Dr. Trussel Is Named V.P. Of Ornithological Society

Dr. Malvina Trussell was elected first vice-president of the Georgia Ornithological Society during its business meeting in Atlanta recently.

Dr. Trussell, Associate Professor of Biology, at Georgia Teachers College, has long been interested in the work of the G. O. S. Last year she served as Chairman of the Policy Committee of that organization.

The Georgia Ornithological Society, affiliated with the American Ornithological Union and the Wilson Ornithological Club (both national organizations), is concerned with the study and preservation of birds, particularly in this locality. The Society is contributing liberally to a large, new, illustrated volume of birds of Georgia that will soon be released under the sponsorship of the American Fish and Wild Life Association. Included in the volume and the Society's own magazine, Oriole, will be the record of the first discovery of an Indigo Bunting nesting in this area of Georgia. The Bunting's nest was discovered near the college campus this summer by Dolen Brown and Lamar Blanton, undergraduates of this college. The G. O. S. believes that many other species, of which no record has ever been made, may be nesting in this locality.

The Georgia Ornithological Society meets twice a year to exchange information and discuss the problems of birds and bird fanciers. The Society is made up not only of those interested in the science of ornithology, but those interested in the educational values of birds and bird life. Among other prominent members at the meeting were William Griffin, newly appointed president of the Georgia Ornithological Society; Dr. Eugene Odum, University of Georgia; Dr. Fred Denton, University of Georgia Medical School, Augusta; Dr. Tom Burleigh, Fish and Wild Life Association; and Hubert Stoddard, the nation's foremost authority in the stocking of private wildlife ranges.

C. Davis Elected Veteran Group Club President

Clinton Davis, Blun, was named president of the Georgia Teachers College Veterans Club October 7 in a race that required balloting to break a three-way tie between the candidates.

Davis defeated his two opponents, Marvin Dixon, Millen; and Donald Coleman, Fitzgerald, in the third balloting after two castings ended with each man receiving the same number of votes.

Following the election of the club president, Dixon was named vice president of the organization on the first ballot.

Other officers elected include Donald Coleman, treasurer; Clementine Womack, secretary, and Ernest Veal, chaplain.

The newly elected officers issued a joint statement declaring their intention to serve the Veterans Club to the best of their ability and to continue to promote those policies followed by the club "of promoting the true interest and welfare of veterans, students, and Georgia Teachers College."

Artist Series Program Announced As Complete By Committee Chairman

The Revelers, world famous quartet, has been announced as the first attraction of the Artist Series group to appear in the auditorium of Georgia Teachers College this season.

The nationally known group, formerly known as the Shannon Four, are scheduled to present their program here on Nov. 4. Dr. R. J. Neil, chairman of the Artist Series committee, has announced.

Robert St. John, lecturer, writer, and commentator, is the second attraction scheduled to appear, the announcement reveals. He will be here on the night of December 10.

St. John was scheduled to appear here last year, but was unable to fulfill his engagement.

Ruth Draper, famous monologist, and dramatist, will be the third artist in the series and will be in Statesboro on February 6.

At the request of numerous persons, a dance team will make its appearance on the series of entertainments for the first time in several years, Dr. Neil said. The dance team, composed of two persons and their accompanist, will conclude the series with interpretations of Spanish dances on the night of March 10.

Student tickets for the series will be issued in the near future and the sale of tickets will be conducted by members of the committee, also in the near future, Dr. Neil revealed.

Varsity Track Plans Revealed

Plans for a varsity track team to be organized here at T. C. and to enter in inter-collegiate meets were disclosed today by Coach Stranahan.

A meeting will be held sometime in October to discuss the possibilities of such a team. All boys who are interested in any phase of track are invited to attend, Coach Stranahan said.

Although track meets do not take place until spring it is necessary to start early on organization and training if we are to produce a winning team, it was announced.

"There hasn't been a track team at T. C. for a number of years and if this plan goes through it will mark another notch on T.C.'s effort to get back into the sports world," athletic officials declared.

Business Leaders Club Hears President Ward During First Meeting

Dr. Judson C. Ward was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Future Business Leaders Club last Monday night.

The importance of a well-rounded education was the theme of Dr. Ward's address during the first regular meeting of the club.

Mr. Cameron Bremseth, head of the business education department and a faculty advisor of the

James R. Bryan Is Named Editor By Students

In the first general student body election for an editor of the George-Anne, James R. (Fats) Bryan was named to serve during the scholastic year 1947-48.

The election, held to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Albert Howard, was conducted by officers of the student council with approximately 235 students casting ballots.

Bryan, who served as feature editor of the George-Anne last year, defeated his only opponent, Arlo Nesmith, Albany, for the editorship.

A member of the senior class, Bryan is majoring in Exact Sciences and is expected to enter medical school after graduation from Georgia Teachers College. He entered G. T. C. as a freshman in 1941 and continued his studies here until he entered the Army in 1943. He reentered school during the summer of 1946.

Students Form Methodist Club

The Wesley Foundation, an organization made up of Methodist college students, was organized October 2 at a meeting of TC students at the Statesboro Methodist Church.

During the meeting the following officers were elected: Director, Mrs. Frank Hodges; President, Leo Weeks; Vice-President, Arthur Yarbrough; Secretary, Elizabeth Bland; Treasurer, Royce Jackson.

The following standing committee chairmen were appointed: Rosalyn Tillotson and Malcome Coleman, worship; Doris Tillman, refreshments; Ida Blanche Vincent, community service; Martha Lee, recreation; Harold Brabham, deputation; Gene Henderson, publicity.

Home Economics Heads Attend State Meeting In Atlanta Last Week

A conference in Atlanta last week for the purpose of setting up standards for teachers and equipment in college departments of Home Economics was attended by Dr. Hostetler, head of the Practical and Industrial Arts Division, and Miss Strahlman, head of the Home Economics Department.

The meeting was called by Miss Inez Wallace, state supervisor of Home Economics; representatives attended from the state university, Georgia State College for Women, Berry College, and Besie Tift.

George-Anne Weekly

In the past the George-Anne has been published twice monthly. We are happy to announce that in the future the George-Anne will be presented to the students every Monday.

In addition we are instituting a Letters to the Editor column. We invite every student to contribute as often as he has comment to make concerning editorial policy, or any criticism he feels is of importance to the student body and school.

Men's Intramural Program Offers Competitive Sports

New College Orchestra Makes Campus Debut During Senior Formal

The college dance orchestra, under the direction of the new faculty member, John W. Geiger, whose musical experience has included playing with Hoagy Carmichael, made its debut at the senior formal Saturday a week ago.

Mr. Geiger announces that in addition to the eight dances scheduled for the orchestra on the campus, several off-campus engagements have been made, probably the first performance to be at GSCW in Milledgeville.

The orchestra features "jump tunes," particularly those arranged by Stan Kenton.

John Fletcher, composer of the band's theme and leader of the trumpet section, does most of the solo work. Other trumpeters are Hoke Smith and Russell Everitt, both of whom also serve as vocalists.

The lead saxes are Jimmy Morris and "Tack" Williams. The remainder of the sax section is composed of S. B. Cambell, Sonny Bryant, "Kildee" Wilkes and Bill Williams. Red Justice is on the drums, Ross Atkinson on the bass, and Laysel Bancroft is pianist.

JACK BROUCEK TO ATTEND PIANO CLINIC

Mr. Jack W. Broucek, professor of Piano and Organ, will attend the State Piano Clinic to be held at Georgia State College for Women in Milledgeville on Saturday, October 25.

Economics Club Holds Meeting

The first regular bi-monthly meeting of the Home Economics Club was held Monday night, October 13, with refreshments served members by new officers of the club.

Miss Strahlman, new head of the Home Economic Department, a graduate of the University of Missouri and Columbia University, was presented to the members of the club by Miss Ruth Bolton, a faculty member of the Home Economic Department.

Mrs. Josephine Muther, who attended a recent province meeting in Greenville, S. C., with Miss Strahlman, was in charge of the program. She gave a report on the province meeting and suggested improvements to be made in the home economics department.

The new officers of the club include Doris Tillman, president; Hazel Tillman, vice-president; Inez Wilson, secretary; Mrs. Josephine Muther, treasurer; and Mary West, reporter.

Music Students Named To Vesper Choir Group During Joint Session

A vesper choir was organized at the first joint meeting of the YM and YWCA on October 8 in the auditorium.

The choir, under the direction of Miss Ruth Quarrels, is composed of fifteen students selected from the music department. The choir sang its first selections Sunday night.

New hymnals are to be ordered very soon for use in YM, YW and vesper services.

Completion of a unique and highly organized intramural athletic program that will permit all students to participate in competitive sports during the entire scholastic year has been announced by Georgia Teachers College officials.

Based on an athletic club program, the organization, known as Men's Intramural Athletic Association of Georgia Teachers College, it is composed of six clubs with Class A and Class B competition during a continuous series of athletic events ranging from a double elimination softball tournament and a double round-robin touch football league to paddle tennis and boxing.

Headed by James Hall, Norman Park, as association president, the six clubs, composed of approximately 60 members each, have adopted colorful names and will each be under the direction of a club president. The clubs and their presidents have been announced as Tigers, headed by Frank Bagley, Glennville; Polecats, by Charles Wireman, Ashburn; Bulldozers, by L. D. Bowen, Rhine; Hoboes, by Jerry White, Fitzgerald; and Savages, by Eddie Rush, of Savannah. The sixth club, headed by Marvin Prosser, Statesboro, has not revealed the name of its group.

J. B. Searce, coach of varsity sports at the Teachers College and chairman of the division of health, physical education and athletics, announced the double elimination softball tournament will be the first event during the fall quarter and will be followed by the double round-robin touch football league and a double round-robin volleyball league.

Basketball, boxing, bowling, speed ball, ping pong, shuffleboard, paddle tennis and deck tennis are scheduled during the winter quarter, Coach Searce said. During the the spring quarter the program will include badminton, tennis, baseball, track and field, swimming and archery.

Eleven Honored In Student Body Class Elections

Immediately after chapel on Monday, October 6, the seniors, juniors and sophomores held class meetings simultaneously for the purpose of electing class officers for the 1947-48 school year.

In the senior class meeting, Marvin (Rhed) Prosser was elected president. The other officers named by the seniors are: vice-president, Leo Weeks; secretary, Marie Pitts; and treasurer, Ernest Veal.

In the junior election, James (Ed) Sheppard was elected president; Millard Green, vice-president; Marwood Pearce, secretary; and Evelyn Arnold, treasurer.

Joe Anderson was named president of the sophomore class and Bryan Ball was elected vice-president. Rosalyn Tillotson became secretary-treasurer.

All three new presidents plus Weeks, Veal, and Ball are veterans of World War II.

The freshman class will elect their officers following the first six weeks of the fall quarter.

Welcome, Dr. Ward

This is our first issue since the inauguration of the new president and we take this opportunity to extend to Dr. Ward our congratulations and to assure him of our cooperation in his endeavors to make this a bigger and better Teachers College.

We also extend our appreciation to Dr. Pittman for all that he has accomplished during the years of his presidency.

Improved Attitude Noted

Within the relatively short span of three weeks there is to be seen a tremendous difference in the attitude and spirit prevailing on the campus. This paper has always believed that with a better social and recreational program there would be a rebirth of school spirit. The embryo of such a program is becoming quite noticeable. A beginning has been made in the form of a high powered intramural sports program to substitute for the lack of inter-collegiate athletics during the fall quarter. Perhaps more important however, to the actual school spirit are the hints that are cropping up daily to the affect that the students are, in themselves, important to the college after all. It seems that it has finally been realized that the school does not make the student. From somewhere the idea has been generated that it is the student who makes the school. Every student realizes that it is happening and at last he sees something to be proud of. Slowly we are beginning to realize that we are the most important part of this school and with that realization that the school reflects upon the student body rather than the student reflecting upon the school we are slowly developing a pride in our school. We have a long way to go but the prediction is that we will make it because there is something new in the air—a feeling of cooperation between students and faculty that in the past has been conspicuous by its absence. A school is a school regardless of its size, and six hundred people, working together, can send it to heights undreamed of by anyone. But, without cooperation the only result will be failure.

The George-Anne believes that by putting into effect several practices the result would be a "school spirit" that would rival that of any college in the country.

First: As long as a Student Council functions at GTC we should have and must have real student government. The function of a student council is to represent the entire body in matters of student interest; to afford a central and authoritative medium of communication between students and school authorities; to direct the social activities of the students; and in general to create and preserve the customs and traditions of the school. In the past our Student Council has fallen far short of accomplishing any of these functions. However, it has been through no fault of their own. They have been denied the privileges that their positions merit. The student body has the right to govern itself by its own rules outside the classroom. We are adults and Americans and it is a democratic situation only when this privilege is ours.

Second: A new system of nominations and elections that would provide at least one week between the day of nomination and the days of election. New election regulations should include an iron bound rule prohibiting faculty members, administrators, and house mothers from participating directly or indirectly in student elections.

Third: The athletic program now in effect leaves little to be desired. However if it is in any way possible we believe that GTC should be represented on the inter-collegiate gridiron with a successful team capable of coping with Senior colleges of this size.

Fourth: More intimate contacts between the Administration, the Faculty, and Students. Cooperation cannot achieve all its potentialities unless we know one another well.

Fifth: A well planned series of chapel programs that should not only be interesting and pertinent but should also be short.

Sixth: An entirely new social program to be formulated by the Student Council through the advice of the student body. The students on this campus are the majority and it is for us to decide whether or not social clubs are democratic. An election should be held this quarter to determine if fraternities and sororities are desired by the majority of the students. They functioned with great success at one time on this campus and there is no reason to believe that given another chance they would not be of great benefit to this school as they were in the past.

Seventh: A school paper, representative of the students. Next to the Student Council, the George-Anne should be the loudest voice of the student body. In the past both have been mere whispers that were for the most part ignored. This year this paper will print the thoughts of the students. There will be no censorship. It will be your paper and your organ of opinion. In the future we feel with assurance that your opinions will not be ignored.

With these ideas in mind let us work hard and do our part to put our alma mater on the map. Boost your school in every way possible, for only the student body can do it effectively. The higher you send her standards the more value will be attached to your diploma. This is your duty—only you can accomplish it.

Collegiate Cavalcade

By CLARECE MURRAY

Long lines are not just common to T. C., according to the Mercer Cluster. You even have to stand in line for mail the first two weeks at Mercer.

A 98-year-old Californian has filed suit for annulment of his marriage to his 48-year-old former housekeeper.

(Another marriage on the rocks. But then, so many of these child marriage end up that way.)

The bridegroom charged that his wife has refused to let him leave the house and has also disposed of some of his property.

(She should have understood that even after marriage a young man likes to spend an occasional night out with the boys.)

The indignant bridegroom has two daughters by previous marriages. There is the possibility that he failed to consult his parents before proposing.

THE RED AND BLACK

Noted reactions to the longer skirts are very loud indeed. Seems most Guys and Gals, especially Guys, agree with Senator Claghorn, "I'm agin' 'em—the South's been in obscurity long enough." What say, Gals?????

According to the Red and Black, Joan of Loraine, by Anderson, is to be the first production sponsored by the drama department of the University. And "Joan" is very much in demand. What, no Ingrid Bergmans on the campus!!!!?

The Mercer Cluster: Smooching is one of the most difficult arts on earth to describe in mere words. An adequate description would require not only a drooling voice, but sound effects, and lighting, as well. Smooching is the easiest subject to learn, and the hardest one to master. Probably the reason it has become so widespread is because it comes so naturally to beginners. They discover at the very start that there are no two faces on earth that won't fit.

Woo has several things that make it unique. It is the only activity known to man that five thousand years of practice could not improve. And, oddly enough, it is the only thing known today which all claim they can do, and about which most women claim they know nothing.

Smooching is the ideal life of moderation, for it may be enjoyed by frat or non-frat; by rich or poor; by preacher or convict. It offers equal benefits to all, and special privileges to none. Forty years in a college classroom will not give a man the slightest advantage.

In a recent survey, several suggestions for improving the amorous facilities on this campus were received. It was suggested that all lights be moved to one corner, and have tall bushes grown around them. It was also requested that more benches be placed in less conspicuous places. The best idea was suggested by a rat, but it probably met with disapproval by the administration: All girls in MEP who have dates should not be allowed to come in before 6:30, as it disturbs the rest of the girls who are interested in getting an education.

A more practical solution would be to confiscate the parking lot of the ROTC officers. This could be turned into a regular paradise. It would certainly promote love, rather than hate. In fact, it could be dedicated to all those who know by experience that though "the sound of a kiss is not nearly so loud as that of a cannon, its echo lasts a great deal longer."

Mercer seems all out for the cause. What do you think?

By IMA SNOOP

After a year's absence serving the State in a less educative institution for rendering libelous statements, I'm back in the key-hole again—ready to OB-serve you in any manner possible.

George Eanes, is it routine or pleasure? One night it's Lewis, the next it's East.

Daniel H. has laid first claim on one of Mary R.'s birthday presents which was silver, by referring to it as "ours."

Oh yes! Evelyn A., was was it your birthday? Or just what occasion was responsible for that dozen American Beautys (floral, that is) you received Sat. night. Isn't it a pity more boys on the campus aren't like "Rhed" or maybe more girls couldn't be like Evelyn.

Pat P.'s theme song is "There Is No Greater Love" than that I have for that handsome hunk of man, Ray Darley.

Has Foy Olliff's rival's cute sister caused his flame of last year for a cute blond sophomore to die, or is he giving her up as an impossibility?

A long distance call certainly worked wonders on "Myrt" Prosser. A few days last week, she went around with such a long, unhappy look and just over a little call she looked as if she had been to the "House of Get Beautiful" for a complete makeover.

Even though we are having hurricanes galore it seems they are about as effective as Spring weather for bringing forth the ringing of wedding bells. Isn't that right, Barbara and "Phil"?

I also got a vague inkling that the same thing is to happen to Bobby Cone's case.

That much talked of, hard to get fellow, Ivey, seems to have settled down to steady going with a cute freshman.

Who has Ruth Quarrels been seen with lately? As Sherlock Holmes would say, "Elementary, my dear Watson, elementary."

Lila, why be so gym shy? George won't mind if you dance with the other boys.

Have you noticed that J. G. Martin is about to set up a permanent residence in front of West Hall? Oh well, that's perfectly understandable when there's a cute gal like Anne Hensley involved.

Don't overlook how "Bo" Whaley and Alvin Williams are giving their home county freshmen girls a big rush. Especially Jean Foss and Ouida Sapp.

The Kentucky boys are causing a great deal of ooh's and aah's around the girls dorms. The station wagon gets its lot of recognition, too.

Bedgood, did that cold get you down enough to make that trip home or does Arabi offer you more in some lines than does T. C.?

THE STORY OF MRS. MURPHY

By Natalie Anderson Scott

This is, in reality, the story of Jimmie Murphy, who is a good-natured drunk, hurting himself more than others, though he does have a penchant for beating up his current inamarata. He has an almost fatal attraction for women; even Sue, strictly reared, is willing to live with him without benefit of clergy. Jimmie ends with lovely Kay—after a term for narcotics peddling. Kay puts a bottle of beer in his hands and, with a completely satisfied and charming smile, he dies clutching it.

CREATURES OF CIRCUMSTANCE

By Somerset Maugham

The desire to listen to a story, says Mr. Maugham in his introduction, is as deeply rooted in the human animal as the sense of property. Laid against such variegated backgrounds as the Far East, the English countryside, the Middle West and the South of France, each of these fifteen stories is a polished example of the art of story telling where every word counts and the reader is held spellbound by the urbane but pitiless depiction of human foibles and failings.

Freedom Train

It is the informed opinion of Statesman and political scientists statesmen and political scientists, both foreign and domestic, that the existence of our contemporary civilization depends upon the leadership and foreign policy of the United States. The structure of our American Democracy makes foreign policy a reflection of American public opinion and current political philosophy.

American public opinion and political philosophy is conditioned by economic opportunity, geography, influx of European culture, and above all, the inheritance of a basic concept of the rights of men. These rights have not sprung full grown overnight; they represent hundreds of years of struggle and an accumulation of ideals. This process of establishing rights and ideals continue.

The products of our colleges and universities should be the most influential factor in shaping of American public opinion and philosophy. It is from these institutions that will come the ideas and leadership that will be trained in truth, that will be able to see the good of the whole people. Georgia Teachers College is the incubator of many future leaders.

The Freedom Train is a treasure of documents and expression of the spirit that has formed our basic political philosophy; it is a history of our struggle to establish the ideology proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence, and written in the hearts of our forefathers. The Freedom Train not only affords an opportunity for Americans to see a collection of our organic documents; it removes any excuse Americans might have for failing to see their heritage first hand.

If the American people are the ultimate formers of foreign policy, if American diplomacy is the controlling factor in world recovery and peace, if our struggle for independence and our concept of democracy is a factor in our philosophy—then it is the duty of each of us to visit the Freedom Train. Each American must be conscious of his political heritage; he should also be conscious of the problems facing the world today.

FREEDOM TRAIN

Future teachers must be conscious of these things more than anyone else.

The announcement by the American Heritage Foundation that the Freedom Train will be in Savannah December 17 should be of paramount interest to the faculty and students of Georgia Teachers College. In view of the educational values and the inspiration derived from the exhibition, it is hoped that every effort will be made by the faculty and students to visit Savannah on December 17. It might be suggested that the school provide transportation and require all students to see our Freedom Train.

Daily After Supper Dance Termed Dance Macabre

By BILL SARRATT

The most alarming impropriety since the iniquitous birth of jittersbugging was suffered by the Muse of the Dance here on the T. C. campus with the adoption of the after-supper recreation hour. If after all these years of freak steps the "Dahnse" had a broad "a" left to its name, it was definitely lost and ruptured into the tremendously inelegant "Daynse" when TC students began dancing on full stomachs.

The dictionary, that most deceiving of all information books in reference to the commonplace, defines dancing as moving lightly and rhythmically to the time of music. Which, of course, indicates that august editors of that monumental work never tried moving lightly and rhythmically to the time of music and two servings of potatoes. And a generous serving of butter beans, AND a cup of ice cream, AND two pounds of bread, or maybe only one pound if you eat just one roll for supper.

Just what effect this synchronized gastric juice and dance hour will have on conventionally timed dancing cannot be determined yet. For those who like their informality straight this pepsin dance is a godsend, but even the loose stays of informality are designed to corset gastric disturbances, and there is something disenchanting and singularly unromantic when the pressure of cheek-to-cheek dancing is conditioned by belching.

So far, the gatherings have been without appalling incident, however, and, in fact, everybody has had great fun whether from love of dancing or simply from the fascination of a newness that promises not to wear off too soon. It is at least a divertissement for tone-deaf and rhythm-crippled stags to be turned down with, "Oh, I'm so full!", indelicate as it may sound, instead of the invariable, "Oh, I'd love to, but I'm waiting for someone."

Except for drawing partners whose sense of following is dulled by over-eating, the boys have had no complaints. It is the girls who cannot lie well who have manifested a reassertion that it is the woman who pays and pays and pays. The girl who is holding a heavy supper behind a 30-inch waistline with a 22-inch belt and dancing with a partner made sleepy and unreceptive to music by eating is not exactly luxuriating in comfort, according to one of the girls. Dorothy Parker, acidifying the pages of "The Waltz," is comparatively well off in her sadistic dance trap.

Meatless Tuesdays Dining Hall Vogue

Recent announcement has been made by the Dining Hall Staff of the inauguration of the "Meatless Tuesday" plan which is now being adopted throughout the nation. Under this setup recently appealed for by President Truman, restaurants, dining halls and the like—even homes—are requested to serve no meats on Tuesday and no poultry products on Friday.

The meals, according to the dietician, are to be balanced with foods which do not come under these classifications on the days aforementioned.

This plan will allow each of us who takes his meals in the dining hall to contribute our fair share toward the plan which is designed to conserve food for a starving Europe.

People Go Places...

Bill Salem had as his guest Sunday evening at his exclusive private "Piney Wood Supper Club" over in Glenville "Herb" Reeve and L. D. Bowen. In the subdued atmosphere of the pines, a delicious shrimp dinner was enjoyed beneath the beautiful soft light surroundings. Bill extends to all his fellow students of T. C. a cordial invitation to attend his club when in Glenville or in surrounding communities.

Among the many familiar faces of former students seen at the Senior formal were Don Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Sikes, James Donaldson, Kahki Herrington, John Godbee, Richard Fisher and Mrs. Colleen Darley.

That radiant smile which has been seen on Lawana Dave's face for the past week is due mostly to her last week end's visitor, Andy Cowart, a former student, who is now at the U. of Ga.

Margaret Warren shopped in Savannah Thursday afternoon.

Enjoying the delicious chicken dinner Saturday evening given by Mr. and Mrs. J. Rushing out at their country home in honor of their daughter, Mary, who celebrated her nineteenth birthday, were Regis Rowell, Dot Forbes, Jack Brady, Frances Barfield, Fred Rollison and Dan Howard.

Alethia Edwards had as her guest on the campus last week end Elta Joe Coleman, a former student, who is now the cute little fifth grade teacher in Hinesville High School.

Josephine Muther represented the Home Economics Club of GTC at the Province III Workshop held in Greenville, S. C., October 10 and 11. She was accompanied by Miss Strahman, co-advisor of the club.

Other schools sending delegates were GSCW, U. of Ga., North Georgia College, Bessie Tift and La Grange; Winthrop College and Furman University of South Carolina; North East Teachers College, Limestone and Erskine of North Carolina; Huntington and the University of Alabama; and the University of Tennessee.

In addition to the work activities the students enjoyed two talks. One on the preparation for marriage by Mrs. Wilson, Dean of Home Economics, at the University of Ga., and another by Lieutenant Reginald Mitchell, a foreign student from England, who spoke on the present home and family life of India and England.

Conner's Corner

It's time for all basketball fiends to put away big black cigars and put a stop to the burning of the midnight oil as basketball practice began officially Monday afternoon.

The college is very fortunate in having J. B. Searce as the new basketball coach. Coach Searce came to T. C. from Cumberland University in Kentucky, where he had a fine record. His team had a large percentage of wins last year. They also won the Southeastern Junior College championship, which, in our opinion, is a pretty big order. Coach Searce also established a good record at Jenkins High School, North Georgia College and Norman Park in his coaching career.

T. C. has a fine schedule this year and will play in keen competition. Unlike last year, only two or three games have been made with junior colleges. Instead, the "Ole Blue Tide" will play four-year schools and we are sure they will hold up the heritage that this school has handed down in the years gone by. This schedule opens with a three-game tour. Included in this trip will be Oglethorpe College in Atlanta, Piedmont College in Demorest, Georgia, and North Georgia College in Dahlonega. The first home game is December 5 with Georgia Medical College.

Familiar faces will be seen on the hardwood this year as six of last year's boys have returned—Jimmy Conner, Mitchell Conner, Walker (Bo) Whaley, George Eanes, Frank Bagley, and Marvin (Rhed) Prosser. These boys are the ones who played with the varsity last year. We also have several boys who shined on the B squad last year. Some of them are Foy (Runt!) Olliff, Gene Collins, Ainsworth Davis and Jerry Conner.

Besides this array of ball hawks, there are number of new boys that will add greatly to the squad. Among these are Tom Dyches (Mercer), L. D. Bowen (Middle Georgia), Herb Reeves (Cumberland), and others.

Our hats are off to the administration for ordering of new basketball suits. Not only will T. C. have a basketball team, they will also look like one. We would not be afraid to state that our team will be dressed as good as any team in the country.

For trainer this year we have Cliff Hill. He will keep all charlie-horses and bruises down to a minimum.

The team also has a good bunch of managers. They are aiding the athletic department in getting the gym in the best possible shape for the season. Later on, the athletic department is going to try to renovate the gym.

Here's hoping we'll win every game. Go get 'em, boys!!!

club, also appeared on the club program and welcomed all members of the club. Miss Barnhill and Mr. Jim White, also faculty advisors and members of the business education department, attended the meeting.

Myrtice Prosser, was named treasurer of the club in an election called to replace the treasurer appointed last year who failed to return to college.

Other officers of the club include James Griffis, president; Laura M. Brady, vice-president; Clara Lewis, secretary; and Ben Darsey, publicity.

Sports Material On TC Campus Now Abundant

Here at T. C. where football is no longer an inter-collegiate sport there are a number of items that invite the attention of the sportanic natured.

This year's edition of The Blue Tide Basketball Team is being rounded (or is it pounded?) into shape by Coach Searce and his multitude of managers. With a large nucleus from last year's varsity, transfers from other colleges, and the high school boys coming in, there should be ample material from which to select.

While checking over the records of some to the aspirers for basketball berths an interesting thing was noted. Over a half-dozen of them are former semi-pro or college baseball players. With almost all the members of last year's strong team back and with these welcome newcomers we should field a baseball squad capable of bettering our fine record of only two inter-collegiate losses during the past season.

You lamenting souls who are always deploring the fact that you never get to see the pigskin tossed around at T. C. should go down and observe when the intramurals touch football encounters begin. Of course, you won't see the flying block and rugged tackle, but some of the finer points of the game, such as passing, upfield blocking, and broken field running, will always be the order of the day. As many of you have stated, we have some good football material around here and they should look good even in this artificial game.

Our Guess Is...

The year 1947 will probably go down in history as the year that has upset more football teams and predictions than ever before.

Already there have been so many upsets that one wee's Coach of the Week will be on the following Saturday the coach of the weakest. With such a background as this in mind we will go out on the proverbial limb and prognosticate the results of the coming week's fray.

Georgia over Alabama—Both teams have the potential strength but Georgia looks better.

Tulane over Auburn—The Tide has been weak on aerial defense but Frnka has ironed this difficulty out.

University of N. C. over Florida—This should be easy for Justice & Company.

Ga. Tech over Citadel—Need I say more?

Kentucky over Michigan State—The Wildcats play a daredevil ground game which will take Michigan State.

Vanderbilt over L. S. U.—State has sharp offense but it won't get by that Vandy line.

University of Miss. over Arkansas—Those two aspirers for All-

Women Plan Program Of Athletic Events To Begin Soon

Along with all the news about the masculine side of the sports program is the announcement that the fair sex will soon begin competitive play.

A meeting was held after chapel Friday, October 17, by the Woman's Athletic Association to work out a plan for action. Around six teams were organized to play softball and volleyball. Throughout the year the girls will have a chance to participate in fourteen different activities.

You often hear people talk of the sportsmanlike qualities that are imparted to one by taking part in competitive sports. When making these statements they usually mean the male of the species, but, surely, it is just as important for the young ladies to learn the rudiments of fair play.

American honors, Connerly and Poole will further their records.

Tennessee over Tenn. Tech—At last the Vols get someone they can beat easily.

P. S. We don't claim to have the gift of clairvoyance, so don't put all of your wampum on these tilts.
