STUDENTS TO VOTE TUESDAY

STUDENTS CHOOSE QUEEN AND COURT

Miss Helen Godbee To Reign
Over May Day Festivities
Here May 1st.

Students chose Miss Helen Godbee, of Newinton, to reign over May Day festivities as a result of the election held Friday. Her maid of honor will be Miss Mattie Cain, of Millhaven.

Ladies of the Court, also chosen in the election Friday will be Misses Sudie Lee Akins, Cecile Brannen, Grace Cronley, Elizabeth Deal, Verna Lasseter, Sara Remington, Lottie Rountree, Kathryn Simmons, Lillian Simmons and Mary Simmons.

The annual May Day celebration will be held Friday afternoon, May 1st. Every effort is being concentrated upon making May Day the outstanding occasion of the spring quarter, and a number of organizations are working on various phases of the program.

Promptly at 2:30 the festivities will begin with a program of track and field events sponsored by the physical education department. At 5:30 the May Day pageant with the

NOTED EDUCATORS TO COME HERE THIS WEEK

Dr. Charles H. Judd, noted educator and director of the department of education at the University of Chicago, Dr. Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, Mrs. James F. Simon, secretary of the Fund, Dr. Michael Davis, and James F. Simon, explorers for the Fund, will spend Wednesday, Thursday and Friday on the campus. A committee from the Board of Regents will also come to the college this week to meet with the Rosenwald representatives.

While here the group from the Rosenwald Fund will hold several conferences relative to certain plans involving the college.

It is hoped that Dr. Judd, Dr. Embree, Dr. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Simon will have opportunity to address the student body.

According to present plans, Dr. Judd is scheduled for an address Thursday. Dr. Judd is recognized as one of the outstanding leaders in the field of education in the United States.

Dr. Ambrose Suhrie, head of the department of education at New York University, is scheduled to spend Friday on the campus and address the student body at the assembly hour on that day.

Superlative Contest to Include A Vote on Standard of Teaching

A type of election whereby students may express their opinions on the quality of instruction of local teachers will be a new feature of the annual superlative contests during the assembly hour tomorrow.

After considering several proposals by which such choices could be made, members of The George-Anne staff, which sponsors the election every spring, decided to honor four professors for general excellency of instruction. It was decided that since the teaching field of a few professors is limited to one or two classes, to allow each class to choose someone whose work is of high standard, with the professor receiving the most votes from a certain class to be the choice of that group.

On the ballot provided for the other election tomorrow there will be a specified place for each student to vote for the professor of his choice. This vote should not be confused with the vote for the most popular professor. In the latter election nominations will be made from the floor; in the choice of professors for good teaching, each individual student will be allowed to suggest any faculty member he chooses, without his having been nominated from the floor.

Students are cautioned to fill in the ballot correctly, as votes will not count which are found to be improperly or incorrectly filled out.

Student Teachers Offer Services to Rural School

Educational Project Sponsored By General Education Board
And Teachers College.

A joint educational project of mutual benefit to the community and teachers in training—with possibility of wider adoption in future years—was launched in the Yeomans Junior High School, four miles north of Collins, last week as six teachers voluntarily offered their services to prevent closing of the school after a seven months' term. The project is being sponsored by the general education board and the South Georgia Teachers College, with Miss Elizabeth Donovan, of the college faculty, supervising.

Under ordinary circumstances the Yeomans school would have closed last week, but because of the arrangement of the Teachers College and the G. E. B., with the endorsement of the Yeomans board of trustees, classes will be continued for two additional months. As the trustees have stipulated that children not be required to buy additional books, Miss Donovan stated that the activity program will be used and planned so as to re-use the present texts.

The courses to be offered, according to Miss Donovan, will be in phases of physical education, fine arts, social sciences, natural science, and the language arts. Through such a curriculum Miss Donovan hopes to have the pupils learn to do the necessary tasks better.

"In other words," the supervising teacher stated, "My philosophy of education is learning to do better the

13 SUPERLATIVES WILL BE CHOSEN

NOMINATIONS LIMITED TO FIVE STUDENTS FOR EACH PLACE

The annual Teachers College superlative contest will be held in the auditorium Tuesday (tomorrow) morning during the assembly hour, according to J. D. Purvis, editor of The George-Anne, which sponsors the contest every year.

At that time the student body may vote for 13 campus superlatives: most handsome boy and girl; most popular boy and girl; best all round boy and girl; wittiest boy and girl; most talented boy and girl; and most intellectual boy and girl.

During the same election students will have opportunity to choose the most popular professor, and vote by class on the teacher whose quality of instruction excels. Details of the latter election are given elsewhere in the George-Anne.

This who's who election, in which all students are eligible for nomination and to vote, is the only contest of the year open to all classes. The to-

DINING HALL WILL BE COMPLETED BY MAY 15

Date for the final completion of the work being done on enlarging the dining hall here is given authoritatively as May 15th by Director Newsome, active engineer engaged. Approximately six weeks will be required to finish the work thoroughly because of a delay in getting materials, he said.

In spite of the delay caused from the lack of materials, the crew of workers will begin pouring cement for the floor this week.

Failure to get materials available for immediate completion was due to the necessity of obtaining bids, Newsome said.

Materials used thus far have been the college's part in the project and have been purchased by the college. Materials to be used in completing the job will be bought by the WPA.

On arrival of the material, expected by April 14, the crew will be enlarged to approximately 20 men, including brick masons, painters, plasterers and carpenters, etc., for immediate completion. The work will be in progress six weeks longer.

The seating capacity of the hall, after completion, will have been increased by some 50 to 100.

Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!—Psalms 133:1.

Something else to worry about is whether or not the wild generation of the '20's is still wild.

A newspaper headline states: "Boring To Speak." We suppose that makes it unanimous.

All the speakers lined up on our side, each calling it Georgia Prog-ress Day. Come again, Dr. T. B.

We note with interest that the Bulloch Times has adopted our style for writing drop headlines. So has the Statesboro Hi-Owl.

Political fingers in the membership of the Board of Regents is nothing to reflect credit on the state educational system.

"Geechee" has made a regular sissy out of the Lam Dambright boy. He took a part in the production of "Dulcy," and liked it!

One of the heights of optimism these days is for a school teacher to buy something on the installment plan.

Would we be impudent if we suggested that one thing this country needs is more gongs during some of the amateur performances? (And chapel program?)

A college publication has observed that the professor who enters the classroom late is rare. Indeed, if he is fifteen minutes late he is in a class to himself.

For all these years we have been wondering what D. L. D.—the name of one of our sororities—means. Now the co-eds have organized another that is equally as baffling—the I. O. U. It's a cruel world.

We are informed by Time that the nation's school superintendents bought more whiskey at the St. Louis convention than did the American Legion a year ago. More proof of the Red leaning of teachers, we presume.

Bill Biffem has made several comments in the Savannah Evening Press about the new bell(e) system to be installed (?) here. If Bill knew as much about the present generation of belles as we do, he would know that they are shocking enough without being electrified. Only a dumb belle is not a live wire.

MONITOR SYSTEM

If and when a plan for improvement is effected, yet in actual operation is found inadequate in fulfilling the purpose for which it was created, it seems in the best interest of other proposals that such a plan be discarded. Yet for the past two years the house organization and monitor plan in West Dormitory, a failure in any sense of the word, has been neither improved nor discarded.

It seems to us that this failure should be recognized; otherwise, those things which are worthy of a place in the organization of the college will not be seen in as favorable light as they should.

Students should dislike the thought of remembering the college as a place where worthless machinery was set into motion and, upon discovery of its worthlessness, never discarded. For this reason we believe that by bringing this monitor system to the attention of those responsible, a change will be made.

MISS CARO LANE

When Miss Caro Lane, for four years head of the women's physical education department, assumes her new position as assistant professor in health and physical education at Louisiana State University June 1, the South Georgia Teachers College will have lost one of its more eminent educators. To record the achievements of this genial instructor about whom the 1935 Reflector said "not only knows everybody worth knowing, but she is a unique character herself," would be to say that she did everything she could to help every cause she thought was right.

The notable accomplishments of the college in which Miss Lane has had a part during the past four years are many. To her should go major credit for the beginning of the health department, the Woman's Athletic Association, city playground supervision, and other deeds of importance and value. When she joined the faculty in 1932 the general health service was negligible. There were no health requirements, no physical examinations, and the college was without the service of a physician. After her initial work in this field and with her continued interest, great progress has been made.

In organizing the local unit of the W. A. A. Miss Lane provided young women of the campus with one of the most worthy of our college organizations. Extending her interest toward service to the Statesboro community, the city playground is a success largely as a result of her efforts and personal expense. In social recreation Miss Lane has ever been the person dependable to make the "party go over big." Her ability along this line will be sorely missed.

Coming to the college from the State Department of Education, where she had good opportunity to observe the needs of rural children, Miss Lane knew what should be the qualifications of their teachers. As a result her program of integration with the Training School is unsurpassed by any other department, and her teacher training courses have been directed toward absolute needs.

Possessed with a genuine love for teaching and a sincere interest in education, Miss Lane's work at this institution has been of the highest order. Her accomplishments will remain her best records. But however much her influence is missed in other ways, students are likely to feel her absence most keenly in the want for individual consultations, the time and thought for which she readily gave to all.

T. C. ON PARADE

Tippie kept my two hand-
Gettin' kerchiefs and shirt only a Ready week the last time, so amidst wondering how such a bulky wardrobe could best be displayed in a worn out satchel for the regular spring visit in what has come to be known as "the old home town," I had occasion for rejoicing. But somehow I didn't feel like rejoicing. I felt, so to speak, more like using somebody's left shoulder. Maybe it was a good thing one wasn't handy. I was sorta in the habit of using folks' things, anyway, as I'd been taking wearables out of the second drawer all week, when I knew very well that mine was the third. Funny how room-mates get such things mixed up.

It wasn't bad in the beginning; that is, there was
Other nothing unusual about the Thoughts routine. I very nonchalantly dragged the old bag from under the bed, gave one grand rake and scattered old shoes in all directions, grabbed the broom from across the hall and swept the top half-inch of dust toward the section of the room where the QYZ was engaged in a clearance project, and.

That was where I broke.
Flashing into my mind like a devil-ish idea when I have tinfoil and a rubber and see a gentleman on the beach with a strapping derriere—I'll swear I said gentleman—the thought struck me: This would be my last time to pack as a care-free college youth headed for home and a few happy days away from studies. Oh, well, have it your way; maybe I shoulda put the period after days.
At any rate it was my last packing for such an event, because the next time it takes place will be the last one, and it most likely will not be for "the old home town." Rather, it will be for new frontiers; even a job, maybe. Tho' the thought of a job has its element of sadness. Ask the man who owns one.

I overcame the thought about using somebody's left shoulder, but went melancholically on with the packing —switching first one handkerchief on top and then the other, finally deciding that the one a little sixth grade student gave me with "P" in the corner showed to best advantage.

So that was that. The trip home is one familiar to all the boys; it is one of the things they learn in college:
"Goin' my way, Mister?"

Once in "the old home town,"
Gettin' I was reminded of the old
There gray mare. Varying, as it were (it must be the professor's influence!), in slight degree from what it was in days of yore. I couldn't be quite so perfidious as to say, "she ain't what she used to be,"
but I know it ain't exactly like it used to be. It may be better and I may have become critical. That's easily possible. Business seems better, anyhow. At least it's better in

DRAMATIC CLUB NAMES LEADERS

Florence Daley Elected President to Succeed Eloise Graham.

Florence Daley was elected president of the Dramatic Club Monday night to succeed Eloise Graham. Other officers chosen were: Ruth Pound, vice-president; Joe Buxton, secretary; Thelma Harrison, treasurer; Ben Jones, stage manager, and Louis Beeton, assistant stage manager.

The club will present a three-act play this quarter. At present the choice lies between "Ghosts," by Ibsen and "Three-Cornered Moon," by Tonkonozzy. A decision will be reached shortly, and the play will soon go into rehearsals.

Editors Denounce "Grading" System

Hardly a week passes that the subject of accrediting knowledge with the grade system is not discussed "by many of the better college editors," according to an item in the current Red and Black, weekly publication at the University of Georgia.

In denouncing the present educational system of placing emphasis on marks rather than knowledge, the Red and Black stated:

"Giving grades is the most unfair and unjust system of recognition that the educational powers-that-be ever brought forth. Everything is based on marks. Even 'honor' clubs. Why not reverse the system and put the emphasis where it should be—on knowledge?"

HERTY PINE TO BE PRESERVED ON T. C. CAMPUS

The pine tree on which Dr. Charles H. Herty hung his first cup and gutter for collecting gum turpentine July 20, 1901, has been cut down. The pine, located just off the campus of the college, was ordered down by President M. S. Pittman, who expects to have it preserved on the campus.

A marker presented last year by Mrs. M. E. Judd, member of the state forestry board and active in state P. T. A. affairs, will be placed on the Herty Pine after it has been definitely located.

The tree was christened the Herty Pine last April 15, when Dr. Herty was a visitor on the campus for ceremonies as guest of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce and the college. It was on the same date that a three-acre forest of slash pines on the northwest section of the campus was named The Herty Pines.

The marker contributed by Mrs. Judd reads: "On this tree, on July 20, 1901, the first cup and gutter for collecting gum turpentine was hung by Dr. Charles H. Herty and his assistant, Frank Klarpp. Here began a revolution in the naval stores industry."

Annual rings in the Herty Pine indicate that it is not less than 85 years old.

Band Will Make Extensive Tour

The most extensive tour of the band for this scholastic year is now being arranged, according to President Pittman.

Final plans are yet to be made, but a tentative schedule has been made which will carry the band to three junior colleges of the state and several high schools en route.

Letters have been mailed to South Georgia State College, at Douglas, Georgia Southwestern, at Americus, and to Abraham Baldwin College, at Tifton.

Between the programs the band will give several concerts in high schools of the section, according to present plans.

Dr. Pittman will accompany the band, making short addresses prior to the performances.

Members of the band expected to make the trip are:

James Townsend, Ralph Kemp, Marion Carpenter, Josh Lanier, Carl Collins, Dub Prather, Priscilla Prather, Paul Robertson, Malcolm Mann, John Wiggins, Grace Cromley, Margaret Hodges, Robert Rogers, Edwin Beasley, John Deal, John Gilbert, Bob Espy, Thelma Harrison, Gesman Neville, Dub Warren and Robert Brinson.

W. A. A. NOTES

The girls baseball season has opened under the direction of Janie Durrence. All girls are invited to come out each Tuesday, Thursday and Friday at 4:00 for practice in preparation for the tournament which will be held April 20-25.

It might be of some interest to those who were not privileged to attend, to know that Miss Lane's W. A. A. girls were highly complimented by members of the Southern Physical Education Association, in Knoxville, for knowing just what to do when the girls were requested to break at a dance.

The Council welcomes Gwyn Dekle and Janie Durrence back after an absence of three months.

Now that spring has dressed herself in a new spring suit, the hiking chairman hopes to see more girls picking trails into the woods.

GOING TO L. S. U.

MISS CARO LANE,

Head of the women's physical education department, has resigned her position here to take a place at Louisiana State University. At the recent Southern District convention of the American Physical Education Association Miss Lane was chosen to represent the South on the national committee on materials exhibits.

Caro Lane Resigns To Accept Position At Louisiana State

After four years here as head of the women's physical education department, Miss Caro Lane has resigned from the Teachers College faculty, effective June 1st. At that time Miss Lane will assume the position of assistant professor in the newly created school of health and physical education at Louisiana State University.

The L. S. U. department will be headed by Dr. A. D. Browne, formerly of the George Peabody College, whose hope it is to make the new Louisiana department "the best in the country."

While a member of the local staff, Miss Lane introduced the health service for students, organized the Woman's Athletic Association, and was instrumental in obtaining a recreation park for children in Statesboro.

Selection of a successor to Miss Lane has not yet been made.

PAPER SHOULD NOT HAVE CANDIDATES

Students Say The George-Anne Should Not Take Sides In Campus Elections

The George-Anne should not take a definite stand for or against any candidate in the forthcoming students elections, according to opinions given a member of the staff when he asked several students to express themselves on the question.

Replying to the question: "Do you think The George-Anne should take a definite stand on campus politics in view of the coming student elections?" a majority of those interviewed answered negatively.

A few of the opinions are quoted below:

J. D. Cherry, president of the Student Council:

"We understand that The George-Anne is a reflector of campus life without any partisanship as concerns individuals or local groups. In view of this understanding I do not see how a paper which belongs equally to each student could support actively one candidate or one group in any election. It is entirely within the province of the paper to sponsor the high qualities which a candidate must necessarily possess if he deserves the support of any considerable portion of the student body."

Elizabeth Watkins, member of junior class:

"I think the paper should give a good conception of the abilities of all candidates."

"Goat" Oliver, member of sophomore class:

"No, because The George-Anne is supposed to be a paper for all the students, and if it took a stand in favor of one person or group against another it would not be fulfilling this function."

Harvin Mulkey, member of sophomore class:

"No. The George-Anne is the voice of the entire campus rather than of one particular clique. It would tend to cause the student body to become biased in its opinion. Also, since there is no other publication through which he might retaliate and defend himself, it would place the candidate discriminated against at a disadvantage."

Grace Cromley, president of Y. W. C. A.:

"No. I don't think the paper should take a definite stand. Each person should vote as he thinks best without being influenced by any group."

"Dodie" Lambright, Sports Editor of the George-Anne:

"No. The George-Anne is a non-partisan paper and is a possession of the entire student body. Also, this election promises to be one of the biggest news events of the year. The paper should carry the story of the election simply as such; however, there should be an opportunity for some good feature stories concerning various phases of the election."

annual May Day dance which will also be guest night. This affair will be in charge of one of the campus organizations.

Co-Eds Are

Not

Courteous

By LeRoy Roughten

Maybe it's the weather, maybe it's because it's Leap Year, or maybe it's the fault of the Cagney-Tracy-Gable trio, but courtesy among the fairer sex seems to be going out of style. As witness:

	Male	Female
Thank you	27	1
Frozen stare	11	48
Other reactions	12	1

This chart is a simple way of showing the difference between the masculine and feminine appreciation of a very ordinary courteous act: Opening of the doors at the top of the steps on either side of the Administration Building.

To begin with I started with the boys, gallant old Southern gentlemen that they are, suh. So I posted myself at the door at odd moments during the day until a grand total of 50 had passed through. Of this number 27 thanked me courteously, 12 said something very nice and 11 said nothing.

Just about noon, I moved over to the postoffice. There I ran into a problem which seemed about to upset the whole business because the door was already opened and securely fastened by one of these new-fangled hickies. But in the interest of culture I pushed science into a back seat and shut the door.

About this time the bell for the end of class rang and the fun began. Down the hall came a stream of the campus cuties and I opened the door. In order to be a little more chivalrous, I got behind the door. This didn't work, however, because they kept hurrying by and didn't even see me. That wouldn't do because valuable statistics were going to waste. So I got out in front of the door again but only succeeded in getting a nice pair of white shoes turned various colors other than white.

At last they're all through and the score so far is 48 to nothing in favor of the visiting team.

Oh-oh! Here comes one more. So I surreptitiously closed the door and waited until I could see the Murine in her eyes. Then out I stepped and opened the door with a flourish and said, "Permit me, madame," accompanied by a deep bow. "Silly," she giggled and rushed out leaving me with a complexion somewhat resembling Stark Young's nose (beg pardon, rose). Which embarrassment was changed to mortification when the door swung shut and gave me a lusty pat on the after deck. I'll remember to straighten up sooner the next time I bow in front of a swinging door. Thank goodness, there aren't any revolving doors on the campus.

When this happened I said, "Phooee on the whole business," and with a disgusted kick slammed the door open and strode off in the other direction

Men in Senior Class Lead in Scholarship

Winter term grade point ratios show that men of the senior class made the highest average of any group on the campus during the past three months. The ratio for the senior men is 3.88, or approximately a "B" average. Members of the Student Council made the second highest ratio and the International Relations Club third highest.

On an average, the grades made by classes, groups and clubs during the winter term were higher than those of the fall, according to Will Hill Fields, assistant to the Registrar.

In the social groups the Epicurean sorority fell from second place to fourth, as the Bachelor's Club held first place for the fourth consecutive year. In the departmental clubs the International Relations Club raised its average from 3.38 for the fall term to 3.72 to maintain its lead. The YMCA cabinet fell from 3.39 to 3.15, and dropped from first place to fourth in campus groups. The George-Anne raised its ratio from 3.07 to 3.38 and went from third to second place. The Student Council raised its average from 3.38 and second place to 3.83 and first place in this group.

Following are the ratios, furnished through the courtesy of Miss Viola Perry, Registrar:

Grade points are computed by dividing the number of quality points earned by the number of courses carried. A grade-point of 2 represents a C average; a grade-point of 4 represents a B average, while that of 6 means an A average. A student must have a grade-point of 2 before he can be awarded a diploma.

ANNUALS WILL BE READY BY MAY 15

All Material In Hands of Engravers; Work Has Already Begun On Proof Reading.

May 15th has been set as the approximate date on which the annual will be delivered, it has been announced by the staff of the Reflector. The remaining portion of the book was sent to the engravers on March 26th and work has already begun on proof reading.

The theme of the annual is the pine tree and the part that it plays in the industry of Georgia. The book will be printed in brown ink on ivory paper. The color scheme of the cover is in green and gold with a round picture of a gazing globe.

The art work of the Reflector, which was done by Cleo Trapnell and Verna Lasseter, under the direction of Miss Mary Small, is composed of linoleum prints of various industries of Georgia.

The 1936 Reflector will be about the same size as the 1935 edition.

when I heard a sweetly feminine voice behind me say, "Thank you for opening the door." That was when I collapsed, being overcome with joy at finding one girl who knows a gentleman when she sees him.

The sad part about it is that I'm still wondering who told her what I was up to.

AT THE MOONPITCHERS

Hell-o Students:

When have you ever been to a show like "Magnificent Obsession?" Wasn't it grand? But our motto is to have each show better than the last one. That is why we're having "Follow the Fleet" Monday and Tuesday, starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. Pass the word on; our motto is being fulfilled.

Wednesday and Thursday, "The Country Doctor." Isn't that the show about the old woman who had so many children she didn't know what to do? Surely, the "Quinns" star in it. Friday, Ann Southern and Lloyd Nolan in "You May Be Next." (Maybe, but I don't think so.)

Saturday, that good old dubble featur: "One Way Ticket" and Sunday, "Down Rider."

See you at the show,

RADIO PROGRAM HIGHLY PRAISED

Helen Godbee and Jeanette Willetts Urged to Continue Their Studies

Declaring that the Teachers College broadcast was one of the most satisfactory collegiate programs presented over a period of two years, directors of the George Peabody School of the Air were liberal in praising two local students for exceptional radio ability following the broadcast in Nashville March 20.

Helen Godbee and Jeanette Willetts were highly complimented by J. Oliver Riehl, musical director of station WSM, and Mr. Window, Alumni Secretary of Peabody, for abilities in music and adaptative writing. Miss Godbee was urged to continue her studies in piano recital, and Miss Willetts to continue writing.

Together with Bob Harris, Miss Willetts wrote one of the skits for the Nashville broadcast. Poe's "Cask of Armadillo" was adapted for radio by Miss Willetts, being highly praised by the Nashville radio officials.

things you have to do. If we are successful in the Yeomans community in doing this, we will have done good work. We expect the boys to learn something about industrial arts, expect them to do necessary jobs around the school house in such a manner that they will be able to do construction work around their own homes, such as making shelves and other useful things. The girls will be taught to carry through decorative ideas they have by making aprons, curtains and other objects. The whole idea is to have the students utilize the materials which they have about them."

Assisting in the Yeomans project are six students of the Teachers College. They are: Daris Raulerson, of Rockingham; Hazel Elton, Junction City; Irene Enecks, Rocky Ford; Gladys Waller, Swainsboro; Mildred Smith, Manassas, and Tyra Saturday, of the Yeomans community. Other than having necessary expenses paid by the general education board, the only reward these teachers will receive will be 2½ courses credit toward their B. S. degree.

The daily schedule is so arranged that pupils will be free to go home at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Miss Donovan has written all parents in the community that it is realized that it is the time of year when help is greatly needed on the farms, and that the school is co-operating with their needs in this respect by running a daily schedule from 8 a. m. till 2 p. m., with most of the school work to be done during session.

Miss Donovan for the past two years has been supervising teachers in various schools in this territory, but by the new arrangement will be able to devote all her time to the Yeomans school.

There are 152 students in the Yeomans school.

PROF SPORTOLOGY

Here we are with old man spring no longer around the corner and old T. C. getting her share of the halcyon weather. Just look round the campus at any of the places where activities other than curricular can take place and athletes everywhere will each be chasing his favorite phantom.

If you think the last World's Series was exciting, just take a look at the soft ball game behind the boy's dormitory any afternoon. Jeff Stewart is about the classiest infielder we have ever had the pleasure of watching and rangy, goose-necked Abie Abelson doesn't even know himself when he is going to hit one over into one of the adjoining counties.

Every year the far-flung T. C. battle front is getting more far-flung. D. O. McKinney, pugnaious football guard and leather-pusher of the Professors, has become a leather-neck. Thus stated news received from the U. S. Marine headquarters last week. The marines got a good scrapper in Mac. We only hope that he has better luck against the gobs of our great navy than he had against Paulk of Georgia.

Attention, golf lovers!! Get Jack Eason to show you the new trick shot he made last Sunday morning. Jack was in the act of teeing off of the first tee. He completely missed the ball and the driver slipped out of his hands and took a perfect solo flight into the middle of Lake Wells. Of all the Sunday morning shots we have heard of, this one takes the cake. Maybe this will solve Dr. Pittman's problem in chapel last Monday morning about how to prevent the "town boys" from draining the lake.

The main difficulty in the spring football situation is the lack of players. When a college that has over two hundred boys enrolled can not show more than twenty out for practice, something should be done. This is a good chance for some of our great football talkers to find out what they can do with absolute assurance that they will not have to play in a game.

DISTRICT MEET HERE APRIL 11

Fifteen High Schools to Compete For First District Track Honors

The first district high school track meet will be held here April 11 for class B and C schools. About fifteen schools are expected to compete in the events, which will begin at ten o'clock Saturday morning and last throughout most of the day. The meet will be held under the supervision of Mr. Jay B. Westcott, head track coach, and the Teachers track team.

Well over a hundred high school athletes and supporters will be on the campus for the events of the day. Some of the best talents and abilities of this vicinity will be displayed by potential college athletes.

A practice meet will be held here Monday afternoon to prepare for the district event by the teams from Statesboro, Sylvania, and E. C. I.

Those schools which will be represented here April 11 are, Class B: Glennville, Lyons, Portal, Statesboro, Sylvania, and Vidalia; class C: Adrian, Girard, Guyton, Ludowici, Kibbee, Pembroke, Register, Springfield, and Stilson.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR TENNIS TEAM

Many of Last Year's Men Back; Rain Halts Tourney In Semi-Finals.

Prospects indicate that T. C. will have a strong tennis team this year, according to Tennis Coach W. S. Hanner. With about twenty men trying out for the team and several of last season's best players back, there is every indication that the Profs will place a winning team on the courts.

The tournament last week to determine the number one player in the college was halted on account of the wet weather. In the semi-finals Bob Shell is to meet Ed Carroll, and William Riddle will play Alton Settle.

Tentative matches have already been scheduled with Mercer, Douglas, Cochran, and the city team from Savannah. Two matches will be played with each of these teams, one on the Teachers' courts and one away.

According to Hanner the best looking candidates thus far are Riddle, Shell, H. Hodges, Barnard, Settle, Carter, Bowen, Espy and Carroll.

SPRING FOOTBALL GETS UNDER WAY

Coach Smith Outlines Practice For Four Weeks' Training Period; Urges New Men to Try Out.

A call has been made by Coach B. L. Smith for boys who are interested in football to report for spring practice. About four weeks of work has been outlined by Coach Smith in which candidates will be schooled in the rudiments and groundwork of practical football.

The boys were put through the paces last week in line blocking, forward passing and pass defense, and signal drills. There are several prospects who have never been out for the team before and who may develop into useful material in the fall. Coach Smith is giving special attention to these men and urges that any boy, whether or not he has played before, report for practice if he is interested.

Among those who are now working out are Thomas Grady, J. C. Golden, George Hartshorn, Jeff Stewart, Woodrow Mixon, Eli Hill, Asa Barnard, Saul Betancourt, Armando Lopez, R. H. Horton, Marion Carpenter, George Abelson, Paul Robertson, Fred Adams, Bartow Miller, Jim Warren, Hemans Oliver, Winston Byrd, Herschel Hammel and Derrick Mincey.

tal voting has always been remarkably high.

Nominations this year will be limited to five students in each separate contest, with no restrictions on the number of places for which a student may be nominated. After the recognition of five contestants, the nomination period will be automatically closed, if a motion to that effect has not already been made. Nominations are to be made from the floor and voting will be by signed ballot. Due to the large number of superlatives to be chosen, speeches of endorsement will be forbidden during the hour.

In the election of the most popular professor, the number of nominations will not be limited.

The next edition of The George-Anne will announce the contest winners.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR TRACK SEASON

Squad Will be Well Balanced; Meets For Coming Season Are Planned

With two track meets already planned with B-P. I. and tentative plans made for meets with the Georgia freshmen, Coaches Wrinkle and Westcott are rapidly whipping the Profs track team into shape. Indications show that this year's squad will be much better balanced than was the 1935 edition.

A large number of candidates for the dash has lessened the coaches' worries in this department. Material is not as plentiful, however, in the distance runs and weight events. It is believed by Coach Westcott that the team will make a good showing in the dash events, the pole vault, the low hurdles, and the jumps. The most noticeable weaknesses are in the distance runs, the weight events, and the high hurdles.

A practice meet has been planned for Monday afternoon between the Teachers squad and high school teams from Statesboro, Metter, and E. C. I. Those who are out for the squad are:

100 yard dash: Thornton, Oliver, Rushton, Gilbert and McKneely.
220 yard dash: Oliver, Thornton, Gilbert, and Rushton.
440 yard dash: Adams and Rushton.

Pole vault: Rhodes and Cartee.
Broad jump: Golden, McKneely and Oliver.

High jump: McKneely and Golden.
Discus: Warren, Watson, Rocker and Cherry.

Hurdles: McKneely, Gilbert and Hamil.

Relay: Thornton, Oliver, Golden, Rushton, Gilbert and McKneely.

BACHELOR'S CLUB WILL GIVE 17 BIDS

Invitations to be Sent Out Next Week; Scholastic Records
Being Checked

Following nomination of 30 men for membership at the last meeting, scholastic records of whom have since been checked, 17 bids will be voted by the Bachelor's Club at its meeting Wednesday night. Invitations will be sent out during the next week.

In order to be eligible for membership in the club a student must have been in college a year, live on the campus, and have a scholarship average not less than "C."

In addition to being the only club on the campus requiring a scholastic average, the Bachelor's Club is the oldest social organization at the Teachers College.

Alton Settles is president of the group. Marvin McKneely, Will H. Fields, and George Carter are officers. Misses Ruth Bolton, home economics teacher, and Marie Wood, Training School supervisor, are sponsors.

Club membership is limited, therefore limiting the number of bids each year.

some lines. Now, take corn, for instance (but I insist), some folks in my home town know how to make it bring a higher price than if sold by the bushel. Why, you can buy it in four places from one end of Main St. to the other by the gallon. And when I left there for years ago there was but one place uptown where you could get it that way. We have two policemen in my home town now, one for night duty. We once had 1,200 people there, but two saw mills have moved away lately, and if you don't think that makes a difference, you just don't live where they saw wood.

I went around to the school house while in the town. I always go there. It was during recess and the only two teachers I saw were not doing what we're taught here in the T. S. to do. The one basket ball game that was going on among the boys had about 25 players and no referee. The same was true of the one girl's game, and the other students were just sitting, or walking around—that is, except the boys who were standing just across the road from the campus smoking. The two teachers referred to were standing a few feet from the aforementioned basket ball game doing their smoking.

The school in my home town, I suspect, has changed very little since I've been there. Yet I thought it well nigh faultless when in school. Then why this change of attitude? Probably the most plausible explanation—for your attitude as well as mine—would be the long and interesting observation of how we feel teaching should really be done.
