COMPETITION KEEN FOR GLEE CLUB— MEMBERSHIP-CHORUS PLANS CONCERT

SPECIAL NUMBERS TO BE ON PROGRAM

Is One of a Series of Programs to Be Given During the Year.

Although the Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. E. L. Barnes, will not be chosen until the beginning of the winter quarter, the leisure arts chorus from which the Glee Club members will be chosen, is making much progress and arousing a great deal of interest and competition for the places on the Glee Club.

The chorus of 60 members, which promises a successful club this year, has been working on folk songs, spirituals, and songs from opera and oratorio.

Plans are being made for a public concert which will be held in the college auditorium December 15th. This program will consist of several special numbers concluding in a group of Christmas carols. This feature is one

GROUP DISCUSSES SCHOOL PROBLEMS

Recent Superintendents' Meeting
Attended by Downs and Pittman.

W. L. Downs, director of the Training School, and Dr. M. S. Pittman attended a meeting of the superintendents' division of the Georgia Education Association, which was held in Atlanta Friday, November 22nd.

Problems which were of particular interest to public schools were discussed from the standpoint of the administration.

The chief topic of discussion at this meeting was the Limitations Tax Bill which has been passed by the Georgia legislature and will be put to popular vote next fall. This bill will limit taxes on property to 15 mills. If it is passed the appropriations for education in Georgia will be cut several million dollars a year. The question is, "Should this bill become a law?" The governor has promised to pass an act to provide funds to make up for the deficit if this bill is passed. The superintendents were uncertain as to what course to follow.

Congressman Braswell Deen, of Alma talked on breaking away from the old curriculum and providing activity

STATE EDUCATORS INVITED FOR VISIT

Invitations Extended Hundreds of Friends and Supporters
By Council.

An official visiting day is to be sponsored by the Student Council and the faculty December 11th is to be a new feature of the program of the school year. This visiting day will provide for a day when friends, supporters, and school men of this region of the state can come and visit and see the college at work and at play.

Plans for the event are being worked out at present by the Student Council. Approximately 500 personal invitations are being sent out to the superintendents, principals and other men connected with schools represented by the students at college here.

The students are being organized into county groups, whereby all students of the same county will assemble and write to their respective superintendents and principals from which school they graduated. When the group as a whole will send out invitations to the county school superintendent. The same plan will be followed for the independent school system. In this way each school man in any way connected with students or the college will receive two personal invitations. The invitations will serve to better acquaint the school men with the college and its program. Also it will furnish a means by which the superintendent may keep track of their students.

The entire program has not been decided upon as yet, but according to J. D. Cherry, president of the Student

T. C. ALUMNI HOLD MEETING

Alumni Guests of Senior Class
At Buffet Luncheon in Training School.

The Alumni Association of the South Georgia Teachers College held their regular meeting in Room 4 at 11:30 o'clock Thanksgiving morning. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Helen Olliff, of Statesboro, who announced the speaker of the morning, Dr. M. S. Pittman. Dr. Pittman's talk concerned the ways in which the alumni could help the school and the possibility of an organized alumni with a definite meeting time. He said that the alumni came back on graduation and homecoming, but at present there was no definite organization of the former students.

After the talk by Dr. Pittman the regular business of the meeting was transacted.

Following the meeting the alumni were guests of the Senior class at a buffet luncheon in the recreation hall of the Training School.

As the guests entered the room they were met by a reception committee who greeted them in the name of the Senior class. After registering in the guest book luncheon was served by members of the Senior class.

The recreation hall was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and other materials suggestive of Thanksgiving. During the luncheon Miss Grace Cromley sang several selections, accompanied by the college orchestra.

ALUMNI GUESTS OF SENIORS AT LUNCH

Luncheon, Football Game, Banquet and Dance Feature Program.

T. C. came home Thanksgiving in a blaze of glory, and to judge by the number of fur coats and new suits, the teaching profession isn't bad at all.

The old students began arriving Wednesday afternoon and by Thursday morning the campus was overrun by visitors who had come to participate in the Homecoming festivities. Comments were heard on every side about the changes in the school and faculty members, and many of the old students expressed the thought that T. C. is better than it has ever been.

Promptly at 10:30 a. m. the program began with the Freshman-Sophomore Rush which provided thrills and amusement for the large

FRESHMEN PLAN ANNUAL BANQUET

To Be One of Most Unusual and Entertaining Ever Held Here.

Now that the Thanksgiving banquet is over, students are looking forward to another brilliant affair the third week in December—when the annual Freshman banquet is held. Although plans for this coming event have not yet been completed, those in charge have the program well under way.

According to Frank Mulling, president of the Freshman class, this year's Freshman banquet will be one of the most unusual in decoration and entertainment ever held here.

The idea of a Freshman banquet each year at Christmas is comparatively new on the campus, though the practice from which it originated is almost as old as the college itself.

Years ago when the gymnasium was where the library now is, it was the custom for the student body to meet there for one hour on the night before they left for the Christmas holidays and draw gifts from the Christmas tree. Three years later came the idea of having a special supper before the Christmas tree. From this originated the custom of having a banquet with a special celebration

What a Homecoming!

And what a great time those old grads had shaking hands and telling again those tales of adventure which took place "way back yonder when . . ."

But what a shame it was that our carnival had to leave a few days before the alumni came. The next time we have such a group of entertainers on our campus it might be well to remember these old-timers. After all, this is where many of them learned to appreciate the finer things of life, and they won't love us if we forget them when, with a little effort, they could share our good fortune.

The Freshmen are now upperclassmen, or rather they aren't rats any more. After having duly and completely captured the banner in the Freshman-Sophomore Rush on Thanksgiving, they are at least free from any Rat Court. From now henceforth, no Freshman, to the great grief of several upperclass boys, may be called upon to make up beds, clean rooms, or run errands. Much as we hate to admit it, the rats have at last become human beings who may think, act and talk at last like college students.

Much has been said in commendation of the recent Homecoming edition of the George-Anne. The members of the staff are thankful for and feel encouraged by such comment. We hope, with the aid of the general student body, to publish a paper which improves a little with each successive edition. Toward this end we just as cordially welcome sincere criticism as we do commendation. If there is any one aim paramount in the minds of the staff, it is to be truly a paper of and for the student body, dedicated to their interests at all times.

Congratulations to the broadcasters for the initial radio program over WTOC in Savannah. With as successful a beginning as this these semi-monthly broadcasts should become regularly expected features in the homes of our friends and neighbors. If the series, which will continue through the 1935-36 session, wins such a place of distinction, the programs must be entertaining. From such worthy efforts we will derive great benefit if we continue to keep in mind the fact that listeners want and expect entertainment, and not eloquently worded advertisements of the greatness of the South Georgia Teachers College.

1936 OLYMPICS

Whether American athletics should participate in the Eleventh Olympiad, if it is to be held in Germany, is a question that some important American citizens are discussing in serious manner. German attitude toward the Jew, of course, is the root of all the debate.

Why America should, and why America should not, are the arguments taken by the American Olympic Committee and the Committee on Fair Play in Sports. The former has issued a pamphlet which presents the case for participation, followed by a presentment of the case against participation by the C. F. P. S.

In 1932 the International Olympic Committee awarded the games to Berlin which at that time was a part of Republican Germany. Today Berlin and Germany are not Republican, but Nazi. And because of the racial, religious and political angles which have become involved through the Nazi reign, the Committee on Fair Play in Sports deems it inadvisable for American athletes to take part, stating "that to hold the games in Nazi Germany would be to give the moral and financial support of the sports world to what is perhaps the most cruel, the most despotic and the most barbarous government of modern times."

On the other hand the Olympic Committee states that in accepting the German invitation the committee ignored irrelevant political, racial and religious affairs, and that the A. O. C. does not endorse the policies of any government in accepting its invitation to compete in the games.

The final decision will come from the athletes themselves. Meantime, such men as Norman Thomas, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Heywood Broun and Senator J. H. Metcalf seem very much concerned.

AS OTHERS TELL US

Basil Hall, who speaks his mind every week in the Mercer Cluster in his column, "For Men Only," is one of the outstanding state undergraduate writers. Hall writes in a manner which makes one enjoy reading, even if he disagrees with what is written. Some may be interested in the way this Mercerian has his say about youth and welfare. So, presenting Mr. Hall:

"Massed Youth notoriously lacks individuality of thought. A vague promise of fame and glory and an ideal, and Youth goes sheep-like to the slaughter. And yet regularly, once a year, like Christmas or Easter, we are reminded, not of the horrors, but of the glories of war. The world, say we, would be a sweller spot were sleeping dogs permitted to lie. We remember you, veterans, we are proud of you both as men and as patriots; but simply because you were taken in on a poorly hatched plot 'to make the world safe for democracy'—whatever that means—is no reason for your deliberately educating us to the idea that some day we must serve as pot-shots for people we don't even know.

"If the sanctity of our nation is threatened, then we will be the first to jump to our guns. Don't you worry about that. But for you to constantly keep before us an attitude and a reminder of militaristic ideals is to eventually instill in us the desire for new worlds to conquer. In so doing, the very essence of pacifism is nipped in the bud, and the strengthening of the idea of a Court of Arbitration goes by the board.

"Your glory could have been a hazy, pleasant memory. With your help it is becoming a menace."

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

President M. S. Pittman spoke in Pensacola, Fla., last week to one thousand teachers at the Western Florida Teachers Association. The subject of Dr. Pittman's address was, "Wanted—a Teacher!"

After the Roosevelt celebration, in company with Dean Z. S. Henderson, Dr. Pittman went to a meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools being held in Louisville, Ky., where this college is to be considered for membership in the Southern Association of Senior Colleges.

All members of the chorus are urged to report to the rehearsal which is to be held in the auditorium Saturday at chapel period. Council, the plans will be as follows:

A program committee, which will be made up of members of the Student Council and faculty, will receive and welcome the guests as they arrive and in some way be responsible for their entertainment during the day. Students who have school men from their Alma Mater visiting on the campus will be expected to participate in entertaining their guests. The early part of the morning will be devoted to showing the visitors around the campus and taking them to the different college classes in which they are most interested. Provisions will be made for their entering the classes of their own choice.

At 10:15 regular chapel will be held, led by students. During this period the students will strive to put on a typical program to show visitors the way in which they receive training in leadership.

The 12 o'clock hour will be devoted to a conference that is to be conducted in the auditorium for and by the visitors. During this period problems confronting school men of this section of the state concerning education will be discussed. M. R. Little, state supervisor of schools, from this territory, will be the principal speaker.

The afternoon will be turned over to the physical education department of the college, giving the visitors an opportunity of seeing T. C. students and faculty members at play. They will see the actual preparation that students get in leadership and group play suited for the rural children. With this feature the program for the day will end.

T'CHIN'S

(By GEE DEE)

And did the Blue Tide line look good against G. M. C.! Those boys were in there scrapping on every play. Kessler and Plunkett played jam-up ball as is their custom. Incidentally, Coach says that these boys are potentially the best pair of tacs that he has ever had. McKinney looked mighty good breaking through and blocking the first punt that the Profs have batted down this fall. Guy is steadily improving, and Crowe plays his flank like a vet. What a line, what a line (and not in the usual sense). And what a prospect for next fall if all these boys return. With one season's experience under their belts this line ought to tear opposing forward walls to shreds.

*****

We want to make apologies for a mistake in our little "Hats Off" feature in the last edition. Plunkett claims he weighs, not 190, but 191; every one knows that he is not handsome; he does play a tackle though. We weren't all wrong. Sorry, old man.

*****

May we take just a little space to pay tribute to two footballers who have shown the best spirit, the most fight, the best morale, and who play sixty minutes of top-notch football in nearly every game, come out bruised and beaten, and unnoticed—"Angelo" Ferrara and "Dodie" Lambright. They block on every play, seldom if ever touch the ball, and crack 'em just as hard on the last play as on the kick-off. Give 'em a hand, fans.

*****

We notice in the Augusta papers that two Kesslers, brothers of our tackle, are burning up football circles. Keep an eye on them, "Crook."

*****

And did we have a big Homecoming or not! Even if the game was all wet, it was great football. The Profs should have won easily had the field been dry. That 98c head-linesman was one of the best players Stetson had. We understand that the Hatter coach has offered him a scholarship for next year.

*****

Heath did a swell job of punting in the Turkey Day set-to, considering the slimy coating on the ball and the quick charging of the Stetson line. What a triple-threat man this boy is going to be!

*****

Three great athletes sang the proverbial swan song in Thursday's encounter. Where will Coach find three boys who can play football as Fulford, Riggs and Hines have for the last four years? It'll be hard to do. Bon voyage, fellows. We hope you do as well on life's muddy gridiron as you have on T. C's.

*****

And now for some more of that space filler, "The Life of the Mighty Crook." Since everyone thinks that this story is fiction, a summary of his career at Mercer will suffice:

*****

While at Mercer he was three times All-Southern in three sports; the first four-letter man in the history of the college; All-American end in the opinion of nearly all writers who saw him play; and largest holder of letters at Mercer, having a total of thirteen. He went from his Alma Mater to Dalton High School, and after coaching there for a few years was discovered by Wa-Wa on one of his bargain-hunting tours about the state and brought to T. C., where he has been disturbing the campus with his "Hurry-Hurry" and "C'on, let's go" for the last seven years.

*****

We must admit our failure to determine, despite hours of research and many sleepless nights, the cause for Coach's most outstanding trait (to put it mildly), frugality.

PLAYED THEIR LAST GAME

Shown above are the pictures of three outstanding football players of the Teachers College team for the past few years, who finished their gridiron careers against Stetson University Thanksgiving.

TEACHERS BEAT CADETS 25-12

Upset Dope in Winning from Ancient Rivals from Milledgeville.

Again the Teachers upset the dope, scored three touchdowns in quick succession in the second stanza and one in the third to lick their ancient rivals, Georgia Military College by a score of 25-12.

Little Heath went over for the Profs' first marker in the second quarter on a sneak from the Cadets' 28-yard line. Hines tallied next after repeated drives into the line had put the ball within scoring range of the G. M. C. goal. Again the Teachers launched a scoring attack, this time it was Fulford who went over from the 8-yard line to score standing up.

In the third period McKinney broke through and blocked a kick deep in enemy territory to begin another campaign which ended in another tally for the Blue Tide. This time the kick for extra point was good, making the score 19-0. Here the half ended.

The future generals, evidently tired of the Teachers' monopolizing the scoring, almost blotted out the sun with passes, completing six out of eight heaves to carry the ball from deep in their own territory across the Tide's goal line.

The Teachers opened up with the fireworks again in the final quarter only to be stopped when Hines' pass to Fulford went astray and landed in the hands of Cantrell, Cadet guard, who ran in a clear field to the T. C. 3-yard marker, where he was overhauled by Fulford, who had raced almost the entire length of the field and evaded several blockers to snag the runner from the rear. G. M. C. began plugging into the Blue line in an attempt to score. Both teams in their

STETSON WHIPS BLUE TIDE 9-6

The Blue Tide bowed in defeat before a much heavier Stetson outfit by the score of 9-7 on the wettest field the Teachers have played on all season. The wet field was a distinct advantage to the Hatters as their offensive employs only straight football due to the weight of the line.

The Teachers opened up with a passing offensive in an early attempt to push over a marker before the ball became so wet as to make passing impossible. Failing in this, the Profs resorted to punting and were steadily pushing Stetson back when a half-distance-to-goal penalty put the Florida team into T. C. territory and gave them the necessary pep to put over a score. Canaralli went over for Stetson.

The Teachers scored in the third quarter after a beautiful slant off-tackle with Heath carrying the ball had placed the ball on the green one-yard stripe. Hines went over. Kick for extra point was wide.

Another break scored two points for Stetson in the final stanza when the Teacher kicker had a little trouble with the wet ball and had a punt blocked. The ball slithered over the goal and out of the end zone for a safety. Final score, 9-7.

It is said that in the anti-noise campaign in New York the city administration is going to compel the federal workers in Central Park to shoot crap with rubber dice.

eagerness were offside on three plays in succession, giving G. M. C. seven downs in which to make three yards. It took six of these tries to take the ball through a Teachers' line which was almost impregnable. This was the final score of the day although Coach Bachelor's outfit began another passing offensive. Final score, 25-12.

ART DEPARTMENT DESIGNS MASKS

In the art department, under the direction of Miss Small, the students are engaged in making molds for masks. Common clay of a poor grade is used as a base, and gradually better grades of Georgia clay are added and the whole shaped into mask faces.

After the clay molds become sufficiently hardened, they will be used to make papier-mache masks. This will be done by taking small strips of paper and gluing them over the features of the masks until a sufficient thickness has been attained to prevent its collapse. When the glue dries and hardens, the mask may be removed from the mold and coated with oil paint to bring out certain features.

Only a few masks are being made at the present, but more will be made in the future. This is a very interesting course and next quarter should see a considerable increase in enrollment.

T. C. OBSERVES HOMECOMING DAY

crowd of spectators until it came to a glorious finish with Freshman Leroy Cowart capturing the colors for his class. From now on the Freshmen are free men.

The football game in the afternoon between the Teachers and Stetson can be summed up in two words—all wet. However, the contest was close and exciting, and Hines, Fulford and Riggs finished their football careers in fine style.

At 6:30 p. m. the dining hall became the center of interest with the Thanksgiving banquet taking the spotlight. Sara Remington, with her co-workers, transformed the dining hall in to a scene of dignity and beauty. The long tables, decorated with greens and pumpkins, lighted by orange tapers, and surrounded by the old and new students in evening attire, made a charming picture.

Next the scene shifted to the Alumni Building for the quarterly guest dance. Here the decorations were of blue and white streamers hung from the ceiling to form a huge canopy through which the lights transformed into twinkling stars, peeped. In one corner were white trees over which rose a luscious orange moon. Confetti and serpentine added to the carnival atmosphere, while "Oozie" Deal and his All-Americans provided the syncopation for the affair.

SECOND RADIO PROGRAM FRIDAY

The second of a series of radio programs is to be presented over Station WTOG, Savannah, Ga., Friday, December 6th.

These radio programs are under the direction of Dr. T. B. Stroup, head of the English department. It is Dr. Stroup's idea to capitalize the talent of the various organizations and individuals on the campus by means of these broadcasts.

These thirty-minute programs are to consist of music, drama, plays and talks by various departmental heads, giving the aims and objectives of their department, and a special news bulletin is to carry any special news concerning the activities of the faculty members and the student body.

Negotiations were started last summer between Dr. M. S. Pittman and the studio heads for a special arrangement and a definite time for the presentation of these programs.

These broadcasts are to be financed by the college.

EPICUREAN

The Epicureans were entertained with a feast Tuesday night, November 26th, by their pledges. A dance was given Saturday, November 30th, at the Woman's Club in honor of the old and new pledges. The music was furnished by the school orchestra.
