"Tomorrow and Tomorrow," a Dramatic Club production, will be presented on May 18th, in the college auditorium, at 8:15 p. m., according to Dr. Thomas B. Stroup, director of the club.

According to Dr. Stroup, this play is an ambitious attempt by the Dramatic Club. It requires careful handling and acting. It is a serious play, but is very easily understood. The play is very dramatic and thrilling; it will hold the attention of any audience. Although the play is serious it has its light moments and comic lines. The play is not tragic and has

WE WANT WAR, SUH!

We are the older men of the country who love it. Our past experiences have taught us nothing. We are bull-headed but wise. What we need is a good bloody war. "Our great country is what it is today because of war." We want to see the youth of our land tried against that of other lands. We mature leaders believe our young manhood has no nerve, no patriotism. Sound the trumpets, make their blood surge, awake them and plunge them into the fray. There are many profits for us all to reap. Prices will bound upward, money will rush freely, business will be stepped up and prosperity will reign. There will be plenty and happiness. Of course there will be sure and gruesome death, but we can shut our eyes to that. And, too, there will be millions of our own sons to return maimed and helpless for life, but that is the price we must pay. Don't misunderstand us. We don't want an active part in the war. We only want the war. So down with the weak-backed pacifists! Stop this mush about the futility of war! Spread the propaganda, the lies, promises, anything to get our war. But keep it away from us. Let us live

We are the young men who love life. Our judgment, although untried and distrusted by our elders, tells us that war is futile. To us one life is worth more than all war. "We believe that our country is what it is today in spite of war." We can see nothing patriotic in blindly striking out at men who also have a right to live and to love. We have plenty of "fighting blood" in our veins but no "target blood." We can see a big difference between bravery and foolishness. The kind of war we want is one on crime, pestilence, disease, and ignorance. We would give our lives for the betterment of living conditions and forwarding of science but not to the greedy monster called war. We can see through these false reasons and propaganda schemes of the ones we try to trust and follow. They are breaking faith with us. They are untrue to our trust. To be sure we love our country, our homes, and our people. But our love is a saner love. To make life more liveable for us and our fellow-man is our heritage; not to keep the world in a turmoil with guns and gases. To live is our purpose; not to die. We hate war! Let us live!

Diggings

The "Holy Grail" is on the loose, boys and girls, and from all appearances he is giving several Romeos "fits," or should I say one in particular. Anyway, Holy is out to have somebody's girl.

Is Bobb Harris going to be a woman hater this spring, or is it that he is going to remain true to some little girl back yonder.

Has anybody seen Jim Wrinkle's latest? Boy! That Jim is really goin' this time and she's a darn cute girl, too.

I'll bet Charlie Robinson can tell us whether or not the old saying, "absence makes the heart grow fonder," is true or not. I hear Katherine Gainey was away for several days last week. How's about it, Charlie?

And Bull Brown is off to a flying start! The Bull is really around here since he found his new girl. Best of luck to your on your new venture, Bull!

Have you heard about the menagerie that several of the boys have on the campus? If you haven't, just keep your eyes open and some one will scratch up a lead before long.

The new library is already open as far as some are concerned. Some time in the very near past, a couple supposedly from this institution were seen on top about half past dusk. Studying the stars, no doubt.

Girls, attention! J. A. Gardner is getting this well known "spring romance" in his soul. Already we have seen him "prospectin'" Stick around and you might be the lucky one.

There's always the one about "What faculty member was seen where," but . . . they wouldn't like that. Would you, and you and you, "and I do mean you."

It looks like Bobby and Jo have gone back together after their brief "bust up." That's what love, or something will do for you. That is, of course, if it's the real thing.

What do the town girls have that the campus girls don't? If the boys continue to favor the town girls we should move the boys' dormitory to the court house square . . . Look at all the shoe leather it would save.

What's so romantic about green plums? Well, whatever it may be some of the girls really know. Look for scratches from briars and you can't miss.

Is Hack Wilson trying for a Rosenwald scholarship? Well, maybe not, but they tell us he was trying to make a Rosenwald on the Georgia history trip.

Where is "Bo Peep's"—is it a place in history or is it a place for history students. Who knows.

And for a last word! If you have any dirt, please leave it in the George-Anne office—any time!

Where's Bartow? Is Joe really going to take Frances to the dance? This should really be interesting!

Pat Colquitt seems to be giving Abie a little competition nowadays. Everywhere you see Frances you see Pat.

Let's hope nothing has happened to "Peck" and Thelma. We haven't seen them together lately, but maybe it's just a case of lovers' quarrel, huh!

Let's have Bobb Harris tell us about Miss Veazy's "bull dogs." He declares they are behind East Hall, but the wound looks like bees from the bushes to me. Are they, Bobb?

Saintly Feud-tility

By BOBB HARRIS

Reverend Brother Michaelangelo McGinnis the third, with a sandy, saintly look on his absolutely expressionless pan, frisks daintily around the corner. Split-tail coat, and huge Bible fitting into his characteral make-up as perfectly as a mule in a woodland scene.

The good Reverend Brother Bartholemew Castlewood ambles around the opposite corner as brightly as a gossip's smile at a shady wedding.

They meet, exchange smily smirks, and lock hands.

"Oh good Brother McGinnis, your angelic face brings sunshine into my very existence this beautiful morning."

"And your very Godly presence, good Brother Castlewood, uplifts my hungering soul."

"Would you but turn your blessed feet in my direction more often, Brother McGinnis."

"And if you would only favor my ear with your dear voice more frequently, my good Brother Castlewood, Pray tell me where thou art journeying, Reverend."

"To spread the good word amongst my flock, good, good brother. To inform them of the wickedness of Daniel in biting a defenseless lion on the back of the neck in Apostles Chapter One."

"You mean the lion biting Daniel in Revelations Two, don't you my brother? Kindly slip me the good book and I think I can put my finger on it."

"What do you mean you can point it out to me? I should know my own text, shouldn't I?"

"I'll show you. Hand here the book!"

"Take your grimy hands off my Bible, you low-down, cut-throat hypocrite! And remove your big clumsy clod-hopper from my bunion. May the Lord forgive me but I'm tempted to call you a deceiving, wretched, lying imposter and a disgrace to humanity. I'm almost of a mind to tell you to go to hell in a hand basket, and knock those ill-gotten gold teeth down your ornery throat. But being a gentleman of the good word, I'll have to restrain my emotions, dammit!"

"Listen, McGinnis, I won't be stooping so low as to mince words with a flop-eared, thieving, wag-tongue such as you. Turn this Bible loose or I'll hit you so hard in that chicken-stuffed pot of your you'll cough up some of your one-sided, cramping, misguiding blab you call religion."

"Look out there! You're tearing my good book. Take this in the kisser, you hound!"

"I'm tearing it? You mean you're tearing it. Loosen up or . . . So A fast left in the stomach, eh? All right, how do you like these apples? Put up that razor or . . ."

"Draw a blackjack on a clergyman, will you? You hoodlum."

"I'm shot."

"I'm cut."

The All-Scrub:

Pitcher, Thompson, Roach; catcher, Moore, Baby Yanks; 1st base, Good, Roach; 2nd base, Wingard, Roach; short stop, Moss, Rosenwald; 3rd base, Lindsey, Baby Yanks; left field, Alexander, Rosenwald; right field, Carlton, Faculty; center field, Allen, Roach; short field, Woodard, Brown.

That's this corner's selection for the bunch who have been out there every day; but haven't been getting the right hops, have misjudged too many fly balls, or can't hit any too well. They are the ones who have made the league a success and much improvement has been made by these players. Many are playing their first softball this season.

Now, I will attempt to select an all-star team from the standpoint of hitting, fielding ability, hustle and heads-up play shown through the league.

Of course this will not be the official all-star team, but just one I've picked to put in the paper. The official all-star team will be in the next issue of the paper and we'll see how they compare.

My Selection:

Pitcher, Smith, Brown and Faculty; catcher, Heckle, Pi Nu; 1st base, Hamil (Capt.), Stewards; 2nd base, Alderman, Delta Sigma; 3rd base, Humphrey, Roach; short stop, Wilson, Brown; left field, Roach, Roach; center field, Wrinkle, Pi Nu-Faculty; right field, Estes, Stewards; short field, B. Robertson, Baby Yanks.

I would give special mention also to: Strickland, Carrol, Ware, Miller, Ozier, Rape, Hagan, Bagley, Prosser, Brooks, Hamil, and Green; just to mention a few of the ones I think are among the best in the league.

Now fellows please fill out the blanks to be found below, before you put the paper down and put them in the box at the George-Anne office or hand them in to me.

a satisfactory ending.

The scenery has been repainted and revamped for the production.

Members of the cast are Doris Wallace, Eve Redman; Collier Davidson, Gail Redman; Jack Dees, Hay; Carolyn Oliver, Ella; J. L. Faircloth, Burke; C. B. Kestler, Gillespie; Irene Borland, Miss Frazer.

The play involves a very human problem. It hinges around the conflict between Redman and Hay. Hay never realizes that there is a conflict between them. Faircloth, as the old country doctor, and Kestler, as the hard-boiled secretary of Hay, furnish the comic elements of the play.

MAJOR ENGLISH EXAMINATIONS

Comprehensive examinations will be given to majors in English on May 19th in room 20 at 7 o'clock. These examinations have no influence on graduation, they are merely a means for the student to check up on himself, according to Dr. T. B. Stroup, head of the English department.

Many Interesting Facts Are Revealed By Results of Recent Questionnaire

By C. D. SHELEY

Results of the questionnaire concerning church attendance given several weeks ago by Mr. Ivan Hostettler, professor of Industrial Arts, were made known here today.

The questionnaire sheets were handed to the entire student body attending chapel but only 279 students filled them out completely. One important fact revealed by the survey, according to Mr. Hostettler, was that students who aren't interested in church work now were not interested in it at home.

The questions and answers are as follows:

Are you a member of a church? Yes, 237. No., 47.

What denomination? Baptist 120, Methodist 37, Presbyterian 10, others 16.

If you are not a member, which denomination do you prefer? Baptist 30, Methodist 9, Presbyterian 2, others 5.

Do you attend Sunday school and church regularly when you are at home? Yes 242, no 31. When you are away at school? Yes 143, no 99. If not, why not? "School work plus negligence," "out of the habit," "catch up with sleep," "lazy, sleep on Sunday morning," "Rest on Sunday morning," etc.

Are you more interested or less interested in participating in such activities since you entered college? More 95, less 82, same 41.

Why or why not? More interested because: "Can now see reasons for such activities," "impressive vesper services and morning watch programs." Less interested because: "Hear enough in assemblies on Mondays and Fridays," "just because," "away from home environment."

In what religious activities do you now participate as a student: Y. M. C. A. 25, Y. W. C. A. 75; Y. P. work 25, teacher S. S. class 16, morning watch 13, vesper choir 15, S. S. officer 10, others 18.

In which of the following activities are you planning to participate during your summer vacation? Teacher S. S. class 50, summer conferences 28,

George Hitt; Margaret Remington, Gene Hodges; Claire Bryan, Bill Ware; Elizabeth Horn, Woodrow Mixon; Mary Powell, Leroy Cowart.
