GSU's War on Hazing

By: Ethan Smith

Hazing has been an epidemic among college campuses all around the country. Just last week, a student from the University of Houston sued his former fraternity after a near-death experience during a 72-hour hazing event and UMass-Amherst was indicted on hazing and alcohol charges.

This week is National Prevent Hazing Week, and Georgia Southern Greek Life wants to educate everyone on the issues of hazing and how those issues can be impactful on everyone involved.

I got the chance to speak with some Greek Life representatives about why hazing should not be a part of any fraternity or sorority. I first spoke with the Membership Director and Philanthropy Chairman of Phi Mu on campus, Tarah Jane, and she had this to say about hazing and Greek Life. "The whole point of Greek life is to have a support system of men or women to help you through your ups and downs, not to cause your ups and downs."

I also spoke with the President of Kappa Sigma on Campus, Paul Ferdinand, and he gave his overall perspective on hazing regarding his fraternity.

"Hazing runs contrary to any concept of brotherhood in the Kappa Sigma Fraternity. Belittling people does not make them better members of a brotherhood."

Events will be going on throughout the week with the aim to educate students on what hazing is, how hazing affects people and bringing awareness to preventing hazing.

Be on the lookout for our respective Greek Life representatives, they want you to be a part of something great and make an environment that is comfortable for everyone.

SGA Minute

By: Daylon Bonner

President Jarvis Steele made his presence known at the SGA meeting this week.

He came seeking unity and stating he is currently working on legislation with ramifications for all three campuses. He also extended an arm to the SGA members to join his Presidential Advisement Committee.

After taking the oath, Karlee Hale and Jonas Shackley joined the SGA. Senator Hale joined as a Senator representing the College of Education. Senator Shackley is a deputy from the at large college.

Armstrong Campus Gives Back to Savannah Community

By: Gabriel Williams

Armstrong Campus students gave back to their community this weekend as part of their annual Treasure Savannah event.

Students from all three campuses of Georgia Southern University participated in this event that scattered students around the Savannah area. Several students assisted the city of Savannah in their annual Keep Savannah Beautiful project geared to clean local neighborhoods. Neighborhood revitalization is one of the city's priorities for the Savannah Forward strategic plan. The Edgemere-Sackville neighborhood was selected an area of concern for many residents.

William Eason Jr., board member

City services such as the Sanitation department and law enforcement were also on site to talk to students. There was even a representative from voter registration to get students registered to vote.

Not only were students involved, but also Greek organizations. Brothers of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity Inc. spearheaded groups along the route.

After completion of service, students were then left with words of encouragement from Jason Wade, GSU Alumni and Minister of Students & Discipleship of the Isle of Hope United Methodist Church. Wade emphasized that students are of "High Quality of Demand" for the world and that of The Edgemere-Sackville neighborhood association, said, "We try our very best to keep the streets clean for residents of the area."

Eason also mentioned that there will be an opportunity for residents to engage in the neighborhood's park project in hopes to establish a park for the community.

The road cleanup began between Waters Ave and ended on Salvador St covering 53rd and 54th Street.

Carliss Bates, Sanitation Outreach Coordinator & Keep Savannah Beautiful manager talked about students serving the community.

"We are excited to have Georgia Southern Students come out and serve the Savannah community."

they hold the key in making a difference in their community.

Other volunteer sites included the Salvation Army, Hoofs 4 Healing horse shelter and the downtown area of Hinesville.

Khalil Smalls, junior Rehabilitation science major, mentioned

"Serving others rather than just focusing on yourself brings a good cause for you and those you are serving."

Additionally, there was also an opportunity for students to paint residence halls on the Armstrong and Liberty Campuses. To get involved in any Savannah community projects, visit their webpage at <https://www.savannahga.gov> Be sure to check your GSU email for other opportunities to gain community Senate Amendment Five was presented by Senator Wright. The Amendment outlines a process in which minutes from the weekly Senate meetings will be sent out regularly and within three-day periods of each other. A vote on the amendment will be held next week.

Senate Amendment Six updated wording in the RSO policy. Events needing funds more than $300 will need to request money four weeks in advance while events needing under $300 will only need to be requested two weeks prior. A vote on this issue will be held next week.

Senate Amendment 4 outlined some changing of the language in the SGA bylaws that relate to three committees. The names of the Recruitment Committee and the Student Advisory Committee would be changed while the responsibilities of the Awards Committee would be slightly changed. The Amendment passed.

Senator Skelton revealed that the Auxiliary Affairs committee is working on a way to compensate students that would work during the proposed extended hours of the Gus Mart. This comes on the heels of Resolution Two, the amendment that would extend the hours, being committed back to Auxiliary Affairs. Nothing is set in stone as of yet.

Senator DesLauriers spoke of the Business and Finance committee working to get recycling in the housing parts of campus.

President Steele elaborated on the Eagles for Eagles program stating that the Statesboro campus has it and it is sponsored by the Student Government. He would like to implement the program here and Liberty campus, but worries that interest, or lack thereof, may overshadow its benefits.

The Senate cannot currently send out surveys to the student body without approval from the President's Office.

You Like Jazz?

Free Concert in Forsyth Park

Get ready to sit back and enjoy the sound of good 'ole southern jazz during the 37th Annual Savannah Jazz Festival, this week.

The live festival kicked off this past Sunday at the Mansion on Forsyth Park with a performance from local schools such as Savannah Country Day School, Savannah Arts Academy, Savannah State Jazz Ensemble and Navy Band Southeast performing a showcase of jazz music.

There was also a special performance by our very own Georgia Southern Jazz Ensemble. A performance by the Wesleyan Gospel Choir will be at 6 p.m. on Sept 27 at Forsyth Park on the Drayton Street side.

The University of North Florida Jazz Ensemble will be performing at 7 p.m. on Sept 28 at Forsyth Park on the Drayton Street side. They are known as one of the best collegiate jazz ensembles worldwide, according to the university's website. They have been praised by esteemed music publications such as "Cadence," "Jazz Times" and "Down Beat." Other performers for the festival will consist of legendary jazz musicians and ensembles from all over the lowcountry. Among those who are performing are several local singers and musicians from right here in Savannah.

Eric Culberson of the Eric Culberson Band is an American blues guitarist and singer-songwriter from Savannah who has been featured in many concerts and performances.

The famous saxophonist, Brian Miller, has performed for President Bill Clinton at the White House twice and recorded his original composition "Desmond Street" with the well-known North Carolina Central University Jazz Ensemble.

Pianist Chuck Leavell has been performing music for more than 40 years. His piano and keyboard work can be heard on various albums from artists you may be familiar with, such as Eric Clapton, The Rolling Stones or John Mayer. Leavell has also been the musical director and keyboardist for the Rolling Stones for over two decades.

There will also be many late-night jams played at Rancho Alegre Cuban Restaurant and at the De Soto Hotel Ballroom.

If you need a lift to any of events, Chatham Area Transit (CAT) will offer a Forsyth Loop DOT shuttle for attendees free of charge.

All events are free and open to the public. So, grab a friend or roommate and enjoy some free jazz music!

Dr. Gracia Roldán Remembered as Impassioned and Spirited Educator

By: Madison Watkins

This year, the Spanish Film Club was renamed to the Gracia Roldán Spanish Film Club in honor of the Spanish professor who died last year. Dr. Grant Gearhart and Professor Encarnación Cruz proposed to rename the film club after her because of "her efforts to build Spanish-language films on our campus," according to Dr. Ana Torres.

"Dr. Gearhart and Cruz's proposal was fully supported by the Foreign Language faculty members and the Latino Heritage Celebration Committee approved the motion," Dr. Torres added.

We reached out to some of Dr. Roldán's colleagues, Dr. Torres and Dr. William Deaver to find out more about her.

Dr. Roldán was from Osuna, a town in Andalucía, Spain. She graduated with a law degree and an MBA from the University of Seville and obtained her PhD in Spanish language and literature from the University of Cincinnati.

Dr. Roldán was passionate about her language and culture;

consequently she wanted to spread that enthusiasm in the US.

Dr. Roldán taught all levels of Spanish, but her specialty was the history of immigration in Spain and the last few years she was at Armstrong, she developed an interest in films that dealt with the latest wave of immigrants in Spain from Morocco and sub-Saharan Africa.

She created new classes that used film and literature to present a more varied perspective of Spanish culture that also included the contributions of Gypsies.

Gypsies have long lived as ostracized members of Spanish society that have suffered discrimination and persecution. Dr. Roldán saw it to address past slights on this group.

Dr. Roldán also was a great recruiter for the study abroad program that she designed in Seville, Spain. She routinely had the highest enrollments out of all the study abroad programs and tailored the programs to student interests and needs with different lengths of stay that also incorporated cultural visits to cities such as Granada, Córdoba, Madrid, etc.

Dr. Roldán photos courtesy of Dr. Ana Torres.

She also did a magnificent job directing the language resource center by ordering the latest technologies for language learning. In addition, she trained tutors so that they would be more efficiently prepared to help students.

Students really liked her passion, positive attitude, fairness, knowledge, and willingness to go beyond the classroom in order to ensure effective learning.

Dr. Roldán was a great colleague who actively participated in the faculty Senate.

More than that, she was a dear friend who was wise and trustworthy.

Dr. Deaver said, "Dr. Roldán was full of energy and loved to host gatherings. She celebrated difference and could passionately discuss many topics without letting that passion lead to rancor. She firmly believed that disagreement did not lead to dislike; consequently, she never belittle anyone or held a grudge because she considered everyone had the right to defend their own opinions."

Dr. Roldán courageously fought a very aggressive cancer the last year of her life. She kept her battle private to many to the end-it was her wish. She is survived by her husband Terry, two children: Belén and Sean. Also, her parents and brother in Seville, Spain survive her.

13 Hours of Blood and Gore at The Lucas

By: Laura Weyman

Everyone’s favorite season has officially arrived! It is Fall! And, yes, while that does mean that we will be plagued with pumpkin-flavored everything, and turning leaves (well, not quite turning in Savannah), it also means, more importantly, that Halloween is just around the corner! Since in America we have a knack of celebrating holidays months too early, what better way to prepare for the celebration of Halloween than by enjoying an entire day of cult classic horror films? Graveface Records and the Psychotronic Film Society of Savannah are joining forces this year to kick off this Halloween season with a 13-hour marathon of classic horror films that will include six fully restored versions of fan-favorite feature films from the 1960s through the 1990s. The showing will take place on Saturday, Sept 29 and will start at 11 am. It will be shown inside Savannah’s oldest theatre, the Lucas Theatre for the Arts, located on Abercorn and Broughton. Only three out of the six film titles have been announced so far, but the rest will be revealed soon. For now, you can expect to see HG Lewis’ splatter flick “2000 Maniacs”, Fred Dekker’s retro sci-fi zombie thriller “Night of the Creeps”, and Jeff Burr’s 1990 slasher film “Leatherface: The Texas Chainsaw Massacre III”. Jeff Burr himself will be there to attend a Q&A after the showing of his film, so be sure not to miss this if you plan on attending!

There will also be a vendors area with horror-themed merchandise and collectibles for sale, a Fake Movie Trailer contest, raffles for valuable prizes before each film and an All-Day and All-Night After party at nearby dive bar Pinkie Master’s and at the gourmet sandwich shop The Diplomat. Discounts on food and drinks will apply to anyone with a Fright Fest Pass. To top off this gory Saturday, Graveface Records label artists, Marshmallow Ghosts, will play a live musical performance. Tickets are $20 if you pay in advance or will be $25 if you pay at the door. You can purchase them at tickets.savannahboxoffice.com or buy VIP tickets at www.terror-vision.com.

Rams and Vikings Face Off on Thursday Night in Battle of NFC Heavyweights

By: Ethan Smith

The Rams and Vikings will open week four of the NFL season on Thursday night in Los Angeles. The Rams, entering this game, are coming off of another impressive win over the Los Angeles Chargers. They are 3-0 and hitting on all cylinders entering this matchup. RB Todd Gurley is having another amazing start. He has posted four touchdowns throughout three games along with two 100-plus yard rushing games to his effort. The story early on for the Rams has been its defense, which allows a league-low of 12 points-per-game. The Vikings on the other hand have had a wild start to their season. The Vikings are coming off a terrible 27-6 loss at home to a hapless Bills team that seemed to have no fight in the first two weeks. Sitting at 1-1-1, the Vikings need a win in Los Angeles on Thursday night to get back on track. QB Kirk Cousins has proved his worth through the first three games by posting nearly 1,000 yards, 7 TDs and only 2 INTs to begin the season. This game will most likely have an impact on the postseason in the NFC. The Rams look like real contenders and the Vikings will be in the mix based on talent alone when it’s all said and done. With the short week, the Rams clearly have an advantage with no travel involved. The Vikings will have to find a way to overcome the loss to the Bills and shut down Todd Gurley and the high-powered Rams offense, making for an interesting Thursday night matchup.

Weekly Forecast with the Nihilistic Astrologer- I Was Going to Print All the Horoscopes But Then I Thought, What’s the Point?

Alright, this week Jupiter is in Leo and is forming a rare angle (whatever nonsense that means) with Uranus in Aries. That rare angle is here to remind you that you are not the center of the solar system, despite what your mom and all those astrology books you read led you to believe. You’re as special as that jar of Hellman’s that has been sitting in your fridge, unopened, since your dad last visited six months ago. Did reading this sentence suddenly make you feel 20 pounds lighter? That’s you finally shedding your giant ego. Isn’t it wonderful to realize how insignificant you actually are? As Morty from “Rick and Morty” said, "Nobody exists on purpose. Nobody belongs anywhere. Everybody's gonna die. Come watch TV."
