Concert Band Prepares Recital For February 28

This quarter the Concert Band has prepared a recital that will please even the non-musical students at TC.

According to Band Director Dana M. King, this concert, to be presented February 28, is designed for the listeners. "Though it contains its share of 'heavy' music, this part of the program has so much melody that even the most tone-deaf student will find it enjoyable," Mr. King explained.

This program will be highlighting the American classic by George Gershwin, "Rhapsody in Blue," with a piano solo by Mr. Jack Broucek. Band Director King says that this is the most difficult selection the band has ever attempted.

The haunting strains of "We Kiss in the Shadow" will be the big crowd appeaser of the evening. It will be presented along with the entire score from the hit musical, "The King and I," by Rogers and Hammerstein.

The "Weber Suite," as the band presents it is so typical of the eighteenth century that it makes one actually see hoopskirts and white wigs.

A most familiar melody will be recognized by most of the audience when the "Adante Cantabile" from the Fifth Symphony by Tschaiowsky is played. This is the best known melody written by that composer. Another tune well recognized by TC students will be Mr. King's arrangement of the "Alma Mater."

Marches will be represented by the rendition of "Barnum and Bailey Favorites," which is the entrance march used by most circuses, and the "Band of America March," the theme song of Paul Lavall's Band of America radio.

In the more popular vein, "Serenata," by Leroy Anderson, who wrote "Sleigh Ride" and "Fiddle Faddle," will be presented. Mr. Anderson is one of America's most popular composers. The concert will have no admission charge.

Besides doing all this work, the band is now preparing a 50-number tour repertoire that will be used in 25 concerts all over the state.

Dr. Stratemeyer To Conduct Meet

Dr. Florence Stratemeyer of Columbia University, leading authority on student teacher supervision, will conduct a two-day conference here next Friday and Saturday. She will work with TC's on- and off campus supervising teachers, forming a part of their service training program.

Dr. Stratemeyer is a member of the Laureate Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi. This organization is composed of 50 leading educators in the United States.

The meeting will be based on planning and evaluating the work of student teachers. Dr. Stratemeyer will be honored at a formal banquet given by Kappa Delta Pi Friday night.

Teachers College To Get New Bus

Around March 1 delivery should be made on a new bus for the college. The bus will have a seating capacity normally of 29, but will hold 35 without crowding. Additional seats may be added in the future to push the seating capacity to 41.

The bus body will be made by the Waye Works in Richmond, Ind., and will be placed on an International Harvester chassis. The body will feature leather reclining seats, a green interior, and the outside will be white trimmed in blue. It will also contain a radio.

Miss Bettye Hendrix 'TC Cover Girl of 1952'

Miss Bettye Hendrix, sophomore of East Hall began her reign as "TC Cover Girl of 1952" tonight when she won first place in the sixth annual Beauty Revue, produced again this year by Alpha Rho Tau. Miss Hendrix was escorted by Mr. Fred Pierce and sponsored by the "T" Club.

MISS BETTYE HENDRIX
"TC Cover Girl of 1952"

Miss Lois Johnson and Miss Ann Nevil tied for second place. Miss Yvonne Jones and Miss Joyce Vaughn complete the queen's court, capturing fourth and fifth places.

Miss Jo Starr, "TC Sweetheart of 1951," crowned Miss Hendrix as she posed on the cover of a blue and white Co-ed magazine. This climaxed the fourth act of a gay evening in which twenty-four co-eds dreamed of being TC's Cover Girls.

Miss Ann Nevil, who was escorted by Jimmie Oliver, and Miss Lois Johnson, escorted by Marvin Barnett, tied for second place, and were sponsored by the Home Economics Club and Lewis Hall, respectively.

Miss Yvonne Jones, fourth place Cover Girl, was escorted by David Hill and sponsored by the B. S. U. Winning fifth place, Miss Joyce Vaughn was escorted by Johnny Patterson and sponsored by the Organ Guild.

Jim Hodges wrote and read the poetical adaptation to the script. The review was introduced by Jimmie Wells.

BEAUTY CROWN DESIGNED AND MADE BY TC STUDENTS

The crown used for the coronation of "Miss TC of 1952" was appropriate for the college royal higness, because it was designed and made by students—Betsy Tippins, Melba McAllister, Jackie Simpson and Hazel Jarrell.

The crown features rhinestones and pearls on dark blue velvet. Many of the jewels were donated by students.

Dan Young, Jerry Silverman, Lester Davis, Peter Norboge, and Dan Biggers assisted in the first act. It was set in a little soda shop where all the co-eds came after classes. All the boys and girls were talking on this day about who would be selected Campus Cover girl. In the first act, the girls appeared in skirts and sweaters, for the first time in the history of the Beauty Revue.

Featured on the stage in the second act was a long, winding ramp, on which the girls descended to meet their escorts for the first time in the evening. For this occasion, each girl was appropriately dressed in evening attire.

As suspense mounted higher in the third act, 10 girls remained in the review. These co-eds stepped out of the pages of Co-ed Magazine to meet their escorts.

In the last scene the five winners were shown framed in the magazine covers of Vogue, Charm, Glamour, Co-ed, and Bazzarr.

Miss Dorothy Stewart directed the acting and Mr. Jack Broucek provided a background of organ music for the revue. Judges were Mrs. Jack Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seyel, all of Savannah.

This year's production again shows Mrs. Johnson as a beauty queen house mother. A girl from her dormitory, East Hall, has won the revue every year since it began.

Decorations were made by Miss Roxie Remley's advanced educational art 304 class. Miss Remley and Miss Frieda Gernant, Alpha Tau sponsors, served as general production directors.

Acting as ushers were Peggy Jo Burke, Cherrell Williams, Faye Waters, Betty B. Brannen, Ann Broome, and Betty Parrish.

TC Wins Over Erskine, 78-61

Georgia Teachers College, determined to make good these last few days of basketball, put away another victory by defeating Erskine College, 78 to 61. Jim Duncan handled the pivot slot alone, and netted 20 points to take top scoring honors for the Professors.

The first half looked as though it would be a fast ball game with the Erskine Fleet running with the Profs, something they did not do in the previous meeting of the two clubs. Sonny Clements proved his art of hitting the hole the first half to come out of his scoring slump. At the end of the first half, TC led the Flying Fleet, 41 to 25.

The third quarter, Erskine, sparked by Cathers, showed that they had not yet given up the fight and came within a small range of the Professors. In the fourth quarter, score reading 58 to 46, Coach Scearce put in Bobby Phillips to help Duncan on the board. Phillips sank seven points to prove his eagerness to get into the fight. Robinson, a gentleman capable of being a scoring threat, kept up the fight with Cathers to sink 17 points.

TC Appropriation Increased $42,000

An increase of $42,000, announced this week, will give TC an appropriation of $312,000 from the University System for the next college year. College administrators said the additional amount will permit necessary salary adjustments and maintenance of present services in the face of rising costs of operation.

Ann Nevil Gives Report at Meeting

Ann Nevil, TC junior, presented a report before the Home Economics Business Association meeting held in Atlanta last week end. Angelyn Brantley, Jeanette Mathew and Miss Ruth Bolton also attended the meeting.

The representatives were entertained at the "Ice Follies" and went on field trips, appeared on a TV program, and participated in many other activities. The conference purpose was to study careers open to Home Economics majors. The conference headquarters was Emory University.

Repair Work Being Done On T.C. Swimming Pool

Work was recently begun on the renovation program which will have the college pool in top condition in time for spring swimming. The work will be completed around the first of April.

A steel fence, similar to the one installed on the front campus, will be set back six feet from the pool's edge. This space between the far end of the pool and the fence will be concreted for sun-bathing. The remainder of the area is to be planted in grass, and several benches will be placed nearby.

Under consideration is a plan to tear down the old bathhouses on the street side of the enclosure and to replace them with a concrete shower room on the side nearest the gym. The entrance will also be on that side. New floodlights are to be installed to light up the pool for summer night swimming.

In renovating the pool itself, all paint will be scraped away and the cracks filled. It will then be repainted.

Approximately $2,000 will be spent for these repairs and improvements to the pool. The project was delayed in the past because the college was waiting until such a time as now, when they would be able to do a complete job.

Water Coolers For All Dorm Floors

Water coolers will be installed soon for all floors in the various dormitories and gymnasium. They have been ordered and will arrive in the near future, Donald McDougald, comptroller, announces. This will end the days of students walking all the way to the first floor for cool water.

Masquers Design Own Costumes

Cloaks and capes, doublets and hose, bustles, veils, jerkins, swirling fifteenth century skirts—these are being produced nightly in the lonely confines of the Masquers' room. Since Bill Fox is designing the original costumes for the Masquers play, "Twelfth Night," dress designing has become the most popular pastime on the campus.

With curtain time of the play drawing nearer, original creations are turning up everywhere—not exactly on a production schedule, but with all the excitement attending the first showing of the new Paris models.

Displays of these costume originals may be seen in the show windows of Henry's, Minkovitz', and the Georgia Power Company during the week beginning February 25.

Miss Strahlman Attends Meeting

Miss Margaret Strahlman, head of the Home Economics Department, represented TC at the Southern Regional Home Economics Conference which was held in New Orleans last week. "Improvement of Teacher Education in Home Economics" was the theme of the meeting.

For many reasons this was no ordinary conference. In speaking of the trip, Miss Strahlman mentioned dinner at Antoine's, trips through the French Quarters, tours, traveling up the Mississippi, antique shops, and many more New Orleans attractions which she enjoyed on her first trip to that city.

"Because of the opportunities to see so many old French buildings and to sample some of that famous cooking, New Orleans is a wonderful place for a Home Economics meeting," Miss Strahlman was quick to point out. Included in her eventful schedule for the week was a shopping, exploring trip through one of the oldest French markets in the world.

The conference featured talks by many prominent leaders in Home Economics. A variety of procedures, such as lectures, discussions, and other forms of group work was used in the meeting.

Why Saturday Classes?

WHAT A DIFFERENCE it would make if students and faculty were allowed one free day a week! Elimination of the stagger system would most positively be advantageous to practically all students. They would be able to prepare their studies, their clothing, and their thoughts for the next week. The morale and efficiency of the entire college would be boosted by having one day in which to relax.

Is our stagger system fair to the commuters? These students have family, social, and civic obligations to their home communities and need one day to devote to these. Making them come six days to classes causes unnecessary wear and tear on cars and human resources.

Is a six day class week fair to the instructors? Our instructors have often been criticized because they don't engage in more professional writing. How are they going to find time for such writing unless they have one day free?

Are the Saturday class students being given a fair deal? A much better program could probably be offered to them if it were not for the stagger system, because more instructors would be available to teach these classes.

The latest release from the George-Anne office concerning Saturday classes for regular students can be summarized briefly: THUMBS DOWN!

The Staff Is Crazy

About that Danish pudding: This is the official name of the pineapple nut desert which is served occasionally in the dining hall. The students wouldn't mind being treated to that eight days a week!

About the flower spots: We like the small gardens which several people have been cultivating around the campus. Be sure to notice the one at the library which Miss McElveen is responsible for, East Hall's by Mrs. Johnson, West Hall's by Mrs. Jackson, Ad building's by Miss Norman, and Lewis Hall's by Miss Veasey.

About the dining hall atmosphere: We like the smiles and cheerful faces of the dining hall workers as we walk through the line. It makes the food taste much better.

Going to the Post Office: The Strangers, Sr. and Jr., are the kind of postmaster that we prefer. We like to hear the encouraging reasons and smiles which they offer as compensation for our empty mail boxes.

About seeing the flag flying: We like the way it fits into out TC picture. It seems to belong there in the center of the campus, waving proudly, symbolizing all the things we believe in. However we don't like to see it flying in the rain or at night.

About the Home Economics rooms: That parlor seems to represent everything which is cultured and beautiful.

About the friendly welcome which we receive at the film library: We like the way everyone greets us with a smile and a cheerful word over there.

About Duncan, Parsons, Clements, and Renfro: These basketball players have contributed much to making the Blue Tide a team that students enjoy bragging about.

About YOU: We like the way you smile, the way you fit here at T. C., and the way you make it so much more enjoyable to live here.

Linebreaking Is Unfair Practice

Something must be done!

How do you feel when you walk in the dining hall and fall in at the end of the line? Do you enjoy standing there while a crowd of students walk in an nonchalantly saunter up to the head of the line?

The lines in the dining hall usually present a strange-looking sight. It looks like some ultra football play, with students shifting back and forth, and breaking through the line.

Some of them have perfected a flashy technique. One of a crowd runs interference and opens up a hole in the line while the others follow closely behind. Some lone students make spectacular runs from the door to the head of the line, sidestepping and pushing students off from the right and from the left.

More often, the scene looks like a huge litter of pigs, who have been starved for several days. Is this collegiate?

This is not a responsibility of the faculty, administration, maintenance department, or any other department at TC. It's a STUDENT problem. Something must be done!

MY FIRST AND ONLY POEM

By GEORGE PARRISH JR.

Little Jack Horner
Sat in a corner

LOST: A large quantity of cool, sparkling water. One student rushed eagerly up to the water fountain in the ad building for the ninety-seventh time in the past month—hunting this lost article. If found, please return as soon as possible. TC people, being of a conventional-minded variety, still expect to find water bubbling up when they turn on a water cooler.

LOST

LOST: One rather large bottle of brown-colored glass, conspicuous label and definite odor. This vessel, which served as the only decoration in the otherwise bare George-Anne office, is absolutely necessary to the morale of the newspaper workers. If found, return to the G-A office.

Have You Heard?

The Ford twins have acquired new names, Queen A and Queen B. Are you sure you know which is which, Gene?

Did you see Jo Ann Surrency and Joe Sullivan playing marbles on the tennis court recently?

Observed in the library browsing room: Miss Newton impatiently waiting the arrival of Mr. Flanders for a committee meeting. At the time Mr. F. had just been removed from his appendix.

Mr. and Mrs. Limbo Phillips, former T. C. students, recently visited the campus.

Peter Norboge went to Milledgeville to see "Twelfth Night." Is this all that he saw?

"Looks like corn planting time," Mose said, as he stood looking up at the blue skies of that spring day we had last Tuesday.

Happy birthday, Higg. Did you enjoy your surprise party? Birthday greeting also to Queen A. and Queen B. And Betty Hart.

Joe Ed, who WAS that letter from? And on BLUE stationery at that!

The Combo In Demand

By CHERRELL WILLIAMS

The strains of "Stardust" come from the distance (the gym) and everyone knows the dance band is at work again. The Professors are an organization that we, as a student body, can be proud of. The dance band, composed of your friends and classmates, is in demand for dances all over the state.

Many prefer them above professional organizations. Perhaps this is because the members are so versatile. Many of them can and do play several instruments, and thus make it possible for them to literally be in two places at once, in perhaps, the form of a trio and the "Combo."

This year they and Mr. Dana M. King, their director, are working under a handicap; one of the most valuable members graduated, and they have less money to work with, therefore they have had to cut down in size. In spite of these drawbacks, the Professors have greatly improved recently. The attribute their advances to YOU, the students. In other words, they appreciate your attendance at dances during the entire year.

The band members average two or three dollars a night for dances at the gym, and ten to fifteen dollars for outside engagements. We should appreciate the time and talent they give to us instead of leaving the campus for more lucrative engagements.

New, Larger Boiler To Be Installed

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of ... a new boiler for Sanford Hall. Since this is leap year spring the young men will be too tired after a day of running away from the women to think of going to the gym for hot water.

The administration became gravely concerned over the approach of this season and the strain that it will add to the erratic boilers of Sanford Hall. The Sanfordites seem to demand better boiler service in order to spruce themselves up so that they can continue to appeal to the charming young ladies.

Rallying forth with a solution, the administration is offering a new boiler, with twice the capacity of the old one. It is to be installed during spring holidays so that the young men will not waste a moment of spring.

Remember...

So you think YOU have problems! One of the girls recently received a letter from a sixteen-year-old cousin, which was a profound description of his trouble (who is five fee, three inches, with brown eyes). It illustrates the way many people felt when they had their first quarrel with their first "steady." Remember?

It began like this:

Well, I feel like I'm to the end of the road. I don't care what happens. I wish the world would end. I don't even want to live. I wish I had someone to turn to—but I haven't.

Who knows what will happen—if I die, there wouldn't be anyone to care.

If everything turns out as I think it will, I never intend to go with another girl the rest of my life. If I hadn't been with one, I wouldn't feel the way I do now.

I can't keep my mind on anything long enough to do it. Time has given out on me—for good, I hope.

YOUR MISERABLE COUSIN.

GEORGIA (Thurs.-Fri.), "THE BLUE VEIL."

Jane Wyman gives her greatest performance in one of the top five movies of 1951—a magnificently human drama with a stellar cast: Charles Laughton, Joan Blondell, Richard Carlson, Agnes Moorehead, Don Taylor and Audrey Totter. Miss Wyman portrays the unforgettable Louise, who had to choose between a wedding veil and the blue veil; and devoted her life to taking care of other people's babies to compensate for the husband and baby she lost. The film covers a period of thirty years and is told in four episodes, with a wonderful climax. You'll never forget it.

STATE (Wed., - Thurs.), "TOMORROW IN ANOTHER DAY."

Ruth Roman and Steve Cochran are two people against the world in this drama of a man, who, after having spent most of his life in prison, gets a cold reception from society until he takes a chance with a taxi-dancer. Circumstances force them into murder and from there on out they try for happiness with each other, as fugitives from the law. But it all works out, and they can face tomorrow unafraid at the end. More human drama than violence in this.

DRIVE-IN (Wed. - Thurs), "RAWHIDE."

Tyrone Power and Susan Hayward co-star in the best Western of the year, with the emphasis on suspense rather than ridin' and shootin'. "Rawhide" is the explosive story of a man and a woman and a baby held captive in a lonely stagecoach station in the desert by a vicious gang of escaped convicts—Hugh Marlowe, Jack Elam, and Dean Jagger. The plot is a series of incidents relating to their attempts to get to the pistol behind the watering trough, and it'll keep you on the edge of the seat. It is climaxed by a slam-bang gunfight between Power and the outlaws—in which the baby wanders out into the crossfire. Whether you care for Westerns or not, this is a tense, realistic epic you'll go for. And Elam is the dirtiest villain since Widmark.

Jo Starr, Shirley Gullidge, Eunetta Purvis and Loretta Green advise George Parrish: "Oh, father, don't get in such a state. The damage wasn't great, papa, oh, dear papa." THE RED MILL, March 6. (Adv.)

Duncan, Renfro, Clements, Parsons, Sparkplugs of Profs, Play Last Game

By HARRY STRICKLAND

For the past four years Georgia Teachers College has presented its fans with basketball teams that have started a development of top rating basketball that Teachers College never had in the past. For the past three years, T. C. has produced basketball teams that have acclaimed recognition all over the nation as the top scoring team in the National Association Inter-collegiate Basketball. Last year we paid tribute to one of the individuals that was responsible for Georgia Teachers College being on the top, Scotty Perkins. This year as the season comes to a close, the rest of those individuals contributing their efforts to make this season one that can be put in the record books along with the other years that have made this college famous for its basketball.

It is always said that first come, first serve, and of this part Sonny Clements' records unfolds to prove his contribution to making of the reputation that this college holds. Sonny Clements, who came to Georgia Teachers College in the fall of 1948, started a career of basketball that will never fade out in the memories of the students of Georgia Teachers College. His freshman year he was the only freshman on the squad and scored a total of 141 points for the season. His sophomore year he improved as the season grew and ended up with 249 points. His Junior year he displayed his ability at forward and guard and scored 341 points. This year, as you all know, Captain Sonny has developed into a basketball player that any coach would be proud to have on his squad. Up until this last game he has scored a total of 366 points. Congratulations Sonny and may you always remember this last game of your college career.

Jim Duncan, has been acclaimed on the Georgia All-State Second team of 1950-51, has captured every sport loving fans heart with his natural ability to play. Jim came to Georgia Teachers College in the fall of 1949 to get a college education. After persuasion to go out for the college team, Jim decided that he liked the game and would develop it for the love he had for sports. Although he was everything but impressive the first year, he continued striving for the success of playing. He was spectacular in a strange sort of way, but produced unimpressive results in the beginning. After he was given his opportunity as one of the first five, he proved what he had been working toward. He scored 153 points his first year. During the next season, he took up improving where he left off and finished the season with a total of 428 points, second to Scotty Perkins, high scorer for the year. This year, Jim has led the team all through the season in scoring. He, too, has contributed his ability to the making of another team to go down in the record books beside the others. Up until this last game, Jim has scored 436 points. We hope Jim will look back on this year as the year that he has reached the height of his ambition.

Ralph Parsons, who has acquired the name of "Fireball" for his continuous fight for the game, will always be remembered by the students at Georgia Teachers College. In September of 1949, Ralph came to TC to join his brother, Roger, to help produce for this college better basketball, which he has accomplished in all respects. His first year at TC he scored a total of 257 points to set a pace for a first-year man. His second year, playing with the absence of his brother, Ralph proved that family had no ties on him and pushed up is record with a total of 349 points.

This year the "Fireball" has helped put another chapter in the books for Georgia Teachers College. Going into the game Saturday night he has scored 381 points. May this last game be his best.

The last, but not least, is Johnny Renfro. Johnny is known at this college and in this section for his ability to give when the going is rough. Johnny has played a good brand of ball ever since he has been in high school. Knowing the game, he has sparked a record of breaking the single season scoring record at Cumberland Junior College. He entered Georgia Teachers College in the fall of 1950 and brought with him the art of playing basketball. His performance as a ball player has plenty of drive and determination to be on the winning side, and especially when the chips are down. During the 1950-51 season, Johnny scored 305 points.

Baseball Begins At Teachers College

College baseball is on the way up at Georgia Teachers College after several years in the doldrums. This is Coach Clements third year as baseball coach and already he can see signs of new enthusiasm and improvement all along the line.

Because of the distance from school to school, it is very difficult to stir up enthusiasm among the students and it has been noted by all colleges that attendance at college baseball games in the past years has been very poor. This is a challenge to all students who are interested in good sports.

Perhaps the biggest problem for the coaches is getting the team into condition. Many players come directly from a hard basketball season, and are used to quick stopping and starting. Another problem is that much time must be spent each season sizing up freshman players so that their ability as a player can be shown.

With greater cooperation from the students at Georgia Teachers College, and a push from the newspapers, which has been very poor in the past two years, Baseball is here to stay at T. C. and every student can be one of those who will contribute to the growing of college baseball.

Joan Bennett, Betty Bedingfield End 4-Year Period as Cheerleaders Saturday

This Saturday night will mark a four year period of serving as cheerleaders at Georgia Teachers College for Joan Bennett and Betty Bedingfield. Being a cheerleader for four years is indeed an honor because each year they have to try out on competitive basis against younger competition.

Looking over these two girls records we have estimated that they have led over 1,000 yells to the Professors. Sometimes it wasn't easy especially on the games that were played away from home that they wanted to go to, so by hook or crook they obtained a ride to the destination of the game and rooted the home team to victory the majority of the times, then they would stagger home all hours of the night but with a smile of satisfaction on having accomplished their mission.

During the four years these girls served for the basketball team, they have traveled to Tampa, Fla. to boost the team to victory in the N. A. I. B. tournaments. They traveled again the next year to Jacksonville with the team of cheerleaders to try again to get the locals to Kansas City. Other places that they have followed the team has been Presbyterian College, Erskine College, Paris Island, Mercer University and games around this vicinity.

So while you are taking time out for the basketball boys that are graduating, lets attend the game Saturday night and give these girls the support in cheering like they have never heard before.

Pick Whaley Is Suspended

Pick Whaley, ace center for the Professors, will not be permitted to play in the remaining ball game of the season, Coach Scarce has announced. However, Whaley will play in next year's season and will continue his education here at TC.

Pick failed to report to practice Thursday, February 14, and no one knew of his whereabouts. It was later discovered that he left the campus and went home to Pelzer, S. C. The reason was not mentioned. While at home, he played in two games with the Pelzer Bears, his name being in the paper listed under the Pelzer team. On Monday, Whaley returned to TC to continue classes and apparently knew that he would not play in the game Monday night because he did not appear at the gym the day he returned. On Tuesday he went to see Coach Scarce and stated his case as above.

White Team Wins To Go Into Lead

Last week the White team was leading in the men's intramural basketball program, with no losses, and the Yellow team was bringing up the rear, with one win.

This week the tables are turned. In an upset game the Yellow team defeated the Whites, proving that the impossible sometimes can be done.

Local Music Club To Meet Tuesday

The program of the February meeting of the Statesboro Music Club will consist of an operatic recital by Miss Ann Trice, soprano; William Fox, bass; and Dr. Ronald J. Neil, accompanist. The program will include musical selections arranged cronologically from 1778 to 1935.

The meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Cone, Tuesday evening, February 26, at 8 o'clock. Miss Marie Wood will have charge of the program.

MEETINGS

(This poem was used by Dean Paul Carroll to conclude a speech he gave at the Teachers Conference, University of Georgia, January 21-23.)

For a long time there have been meetings of many men for many days.

At the meetings there is talking, talking, talking. Some this way. Some that way.

In the morning when my father leaves for meeting he says to us, "When I come here again then I will know if it is best to have many sheep or few sheep, to use the land or let it sleep."

But When my father comes home from meeting he does not know which talking way to follow.

Tonight when my father came home from meeting he just sat, looking and looking.

My mother gave him coffee and bread and mutton, but my father just sat, looking.

Then my mother spoke to me. She said, "A meeting is like rain. When there is little talk, now and then, here and there, it is good.

It makes thoughts As little rains make corn grow. But big talk, too much, is like a flood, taking things of long standing before it."

My mother said this to me, but I think she wanted my father to hear it.

Fashion Show Set For March 15

The Statesboro Junior Woman's Club's annual Spring Fashion Show will be held this year on Wednesday evening, March 5, at the Community Center.

The show will feature the leading spring fashions from Statesboro' leading stores.

Proceeds from the show will go to the club's Tallulah Falls School project. The school is owned by the Georgia Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Stores which will participate are H. Minkovitz & Sons, Henry's, The Fair Store, Katie's Kiddie Shop, Men's and Boys' Store, Donaldson and Smith, and the Children's Shop.

Professors Lose Hard-fought Game To Presbyterian College Quintet

In a hard-fought battle, TC fell short 11 points to lose to Presbyterian College. Renfro and Parsons, sharing scoring honors, laid in 16 points, while Hawkins of Presbyterian scored 18 for the visiting victors.

The Professors started off the ball game by scoring the first field play on a lay-up shot. With the game not yet four minutes old, the Teachers quintet was still in front 14 to 10. Johnny Renfro, who played a whale of a ball game, kept the Profs in the game by his accuracy for the goal. The power of PC overtook the Profs and at the end of the half the score read 38 to 43.

The third quarter went into a hair-raising contest, with the local five trying desperately to overtake the battling Blue Hose to end the quarter with a score of 57 to 63. Hawkins, who sparked the invading team all the way through the ball game, pulled Presbyterian out in a 10-point lead, which remained the rest of the game. Phillips, who had proved himself in the game against Erskine, took to the hardwood to play a strong offensive board game.
