Are all temporary faculty no longer working with contracts? Why? What terms are they working under?

Submitted by Cliffton Price and Tina Whittle

1/28/2004

Question:

Are all temporary faculty no longer working with contracts? Why? What terms are they working under?

Rationale:

Temporary faculty in the Department of Writing and Linguistics have not received contracts for the last two years. Robert Haney reports that this change is a result of a recommendation from the Board of Regents.

Response:

2/9/2004: Cyr (CLASS) addressed information requests pertaining to the status and contract conditions of temporaries. He is preparing a list of questions to submit to the Provost for clarification. An agenda item request submitted in tandem with these queries regarding temporaries has been deferred until answers to the information requests can provide more clarity.

4/22/2004: Cyr (CLASS) continued that Provost Vandegrift and Bob Haney explained the status and contract situation of our full-time temporary faculty to him, which he summarized and submitted to them for accuracy checking. That will be forthcoming in the near future.
