Pittman Takes Over Today

SENATE APPROVES FIFTEEN REGENTS

Marion Smith, Atlanta,
To Serve As Chairman

Following the reorganization of the Board of Regents under a bill passed by the 1943 General Assembly, Governor Ellis Arnall promptly appointed a new Board of Regents who were confirmed by the State Senate.

The new members and the terms for which they were appointed follow:

J. L. Renfroe, Bulloch county, representing the First congressional district, to serve until January 1, 1948.

Ed Jerger, Thomas county, representing the Second district, until January 1, 1947.

George Woodruff, Muscogee county, representing the Third district, serving until January 1, 1944.

C. J. Smith, Coweta county, representing the Fourth district, until January 1, 1949.

Rutherford L. Ellis, Fulton county, representing the Fifth district, until January 1, 1947.

Miller S. Bell, Baldwin county, representing the Sixth district, until January 1, 1950.

Roy Emmett, Polk county, representing the Seventh district, until January 1, 1945.

Prince Gilbert, Glynn county, representing the Eighth district, until January 1, 1950.

Sandy Beaver, Hall county, representing the Ninth district, until January 1, 1945.

William S. Morris, Richmond county, representing the Tenth district, serving until January 1, 1944.

Marion Smith, of Atlanta, until 1946; Cason Callaway, of Hamilton, until 1950; Frank Spratlin, of Atlanta, until 1946; Earl Braswell, of Athens, until 1949, and Pope Brock, of Atlanta, until 1948.

Beaver was chairman of the Board of Regents during the previous administration when the State University System was discredited. He resigned last summer in a split with his long time friend, Gov. Eugene Talmadge.

Likewise, Morris, the publisher of the Augusta Chronicle, resigned from the board in protest against Talmadge's policies. Bell was one of the regents who was removed from the board by Talmadge prior to the ousting of Walter D. Cocking, dean of the University of Georgia.

RENFROE NAMED MEMBER REGENTS

The appointment of J. L. Renfroe, Statesboro attorney, as a member of the Board of Regents to represent the First district, met with approval throughout this section.

The appointment of Regent Renfroe marks the first time that Bulloch county, home of Teachers College, a unit of the System, has had a member on the Board of Regents.

Mr. Renfroe is a native of Chatham county, but came to Statesboro as a young man for the study and practice of law, first serving one year as the superintendent of city schools. He is a graduate of Emory University, is active in church work, and served as superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school in Statesboro for a long time. He also served six years as a member of the Board of Education of the South Georgia Methodist Conference. Regent Renfroe held the office of mayor of Statesboro on two different occasions, holding for several terms on each occasion. He is an active civic leader and has served as the president of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce. At present, Mr. Renfroe is county administrator of war rationing. He is also county attorney and had much to do with the location of the government reservation and airport here. He is a law partner of A. M. Deal, and served an unexpired term as judge of the city court.

FACULTY AND DEAN WELCOME PITTMAN

Dr. Pittman:

The faculty joins me in welcoming you back to the presidency of Georgia Teachers College. Many of the present members of the faculty were here when you became president in July, 1934. We were inspired by your leadership during the years 1934-41. We have faith in you as a man and as an educator. We know that there is much hard work ahead of us at the college, but we pledge you our best.

ZACH S. HENDERSON.

Ten units of the University System of Georgia, including Georgia Teachers College, under suspension by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for almost a year on a charge of political interference with education, were restored over the week end to full accredited standing.

Dr. G. D. Humphrey, association president, said full reinstatement was given the Georgia schools "after Georgia had done everything the Southern Association had asked them to do."

Dr. Humphrey, who is president of Mississippi State College and chairman of the association's executive committee, said at State College, Miss., that the reinstatement was retroactive to September 1, 1942, the date the suspension had gone into effect.

Governor Ellis Arnall, first informed by the Associated Press and later by Dr. Humphrey of the developments, said it was "very splendid." He added:

"The people of Georgia are very grateful to the general assembly for the legislation that brought about the restoration. It was one of the main issues of the political campaign. It is now my purpose, with the legislature's help, to carry out other campaign pledges."

The governor's reference was to a measure passed by the legislature last week removing the governor from the state Board of Regents, and making other changes designed to make the board non-political.

Arnall upon signing the measure immediately called upon the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to reconsider its suspension order. A secret vote by the association's executive committee followed.

The ten units of the state educational system were suspended following the ouster of several Georgia educators by former governor Eugene Talmadge.

One of the dismissed educators, Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, president of Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro, was reinstated only last week as the first act of a new Board of Regents named by Governor Arnall, who

Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, who for seven years served as president of Georgia Teachers College and was fired in July, 1941, by a "stacked" Board of Regents on false political charges, returns today as executive head of the college after an absence of eighteen months. The reinstatement of Dr. Pittman was one of the first actions taken by the new constitutional Board of Regents at their first meeting last month.

'Charm,' Masquers' Winter Production

Dramatic Presentation
Is Comedy; Complete
Cast Has Been Selected

"That elusive, intangible, indefinable something that you cannot put your fingers on." The Masquers guarantee that you will know the answer to this mysterious riddle if you see their next stage production, "Charm," a comedy in three acts. The play is scheduled for presentation on February 25th.

The action of the play is laid in a small American town in pre-war days. The plot of the production revolves around the troubles of an average family who has a young daughter loved by two men. Their exploits and dilemmas prove laughable and entertaining.

Making their stage debut are: Dot Remington, stepping from behind scenes as propman, costume designer, etc., into the role of the mother in the play; Adel Calloway as the neighborhood gossip; Beverly Edwards as a high school girl; Jean Hendrix as the town flirt; Dekle Banks as her beau; and of course the regulars: "Pop" Raulerson stepping from the role of a distinguished Chinese to a plain old American pa; "Rock" Waters transformed from a blunt business man to a published "city slicker"; Beth Stanfield from the missionary to a high school teacher; Parrish Blitch from the excitable Englishman to a high pressure American salesman; Venice Clifton from a Chinese girl to the young daughter of the family, and the club welcomes Harry Robertson back into action playing the Old Doctor, and Bill DeLoach playing the male lead. Sue Breen is the preacher's wife and Sam Stephens plays the role of preacher.

Miss Mamie Jo Jones, director of the production, has stated that she has acquired one of the best casts

Pittman, since leaving Teachers College, has been serving as Director of Instruction at Louisiana State College at Natchitoches, La., where he did his first college teaching.

Bastille Trial Day

Along with Dr. Cocking, of the University of Georgia, Pittman was tried at a "mock trial" on July 12, 1941, by a Board of Regents who had already received a typed verdict from former Governor Talmadge before the trial began. After Pittman left the college on September 1, 1941, and was succeeded by Dr. A. M. Gates, who had been president of the college at Mount Vernon. Gates relinquished his position last week by order of Regents, and at the same time the board named Dr. Pittman to succeed Gates.

Rehires Michael

Miss Mae Michael, who served under three presidents as secretary, was rehired last week by Dr. Pittman as executive secretary. Miss Michael came to Teachers College in 1929 as secretary to Dr. Guy Wells, who was then president of the institution. She left here in March, 1942, when she was relieved of her job because of support given Dr. Pittman.

Arnall Gets Credit

Georgia's new state administration, headed by Governor Ellis Arnall, paved the way for the restoration with enactment of a law to reorganize the Board of Regents and remove it from politics.

The reorganization plan was enacted by the General Assembly without a dissenting vote during its first week in session and immediately signed into law.

Marion Smith, prominent Atlanta attorney and a former chairman of the Board of Regents, was elected chairman of the new board of fifteen appointed by Governor Arnall.

The Governor is not a member of the board.

The Southern Association in suspending the ten units declared after an investigation "the University System of Georgia has been the victim of unprecedented and unjustifiable political interference."

The two educators removed by the former governor were Dr. Walter D. Cocking, dean of the College of Education at the University of Georgia, and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, president of the Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro.

One of the first acts of the new Board of Regents was to reinstate Dr. Pittman. He is expected to resume his position today.

The association president explained that the reorganization plan put through by the Arnall administration "met all requirements of the association."

At Assembly

President Pittman and Regent Renfroe will be welcomed by the student body, faculty and friends of the institution at a general assembly in the college auditorium this (Monday) morning.

Friends of the college, of Regent Renfroe, and of Dr. Pittman are welcome to attend the exercises.

Reconstruction Era Begins

After a year of waiting and hoping, the hopes of students and faculty members have been realized. A new era at Georgia Teachers College is being launched. It is an era that we knew would be forthcoming sometime in the future, but had hardly dared to hope that it would be this soon.

The return of Dr. Pittman to this college comes at a time when it seems as if the lowest depths possible had been reached. If we had sunk lower we could not have existed. The word, "Pittman," at Teachers College has, as elsewhere, become synonymous with the word progress. It is because of this that we know we are right in saying that the months ahead will prove to be a reconstruction era.

Looking back over past years and then comparing records with the present time, we find that there is truly a great need of reconstruction. In a short period of time enrollment has dropped from over 500 in 1936 to a total of 141 this quarter. The faculty, which was once one of the best in the University system, has been depleted to such an extent that there remains little resemblance to that which we were so proud.

School spirit, that intangible quality which makes or breaks a school has been nil here for several months. Who could take pride in something which had become a pawn in the hands of dictatorial politicians?

All that is changed now. A real educator is at the helm. He has shown what he can do before, and we know that he can and will do it again.

It was through the efforts of Dr. Pittman that the many improvements were made, the faculty and staff increased in quality and quantity, enrollment more than doubled. In fact it can be said that he put G.T.C. on the collegiate map of Georgia. It's not there now, but you can bet that when this reconstruction era is over, we will be back up there at the top again.

Dr. Pittman Returns

(From the Atlanta Journal, Thursday, Jan. 28, 1943.)

The restoration of Dr. Marvin S. Pittman to the Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro will be hailed with joy by the students, alumni and patrons of the school. The action of the reconstructed Board of Regents is not only an act of justice but is also a wise and sound expedient.

Dr. Pittman's dynamic leadership and inspiring personality built the college up to its large enrollment, its scholarly faculty and its superb plant, and when he was removed under such shocking circumstances it was natural that the blow to the school should prove disabling.

Fortunately the spirit of the students remaining was not wholly destroyed. They have labored unceasing to save their beloved institution and only a few weeks ago began a state-wide movement to enlist the co-operative action of all alumni and patrons in behalf of the school rehabilitation. With Dr. Pittman back, they will succeed.

Injustice Rectified

(From Atlanta Constitution, Thursday, January 28, 1943.)

One of the first acts taken by the newly created Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia was to reinstate Dr. Marvin S. Pittman as president of the Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro.

There will be much rejoicing in Statesboro at that news, as well as in every community of the state where where men who love fair play reside and where injustice is rightfully hated.

The ousting of Dr. Pittman by the Talmadge-controlled old board was one of the rankest cases of injustice ever perpetrated in this state. The charges against him were so farcical as not to require disproval, yet they were utterly refuted at the hearing. Despite this the Talmadge board, with its verdict arrived at and written before the hearing began, discharged Dr. Pittman.

Since then the college at Statesboro he headed has lost much ground. Enrollment has dropped to a fraction of what it was prior to the ouster.

It will now be Dr. Pittman's privilege and pleasure to once again build the college to the heights of scholastic repute it previously enjoyed. He will be welcomed back, not only by the student body and faculty, but by the vast majority of the citizens of Statesboro among whom he lived, neighbor and friend, for so many years.

An Educator Returns

(From Augusta Chronicle, Thursday, January 28, 1943.)

There will be great rejoicing in this section of the state over the action of the reconstituted Board of Regents in restoring Dr. Marvin S. Pittman to the presidency of the Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro.

The college and the cause of education in Georgia were struck a cruel and needless blow when Dr. Pittman's dynamic leadership was denied the students of the Statesboro school. The reasons for his dismissal, at the dictation of former Governor Talmadge, have been thoroughly discredited and disapproved.

It was natural that the Teachers College at Statesboro should suffer during the absence of its beloved and scholarly president, but the students and patrons never lost heart; and now their labors and hopes have been rewarded. Dr. Pittman is to return and take up where he left off.

Only a few weeks ago the students, patrons and well-wishers of the college started a movement to enlist the co-operation of alumni and all others interested in the rehabilitation of the Georgia Teachers College. Now their program can move swiftly ahead with Dr. Pittman back at the helm.

It was a fine gesture on the Board of Regents' part to make its first order of business the righting of this wrong which has been done to a fine school and an outstanding and beloved educator.

Hip, Hip, Hooray!

(From Morgan Blake's column in the Atlanta Journal of Saturday, January 30, 1943.)

Dr. Marvin Pittman is coming home. The first act of the newly appointed Board of Regents was to restore this great educator and leader of youth to his old post as president of State Teachers College at Statesboro. About the most contemptible and petty act of the late Talmadge-controlled board was to remove Dr. Pittman from the post he had filled so splendidly. This act involved no consideration for the welfare of the school, faculty, student body or the state. It was merely an exhibition of personal malice. On the night before the trial of Dr. Pittman the jury met and wrote the verdict. The trial itself was such a farce and burlesque, spectators wondered that such things could happen in a supposedly civilized community. Old Gene was riding high in the saddle at that time confident that no combination of circumstances could overthrow him. Little did he realize that this trial lighted a flame of resentment that eventually in his most crushing political defeat, and the finis to his political career.

They "got" Dr. Pittman, and since then the fine institution he had built reached a low ebb. Dr. Pittman has been teaching in Louisiana, but now he is to come back to the presidency and there is an exultation among the students of the school and the people of Statesboro, and friends of education everywhere.

One of my most pleasant experiences was when Mrs. Blake and I spent an evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Pittman and I had the privilege of speaking to his student body. This was not so long before the Talmadge regents put him out. Some of these days when transportation becomes less acute I hope to go back to Statesboro and tell the students how the rest of the state joins in their joy and satisfaction over the return of their great leader and great friend.

ONE WORD MORE

BY RALPH MCGILL

(From the Atlanta Constitution of Sunday, January 31, 1943, and reprinted with the permission of Editor McGill and the Constitution.)

HOW MUCH DID IT HURT? Georgia's legislature has taken two steps toward the future of Georgia which probably will be of more value than any other steps taken or to be taken in the educational reforms.

One gives the Board of Regents the right to function without fear. The second provides for a constitutional amendment to strengthen that right.

Education must be free from fear if it is to prove a progressive force.

It has been falsely stated that loss of the accredited standing did the school system no harm.

Now, it must be said again, that national standards are approved for schools just as the National Hereford Association provides national standards for white-face cattle.

A scrub woods cow isn't as good as one that meets all the standards demanded by dairying and cattle associations.

You can make a scrub school out of a good one mighty quick by taking away its standards.

The legislature did a magnificent job for education.

The Board of Regents did another fine job in bringing back Professor Marvin S. Pittman to take charge of the Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro.

He took the school when it was small and built it into one with a fully accredited standing. He built up its attendance as he built its scholastic standing.

The credits of the school were destroyed and Dr. Pittman, son of a Confederate veteran, dismissed on charges demonstrated to be unfounded.

What happened? How much did it hurt?

THE RECORD. At Statesboro the attendance had been above 500 since 1936.

In 1941 it dropped to 350. In 1942 it was 160.

How much was the war responsible?

Some. But not nearly that much.

Other institutions in the state did not suffer as much as the Statesboro institution where Dr. Pittman was dismissed.

The state universities in neighboring states did not show as great a decrease in students as in Georgia.

The very real difference must be due to the fact that Georgia's institutions lost their accredited standing.

The University of Georgia system had a minus 37 per cent in 1942 for men and women lost from its classrooms.

At the University of Mississippi the decrease was 20 per cent, 17 per cent less than in Georgia. At the University of South Carolina the decrease was 10 per cent, 27 per cent less than in Georgia. Duke University showed a 6 per cent decrease, 31 per cent less than Georgia; the University of North Carolina an 18 per cent loss, Emory University a 10 per cent loss, Auburn, in neighboring Alabama, a 2 per cent loss, 35 per cent less than in Georgia. And so on.

The war hurt all colleges.

But what did hurt Georgia most was the loss of the accredited standing.

This was demonstrated by another factor. Georgia lost, in 1942, 36 per cent of its men and 37 per cent of its women students. The latter did not go to war. They left for schools where they would be sure of credits.

The figures tell the story of whether it makes any difference if a school loses its credits.

The legislature is to be congratulated on the job it has done for legislation.

WELCOME AT STATESBORO. Dr. Pittman will find an almost hopeless situation at Statesboro.

Yet the people will respond to his coming with enthusiasm; the faculty and those students remaining will accept the challenge and the opportunity afforded by his coming to go to work.

If a government unit of training can be found for the college that will be of very real help. Dr. Pittman's coming will make the government willing to place some unit there if there is one available.

If this cannot be done, Dr. Pittman's able guidance will build up the school, will keep it going as an integral part of the system.

The people of Statesboro had come to have a real affection for him and for the school which they regarded as "their" school and as one of their real prides. The state will rejoice with them.

CHAIRMAN MARION SMITH

FROM CHAIRMAN SMITH

Robert Donaldson,
Georgia Teachers College,
Collegeboro, Georgia.

Dr. Pittman's return as president of Georgia Teachers College marks a great day for Teachers College. He is a great, constructive educational leader and under him the college should rapidly recover lost ground and go forward to greater service to the state. Injustice has been corrected and the good name of the state of Georgia has been restored. My congratulations to the college.

MARION SMITH, Chmn.,
Board of Regents, State of Georgia.

Marion Smith, named by the new Board of Regents as chairman, is a prominent member of the Atlanta Bar. He has served as a member of the Board of Regents before and was one time chairman of the board. Two other members of the present board have also served as chairmen of the Regents in the past—Cason Callaway and Sandy Beaver. Regent Smith was probably the only Regent notified in advance of his appointment to the board, since Governor Ellis Arnall had previously announced that he hoped Mr. Smith would accept the chairmanship of the new board.

FROM REGENT RENFROE

It is a great pleasure for me to join with the many friends of Dr. Marvin S. Pittman in welcoming him back to Statesboro as president of Georgia Teachers College. I am sure the friends of education in this state rejoice because of his return. This is the time to let the past be the past, turn our thoughts toward the future and make every effort to rebuild the college attendance. And in this every faculty member and every student is privileged to have a part. Division destroys—co-operation builds.

Student Body

Dear Dr. Pittman:

As representatives of the student body we wish to welcome you back to Teachers College. Although all of us do not know you personally we have heard of your outstanding ability as a leader in the educational field. We know of the great school T. C. was with you as its president and we are certain that under your leadership our school will once again assume its rightful place as one of the leading teachers colleges in the nation.

It is our desire to assist you in every possible way, and to that end we pledge our best co-operation. Let's work together to rebuild our school.

With best wishes, we remain,
Sincerely yours,

Dear Mr. Donaldson:

I wish to express by unqualified and enthusiastic appreciation of Dr. Marvin S. Pittman's return to the presidency of Georgia Teachers College.

Dr. Pittman is an outstanding Christian gentleman who believes definitely in the quality of educational opportunity for all the children of all Georgia and the fundamental and foundational traditions of the South. He is one of the most able and efficient school men whom I have ever known. He is an exceptionally able and profound educational leader. He is one of America's greatest public spirited citizens.

I rejoice at Georgia's good fortune upon having him to return to be with us as one of our educational statesmen and leaders.

With highest personal regards and best wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Green and white, the sorority colors, were carried out in all the decorations. The lovely dining room was lighted only by candles arranged around a bowl of narcissi at each end of the table. The plates used were bought by Miss Trussell while attending Cornell University. The coffee cups were hand-painted by one of her intimate friends. It was so interesting to discover that the coffee spoons were souvenirs of Paris, Venice, Rome, and other cities of Europe. The place cards were attached to card holders from Chinatown in San Francisco. Little boutonnières of white hyacinths tied with green and white ribbon were placed by the side of each plate.

Wednesday night, February 3, the regular meeting was held in the parlor of East Hall. At this time the Sigma Gammas celebrated Venice Clifton's birthday which was Tuesday, February 2. The sorority remembered her with a heart with "Sigma Gamma Sisters" on it.

At the close of the meeting plates of pineapple salad, ham sandwiches, crackers and coffee were served by Sophie Oliver and Virginia Lovett.

Delta Lambda Delta

The Delta Lambda Delta sorority held its weekly meeting Tuesday night in East Hall parlor. Plans were made to make bandages for the Red Cross, and money has been contributed to the service flag sponsored by the Bachelors.

Formal initiation will take place next week and plans were made for this.

The meeting closed with the theme song, "Always," and delicious refreshments were served by Kathryn Ellison. MARGARET BUNN,

"Eppie" News

Tuesday night, February 2, Dot and Hattie were hostesses for an "Eppie" meeting. At this time Hattie was elected secretary to fill the vacancy left by Martha Wilma. "Googie" was elected reporter, and June was elected chaplain. Delicious refreshments consisting of hot chocolate, sandwiches and crackers were served by the hostesses.

Initiation has been going on for some time now for the pledges, Hattie, "Googie" and June. Formal and final initiation will be held soon, (thank goodness).

Wade Hampton Says:

Dear Mr. Editor:

Pears to me as how, in the rush of things, we've plumb forgot to take any pride in our campus.

No later than yesterday I noticed paper and trash all over the campus, and the grass is plumb criss-crossed with trails, jest like the old cow pasture out to the farm.

I allow as how we might take more pride in our buildings, too. Shore, we've got boys who are supposed to keep them clean but it's a hopeless task unless you co-operate. Wipe yore feet before entering a building; put yore waste paper in a trash can and not on the floor or the campus.

We could have one of the best and pretties campuses in Georgia if we jest tried a little and it pears to me as how we might.

The Student Council has some records in the gym which are used for dancing. Some students just don't take care of them. I allow as how they might not abuse them since hey're for the students pleasure.

Yours truly,
WADE HAMPTON.

Delta Sigma

The Delta Sigma fraternity held its weekly meeting Wednesday night in Anderson Hall. We were very glad to have an old member with us at our meeting Wednesday, January 27, Robert Morris, of Statesboro, who is attending school at Marion Institute, Marion, Alabama.

The house party was discussed and all of the minor details were planned. The house party is to be at Magnolia Lodge, February 5th through the 7th. All of the members and pledges are expected to go, because this will probably be the last house party that the fraternity will have until after the war.

We were very pleased to have Dr. Moon with us. At the close of the meeting the pledges were brought in and given their weekly warming up.

STATESBORO BAND PLAYS AT CHAPEL

Marion Carpenter, Former Student, is Director

The fifty-piece Statesboro High School band under the direction of Marion Carpenter, a graduate of Georgia Teachers College, presented a concert at the chapel program last Friday.

Featured on the program was a xylophone solo by Nona Hodges, and saxophone solo by Kenneth Smith.

The band played at the inauguration of Governor Ellis Arnall in Atlanta last month.

Carpenter while a student here played in the college band and directed the "Professors" dance orchestra. He was a member of the Iota Pi Nu fraternity.

PITTMAN WILL RETURN TO STATESBORO

(From Pembroke Journal, Thursday, January 28, 1943.)

One of the first acts of the new Board of Regents named by Governor Ellis Arnall was the hiring of Dr. Marvin Pittman to again head the school at Statesboro. Dr. Pittman was contacted and immediately accepted. This is good news for the school and Statesboro.

The Board of Regents named by Governor Arnall is a strong one, in fact, we do not believe that it could be improved upon. We know most of the men that have been named and they are men that can be counted on to do their duty at any and all times.

The appointment of our neighbor, J. L. Renfro, of Statesboro, is indeed a fine appointment. He will make the state one of the best Regents that ation and we join his many friends in congratulating him on his appointment.

Back to the top with Pittman!

succeeded Talmadge earlier this month.

Dean Walter D. Cocking, of the University of Georgia, who was dismissed, is now employed in Washington, and is understood not to desire his old post at Athens, school officials said.

The Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in voting to suspend the Georgia schools contended that Talmadge's charges against Cocking and Pittman were "mockery of democratic procedure" and said that the charges were unfounded.

Dr. Humphrey in a telegram to Governor Arnall notifying him of the association's action offered his congratulations and said the committee action was unanimous, the governor reported.

Dr. Humphrey also notified Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the state university system, of the reinstatement and added that "we are all happy that the Georgia schools have been restored to the full accredited list." The new chairman of the state Board of Regents, Marion Smith, an Atlanta lawyer, was notified also.

Governor Arnall, who made restoration of the schools the first plank in his platform for election, said that no student who had graduated since the suspension order became effective would be deprived of full credits because of the retroactive feature of the reinstatement.
