Database Trials and Evaluations

April 24, 2009

As the Zach S. Henderson Library continues with our library budget review, with assistance from faculty campus wide, we need to know about resources that we should add to our wish list, pending availability of funding. We invite you to try out the databases below, to which we have access during this free trial and evaluation period. Each of these databases is also listed in GALILEO during the trial. Please tell us what you think, by contacting one of our Subject Specialist Librarians, or Jonathan Harwell, Collection Development & Assessment Librarian, at jharwell@georgiasouthern.edu

Art Museum Image Gallery provides images & related multimedia gathered from collections of museums around the world. Our trial access is through May 31.

Children's Core Collection provides information about fiction & nonfiction works, story collections, picture books & magazines recommended for readers from preschool through sixth grade. Our trial access is through May 31.

Cinema Image Gallery includes still images, links to film reviews & other articles about titles, links to biographies of the stars of film & TV, portrait photography, & more. Our trial access is through May 31.

OmniFile Full Text Mega provides the full text of articles from over 1,750 publications, and article abstracts & indexing from over 3,500 publications, in a variety of subject areas. Our trial access is through May 31.

R2 Library is a collection of electronic books available for individual purchase, in the areas of allied health, medicine, and nursing. Our trial access is through May 21.
