Subjects for panel jury discussion at the third annual Georgia Progress Day to be held here March 12th were announced by Dr. C. M. Destler, head of the social science department which is sponsoring the event in collaboration with the Rosenwald Foundation.

Under the general theme "Georgia's Wealth and Poverty," the following subjects will be discussed:

What can be done to eliminate ill health and thereby promote wealth production in Georgia?

To what extent can science contribute to a more profitable utilization of Georgia's resources?

What can be done to promote a balanced abundance in Georgia's agriculture?

To what extent can industry contribute greater wealth and better living conditions in Georgia?

What changes in social legislation and social service are needed to combat insecurity and undesirable living conditions and undesirable industrial conditions?

How can the re-organization of Georgia's government and governmental policies aid her in combatting her poverty? (Excluding social legislation and service.)

What can the press do to educate public opinion in the causes of Georgia's poverty?

"Human Adventure" Will Be Shown At Local Theatre Under Their Auspices.

The local chapter of the American Association of University Women will sponsor the showing of the moving picture "Human Interest" at an early date. The picture will be shown at one of the local theatres, with no advance in admission price.

This picture, sketching the rise of man from savagery to civilization, was produced by the Oriental Institute of the University of Chicago. It is a partial film record of the institute's archeological expeditions in Persia, Syria, Anatolia, Egypt and Iraq.

The picture was secured through the efforts of Mrs. W. S. Hanner, chairman of the Fellowship Fund Committee. Mrs. Hanner states that the date for the presentation will be announced later.

Fire-Proof Door for New Dormitory Lost Enroute From Chicago

The fire-proof doors for the new dormitory are lost somewhere between here and Chicago, and the boys will be unable to move in until they arrive, according to President M. S. Pittman.

Dr. Pittman stated that he had been trying to secure permission from the Board of Regents to move in without waiting for the doors, but thus far he has not been able to do so.

The doors, specially built and fire-proof, are to be used in the stairwells. In case of fire they would enable students to go from one landing to another without being exposed to flames in the halls.

Enrollment of 483 Sets A New Record For Winter Quarter

The present registration is the largest for any winter quarter in the history of the school, it was announced by Miss Viola Perry, registrar. There are 483 students registered now, twenty-two of whom were not in attendance last quarter.

The largest winter quarter enrollment previous to this year was that of last year when 444 students attended.

Last quarter 534 students were registered here and in the fall quarter of 1935 the enrollment was 455.

Of the number enrolled this quarter there are 227 freshmen, 131 sophomores, 83 juniors and 41 seniors.

Recital To Be Given By Jerold Frederic

Noted Pianist Will Play Here Tuesday Evening At 8 o'Clock.

Jerold Frederic, 30-year-old musical genius, will be featured in the college auditorium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, as a part of the lyceum program for this year. Mr. Frederic has been acclaimed by the press of this country as "the phenomenal pianist of the new generation."

The story is told that when Frederic was only 11 year old he played to a packed audience in a large city whereupon at the close of his sensational program, the audience taken as if by storm rushed to the stage to compliment the young performer. The boy could not be found. He had disappeared in the darkness and after diligent search was found at a distance warming his hands and enjoying himself at a bon-fire some other boys had built. Such were his boyish reactions to the plaudits of the crowd.

Mr. Frederic has been called one of the leading geniuses of music of the day.

Born in 1907 of French-German descent he soon showed a marked musical temperament. His parent, recognizing his talents, surrounded him with every advantage in the way of education and artistic environment. He traveled extensively throughout Europe and the Levant. The influence of those travels and experiences have done much in building up his imaginative mind and musical genius.

I. R. C. Will Invite Regional Conference To Come Here in 1938

The Southeastern Division of International Relations Clubs will be extended an invitation to hold its 1938 conference at this college, it has been announced.

At the last meeting of the club it was voted to extend an invitation to the conference to hold its meeting here if the consent of the college administration could be secured. Representatives of the club went to see Dr. M. S. Pittman and secured his permission Wednesday. The invitation will be extended at the conference meeting which will be held at Auburn, Ala., February 19-20.

At the last meeting of the club Leroy Roughton was elected president; Glenn Sowell, vice-president, and Mary Cromley, secretary and treasurer. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Caroline Blitch.

SARG'S MARIONETTES

Tong Sarg's Marionettes were presented in the Teachers College auditorium Thursday evening, January 28.

At the end of the performance, the entire audience remained to see the stage dismantled in order to find out how the marionettes were manipulated.

BACHELORS BEGIN WORK ON MINSTREL

Rehearsals Start on One-Act Play. Will Use Outside Talent.

Plans for a combined minstrel show, musical revue, and a one-act play, which the Bachelors Club is to stage two weeks hence are progressing rapidly, it was announced by Kenneth England, co-author with Dodie Lambright of the scrip, for the minstrel.

Rehearsals have already begun on the one-act play entitled "Separation." The club has secured the services of Miss Thelma Harrison in the production of this play.

At the last meeting of the club it was voted to secure talent outside the club in order to make this the biggest entertainment of its kind ever put on at this school. In the former shows staged by the club only members were permitted to take part in the performances.

Mr. England also announced that Carl Collins and his orchestra would be on the stage during the entire minstrel. Miss Grace Cromley will assist with the vocal numbers.

Dodie Lambright will serve as interlocutor and James Dozier, Bobb Harris, Wayne McKneeley and Willie Hill Fields will be the end men. The chorus will be composed of most of the other members of the club.

"Separation" is a one-act play which is divided into three parts with no change of scene. The first part, according to Kenneth England, is comic, the second gradually gets more serious, and it is tragic at the end. George Carter and Kenneth England are the other members of the cast.

FRESHMAN DANCE IS HUGE SUCCESS

Money for Banquet Sent to the Red Cross for Relief of Flood Sufferers.

One of the largest and gayest crowds ever to appear at a social event in the college Gymnasium was present at the Freshman dance Saturday evening. The music for the dance was furnished by Carl Collins and his Professors.

The Freshman banquet, which in former years had been held immediately preceding the dance, was not given this year. The money which had been raised for that purpose was turned over to the American Red Cross for the relief of flood sufferers in the Ohio and Mississippi River Valleys.

The decision to use the money for this purpose was made at a meeting of the Freshman Commission last Wednesday evening. The amount was one hundred dollars.

This college does beat all the way it loses things. Last year it was the gates. This year it's doors. What will it lose next year?

Judging by the large audience which attended the Marionette show last Thursday evening, lyceum attractions are creating more and more interest at this school.

A SPLENDID GESTURE

The Freshman Class should be highly commended for the fine spirit which they showed in their decision last week to use the money raised for their annual banquet as a contribution to the American Red Cross for the relief of flood sufferers in the Ohio and Mississippi River Valleys.

A meeting was called by the class president, Tom Vandiver, last Monday to discuss the matter and it was voted to leave it up to the members of the Freshman Commission. The commission then met and decided to donate the money to the Red Cross.

Almost one hundred dollars had been raised for the event through the efforts of the Freshman Commission, which is in charge of the banquet and dance. The entire sum was turned over to the relief fund.

It was a splendid gesture, Freshmen, and we congratulate you for it!

BE PREPARED!

Get ready for Georgia Progress Day!

This event which is to be held in March will be of great importance to the college and to the state. Prominent men, leaders in their fields of endeavor, will be here on that day to take part on the program. Questions of vital importance to the welfare of the state will be discussed. It is the duty of every student to do his part in making the occasion an overwhelming success.

One way in which the students may help is by taking part in the panel jury discussion. If the students will show that they are interested and will take the initiative by asking intelligent questions, it will do much towards getting the visitors who are not on the program to join in.

But to do this the students must have some idea about what is to be discussed. Elsewhere in the George-Anne a list of the panel jury topics is published. Each student should pick out the subjects in which he is most interested and during the next few weeks read as much as possible about them. Then when the discussions start, he will be ready. Start today, students.

DIGGINGS

By LEROY ROUGHTON

Well, the Diggers fell down on the job again this week, and since I've been informed by practically everybody on the campus, except Miss Veazy, that if it wasn't for the dirt column they wouldn't even read the paper, it looks like I'll have to write it this week, so there won't be much to it. But if I'm going to get cussed about the darn thing anyway, I might as well have the pleasure of writing it.

Willie Hill Fields was sorta peeved last week because the item about him was used as a filler. He said he figured he ought to rate front page when he annexed Little Mincey. If Johnnie Deal and others get much more of an edge on him for the little lady's affections he may make the headlines after all. . . . That is, if he'll commit suicide.

That must have been some party that Astor Minchew went on the other night. He woke up the next morning with a dog in the bed with him. Astor swears that he doesn't know where the hound came from either. Maybe the pooch was just waiting around for a haircut.

Charlie Sheppard says that most of the southern history group on the way back from Macon the other night were singing "I Don't Want to Make History, I Just Want to Make Love." Goat Oliver said he kinda wanted to make "Whoopee," but Miss Newton was agin it.

You may have heard the joke they are telling about a fellow named George. It seems that when George was very young his father tried a little experiment on him to determine what career he would follow when he was older. So he placed a Bible, a five-dollar-bill, and a big drink of whiskey on a table and waited for George to come into the room. He figured that if George picked up the Bible he would be a preacher; if he picked up the money, he would be a banker, and if he picked up the liquor, he would be a drunkard. Well, George finally came in and drank the whiskey, put the money in his pocket, and walked out with the Bible under his arm—so the old man decided that he was going to be a politician.

How much would you give to find out how you rate in Freshman Downs' card catalogue system? He's got the names of girls indexed on cards in a filing cabinet with their address, telephone number, and sundry other information about them. He also gives each girl a rating or grade with a letter of the alphabet such as A—average; B—beautiful; C—cute; D—dumb; E—expensive; F—foolish; H—hot; etc.

This Simpson checker game on the campus has taken on some new developments lately. Now Wally has lost her Dukes; or maybe she was playing give-away.

Yes, and Baldwin was raising a fuss about something last week. Anyway, Robbie told a member of the George-Anne staff what he thought about things in general and Lil in particular. How much am I offered, Lil?

Jack Zakutney doesn't seem to be making such fast time when he's running around the track training for boxing now-a-days. Wonder if Ernestine has given him his walking papers?

A glance through the college bulletin reveals no mention of wrestling as a part of extra-curricular activities. However an eye-witness reports that Frances Cone and Len gave quite a fair exhibition in the hall of the Ad building after dinner one day last week.

Well, that's about all for this week. Here's hoping the Diggers will be back on the job next issue.

YULE TIE TRAGEDY

By BOBB HARRIS

Dedicated to E. T. Watkins.

"Good morning, Mrs. Schmaltz. A neck tie for your husband? There they are. A nice selection: Greens, yellows, oranges and purples. Ma'am? Yes, Ma'am, I think Elmer would like that one. You don't? Well, maybe this purple one would match his brindle suit better. You don't like the purple one? Oh, the green one. Now, that's what I call taste. . . . No'm, certainly I won't mind wrap-pin' it in Christmas paper for you. . . . You say you want to carry it across the street to the car and let Mrs. O'Toole look at it? Sure, all right."

"Oh, that's all right if you kept me waiting fifteen minutes. . . . Dropped it in the street? . . . Well, it's not soiled much. . . . You've decided not to take that one? . . . Mrs. O'Toole says that shade of green is too nearly that of your husband's complexion? Why sure, I'll help you pick out another one. How's this red one? Oh, year, it'll fit his neck all right. There you are, all wrapped and ready. What? Forgot to enclose a card? It'll only take a minute to re-wrap it. My fountain pen? Sure, here you are. No Ma'am, you're not too much trouble. There are only about a dozen customers waiting. There, now, what else? Left your purse at home? Oh, yes, we'll be glad to charge it to your husband. Call again!"

"Yes, Ma'am, I remember your buying a tie here about an hour ago. Exchange it. That shade of red would clash with your husband's nose, you think? You want the pink one? Now you're set. Thank you, Ma'am."

(The next scene opens in the Slotz Department Store the day after Christmas.)

"Good morning, Mr. Schmaltz. I see you're not wearing that beautiful tie your wife gave you. What? Bringing it back? You didn't want your wife spending money on you? Oh, she didn't, Mr. Schmaltz. She had it charged to you. So you don't like it about our charging it without your permission and you're mad? You want to call off the whole deal, eh? I spent two hours selecting ties, kept a dozen customers waiting, exchanged it three times, she dropped and ruined one, and kept my fountain pen in the bargain, and you're peeved!"

(A dull thud is heard similar to one caused by kicking a mule in the side. Then excited voices: "What happened him?" "He's Still breathing. Give him air!" "Who is he?" "A truck hit him?" "No, they say it was something about a neck tie.")

Student: "I've had this car for a year and never had a wreck."

Professor: "You mean you've had that wreck for a year and never had a car."

It looks as if our boxing squad has gone on the retired list since they fought their last match. If they don't fight some one soon people will begin to talk. We suggest that they choose up sides and entertain the students some night if no outside competition turns up. This will practically eliminate the possibility of any of the men getting hurt, or will it? If such a match should be arranged, it will require considerable quantity of June-bug juice to have an opponent for Downs in shape by fight time. The last time he fought, Downs was not only a Buxom-Boxer, but a Buxom-Bacchus-Boxer.

A new athletic game which has found popularity among many of the boys in West is jack-stones. It seemed for a while as if the jacks might even take the place of the old game of peep-and-look among the boys. Jeff Stewart was about as good at the game as any male we ever saw, being able to go as high as "under-and-over" before he was stumped. Because of the splinters, the game has been abandoned until the tile floors in the bathrooms at Sanford Hall are made available. Willie Fields has done so much bragging about his jack-stonatics since the holidays until everyone has a sneaking idea that he bought some and has been practicing up on the boys in secret. Bobb Harris says he can hardly wait until spring to start a marble epidemic. If so, some mighty good marble shooters should spring up. Take Spec Dominy, for instance, but since it looks like we're getting too much black type into this paragraph, we'll change the subject.

A good time was had by all last week at the Celtic game, and at the Professors' expense. George Carter is still wondering if Banks tossed him the ball because he mistook him for Pat Herlihy, or if Banks was trying to be funny. The best part of the show was little Dutch Deahert trying to guard Paul Robertson and keep him from getting mixed up with the ball. Rigsby says the Profs might have had a chance if Coach had put Rigsby in sooner.

Thrilling Finish; Golden and Ned Warren Top Scorers.

The Teachers College basketball team won their fourth consecutive college game of the year here Friday night when they turned back the Mercer Bears 36-31 in a thrilling, rough-and-tumble affair that kept the spectators on their feet during most of the encounter.

The Profs took an early lead and held it successfully throughout the first half, to enter the second half with a 22-13 advantage. Soon after the beginning of the second period the Bears came back to pass the Profs and held a one-point lead during most of the last half. A strong Prof. rally in the closing minutes of the game left them five points ahead.

Ned Warren and "Flash" Golden led the scorers for the Teachers, scoring 11 points each. The playing of Carter and Stewart was also excellent. For the visitors, Sellers was outstanding, tallying 10 points, with Irwin and Lawrence also showing fine style.

HISTORY GROUP VISITS MOUNDS

Seventeen Members of Class Go To Macon To See Excavations of Indian Ruins.

Seventeen students from this college visited the Ogeechee Indian mounds at Macon last week while on a trip which covered 250 miles. The students, under the direction of Miss Hester Newton, made the trip in connection with their study of southern history.

The old state capitol building at Milledgeville and the slave market at Louisville were also visited by the group on the return trip.

The students were conducted through the mounds by workers of the Smithsonian Institute who have charge of the excavations now in progress.

The main excavations were started in 1934. Relics of a highly developed Indian civilization were discovered, which showed that a relatively high cultured level had been attained by the inhabitants.

The group from the college were shown that the people who had occupied the area in former times knew enough mathematics to construct council chambers with substantial arches adjusted to the points of the compass.

The agricultural accomplishments of the Indian inhabitants were demonstrated to the student visitors when they were shown the only row-cultivated field of corn which archeologists have been able to recover. The date of the inhabitation by the Indians has been estimated at 600 A. D.

AT THE MOVIES

Appearing at the Georgia Theatre Monday and Tuesday of this week will be Shirley Temple in "Stow-away," a film laid in a Chinese setting. Shirley is at her best in this film, singing and talking sometimes in Chinese. Robert Young and Alice Faye supply the romantic element.

Wednesday and Thursday is a reunion picture for those great lovers, Clark Gable and Joan Crawford. The title is "Love on the Run." Also added is "March of Time."

Friday, Jack Haley appears as "Mr. Cinderella." Jack gets into all kinds of scrapes when he impersonates one of the Boston blue-bloods and has to call on Arthur Treacher, butting as he has never butted before, to help him out. It's the laugh riot of the year. Raymond Walburn is also good as the appoplectic father of Betty Furness.

James Dunn and Jean Rogers appear Saturday in half of the double feature program in a film entitled "Mysterious Crossing." Then there is Peter B. Kyne's "Code of the Range," with Charles Starrett.

The big attraction of the season is coming Monday and Tuesday, February 8-9, when Bing Crosby will appear in "Pennies From Heaven." Bing is a penniless wandering minstrel, who goes about spreading cheer as much as he can with his singing. In fact, in one scene Bing even gives a man courage to face the electric chair with his song.
