Teachers College Honors Founders at "Former Trustees Day" Program Friday

Park to Be Honors Day Speaker Saturday

THREE STUDENT GROUPS NAMED

Dr. R. E. Park, head of the English department of the University of Georgia, will be the speaker for Honors' Day, Saturday, June 1, at 11:30 a. m. in the auditorium. At this time outstanding achievement in scholarship, leadership and service will be recognized.

In the first group, twelve students will be honored for high scholarship. These students must have attained a grade point ratio of 5. The second group will be made up of six students who have displayed constructive leadership and loyalty to the ideals of the college.

Six members of the third group will be chosen for unselfish service and loyalty to the ideals of the college. A fourth section will honor those students who have won prizes and awards in extra-curricular activity.

The 11 o'clock class will meet at 10:30 and no classes will meet after the assembly at 11:30. At 8:00 p. m. the faculty will entertain with a party in the gymnasium for all honor students.

Jim Wrinkle Has Been Awarded Fellowship

Announcement has come from the administration that two fellowship jobs have been provided in the physical education and general health divisions of the Teachers College for next year. Jim Wrinkle, Dalton, has definitely been selected for one of these fellowships. A vacancy is yet to be filled in the physical training division.

CHARM IN A TEACHERS COLLEGE

William McAndrew, since 1924 editor of the Educational Review in the School and Society Magazine, who recently spent several days on the campus, writes in the May issue of School and Society:

"Some of us rode over to Statesboro to hear the collegians sing. In the women's dormitory of the State Teachers College, President and Mrs. Pittman introduced us to a line of well-comers. Each, at some time or other, said we must come back to Georgia often. Girls passed cakes, lemonade, candies and the favorite potato crisp. A girl pinned a lily on each guest when served so that the passers could be sure no one was skipped. Meantime, without announcement and with no waits, musicians, instrumentalists, vocalists, soloists, duets and trios offered the quaint old classics, mostly songs of spring. A pretty child of six, under the influence of the music, took undisputed possession of the open space in front of the players. Such waving of little arms, such tripping and gliding and unconscious abandon, such pure joy, is too good to last. A too modest mother, much confused, pulls her offspring back into the proprieties of this routine world. That's what civilization, hang it all, is doing to us.

"A trio of women sang 'Die Fruhlingzeit'. It runs along smooth and bright—the melting of the snows, the coming of the warm moist winds, the spread of the green carpet over hill and dale, the blooming of innumerable flowers. The music rises to a climax. These three beautiful women thrilled with it. Their faces turned upwards, radiant, proclaiming 'Oh wie wunderschön ist der Fruhlingzeit, die Fruhlingzeit!' The hall is in old Southern style. Open stairs springing from each side and meeting like an A for the corridor extending back to the second floor. On these stairs the girls had taken places to listen to the music. Some were in white, some in yellow or green or red or blue. The effect was that of an old picture of a cornucopia pouring out a profusion of all colors of flowers. Speakers at school assemblies tell youngsters like these, 'This is the happiest time of your life.' I can't believe this. It seems to me it is the business of education to make the happiness of youth grow on and abide. If, at 70, you are not happier and more of a radiator of happiness than you were at 20 you haven't used your education aright.

"Pittman preaches this. 'You folks here,' he says, 'have been born into a world of beauty with flowers, birds and the incomparable stars. The rule of Nature is healing. Life is a heritage of good. Your mission, for which you are training here, is to brighten the world.' Therefore, he is gently pushing more music, more art and more of the refinements of social service into the courses of the college to which he came as president a year ago. Pittman is a product of Mississippi, New York, Oregon, Dakota, Michigan and Georgia. He is patient, persistent, persuasive and never pretentious. While we visitors were riding toward Willis Sutton's Atlanta, through handsome towns and pretty villages, past stately old houses and gardens, under trees bannered with Spanish moss, the party elected me to say in print something suggestive of the way we feel toward these Georgians. Pittman I have known for many years. I never heard him mentioned without commendation. Kyle Alfried, the quiet, business-like executive secretary of the state education association, is a silent dynamo, always in order, always efficient. The school people of Georgia are so affable, earnest, forward-looking and high-spirited that they have, wonder of wonders, the affection and appreciation of even chambers of commerce."

A TRIBUTE TO THE FORMER TRUSTEES

Hon. S. H. Morgan, member of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia from the First Congressional District and a loyal friend to the college here, gave the following in his tribute to the "Former Trustees" of the South Georgia Teachers College:

"Former Trustees of the South Georgia Teachers College and of the First District A. & M. School that preceded it:

"I have been selected as of the present to salute you of the past. To merely salute you would seem to me as trying to barter for precious stones with worthless pebbles. You who pioneered the work here, who struggled against obstacles that seemed at times as insurmountable, who planned here and fought in the halls of the legislature for the very existence of this institution, deserve more than I can in feeble words offer you.

"You deserve the everlasting gratitude of the First Congressional District; you deserve the thanks and the prayers of every boy and girl who has entered this institution; you deserve the highest praise the state of Georgia can bestow upon you for the part you have played in molding character and citizenship in this institution you governed so wisely and so well.

"I feel so unworthy to succeed you, coming in at the eleventh hour when the heat of the day is spent, and my prayer shall be that I will not allow the lofty ideals to droop and pass away, that you gave so much of your loyalty and time to build up.

"In conclusion may I say that it can never be said that you lived for yourselves, and thought of yourselves, and none beside; just as if Jesus had never lived, as if He had never died. And to honor your work and carry on I shall try to remember always that after bread education is the greatest need of a people."

SPORTS

Among the Athletes

(By JIM WRINKLE)

Cochran defeated the Teachers in the first game of the series here Friday 9 to 8. A four-run rally in the ninth inning gave them a good lead and they successfully withstood a Blue Tide uprising to hold onto a one-run margin.

The Teachers hit Kirksey harder than Cochran did Hayman, but the T. C. defense blew up at critical moments, and let Cochran score four runs in each of two big innings.

The Teachers scored three runs each in the third and in the fifth innings, and two in the ninth.

The Teachers split even in a two-game series with B.-P. I. in Mount Vernon on May 16th and 17th. Both games were close. Hines was the winning pitcher in the last game.

The Teachers also broke even with Norman Park, the league-leaders, at Statesboro, on May 7th and 8th. In the first game, after "General" Lee was hit by a pitched ball and had to leave the game, Coach shifted his line-up a bit in order to save Hayman for the next day's game. Poor fielding, and equally poor pitching on the part of the Teachers threw away an eight-run lead, and Norman Park won 11 to 10.

In the second game J. C. Hines, short-stop for three years, was converted into a hurler and held the league-leaders to three hits. The Teachers played good ball behind him and won easily.

Our place of honor this week goes to Hines. When all the pitchers were ailing or ineffective, he came to the rescue and won two games for the Blue Tide. His hitting hasn't been so very good since the road trip to Cochran (when he hit two home runs), but his pitching has more than made up for it.

Gene Woods played his last two games for the Teachers this week end. We have never had a more conscientious hustling ball player than Woods.

Hayman has pitched excellent ball for the Teachers all season. For the first half of the season, he was the only pitcher that could win a game. The three defeats charged up to him in the last three series were due to the lack of support. For instance, only three of the Cochran runs Friday were earned, the other six were gifts.

The game Saturday may have been Hines' last contest for the Teachers. There is the possibility that he will get into organized baseball this summer.

"General" Lee was just rounding into form when an accident put him out for the rest of the season. A broken bone in his hand had to be reset only last week. We are counting on him for next year, and know that he will come through!

The tennis team failed to win any great honors at the Southern Tournament in Atlanta, but it did make a creditable showing. Smith got a bye in the first round of the singles, and thus gave a good account of himself before bowing to the number one man of Sewanee. Smith and Munch defeated Macon in the first round doubles, and had match point against Georgia in the second round, but could not quite win out.

Track season closed prematurely with the cancellation of the meet with Georgia Freshmen. The T. C. track men lost their second meet to B.-P. I. at Mount Vernon by a score of 53-51. The team was handicapped by the absence of weight men, Fulford being the only one to make the trip. Coach Westcott won the 120-yard high hurdles; Charlie Paine, the 220-yard dash; McKneely, the half-mile. The T. C. relay team also came in first. Next year we expect track to be a more important sport at T. C.

W. A. A. NEWS

(By NANCY YOUNG)

May we dedicate this last W. A. A. news of the year to four senior girls, four members of our W. A. A. Council who have been great workers, unselfish and steadfast girls who have made our W. A. A. what it is today. These girls are Victoria Cone, president for this year; Mary Margaret Blitch, vice-president for two years; Virginia Edenfield, councilman for tennis, three years, and Helen Olliff, president last year and publicity chairman this year. These girls will graduate in two weeks and leave behind their alma mater for better work elsewhere, but the service they have rendered the W. A. A. will remain. The council wishes to extend congratulations to them for their years at T. C., and to thank them for all they have given to the council and to the upbuilding of better athletics for the girls of T. C. Luck to you girls, and may you be as great out in the world as you have been in the W. A. A.

As we bid adieu to the outgoing officers and members for this year, may be welcome those who will carry on our work next year. To them lies the greatest task. Gwyn Dekle will lead the W. A. A. next year as president; May Jones Hodges, vice-president; Kathryn Simmons, secretary, and Lil Simmons, publicity chairman, as well as Laura Hickey and Sally Smith, new councilmen that have been elected. They have already had training in W. A. A. work, as several have served the council this year. In you lies the future of the W. A. A. Keep up its good spirit and work.

Getting away from the sentimental and encouraging words, we'd like to say the "ole swimmin' hole" has been full of late. Girls are coming out by the dozens for swimming, and the life saving class is almost ready for its test. A great deal of interest has been shown, and we're hoping that the water carnival will be what we're expecting. Everyone, faculty and students, be out for the event. You might discover a dolphin swimmer among T. C. students.

The tennis tournament is being played off this week. It looks like the seniors will take the prize at last, with Edenfield and Dekle swatting those balls right over the net, in the right place. Even a sophomore can't return them.

The water carnival and the tennis tournament will bring to a close the W. A. A. activities for this year.

Dolphin Club to Have Water Carnival June 4

The Dolphin Club, composed of the senior life savers of the campus, will present a water carnival at the swimming pool on the afternoon of June 4th from 4:30 till 6:00 o'clock.

The carnival will be a combination of diving, strokes, stunts, relays and life saving demonstrations. This will be the first water event ever staged at South Georgia Teachers College, and owing to the size of the pool, it will not be elaborate, but its purpose is to try to show form in swimming as well as variation, and what to do in case of drowning.

The events as now planned will be free style swimming, single over arm stroke, American crawl, back crawl, side stroke, breast stroke, flutter kick, scissors kick, plain dive, swan dive, jack knife dive, back dive, flying Dutchman dive, twist dive, one-half turn, speed swimming, stunts, relays, life saving demonstration.

A detour is the most cursed distance between two points.

Do you remember way back when table scraps were chicken feed instead of salad?

He, in the home: "Who spilled mustard all over this waffle?"

She, in the home: "Oh, John, how could you! This is a lemon pie."

A man whose name was Burst had a family and the children were named John Wood Burst, Nellie Mae Burst and Charlie Will Burst. According to latest reports none of them had.

Looking back over the year: Maybe we all didn't win letters and prizes, but we had great fun getting beat. Here's to a bigger and better W. A. A. next year.

Cherry Chosen to Head Student Council in 1936

By a narrow margin of forty-four votes, Jim Cherry defeated Marvin McKneely in the race for the presidency of the Student Council for next year. The contest was by far the most heated in recent years.

For days before the election the campaign managers and friends of the two candidates exerted every factor to insure the victory of their man. Posters, cards and other forms of propaganda transformed the usually tranquil campus into a seething maelstrom of conflicting opinions. The outcome of the election was never certain until the final results were posted.

The other officers were completely over-shadowed by the presidential race and none of the candidates made an active campaign. Those chosen were: Lillian Simmons, vice-president, and Sara Remington, treasurer.

I. R. C. Members Enjoy Savannah Trip Sunday

The International Relations Club and several members of the faculty entertained old and new members with a picnic at Tybee Beach Sunday, May 19.

The group left Statesboro at 9:30 o'clock and went directly to the Independent Presbyterian church, in Savannah, where they attended the morning service.

After the service the group left for Tybee, where a delightful picnic lunch was served. Swimming and beach baseball were enjoyed during the afternoon. At 6 o'clock a picnic supper was served, after which the party left for Statesboro.

Those included in this trip were: Dr. Destler, Mrs. Destler, Miss Marie Wood, Miss Eleanor Ray, Miss Hester Newton, Miss Franseth and members of the International Relations Club.

Miss Roberts Remains With Training School

Iris Roberts, who came to South Georgia Teachers College from Blakeley, Ga., in the summer of 1934 to complete requirements for a teacher's degree, will be retained by the administration as critic teacher of the third and fourth grades in the training school here next year.

Miss Roberts, or "Pat," the name she is so well known by, is a former Berry student and has had a few years' teaching experience. During the past year "Pat" has been matron of Anderson Hall and a leader in the Y. W. C. A. and student government activities.

"Pat" gets her B. S. here on June 10th, after which she will enter Columbia University summer school for special study in supervision while earning her master's degree.

Students Elected to Medical School

Frank Quattlebaum and Albert Deal, both students at South Georgia Teachers College, were among the forty students selected from the six hundred applicants at Augusta Medical College.

Elizabeth Fletcher, a pre-medical student at the University of Georgia and a former student here, was also selected.

The selection of Quattlebaum and Deal is a definite honor as these two are the first to be selected from the Teachers College.

All three of these students have splendid records in scholarship. Quattlebaum and Deal are members of the Delta Sigma fraternity and also of the T Club.

Somebody says that 10 years from now we will laugh at the kind of hats women are wearing today, but we can't hold in that long.
