TOWN AND COUNTY

Messrs. T. J. Morris and O. Dutton of Jerome have opened a mercantile business at their home at that place. Under the firm name of Morris & Dutton.

We carry a full line of staple and fancy groceries, dry goods, shoes, hats and general merchandise and pay the highest market prices for country produce, and trade is solicited.

L. A. Forbes & Co.,
Woodburn, Ga.

Every day there comes new inquiries about Statesboro property. There is a demand for every inch of land in this town at prices that denote a steady boom. In 10 years Statesboro will have 10,000 inhabitants. Watch this!

We sell 11 lbs good coffee for $1.00 and 9 lbs of best No 1 coffee for $1.00.

L. A. Forbes & Co.,
Woodburn, Ga.

Messrs. M. J. Bowen & Burrell Trapnell were down from Motter one day this week.

J. G. Blitch & Co. will save you money on a two horse or one horse wagon.

The rains have come and the farmers can now go ahead and sow oats.

It will pay you to come in and see what J. G. Blitch & Co. are doing.

It is reported that Col. Pope Brown will retire from the gubernatorial race in favor of Farmer James M. Smith of Oglethorpe county.

Cow brand soda 5 lbs for 20c at Blitch & Co.

Savannah seems to be bent on making the State Fair a success. They never do things by halves in Savannah. They generally drive every enterprise they take hold of to a successful finish.

Just received a large new stock of the famous Star Brand shoes for gentlemen, ladies and children. It will pay you to see our shoes before buying as we guarantee them to be all leather and give satisfaction.

L. A. Forbes & Co.,
Woodburn, Ga.

When Perkins Road gets in here which will be in a short time. We will then have three railroads then we will have to have a union depot.

Mr. J. A. Warnock & Co. are preparing to start the erection of their handsome store building at Brooklet. The building will be 40 by 80 feet 2 stories with up to date fixtures. These gentlemen are hustling merchants and are opening in one of the best communities in Georgia. They will carry a full line of general merchandise dry goods clothing etc. They are selling out their stock at Arlen at a sacrifice. Notice of which appears in this issue.

Found Under The Bed

Mr. H. V. Oglesby against whom there was several charges of selling whisky at Parish plead guilty to that offence and entered into a solemn pledge to do so no more before Judge Evans on Tuesday. Mr. Oglesby had decided that his last hope lay in flight and when the deputy sheriff called at his place of business Tuesday morning for him he had taken French leave. He had located under the bed however and readily gave up and willingly accompanied the officer to town. A fine of $75.00 and cost was imposed which was promptly paid.

Mr. M. V. Fletcher remembered the printers during the week.

FARMERS PAYING UP.

The Merchants and both the local banks inform us that the farmers are meeting their obligations with their usual promptness. This is encouraging when we think of the short cotton crop. Our farmers are living at home as a rule and have bought little that they were not compelled to have. There are a smaller per cent of farm mortgages in Bulloch than any county in this section of the State.

Come and see our new line of shoes. We can fit anybody on both price and quality of good.

L. A. Forbes & Co.,
Woodburn, Ga.

LOOK OUT FOR CROOKS.

When you go down to the State Fair you had better keep both feet under you and one eye on the numerous crooks and grafters. Don't take up with any "turkey raffles" on other schemes by which you are expected to furnish the dough. The police are doing all they can to run these criminals in but they are professionals and are too sleek for the cops, much less "Uncle Ruben" from the country districts. If you must get tanked up with booze it will be better for you to wait until you get back home when there are no sharpers to take you in.

Fell Through the Bridge.

Messrs. Paul and Peter Brunson while on the way to town on Monday with a load of cotton had considerable trouble crossing the bridge over Mill Creek while over the stream the bridge gave way and the horses fell through causing some ugly bruises.

CAL, D. D. S.,

The Trouble in the Isthmus of Panama.

I needed no war nor revolution to make the Isthmus of Panama one of the most picturesque spots on earth, but now that both are in the air, the scene is doubly so.

"JEFFERS," AN AMERICAN SOLDIER OF FORTUNE.

When the country is fairly ablaze with local color. Foreign war ships ride in the harbor of Colon and Panama, the flags of all nations are hoisted over the huts of the frightened inhabitants, while intercontinental native soldiers march at large through the streets.

Martial law is in force, and the affairs of life are regulated by drum taps and bugle calls. Especially is this true in the case of the Spanish, pronounced in evidence in Panama.

A few days ago an uncommonly noisy fanfare called us to the Alcaide. A platoon of barefooted, undersized soldiers was drawn up in front of the portal. From the veranda the Alcaide, surrounded by half a dozen Spanish pronunciation, read aloud a long Spanish proclamation. In the name of the President.

The crowd that had gathered listening to this proclamation with lengthening faces. What it meant was soon made apparent when the governor of the province, General Alban, who had hastened from Cartagena, summoned a local doctor of the most respectable citizens to the Alcaide's office, and locking the door behind him, required each of them to extend to the Government a "voluntary" cash loan of $3000 in Colombian silver. For a few days the Government officials were jubilant over their successful coup.

The starving soldiers received some of their arrears, besides the regular pay of four and a half cents per day, and Panama's creek battery of artillery was now equipped with new uniforms. I seized this auspicious moment to obtain photographs of the entire corps, and of their young colonel, Esteban Beroa, the hero of a recent encounter with the liberals, where he lost his arm.

Then came bad news. In the face of a threatened naval demonstration on the part of Venezuela and Ecuador, a wrecked crew of native sailors had managed to founder the Colombian gunboat La Poppa off the coast of Cartagena. She proved a total loss.

PLAZA DE BOLIVAR, IN BOGOTA, SHOWING STATUE OF THE LIBERATOR AND THE SCENE OF FREQUENT REVOLUTIONS. THE CAPITAL IS TO THE RIGHT.

In vain did the Government try to suppress the news of this misfortune. As I traveled by rail across the Isthmus I heard the train hands and passengers shout the joyful tidings to the disaffected mosquitos who gathered at the little palm-covered stations to see the train go by. By the time we reached Colon the news was spreading like wildfire, and the Isthmus into the interior. Even the rebels in the military prison heard the news.

The results were soon forthcoming. Word reached Panama that Honda del Agua, a small port not fifteen miles inland, had been captured by the liberals, and that a number of refugee Panamanians had joined their ranks.

There was talk of an expedition against them, but before the military governor of Panama could secure a suitable ship for the purpose, even requests for reinforcements were telegraphed across the Isthmus from Colon. A trainload of soldiers was shipped over to Colon followed on a freight train at midday.

At the wharf I found the soldiers of the detachments drawn up in inspection. Behind the ragged line of soldiers the crowd of the most respectable citizens to the Alcaide's office, and locking the door behind him, required each of them to extend to the Government a "voluntary" cash loan of $3000 in Colombian silver. For a few days the Government officials were jubilant over their successful coup.

In the last fight between the liberals and the Government forces in the outskirts of Panama, the insurgents charged up the railroad embankment five times in succession, and were beaten back each time with unusually heavy losses on both sides. Herbert Jeffers, an American soldier of fortune, who commanded the Government forces on that occasion, told me that the fighting on both sides became so fierce that his men were cut down with machetes while serving their pieces.

By way of side comment to this story a Colombian friend told me privately that Jeffers would have lost all his guns had he not taken them apart in the midst of the melee and sent them to a better position piece-meal. Jeffers himself was seen to stagger out of the trenches with the best part of his favorite machine-gun, strapped to his back, while he kept the most persistent of the insurgents at bay with a revolver.

Presently the order came to embark, and the men were bundled aboard without further ado.

Next morning we drew near the coast until we came within a mile of the shores said to be held by the enemy. All hands were ordered to quarters, and the soldiers were ordered to lie down on the upper deck and to remain there until the order to disembark was given. It was a relief to the men, who were tired and hungry, to find that the information was false or because of

In the end it was decided to return to Bocas del Toro, and the men were ordered to disembark. ## TEN ACTORS DIE IN RAGING FIRE

Caught in Top Story of a Theatre Building.

ESCAPE WAS QUICKLY CUT OFF

Tragedy Occurred in Little Town of Hurley, Wisconsin—Other Buildings Were Burned.

Ten lives were lost and four buildings destroyed by a fire which started in the Klondike theater at Hurley, Wis., Wednesday. The dead are: C. W. Cleveland, H. P. Clifford, Thomas Le Claire, George Bennett, H. D. Emory, Timothy Ryan, M. L. Gay, St. Louis, Thomas O'Connell, Harry Raymond, Charles B. Russell, "Billy" McLaughlin.

The Klondike was a vaudeville theatre and all of the dead and injured were connected with the theatre as performers. Most of them lived at Hurley, and Thomas Le Claire was a brother of the proprietor of the theatre.

The fire started on the stage and in a few minutes the entire structure was a mass of flames. The top story was the worst off, and the fire spread with rapidity, cutting off the escape of the occupants.

The theatre building was quickly consumed and the flames spread to adjoining structures. The Ironwood, Mich., fire department, the nearest within reach, was called to the assistance of the Hurley firemen and only by the hardest work was the town saved from being wiped out.

The losses follow: Le Claire's Klondike theatre, $7,000; Cumming's saloon, $4,000; Harrison & McPherson's saloon, $5,000; D. P. McNeil, of Chicago, $1,000; Constantine Esplaner, $500.

The charred remains of six of the victims were soon recovered, and search was in progress for the others. The Klondike theatre burned once before—in July, 1887—when eleven women lost their lives.

It was determined to send a reconnaissance party at once, so as to prepare for a counter attack on the rebel island.

The "attack" was made at dead of night. I was invited to accompany the expedition. We had a thick, white smoke, and the rebels were playing to right and left, the troops made a rush on the rebel hamlet. It was found that the rebels were in the town had given the alarm. All night long we scoured the bushes without finding a soul. At last, at daylight, I heard a single bugle call, and the rebels were again and again, and the officer in charge of our detachment led us in that direction. Presently there came a quick call of "Halt!"

By way of side comment to this story a Colombian friend told me privately that Jeffers would have lost all his guns had he not taken them apart in the midst of the melee and sent them to a better position piece-meal. ## LI HUNG CHANG DEAD.

After Long Illness Noted Chinese Diplomat Passes in His Chicks At His Home in Peking.

At 9 o'clock Tuesday evening, while Li Hung Chang was still alive, the court yard of the yamen was filled with life-size paper horses and chariots sent in accordance with the Chinese custom, to be buried when he died in order to carry his soul to heaven.

The Chinese officials are somewhat uneasy concerning the effect his death will have on the populace, and to guard against a possible anti-foreign demonstration the Chinese generals have demonstrated their loyalty and devotion to the emperor by a large parade in the city in such a way as to command the attention of the people. The parade, however, is extremely impressive.

Robert McLean, an American, who was one of the physicians attending Li, told the correspondent of the Associated Press that he, when called to Li's bedside, found the patient very weak from a severe hemorrhage due to ulceration of the stomach.

The hemorrhage was readily controlled, said Dr. Colman, "but owing to the underlying condition of chronic gastritis, with persistent nausea, only the slightest liquid food could be digested."

Li's persistent refusal to refrain from attending to government business aggravated his malady, while certain measures customary in western medical practice for relieving the stomach contributed to bring his end near.

PLAGUE REPORT RECEIVED. Surgeon General Wyman Hears From Surgeon General Wyman of the marine hospital service at Washington, received from Passed Assistant Surgeon Thomas, at Liverpool, Wednesday, the following cablegram on the plague situation:

"There have been five cases and two deaths. The last case was isolated October 26. All necessary precautions have been taken. The existence of the plague is not confirmed."

TO REDISTRIBUTE THE STATE. As the result of Tuesday's election, the democrats of Kentucky will have complete control of the next general assembly, which will be one of the most important convened in the state in many years. It will redistrict the state for senatorial purposes, and will also have complete control of the state treasury, which is required every ten years by the constitution. It will also elect a senator to succeed W. J. Debo.

TI UNTEEN GIVE UP JOB. Management of Porter Military Academy Gets Into a Tangle. A Charleston, S. C., dispatch says: Seven members of the board of trustees of the Porter military academy have resigned, and a sensation in educational and religious circles is the result. The chairman of the board, the Rt. Rev. Ellison Capers, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of South Carolina, was the first to resign.

DOCK AT NEW ORLEANS. People Welcome the Big Floater With Cheers and Applause. The New Orleans floating dock was received in the Crescent city Wednesday with an extraordinary outpouring of people and elaborate ceremonies in which federal, state and city officials and members of congress participated. The weather was ideal and as the afternoon was made a semi-holiday thousands went to the naval reservation on the west bank of the river.

CONFERENCE AT WHITE HOUSE. Several Members of Ways and Means Committee Meet. A Washington dispatch says: Four republican members of the house ways and means committee, Messrs. Payne, of New York, Russell of Connecticut, Grosvenor of Ohio, and Steele of Indiana were at the white house Thursday afternoon in conference with the president. It was learned that the committee discussed with them some of the features of his forthcoming message, which relates to the revenues and to the tariff.

HANNA'S FIRST CALL. Senator Visits White House and Confers With President Roosevelt. Friday Senator Hanna, of Ohio, made his first visit to the white house since the death of the late President McKinley. He was accompanied by John G. Milburn, of Buffalo, at whose house he had been staying. The president received both of them. Senator Hanna's visit was in connection with the McKinley memorial project.

ORIGIN OF THE ARMY.

Sketch of the Creation of the United States Military Force.

In the month of June, 1775, the Continental Congress in session at Philadelphia passed three important resolutions. The first adopted took over as the continental army the force of New England troops, which, under the leadership of Washington, had assembled at Boston soon after the battles of Lexington and Concord; the second and third resolutions, which have been the basis of the military law, "Rules and regulations for the government of the army"—the articles of war, which, modified and amended from time to time, still govern the army and form the basis of the military law.

This was the origin of the American army. In the intervening 126 years nearly 500,000 men have worn its uniform; it has conducted the most important wars, covering a period of 177 years, and numerous military campaigns against the hostile Indians and Filipino insurgents; it has been the chief instrument in restoring order and maintaining civil government after the war with Spain; from its ranks have come eleven presidents of the United States, and many of the most important officers of the United States and many hundreds of men occupying the highest civil offices.
