Reflective Peer Review Workshop Activity:
Generating Discipline-Specific Questions

As an individual, or in small groups...

1) Describe an assignment that you typically give your students that involves a composition process (lab activities and reports, essays, web publishing, etc.)
2) Create a list of reflective questions that you might assign during a peer review of that activity.
3) Share those questions with us, and tell us how you might revise (or begin to include) peer review activities in your course based on this reflective peer review technique. For example, how might it be most helpful to your discipline? What disciplinary content would this technique assist you in highlighting in your courses?
