "The Glory of Commonplace" and a "Critic's Half Holiday," are two of the best ever heard in America.

WHAT PRICE HONESTY?

Such axioms as "Honesty is the best policy" and "Honesty pays" are poor consolations for those who see dishonesty apparently paying.

Of course we know that "in the end" our honesty will be rewarded, but that fact does not allay the irritation of having our work rated the same or even below that of the perpetual "cheat." When this is true, the value of whatever degree we may receive is being lowered.

There is something sadly wrong when conscientious, honest students feel the futility of their efforts when the thieves progress and hypocrites seemingly go to the front.

It's hard to plug along when you're jeered at for being old-fashioned enough to have a conscience and when you're told you're dumb for saying what you think when so much depends on what someone higher up thinks.

Yet to be pitied is the fool who has so narrow a conception of honesty that he would gasp with horror if accused of stealing—yet he nonchalantly cheats on exams!

We are not inferring the prevalence of dishonesty in our body, but it is to remind us that in spite of our age when faith is inclined to waver, we still have ideals that are based on a firm foundation.

FRIENDS

Have you a real friend? Few can answer "Yes" to that question. Why? Simply because they do not take the time and trouble to cultivate even one meager friendship.

Someone has said, "We choose our pleasures, our books, our occupation, but we do not choose our friends; we discover them." We meet millions of people as we go through life, but there are few who stick as real friends, because they are not discovered. Friendship does not grow from meeting people, but from knowing them. We have a way of understanding each other. Open frankness, an ability to overlook, and to appreciate, a desire to help and to lift, to give instead of demand—those are the things that determine our real friendships.

College is the one place in the world for us to discover our friends. We know our college mates perhaps better than any other persons we are apt to meet in life, for we are with them in their company a portion of each day.

It has been said that American students are too frank. But after all, isn't it a point to be admired in any individual? Doesn't friendship grow out of this mutual understanding?

Let's make some friends while we're here. Let's learn what their ideals and hopes and aspirations are, and share their point of view. The privilege of having a friend and being a friend are among the greatest blessings of creation. Real friends can not be bought, bribed, or hired. Our associates and companions will have a great deal to do with what we do in later life. Why shouldn't we cultivate wisely now?

If we haven't a friend, it's our own fault. But first we must be willing to contribute what it takes to make a friend before we can have one.

Masculine Ideals

Would you like to know what type of girl T. C. boys prefer? Well, here she is, just as some of our boys visualize her.

Shelby Monroe, when questioned, confided that first of all she must have "wim, vigor, and vitality." "She must at least be as intelligent as I think I am, and be able to realize my potentialities. She must share my likes and dislikes; I must have compatibility. I want someone near to my standard if living." As to whether she should be musical, Shelby said that all he required was the ability to listen. Oh, yes, no one with flat feet need apply.

Now for one of our basketball heroes, Bill Stewart: "I have no definite type of girl in mind, because when I find her, I won't let small things matter." One thing is certain, though, Bill says that there'll be no doubt as to who's boss. He has no special age for marrying, but he would like the girl to be younger than he. "However, that depends on whom I get and when I get her," states Bill.

Here's one who refuses to allow his name to appear, but his qualifications are too unusual to be left out: "She must have 'et' at the Ritz at least twice; have an income substantial enough to make her attractive to me; wear lots of swanky clothes; be attractive enough so I won't be ashamed of her; have variety and be able to keep me amused; disagree with me frequently; be well read from Hallyhoo to Harper's; not be a gossip or a card fined; like to dance and travel. No blonds need apply." Now, that's right to the point isn't it?

Carlos Middlebrooks evidently has his ideal in mind, 'cause here she is in figures: Height, 5 ft. 7 in., weight 109, blond, modern, does not smoke or drink, a good dancer and very good looking. Sounds pretty swell, doesn't she?

Kinky Fender has definite ideas, too. She must be a brunette, light complexion, 5 ft. 3 in., good dancer, not drink, but she may smoke; be a good sport, a little gay but still know how to take care of a home. He doesn't expect much, does he?

One young man on the campus who doesn't want his name used seemed to advocate companionate marriage. He wants "to go where he wants to go, do what he wants to do" and his wife can do likewise. He has no type in mind, but he expects to know her when he sees her. Well, here's hoping he finds her!

Josh Lanier and Carl Collins go around together so much their opinions coincide. They both want modern girls who do not smoke or drink, who dance well, are home-loving and have no desire to play around. Josh definitely prefers brunettes, but Carl says it doesn't matter to him. Wouldn't it be funny if one girl filled the bill for both of them? It's possible.

Ernest Harper says that the ability to carry on a good conversation is most important when he judges a girl. "She must know what to say and when to say it." "My wife doesn't have to be able to dance well, and if she wants to she may smoke and drink. I don't intend to marry until I can support a family, and when I do, I want a wife who can do justice to her household duties and still hold her social position."

Scoop! I've saved the best till the last! Look, girls, here's Elmer's ideal: He prefers her to be medium in height, weight, looks, etc.; however, she must not have red hair. She must be a good sport and, believe it or not, he doesn't mind her smoking, but drinking is out. "The girl I marry must be intelligent, broadminded and want a home and children. Most important of all, she must be a good dancer."

Well, girls, do you fit any of the above qualifications? Anyway, you know now what line to use on whom.

Next issue, the girls are going to get a chance to tell about their ideal man, so please stand by.

Boswell Writes for The Atlanta Journal

George H. Boswell, of Crawfordville, and former student of South Georgia Teachers College, has written an article on "Alexander Hamilton Stephens" which appeared on the editorial page of the Atlanta Journal on Sunday, February 10.

Mr. Boswell, an outstanding student in the Journalism School of the University of Georgia, is having some real experience in journalism. His book reviews have frequently appeared in the magazine section of other Atlanta newspapers.

able program to the students—perhaps a lady speaker.

The Christian Associations of our campus are deeply interested and concerned in bringing this activity to the school and desire very much to present a program of religious inspiration designed to meet the needs of every student.

DEAR EDITOR—

I have been wondering if the spirit on our campus is going to improve. Readily I can see part of the why that spirit is at a low ebb this year. We lack the social good sense for the respect of the ideals of the college.

I am inclined to think that we are abusing democracy to such an extent that it is becoming distasteful and may even be hateful. Some of the would-be followers and leaders have shrunk simply because of the small faction that is at the console. In case we do not like their music, which many consider as discords, I have a plan in connection with holding responsible positions. The point system is good, but would it not be better to allow only one office a team to any person regardless of his ability or initiative. We are all working for a common cause and will be living in the future generation as leaders and ardent supporters.

Now, I am sure you are conscious of our degenerating spirit and probably by a little concentrated effort on the part of the student body, administration and everyone else concerned chaos will be brought into order.

Shall our spirit live, exist or die?

A STUDENT.

MY PHILOSOPHY

I may not be all that you see
In my tired, unpleasant face;
It's time, you'd think, for me to be Retiring from the race.

Sometimes I think, "Well, perhaps you're right.

What favor have I to ask?
Why should I sit at my job all night
To end the wearisome task?"

I think of men who have said the same,

My mother, my father, my home;
It's these, I'm sure, who give the thing

That keeps me holding on.

Maybe I should think as others have thought,

But that's so foolishly vain;
It's only the lesson which others have taught

That drives me on toward my aim.

TEACHERS ARE CONFERENCE CHAMPTIONS! The two games taken from South Georgia State College made it two-to-one for the Teachers over the Tigers and sewed up the conference race for "Crook's" boys.

The Teachers got revenge a second time for their football defeat at the hands of Georgia Military College when they took the cadet basketballers into camp, 44-29.

"Buster" Deal kept his record for the season clear when he took his bout against Georgia. This little man with a big punch has an excellent record for inter-collegiate boxing.

"Fullback" Smith put up a real scrap against Radutsky, former golden gloves tournament winner. The New York boxer states that "Fullie" has the hardest punch he has ever seen for a man his size.

Smith and Deal both took their bouts in the Savannah elimination tournament Wednesday night. If fortunate enough to win in the next division, which is held at Charlotte, N. C., these boys will be in line to enter the golden gloves tournament, which each year matches the best amateur scrappers in the United States. T. C.'s behind you one hundred per cent, fellows!

Coach just can't keep the Blue Tide from clowning. With only a small lead over Charleston, the basketballers put on a passing exhibition which drew quite a hand from the crowd. Coach wasn't so well pleased. He was finally able to get it over to the team that what he wanted was more points and the "Profs" settled down to scoring again to run up a twenty-point advantage. Charleston gave the Teachers their only unavenged defeat last year and the team was only too glad to show them up. The feature of this game was the fact that three of the "Profs" scored eleven points, Stewart, Hines and Youmans sharing high-point honors.

The Teachers play Charleston again this week and it is very probable that the Iodine Staters will be set for them.

The "T" Club has learned the why of Dean Henderson's two false teeth in an interesting talk at its regular meeting Monday night. Dean lost these two teeth on successive day of basketball practice in his last year at Piedmont College.

The attendance at the meetings of the Varsity Club is improving and a drive for one hundred per cent attendance at subsequent meetings is being made. Remember, next Monday night at 7 o'clock.

Open house was held for the "T" Club last night by Miss Edith Tyson, of Statesboro, who was elected sponsor at a recent meeting. May we extend thanks to you, Edith, for the entire club. We enjoyed it!

We are still wondering when the letters and sweaters for the football team will arrive. All we can hear is, "They have been ordered."

A real treat is in store for the basketball fans tomorrow night when the Teachers meet the Jewish Alliance of Savannah. The Hebrews are one of the best outfits in the state.

T. C. BASKETEERS
ADD 5 VICTORIES

BLUE TIDE CAGERS WIN FROM COLLEGE OF CHARLESTON, MIDDLE GEORGIA COLLEGE AND GEORGIA MILITARY.

Bill Stewart, high point man for the season, led the Teachers to a 44-29 victory over Georgia Military College in Milledgeville.

The "Profs" right guard led the team in scoring, getting twelve points, and played his usual stellar game at his guard post. "Red" Pittman, lanky cadet forward, was the outstanding performer for G. M. C.

CHARLESTON

Three Teachers, Youmans, Hines and Stewart, scored eleven points apiece to avenge last year's defeat by the College of the City of Charleston, 52-32. Contrary to their usual custom the Teachers started this contest at top speed and held the pace throughout the entire first half, being on the big end of the score twenty-five points.

Charleston made a come-back in the final half and cut down the Blue Tide's lead to ten points at one juncture. Again in the closing minutes the Teachers applied the pressure and gained ten points to make their margin of victory twenty points. Johnson led the Charlestonians, getting several markers on beautiful long shots.

COCHRAN

In another rough and tumble affair, the "Profs" took the measure of Middle Georgia College in Cochran to the tune of 40-28. The usual spirit between these two teams was in evidence, the game being closely contested from start to finish, despite the twelve-point victory of the Teachers. Wrinkle, Hines and Youmans went out on fouls along with two Cochran men. Stewart was high for the Blue Tide with fourteen points.

DOUGLAS

First Game

Youmans and Hines, scoring 17 and 16 points, respectively, led the Teachers to a 49-36 victory over South Georgia State College, the only college team to defeat them this season. The game, by far the most interesting played on the T. C. court this year, was closely contested from start to finish.

Wrinkle in holding down Kendrick played an excellent game at his guard post. Jones, Tiger forward, was high for Douglas with 13 points.

Second Game

In a still better game than the first engagement with Douglas, the Teachers won again Saturday night from the Tigers, 41-32, clinching the conference title and avenging the early season defeat at the hands of "Mike" Herndon's crew.

Hines was easily the star of the game for the "Profs" while Elliot and

SMITH AND DEAL WILL PARTICIPATE IN ELIMINATION TOURNAMENT FOR GOLDEN GLOVES CHAMPIONSHIP.

Savannah Tournament

The Teachers College boxing stars of the season added to their laurels Wednesday night when Smith and Deal won the championship of this section of the state in their respective weight classes.

"Buster" Deal won by a knock-out in the second round over Fulford, of the Bloomingdale C. C. Camp. Deal had to fight only one man, as there were only two entrants in this class.

"Fullback" Smith won his first bout by a knock-out in the first round over Dorrill, a Fort Screven soldier, and then took the decision in his bout with Olliff, a Savannah boy.

This tournament, which was held in Savannah, is one of a series of eliminations leading to the golden gloves affair in New York City.

Georgia Match

The Blue Tide boxing team was again turned back by the University of Georgia pugs with only one victory to their credit. "Buster" Deal, the "old faithful" of the boxing squad, turned in the only victory.

Plans Made for
W. A. A. Conference

Plans have been completed for the Georgia Woman's Athletic Association conference which will be held here March 2nd and 3rd.

Highlights of the meeting will include a dance given by the student body on Friday evening, the Untermyer lecture and a banquet and dance at the Statesboro Woman's Club on Saturday evening.

Representatives from leading Georgia colleges will attend.

The program will be given over to the discussion of different questions confronting women's athletics in the various schools, and addresses by leading physical education authorities.

Jones were outstanding for Douglas. Kendrick, the man who scored twenty points on the Teachers in Douglas, was never once in scoring position due to the well nigh perfect guarding of the T. C. flash, "Breezy" Wrinkle.

Shrieks! Whistles Blow! Bells Ring. All because Miss Veazy has lost her plug. "Have you borrowed the plug?" "No, I'm not mad, I'm just hurt." Immediately the turmoil subsides and all is restored to quiet again and a midnight meeting is averted because she found it in the light socket.

Our Elmer is developing rapidly. Now he writes Newelle a letter because he likes her "next to Little Mincey, the best girl on the campus." She sings and Elmer has a hobby for pretty songs. Little Mincey and Barbara might learn to sing. Hickey, too, is sharing honors in the harem. Goodness knows, we blush to think how this whole affair is going to turn out. How will he ever be able to decide? Or will he decide? Maybe he'll keep 'em all.

Martha Pippin and her B. F. put no the "brotherly act" right in front of us. Mr. Downs thought it was scandalous. But Martha said they were just playing. Little Mildred in great suspense, Has our Quat on the fence. If the library had closed one hour sooner, This wouldn't have been such a serious rumor.

Dr. Smith has the right idea. Maybe a few more good jokes would add interest to our chapel and they certainly would promote the social development of some of our faculty members.

New table assignments are causing grief and sorrow on every hand. McKneely-Herrington, Munch-Owens, Kent-Quantock, Graham-Gwyn, Cody-Gilliam, Brown-Plyler, Cherry-Esyp and Gilliam-Donaldson.

Did Mattie take in the D. S. dance in a big way? They say she had numbers of bids, but she did not decide until after Harold came from Douglas for the week end.

Dubose and Dudley Smith have the business. Flanders and Smith live in town; Dubose and Pippins stay on the campus. Therefore it's very simple: An exchange of services goes on between Dubose and Smith. They look after each other's absence respectively.

We of the Diggers will have to begin negotiations with Wesleyan or Bessie Tift or Shorter, for "King" Jim just won't stay without a queen. After all, girls, there are certain specifications to be met. We have heard he's very particular.

That big-hearted Coach! He takes those boys to Savannah to fight. He made $8 on the bus trip. But he wouldn't give them but a nickel for supper. Imagine! Squandering a whole nickel on just one meal. Of course, we don't know, but some one has told us that when the basketball team won in Augusta over the Augusta "Y," that Crook actually gave each man a dime if he would use it for three meals. Maybe that accounts for his prosperity, though.

Going! Going! Gone! That suggests something to us. Could it be

CLUBS

DUX DOMINA

Martha Pippin and Lottie Rountree were hostesses to the members of Dux Domina at a feast Thursday night, February 7th. Tentative arrangement have been made for a picnic to be given February 27th.

Victory

The "Dux" won over the "Eppies" Friday—

Now what do you think of that? Every student should give us a hand-shake

And to us take off his hat! For the "Eppies" are basketeers you know,

Mary, Hickey and Graham "go out."

We didn't think we had a chance—

But you should have seen us prance! "Luie" was the star of the game—

Actually, it is a shame the way she's teased about her basketball name!

And we won to our surprise—

Why we played like the "Celtics" in disguise!

Fay and Martha guarded Hickey and Mary—

"Reidsville's Rountree" played side center—

The "Eppies" didn't have a chance—

In a tournament they shouldn't enter.

Melba and Dolores were just right—

They ran those goals to our delight!

We really doubled the "Eppie's" score—

We should have made 50 points more;

But they were good sports about the game,

They didn't lose their name—

But all the same, son, te Dux Dominas won!

—M. PIPPIN.

L. T. C.

Verna Lasseter and Victoria Cone entertained the L. T. C.'s in their room in East Hall last Monday night at 10:30 o'clock. All members were present and the final plans for their banquet and dance at the Woman's Club next Saturday night were completed. A great deal of pep and spirit was shown over the organiza-

the Cherry-Esyp affair. Now, you know he may not be of the same idea since he's a D. S.

Kent and his zippers! Sid says he gets up at intervals during each night and zips them up to see if they still work. We once heard of a man who had his tie cut off when he wore a zipper shirt.

Those Epicureans and Dux Dominas are truly going after those house party dates in a big way! Only three more weeks left. We know of some people who had better turn on the steam if they still expect to be one of the chosen few. There are varied qualifications, you know.

We would like to see a few more girls like Cornelia Land. She gives the boys a break. When she left to spend last week end at home, there was a riot over getting to kiss her good bye. But she didn't leave any one out. No sir, not one. There was Cody's Gilliam, The Mighty Wrinkle, Herrington's McKneely, Cherry's Esyp and Cain's Barton.

Little Mincey, after all maybe it's a pretty good thing to be just a dumb Freshman. It pays in the end sometimes.

Just another American All-American Girl—Annie Laurie Childers

tion of their basketball team, which is now playing in the Society Club tournament.

BACHELORS

At the regular meeting of the Bachelors Club held in the Home Economics room Wednesday, February 13th, Miss Ruth Bolton entertained with a valentine party. The program, consisting of valentine games, was arranged by Bill Stewart. Later refreshments were served.

IOTA PI NU

The Iota Pi Nu's gave a dance at the Woman's Club in Statesboro Thursday night, February 7th. Music was furnished by Frank Rushing, Wilson Wilkes and James Townsend.

D. L. D.

The D. L. D.'s had a card dance in the social hall of the Training School Saturday night, February 16. Valentine decorations were used and games were played appropriate to the season. Punch was served throughout the evening.

EPICUREAN

The Epicureans will meet with their sponsor, Mrs. William Deal, in West Hall, Tuesday night at 10:30 o'clock. At this time definite plans will be made for a dance to be given March 9th at the Woman's Club in Statesboro.

DRAMATIC CLUB

The following program featured the meeting of the Dramatic Club Wednesday evening:

Duet—Grace Cromley and Delmas Wheeler.

Reading—Frances Cone.

Violin Solo—Torrence Brady.

Solo—Delmas Wheeler.

Refreshments, consisting of tea and macaroons and carrying out the valentine idea, were served.

was presented with a huge box of candy by the team from Charleston College. Could there have been anything that we didn't know about?

"Truck Horse" McElveen is in love! But he doesn't know anything about it. Why don't you find a way, Helen?

Alton Ellis appointed Marvin McKneely and Jim Wrinkle to be custodians of Ruby Kate while he was gone on the deputation team over the week end. We wonder if they did a good job?

Our philosophy for college boys:

'Tis sweet to think that wher'er we rove

We are sure to find something blissful and dear,
And when we are far from the lips we love

We've but to make love to the lips we are near!

It's hard to argue against a fellow who has a loud voice, but it's impossible if he's been eating onions.

The Freshmen have at last beaten the Sophomores! In the first game of the Intra-Class and Social Club tournament played last Thursday afternoon, the Freshmen came through with a 36-12 victory over the high and mighty Sophomores.

The Freshmen have taken blow after blow from the Sophomores during the year, but they staged a comeback Thursday afternoon. This was the outstanding game of the tournament thus far. The score was close throughout the first half, with Hodges, Jones and O'Neal playing excellent ball. They were the stalwart guards of the Sophomore aggregation and came through in fine style although on the bottom side of the score! The score was 4-4 at the quarter and 9-6 in the Freshmen's favor at the half. The Freshmen came back after the half in a fighting spirit. Hickey and Darsey, star forwards on the Freshman team, went wild. They threw goals from all angles of the court and piled up a safe margin throughout the rest of the game.

The Sophomores, somewhat humiliated by defeat at the hands of Freshman, came back in all their former glory Friday afternoon by defeating the Seniors in an easy victory 28-8. The outstanding feat of this game was the long shot of Virginia Edenfield, Senior. She sank a goal while standing on the center line.

The class tournament is a "Round Robin"—every team must play every other team. As the George-Anne goes to press, it looks as if the "freak" Freshmen might win the "B."

Friday afternoon saw the Society Dames in action, with the Dux Domina defeating the Epicureans by a large margin and the L. T. C.'s winning over the D. L. D.'s. "Little Mincey played well for the Epicureans and Louise Quantock starred for the Dux Domina.

The L. T. C.'s won the tournament by defeating the Dux Dominas 33-22.
