FACULTY MEMBERS ON GEA PROGRAM

Pittman, Shearer, Donovan and Franseth to Give Talks At District Meets.

Teachers College is being well represented at the various district GEA conventions which are being held over the state this week and last.

President M. S. Pittman was on the program October 15th at Rome, and made the principal address of the meeting.

Dr. Allen E. Shearer makes a speech at the Fourth district meeting at Griffin today. He will discuss "The Relation of Elementary to Secondary Education in Promoting Unity in Educational Program."

Dr. Pittman and Miss Elizabeth Donovan will represent T. C. at the Sixth district convention which meets at Macon October 19 and 20. Dr. Pittman will speak on "The College View Point," and Miss Donovan will discuss the "Selection of Material for Lower Elementary Group."

Miss Donovan will again appear on a program when the Eighth district

GEA JOURNAL CONTAINS ARTICLE BY HOSTETTLER

Mr. Ivan Hostettler, associate professor of industrial arts, is the author of an article published in the current issue of the Georgia Education Journal.

The article, "Industrial Arts at South Georgia Teachers College," shows how industrial arts may prepare students for better living.

The Georgia Education Journal also contains a contribution from Hearn Lumpkin, superintendent of Belleville Consolidated School, which is entitled "Earning a Living in Evans County." Mr. Lumpkin is a graduate of this college.

Iota Pi Nu Frat Has Steak Supper

The Iota Pi Nu fraternity held a combined steak and chicken supper at Roger Holland's pond Tuesday evening, inviting twenty prospective pledges along on the outing, according to Roy Rabun, president of the club.

The fraternity has fourteen active members in school this quarter, and four pledges who were not initiated last spring. Bids will probably be extended this week, according to Mr. Rabun.

Priscilla Prather was elected student sponsor of the fraternity and Mrs. "Honey" Bowen was re-elected faculty sponsor.

Other officers for this year are: Carl Collins, vice-president; Willard Cartee, treasurer; Leroy Roughton, secretary, and Bill Ware, chaplain.

Poems of Jeanette Willets Published By Miami Columnist

Jeanette Willets, senior from Miami, Fla., is the author of six poems which were published in the Miami Daily News last Sunday. The poems, together with Miss Willets' picture, a short biography, and excerpts of her philosophy, were included in a column conducted by Vivian Yeiser. See WILLETS, page 3

Rehearsals Are Begun on Fall Production of Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club has begun rehearsals on its fall production, "The Late Christopher Bean," according to announcement of Dr. T. B. Stroup, director of the club.

The club rehearses every night in the auditorium. Extensive try-outs were held before the cast was selected and each actor has one or more understudies.

The cast for the play is as follows:

Dr. Haggett—J. L. Faircloth, understudy, Harris Harwill.

Susan—Lestina Stanley, understudy, Meg Gunter.

Abby—Alma Mount, understudies, Lorraine Brockett and Carolyn Oliver.

Mrs. Haggett—Carolyn Oliver, understudy, Sybil Strickland.

Ada—Kay Brice, understudies, Lestina Stanley and Agnes Hodges.

Davenport—Thad Hollingsworth, understudy, Harris Harwill.

Tallant—John Allen, understudy, William Parker.

Rosen—Wilmer Harrison, understudies, Benito Seig and Eddie Najjar.

Warren—William McLeod, understudies, J. Brantley Johnson and Willard Clanton.

EPICUREANS ENTERTAIN PROSPECTIVE PLEDGES

The Epicureans entertained with a tea Thursday afternoon at the Tea Pot Grille.

Those invited were Tommy Gray, Katherine Gainey, Frances Breen, Claire Braynt, Frances Deal, Bobby Brinson, Kathrine Gray, Louise English, Vera Rabun, Elizabeth Zeagler, Frances Hughes and Mrs. William Deal.

New Typewriter to Be Used In Experiment By Mr. Kent

A new typewriter is to be placed in the commercial department for experimental purposes. Mr. Leonard Kent, instructor in commerce, stated. The typewriter is equipped with a simplified keyboard invented by Dr. Dvorak, of Washington State University.

"Styles of typewriters are not so apt to change as the length of women's dresses," said Mr. Kent, "this is the first change in thirty years; I think this new machine will probably revolutionize typing as 70% of the strokes are made on the home keys.

Mr. Kent plans to experiment on the students in his classes to prove the efficiency of the new machine as compared to the old.

NOTED EDUCATORS WILL PARTICIPATE

Two-Day Meeting Will Begin With Program At First Baptist Church.

South Georgia Teachers College and the city of Statesboro will be hosts to the First District Georgia Education Association convention on Thursday and Friday, October 21-22.

This convention is one of a series being held throughout the state. The theme of the convention is "The Development of Unity in Our Program of Education." Leading men and women in education from all over the state will be on hand to discuss this topic.

The program for the two-days' session is as follows:

Thursday evening, October 21, 8 o'clock, First Baptist church:

Invocation—Rev. C. M. Coalson, pastor, First Baptist church.

SOCIAL EDUCATION HAS ARTICLE BY DR. DESTLER

Dr. Chester McArthur Destler, head of the social science department here, is the author of "Perspective for the Southern Race Question," which appears in the October edition of Social Education, the journal of the National Council for Social Studies.

In his article Dr. Destler explains when the freed slave is of the same color as the former master the distinction is eventually forgotten, but the difference of color in the South tends to give the negro very little recognition for his achievements.

Delta Sigma Has Nine New Pledges

Nine new men were pledged into the Delta Sigma fraternity this quarter, according to Johnny Deal, president of the fraternity.

The new pledges are: James Thayer, Albert Braswell, J. Brantley Johnson and Frank Aldred, all of Statesboro; Bill Hicks, Douglas; Cheatham Alderman, Claxton; Harold Houston, Sylvester; Frank Zetterower, Dublin, and Joe Joiner, Jesup.

The other officers for this quarter are: Albert Green, vice-president; B. H. Ramsey Jr., secretary; Gerald Groover, treasurer; Emory Allen, chaplain.

The fraternity is making plans for its annual dance on October 23rd, Mr. Deal stated.

Dr. R. J. H. DeLoach and Mr. Henry McCormick are the faculty sponsors for the fraternity.

Five Graduates of This College Have Higher Degrees

Five graduates of this college, three men and two women have received higher degrees from graduate schools, records of the alumni office reveal. Four master of arts and one bachelor of library science degrees are included.

Miss Iris Roberts, 1935, Blakely, Ga., received her M. A. from Columbia last summer. Miss Roberts is now employed as one of the supervising teachers in the campus laboratory school.

Miss Ida Mae Hagan, 1936, Statesboro, received her degree of bachelor of library science from Peabody in June, 1937. Miss Hagan served as assistant librarian in the college library last summer and is now employed as librarian at Greensboro, Ga.

Mr. Eugene Kinney, 1933, Temple, Ga., and Mr. Paul Thompson, 1931, Vidalia, both received their master of arts degrees from Duke University.

Mr. Kinney received his M. A. in June, 1937, and is now principal of an elementary school in Carrollton, Ga.

Mr. Thompson finished at Duke in 1935 and taught biological science for two years at South Georgia State College, Douglas, and also taught two summers here in the field of exact sciences. He now has a fellowship at the University of Georgia.

Mr. Lamar Layton, 1935, Midville, Ga., received his master of arts degree from Emory in June, 1937.

It is reported that the Student Council recommended to the administration that something be done about the odor around this campus 'long about sundown. Looks like they've got somethin' there. Unless something is done about said odor, some freshman is liable to start singing "down among the murmuring pine trees, where old nature smells!"

BUDGET YOUR TIME

To be able to budget one's time intelligently is one of the gravest problems confronting a student in college. It is much too easy just to drift through each day—seeing the same people, doing the same things, and half-heartedly attending scheduled classes.

There are so many things to get out of college life. "Book learning" certainly has its place but it is not enough to enable one to live a complete and full life. There are social contacts to be made which will give lasting pleasure, and there are activity skills which, when mastered, will give much enjoyment during leisure time.

Have you any enthusiasm for anything? Did you ever stop to realize that it is the already busy people who find time to play in the band, belong to the dramatic club, or play on some intramural team each season?

Please, just for the sake of argument, make out a schedule of your leisure hours. Pin this up on the inside of your closet door. Fill in these hours at the end of each day, for a period of a week, and see if you are using your free time in a way that will contribute to a well-rounded individual.

ON THE FITNESS OF THINGS

There is a time and a place for all things. Trite, but true nevertheless. And the dining hall, where four hundred people are eating, is neither the time nor the place to start singing the Alma Mater. Not that there isn't also a time and place for singing the Alma Mater. But the inconvenience which is occasioned by the tradition which requires everyone to rise while the Alma Mater is being played more than offsets whatever school spirit and loyalty the students feel.

Now there may be some students who say that this isn't the right attitude and will want to cuss out the George-Anne for lacking in school spirit. But anyone who listened to the singing of the Alma Mater Friday night will recognize the truth of our statement. It is not so easy to maintain school spirit when the coffee is getting cold. The fact that it was hot tea does not alter the fundamental facts of the situation.

This school needs a forceful, vital school spirit; one way to get it is by singing the Alma Mater. But please, let's sing it at the proper time.

Diggings

Well folks, a faculty member leads in the column this week. Just show me a girl on the campus that hasn't said, "Mr. Kestler is the cutest man I ever saw." He prefers blondes, so brunettes and redheads haven't a chance.

"Miss" Booker seemed to be enjoying himself during intermission at the dance Saturday night. The baby he was with had on an evening dress also.

More power to Johnny Deal's sister. She seems to be able to operate that open heart and get by with it.

"One more big apple" was the feature of the womanless dance at Cecil's Saturday night. Boys, don't you know that it was a woman that gave the apple to Adam?

One girl on T. C.'s campus is not a gold-digger. Carol is satisfied with a penny.

A freshman girl has a picture of Bobb Harris in her room. Wonder if she saw him the other day. It looked as if he came to see Thelma.

What about the male from Cedartown who was going to be true-blue? He seems to be doing O. K., from all I can dig up.

The boy that said the parlors in East weren't exactly home-like should be ashamed; I bet his mother wouldn't like to feed cigarettes to her flowers any more than Veazy does.

Dot and Golden like the new furniture, it seems—maybe they can get a love bench next Sunday night.

Have you seen anyone enjoying the music in the Little Store more than William Parker III?

Ben Jones could get rich quick if he decided not to develop some of those unexpected pictures he has been taking.

Jackie Cooper pulled a fast one with the help of her baby face; she got a man and a blue Packard.

Mixon is mixing his colors this season—Red and Gray go together well.

Bill Hicks, that was a lovely dress you wore Saturday night. I heard someone took you for Miss Michael and came out of the bushes.

Trowell has it bad. Did he look at a girl last year? Maybe he was waiting for her to get to college.

Have you noticed how quickly the light is turned on after supper on East Hall porch? Someone is going to break a leg if they don't watch out.

Wonder why Bragg likes the word Carolina so much that he always manages to forget to put on the a?

By the looks of things Jo Johnson "has them going." Don't know just what it's all about, but it seems either Rigsby or Sneed. As yet it is uncertain as to the choice since she has them both out on approval.

Abie Green seems to be having trouble making up his mind. If he doesn't hurry up one of these freshmen boys is going to relieve him of the necessity.

Helen Lewis is defying the laws of calendar-making or something. She has Tuesday all the week and on Sunday, too. Except for Sunday night supper.

Owen McKenzie had better watch out, 'cause several boys have said that they sho' would like to go with Katherine Gainey.

Buddy Gladden must believe in the old saying, "It pays to advertise." He wants to run an ad in the George-Anne: "WANTED—A GIRL."

STUFFY STEWART'S SPORT SLANTS

In my first attempt to do a column I would like to compliment the boys for showing such marked improvement on the Florida trip.

First on my list is Rigsby for his splendid game in Tampa. Next I'd like to list Woodward for his deadly tackling at Stetson and lastly a bunch of "Grays" to Mixon for his splendid game in his first start at Stetson.

Casualties on the long trip were few but costly ones. "Scrappy" Smith was removed early in the Miami game with a wrenched knee. Wilson and Golden were removed because of head injuries in the Stetson and Tampa games respectively. "Doug" Strickland and "Motionless" Studstill still have rib injuries.

The maid came by Price's room in Coral Gables and asked if he had any "dirty" towels.

"Yes, Ma'am," Price replied, "but I've used them all."

A certain footballer upon being tipped off by a Western Union boy in Tampa, strolled over to a luscious-looking blonde seated on a bench in front of the postoffice.

"Pardon me," says the polite young man. "Do you mind if I sit down?"

"Certainly not. You can have the whole bench," was the sweet one's reply as she ambled on.

How is it, Woodrow? Do you still love it?

That's all this time.

(P. S.) The cheer leaders look good to me. With a little co-operation from the student body they can have a good cheering section.

Laramore. Miss Laramore each week devotes part of the space in her column to the works of young poets, preferably those who live in Florida.

The titles of the poems which were published are: "This Thing I Ask," "Birthright," "On Reading Auslander," "Shadows By Firelight," "A Poem," and "Sinner."

The pattern of the poems was as varied as the titles and Miss Laramore says of them, "The strength of her (Miss Willets') writing may be gleaned from these sonnets."

Miss Willets, who plans to graduate from this college in June, intends to become a school teacher and to spend her spare time writing both poetry and prose. She has been an exceptional student ever since her enrollment here four years ago, having made the Dean's List practically every quarter since she has been in school.

She has translated into English the works of a number of German poets, and has also given intensive study to the rhythm of the present-day negro singers. Her favorite American poet is E. A. Robinson.

Miss Willets was born in Vidalia, Ga., and enrolled here as a freshman from that town; since that time her family has moved to Miami.

Stewart Summarizes Teachers Florida Tour

Miami Game

For the second time in as many years a South Georgia Teachers College team was severely trounced by a larger and faster University of Miami team.

A bit overawed by the most beautiful stadium the Tide has ever played in, the boys were off to a poor start, with Miami scoring in four plays. They settled down and held the Miamians to one other score in the first half. After that it was just too much heat and brawn to overcome.

"Hack" Wilson was acting captain in the Miami encounter and played a very good game.

Tampa Game

The large, over-confident Tampa Spartans were given a scare by the speed and fight of a smaller team and were held scoreless for a half. The game was marred by the roughness of the Spartans, especially where clipping was concerned.

Rigsby played a magnificent game at left end, and was lauded several times over the loud-speaker system on the field. Again the heat and substitutions were dominating factors in causing the Teachers to lose. Golden acted as captain.

Stetson Game

A tired team took the field against the Hatters in Stetson. They were not tired in body, but a bit on the overside of condition. The team simply was not "on edge" as it was in the Tampa game. They faced the best back they had played against in Warren, a triple-threat backfield man if there ever was one.

Woodward was a greatly improved defensive man in this game. Time and time again he knifed through interference to down a man for several yards' loss. Rigsby acted as captain in this game.

WAA Plans To Give Ping-Pong Tables

The Woman's Athletic Association is planning to donate a ping-pong table and badminton table to each girls' dormitory this year, according to Priscilla Prather, president of the organization.

At the meeting held last Thursday evening, it was decided to sell soft drinks and candy at the football games as a source of funds.

Other officers for this year are: Virginia Sands, vice-president; Ruth Clarke, secretary and treasurer; Vivie Johnson, publicity agent. Members of the WAA Council are Susan Braswell, Borothy Bunn, Agnes Hodges, Dora Brinson, Sybil Strickland, Kitty Gardner, Sue Zetterower, Meg Gunter and Ceciline Swinson.

Columnette

Food for thought: Let us hope the Blue Tide will not always be at a low ebb.

James Hussey is going around telling everyone that he is secretly in love with Ann Slade.

Dumb is the gal who thinks a huddle is something a mama hen does.

Blessed event: Smiley is poppa of a dozen proud puppies. He is a member of the German Police and belongs to Mrs. Honeycutt Bowen.

But after all, isn't a little pep at the game worth a sore throat?

Blessed is he who doesn't ask questions or inquire into the rightness of things he is told—it will be easy to educate him as we see fit.

Band Now Has 37 Members; Three Are Given High Ratings

Having among its thirty-seven members three of the outstanding high school musicians of the state, with ratings of excellent and superior, the T. C. band bids fair to have a most successful year, according to Mr. William Deal, director.

Charles Jeremias and C. W. Graham, both of Washington, have a rating of excellent on the xylophone and drums, respectively, while Carol Beasley, of Statesboro, has a rating of superior on the cornet.

Several new instruments have been added to the band and should help considerably. They are, the oboe, bassoon, tympani, also and bass clarinets.

Plans are being made this year to aid high schools in forming bands, and a trip for this purpose is to be made in the near future to Newington High School, near Sylvania, Ga.

Fifty-Seven Students Present At Practice

Fifty-seven students reported for the last practice of the Vesper Choir, according to Kay Brice, president of the organization. Of this number forty participated in the Sunday evening services in the auditorium.

The choir voted at its last business meeting to have a social gathering twice each month. Hosts and hostesses for the next meeting are Sue Zetterower, Dorothy Perkins, Josephine Simmons, Louise Hollingsworth, Elliott Boswell and D. R. Barber.

The program committee is making efforts to present services that will be helpful and interesting to every student on the campus, according to Miss Brice.

Eight Invited To Join Industrial Arts Club

Eight students have been given an invitation to become members of the Industrial Arts Club this quarter. They are Earl Rountree, Roland Warnock, Tom Swift, Ernest Trowell, Graydon Pierce, Alvis Rushton, Oliver Fussell and Tom Hodges.

At the regular meeting held last Tuesday, it was announced that the club had a grade ratio of 4.09 for the spring quarter of last year.

The present officers of the club are: William Gerken, president; Glynn Sowell, vice-president; Howard Waters, secretary.
