Teachers Trounce Jacksonville Navy

The Teachers defeated the Jacksonville Naval Air Station basketball team, 88-68, here Wednesday with a full second team in action much of the fourth quarter.

The Teachers took over after four minutes and stretched the score from 9-7 to 40-33 by half-time. Regulars built up an 82-57 count before being replaced midway the last period.

Leading pointmakers were Ralph Parsons with 24 for the Professors and Bob Grabaz, former Syracuse University, with 22 for the Navy.

The Profs will play Maxwell Field here at 8:15 p. m. Friday.

Ballet Here On Saturday, Jan. 26

The internationally popular Croatian ballerina who was the triumphant guest star of the recent New York season of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo now heads her own dance company, "The Slavenska Ballet Variante," which will be presented at the Teachers College Auditorium on Saturday, January 26, under the auspices of the Statesboro Community Concert Association. Slavenska, forever remembered for her motion picture "Ballerina," is touring from coast to coast under the direction of Columbia Artists Management. One of the few great ballet stars, who is equally gifted as a choreographer, she came to the United States in 1940 as prima ballerina of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, dancing the stellar roles in "Giselle," "Swan Lake," "Scherezade," "Schubertiana" and the Transfigured Night" which she recently recreated in the gala New York season.

Mme. Slavenska's programs for her present tour include works based on the music of Tchaikovsky, Debussy, Cesar Frank, Delibes, folk dances of her native Balkans and a new suit of American folk dances.

Mme. Slavenska and her company have recently returned from a successful tour of South America.

Bob Belton Makes Good With Navy

By HARRY STRICKLAND

Bob Belton, who attended Georgia Teachers College last year and played on the first string frosh team and on the third string varsity, joined the navy during the winter quarter of last year. Bob hails from Eustis, Fla., where he played two years of basketball for Eustis and was named All-District for one year. He also was honorably mentioned on the All-Conference team two years. During his early days of basketball he played at Camp Lejeune High School in North Carolina.

Upon leaving Teachers College, Bob joined the navy. He reported aboard the U. S. Naval Air Station, San Diego, California for duty. Reporting from Naval Auxiliary Air Station, El Centro, Calif., Bob is now assigned to the Special Services Division at the West Coast's largest Naval Air Activity. He enlisted in the navy at Jacksonville, Fla., in January, 1951. Upon arriving at North Island, San Diego, Bob was quick to win a position as forward on the Naval Air Station Skyraiders basketball team. He is coached by Lieut. Hal Boudreau, who came to the Navy via Fordham University. The coach states that the team is a bit short on experience, but long on the old moxie and team spirit that makes a winner.

Bob has the potentialities of a good basketball player and we know he will make good with the Navy Skyraiders. We will be looking for Bob when he is out of the Navy, back in school with us.

Interest Grows In Home Ec.

A growing practical interest in home economics, especially noticeable among men, may warrant the establishment of a basic home economics course for all students in Georgia colleges.

Discussion by home economics teachers in Atlanta last week end has resulted in the commissioning of three regional committees to consider a course in their field suited to the general education program of the colleges.

Miss Margaret Strahlmann, of Georgia Teachers College, is leader of the Southern Committee, which includes members at Georgia Southwestern, Armstrong, South Georgia, Abraham Baldwin, Valdosta State, Savannah State, and Albany State colleges.

Dean's List For Fall Names 78

Seventy-eight of TC's students made the Dean's List for the fall quarter, 1951. There were 53 women as compared with 24 men who were named to the list.

Frosh Dance

The entire campus will turn out this Saturday evening for "A Night with the Kampus Kids." Music will be by the dance band and all freshman will attend dressed in kid costumes. This dance, the first one sponsored by this year's freshman class, promises to be a highly successful one.

Alumni Quarterly Honors Rev. Shafe

A Canadian native who preached his first sermons to tenant farmers in a railroad station near Statesboro and has directed mission schools enrolling 10,000 in the Belgian Congo heads approximately 30 ministerial graduates of Teachers College receiving tribute in the winter number of the college Alumni Quarterly.

Graduated in 1936 after adopting Atlanta as his home, the Rev. Charles C. Shafe was the first alumnus to enter the ministry. He has been pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Athens, Ga., since 1948.

In a pastorate at San Benito, Texas, Mr. Shafe set up a foundation enabling Mexican "Wetbacks" crossing the border to receive the scriptures in their own language for the first time. He previously had received degrees at Columbia Theological Seminary, at Decatur, and served as a pastor in Birmingham, Ala., and as a missionary to the Belgian Congo.

Ashmore Edits Two Articles

Henry L. Ashmore, professor of education at Georgia Teachers College, is the author of two magazine articles which appeared in December. He describes the spring camp of the college laboratory school in the Journal of Education Research and the establishment of the college off-campus teaching program in the Journal of Teacher Education.

Miss Dodson Joins TC Instructors

Miss Glenna Dodson of Arlington, Va., has come to Teachers College from Florida State University as instructor in business education. She replaces Mrs. Edna Brown, who moved to Augusta.

Miss Dodson received the bachelor's degree at Madison College at Harrisonburg, Va., taught for two years at Louisa County High School at Mineral, Va., and then earned the master of science degree at Florida State and was a teacher there in 1951.

Stop Staggering

By CHARLES STEWART

GTC NOW STANDS ALONE as a unit in the University System of Georgia in the continuance of Saturday classes. Recently, G.S.C.W. and the University of Georgia discontinued this seemingly outmoded system of education.

In our thinking, the system of Saturday class which prevails here doesn't make for an efficient learning situation. The stagger system is confusing and pointless!

Let us not fail to mention the fact that it offers many disadvantages to commuters, thereby hurting enrollment. Also, there is the Saturday congestion here, with regular students and adults teacher students flocking to the classrooms.

With wise planning added to the abolition of Saturday class sessions, this day of relative leisure could be turned into constructive channels, with special laboratory periods, field trips, and recreation being among the list of possible activities.

Is It Pointing To You?

By ROBERT HURST

BEFORE THE Christmas holidays a certain English teacher was very displeased, not with her students or their grades, but with their lack of attendance in student programs. And so, for her unceasing effort to promote school activities and school patriotism, I dedicate this article to Miss Ela Johnson.

There is a question that can be asked: "Why don't you attend student concerts and recitals?" Is it because you have work to do and can't attend the programs? Well, that work was put off until just when a concert "came up," and since it was put off that late it can be put off until after the concert. Can it be because you don't like the type of program they are having? Maybe that's because you are not attending enough worthwhile things to acquaint yourself with really something good. There are many reasons that can be found for not going to these recitals but they all "boil down" to just one main one, the "don't care" attitude and when you get in this stage you had better start getting hold of yourself.

The student that prepares these programs work hard and give up many things to bring you entertainment. So why can't you—the student body—support your own classmates, who might become tomorrow's Mario Lanza, Jose Iturbi, Lily Pons, or Rise Stevens. Let's start the year off right in 1952 by attending these student programs.

WHEN YOU COME BACK TO ME

(By Jim Hodges)

My every thought has been of you... Since we have been apart... And every wish that I have made... Concerned my lonely heart... And every moment of each day... I had my dreams of when... The time would come when I would have... You back with me again... For then my love will live again... With your endearing care... And things will be much brighter when... My darling, you are here... My life takes on new meaning as... I witness your embrace... And every secret wish that I... Have wished will find a place... And every lovely dream that lives... Or ever hopes to be... Will be at my command, dear one... When you come back to me.

(By an East Hall Coed)

I know I shouldn't keep on liking him
The way I really do,
For tho' we'd just begun
It seems as if we're through.

He really doesn't love me,
Nor do I truly love him,
For I know not what love is;
This must be a passing whim.

Why should I feel so badly,
And act the way I do
When I see him with someone,
And it's not me he's talking to?

There's no real reason for liking him.
Sometimes I can't understand;
He is a fine boy, though,
And fine boys are in demand.

Mr. John Swint Leaves College

"When your money's gone and spent, borrow some from Ole John Swint."

For this and many other reasons Baptist students of TC will miss Mr. John Swint, who served as their student secretary for the past two years. He exemplified the "Spirit of B.S.U. through his participation with students and leadership in good, clean fun and service to others.

Last quarter, Mr. Swint presented the B.S. with a Bible to be used especially for Twilight programs. As soon as a stand is finished, the Bible will be placed in the auditorium. On one of the Bible leaves he wrote a brief history of Twilight, a short program in the evening, which began in 1947, and one which has been enjoyed by many students.

Former Masquer Sends Check

Officers and members of Masquers are feeling pretty good these days... not because of anything they have done, but because of something a former member of group did.

Robert Allen, whom all of you who were here last year will remember as "Buster" in the much-talked about presentation of William Saroyan's "Don't Go Away Mad," has proved something which many of us wonder about. That is, when a student is no longer with us, does he forget all about us?

Robert has proved that they do, not, for just recently a letter was received from him with a check made out to "Masquers—Georgia Teachers College," and a request that the money be used to keep the club as strong as he remembered it. The money has been used to start a scholarship fund, known as "The Robert Allen Scholarship Fund."

Robert is now with the United States Air Force, and is stationed in England. It will be good to see the day come when Robert returns to TC, which he assures everyone he is going to do, and takes up his duties as a member of Masquers, and again "treads the boards" of our college state, displaying the dramatic ability which he has shown so much promise of having.

Camp Counsellor Openings Listed

Several TC students have spent profitable and enjoyable summers as camp counsellors during the past few years and already requests for camp counsellors and notices of camp vacancies are being received. If interested in summer work of this type, contact Miss Dorothy Hilliard and file an application.

Since most camp positions are filled early in the spring, the third camp leadership course (non-credit) will meet during the winter quarter this year. Thus, an earlier orientation in the philosophy of camping and job analysis will enable beginning counsellors to make better application and selection as well as leaving sufficient time for specialization in the spring quarter.

The course will include, in addition to the above, both a survey and actual practice in general activities for use with camp groups such as group games, singing, dramatics, folk games, outdoor cooking and camping, special activities, etc.

Workers Study

Official sources have announced that only five out of approximately 100 TC students who had work assignments failed to maintain a "C" average fall quarter.

Out of the 78 students named to the fall dean's list, 21 were working students.

The work includes assistants in the various departments, office work, library and dining hall work.

Four Performances For Twelfth Night

By EDITH CARPENTER

If you should chance to meet George I. Parrish, III, and should perchance you hear him mutter, "Be not afraid of greatness; some are born great; some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them"; or should Daniel Upshaw Biggers walk up and state, "Women are roses, whose fair flower being once displayed doth fall that very hour"; or if Barbara Fossett should fix you with a piercing eye and declare, "I am all the daughters of my father's house, and all the brothers, too"; or should you see Jane Seabolt trailing Mike Genevino or the Reverend R. T. Johnson with fascinated ears tuned to listen to their mellow voices, be not afraid, my friend. The truth will out. These peculiarities are only temporary. These people are only Masquers who are preparing themselves for TWELFTH NIGHT, a comedy written by William Shakespeare to be presented March 4, 5, 10 and 11, at the Statesboro Recreation Center.

The play will be arena-style, which means that the actors will be in the center of the room with the audience grouped around in a circle. The four performances of TWELFTH NIGHT, the result of a popular request, are intended to increase the opportunities of the audience to attend. In addition, the actors will, for the first time in college history, have gained practical experience in producing a play for four nights' run.

The play revolves around the difficulties attending the suit of the Duke Orsino (Dan Biggers) for the hand of Olivia (Martha Wood). Olivia, however, has fallen in love with Cesario, (Barbara Fossett) the duke's attendant, who is not a man at all but a shipwrecked girl, Viola, who has disguised herself to search for her lost brother, Sebastian (Jane Seabolt). To make the triangle complete, Viola has fallen in love secretly with the duke. You will want to see the outcome of this merry mix-up.

Tickets will be on sale the last of February according to a special plan to be announced later.

A Bad Case of Eyesores

By MARTHA WOOD

Stop where you are! What do you see? If you are on TC's heart-shaped campus, I will venture to say your eyes do not encounter a pleasant view of well-kept lawns and walks. No, the potentially beautiful face of our beloved campus is marred, horribly so, and we, my friends, are the villains in this dreadful crime. We shrink back, we cry out in protest!

What have we done that was so dastardly? On what grounds are we accused of defacing our beloved campus? But in spite of all our clamorings of innocence, the accusing finger continues to point in our direction. Then we remember with remorse what we did with that candy wrapper on the way home from the little store last night, the method by which we disposed of that quick cigarette between classes, and our heads hang low in shame.

Last quarter a group of energetic students got together and decided to have a campaign to clean up TC. They put on blue jeans, picked up a few pieces of paper, built a big bonfire, made a big fuss, and that ended it. TC was "cleaned up." The next week I counted my usual 154 cigarette butts between Lewis Hall and the library. I found that there was no significant discrepancy in the number of "Baby Ruth" wrappers scattered about. Another of John Doe's English papers was thrown in exactly the same spot its brother had been in the week before.

I am not making fun of the efforts of those few souls who cared enough about the situation to stretch their backs and soil their fingers in order to do something about it. Their work was very worthy and highly commendable. But it is not enough. We cannot hope to accomplish anything great by beginning it with a flourish; playing with it for a few minutes and promptly forgetting it. Keeping TC clean is not a task for a mob of people, it is our own personal responsibility.

Sure, a crowd can have a campaign and pick up all the paper in sight today. But what about tomorrow's paper? Sure, the school can hire a man to keep the grounds, but it is impossible for him to run along behind each of us with his little wastebasket and catch any offerings of trash we may chance to have.

No, my friends, only until you and you and you become to interested in keeping TC near that you search diligently for an ash can in which to dump your chewing gum wrapper, only until you care enough to soil your own fingers to pick up that stray bit of paper some other thoughtless soul has cast away, only until you have fortitude enough to poke your roommate in the eye when he starts to flick his cigarette butt on the ground in front of the library can we hope to see any lasting improvement in the appearance of TC's grounds.

"What the heck do I care anyway?" you ask. "What difference does it make to me whether TC is a dump heap or a veritable paradise? I paid my money to get an education and that's what I aim to do. It matters not one iota whether I must wade through seas of trash or fields of flowers in order to get it."

Stop and think. Did you ever have an acquaintance who was just a marvelous fellow in most respects? He was brilliant, cheerful, friendly, kindly, considerate, entertaining, and interesting. Oh, he had ever so many outstanding attributes. In one area only did he fall down. He was just a little bit careless about how often he took a bath, brushed his teeth, and combed his hair. In spite of all he had to offer, you just could not enjoy being around him. There is something in the human soul that is repulsed by uncleanness.

Well, we can enjoy our college if it is littered with trash and filth just about as much as we can our friend with B.O. Try as we might, we cannot get the full benefits or pleasures from our college life if our campus has a dirty face.

Now that you and you and you have begun to think, perhaps some progress can be made. If each of you will regard keeping TC's potentially lovely face well-groomed to meet the world as your personal responsibility, our goal will be achieved. Then the next time some one confronts you with the same injunction as I did at the beginning of this editorial you will not be tempted to shut your eyes and look away. You will be able to look around you and behold TC, spick and span in all her glory, and know that you have been responsible for it.

Sonny Dykes Now Enrolled at TC

A. R. (Sonny) Dykes of Cochran, lately of the University of Georgia basketball team, has enrolled at Georgia Teachers College but will not be a candidate for the Teacher cage squad.

A senior forward, Dykes was eligible to return to studies at the University but had been dropped from the team because he failed two courses in the Fall Quarter. He is ineligible for play here for the same reason.

Dykes said he plans to continue work for a degree at the Teachers College. He was brought to Statesboro by his brother, Tom Dykes, of Woodbury, former Teachers College athlete.

TC Profs. Run Score Up To 104 Over Pelzer Five

Paced by Jim (Legs) Duncan, Ralph (Fireball) Parsons and Randy (Pick) Whaley, the Profs romped to victory over the Pelzer Bears in Williamston, S. C., 104 to 96.

At the end of the first quarter Pelzer led TC by the score of 26 to 21, with Wooten and Hill taking the lead in scoring. During the second quarter the Profs eased up alongside the Bears to put themselves one point in the lead at half time, the fight consisting mostly between the two big centers, Pick Whaley and Truman Hill, with Duncan and Wooten of Pelzer scoring at will.

At the end of the third period Pelzer had nosed out in front by a score of 68 to 64. With four minutes to go, Pelzer was in the lead by six points which Parsons and Whaley overcame in the exciting minutes remaining. With 35 seconds to play, the score was tied up and Parsons hit to put the Teachers two points ahead.

In the final second of the game Wooten turned loose a long shot from the center of the court, the horn going off while the ball was in the air, and tied the score 90 to 90. Arguments concerning whether the ball had left Wooten's hands was no deciding factor after Referee Crawford said the goal was good and the game would go into a five-minute overtime. Sparked by the will to win, the Profs pushed the ball through the net for 14 points while Pelzer could only get six. The game ended with Teachers College breaking the 100-mark for the first time this season, 104 to 96.

Profs. Will Be Up For Post Xmas

The TC basketball team will be "up" for its after-Christmas schedule. They now have Center Randolph Whaley, who became eligible just before a charity exhibition with Camp Gordon and proved himself to be more than just a six-foot, nine-inch boy.

Whaley's long arms reached in to all corners, and he made shots every way as the Teachers handed Gordon its first loss, 94-78. The Pelzer, S. C. freshman hooped 19 points in 30 minutes.

With Whaley the Profs have come alive as a ball-hawking, synchronized quintet that may yet preserve a five-year tradition here for improved teams.

Without him they had won five games over only fair opposition and lost two. Both setbacks were by the Parris Island Marines, probably the most highly rated club in the Deep South (Dunkel.)

The squad also should have John Renfro, senior forward who missed the second Marine and Gordon encounters. Renfro makes it a senior line-up with the exception of Whaley.

No height, but plenty of life, however, was lost recently when little O'Neal Register, who sparked Irwinville High School to a championship last season, became ineligible for play during the winter quarter. Coach J. B. Scarce Jr. said Register, a reserve guard, will have to bring up his grades to meet the college requirements. Register's inactivity will reduce the squad to 14 men.

Profs. Take Two In South Georgia

The Professors, invading South Georgia during the latter part of the holidays, came out with two victories, defeating Turner Air Force Base 95 to 65 and Moody Air Force Base 80 to 34.

Boney Phillips, former high school star of Albany High School, displayed to his hometown fans the kind of basketball that he played while in school. Although he was not high scorer, he played a wonderful game and ended up with 13 points to his credit. Sonny Clements received high scoring honors with 25 points, trailed by Jim Duncan who had 21.

Ralph (Fireball) Parson led the Profs to victory over Moody Air Force Base with 17 points. Substituting freely, TC claimed an easy win by the score of 80 to 34. Whaley hit for 14 points and Bob Short made nine.

GEORGIA—Sunday and Monday: "RHUBARB." Ray Milland and Jan Sterling co-star in this story of a tomcat, a millionaire, and a baseball team—with hilarious results. Gene Lockhart is the eccentric moneybags who owns a baseball team, takes a fancy to a tomcat, dies, and leaves the team and $30,000,000 to the tomcat, Rhubarb, who takes his place among the other onery, beloved animal character of the screen like "Francis" and "Harvey." Rhubarb is a vicious 16-pound ball of fur, and the complications he causes as mascot to the ball team will still keep you laughing after you've seen it.

"TWO TICKETS TO BROADWAY" (Thurs. & Fri.) Howard Hughes presents the best musical of the year to date—the glittering, song-studded, dance-filled story of four showgirls, a young singer, and their tricky booking agent who hit the bigtime on Broadway. In Technicolor, "Two Tickets to Broadway" stars Tony Martin, Janey (Sexy) Leigh, Gloria DeHaven, Eddie Bracken, dancing Ann Miller, Barbara Lawrence and Bob Crosby. Among the songs are "There's No Tomorrow," "Pagliacci," and other favorites. All in all, this is the best entertainment of the week.

DRIVE-IN—Monday and Tuesday: "THE GREAT CARUSO." Back for a return engagement is one of the greatest musicals M-G-M has ever filmed—the real-life story of Enrico Caruso, the most beloved tenor of all time. Mario Lanza, the fastest-rising star in the entertainment world, is Caruso, and Ann Blyth is his wife, Dorothy. This picture concentrates less on plot (with its two dozen operatic num-

T. C. Band Gives Concert January 14

During the band concert to be presented in chapel Monday, January 14, compositions arranged by students in Mr. Broucek's arranging and scoring class will be introduced. Each of the following pupils will conduct their own arrangement: Sonny Hawkins, Russ Everitt, and Bill Fox. Margie Weatherford's arrangement will also be presented.

One of the main numbers of the concert will be the introduction of a new fight song for TC. The following words to the song will be given out as students enter the auditorium:

"Stand up and cheer,
Cheer loud and long for our Professors,

For today we raise
The blue and white above the rest,

"Our team is fighting
And they are bound to even this fray.

We got the team, rah rah,
We got the team, rah rah!
For this is our Professors' day."

TC Gets Two New Basketball Men

The Georgia Teachers College basketball squad has two new players to fill two vacated uniforms.

Hal Griner, sophomore guard of Savannah, is back after being out of college in the Fall Quarter, and Bobby Driggers of Glennville, with a Brewton-Parker Junior College background, is another hopeful at forward.

They replace O'Neal Register, reserve freshman guard of Irwinville, lost because of study difficulties, and James Hutto, Fort Valley center, who gave way to ailing ankles but who remains a student. Hutto, a six-foot, six-inch transfer from Young Harris (Junior) College, hopes to be ready for action next season.

TC Adult Classes Begin January 15

Declaring a Fall Quarter venture successful, the Industrial Education Department at Teachers College announced today another adult evening class to meet each Tuesday from 7 p. m. to 10 p. m. for 10 weeks, beginning January 15.

The class is open to adults in this area but will be limited according to available facilities. John H. Erickson, industrial education chairman, has asked that interested persons telephone 65M to make reservations or obtain information about the course. The fee for membership will be $8.00, or a total of $12.00 where both man and wife join.

It will not be exactly a class, Mr. Erickson said, but more of a guided activity or hobbycraft program in shop work, carrying no college credit. Facilities are available for furniture refinishing, furniture construction, upholstery, art metal, sheet metal, and other craft activities.

Edgar C. Godfrey, Jr., assistant professor of industrial arts, will be the teacher.

Recreation Plans After Supper Hour

The schedule for the after supper recreation hour jointly sponsored by the Student Council and the WAA for the winter quarter is tentatively announced as follows (availability of the gym permitting):

Monday — Social recreation (group games, musical mixers, etc.).

Tuesday — Record dancing.
Wednesday — Square dancing (instruction followed by dancing; a new dance each night).

Thursday or Friday — Record dancing (depending upon availability of gym).

Other activities may be arranged provided there is sufficient interest to warrant use of space and leadership. Those desiring other activities should make their wishes known to either of the sponsoring organizations.

Yvonne Jones Is New SC Secretary

Miss Yvonne Jones, sophomore of Waycross and runner-up for secretary of the student council in the past spring election, is now serving in that office because of the graduation of Miss Betty Ann Withrow. Miss Anne Trice, also a runner-up in that election, is now on the council, serving as a member-at-large.

James Little Scores Big in History Test

A blind freshman with an eye open to learning made the only perfect score on map study exercises in his history class at TC last quarter.

James S. Little of Brunswick scored above 38 normal classmates on the very questions where good vision should have counted most.

Dr. Thomas B. Alexander, social science chairman, gave Little the map tests orally, using classroom display maps instead of the usual test-size miniatures.

Little, 21, a graduate of Georgia Academy for the Blind at Macon, has less than 25 percent of normal vision. An "A" student, he hopes to become a teacher of history.

DR. WATSON ATTENDS NASHVILLE MEETING

Dr. Georgia Watson, chairman of Teacher Education and Professional Standards in the Teachers College chapter of the Georgia Education Association, will be in Nashville, Tenn., Monday for the Teacher Education and Professional Standards meeting of the National Education Association, a school for the blind.

WAA Cake Walk Next Saturday Nite

A novelty dance using the theme of the "Cake Walk" is being planned by the WAA for Saturday night, January 19.

And just what is a cake walk, other than walking for a cake?

According to the Encyclopedia Americana: "A CAKE WALK is a dance originating in the deep south dating back to days of slavery. The original cake walk was performed with couples forming a hollow square, men on the inside. Couples walk in square formation, stepping high and being careful to turn corners with great precision. Judges award as a prize a highly decorated cake to the couple displaying the most ease and grace. There are modern modifications of this dance, etc."

Many leading colleges have seen the possibilities of the latter and the annual "Cake Walk" has become traditional and one of the big events of the year. Such is hoped will be the case at GTC.

The evening's activity will be varied and offers opportunity for both dancers and non-dancers to "walk for the cake" in many novelty dances and figure promenades between the regular dance numbers. The highlight of the evening will be the "couple cake walk," patterned after the original dance to decide the best "steppers of 1952" and the "strutting" of various campus clubs and organization in competition for the "cake of cakes."

Custom dictates that every person attending occupy a "prize cake" seat and participate with this number in the Grand Cake Walk; also (suggested, but optional) that groups, both large or small, attend as a unit in identical dress or costume, thus adding color and Mardi-Gras atmosphere.

DKG Society Meets Jan. 16

The first meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma for the winter quarter will be held on January 16 at the home of Miss Marie Wood, with Mrs. Juanita Abernathy and Mrs. Marjorie Guardia as co-hostesses.

Delta Kappa Gamma is a national honor society for women educators, with an active chapter in Bulloch county.

At the last meeting of the fall quarter four new members, Misses Ruth Bolton, Sally Riggs, Dorothy Stewart, and Georgia Watson, were initiated. The initiation meeting was a banquet, served in the dining hall of Teachers College, followed by the impressive initiation ceremony held in one of the parlors of East Hall.

Twenty-one teachers from Georgia Teachers College, Statesboro High School, and Bulloch county schools make up the membership of Eta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma. In addition to the newly initiated, the following are members.

Mrs. Juanita Abernathy, Miss Marjorie Crouch, Mrs. Marjorie Guardia, Mrs. Ida Groover, Mrs. Lula Hughes, Miss Ela Johnson, Miss Sophie Johnson, Miss Velma Kemp, Miss Elizabeth Kessler, Miss Reta Lindsey, Miss Edna Luke, Miss Hassie McElveen, Miss Leona Newton, Mrs. Fronita Roach, Mrs. Ethel Smith, Miss Maud White and Miss Marie Wood.

MISS MEEKS ACCEPTS POSITION IN SOPERTON

Miss Madlyn Meeks, TC graduate of 1951, assumed duties with the Soperton band January 1. A business education major, Miss Meeks was one-time president of West Hall House Council.
